FOURTH OF JULY ASSOCIATION

But Little Progess Made at Meeting of Saturday

A meeting of the executive committee of the Fourth of July Celebration Association was held Saturday evening at the rooms of the Board of Trade. The meeting was not largely attended and the only business done was to talk over the general situation. It was announced however that a meeting of all parties interested in having a celebration would be held at the rooms of the Board of Trade on Tuesday evening and an invitation was extended to all persons, whether members of the association or not to attend.

The Fourth of July is not a great way off but the general impression of those present Saturday night was that by making a short but aggressive campaign that even more funds than was collected last year could be obtained, and that is everybody would put their shoulder to the wheel that it would be possible to have this year a better celebration than ever before. Those present Saturday evening were unanimous in the opinion that there should be a morning parade and efforts will be made to get many organizations who have not heretofore participated in the morning parade to do so this year. It is believed that by offering suitable prizes it will be possible to get a better representation than last year. Come to the meeting Tuesday evening and express your views.

CHILD RESCUED FROM DROWNING

Fell From the Pier at the Baker Yacht Basin

Wade Shorter, five years, was rescued from drawning in the Baker Yacht Basin Saturday afternoon by Captain Arthur Pike who went overboard, clothes and all, when he heard Charles McCombe, an eight year old companion cry "boy overboard."

Both had been fishing off the pier, a distance of 20 feet separating them. McCombe was unaware of his chums peril until he saw him struggling in the water. His cry reached Captain Pike who dived and grasped Shorter's coat collar as he was sinking the third time.

Several boats were put out by those in the basin and they carried the rescuer and recued to the schooner yacht Vagrant which was closeby. After slight attention Captain Pike carried the boy to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Shorter, 48 Cherry street. The boy will easily recover.

The boys had been warned not to go onto the pier but were given lines to angle for erabs off the shore. McCombe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCombe, 27 Cherry street, and was elated over his triumphant shout.

Captain Pike is skipper of the yacht "White Heather" owned by A. P. Graham of Boston. In all modesty he conferred the credit of the rescue on McCombe who shouted the warning.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jennings who have been spending the past few months with Mrs. Lackey of Newbury avenue have returned to their home in southern California.

CHILDREN'S DAY OBSERVED

Many with Perfect Attendance at First Church Sunday School

The annual Childrens' Sunday of the Sunday School of the First church was held Sunday in place of the regular morning service. The service was was of an unusual interesting character and was largely attended.

The exercises opened with an processional during which the Sunday School marched in from the chapel singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and took seats in the centre of the church. A hymn by the congregation and reading of the scripture lesson by Supt. Porter of the Sunday School was followed by the christening service during which two children were baptized; Miriam Davenport and William Eaton Holden.

At the christening service Dr. Hudson referred to the children as ones in whose tiny heads the future is held. After the christening each child was given a flower as a symbol of the unfolding of a beautiful life.

The remainder of the service consisted of responsive reading, hymn and prayer, and reports.

Supt. Porter in his annual report said that he had prepared no figures. He however said that the Sunday School was one of the largest and strongest in the denomination. Efforts had been made to maintain that standard of efficiency and thoughtfulness in earnest work. He also spoke of bringing the Sunday School into closer relationship with the church and hoped that there would be a general interest on the part of the parents and friends to attend the Sunday School sessions.

Dr. Hudson in his address said that there was one sentence of the lesson that he liked to hear. That was "Unless ye become as little children, ye cannot enter into the kingdom of Heaven." It seems rather strange that grown up people must become like children to enter the kingdom of Heaven. We often hear the two words spoken, childish and childlike. Childish means doing things that would be excused in children. That is the lack of all judgment. What is the difference between childlike and childish? It means something inexcusable in a person who does not know anything. He hoped that you children would soon outgrow this.

Being childlike means open mindedness. An eagerness to learn. Asking questions. Being full of interest in things. The average boy wants to know things and will ask more questions than one can hardly answer. It means that their minds are absolutely open. That is one of the qualities we should keep all through life. As soon as a man seeks to learn things he comes to grow. Shut up the mind, and cease to learn and we stop growing. When we seal ourselves up, then we loose that open mindedness of a little child.

Open mindedness means the Kingdom of Heaven right here. The kingdom of gladness and happiness. Do not let yourself think that you know it all. Turn about and be as little children. Let your minds and hearts be open like little children.

Dr. Hudson also spoke of the extreme trustfulness and confidence of little children as being the deepest and most profound thing in human life. Find a man you believe you can trust. Then comes a time when you are disappointed in that person but do not take that as evidence that all mankind are selfish. We must realize that under all there is something divine. Some have a yellow streak yet somewhere there is a white streak in all persons.

As soon as we shut ourselves up we shut out all of the joys of life, and are closing the doors of the kingdom of Heaven. So let us today renew our vows to become more like little children. Open the doors and try to make life a little better.

Certificates were then presented to the twenty-five members of the Sunday School who had a perfect attendance throughout the year. Four of these certificates entitle the holder to a book, and six to another book. Those to receive diplomas were: Edith Bixby, Martha W. Bixby, Willard F. Crocker, Ruth Dunham, Constance Fryer, Marjorie Hall, John O. Holden, Norma M. Johnson, Dorothy Kitson, John T. Lane, Arthur C. Nicoll, Edith M. Nicoll, Edith G. Pettee, Charles H. Putnam, Isabelle M. Putnam, Ramon B. Putnam, Robert A. Putnam, Mark Lowell Read, 3rd, Olive Little Rogers, Harlow Schenkelberger, Josephine M. Smith, William E. Smith, Mildred E. Stoddard, Philip W. Weixler and Richard C. Weixler.

Notice was given by Dr. Hudson that the entertainment of the Sunday School announced for June 11, would be held June 10. That the annual picnic would be held June 21, and he hoped that the parents and friends would unite with the Sunday School on that date.

Dr. Hudson also announced that he would not be in his office until the latter part of next week and that the pulpit would be occupied next Sunday by Rev. Henry Wiley Cook.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Happy Event at Class of 1912 Q. H. S. Reunion

The engagement of Miss Louise Prout and Charles Holmes was announced at the reunion of the class of 1912 of the Quincy High School at Alpha hall Saturday evening. The reunion was a typical gathering of classmates out for an evening's entertainment. Miss Prout and Mr. Holmes were overwhelmed withe congratulations when it dawned on those present that the flight of a hundred cards from an overturned basket which was suspended from the chandelier announced the culmination of a romance which had its inception in one of the class rooms of the school.

The matrons were Mrs. Ira Whittemore and Miss Clara Thompson. Rogers' orchestra furnished music for the occasion. Punch was served. The committee consisted of Miss Eleanor Whittemore, Miss Louise Prout, Philip Halvosa, Starrit White, Juanita Methcrall and Sam Prout.

Miss Prout, while a member of the committee, was able to plan and perfect her surprise. She was a most popular class member and a leader in its social affairs. Mr. Holmes was a football and base ball player and was nick named "Ducky" early in his course. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

The lost child call from Box 122 at 4.25 Saturday afternoon was to summons helpers to search for little Margaret Smith, aged 3 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of 9 Revere road, who had been missing for some time. It was feared that she had gone to the circus grounds and become lost on her way home. The little girl however was found near the Central Fire station about the time the alarm was sounded.

THE WORK HORSE PARADE.

The annual parade of work-horses is held in many places, coming this year June 2, which is called "National horse day." The purpose is to quicken humane sentiment. Horsemen say where these parades have been held several years, that a noticeable improvement in the care of these faithful beasts can be seen.

Having read something about these affairs, the writer, who has driven horses since boyhood, undertook to make some inquiries as to how far the ordinary care given draft animals is merciful and kind. He was astonished to learn how he himself had always been thoughtlessly cruel, as well as the majority of owners and drivers.

A horse's mouth is one of the most delicately adjusted set of tissues in all animal life. Yet hard fisted brutes yank away at this acutely sensitive structure day after day producing lacerated tongues, bruised and torn lip corners.

Says an observer from another city: "I've seen members of the society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals drive to their meetings with docked horses on hot days when the air is full of insects. Then they prosecute some poor devil who is trying to support his family with a decrepit old horse."

A well fitting harness, usually secured by punching a few more holes in straps and buckling them up with some judgment, will pay good returns in the durability of a team. How long could a man work in peace if a leather strap were hourly chafing his bare skin?

A lover of animals asks people to see how many horses they can find without evidence of ill-fitting harnesses, as seen through the wearing off of hair or open sores.

As a rule, the horses driven by boys and ignorant foreigners fare hard. Think it over, Mr. Horse Owner. Your faithful, speechless helper looks to you for the only reward life can give him. Remember that in flytime!

Unusually rapid progress has been made in the development of the port of Boston, which means much to Massachusetts industries. One of the new piers went into commission Saturday with the arrival of steamship Cincinnati of the Hamburg American line. On the holiday the pier was dedicated by the directors of port in the presence of 5000 people. Representatives of the state of Massachusetts, the city of Boston and others spoke. The new pier in 1200 feet long and is said to be without an equal in the world. It is a double decker with 35 feet of water alongside at low tide. The upper deck is for passengers and is divided according to classes, with quarters for immigrants and for customs. The lower deck is for freight and cars.

News to be of any value to a newspaper should be published in the next issue of the paper after it happens. This is impossible when the report is forwarded one or two days later. We were prompted to make this statement, because our mail today brought the report of a ball game played last Thursday. Such a report is not news, and it was consigned to the waste basket. Please forward news the day it happens.

The opponents of prize fighting argue that 57 fighters were killed in the prize ring in 10 years. Everything considered that may be an argument in its favor.

Chicago ladies' maids are complaining on account of "lacer's arm," but husbands that have "hooker's finger" are still under subjection.

Mr. Bryan does the family marketing himself, and careful inspection of his basket would no doubt show a bottle of grape-juice among the vegetables.

BLEASE DEFIES CITY OFFICIALS

Repeatedly Pardons His Chauffeur After Arrest

TAKES REPRISAL ON COLUMBIA

Adds to Its Financial Burden by Making Additions to Its Already Large Constabulary—South Carolinians Incensed and Threaten Impeachment Proceedings Against Governor

Spartanburg, S. C., June 2.—There is talk in the South Carolina newspapers of impeachment proceedings against Governor Blease at the next session of the legislature because of the reprisal he took on the city of Columbia last week for fining his negro chauffeur, Harrison Neely, for exceeding the speed limit.

The negro has been convicted in the Columbia police court three times. The governor pardoned him after each of the first two convictions and ordered that his fines be remitted. This the Columbia authorities refused to do on the advice of the city attorney, who questioned the right of the governor to pardon offenders against the municipality.

Taking advantage of authority vested in him the governor retaliated by adding three more constables to Columbia's already large constabulary. Each of the constables receives $90 a mouth, half of which must be paid by the city.

"He how laughs last laughs best," Blease said in announcing his action. "I told them it would cost them dear," he added, explaining that the additional expense was put on Columbia for fining his chauffeur. "Every time they fine my chauffeur I am going to add another constable. You can figure out for yourself just how much these fines are costing the city of Columbia."

When the attention of the governor was drawn to the report that an effort would be made to impeach him, he said there had been talk of that kind at the last three sessions of the legislature, but nothing had come of it.

Mayor Gibbes of Columbia, in commenting on Blease's action, said:

"I would say there are some things too unspeakably little and contemptible to be expressed in words, and this is one of them. The spectacle of the viper gnawing the file would be only amusing, except that the file ought to be put to constructive uses."

CHICAGO STARTS REFORM

Domestic Quarrels Banned Under New Era of "Goodness"

Chicago, June 2.—A "moral housecleaning" of Chicago was begun today by the police department, when an amendment of the ordinances went into effect prohibiting all public acts of indencency, suggestive gestures or songs, or abusive or threatening words or acts in any public place.

Superintendent of Police McWeeney issued an order calling attention to the amendment and instructing that all violations be followed by arrest and prosecution. A fine of not less than $5 nor more than $100 is the penalty for violations. The amendment is broad enough to cover domestic quarrels in the streets or other public places.

Heaphy said that when he entered the freight office the man stepped from behind the desk with a leveled revolver, demanding the keys to the safe. Heaphy did not have them, so the robber helped himself to a little change the ticket agent had, rifled the cash drawer and backed out, threatening to shoot if outcry was made.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Services of the Day and Announcements for Week

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN. ..

At the Sunday morning service a fine muiscal program was rendered by the Girls' choir and the soloist, Mrs. Royal L. Turner. The sermon was based upon the text "So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." Psalm 90-12. Rev. Carl G. Horst said: "Whatever our avocations may be our supreme vocation should always be soul development. We must first seek the great things of life and the lesser things will be added unto. Religion does not do away with the sorrows of the world, but helps us bear them, and it does this not by changing outward circumstances but by strengthening the inner life. Everything but God and the human soul is a passing shadow. The inward man is the real man. Our outward life is but the reflection of the mind within. Our actions are our thoughts made visible. Our daily prayer should be "Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths, lead me in thy truths; open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wonderous things out of thy law; order my steps in thy word and cause me to know the way wherein I should walk. Teach me to number my days that I may get me a heart of wisdom. Amen"

At the close of the sermon the congregation joined in singing James Montgomery's beautiful hymn "Almighty God, in humble prayer," which is a paraphrase of Solomon's Prayer for Wisdom (2 Chronicles 1).

ANANIAS CELEBRATES

A Fourth of July Story

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Bang! Boom!

The dulled roar of Quince Harbor village in the throes of a Fourth of July celebration echoed across the quiet bay where Captain Barnabas Fish and I were pretending to fish off the breakwater, when as a matter of fact we had all fled from the annual village racket.

Maria Fish was sitting in the bow of the roomy boat, knitting away upon the captain's next winter's mittens, when suddenly she glanced up and caught her husband's genial eye.

"Barnabas," she began, "I've been thinking."

"Well, don't do it again," he cautioned. "Fust thing you know, Maria, you will come down with brain fever and I won't get a dad blamed decent bit to eat till you get well agin."

Maria sniffed scornfully, and then her face broke into pleasant smiles. "You remember that story you told me about Ananias Sline and that cannibal island?" she chuckled mirthfully.

The captain slapped his knee joyfully. "Of course I do," he roared. "I allow I never had a mate that did so many queer things. It's kept me young laughing at 'em."

"Well, you tell Miss Telham all about it," advised Maria, and she winked knowingly at me. Maria is aware that it is my delight to listen to Captain Barnabas while he spins his sea yarns, and my visits to Quince Harbor are thus brightened accordingly.

"I am waiting," I smiled across at the captain.

"Well, you mind my hook," he ordered, and, lighting his pipe, which is a most necessary adjunct to the story telling, he pulled his cap down over his merry blue eyes and began.

"It happened thirty years ago, before I sailed the old Indus there." He waved his pipe toward the fine old schooner riding at anchor near his cottage on the mainland. "I won't bother you with details about what ports we was sailing for, but we was long past the Fijis when the monsoon struck us. Maybe we didn't scud before that hot whirlwind!

"The poor little Susan B. leaked like a sieve from the beginning, and we was all mighty thankful when just at daybreak there came a mighty wave and hove her spang up on the coral beach of a little island.

"It was a pretty sight, I tell you, when the sun rose out of the black clouds—blue water and white beach and green palm trees waiving around.

"In three hours we had breakfast, changed into dry clothes, and then the hull crew of us tramped around that little island to see where we was.

"Of course Ananias Sline was head tusker, as usual. It beats all how much nerve and executive ability my first mate had. It was Ananias who discovered the queer native huts hidden in the woods, and it was Ananias who hypnotized the chief and brought him salaaming and kotowing before us

"'King Kauriru,' said Ananias, with a flourish of his skinny arm. It does beat all how that fellow could pick up languages. In five minutes he was grinning and gesticulating with that greasy cannibal like a brother.

"Then Ananias came over to me, smirking and rubbing his hands, as was his way when he was pleased with himself.

"'Captain,' ses he, 'I've impressed it upon these here heathens that we're their masters—that we've taken this island in the name of the United States of America, and so they owe allegiance to that country. Mebbe none of you folks remembered that today is the Fourth of July?'

"Dad blame it! We had forgotten—clean forgotten, and Ananias, remembering it took the wind out of our sails. So we just listened humbly to what he said and agreed with him.

"'I've been telling them all about the birth of our republic,' simpered Ananias, 'and about the Fourth of July, and now I'm going to teach them to salute the flag. Watch!'

"Ananias took a teeny little American flag from his pocket and stuck the stars and stripes in the sand. Inside of an hour he had fourteen savages bobbing their woolly heads in front of it. I guess they thought it was some new fetish. The rest of the tribe were women and children, and they wouldn't bob their heads to nobody except the chief. They knew where their bread and butter came from, leastways their yams and missionaries, I reckon." The captain laughed silently.

The captain knocked the ashes from his pipe and refilled it.

"That was only the beginning of what Ananias Sline learned those heathens to do. Before dinner time he had told 'em the history of the United States from the time Columbus sighted land up to the latest political scandal in New York city. He recited all he could remember of the constitution and the Declaration of Independence, and then he calmly opened a big box of fireworks he had bought off a Chinee in Singapore and showed 'em a few tricks in the way of noise and explained that as today was the glorious Fourth of July it was fitting and proper that they as new citizens should celebrate the birth of their country's independence.

"I could see that the chief was mighty taken with the fireworks end of the rigamarole Ananias was getting off. I dessay King Kauriru didn't understand a word, but he grinned when Ananias grinned, and he waved his arms when my mate did, and so Ananias concluded that the king was as patriotic as he was.

"Mebbe he was, in his own way.

"Come dinner time, and we went down to the Susan B. and ate salt horse and bread and coffee and looked over the wreck to see if we couldn't get away.

"Sure enough, we found that two of the boats was dry and sound, and we made ready to get away. While the men loaded water and stores aboard I pored over the charts I had stored away in my cabin.

"It was twilight by the time the boats was ready, and everybody except Ananias was dog tired and ready for bed. But Ananias had spent the afternoon in rigging up frameworks for the set pieces and giving instructions in a tickled sort of way to the chief and his head man. They watched him like cats after a rat, and I'll guarantee there wasn't anything about them fireworks that they didn't know when Ananias stopped to take breath.

"The savages had gone back to their huts for supper, for Ananias had promised them a big hullabaloo on the beach in the evening. The two boats with provisions and water and all our most precious belongings was hauled up on the sand, and the crew was lying around sniffing at the chowder the cooky was making over the fire.

"I'd been pricking out our course on the chart. I'd taken the sun and located our island at noon, and it was only a two days' sail to the Friendly islands, where we could catch a steamer to Honolulu. The monsoon had blowed itself out, and we planned to bid a fond farewell to King Kauriru and his tribe and give them the old Susan B. and what was left of her stores in return for the gifts of fruit and fish they had brought us.

"Ananias had been dozing near by when I told him the name of the island we was on. He got white as a sheet and jumped up.

"'Good Lord, captain,' ses he, 'this is a cannibal island! I met a feller in Singapore who was wrecked here, and he said that the chief was for cooking him on the spot. But he swum away and'— "I got up then and shook my fist at Ananias. 'See here, you consarned yarn spinner' (only I spoke more strongly, miss), 'what you trying to do—stampede this here crew?'

"Before Ananias could answer one of the men ran up. 'Captain,' ses he, 'them niggers has run off with the box of fireworks.'

"Ananias got white around the gills, as he always does when he has overdid himself.

"'We better be off,' says he, edging toward the boats.

"Just then cooky called supper. The men insisted on staying and eating the grub, and I was hungry myself. We had forgotten all about the cannibals when all at once there came a hissing sound, and—whoosh—a big skyrocket shot out of the jungle and took the cook pot amidships and scattered hot chowder over everybody.

"Of course we made for the jungle, with our pistols ready, when there came a redhot fire of rockets and roman candles out of the thicket. From overhead blazing bundles of giant crackers were tossed upon our heads, and bombs were busting all around. All them fourteen cannibals was busy, let me tell you!

"It was so dark between shots that we could not see the savages, who were up in the trees and behind rocks, and so we did the only thing we could do—because we all concluded we wanted to fight another day. Mebbe we wasn't glad the boats were ready!

"We was a mile off shore before we was out of range of them pesky rockets. After awhile they got to burning red fire, and we could see the niggers dancing around on the beach.

"'I just wish our Uncle Sam could clap his eyes on them new citizens,' sputtered Bill Smith morosely. 'I expect he'd be so proud and grateful to Ananias here that he'd make him next president of the United States.'

"'More likely give him ten years at hard labor,' muttered another darkly.

"Ananias growled from his place forard. His face was full of powder from when he'd picked up a simmering bomb to throw in King Kauriru's face.

"'There ain't none of you got any love of country or patriotism,' says Ananias.

"Then I spoke up. 'Patriotism is all very well, and there ain't nothing nobler than love of country, but 'tain't born overnight, Ananias. You've got to sort of spread your patriotism over so's to do the most good to the most number of people, and it don't consist in making a big loud noise and nothing else.'"

Captain Barnabas took the line from my grasp and drew in the empty line. "Not a bite today! I reckon the noise has driv' all off," he remarked as he picked up the oars.

It was twilight now, and the lights of the village were pricking out like faint stars on the encircling hills.

All at once there came a splitting rush of sound, and from the shore there shot up a magnificent skyrocket. It reached the blue zenith and poised, then broke into a myriad of bright colored stars—red, white and blue.

Captain Barnabas took off his cap to the national emblem of color

"Hurray!" he yelled excitedly. "This is the part I like best. Let's get into port and shoot off them rockets I been saving up for the last three weeks!"

Maria Fish and I smiled at each other.

Protect the Singers—BIRD DAY—Public Opinion Helps

THE FLYCATCHER.

PROTECTION of America's song birds has long been an issue in the various state legislatures Recently several of the law-making bodies have taken up the subject in earnest, with the result that it is now a crime to injure or kill birds of plumage in many states. The bitterest opposition to legislation against the destruction of birds of plumage comes from commercial interests, which seek the destruction of the birds in order to use the plumage for decorative purposes.

Societies appointed for the investigation of bird killing find that many foreigners think it perfectly proper to kill song birds, for in many countries it is customary for rich and poor alike to eat the eggs. In some states song birds are so well safeguarded that they have become unwary, and it is easy for hunters to shoot large numbers of robins, flickers, jays, finches, bluebirds, thrushes and warblers.

Not content with their bags through at least a modicum of skill under circumstances calculated to give the birds a little warning, some of the future citizens resort to the use of the proscribed snare. The most common are simple horsehair loops placed on the ground and baited for such thicket birds as the chewink, thrush, thrasher, fox sparrow, catbird and other songsters that scratch among the leaves for grubs. Others hang these snares along the limbs of apple trees to catch robins.

Several reasons combine to make the Italian at home unmindful of the destruction of bird life. Northern Europe is a great summer nesting ground for song birds. Italy and Sicily, stretching halfway across the Mediterranean from Europe, collect the southern migration in the fall and catch it again the following spring. Italy, therefore, has, for short seasons at least, three times as many birds as the other countries of southern Europe, and those killed are not missed.

In France, where it was the custom to gather the eggs of song birds for food, failure of the crops followed because of the increase of insects. The multiplying of crop destroying insects was admitted to be the direct result of the slaughter of song birds.

In America the amateur egg collectors are also leaders in the work of destruction.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Penniman, formerly of Quincy, were surprised at their Mattapan home Saturday evening, on the occasion of their twentieth marriage anniversary. The occasion was also the 54th anniversary of Mr. Penniman's birth. Mr. and Mrs. Penniman and daughter are to depart June 12, on an European trip, and in view of this Mr. Penniman was presented with a traveling bag fully equipped. Mrs. Penniman was also presented with a handsome bouquet. The surprise was under the direction of the Nies club of which Mr. Penniman is president.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE.

A Memorial Day service was conducted by W. P. Berry of Electa hall. Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Spiritual Society of Quincy. Members from the Woman's Relief Corps and Paul Revere Post. No. 88, G .A. R. attended.

C. Fanny Allen of Stoneham was the speaker of the day. She took "Patriotism" as her topic and delivered a fine address. As a member of the Relief Corps of Stoneham she carried a message to the Quincy corps and post.

The children of the society "decorated the chair" with pansies and Miss Kate Blaisdell gave a reading. Miss Agnes Ross, costumed as Columbia, also gave a reading.

The exercises were very impressive and closed with the singing of "America" by the gathering. The music was furnished by Mrs. W. P. Berry

Mr. Millard Baker has returned to his business in New York state after spending a week at his home on Walker street.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Ledger readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

J. Fortin, 512 N. Montello St., Brockton, Mass., says: "I was troubled for over two years by attacks of backache. If I arose from a sitting position or stood any length of time, I was caused great pain. There was a feeling of weariness and if I did a hard day's work, I was bothered by lameness and soreness across my back. I finally saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such complaints and I got a box and began to use them according to directions. They went directly to the seat of my complaint, relieving me of severe backaches and restoring me to good health. It has given me pleasure to recommend this remedy on several occasions." (Statement given June 13, 1905.)

A SECOND STATEMENT.

Several years later Mr. Fortin was interviewed and he said: "I willingly verify my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. You may continue to use my reference, as the relief this remedy brought me has been permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WILL GIVE NAMES TO LOBBY PROBERS

President to Appear Personally Before Senate Committee

Washington, June 2.—Speculation is rife in legislative circles as to the date when President Wilson will appear before the lobby incesigating committee of the senate and submit to the committee the list of persons who, he charges, are at work endeavoring to influence members of congress to oppose the Underwood tariff bill.

Until the list is presented, it is admitted, there will be considerable uneasiness in different quarters. The members of congress are also wondering just how far the president's information regarding the lobby extends.

Preparations for the commencement of the probe are completed. Senators in blocks of four will be called upon to tell of their relation with "big business" during their terms in the senate.

GERMANS OUT IN FORCE

Welcome Inauguration of Boston's Newest Steamship Service

Boston, June 2.—More than 10,000 people, of whom a large percentage were German residents of Greater Boston, gathered at Commonwealth pier 5 yesterday afternoon to participate in the inauguration of the Hamburg-American passenger service to this port and welcome the big liner Cincinnati.

It was a German festival through and through, German songs being sung, German speeches being made and lusty German cheers being given for Captain Schaarschmidt of the Cincinnati, Mayor Fitzgerald, Chairman Bancroft, J. P. Meyer, vice director of the line, Robert Sturn and others present.

MANY FOULS AT Q. Y. C. RACE

Only Five Yachts Finish in the Race of Saturday

A yacht race for all classes was held Saturday afternoon off Houghs Neck under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club. The race was a failure however as far as the class D boats were concerned for four of this class withdrew as a result of turning the buoy at Bumkin island too closely thus fouling the buoy. This left but one boat in this class, the Mudjekeewis, which won the race.

In class B there was but one entry the Waweenock which had a walk-over.

In class C the Hush fouled a buoy and was protested by the Gleamer. After learning however that the skipper of the Hush had admitted fouling the buoy the protest was withdrawn. The Hush lost in any event to the Gleaner on time allowance.

The judges of the race were John O. Hall, George S. Morse, W. A. Huy and G. M. Wight. The summary:

WILL SAIL TOMORROW.

Three Quincy people sail Tuesday on the Arabic for a visit to their sireland. Mrs. Jeremiah Keniley of Manet avenue will visit her birthplace, Whiton, Scotland. John Noonan of Manet avenue will tour Ireland, and Mrs. Mary J. Rice, of Babcock street, formerly of Abington will be the guests of relatives in different parts of Ireland. They will return in the early fall.

THE FORTUNATE ISLES.

You sail and you seek for the Fortunate isles,
The old Greek isles of the yellow bird's song?
Then steer straight on through the watery miles—
Straight on, straight on, and you can't go wrong.
Nay, not to the left; nay, not to the right.
But on, straight on, and the isles are in sight.
The Fortunate isles, where the yellow birds sing
And life lies girt with a golden ring.

These Fortunate isles, they are not so far.
They lie within reach of the lowliest door.
You can see them gleam by the twilight star;
You can hear them sing by the moon's white shore.
Nay, never look back! Those leveled gravestones,
They were landing steps; they were steps unto thrones
Of glory for souls that have sailed before
And have set white feet on the fortunate shore.

And what are the names of the Fortunate isles?
Why, Duty and Love and a large Content.
Lo, these are the isles of the watery miles
That God let down from the firmament!
Lo, Duty and Love and a true man's Trust.
Your forehead to God, though your feet in the dust!
Lo, Duty and Love and a sweet babe's smiles.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Queer Concoctions are Artistic Aftermath of Cubist Show—How a Dropped Egg Makes Love to the Oyster's Step Daughter—Also How a Newly Married Maine Couple Were Placarded in a Chinese Restraurant—Art Chosen for Children by Children May be Borrowed by Local Museums and Libraries—Persian Pageant Nets Goodly Sum for Massachusetts Babies' Benefit.

The aftermath of cubism is already seen in the Hub's shop windows and on the persons of the overdressed. Cubist neckties are having an immense run, around the necks of the vulgar. Caricatures of cubists pictures are shown, to excite the risibles of the multitude. In one shop window is a cubist picture whose label says that it represents a dropped egg making love to the step daughter of an oyster. Either the label is false or the picture is not really cubist, for the essence of food cubism is its negation of representation. Still, it is mildly amusing to see a dropped egg making love; though of course, there are things much funnier.

Speaking of vulgarity, why did everybody in one of the Hub's Chinese restaurants laugh when a newly married couple from Maine came and sat down at one of the most conspicuous tables. It is true that the groom wore, quite unconsciously, the well worn jest to the effect that "We are married," but one wonders if eventually humanity will not tire of such cheapness. Coming from Maine the sign would have been much funnier and more characteristic if it had read: "We are married—but not to each other."

Do you want an art exhibition for children, selected by Children, for your local museum or public library rooms? Speak quickly or the opportunity may be gone. At the Boston Museum of Fine Arts there is such an exhibition and Curator Fitzroy Carrington who arranged it believes heart and soul that after its allotted close on June 25 it should be lent to other institutions. Neither is it one of those costly exhibits the insurance on which would bankrupt the average small community. It contains only prints and other reproductive work chosen from a wide range of art history. The chief point concerning it is that ten little girls, averaging about age 12, served as jury in selecting it. They went gravely through the paces of saying "yes" or "no" as each of a great number of works was brought to their attention. The votes were just as carefully recorded as those of any real art jury at Paris or New York and when the results of their choosing were assembled it was seen that these young people had made a remarkably intelligent selection They had taken almost nothing that was ugly or brutal. Things that were "mossy" they abhorred, preferring those which told their story at a glance—on frappant, as the French say. They did not ignore the old masters in their liking for modern American works. They were catholic enough in their tastes to include Albrecht Duofer and Kate Greenaway. Mr. Carrington thinks that they did better than ten average adults would have done in the circumstances. The little exhibition thus arranged has created such favorable comment that he feels it ought to be shown in other cities before it is dispersed. Hence there is an excellent opportunity for several of the art museums of New England, such as those of Portland, Manchester, Springfield or Providence, and for public libraries which have a suitable exhibition room.

Boston babies will be better off during the next year as a result of the overwhelming success of the Persian pageant in aid of the Massachusetts babies hospital. This affair, held on the grounds of "Weld," the Lars Anderson estate in Brookline, brought forth an assemblage of young and old from every part of eastern Massachusetts. The spectacle itself was minus the heralded elephants, on one of which Mrs. John I. Gardner had been scheduled by the yellow press to rise triumphantly. The circus management from whom it was hoped to secure the animals would have been appreciative of the publicity thus gained, but when it developed that the event took place near the borders of a lake the probability of a stampede of the whole herd into the water suggested that it would be safer not to have them at all. Without tham it was a dazzling display of gorgeous oriental costumes worn through a series of visits of congratulation to a Persian prince who had attained his majority. The attendance is reported to have been so satisfactory and the evidences of popular enthusiasm so many that the management of the hospital hopes to make an outdoor pageant in its aid an annual affair. The charity itself is one to which the public has every reason to respond. The hospital was founded in 1868. It has for many years been self supporting a former state subsidy having been withdrawn in 1897. Its system of wet nurses has saved the lives of babies of all social classes. Of late it has gone extensively into the work of teaching young mothers, particularly those of the tenement districts, how to take care of their babies. It has a department specially devoted to unmarried mothers, whose children are looked after while the mothers are aided in securing self supporting work. Proper marriage of the father and mother is sometimes affected in these cases. In every way the Massachusetts babies hospital appears to be one of the worthiest of the many Bostonese charities.

"I AM CONTENT," DECLARES T. R.

Asks Only Nominal Damages In Admitting Satisfaction

NEWETT RETRACTS CHARGE

Vindicates Former President and Declares He Was Mistaken—Recognizes Lesser Opportunities His Witnesses Had to Observe Plaintiff's Habits—Six Cents Damage Awarded

Marquette, Mich., June 2.—Delighted with the vindication he received by the acknowledgement of George A. Newett, editor of the Ishpeming Iron Ore, that he could not prove Theodore Roosevelt was ever intemperate or addicted to intemperate habits, Roosevelt and his party are homeward bound. Before leaving Roosevelt said he had desired vindication, not revenge, but that there never again can be raised the question of intemperance where he is concerned.

With the award by the jury, at the suggestion of Roosevelt, of damages of 6 cents, the libel suit of the erstwhile president came to a close. The action of Newett in admitting on the witness stand that he could not prove his assertion that Roosevelt was intemperate, and that he was convinced from the testimony and the depositions of Roosevelt's witnesses that the assertion was not founded on fact, has brought him commendation from many sources.

On the other hand, the action of Roosevelt in accepting the admission of Newett gracefully and disclaiming any desire for revenge or pecuniary benefit has brought forth expressions of admiration. The action of Roosevelt in asking that only nominal damages be awarded was made at the moment Newett admitted that he did not believe Roosevelt was intemperate and that he was not justified in printing what he did.

"The verdict was perfectly splendid," said Roosevelt. "I did not go into this case for money, but for vindication. I made my reputation the issue, because I wished once for all thoroughly and comprehensively to deal with these slanders. I have achieved my purpose and I am content."

The editor, vindicating Roosevelt, said in part:

"It is fair to the plaintiff to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess.

"I have taken the testimony in the form of depositions of more than forty reputable witnesses who have expressed the opinion that on those occasions as to which they testify he was intoxicated. I believe all these witnesses were honest in making their statements. I have relied upon those witnesses, but have recognized the lesser opportunities they have had to observe the plaintiff and his habits.

"I have been profoundly impressed during the progress of this trial by the nature and extent of the evidence produced by the plaintiff to the effect that he did not in fact use liquor to excess on any occasion.

"I am unwilling to continue to assert that Roosevelt actually and in fact drank to excess. As a publisher of a newspaper I have never knowingly done injustice to any man, and neither I nor any of my attorneys is willing now to make or continue the assertion of an unjust charge against the plaintiff in this case. We have reached the conclusion that to continue expressly or impliedly to assert that Roosevelt drank to excess or actually became intoxicated as set forth in the article would do him an injustice."

PENNSY WINS TRACK MEET

Jones of Cornell Makes a World's Record In the Mile Run

Cambridge, Mass., June 2.—University of Pennsylvania's athletes won the greatest track and field championship meeting ever held in the history of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America at the Harvard Stadium. The Quakers totalled the smallest aggregate recorded in the annals of the games, their total of 24 points winning first place over Harvard, whose winning of second place with 21½ points was a great surprise.

Michigan and Cornell brought up in places below the Crimson, the Wolverines making 19, and the Ithacans 17½ points. Dartmouth was next with 14½ points, after which followed Yale with 10½, California and Wesleyan with 10, Princeton 6, Columbia 4, Brown 3, Syracuse and Penn State 1 each.

John Paul Jones of Cornell university showed that his former record of 4 minutes 15 2-5 seconds, made two years ago, could be beaten by him, after a mile race in which he had great opposition from Norman S. Taber of Brown university. Jones' time was 4 minutes, 14 2-5 seconds, a world's record.

"CONTAINER" LAW GOES INTO EFFECT

Housewives to Get What They Pay For In Empire State

Albany, June 2.—The housewives of New York state may now feel reasonably sure that they will get just the quantity of any goods that they pay for. The Brooks "container" law, which requires that packages shall contain the amount for which they are sold, went into effect today and hereafter only "reasonable variation" will be permitted without the punishment of fine or worse.

As yet the new law only refers to "dry" goods because the liquor dealers were allowed until June 1, 1915, to mark their bottles, jugs and other receptacles.

DENIES ECKHART'S STORY

Deslovers Says Police Paid Witness to Say He Threatened Death

Providence, June 2.—Henri Deslovers, charged with having murdered Mrs. Angele Parmentier in Woonsocket a year ago, took the stand in his own defense in his trial. His evidence consisted largely of detailing the events previous to the time the murder is alleged to have been committed.

The defendant said he was 27 years old, and that he came to this country in March, 1911, with Mrs. Parmentier. When asked by his attorney if he told Eckhart, a witness for the prosecution, that he was going to kill Angele, he said: "No, no. Eckhart lies. The police paid him to testify against me. He told me that at the jail."

PULLMAN CAR IS OVERTURNED

Sideswiped by Local Providence Train at Boston

EIGHT PERSONS ARE INJURED

Different Opinions as to How Accident Which Jeopardized Many Lives Happened—One Engineer Either Misinterpreted Signals or Switch Did Not Work Properly

Boston, June 2.—Eight people were injured and two score more barely escaped death yesterday afternoon when the second section of the 3 o'clock New York express was sideswiped by the Providence local train on an open switch, just under the Cove street bridge in the south terminal yard.

Inside the overturned Pullman "Stoughton," chaos reigned. Men and women were hurled from one end of the car to the other. Some still grabbing tight to their parlor chairs, scrambled out through the windows which now formed the roof. Others were lifted out of the dipped doorway.

Only one man lay still on the floor. He was William A. Cook, who had been hurled to the floor stunned, directly in the line of escaping steam. He was rushed away to the Relief hospital, seriously burned. The other passengers of the overturned car were shaken and bruised. Some were cut by flying glass.

In the other cars of the New York train women fainted as they were bumped about, while back in the smoker Daniel M. Morrison of 47 Broadway, Somerville, was found unconscious on the floor with an ugly wound in his scalp. An ambulance carried him to the Relief hospital.

T. B. Campbell, porter of the overturned car, was bruised and dazed when found by his comrades, while in the adjoining Pullman another porter, Fred Plasket, was severely bruised as he narrowly escaped being crushed to death by the engine of the Providence train as it splintered through the end of the car.

While the impact was not so great in the Providence train, which carried about 150 persons, all received a rough shaking.

There seems to be different opinions as to just how the accident happened. Either one of the engineers misinterpreted his signals or else the switch did not work properly. The two engines passed each other and not until six of the Pullmans of the New York train had gone by did the crash come. Then the engine of the Providence train began to scrape the "Stoughton."

The scraping developed into a ripping crash. In a second the great car was lifted from the rails and hurled over on its side, while the engine reared up a bit as it crashed into the front of the Pullman following. Both trains came to a full stop.

As is customary, when trouble occurs in the railroad yards, the officials of the road work fast. After ascertaining the extent of injuries, the authorities sent men to summon ambulances. Then they called up fire headquarters. While other of the officials were calling for wrecking crews, still others were rushing the New York passengers who were in the demolished cars into the six Pullmans ahead.

Just twenty minutes after the crash, the New York train was off to New York. An approaching train on an outside track was halted to carry the passengers from Providence into Boston. Then the officials, when questioned, refused to talk.

Chief Yard Signalman Bacon, however, laid the blame to the engineer of the Providence train. "He deliberately ran by the signal set against him," he declared.

GIVES THANKS IN NOTE

Burglar Says He Stole Milk and Money For His Sick Baby

Minneapolis, June 2.—For the sake of a sick baby at home a burglar broke into the home of Andrew Fisher, 142 Girard avenue N., and stole one quart of milk and $6. He left a note of thanks.

Fisher told the police that he had heard a sound in his house, but did not leave his bed. When he arose he found a window removed from the casing in the basement and the back door was open. On the table was a note which read as follows:

"Thanks, old man, for the money and the milk. I have a sick baby at home and I can use both."

CROSSES IN STEERAGE

Bishop Brent Believes It the Proper Place For a Clergyman

New York, June 2.—A high church dignitary was a steerage passenger on board the steamer Caronia which arrived here from Liverpool. He was Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent of Boston, Episcopal bishop in the Philippine islands. He haid he enjoyed the trip immensely.

"I came in the steerage," the bishop said, "because I believe the place for a clergyman is with the common people. There I rubbed shoulders with the immigrants, who will some day make American citizens, and if these are a sample of all that come, then America has reason to be proud of her adopted children. Those on board the Caronia were mostly from Great Britain and Scandinavia, and they were a clean and wholesome lot, strong and vigorous. I ate the same food and lived with them and feel the better for it."

SPEAKS WITH AUTHORITY

Woman Who Has Delved Everywhere Finds No Slums In Boston

Boston, June 2.—Miss Evelyn S. Clarkson of London is in Boston studying child labor, slums and sweatshops. She is the greatest living woman authority on slums. She has delved into the black back alleys of Singapore, the Whitechapel district of London, the dock district of Liverpool, Dundee and Glasgow and has roamed the danger haunted ways of the Apache section of Paris.

Of these cities she can tell weird tales of poverty and suffering, but after making an exhaustive tour of Boston's tenement districts she says:

"Boston has no slums. Your South, North and West Ends are arcadias compared to the East Side of London. Your children appear in the poorest quarters well fed, happy and amply clothed. Your playgrounds are wonderful."

BULGARS TRYING TO PUSH BACK GREEKS

Latter Disclaim Blame For Any Result of Provocation

Salonica, June 2.—Although Greek headquarters have strictly enjoined all commanders to avoid engagements, the Bulgars are trying to push the Greek forces, and several encounters have ensued.

The Greek minister at Sofia has been ordered to enter a protest and to inform the Bulgarian government that the Greek government declines responsibility for the results of Bulgarian provocation.

TO LIMIT IMMIGRATION

Dillingham Introduces Restrictive Measure In the Senate

Washington, June 2.—An attempt to limit immigration from southern Europe and Asiatic countries without the use of the "literacy test," upon which ex-President Taft placed his disapproval in the last session of congress, is embodied in a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Dillingham, chairman of the former immigration commission and joint author of the Burnett-Dillingham bill vetoed by President Taft.

Senator Dillingham's bill proposes a restriction upon the number of immigrants from any country to be fixed at 10 percent of the number of persons of similar nationality who were shown to be residents of the United States at the time of the last census.

NO RECONCILIATION

Duke and Duchess of Westminster Are Going to Court

London, June 2.—The News of the World says:

"Negotiations which have been taking place the past week to bring about a settlement of the matrimonial differences between a duke, who is looming very largely in the public eye just now, and his duchess, have proved fruitless. The case will shortly be entered in the lists and the verdicts of the courts be taken."

SALARY IS HELD UP

Mitchell's Nomination Not Recognized by New York Comptroller

Albany, June 2.—Acting upon a recent opinion received from Attorney General Carmody, the state comptroller's office refuses to recognize as legal Governor Sulzer's recent appointment of John Mitchell as state labor commissioner or Mitchell's appointment of John Williams as his first deputy.

Payment of salaries to Mitchell and Williams has been refused.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

DESSERTS WITH LEMONS.

LEMONS are always in the market, and they are comparatively inexpensive. With them many an emergency dessert may be concocted that will be both wholesome and delicious. Lemons really should appear on the bill of fare oftener then they do, for citric acid, a constituent of lemons, is one of the most wholesome things that may be taken into the system. Victims of rheumatism, those who have a scrofulous tendency and the sufferers from kidney troubles will all find the lemon diet suitable for their cases.

Lemons and Oranges Combined.

Jellied Lemons and Oranges.—Take two-thirds of a box of gelatin and soak it in a half cupful of cold water. When dissolved pour a half teacupful of hot water over it. Take the juice of two lemons, two oranges and one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, separate one orange into small pieces, removing the seeds. Lay bananas, cut in small pieces, and Malaga grapes with oranges in the bottom of the mold. Strain the liquid over these and set aside to cool. Serve with whipped cream.

Lemon Soufflé.—One pint of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed in a little cold water. Boil until as thick as a custard. Add a little salt; also butter the size of a nut. Take from the stove, add the yolks of three eggs beater with a cup of sugar, juice and the rind of one large lemon. Mix well. Bake fifteen minutes. Take from the oven, put on white of eggs. Beat with three teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar. Brown and serve cold.

A Tempting Sweet.

Lemon Custard.—Take the grated rind and the juice of a lemon and mix with half a pint of water, let it all come to the boil in an enameled saucepan, add a tablespoonful of fresh butter and a tablespoonful of cornstarch mixed smooth with a gill of cold water. Stir all till it boils; then take off the fire, add a pinch of salt and allow it to cool. Meanwhile beat two yolks of eggs and one white until light, add them to the cornstarch and sweeten to taste with sugar. If you have any scraps of pastry roll them out, wet the edges of the pie dish, place the strips of pastry on it and press firmly. Make a pattern on this with a spoon. Pour the lemon mixture into a buttered pie dish and bake till set, probably about twenty minutes. Beat one white of egg to a stiff froth, mix it with a tablespoonful of sugar and pile it on the pudding, return it to the oven and let it get lightly browned.

SENSATIONAL QUARRY STORY

Man Hurt But Not Thrown over 60 Foot Cliff

There seems to be no foundation for the sensational report of a Boston daily that a West Quincy man was thrown from the top of a 60 foot quarry cliff on Sunday. It is a fact that Edward Buskaler of Town Hill street has a broken leg and is now at the Quincy hospital.

The police were informed of the accident when two Finns ran to officer Hinchon at the Parkway Sunday after noon and said a man was laying on Wilson street with a broken leg. The officer responded, called for a doctor, and later the police ambulance.

He said when he reached the place he saw a man dressed in a grey suit, and wearing a straw hat disappearing. No knowledge of a fracas was obtained by him ohwever.

As for the man going over a sixty-foot cliff he said the man w sapowerful, that his clothes bore no dust or showed no signs of a scrimmage and that he had all he could do to keep the man from moving around. That he was not in any hole.

Dr. Reynolds says he has fractured leg. He also had a bad eye as though he had been hit.

This is the second time within a very few days that the same Boston paper has misrepresented Quincy happenings in a sensational manner. Within a few days they told how a prominent physician covered a nervy burglar with a revolver until the arrival of the police.

IN RAILROAD DISASTER.

The past year the toll of Quincy people injured in railorad wrecks has grown to astonishing figures, and another was added to the list Sunday afternoon William A. Cook. of -103 Faxon road was hurled to the floor and stunned when the Pullman "Stoughton" overturned in the South Station yard. He was directly in the path of escaping steam when rescued and was removed to the Relief Hospital, seriously burned. Our telegraph news contains a report of the accident. Cook has lived in Atlantic for some time. He has been in the railroad employ a number of years.

On Wednesday evening, June 11, a strawberry festival and entertainment will be held at the Hall Place M. E. church at which time the young ladies of the Sunday school are to repeat their sketch "The Champion of her sex" recently given at the party tendered the young men of the Sunday school.

No change is made in the personnel of the company by the change and Councilman Gilliat remains as president and general manager. The company has had many large contracts for ornamental iron work among which might be mentioned are new Children's hospital, Boston, the new Nurses Home at the Massachusetts General hospital, the Boston insurance building, Scollay Square theatre, picture gallery of the Boston museum of Fine Arts, the Harvard club, the Wesleyan building, etc.

STOCK TAKING AT SHIPYARD

New System of Accounting Now in Effect

Fore River officials were busy all day Saturday, taking account of stock preparatory to putting into use a new system of accounting which went into effect Sunday. The new system is similar to that in use in all of the plants of the Bethlehem Steel Co. The official transfer of the business to the new company has not taken place as yet as there is considerable legal formality to be gone through with. It is expected however that the transfer will be made very soon.

ROCK ISLAND CASE.

Visitors to Rock Island should be very careful not to talk in their sleep or snore or they may find themselves before Judge Avery charged with disturbing the peace. That is what happened to Frederick Knox.

Knox belongs in New Brunswick where it is not considered a crime to snore or talk in ones sleep. His wife came to Quincy some time ago and settled on Rhoda street, Rock Island. She then sent for her husband who came to Quincy only to be brought into court shortly after for non support. That case was continued and this morning Knox was again in court for disturbing the peace.

It seems that Saturday night he snored and talked in his sleep, and his wife visited Judge Pratt and told him a story of disturbing the peace with the result that a warrant was issued and he was placed under arrest and spent the time until this morning at the police station. After hearing the story Judge Avery ordered his discharge.

BAD FALL

Warren Dunbar, one of the prominent members of Post 88 G. A. R., had quite a bad fall at the post headquarters Saturday afternoon. He was coming down the stairway and had nearly reached the bottom when the heel of his boot caught and threw him. He fell down three steps and struck on his head but fortunately escaped without serious injury, although he is somewhat lame from the fall.

Saturday, June 7, will be donation day for Pond Home of the Kings Daughters, and visitors will be welcome. Train leaves Boston for Pondville at 12.06. Donations may be left with Mrs. C. W. Guy, 42 Butler road, on Friday.

Too Slow.

A rather diffident young man met a pretty girl last winter in Bermuda. He danced with her, he wheeled with her to a hotel for strawberries and cream, and he bathed with her in the pretty blue pool with its lining of azure tiles.

But he didn't propose. Was he too bashful? The girl one afternoon in a tea garden offered to read his future, and, holding his big brown hand in her slim white one, she murmured as her finger moved delicately across his palm:

"This line indicates that before you lies—happiness."

She paused, with downcast eyes. But nothing followed. The young man sat beside her, grinning sheepishly. Her lip curled in disdain, and she added in a clear, cold voice:

"But this line indicates that you'll never overtake that future. You're too slow."—New York Tribune.

BANE OF THE SKYSCRAPER

What is wanted is not the city beautiful, but the city useful. We have ruined the appearance of the city and impaired the health of its citizens only to reduce the number of its suitable office buildings. Also we have rendered it practically impossible to get any commensurate value from a great number of lots which are surrounded by these buildings of great height, which have shut off their neighbors from light and air. German and English cities have enforced ordinances which it would be well for American and Canadian cities to copy. The fact of the matter is that, so far as New York is concerned, we have allowed ourselves to reach a condition which is without remedy. —Lawson Purdy.

Plumbing Ordinance Under Debate at Adjournment

An important meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. It was in the nature of a clean up night for many orders pending were passed and sent to the Mayor for his approval or disapproval. These included all of the orders laying out streets reported by the Street committee two weeks ago, the order changing the street railway location in Elm avenue and the Building ordinance.

Councilmen Cunningham and Farquharson were absent.

OBJECT TO PAVING.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Street Railway Company relative to the recent order passed for a change of location in Copeland street. This order called for paving of a certain size to be used. The company in its communication stated that it could not accept the conditions, as to paving, as it would not be legal to impose any conditions that were not contained in the original grant.

The communication was laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order striking out the size of the paving blocks from the order.

This resulted in quite a debate as to the merits of paving blocks. Councilman Richards claimed that the blocks now in Copeland street were culls. That the best was none too good for the street and that the order should be left as it was.

Councilman Sandberg also spoke at length on the paving block question. He claimed that there was nothing better than the Quincy block.

City Engineer Sargent when called before the Council said that the change of location in Copeland street originated in his department. That in front of the fire station the track was not in the centre and that for the good of the street the street railway had been requested to change its location so as to make it uniform. He also said that the company intended to take up the T rail and lay what is known as the girder rail.

Commissioner Tupper, when called before the Council, said that he believed it would be better to lay the old blocks than the large blocks. If the large blocks were used he said that where the ties were there would be but an inch of sand beneath them. But between the ties there would be four inches. The result would be that the paving would settle uneven so that in time it would be very uneven, that the paving on the ties would be up and the paving between the ties down. In reply to further questions, he said that he would not accept poor paving if relaid and that he should insist on a good job.

President Whiton, calling Councilman Beeman to the chair, said that it seemed foolish to argue on a matter which the Council could not control. It was illegal to put any more conditions on the location and that if the Commissioner insisted on a good job he could get it. He also said that it was well known that with a T rail it was impossible to get paving to lay close to the rail, and that there would be the bad spaces that now exist. But with the girder rail that paving was laid close to the rail and this evil was obviated.

Councilman Little, Bryant and Duffy also spoke on the question, and on a rising vote of 12 yes and 4 no the order was adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor appointed John Mermion a special constable. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Tax Collector asking for an additional appropriation of $600 to advertise taxes, etc. Referred to Finance Committee.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Inspector of Milk, asking for an appropriation of $200. Referred to Finance Committee.

JUNK LICENSES.

The City Solicitor forwarded his opinion on the order establishing a junk zone. He said: "I do not think it a reasonable exercise of the police power of the city to by ordinance determine that no person shall be authorized to store junk within the city except within a certain limited and definitely stated district."

The City Solicitor also stated that the city could not by ordinance establish a certain area. It could however state that junk should not be stored except in a certain kind of building. That is the City Council this year can not govern how the City Council of next year may grant such licenses. It was however within the police power

SALE OF SHIPYARD NOW IN COURT

John J. Myers, a Large Stockholder, Seeks an Injunction to Stop Merger

Objects to the Price Put Opon Stock by Majority

The minority stockholders of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company are remonstrating against the terms of sale to Charles M. Schwab and the Bethlehem Steel Company. A bill has been filed in the Superior court by John J. Myers of New York, who asks that the proposed sale of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. of Quincy to the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation a newly formed corporation, or to the Bethelhem Steel Co., of Pennsylvania, be enjoined on the ground that there is no clear reason for such a merger.

He says the majority of the stockholders of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., are seeking to force the minority to agree to the sale and merger. He says he is the owner of an equity in 495 shares of preferred stock of the company, worth $49,500, and 441 shares of common, worth $44,100, deposited by Edmund E. Carpenter with Kidder, Peabody & Co. and the Old Colony Trust Co., respectively, as security for two loans. He says he never contemplated that any of these shares would be used for voting purposes.

He claims that certain interests formed the new corporation, and used the names of employees of the original company to conceal the real purchasers.

Meeting Adjourned.

When asked concerning the bill as filed, Rear Admiral Bowles, head of th econcern, said:—

"A meeting of the representatives of the stockholders was held at the offices of the company in Quincy, at 11 a. m., but the papers in connection with the sale were not ready ,so the meeting was adjourned for one week.

"A notice of the filing of the bill was served on me just before the meeting. It is returnable Wednesday and I presume the facts in the case will come out then. I will say, however, that of the shares represented and in the hands of the company either actual or by proxy. were some 23,000 out of 24,0000 preferred and some 22,200 shares of common out of 24,000 shares, so that Mr. Myers' claim of an equity at this time is a little remote.

"At the meeting today a lawyer representing Mr. Myers was peresnt and objected to the proceedings. I suppose that this was merely formal, however."

NO STRIKE ANTICIPATED.

Whether Quincy industries will be crippled by the Boilermakers' strike is not yte known. A Boston paper is authority for the following statement:

The status of labor organization in this city as far as the Boiler Makers is concerned is complicated. Several disagreements have been adjusted the past winter which have been apparently satisfactory to both the men and the company.

Several members stated Monday evening that they knew nothing regarding the possible sympathetic strike, although they could state nothing officially.

As far as can be learned no intimation of any suspension has been given out from the local branch although Boston papers credit the o cials of the union with stating a sympathetic strike would beheld.

The third degree of the Knights of Columbus will be worked by Rockland council, at Rockland this evening ,under the direction of District Deputy Daniel O'Connell. Several members of Quincy and Ave Maria councils are planning to attend.

CRANCH WINS FROM WILLARD

Score Was Against Them Until the Last Half of Last Innings

First Game in World's Series of Grammar League

Cranch, in the last innings, scored the runs that brought them victory in the first grammar school world series game at Merrymount Park Monday afternoon, defeating the Willards 4 to 3.

It was the seventh consecutive win for Cranch and no defeats are showing. For five innings the battle raged back and forth with a 3 to 1 score in favor of the Willards. Then the egg broke and Cranch's lucky star shone forth.

Egan allowed Barry to score from third with the prize by fumbling an easy grounder. Koegler, evidently anxious, also let it through him. No further playing was needed, the extra tally being as good as a thousand.

Marini, while playing for Arbuckle at third, received a kick in the jaw which caused him to drop the ball after he had tagged his runner out. He was in a dazed condition from then out.

A question arose over calling an uncaught foul tip the third strike. A conference between umpires and principals considered the question. Regardless of which way the local rule is made a protest will be submitted. Dr. J. Gardner Smith, physical director, is in charge of rules for the grammar school games and has modified them somewhat for the young players advantage.

Arbuckle reached third on a questionable base decision by Hunt. From the umpires angle it looked as though the runner had not been tagged. The decision was made without hesitation but was not well received by those who saw the play. This occured in the last half of the sixth inning and the scoring commenced!

FIRST INNING.

Willard,—Minihan received a pass and reached third when Pfaffmann fumbled Lundquist's throw. Callahan hit to pitcher who fumbled and Minihan scored. Callahan reached second when Reinhalter was thrown out at first by Arbuckle. Marini out, Barry to Pfaffmann. Egan out, Arbuckle to Barry. One run.

SECOND INNING.

Willard,—Koegler out, Lundquist to Barry. Hinchon fanned. Wallace hit, reached second on Arbuckles poor throw and stole third. Franzi fanned. No runs.

Cranch,—Barry out, Egan to Franzi. Isaacson passed, stole second and third and was put out at plate on home steal. Pfaffmann fanned. No runs.

THIRD INNING.

Willard,—Minihan flied to Arbuckle Callahan hit, stole second and third and went home on passed ball by Lundquist. Reinhalter flied to McGerigle. Marini out, Pfaffmann to Barry. One run.

Cranch—M. Gerigle out, Keogler to Franzi. Tapper out, Wallace to Franzi. Weidman hit, stole second and caught between bases. No runs.

FOUR INNINGS. .....

Willard—Egan out in foul fly to Lundquist. Koegler out. Arbuckle to Barry. Hinchon flied to Barry. No runs.

Cranch—Galvin fanned. Arbuckle hit, stole second. Lundquist reached on Marini's error. Arbuckle started for third with Marini waiting for Hinchon's throw. He and Arbuckle collided, Marini received a kick on the jaw and its force caused him to drop the ball. Lundquist stole second and went to third on Barry's hit. Isaacson fanned. Pfaffmann was passed. McGerigle out on foul fly. One run.

FIFTH INNING.

Willard — Wallace and Franzi fanned. Minihan hit to centre and stole second. Callahan hit to left and Minihan went to third and scored on Reinhalter's hit. Marini flied to Tapper. One run.

SIXTH INNING.

Willard—Egan flied to Tapper. Koegler reached on Galvin's error, stole second and out on throw, Lundquist to Pfaffmann. Hinchon fanned No runs.

Cranch—Arbuckle hit by Egan and stole second. Lundquist went to first while Galvin fielded his grounder. Wallace covered the sack, tag-

IMPROVEMENTS.

Possibly Squantum people took too much stock in some of the promises of candidates made before the last city election, but they should not for a moment imagine that there is any discrimination against that section of the city.

Probably there is no ward or section of Quincy that receives half the public improvements to which it thinks it is entitled. But they start out wrong. They reason that because a street pays $500 or $1,000 into the city treasury in taxes that that sum should be expended on that street.

If a district like Squantum pays $16,000 a year into the city treasury in taxes it is no reason why it should receive that sum in improvements.

About half of the tax levy goes for the payment of debt and interest

Squantum should pay its part of this because the debt was created for new schoolhouses, the rebuilding of Squantum street, the extension of water and sewers, etc. Then in addition to this a large percentage of the tax receipts is needed for maintenance of schools and general government, fire and police departments, etc.

The facts are that all the tax levy is needed for maintenance of departments and it is impossible within the $12 limit to provide for any improvements. The only way to get improvements is by creating a debt and that is also limited by law.

Some candidates for the City Council often make rash promises before election but they soon find after election that it is impossible to deliver the goods. A candidate who promises everything is a dangerous man to have in the City Council. Improvements are limited by law.

COMMUNITY REPRESENTATIVE.

A newspaper is the only home institution that travels around to distant cities. Buildings and streets cannot be seen unless one visits a place. The newspaper goes as far as the mails.

The home newspaper furnishes a means by which distant people gain an idea of the place where it is published. If a newspaper is newsy and clean typographically, and has liberal advertising, every man from Los Angeles to Eastport who sees it gets an idea that the town is alive.

People have no idea how newspapers circulate away from their home town. Every publisher has a considerable list of subscribers who formerly lived where it was published, or are interested in the place for business reasons. And people send away many papers.

If you want your town to cut a good figure before the world, subscribe to the home paper, and advertise as much as your business will fairly warrant.

RIGHT TO BE HEARD.

President Wilson has sent out a scare throughout the country claiming that there is a "terrible lobby" at work in Washington trying to defeat his pet tariff bill. The fact of it is that whenever a Tariff bill is pending before Congress those interests that are effected by the proposed tariff always send representatives to Washintgon to prevent legislation that would be harmful to their business. This, however, seems to be nothing more than right. Even way back in the days of Daniel Webster, Congress decided that the people had a right to be heard before Congress and to petition the same.

However, the tariff is not likely to affect the price of watermelons or strawberries either one way or the other and that is something to anchor to if chaos comes.

Gen. Grant's granddaughter has eloped with a young naval officer. A pressing engagement, no doubt, that couldn't be fought out on that line all summer.

However, if Europe desires peace, it might shudder at Col. Roosevelt as king of Albania.

COLLECTION OF TAXES

Shows Improvement in Report of City Auditor

Over $52,000.00 more were collected in taxes in the first five months of 1913 than in 1912, according to the June report of City Auditor Fairbanks, and these tax receipts were very welcome at a time when it was difficult to raise funds on four per cent bonds.

The water receipts during the same period show a loss of over $4,000, largely because of a reduction in rates. Many new services were added in 1912 which should increase the receipts.

The report of the City Auditor follows:

COLLECTION OF TAXES.

1913 to June 1,	$214,968.64

The communication was referred to the Committee on Licenses.

The order establishing a new plumbing ordinance was given a second reading and the question was on suspension of the rules.

Inspector Keniley was called before the Council and asked a number of questions by Councilman Sandberg as to the kind of pipe he had in his own house and the kind of pipe used in the houses of some of the plumbers. He also asked some questions about the rules of the labor organizations relative to the employment of helpers which the inspector could not answer.

While the question was under debate many of the Councilmen went home so that there was hardly a quorum present.

Councilman Bryant then moved that the order be laid on the table which was voted.

On motion of Councilman Ross the Council returned to motions, orders, etc., and he offered a resolution for the Mayor to confer with the railroad officials relative to the taking off of the midnight train from Boston to Quincy. Resolve adopted.

THE FINNISH CONFERENCE

New England Delegates Delighted with Quincy Hospitality

The conference of the Finnish Congregational churches of New England was brought to a close at Quincy on Sunday with four grand meetings, which were marked by enthusiastic addresses and good music. The Finnish church was prettily decorated for the occasion.

An event of the day, which was greatly enjoyed by the visitors, was the visit to the reservation on Third hill, Wollaston, where the reservoir is located. Fully 200 marched from the church to the hill. It was a clear day and the charming and extensive view caused many explanations of delight. Refreshments were served on the return.

The first day of the conference was for the Finnish Christian Endeavor societies and then three days were devoted to the discussion of important topics, in which Rev. J. E. Lillback took a prominent part.

Rev. J. Vaananen of Maynard, presided. Among the topics were Finnish literature, church finances, a better organization of the religious work, the new Theological seminary at Chicago, the relation of the church to politics and economical affairs, the temperance work, how to interest young people in the Sunday School boys clubs, etc.

During the conference a restaurant was maintained in the vestry of the church. The visitors were pleased wtih the hospitality extended.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

The largest and most demonstrative audience that has been in attendance at this theatre in some time witnessed one of the most beautiful and powerful dramatic picture plays last night in the renowned masterpiece of Victor Hugo "The Haunchback of Notre Dame." It's beautiful colorings and steady presentation on the screen were acclaimed as excellent and many words of commendation were expressed on all sides for the life-like portrayal of the character and the stirring scenes brought many expressions as to what it must cost to present such a stupendous masterpiece to the public.

Mr. Wardwell and his able corps of assistants deserve the greatest praise for the manner in which hte pictures and vaudeville are run off, that is to say without any prolonged waits between, while the orchestra under Miss Qualey's leadership discoursed the latest and best music of the day

Booth & Howard in their "Black Face" skit kept the house in roars.

Barto & Clark, dancing and singing artists in their hotel scene between "The Leading Lady" and "Bell BoyB was as lively a show as ever presented in Quincy.

The Aerial Bartletts presented a rapid and wonderful display of endurance and skill, their action being precise and accurate. Miss Bartlett created quite a shock when shot forth on an extended trapeze which concluded their performance.

THE LAZY STAY AT HOMES.

Dear Elsa—I'm going to preach, so, you poor, suffering sister, if you're not in the mood for sermonizing, burn this letter or sidetrack it until its power of suggestion will appeal. My text is, "The Woman Who Doesn't Work." She's rare these days, but she's about. It seems, if one listens to general conversation, that all women work, some for a livelihood and others just for work's sake—work as a means of developing their personalities and to enlarge the interests of the workers. That's the slogan. You know, dear, that it's the "thing" to have an important occupation of your own or at least one which you can talk about with importance.

Now, work is a good thing for everybody, but I think there are a few of us who have rather narrow ideas about it. We think our own particular job is the only really important thing in the world and that people who occupy themselves with other matters are more or less certain to be idling.

To come down to cases, I know a family of four sisters—one is employed in an office, one is a teacher, one an art student, and the fourth stays at home Her name is Margaret, and she occupies the position of "Jack in the middle" in the family.

All the sisters are nice girls and very fond of each other, but the three workers with one accord combine to patronize and pity Margaret, not in an unfriendly way, but quite as a matter of course.

"You see, she does nothing," they say. "It's a pity she has no talents, for the days at home are so dull and long. At least she doesn't have to toil for her bread and butter as the rest of us do."

To be perfectly honest in the matter, I had always thought Margaret rather lazy and often wondered how she could sit idle while her sisters worked. But after spending a day with the family I changed my mind.

Work? That girl worked from sunrise to sunset. She did more in a day than any of her sisters did in a week, and the work was purely unselfish, as she received neither credit nor payment for it. The teaching sister wanted a lot of circulars sent off to pupils, and of course Margaret could address the envelopes—it would give her a nice little occupation. The office girl never had time to attend to her clothes, and it was quite an understood thing that Margaret should darn her stockings, trim her hats and keep her clothes in order. The art student wanted a model, and Margaret must pose, and so on, and so on. At the end of the week the three sisters had something to show for what they had done—salary envelopes, something solid and comforting. But what did Margaret get?

I think she's being cheated, week after week, of the thanks and affection she has earned by sheer hard work. The least these sisters could do would be to speak well of her, to acknowledge her usefulness and to place her on an equality with their important, busy selves.

If you have a Margaret in your house do not cheat her of the only wage which she wants—your love and thanks. Do not fall into the habit of supposing that stay at home sisters and mothers never need any rest or change. They want it just as much as you do, for they toil at a very hard profession, that of doing the odds and ends which are too dull or too trivial for others to undertake.

Do not snub and patronize the stay at homes more than you can help, for it is quite possible that every day of their lives they accomplish a work which has a value far above that of your own labors. Here endeth the sermon.

From grave to gay is but a step, and, speaking of steps, the very latest fad here in New York this spring is the restaurant dancing tea. You drop in between 5 and 6 in the afternoon ostensibly to drink tea, but what you really do is to sip a very little bit and trip a la one step—polite name for turkey trot, tango, etc.—a great deal to the music of a tinpanny piano, a banjo and a guitar, I said music, but I didn't mean to use the term, for music is not fashionable this season. Just noise is the thing—ragtime bang-bang.

The people who go to these teas? Well, there are all kinds—nice, half nice and the not nice at all varieties. The tea tables are arranged round the wall, and a big space is left in the center of the room for the dancers, and you have no idea how many couples can do a one step in a small space. It really requires only the dimensions of a new five cent piece to trip up on one's tiptoes to one's partner, then trip back again, while introducing en route all the odd, outrageous gyrations one is capable of inventing.

Now, dear, I must hurry away from the desk and get ready to meet Dick at the smartest hotel with a dancing tea room in town. Lots of the Wall street baldheads are dropping in at the tea hour to trip the light fantastic for the good of their too, too solid flesh. Devotedly yours, MABEL.

COL. ROOSEVELT ON WHAT HE DRINKS AND DOES NOT DRINK

Never Drank a Cocktail or a Highball, He Says at Libel Trial.

Drinks Some Wine, but Takes Whisky or Brandy Only as Medicine.

THE country at large may now know just what Colonel Roosevelt does and does not drink. He has told it himself, a complete statement as to his drinking habits having been part of his testimony in the trial at Marquette, Mich., of his $10,000 libel suit against George A. Newett, publisher of the Ishpeming Iron Ore.

During the last presidential campaign there was published in Iron Ore the assertion that "Roosevelt frequently gets drunk, and all his intimates know it." That assertion was the basis of the libel suit.

Colonel Roosevelt testified that he never gets drunk and that he uses liquor very sparingly. When he does drink, he drinks wine as a rule, he said. He never uses whisky or brandy except for medicinal purposes, never drinks beer at all, because he doesn't like the taste of it; never made a practice of drinking at a bar and hasn't drunk at one during the last twenty years, he declared.

THE COURTHOUSE AT MARQUETTE, JUDGE FLANNIGAN, COLONEL ROOSEVELT AND A WITNESS.

He asserted, further, that he never did drink a cocktail or a highball and that he lets liquors, mixed drinks, ales and porters strictly alone.

Four physicians corroborated Colonel Roosevelt. Two appeared in person and two by depositions. The depositions were those of Drs. John B. Murphy and Arthur D. Bevan, who attended Colonel Roosevelt at Mercy hospital in Chicago after he had been shot by a fanatic at Milwaukee last fall.

The physicians agreed that Colonel Roosevelt's recovery would have been slower and might have been impossible had he been addicted to liquor. Drs. Murphy and Bevan said they did not notice an odor of liquor on his breath when they attended him.

Great For Marquette.

Irrespective of the sides taken by its citizens, Marquette as a whole rejoiced when the trial began. The town became temporarily the center of national attention, as far as Colonel Roosevelt's admirers were concerned, at any rate.

It was indeed a distinguished group of men who gathered there to testify. The list of witnesses included the names of governors, former cabinet members, eminent physicians and high officials, past and present.

It fell to the lot of Judge Richard Flannigan to hear this remarkable trial of a former president's charge that he had been slandered by the editor of a trade journal. Judge Flannigan immediately won favor with the many women who were interested in hearing the evidence by ordering that certain good seats be virtually reserved for their use.

Colonel Roosevelt and Newett took seats very near each other when the trial began, but did not look at each other. Colonel Roosevelt's attorneys, Mr. Pound of Detroit, W. S. Hill of Marquette and William H. Van Benschoten of New York, sat at the counsel table with William A. Belden of Ishpeming, Horace E. Andrews of Cleveland and Mr. Belden's assistant, Thomas Clancy, representing Newett.

The day the trial began Judge Flannigan received from Minneapolis a telegram which read:

"Don't let this sensational trial continue until I have arrived."

The message was signed Jacob Miles. Judge Flannigan turned the message over to Frank Tyree, one of Colonel Roosevelt's former body guards. He telegraphed the chief of police at Minneapolis, who wired back that Miles was insane and had been arrested.

Several amusing incidents brightened the preparations for the trial.

Colonel Roosevelt and his party arrived in Marquette at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and were warmly greeted by a crowd at the station. As the easterners stepped from the train it suddenly dawned on them that the climate on Lake Superior was different.

Looking out of the car windows on the overcoated crowd lined up to meet them, James Sloan, secret service agent, turned around in a panic stricken way and said:

"Let all the men with straw hats go out together. Then if we are killed we can at least die together."

Accordingly he went out with Gifford Pinchot, Marshal Frank Tyree, O. K Davis and ex-Secretary Bacon, and the five straw hats created a lot of well bred interest on the part of the inhabitants.

No Use For Cigars.

Somebody offered the colonel a cigar. "I take a cigar as often as I do a drink of whisky," said the colonel.

Homer Guck, editor of the Houghton Mining Gazette, reminded the colonel that they had met in Cuba.

"Just a moment," said the colonel, pausing. "Oh, yes; you were one of the sentries that stopped me on the bridge as I was riding into Santiago after the surrender?"

"Yes," said Guck, "and we made you dig your pass out of your boot and show it to us. We were stationed there to keep the soldiers from getting into the city and getting drunk."

"If you were to say," replied the colonel, "that you stopped me because you saw I was riding into Santiago to get a drink you would prove the most valuable witness that the defense here could produce."

The drawing power of the colonel brought out a large attendance. The balconies of the court were crowded with young women, many wearing moose buttons, and members of the bar from all over the country, accompanied by their wives, surrounded the tables reserved for counsel. Admission was by ticket, so that several hundred were turned away.

A Dignified Audience.

The evidence was sometimes amusing, and a less dignified city audience would have been fined en masse for contempt of court for its laughter. But serious curiosity was the trait of the Marquette gathering.

In cheerful manner the colonel's counsel pictured the hero, his great feats of horseback riding, his hunting exploits, his African expedition, which Mr. Pound said "was undertaken for the benefit of humanity and the Smithsonian institute," and his quick recovery after receiving the assassin's bullet. All these things were brought out to show that a man addicted to liquor could not do these wonderful feats.

Colonel Roosevelt made a most impressive witness for himself. With the gestures which are so familiar in his speeches, with emphatic nods of the head, with words that were flung hot from his tongue, he looked the jurors in the face and hammered home his evidence.

He talked fast, his voice was good, and every sentence carried to every corner in the room. The defense allowed him to go as far as he pleased.

Many exceptions were taken, but both Judge Flannigan and the counsel for the defense extended every courtesy. The colonel clearly dominated the court, counsel and jury.

Many objections were made to his story of his strenuous adventures in Africa and the circumstances involved in the Milwaukee shooting, but the matter was allowed to go.

The colonel insinuated, as did his counsel, that the bullet he received in Milwaukee might have been due to the Newett publication. He repeated several times the description of his abstemiousness. His counsel had him go over time and again his caution in handling drink.

Mr. Pound stood to the rear of the jury, so that in facing him the colonel faced the jurors. His ignorance of the ways of wicked drinkers was displayed when he was asked, "Colonel how many bottles are there in a case of champagne?"

"I don't know."

"Are there eight or ten?"

"I could not tell. I don't know a thing about it."

Colonel Roosevelt told of his early political career, his ranch experiences and his war and presidential history so far as they related to drink. Then his counsel introduced the alleged libel.

The entire article was read to the jury. When the sentence "Roosevelt is a pretty good liar himself" was read there was a titter around the room, and Judge Flannigan threatened the audience with expulsion.

Tells of Shooting.

"When did you first see that article?" asked Pound.

"I think it was after I was shot and was in Mercy hospital in Chicago," said the colonel, rather grimly.

"Where were you shot—I mean the city in which you were shot?" inquired his counsel.

The defense entered objections, asserting that the shooting had nothing to do with the case, but the judge allowed the colonel to proceed.

"I was shot in Milwaukee, and I was taken to Chicago. I think I saw this article when I was in the hospital."

"You are now fifty-four years of age," continued Mr. Pound. "How often have you been drunk in your life?"

"I have never been drunk or in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor," was the reply.

"What use do you make of spirituous or malt liquors?"

"I do not drink beer, porter, ale or anything of that kind. I do not like beer. I do not drink either whisky or brandy except under the orders of a doctor. I never drank a highball or a cocktail in my life. I have drunk some mint juleps. There was a bed of mint in the White House yard, but I don't think I drank more than a dozen juleps in the whole time I was in the White House."

"Did you drink them all at once, or were they distributed?"

"No, indeed, not all at once; just a few in a year—not over twelve in the whole seven years I was in the White House. I can only remember drinking two since—one at the Country club in St. Louis and another in the Arkansas club in Little Rock, when a loving cup was passed around.

"In thirty-four years I might have taken two in succession, but I do not recall it. I do drink a glass or two of light wines—white wines, for I do not like red wines. At a public dinner I might take a glass or two of champagne.

"At the White House there are innumerable state dinners and cabinet dinners. At these champagne is served. I may have taken a glass of champagne on such occasion. I never take brandy or whisky except, as I have described, under the direction of a doctor."

COL. ROOSEVELT'S STATEMENTS AS TO HIS DRINKING HABITS.

I have never drunk a cocktail or a highball in my life.

I don't smoke, and I don't drink beer.

I never have drunk whisky or brandy except when the doctor prescribed it or possibly on some occasion after great exposure.

The only wines that I have drunk have been white wines, Madeira, champagne or occasionally a glass of sherry.

At public dinners I sometimes drink a glass of champagne or perhaps two.

At home I often at dinner will drink a wineglass or two wineglasses of Madeira.

Mint juleps I very rarely drink. Since I left the White House, four years ago, to the best of my memory I have drunk mint juleps twice.

During the last fourteen years I do not think I have drunk whisky straight or with water more than half a dozen times.

As for brandy, I never drink it any more than I do whisky when I am at home or on a hunting trip, but on very hard campaign trips I have frequently just before going to bed drunk one or two goblets of milk with a teaspoonful of brandy to the goblet.

I never made a practice of drinking at a bar, and I don't believe that I have drunk at a bar for twenty odd years.

I never in my life, while in the White House or anywhere else, have ever left a room for the purpose of getting a drink between meals.

Since I have been of age I have never under any circumstances been in even the smallest degree under the influence of liquor.

ARRESTED IN BROOKLYN.

Chief Burrell received a telegram from Brooklyn, N. Y., Monday night stating that John Pass, who is wanted by the Quincy police for larceny, had been arrested in that city and was being held for the Quincy police. Pass is wanted by the police for the larceny of a gold watch and chain and $10 in cash from the boarding house of James Shea at Quincy Point, May 3. Pass secured board at the Shea house and suddenly took French leave and it is alleged that he took the watch and chain and cash. A description of him was sent to the various places where ship yards are located with the result that he fell into the hands of the police at Brooklyn. Chief Burrell is in Boston today securing the necessary requisition papers and officers will be sent on tonight to bring Pass back to Quincy.

GOING TO GETTYSBURG.

Among the veterans of Paul Revere post who will attend the reunion on the field of battle at Gettysburg in July is Edward Lennon, the inspector of the Board of Health. Comrade Lennon served under Col. Carr in Gen. Hookers brigade. This brigade is making great preparations for the reunion. It is proposed to entertain at their headquarters two men from each of the twelve regiments under Gen. Barksdale against whom they fought at the battle July 2. It will certainly be a novelty for these men who faced each other in the death struggle at the great battle to meet on common ground and in good fellowship and Ed. is looking forward to the trip with great pleasure.

Fourth of July Meeting is Open to Public

An important meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee will be held tonight at the rooms of the Board of Trade and a general invitation is extended to all interested in having a grand celebration whether members o fthe association or not.

BASE BALL NOTES.

Just because the Willards happened to lose the first game to Cranch their suporters are not going to desert them. While the sentiment in West Quincy was none too friendly towards the boys who lost after they had cinched a victory, they are still backing the team to win the championship. Furthermore ,a band of royal rooters is being organized and if the interest demonstrated last nigth by William T. Shea bears fruit tehre will be nearly 400 enthusiasts shouting for victory at the game on the Ward Three playground Wednesday.

If the suggestion o fthe followers of grammar school baseball is followed the Parochial school will play the winners of the world's series which is now being played between the Cranch and Willard teams. Throughout the season the grammar schools have been playing in two leagues and because the Parochial school is a private institution they were not eligible Notwithstanding this several fans are desirous of seing a contest between them and the city champions .

The Ledger man had the pleasure of grasping the hand of "Dick" Barry at Merrymount Park, Monday afternoon. He is recuperating from a long illness. During that time he was confined to the Carney Hospital, when he was allowed the papers "Dick" followed the Quincy news. He deplores the lack of interest in baseball. Last season he was the manager of the West Quincy team in the City League. This year, although not yet back to normal condition he proposes to reorganize the eWst Quincy team and is already looking for dates with the Makarias. He is feeling well, looks good and retains his cheerful disposition.

DISTRICT COURT.

Stanley Griffin was fined $10 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John F. McDonald was arraigned for disorderly conduct at Milton. He was fined $15 and sentenced to five days in the house of correction. He appealed and was held in $200 bonds for the grand jury.

FUNERAL OF JOHN NEAGLE.

The funeral of John Neagle, a respected West Quincy resident was held this morning from the home of Timothy Deasey, 44 Jackson street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. William J. Deasey, of Randolph, a nephew of the deceased. The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir, under the direction of Miss Frances Cronin, organist. The bearers were Daniel J. Deasey, John Deasey. John Sullivan and Joseph Neagle, all nephews. Many floral pieces were offered from relatives and friends. Buiral was in St. Mary's cemetery, Randolph. Mr. Neagle died at the Quincy City Hospital Sunday of heart disease.

MOVING PICTURE MEASURE VETOED

Foss Finds It Would Place Vocation In Few Men's Control

Boston, June 3.—Governor Foss sent to the legislature his veto on the bill relative to the licensing of moving picture operators. The bill, as passed by both branches, prohibited any operator under 21 from obtaining a first-class license and contained several provisions relative to the licensing of operators "under certain conditions."

It was to these sections that Foss objected. In his message he declares the bill is a dangerous piece of legislation, inasmuch as it prevents any man "from earning a livelihood unless he first secures the permission of the men already qualified and engaged in the occupation."

The bill had the support of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor and was advocated by the Moving Picture Operators' union of Boston.

QUARRELS AMONG ALLIES

Conference of Balkan Premiers Is Expected to End All Trouble

London, June 3.—The prospects for a friendly settlement of the quarrels among the Balkan allies are improving. The interview between the Servian and Bulgarian premiers on the Bulgarian frontier was most cordial, but the two governmets are still at variance on Servia's demand for a revision of the treaty of alliance.

A most important step toward a solution of the differences is the agreement for a meeting of the premiers of the four Balkan states for a joint discussion of all the questions arising out of the war.

MAY INVOLVE WHOLE STATE

General Walkout of Boilermakers In Greater Boston

BARBERS ARE ALSO ON STRIKE

Members of I. W. W. Quit Work and Become Demonstrative Before Telling Bosses They Want More Pay and Less Work—Union Bootblacks Drop Their Brushes

Boston, June 3.—Three strikes started in Boston yesterday. The International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers' union declared a strike which at once involves Greter Boston and may extend to the whole state.

When the various shops where boilermakers are employed opened for work yesterday the men walked out. The Atlantic Works in East Boston is one of the largest plants involved. These men want an increase in pay to a minimum of $3.50 for the regular journeymen and $2.75 for the helpers, and they ask for a nine-hour day for shop work and eight hours for field work; overtime to be paid at double rates. The men say that they sent these demands to the New England Association of Boiler Manufacturers last March and never even received a reply from the association.

In the case of the boilermakers the employers take the ground that they have not received any demands. Individually they have not. The union regarded it sufficient to notify their association. It is only a few years since the boilermakers in Boston struck.

Barbers, who are organized by the I. W. W., struck for more pay and less work. They at once became demonstrative and invited attention of the police. Nine of them were arrested in Court square and Newspaper Row on charges of disturbance, assault on patrolmen, throwing stones, carrying a banner without permit and rescuing a prisoner.

There were about 200 men in line and they carried a large sign which bore the inscription "The Barber Strikers." They went from shop to shop trying to induce other barbers to join the strike, and in the vicinity of the Court square station were so noisy that a squad of officers attempted to quiet them. One man was arrested, was rescued by his friends, fell into the hands of a second patrolman, escaped again and was finally lodged in the station by a third patrolman.

Those arrested were taken immediately to the municipal court.

"Did you tell the bosses what you want?" This question was put to one of the strike leaders, or to one of the men directing affairs at the strike headquarters, as they deny leadership.

"No," he said, "we don't do it that way. We go out on strike first, then we send a commission to the bosses to see if they will grant our terms for returning to work."

The demands are for $13 a week, and 50 percent of what the men can earn above $20; work from 8 to 7 o'clock week days, with one hour for dinner; 8 until 10 o'clock on Saturdays, with one hour for dinner and half an hour for supper. No work at all on holidays.

Yesterday afternoon a young barber, Tony Giannellli, was attacked by a mob on Hanover street. He had refused to go out on strike and came out for luncheon in the afternoon. A crowd of strikers and strike sympathizers surrounded him and he was stabbed in the chest. He was removed to the Relief hospital in a serious condition.

Following the refusal of their employers to accede to their demands that they be allowed to keep tips received from customers and that their hours of labor be reduced to eleven in a day, six days a week, 300 bootblacks, members of Bootblacks' Protective union, 14,337, American Federation of Labor, went on strike yesterday.

SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT

Foss and His Striking Employes Will Meet Today In Conference

Boston, June 3.—Governor Foss and representatives of his striking employes will try to settle their differences today in a meeting at the state house.

So hopeful are the workers of favorable results from this conference that a special meeting of the strikers has been called for 3 o'clock this afternoon to hear the report of what has been accomplished.

Both the governor and his men yesterday expressed themselves as fully satisfied with the present situation from their respective points of view.

Boston, June 3.—Charles P. Backus of Springfield, who claims to be a broker and clerk, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court. He states that his liabilities amount to $291,323.69, and he has no assets.

RHINELANDER WALDO

Police Commissioner of the City of New York

DECLARE WALDO IS UNFIT

New York Aldermen Ask That Police Head Be Ousted

New York, June 3.—The removal of Rhinelander Waldo as police commissioner, an appointive post he has held for two years under Mayor Gaynor, is recommended in a minority report adopted by the aldermanic committee that investigated the police department after Herman Rosenthal was slain last July by gunmen hired by former Police Lieutenant Becker.

The board of aldermen, as a whole, must pass on the report before it can reach Gaynor.

Waldo is characterized in the report as "incompetent and unfit," and incapable of administering his department. "Many of the existing evils of the department can be directly traced to his inefficiency and administrative blunders," the report charges.

HAS APPETITE THAT CRAVES FOR EELS

New Yorker Eats Ten Pounds of Them and Wins $25

New York, June 3.—Simon Steingut, "mayor of Second avenue," remarked to his friend, Ike Hirschorn, who has a hotel on Second avenue, that he liked eels.

"I could eat ten pounds of them," said "his honor."

"Bet you $25 you can't."

At the end of an hour Steingut had consumed ten pounds of eels, two pounds of bread, six potatoes, six green peppers and a quantity of beer.

"I had a toothache and didn't eat since yesterday, anyway," said the mayor, as he pocketed the $25.

WRITES POETRY OF MERIT

May Cost Life of Convict Who Was Thought to Be Insane

Stockton, Cal., June 3.—Poetry may be the cause of Charles Carson being declared sane, and in that event he will have to pay the penalty of death for his crime. Carson is under sentence of death by hanging, but is confined at the Stockton state hospital so that experts may study his case.

Carson made public on May 16 a poem called "The Voice of the Sun." This production showed so much merit that experts declared that no insane or even feeble-minded person could have composed it. Carson has written another poem of merit entitled "Solitaires."

LOOT SHOP OF GEMS

Robbers Beat Proprietor and Get Away With $40,000 Worth

New York, June 3.—Four armed highwaymen entered the jewelry shop of Mandel Greenhaus on the lower East Side, held him up at the point of a revolver, beat him senseless when he resisted, looted his two safes of $40,000 in gems, locked him in the shop and escaped.

Greenhaus staggered to his feet, smashed the glass panel of the locked door and, crawling through, gave the alarm.

Ossining, N. Y., June 3.—Gregorio Pattini, aged 25, went smiling to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for the murder of Giuseppe Vasta.

QUESTIONS PUT TO SENATORS

ASHURST NAMES ONE MAN

Said to Have Attempted Improperly to Influence Senators—All Have Talked With Men Interested In Tariff—No Important Evidence Secured at Opening of Hearing

Washington, June 3.—The first senators to testify at the senate's investigation of the charge that a lobby is working against the tariff bill declared they knew of no improper influence being exerted; no use of money, and had not, themselves, attempted to improperly influence any other senators.

All admitted having talked with manufacturers interested in the tariff, having heard arguments and protests, but all considered such proceedings strictly legitimate and none considered the men with whom they talked as "lobbyists."

Senator Ashurst, however, declared "a man named McMurray had been attempting improperly to influence senators against the movement to cancel certain Indian contracts by which McMurray is said to stand to receive $3,500,000. Senator Borah referred also to "The man Senator Ashurst mentioned."

It has been estimated that hundreds of men interested in manufacturing or other business affected by the tariff have been in Washington during the last few weeks and many senators claim it would be impossible to remember all the persons who have called upon them to make appeal for changes.

President Wilson's declaration that an "insidious lobby," large and powerful, was at work led many to believe that the committee might suggest to the president that he could make a personal statement to committee members either at the Capitol or at the White House giving any information he has. The senate resolution requests the president to give such information as he may have to the committee. A schedule had been prepared, limiting the questioning of each senator to fifteen minutes and providing for sessions of the committee until 10 o'clock each night.

Before the investigating committee met, Senators Overman and Reed went to the White House and had a long conference with President Wilson. Both decline to talk of their visit, but the president told inquirers he had made suggestions to the senators which would be developed in the course of the inquiry. He declined to say what they were.

The senators did not ask Wilson to appear, and it was generally regarded at the Capitol and the White House that the president would not. It was said at the White House that the president practically had placed all his information on the lobby in the hands of the senators and the impression prevailed that later the president might furnish a list of names of those whom he believes to be lobbying against the tariff bill.

SUES BAKER ESTATE

Woman Says Congressman Now Dead Broke Promise to Marry Her

Concord, N. H., June 3.—Notice has been filed with the judge of probate for this county that suit has been brought in the supreme court for the District of Columbia by Miss Magnolia Harris against the estate of the late Congressman Henry M. Baker of New Hampshire, asking damages of $200,000 for breach of promise to marry.

Miss Harris alleges that she was employed by Baker as "secretary, associate, adviser and agent," under a promise to marry which was not fulfilled.

TO WEAR SATIN PANTIES

Page Will Follow Precedent at the Court of St. James

London, June 3.—Ambassador Walter H. Page yesterday attended his first levee at Buckingham palace. He wore ordinary evening clothes, thereby following precedent, and he has confided to friends that he will continue to follow precedent by wearing satin knee breeches at the next evening court to which he is bidden by King George.

North Kent, Conn., June 3.—A special train, chartered by Dr. C. H. McBurney, a New York physician, which was returning empty from Stockbridge, Mass., was in a head-on collision last night with a milk train on the Berkshire division of the New Haven road.

Engineer Rigby of the special train was killed. The crew of the milk train jumped to safety. Traffic was delayed many hours by the accident.

LINKED WITH DYNAMITE PLOT

Wood's Name Looms Up in Conspiracy Case

TESTIMONY OF TAXI DRIVER

Picked Up Passenger Whom He Thinks Was Atteaux at Home of Woolen Company President and Drove Him to Corner Where Breen Swore He Was Paid $500

Boston, June 3.—Backed by the records of the taxi company and the testimony of Arthur Pira, a taxi driver, District Attorney Pelletier linked for the first time the name of William M. Wood, millionaire mill man, with the alleged dynamite conspiracy for which Wood and Frederick J. Atteaux are on trial and thereby hurled a bomb into the defense.

Pira testified he had driven a man resembling Atteaux from William M. Wood's Boston home to Franklin and Washington streets, where John J. Breen swore he was paid $500 by Atteaux the night of Jan. 19, 1912.

Pira traced his route from the garage to Wood's home, 21 Fairfield street, where he picked up his passenger, then to Franklin and Washington streets, then to a barroom on Court street, back to Franklin and Washington and then to th B. A. A. clubhouse on Exeter street, where the passenger was left.

The witness stated he could not swear that Atteaux was his passenger, remembering only that the man was a large man. Neither could he identify Breen as the man his passenger met on the corner. It was very dark, the witness stated, and he was unwilling to positively identify either man.

After the district attorney had hurled his thunderbolt, Attorney Coakley took up the cross examination of the witness, which continued throughout the rest of the day. The cross examiner's plan of attack was to show that there was no apparent reason for the man's remembering all the details of this one evening when other rides of much more recent date had passed completely from his memory.

However, Coakley brought out one point omitted by the district attorney in his examination, and highly important to the government. That was to the effect that the taxi driver knew who lived at 21 Fairfield street, as he had driven to Wood's house several times before the night in question and many times since.

Pira, when asked if there was any one in the courtroom who resembled his passenger, immediately pointed out Atteaux, though he stated he was unwilling to swear to the man's identity. He could not identify Breen at all, he declared, as the man who received his passenger at the corner, except that he resembled that man in that both were big men.

The government's case is gradually nearing the end, with Pira the most damaging witness to the defense yet produced.

CARMEN BILL MANDATORY

Street Railway Employes Are Not Allowed to Work Overtime

Boston, June 3.—That the so-called "nine-in-eleven" bill of the street car men is a mandatory measure and, if enacted into law, would not permit street railway employes to work more than the specified time, is the opinion of Attorney General Swift, submitted to the house. The ruling is a disappointment to labor interests.

The bill was passed to be engrossed by the lower branch last week, the general impression being that it was a permissive measure and would allow the carmen to work overtime if they so desired.

The bill went over to the senate yesterday afternoon, after an amendment had been put on the bill in the house to meet the opinion of Swift. With the amendment the bill is now permissive.

The Kitchen Cupboard

PALATABLE HASHES.

To make good hash you must select good materials. While it is true many odds and ends may be used up in this way, materials which are in the lest spoiled will not do.

Cold cooked meat does not need more cooking. For this reason hash should not be stewed. Those who stew a hash usually use too much liquid, and, whether this is cooked away or whether it remains for the pieces of meat and vegetables to float about in, it makes the hash unattractive.

Chop Thoroughly.

After the hash is ready—and nothing excels the old fashioned chopping bowl and big chopping knife for getting it ready—put the butter or drippings into the hot frying pan, shake about, then put in the hash. If you have no cold gravy add boiling water, a little at a time, until just enough has been added to make the hash smooth.

If too much water has been added it is never best to pour it off, but to thicken it with flour.

Lamb Hash.—Put one tablespoonful butter and tablespoonful flour into a saucepan and melt without frying; then add a small half pint of milk and stir until it boils. Add a saltspoonful of salt, a good pinch of cayenne, half a teaspoonful of onion juice and a cupful of cold cooked lamb chopped fine. Stir this until thoroughly mixed and add a pinch of nutmeg. Put on toasted bread and put a poached egg on round of each and serve.

A Novel Method.

Hash a la Charlotte.—Make a half pint of brown sauce, season with pepper, salt and chopped parsley. Cut mutton into thick slices and leave them in the sauce in a vessel at the side of the range for an hour. Poach some eggs and put each one on a round of fried bread. Dish the hash and serve the eggs as a garnish, or if only two or three eggs are used place them in the center with the hash round.

Corned Beef Hash.—Take a cupful of chopped corned beef, a cupful of mashed potatoes, a half teaspoonful of onion juice and the white of one egg. Season the hot mashed potatoes and beat until light, add the onion juice, corned beef and the beaten white of an egg. Mix well, form into balls and fry in deep fat. Serve while hot. This hash may be baked if preferred.

VIEW IS NOW UNOBSTRUCTED

Public Library May Be Seen at Distance

Now that the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance building has been moved from the lot which it has so long occupied, some idea may be had of the great improvement which the change has made, or rather which it will make when Coddington street is widened at its intersection with Washington street, that the Thomas Crane Public Library grounds will be greatly improved will be evident to all. Furthermore it will now be possible to get a view of the library building from many points not heretofore possible as the Insurance building shut out the view.

This locality is fast becoming a centre for fine public buildings for in addition to the library building in the vicinity, are the historic First church the new Court House building, the new Coddington schoolhouse, the new Post Office building and the Y. M. C. A. building. There is also a persistent rumor that a public building is to soon be erected on the corner of Temple and Washington streets and that the old unsightly buildings now on this lot are to be torn down. The greatest improvement of all however is to the Library grounds.

It was thought that the moving of the Insurance building to the lot adjoining the Court building would detract from the sightliness of that building. It would appear however that it will not do so, for it will hide from view the back of the old Faxon homestead.

The Public Library building may now be seen from Hancock street between Depot and Saville streets, and on Washington street nearly to the junction with Hancock street.

As one approaches City Square from Houghs Neck he may get an unobstructed view of the First church before reaching Spear street, and all of Temple street and the business section of Hancock street soon comes into view.

SATURDAY TRAIN SERVICE

Too Many Trains Dropped at Important Hour

The new timetable on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., while in the main fairly satisfactory, seems to leave much to be desired in the Saturday afternoon service, not only by those who have to work Saturday afternoons but also those who stop work at noontime.

Every day but Saturday anyone can come to Quincy at 4.55, 5.13, 5.19 or 5.28 but by the new schedule there is no train from 4.40 until 5.40 which reaches Quincy about 6 o'clock.

Any one reaching the South Station at quarter of five has an hour's wait and naturally does not like it, especially as all the rest of the week there are five or six trains during the hour.

Then again the noon trains from Boston on Saturdays do not accomodate. It is impossible for most workers to get the 12.20 train, but less he does he will have to wait a half an hour when there are two trains within three minutes of each other and after one o'clock there is good service for an hour.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FILIPINOS RAISING OWN RICE NOW, SAYS CONSUL.

Yield Greatly Increased Under United States Supervision.

Rice production in the Philippines is rapidly increasing as a result of the supervision of the United States, and the time is not far in the future when the Filipinos will produce all the rice needed by themselves, according to George E. Anderson, consul general at Hongkong, British China.

"Increased production of rice in the Philippines," Mr. Anderson says, "due to systematic government efforts and encouragement of native farmers by Philippine business men, is affecting the archipelago's rice imports through Hongkong, the value of which fell from $642,038 in the first quarter of 1912 to $436,393 in the same quarter this year.

"The production of rice in the provinces of Pangasinan and Neuva Ecija alone last year amounted to 19,210,000 bushels, and the local authorities there claim that production can be increased indefinitely by immigration and irrigation. The need of farmers is the greatest factor. Irrigation works are being established, and a government commission is locating suitable areas for rice culture.

"In the province of Nueva Ecija, which established a high record in last year's crop, for example, farmers cart their crops as far as sixty miles to the railway.

"The Philippines have been importing annually an average of about $6,500,000 worth of rice, which the islands can produce probably as cheaply as the countries from which their supply is imported."

PICKS UP $5,000 ON BEACH.

Long Island Girl Finds Lump of Ambergris Worth That Much.

A chunk of ambergris worth more than $5,000 was found recently on the beach below her home by Miss Ethel Terry of Sayville, N. Y.

She was taking a walk along the beach when she saw at high tide mark a quantity of grayish matter which appeared to be wax. She had never seen anything like it before, and, curious as to what it might be, she wrapped it up and carried it home. It proved to be ambergris.

So far as is known, no other such find of ambergris has ever been made on the shores of Long island, at least not since whaling has become a lost art in adjacent waters. Ambergris is secreted in the entrails of whales and is of value to makers of perfumes.

NEW STEEL PROCESS FOUND.

High Speed Product Patented All Over the World.

The London Daily Mail says that great interest has been aroused in Sheffield in a method of producing superior high speed steel by the introduction of cobalt.

The process has been patented throughout the world by a continental firm, but there are indications that at Sheffield, the center of the English high speed steel industry, the manufacturers will fight for the privilege of making the new steel without having to pay royalties under a foreign patent.

The new material, it is said, marks a great advance on the best qualities of steel at present obtainable for boring and cutting tools.

Rich Whaling City Resident Takes Fourth Wife at Eighty-Six

New Bedford, Mass., June 3.—Eighty-six-year-old David H. Snell yesterday took to himself his fourth wife in the person of Mrs. Janet Hamilton, who is thirty-three years his junior. Snell is very wealthy.

The ceremony was performed at the Snell homestead in the exclusive Mt. Pleasant section of this city, by Rev. William B. Geoghegan of the Unitarian church.

Snell's first two wives died. He had their bodies interred in the Snell family tomb with appropriate inscriptions, and then married Miss Susan Padelford of Providence. Ten years ago he secured a divorce, after a trial which furnished many sensations, and in which evidence of blackmail was introduced.

Snell owns a stable of spirited horses, many of them with track records. The couple will spend their honeymoon at the Snell homestead.

PETITION OF MEYERS IS DISMISSED

Sought an Injunction to Prevent the Sale of Fore River Shipyard

Judge Hardy Says Petition Was Defective

(Special to the Ledger.)

Boston, June 4—Judge Hardy in the Suffolk Superior Court today denied the injunction sought by John J. Meyers of New York against the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. of Quincy in which he alleged that the Fore River officals were attempting to dispose of their property for $600,000 where it was worth $5,000,000. Judge Hardy in dismissing the petition said that the bill of Meyers was defective.

Meyers is one of the minority stockholders. He asked that the proposed sale of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., of Quincy to the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation or to the Bethlehem Co., he enjoined on the ground that there is no clear reason for such a merger. He alleged that the majority of the stockholders of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., were seeking to force the minority to agree to the sale and merger.

WILL ENTER FLOAT.

John Adams Aerie of Eagles held a special meeting in Faxon hall Tuesday evening to complete arrangements for the annual field day of the New England Aeries which will be held at Boston, June 8 and 9. TRAINING SHIP EXPECTED

Argentine Naval Men Anxious to See the Rividavia

The Presidente Sarmiento, the training ship of the Argentine Navy, is expected to reach Boston June 28, from New York. It is a wooden vessel and is making its annual cruise.

The visit to northern waters will be of great interest this year because the Rividavia which is being constructed at the Fore River yard is about 95 per cent completed and those aboard the Sarmiento will have the first chance of viewing their country's dreadnaught.

Many of the inspectors at the yard have seen service in the training ship and each captain commands her for one year. Those aboard are young in years and in service.

The members of the commission are quietly preparing to extend a welcome to the visitors. Over a week will be spent at Boston and Quincy.

The Argentine government is now getting the transports ready which will bring the crews of the dreadnaughts to Quincy.

BACK TO MAINE FOR HIS BRIDE

John L. Crosby and Miss Emerson Have Church Wedding

A dispatch from Bangor, Maine reports the wedding on Tuesday evening of Miss Britomaite Emerson of that city and Mr. John Leland Crosby of Quincy, Mass. It was the first wedding in the new All Souls church, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Moore officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Annie G. Emerson of Bangor, and the groom formerly resided in that city, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Crosby.

Miss Margaret Crosby was maid of honor and Harry W. Woodward of Colorada Springs was groomsman. The ushers were Lawrence A. Crosby, Thomas W. Williams, Ralph S. Crowell and Harrison L. Robinson.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother on Elm street after which the couple left on an automobile trip. They will reside in Quincy, Mass.

Mr. Crosby is a graduate of Bowdoin College and was a widely known athlete.

SCHOOL BOY'S LEG BROKEN

Misjudged Distance When Jumping and Fell

James Clark, the 12 year old son of John Clark of Walnut street, is at the Quincy City Hospital with a broken leg. While on his way to the Quincy school where he is a pupil, this morning, he attempted to jump from the steps of an apartment house on Sagamore street to the limb of a tree and misjudged the distance. He landed on the sidewalk and snapped his left leg, above the ankle.

His companions picked him up but he was unable to stand. Becoming alarmed they ran to the Quincy school and informed Charles Sampson, the principal of the lads predicament. He went to the scene and immediately sent for the police ambulacne. Clark was removed to the hospital where he is resting as well as can be expected

UNKNOWN TO THE MAYOR

Fourth of July Proclamation Not Issued by His Honor

The Fourth of July proclomation signed by Eugene R. Stone as president, which was published in one of the local papers on Tuesday, was without the knowledge or consent of Mayor Stone. The chairman of the Publicity committee not only exceeded his authority, but he showed poor judgment in keeping it exclusive. The Fourth of July celebration is ont exclusive, but something whcih concerns all and the Daily Ledger can be depended upon to give it the greatest publicity.

WOLLASTON ALARM.

When the bottom dropped out of a melting pot in the brass foundry of William Hall & Co., an employee sounded box 155 at 2.15 today. The department was not needed. The contents are a partial loss. The all out was sounded immediately.

Worthy Mistress Mrs. Annie McKenzie conducted the initiation of two candidates at a meeting of the Daughters of John Adams, Loyal Ladies' Orange lodge, in Wilson's hall Tuesday evening. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a trolley ride the latter part of June.

TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH AND THE CITY'S ANNIVERSARY

About $1,000 Must Be Raised by Subscription to Carry Out the Program as Arranged

Two Parades, Children's Entertainments, Baseball, Sports and Other Features

There was a good attendance Tuesday evening at the meeting of the July Fourth Celebration Association at the rooms of the Board of Trade. Although a little late in getting down to business this year the enthusiasm shown Tuesday made up for lost time. The committee is determined to have a rouser this year, if possible, and to excel the celebration for the past three years.

The plan now is to have the City Council co-operate with the association and to celebrate Quincy's twenty-fifth year as a city at the same time. That is for a joint celebration July Fourth, of the National holiday and of the city's anniversary, and it was voted that the Mayor be requested to ask the City Council to co-operate in the celebration.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

One of the first things done at the meeting Tuesday was to declare the office of chairman of the Publicity committee vacant and to elect Dr. A. H. Gilson as chairman of that committee.

Later in the evening the deposed chairman of the Publicity committee came in and learning what had transpired, he resented the way in which he had been deposed, believing that the meeting should have waited until he was present and to have given him an opportunity to resign.

It was stated that the meeting had waited until nearly 9 o'clock before taking action. The upshot of the matter was that the vote declaring the office vacant was rescinded. Mr. LaBrecque then tendered his resignation which was accepted and he was given a rising vote of thanks for his services during the past three years. Dr. Gilson was then reelected as chairman of the Publicity committee.

BATTLESHIP EXPECTED.

Mayor Stone said that he had communicated with Senator Lodge to see if it was not possible to get a battleship in Quincy for the Fourth, and had received a reply that the Senator would do what he could.

MONEY VOTED.

The question of appropriations for the different features of the day were then taken up and the folowing amounts voted:

Fireworks	$600
Music, for morning parade,	300
Prizes for antique and floats	110
Automobile and general parade	400
Office expenses and sundries	75
Reception committee	60
Publicity committee	50
Children's entertainment	100
Miscellaneous,	50
Athletics,	250
	$1,995

The committee now has the $999 voted by the City Council and cash on hand of about $100, so that the committee will need to collect something like $1,000 to carry out the program as outlined.

BASE BALL AND SPORTS.

Chairman Neary of the Athletic sports announced that this year it had been planned to have ball games in every ward of the city. In addition to this it was proposed to have a running race on the new oval in Merrymount park, which would be for Quincy boys only. For these track events it was proposed to give prizes to the value of about $100.

It was voted that all prizes be purchased through Quincy perchants and A. L. Whitman was appointed as the chairman of the purchasing committee.

SUBSCRIPTION COMMITTEE.

The matter of finances was then taken up, and Chairman Curran announced that his committee would get right down to business and make a thorough canvass for subscriptions. He believed that the money would be easier to raise this year than a year ago and anticipated no difficulty in getting the funds necessary.

He announced that he had appointed Ben. Hodgkinson of the Boy Scouts as chairman of the Ward One committee, and Mr. Hodgkinson said that he would have his scouts get to work.

In Ward Two the chairman is Councilman Thomas Griffin. In Ward Three Councilman William Farquharson. In Ward Four, John Evans. In Ward Five, Theo. DuPlesses. They were authorized to secure assistants.

LAZARUS AND DIVES

Despite much that has been said and written to the contrary, health conditions in American cities, as elsewhere in civilization, are improving if diminished death-rates are a criterion. And yet health conditions in our great cities are not good enough to satisfy the humanitarian—at any rate those conditions which accompany or follow the gravest social and economic diseases of the body politic.

At a recent woman's industrial exhibition were placards showing disease-engendering conditions; obviously insanitary sweat-shops in which consumptives work on underwear, shirtwaists, bed and table-linen, lace collars and other garments, to be sold on the bargain counter, and to be introduced with all their germ-content into other homes. A placard bore a doctor's statement: "I have found 182 families, 179 with contagious disease, doing this tenement work."

Nicely bottled pecans are sold as titbits for the well-to-do; in this exhibition were photographs of a mother and two children in a squalid room cracking the nuts, one of the children facilitating the work by using its teeth. By such poor women and little children also (often illegally kept from school) are bristles put into hair-brushes, artificial flowers made and paper cigarette tubes rolled—and licked.

One of the most melancholy aspects of our civilization, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, is the pay for sweat-shop work: $1 a dozen for skilled work at gloves for which the retailer charges $3 a pair; 30 cents for four hours' crocheting of a hand-bag which sells for $1.50. In 204 inspected homes, 25 per cent. of the workers were between 5 and 10 years of age; nearly half were under 14; a fourth of the children worked five hours or more a day after school; three-fourth of these home-working families earned less than 10 cents an hour altogether.

In the end, however, the consumer not infrequently must pay an awful price in sickness and in death for "bargains" prepared under such pitiless and often pestilent conditions. Well indeed has Dr. Solomon Solis-Cohen observed that "the poverty of Lazarus makes itself felt in the house of Dives;" yes, and his infections also!

Many who attended the meeting of the City Council, Monday evening, remarked after the meeting at the ease with which several important orders were passed without even a word of opposition on the part of any member. For instance street orders involving an appropriation of over $27,000 slid through like grease while an order relative to paving blocks on Copeland street was discussed for some minutes.

Practically all of the important measures before the Council have now been disposed of and it would be surprising to see the council adjourn for the summer vacation at any meeting. The next regular meeting falls on June 16, the night before the holiday, and for this reason the council adjourned one week, so that if another meeting is necessary to clean up business, an adjournment may be made to the fourth Monday in June.

The new building ordinance which was passed by the City Council, Monday evening and which was signed by the Mayor promptly, strikes a death blow to the so called three flat houses, which it is claimed are very detrimental to property causing the value of estates in the vicinity to depreciate.

There is one other important change in the new ordinance. That is, after July 1, a fee will be charged for a building permit, which should bring in quite a revenue. The fees to be charged are regulated by the ordinance. That for first class building being $5; second class building $4; third class building $2; alterations, etc. $1 Up to the present time no fees for permits have been charged in Quincy although the custom in other cities has been to charge a fee.

SPORTS FOR THE HOLIDAY

Chairman Neary Has Selected Wide Awake Committee

James Neary, chairman of the athletic committee of the Fourth of July Association has been appointed supervisor of all the playgrounds in the city on that day by Thomas L. Williams of the Park Commissioners.

All permits which have been granted are void unless countersigned by Mr. Neary. This is to obviate possible difficulties which may arise over the use of the fields on that day.

Games for prizes purchased from the athletic fund, will be played on all the playgrounds. Local teams will be the only ones allowed to compete for these trophies.

The athletic meet which will take place on the new Merrymount Oval, will be open to Quincy only. The committee anticipate making this the banner event of the celebration. With every facility at their command, including a fast cinder track which is unsurpassed, the committee contemplates the entrance of the large number of Quincy athletes in all events.

Quincy at the present time is the home of college, interscholastic and athletic association athletes. It will be the first real opportunity the boys will have of hanging up local records.

SHIPYARD A STORM CENTRE

Efforts Will Be Made to Call Out Boiler Makers

There are persistent rumors that the striking boilermakers of Boston are anxious to call out the men at Quincy. A Boston paper says: District Organizer, John W. Keenan and other officials of the Boilermakers' Union left this city Tuesday to call out the men working in various cities throughout the State where they are not granted the conditions for which the men in Greater Boston are already on strike. As soon as the officials return from their trips to various places in the State they intend to center their attention on the Fore River ship building plant at Quincy.

TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

The chairman was instructed to see what could be done about getting buttons. These buttons will be sold by the Boy Scouts, and it was also announced that any one who contributed to the fund would be given a button to wear on his coat lapel, so that the world might readily know he had contributed to the celebration.

AUTO PARADE.

Chester I. Campbell is to have charge of the automobile parade and he promises to make this a feature.

The chairman of the parade committee was not present at the meeting so that no report of his plans could be learned.

The meeting adjourned at 10.30 until Saturday night when another general meeting of all interested parties will be held at the Board of Trade rooms.

NORTEMAN—SCOTT.

A telegram from New York announces the marriage in that city on Monday of Ernest M. Norteman of Houghs Neck and Mrs. Minnie M. Scott of Cambridge. Mrs. Scott has been a summer resident of Great Hill, and is the widow of Frederick W. Scott. The ceremony took place at the "Little Church around the Corner." Mr. and Mrs. Norteman will reside at Houghs Neck.

Rev. Carl Peterson will resign on Sunday as pastor of the Swedish Congregational church at Malden to go either to Detroit or Houston.

Economy Hints

THE details of the costume have a far deeper meaning to the woman who is attempting to dress smartly on a limited income than to her friend with the well filled purse. The latter depends on her dressmaker to add the latest touches, the details that make or mar the costume, and while she admires them in a general way she merely accepts them as part of the whole. But the woman who is seeking to obtain a fashionable effect with a very slight expenditure must give much care and thought to these details. A collar displaying the latest style features will bring the coat of yesterday up to date in a twinkling, or one of the new sashes will lend so smart an air to the silk frock which has served all winter under the fur coat that even the owner will almost forget it is not a new creation.

Collars and Cuffs.

Of all the accessories that may be called to the aid of the economical women, collars or collars and cuffs are perhaps the most important and helpful. The expense will be much curtailed if it is possible to make these accessories at home, and the average woman should possess sufficient knowledge of the heddle to make them, especially with the aid of one of the good paper patterns. The variety spread before admiring eyes this spring is positively bewildering. Even the much discussed cubist and futurist influence has crept into the realm of neckwear. Thus far it has shown itself merely in a collar of silk, with the curious polygonal effects in brilliant colorings or in a tiny bow heading three tiers of pleated ecru lace.

Waistcoats.

Another accessory which every woman will desire is one of the new waistcoats. Whether or not it is made in very mannish style to accompany the tailored suit, with all the frills that the old time dandy demanded, it is fascinating. The tailored vests are fashioned from the new pique or ratine and are cut very similar to a man's dress suit vest, while the more elaborate ones are of brocaded satin, broche crapes, flowered silks, silk cretonnes and various other silk and cotton stuffs. They are more pretentious, extending often below the waist line in V shaped points. It is possible to buy in the shops waistcoats with plaited chiffon jabots and other appurtenances, which may be worn in the place of a blouse when there is no desire to remove the coat.

GOOD TO KNOW.

How Thoroughly and Easily to Clean Piano Case.

Use a bottle of olive oil, a bottle of alcohol, some new or perfectly clean canton flannel, a perfectly clean chamois leather and a basin of water. Wet a small piece of the flannel and drop on it a few drops of oil. Rub with the wet flannel a small section of the case at a time and immediately rub it thoroughly with a dry piece of the flannel before proceeding to a fresh section.

Polish finally with the chamois or a piece of the flannel. Rub with the grain of the wood and breathe on it occasionally to help remove any oiliness that may remain. A very little flour rubbed with the grain of the wood will also help to remove oiliness, but its use should not be necessary. Wash the piano keys with a corner of the flannel wet with alcohol. Be careful, however, to avoid touching the wood with the alcohol, as it will ruin the varnish.

Common Sense Items.

Don't burn gas for toast to save a few pieces of stale bread. Don't buy food in fancy packages, paying for two pounds and getting one and three-quarter pounds. Have your butcher inclose trimmings with your meat. This will increase your dripping as well as your soup stock. Buy scales if you have none. They will pay for themselves in a few months. A few reports of short weights from your kitchen mean a reform in the grocery or market. Make or buy a fireless cooker, which is unexcelled for stews, cereals, puddings and vegetables, saving gas as well as time.

How to Clean Satin Collars.

The white satin collars that are so fashionable now, but so hard to keep clean, may be rinsed out in ether and cleansed immediately. Do not try to sponge off the spots, for that leaves a ring, but put a little ether in a small bowl or teacup and squeeze half the collar at a time, and it comes out perfectly white. Ten cents' worth of ether will clean the collar many times.

How to Trace.

When tracing material is not handy and it is desired to transfer a design to cloth from a paper pattern try putting the cloth and paper on the machine together and going over the outline with the machine, the needle, of course, being unthreaded.

How to Remove Finger Stains.

Fingers stained with fresh fruit, walnuts, etc., should be dipped in strong tea, rubbed with a nailbrush and then washed in warm water.

CHILDREN BURIED ALIVE

Father Digs Them Out After Severe Struggle With Maniac

Atlantic City, June 4.—Three children were rescued almost dead from tombs of sand where they had been buried by a maniac. George Walls, father of the children, had a severe struggle with the maniac, and worked half an hour before he uncovered the children.

By this time neighbors had become aroused and the maniac was run down. He put up a terrific battle, but was finally overpowered and taken to city hall, where he raved for hours. He will be taken to an asylum.

He is said to be a Philadelphian, the wayward son of a well to do family. He had dug the grave six feet deep. The children had been watching him, and he suddenly scooped them in and buried them.

Physicians say the Walls children are in a critical condition and the recovery of two of the three is a question of grave doubt.

MILL WORKERS VICTIMS

Public Loss of $500,000 In Alleged Wildcat Mining Scheme

Boston, June 4.—Hundreds of poor mill workers are numbered among victims who have been mulcted of $500,000 in Boston's latest wildcat mining scheme, according to charges made by the federal authorities after the arrest of promoters of the Brooklyn-Arizona Mining company here and in Arizona.

A. C. Cruchet was taken into custody in the office of the American Securities corporation, of which he is treasurer, at 75 State street.

His arrest followed closely the receipt of news that Frederick E. Small, his partner in the promotion of Brooklyn-Arizona stock, had been arrested at Mayer, Ariz. Both men were taken on a secret indictment returned against them by the federal grand jury here last week for using the mails to defraud.

BRYAN'S PARTNER GETS PANAMA JOB

Editor of Commoner Governor of the Canal Zone

Washington, June 4.—Secretary of State Bryan has landed a job for his partner, Richard L. Metcalfe, associate editor on The Commoner. President Wilson selected Metcalfe as head of the civil government of the Panama canal zone, placing him in line for promotion to the governorship when the zone is placed under civil administration.

Metcalfe has been in newspaper work all his life, and came into national political prominence during the campaign of 1896 as spokesman for Bryan. Last year he ran in the primaries on the Democratic ticket for governor of Nebraska, but lost.

GAYNOR UPHOLDS WALDO

Calls Aldermanic Committee's Report a "Tissue of Falsehoods"

New York, June 4.—Mayor Gaynor called the majority report of the Curran aldermanic committee recommending the removal of Police Commissioner Waldo a "tissue of falsehoods" and predicted that it would be repudiated by the board of aldermen.

The mayor characterized the four committeemen who sustained the report "poor little fellows" and added: "Mentally and morally Waldo could carry a whole carload of them in his breeches pocket without knowing they were there."

Waldo said of the report: "It is politics. The work of this department speaks for itself."

FIGHT TO A FINISH

Thousand Barbers Reported to Be on Strike at Boston

Boston, June 4.—The refusal of the Master Barbers' association of the demands of their striking employes yesterday was followed by the statement of the strike leaders that they would fight to a finish.

After a mass meeting held in the North End the barbers held a parade. There were possibly 700 men in line. The I. W. W. leaders announced, however, that they now have more than 1000 members, 300 having joined the union yesterday.

The bootblack strikers reported last night that twelve employers have signed the new agreement and that nearly half of the boys on strike will return today.

FAIL FOR $4,000,000

Boston Dealers In Rubber Owe Banks Hundreds of Thousands

Boston, June 4.—A $4,000,000 failure was revealed when schedules were filed of the liabilities of the bankrupt firm of George A. Alden & Co., dealers in crude rubber, 71 Summer street.

Boston banks figure as unsecured creditors to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars. The concern was petitioned into bankruptcy by creditors in February, but the great proportions of the failure only became known yesterday.

The company's liabilities of $4,090,825.88 exceed its scheduled assets by $2,485,741.20.

PRIZE DOGS.

Miss Helen "Nimrod" Elcock took her famous dogs to New Bedford last week and entered them in the kennel show and as usual brought home an armful of prizes. She captured four blue ribbons, two specials, the winner and a special prize offered for the best fox hound in the show. The latter prize went to her Comet and Eclipse.

REJOICING AT HOUGHS NECK

Order for Widening Sea Street Has Been Signed

There is great rejoicing at Houghs Neck over the passage by the City Council of the order appropriating $10,000 for widening a part of Sea street. The section of this street near the Willows has been in a deplorable condition for a long time and at times in the early spring has been well nigh impassable. That the street was not widened and built several years ago is the fault of the residents of Houghs Neck.

Under the order as passed this year the street is to be widened between Winthrop and Bird streets and rebuilt from the Willows to the end of the street near Sea avenue.

Several years ago there was an order in the City Council calling for an appropriation of $25,000 for this work. That year the Council was ready and willing to pass an appropriation for $10,000 for Sea street, this amount having been practically agreed upon by the several committees.

Then it was found that Houghs Neck was divided among themselves. Some wanted one thing done and some another. Then there were those who resided on Manet avenue, who expressed their fears that if an order went through it meant that the street railway tracks would be moved from Manet avenue to Sea street, although as a matter of fact this had not been considered by the committees as far as known.

The result was then when the Council found that the Houghs Neckers were fighting among themselves a halt was called until such time as they could agree.

The years following first one thing came up to delay the matter and then another until last year when an order for an appropriation was offered late in the year, so late in fact that the whole matter went over until this year. Now that the order has been passed and has been signed by the Mayor there is cause for rejoicing at Houghs Neck.

NOW AT POND HOME.

It may be interesting to those who attended the entertainment at Mrs. Theophilus King's home, Arpil 26, to know that the necessary sum of money has been completed for the lady to enter Pond Home and that she went there this week. She is pleasantly situated and I hope that she will be very happy when she becomes accustomed to her new surroundings. I heartily thank all who contributed to this good object.

OBJECTIONS TO THE WEBB BILL

Japan Is Expected to Materially Modify Them

A FRESH DIPLOMATIC TUSSLE

President and Cabinet Expect It When "Rejoinder" Comes From Tokio—California Land Law Will Go Into Effect Before Japan Takes Any Legal Action

Washington, June 4.—President Wilson and his cabinet were advised by Secretary of State Bryan to prepare for another diplomatic tussle over the Japanese alien land controversy.

Following a visit of Ambassador Chinda to the state department, Bryan was able to report at a cabinet meeting that the "rejoinder" note of Japan over the California land dispute can be expected by Friday or Saturday. The negotiations will then be up to Uncle Sam.

Bryan was openly elated over the favorable response made by Japan, through Chinda, to his international peace program. Chinda told Bryan that his government "expressed great interest in and would give careful consideration" to the peace policy.

Coming in the midst of the alien land dispute this renewed the faith of the president and Bryan in an amicable settlement of the California question.

It is reported that Japan will materially modify, in her rejoinder note, the protests against the Webb bill. After his half-hour conference with the Japanese ambassador, Bryan intimated that there had been some changes in the situation with respect to Japan's stand.

That Japan will insist that the inhibition of the California law against ownership or leasing of California soil by Asiatics be raised, at least as to Japanese now owning or leasing land there, is reported to be a new subject injected into the negotiations.

Another phase of the Japanese question raised is the necessity for renewal, June 27, of the general arbitration treaty of 1908 between this country and Japan. Similar treaties with other countries have been automatically renewed with the stroke of a pen.

No Action Now by Japan

Tokio, June 4.—No legal action in connection with the California alien land ownership legislation can be instituted by Japan until the end of August, when the measure goes into force, according to Baron Mokino, the Japanese foreign minister, in replying to inquiries made by Japanese members of parliament. In the meantime, however, he said, negotiations between Tokio and Washington would be continued.

Professor Suyehiro of Kyoto university addressed a meeting of leading business men on the legal phases of the land ownership problem as far as it regards California. He intends to sail for America on June 21 to investigate the situation.

SMALL TOWNS CUT OFF

Fire Destroys Three Spans of the Big Groveland Bridge

Haverhill, Mass., June 4.—Hundreds of men and women employed in the Haverhill shoe factories were forced to walk several miles along the country roads to their homes after work, owing to the partial destruction by fire yesterday afternoon of the Groveland bridge, which carries the only line of car tracks to Groveland and West Newbury.

Until the installation of two ferries last evening, several small towns were entirely cut off from communication with Haverhill. The fire, which started in a network of wires, destroyed three spans of the bridge, which is an old structure, built with steel girders and a wooden flooring.

New York, June 4.—Cheered by a big crowd, John Ennis of Stamford, Conn., aged 71, set out from City College at noon yesterday to walk 1446 miles to Minneapolis.

Ennis made the start one day later than Edward P. Weston, his ancient pedestrian enemy, in the hope of giving Weston a handicap and still beating him into Minneapolis.

NO SUCCESSOR TO AUSTIN

Poet Laureate and Court Jester Look Alike to King George

London, June 4.—The late Alfred Austin will have the honor of being England's last poet laureate. It is said King George considers the post of poet laureate about as obsolete as that of court jester, and that he will name no successor to Austin.

The honor of poet laureate therefore will lapse and become one of the traditions of the British court.

House Overrides Foss Veto

Boston, June 4.—By a vote of 159 to 62, the house of representatives overrode Governor Foss' veto of the bill to increase the salaries of the firemen and helpers at the state house.

It Happened In China.

An American commercial traveler who was in China soon after the downfall of the empire was approached one day by a Chinaman, who told him, in fairly good English, that he had a brick of pure silver, weighing thirty pounds, which had been looted from one of the government subtreasuries during a riot. The Chinaman explained that to only an American would he trust the secret and said that he would sell the silver for a sum which amounted to $5 in our money.

Not being one who would look such a gift horse in the mouth, the American promptly paid the $5 and took possession of the silver bar.

Soon after, being in Hongkong and wishing to test the value of his purchase, the American took the silver bar to a Chinese assayer and asked for its weight.

The pigtailed savant of the scales carefully tested the metal, weighed it and then remarked laconically, "He weigh lead."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Letters of Introduction.

In Rubinstein's reminiscences in the Paris Annales we read how the illustrious pianist went from Berlin to settle at Vienna, fortified by letters of introduction to various celebrities given to him by the Russian ambassador at the Prussian court. He presented several of them without any beneficial result, and it then occurred to him to tear open those which remained and read them. They all ran, he says, roughly speaking, as follows:

Dear Countess—Our position as ambassador and ambassadress imposes upon us the tiresome duty of patronizing and introducing all kinds of compatriots, who are often most importunate in their solicitations. I therefore now venture to introduce to you a certain Rubinstein, the bearer of this communication.

After that experience, Rubinstein says, he threw all his letters of introduction into the fire and found that he got on a great deal better without them.

Easing Your Burden.

One hot summer day I was driving along when I overtook a woman who carried a heavy basket. She gladly accepted my offer of a ride, but sat with the heavy basket still on her arm.

"My good woman," I said, "your basket will ride just as well in the bottom of the carriage and you would be much more comfortable."

"So it would, sir, thank you," said she; "I never thought of that."

"That is what I do very often too," I said.

The woman looked up inquiringly. "Yes, I do the same thing. The Lord has taken me up in his chariot, and I rejoice to ride in it. But very often I carry a burden of care on my back that would ride just as well if I put it down. If the Lord is willing to carry me he is willing to carry my cares."—Mark Guy Pearse.

Chopin's Superstition.

Chopin, unlike most musical geniuses, was a late riser. He practiced so long at the piano, with his back unsupported, that his spine was permanently injured. He never composed except when seated at the piano, and he always had the lights turned out when he was improvising. A public audience unnerved him to such an extent that he could not properly interpret the music before him. Seated in the midst of a small select circle, he easily extemporized and improvised. He "talked" to his piano whenever he was melancholy. He thought more of his manservant and his cat than he did of his intimate friends. Chopin had a superstitious dread of the figure seven and would not live in a house bearing that number or start upon a journey on that date.

Rings and Pledges.

There was an ancient Norse custom according to which when an oath was imposed the person by whom it was pledged passed his hand through a silver ring, which was held sacred to the ceremony. In Iceland the bridegroom when plighting his troth used to pass his four fingers and thumb through a large ring and in this manner receive the hand of his bride. And even as lately as the end of the eighteenth century in Orkney a man and woman pledged their faith at the standing stones of Stennis by joining their hands through the perforated stone of Odin.

THE MAN WHO FELT

But He Reasoned at the Same Time

By F. A. MITCHEL

I have never been among mountains without experiencing a sense of the vastness of inorganic things. And we can never contemplate this material immensity without making a step onward, realizing the wider scope of the spiritual. To us living beings soul must always be placed far above matter. Why then should a man, superior to these senseless though awe inspiring mountains, die among them and pass into oblivion while they go on for ages?

The consensus of opinion has always been that he does not. The belief that he mingles in the affairs of beings still in the body has—as a superstition—largely died out, but scientific investigation has taken its place, and research goes on in the supernatural as well as in the natural, though there is probably no dividing line between the two.

The Alps are my favorite mountains, though I do not consider them superior to the Canadian Rockies. But the former are in the center of a civilized continent, while the latter are still solitary and not so easily reached. Mountain climbing has always been a passion with me, and in the Alps one finds every facility for the purpose. Before I was twenty I had stood on the summit of the Jungfrau and a year later made the ascent of the Matterhorn.

My favorite Alpine region was that about Mont Blanc, which I climbed several times and always with the same guide, Otto Marx, though ascents are not usually made without two guides. Marx, though possessing the wiry, close knit build of the typical mountain guide, had a spiritual countenance. He climbed mountains not so much from a love of encountering their dangers as for the contemplation of the splendid scenes to be found among them. He was a silent man, not easily drawn out, but it is my fancy to dive into the inner depths of such persons because I expect to find there treasures not to be found among the more garrulous. So whenever while climbing we reached a convenient spot for resting and looking out upon the broad expanse of mountains and valleys and cliffs, peaks here and there extending far above the clouds, I would begin my pumping.

He told me that he was born among the mountains and he could not believe that he would ever leave them. "All things must have a beginning," he said. "My beginning is in my body. I can only propel myself on my legs, helping myself up steep heights, at times helping with my hands. When I die I shall be free from such contemptible methods. Though we sometimes retrograde, in the main we progress. Man first could only walk on his legs; then he made an animal carry him, and now he goes rapidly by steam. When he dies he makes a much greater advance than from the flesh to the iron horse. Once I have cast off the body I shall not be subject to gravity. I shall pass over this broad valley to yonder mountain by some such means as the electric current. I cannot conceive of the mechanism by which I shall move any more than half a century ago one could conceive of talking to another hundreds of miles away by means of a telephone or of flying among the clouds in an aeroplane. Do you suppose man can make such progress as this, clogged with the body, to accomplish nothing at all when freed from it?"

Sitting there, looking out upon the terrestrial grandeur, I was deeply impressed with his reasoning. I did not stop to inquire whether or not it was logical, and it does not appear to me now to matter whether it was logical or whether it violated every logical principle. There are deductions that only appear to us through the feelings, and this feeling that we shall live again after our present life is perhaps the most important of all such deductions.

Many were the talks in this vein I had with Otto Marx while we were resting above the clouds. When we had descended into the valley he would be again shut up like an oyster. Sometimes when we were alone together in Chamounix I would endeavor to get him to converse on these subjects, but never once succeeded. Sometimes I fancied that he saw these sights of what he would be in the future only from a great height and when inspired by the peaks. And yet this did not destroy his faith in them.

The last climb Otto and I made together we started one morning from Chamounix to ascend the mountain and stopped for the night at the Grand Mulets, the cabin erected for the shelter of climbers. We had our supper before dark and sat looking out over the succession of mountains and gorges and the great ice river pouring with invisible slowness down into the valley. I tried to induce Marx to talk, but failed.

"What is the matter with you, Otto?" I asked.

"Herr," he replied, "I feel some thing."

"What do you feel?"

"That this trip will be my last up the mountain."

"Nonsense, Otto! You have a fit of blues. Your digestion is bad; your liver is out of order."

"No, herr; I shall not go back to the valley in my body."

Awed by this tone, I was silent. All at once the scene spread out before me seemed terrible as well as grand. As soon as darkness fell I said I would turn in, and, wrapping myself in the blankets, I went to sleep.

The next morning we started at dawn and had no trouble whatever on reaching the summit. In the afternoon we stopped again for the night at the Grand Mulets.

"Otto," I said, "you gave me the dumps last evening talking about your not getting back to the valley. You see that your forebodings were without foundation."

"We are not yet in the valley, herr."

"But we have passed over the greatest danger."

He made no reply to this, and I did not mention the matter again.

The next morning we were descending over a path about a foot wide, on one side of which was a precipice and on the other a slide over slanting snow for hundreds of feet, then a gradual rise. Marx had the lead. Suddenly the snow gave way under my feet, and I fell on the side of the gradual decline. Marx, seeing that the only way to keep us both from going down the decline, threw himself on the other side, the side of the precipice. The rope broke, and I went, sliding with accelerating rapidity, down the ice coated snow.

During that slide I thought only of Marx, who had gone to his death, for there was a chance for me and none for him. Presently I found myself shooting upward, at first as rapidly as I had been shooting downward. I went slower and slower until my momentum ceased altogether. Then, there being nothing to hold on to, I began to descend again. But this time the incline was not so steep, and when I reached the bottom I was able to stop myself.

I made my way down the mountain as best I could. Fortunately the path by which we had been descending crossed the depression in which I found myself a few hundred yards below, and, having once struck it, I found no difficulty in reaching the village. I kept my part of the rope to show that it had been broken as proof that I had not saved myself at my guide's expense.

The tragedy ended my climbing career for years. Indeed, it did not seem to me that I would ever wish to ascend a mountain again. It was not the danger to be encountered, but the death of Otto Marx, who had lost his life in my behalf.

Ten years passed, during which I devoted myself to mercantile pursuits. Then I decided to take a rest in a trip to Europe. It was summer, and Switzerland is the camping ground for tourists in that season. I hesitated about going to the region where I had received my shock, but finally decided to go among the Alps, though not where it had occurred. Instead of Chamounix I went to Interlaken.

Roundabout Interlaken there is fine scenery. There are the Eiger, the Jungfrau, the Wetterhorn. There are Lauterbrunnen, Murren and Grindelwald. I stayed awhile in each of these places, combating a desire to go to Chamounix. While at Grindelwald I fell in with a party of Americans who were devoted to climbing. They were composed of both men and women, and, though they made no regular ascents of the larger mountains, they spent much time far up on their sides.

One of their trips was up the Wetterhorn, and I could not resist a temptation to go with them. We had a party of six persons, conducted by two guides, the one in advance and the other in rear. The day was fair when we started, but during the afternoon when we were well up on the side of the mountain it clouded over and began to snow.

A snowstorm on a mountain not only covers the path, concealing pitfalls, but since one can't see about him he can have no idea of direction. Our guides, who were both young and not overexperienced, lost their heads and showed plainly their fear, and they did not know what to do. It snowed incessantly and so thickly that one could not see a dozen feet from him. We stopped where we were, on a ledge, when it began and waited.

We remained there huddled together for three hours. Some of the women, who at first had not appreciated the danger as the men did, were becoming very much frightened. A cold wind was blowing, and exercise for the purpose of keeping warm was impracticable. The snow, instead of abating, was growing thicker. Thinking I might find a less exposed position, I started, walking cautiously, for the purpose. I had not proceeded far when I heard or thought I heard a familiar call:

"Herr!"

Was that Otto Marx's voice? No. Otto was dead. I knew that he was dead.

"Komt."

At the moment I saw something through the flakes just dark enough to distinguish from the snow. It was vibrating like heated air. It moved away from me. I called to the others to come to me, but when they reached the place from which I called I had gone on, but they followed me.

I in the lead, following the shade, we proceeded over freshly fallen snow. I felt no fear as to where I should place my foot—why, I know not. We had proceeded in this way for a short distance when we came to a chalet. As soon as I saw it I lost sight of that which had guided me. In a few moments our party were sheltered and warmed by cheerful flames on a hearth.

TRIPLE PLAY BY WEYMOUTH

But Quincy High Shut Out the Home Team

Quincy High school defeated Weymouth High school the second time this season at Weymouth on Tuesday afternoon, 6 to 0. Securing only seven hits they earned their runs through batting ability.

The feature of the game was a trpile play by Gloster and Gorman. In the seventh innings with two on bases Andrews drove a speedy line ball to Gloster, who went into the air for a pretty catch, tagged third and put out Sam Prout and threw to second where Gorman caught Hamlin. The work was fast and demonstrated inside base ball knowledge on Gloster's part.

Hamlin reached first in the first innings by biffing a grounder through the pitchers box. It struck the umpire and was fielded by Munroe. All the Weymouth players left the field, believing three were out, but a request for an explanation brought forth the information that Hamlin was entitled to first. Brown scored him with a two bagger.

In the third innings Andrews smashed a three base hit off of Condrick who relieved Munroe after two wild throws. Two men scored. In the fifth innings Brown poled a three base hit to the fence and scored Hamlin.

In the seventh, Prout scored Price, and Brown scored Creedon. The triple play put more run getting off the program.

Andrews was in fine form. In the fifth he fanned Gloster with two on. Murphy went out by the air route in the sixth innings with three men on bases.

"Bull Moose" Brown spoiled Weymouths hopes in the fourth innings by fieldng Murphys hit to centre so quickly that Vender was caught at the plate. During the game only four men reached third for Weymouth.

Gardner made a long running catch of a high drive by Andrews who was trying to score "Bull Moose" Brown from third. "Bull Moose" made four put outs in centre and dropped another after a long run.

ENTRIES FOR DUAL MEET

Quincy High Boys Up Against Melrose High

Tomorrow there will be a dual meet between Melrose High and Quincy High school on the new oval in Merrymount park next to the car house.

Captain Kingsbury says the outlook for the Quincy team is exceedingly bright and should make a very close contest in all the events Quincy should expect to return the winner.

Three boys are doing over four feet for the high jump and two are going 20 feet in the broad jump. The boys in the 100 and 220 yard dashes are going very well, the boys for the quarter and half mile are performing around High school record time. The record in the shot put should go as in practice they have been putting it far over the record.

The Melrose boys have a very well balanced team and should make things interesting in every event. Milton of Melrose who won the 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes last year is with them again this year and is expected to perform as well.

High jump,—F. Schenkelberger, J. Jenkins, F. Roache, E. Brown, L. Andrews and W. Mead.

Broad jump—L. White, F. Schenkelberger, J. Jenkins, E. Brown and L. Andrews.

Shot put, —L. White, E. Brown and L. Andrews.

The entries of the Melrose team have not been received up to going to press.

FAITHFUL SEEKING MORE PATRONAGE

Shaking of Plum Tree Startles Capitol Employes

Washington, June 4.—Employes in the Capitol are on the "anxious seat" for their jobs are in jeopardy, as a result of the Democratic caucus.

Representative Cox of Indiana started the trouble by presenting a resolution proposing to open up all the patronage, comprising approximately 250 places and affecting doorkeepers, messengers, policemen, pages and a score of others, and to have immediately a distribution of these places equally among all the Democratic members of the house.

After a long discussion a resolution was adopted referring the matter to a committee of three with directions to report a plan for distributing patronage that would be fair and equal to all, but consistent with efficiency of service.

AFTER FALL RIVER LINE

Morse Said to Be Watching For Chance to Purchase It

Boston, June 4.—It is said that Charles W. Morse, having secured control of the Hudson Navigation company, is studying the New England railroad situation with a view to being a bidder for the Long Island sound steamship lines if the New Haven railroad is obliged to sell them.

Before the financial troubles of 1907 Morse offered the New Haven $20,000,000 for all its steamship interests, including the Fall River line. If the interstate commerce commission forces the New Haven to go out of the steamship business Morse may be in a position to bid more advantageously for these lines than in 1907, for previously the New Haven was not obliged to sell.

THE WISDOM OF EPICTETUS.

When you make any charge against providence, consider, and you will learn that the thing has happened according to reason. Yes, but the unjust man has the advantage. In what? In money. Yes, for he is superior to you in this—that he falters not, is free from shame and is watchful. What is the wonder? But see if he has the advantage over you in being faithful, in being modest, for you will not find it to be so, but wherein you are superior there you will find that you have the advantage.

If a man has frequent intercourse with others, either for talk or drinking together or generally social purposes, he must either become like them or change them to his own fashion, for, if a man places a piece of quenched charcoal close to a piece that is burning, either the quenched charcoal will quench the other or the burning charcoal will light that which is quenched. Since then the danger is so great we must cautiously enter into such intimacies with those of the common sort and remember that it is impossible that a man can keep company with one who is covered with soot without being partaker of the soot himself.

One man must keep watch, another must go out as a spy, and a third must fight, and it is not possible that all should be in one place, nor is it better that it should be so. But you, neglecting to do the commands of the general, complain when anything more hard than usual is imposed on you, and you do not deserve what you make the army become as far as it is in your power. If all imitate you no man will dig a trench, no man will put a rampart round nor keep watch nor expose himself to danger, but will appear to be useless for the purpose of an army.

COURT RULES AGAINST WOOD

Refuses to Dismiss Conspiracy Charge Against Him

COUNSEL RESTS HIS CASE

Millionaire Is Thus Barred From Presenting Any Testimony—Court Holds That Evidence Thus Far Would Warrant Conviction of Atteaux—Mahoney Called a Perjurer

Boston, June 4.—The case of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, on trial for conspiracy to plant dynamite to discredit Lawrence textile strikers, will go to the jury with those of his two co-defendants, Fred E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, but attorneys for Wood will be given no opportunity to present evidence in behalf of their client, to put their own witnesses on the stand, or to allow Wood to testify in his own behalf.

This was the result of Judge Crosby's refusal to grant the request of Attorney Hurlburt, for Wood, that the case be thrown out of court as far as the defendant Wood was concerned. In making his request Hurlburt announced to the court that the defense would take the responsibility of resting its case as far as Wood was concerned, without presenting any evidence, as it was convinced that the government had produced no evidence of legal standing to connect Wood with the alleged conspiracy.

Frederick E. Atteaux, co-defendant, has a chance to present further evidence, although he has against him Judge Crosby's statement that the evidence so far would warrant a conviction.

The court's ruling was in large part based on the testimony of Arthur Pira, the taxi chauffeur and the government's last important witness. According to his testimony, Crosby declared, the jury would be warranted in finding that on the night on which, according to John J. Breen, Atteaux met Breen at Washington and Franklin streets and paid him $500, he came directly from the house of William M. Wood. This inference, he said, was warranted, and it was for the jury to determine whether it was the true one or not.

Another startling feature of yesterday's developments came in District Attorney Pelletier's refutation of Hurlburt's plea to have the case against Wood dismissed. In this answer, in which the district attorney emphasized every point made by the prosecution during the progress of the trial, he brought a direct charge of perjury against witness Daniel J. Mahoney, man-of-all-work for the millionaire mill man.

Attorney Coakley begun today his defense of defendant Atteaux. He will call at least a dozen witnesses, and Atteaux may take the stand.

NO COMPROMISE POSSIBLE

Foss Will Not Grant Demands of Workers In His Mills

Boston, June 4.—All hopes that the strike at the two Hyde Park plants of Governor Foss would be settled after conferences held yesterday with committees of his own employes were shattered by the attitude taken by the governor. He refused to arbitrate under any circumstances. No compromise was possible, he declared.

Previously at conferences Foss had advised the labor union officials to get the strikers back to work pending negotiations. The leaders now say it is lucky the men did not return to work.

The strike will go on now indefinitely, it was declared last night by the committee of international union officials in general charge of the situation.

DEATH PICTURES BARRED

Boston, June 4.—All moving picture exhibitions of the recent McCarty-Pelky fight in Canada, which resulted in the death of Luther McCarty, who was looked upon up to that time as America's real "white hope," were barred from this city by Mayor Fitzgerald.

The pictures, it is understood, show vividly the blow which killed McCarty and also show him collapsing to the floor of the ring and the efforts that were made to revive him.

WOOD AND ATTEAUX

Charged With Complicity In Dynamite "Planting"

Photos by American Press Association.

John J. Breen's testimony was expected to be damaging to William M. Wood (top), president of the American Woolen company, and Frederick E. Atteaux, a Boston manufacturer, who are accused of complicity in "planting" dynamite to discredit strikers in Lawrence, Mass. Breen said he was hired by Atteaux to "plant" the explosive, but did not implicate Wood.

THINKS "INSIDIOUS LOBBY" IS AT WORK

Kenyon Upholds Charges Made by the President

Washington, June 4.—"Social lobbying" in Washington justifies every word that President Wilson uttered in regard to the presence of an "insidious" lobby at the Capitol, Senator Kenyon declared on the witness stand before the senate investigating committee. It was the first unequivocal statement in support of the president's attitude since the inquiry began.

The Iowa senator explained that he believed the most "insidious" and powerful lobbying possible was the practice of flattering senators by having them out to dinners, to theatres and on automobile rides, ingratiating the host with the distinguished guests.

He denounced ex-senators for capitalizing their privilege of the floor by using it to lobby.

A HUMAN INCUBATOR

Chicago, June 4.—Mrs. Mary Randinski, the "human incubator" of Gary, Ind., is the "mother" of five healthy geese. Mrs. Randinski is the owner of a poultry farm on the outskirts of the city. For the past few months her stock has not been increasing with the rapidity she hoped.

Fifteen days ago she made a belt of cloth in which there were places for five eggs. She placed goose eggs, freshly laid, inside, and put the belt around her body and wore it continually. She was rewarded yesterday when each egg hatched.

New York, June 4.—Isaac Theise, a Maiden Lane diamond dealer, reported to the police that gems worth between $40,000 and $50,000 had been stolen from his place of business while he was absent during the lunch hour. The thief made a clean get-away, leaving no clue.

The jewels, according to Theise, were all in one satchel. The thief had but to force the door of the establishment, which is on the eleventh floor of 47 Maiden Lane, seize the satchel and slip out of the building.

FREE LIST TO BE EXTENDED

Cattle, Wheat, Meats and Flour Will Be Included

SUGGESTED BY THE PRESIDENT

Meets Approval of Chairman of Senate Finance Committee, Who Expects to Have Tariff Bill Before Senate Caucus All Next Week—Change of Front by Leaders

Washington, June 4.—President Wilson has caused a drastic change in the tariff bill. He requested the senate committee to place wheat and cattle on the free list and also leave wheat-flour and meat duty free. A 10 percent duty on wheat and cattle was provided in the bill as it left the house.

The president's conclusion caused a direct change of front by senate leaders. They had agreed to levy a small duty on flour and meat, to be consistent with the duty on the raw materials.

The president conferred with Senator Simmons, chairman of the senate finance committee, at the White House, and when the senator returned to the Capitol it was announced by members of the committee that the extension of the free list had been decided upon.

When the tariff bill was in the house the Democrats defended taxing of wheat and cattle as a necessary protection of American farmers against Canadian wheat and cattle.

Practically without change the wool and sugar schedules as they passed the house are expected to be recommended late this week to the senate finance committee by the senators who have had them under consideration more than a month.

The free sugar schedule has been approved by Senator Williams' subcommittee, and the free wool schedule has been agreed to by Senator Stone's sub-committee. Democratic leaders say that neither will be altered by the entire finance committee and predict that the party caucus will not make a change.

Senator Simmons, after a conference with President Wilson, said he believed that when the tariff bill is ready for consideration by the Democratic caucus next week, cattle, wheat, meats and flour very probably would be on the free list. He said the bill would be considered by the senate caucus all next week and be reported out of committee the following week.

FORTY CANNIBALS HANGED

Other Members of Secret Society In Sierra Leone Are Deported

London, June 4.—Convicted of the practice of cannibalism and human sacrifices, forty members of the "Leopard Society," a secret organization, have been hanged in Sierra Leone, a British colony on the west coast of Africa.

Sir William Branford Griffith, chief justice of the Gold Coast, who presided at the trials, has arrived at Plymouth. He declines to discuss the case, but fellow travelers said that 100 members of the society had been arrested and that forty of them had been hanged, while many were sentenced to deportation.

The "Leopard Society" has existed among the Mendi tribe and has long caused trouble to the government. All natives failing to conform to its rites or submit to its demands are subject to death or slavery.

ACCUSED OF HOMICIDE

Wife of Former Diplomat Woodford Is Held In Auto Fatality

Bridgeport, Conn., June 4.—Charged with homicide, Mrs. Stewart L. Woodford, wife of the former United States ambassador to Spain, was arrested and placed under $2500 bonds, because the automobile she was learning to drive ran down and killed William Stanhouser, a laborer, in Fairfield.

The accident occurred at a dangerous curve. Mrs. Woodford lost control of the car, and it struck Stanhouser, dragging him fifty feet or more under the wheels. Mrs. Woodford and her chauffeur were both arrested. They will be given a hearing on June 9.

STATE TREASURY EMPTY

They were told they will have to wait a few days until some of the state's revenues come in before they can be paid.

The treasurer had just sufficient funds to pay the laborers and clerks, but the higher paid employes will have to wait.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

City of Presidents Has Much of Interest

Old historic Quincy settled in 1625 has much of interest to visitors. When Braintree was incorporated in 1640, the territory now known as Quincy, was a part. In 1792 Quincy became an independent town, and in 1888 was incorporated as a city.

Quincy was named in honor of Col John Quincy, descendant in the third generation from Edmund, 2d, who settled in Quincy, in 1634; grand-father of Abigail (Smith) Adams, the wife and mother of a President of the United States.

The city includes Wollaston, Atlantic, Quincy Point, South Quincy, West Quincy, Montclair, Norfolk Downs, Wollaston Park, Squantum, Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, Germantown and Quincy Neck, comprising in all over 16 square miles, of which 2,530 acres are in public parks.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

EARLY SPINACH.

As soon as spinach comes into the market the housewife should have it on her table, for it is not only an appetizing food, but one of the best spring medicines. If you cannot get spinach substitute for it some of the other spring greens that may be cooked in the same way.

To prepare spinach the simple method of boiling it and sending it to the table with slices of hard boiled egg is one of the most popular.

A Wholesome Salad.

Spinach Salad.—Take half a peck of fresh spinach, wash it thoroughly in several waters, put in steamer and steam for fifteen minutes, turn into a colander and drain. Chop fine, season with salt, pepper and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Mix well and press into small molds or cups. When cold place each form on a lettuce leaf and put a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing on top.

Spinach In Blankets.—Boil spinach and when tender drain, chop fine and put in skillet in which minced onion has been browned in a teaspoonful of butter. Set on back of stove to simmer.

Now make an ordinary noodle dough with one egg well beaten and work in as much flour as you can. Roll thin and when partially dry cut in five inch squares. Fill with a heaping tablespoonful or more of spinach and press the edges together and drop into soup stock. Cook until they rise to the top. Take out with a strainer dipper.

Brown a tablespoonful of butter in a skillet, add a few brown breadcrumbs and pour over the dumplings.

Spinach With Sauce.

Spinach and Eggs.—Take a quarter peck of spinach, three eggs, two teaspoonfuls of salt, an eighth of a teaspoonful of white pepper, a tablespoonful each of lemon juice, butter and flour.

Wash and clean the spinach and then wash through several waters. Put into boiler with one-half cupful boiling water, cover and bring to boiling point very quickly, add one teaspoonful salt, remove the cover and boil ten minutes, turning quite often. Drain (save the water for the sauce) and chop. Put on platter, spread it about two inches thick, make six hollows in the top of the spinach large enough to receive an egg. Break the egg in small dish and put into the hollow of the spinach. Dust the top with salt and pepper. Place in the oven until eggs are firm.

Serve with the following sauce: Put the butter into saucepan. When melted add the flour, mix until smooth; then add the water which has been drained from the spinach. If there is not a cupful add enough water to make a cupful. Stir until smooth, add one teaspoonful salt, pepper, lemon juice and boil three minutes and pour over the eggs and spinach.

GREAT INTEREST IN BALL GAME

Cranch and Willards Play Again Today for Championship

"To be or not to be the champions"—that is the question agitating the Cranch school baseball team which lays the Willard at Ward Three, today in the sceond game of the world's series. Monday they took the Willards into camp in the last inning. Today they will secure the title if they win. If the Willards are the victors another game will be played. The interest in todays game is intense, parents anl children making it the sole topic of conversation. A hero's niche in the hall of local fame is awaiting the boy who is responsible for the victory.

RECORD BROKEN

AT GEAR WORKS.

About 15 entered the running high jump at the Boston Gear Works on Tuesday. Burns, a stranger, carried off first place. The bar was set at 4 ft. 6 in. and he cleared the bar and the 5 ft. standards just as the whistle blew. The heights were: J. Burns 4 ft. 6 in.; P. Martin, 4 ft. 4 in.; and J. Smith, 4 ft. 1 and 1-2 in.

POLICE GAME.

The base ball team of the Quincy Police Department had no game Tuesday. Next Tuesday they will play the toughest game in the schedule with the Lowell officers. Many of the visitors are former New England league players and know the game from A to Z. The result however is in doubt since the Quincy boys are very apt to tighten up and present ball of league calibre.

KINGSBURY ENTERED.

Captain Fred Morrison Kingsbury of the Quincy High school track team has entered in the half mile at the Harvard Interscholastic at the Harvard Stadium on Saturday, June 7. Last year Captain Kingsbury came in fifth with only six months experience at running. This year he hopes to win it, with added knowledge of a year's running.

A SPRING SONG.

"What are ye dain', ma bonny wee birds, Amang the hedges bidin'?"
"Biggin' a bower, biggin' a bower, Biggin' a bower tae bide in!"

"But April wi' its wind an' weet
May blatter doun an' harm it."
"We'll licht a fire, a fire, a fire—
The fire o' luve tae warm it!"

"An' whan ye've theekit yer bit hoose
What wull ye pit intill it?"
"A peck o' bairns, a peck o' bairns.
A peck o' bairns tae fill it!"

—Tamar Faed.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

LARGE INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

Board of Trade Adds 51 and Now Has Total of 346 Enrolled

Considerable Business and a Talk on State Militia

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Board of Trade Wednesday evening, so much so that it was necessary to adjourn to the rooms of th Granite Manufacturers Association to find accommodations.

The first business was reports of committees. T. L. Williams for the electric sign committee reported that he had seen the Electric Light Co. who were preparing special rates for electric signs and that the Board of Trade would receive a special concession.

QUINCY EXHIBIT.

Andrew Milne reported he had held a conference with Mr. Campbell as to space in the coming industrial exposition and that he believed it advisable to secure a section of sixteen spaces at $50 each. That if the Board could not sell them all that Mr. Campbell could dispose of them. He had brought the matter to the attention of the Granite Manufacturers Association who has appointed a committee to consider it. After some discussion the report was referred to the directors with full powers.

FOURTH OF JULY FLOAT.

It was voted that a committee of five be appointed to act with the Fourth of July Celebration committee in regard to having a float in the parade.

It was voted to omit the July and August meetings of the Board unless the members should be called together by the board of directors.

TOUR OF THE CITY.

The president spoke of the automobile trip and dinner held by the Board last year and believed it would be a good thing this year. The directors will make arrangements.

GRANITE DELEGATES.

The matter of co-operation with the Granite Manufacturers in entertaining delegates to the National Retail Monumental dealers convention to be held in Boston in August was left to the Board of Directors.

MIDNIGHT TRAIN.

The removal of the midnight train was brought up by Mayor Stone and the President and Chairman Teasdale of the Transportation committee were appointed to join with the Mayor in his protest to the railroad to have the train put back.

MANY NEW MEMBERS.

The campaign committee for new members reported submitting the applications of 51 citizens for membership. The Secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for the names and they were declared elected. The new members elected were as follows:

Up to Wednesday night's meeting the membership of the Board was 296. The mark set for meeting of that evening was 350 but it fell a little short although the total membership at the close of the meeting was 347.

TALK ON MILITIA.

Gen. E. LeRoy Sweetser, of the Adjutant Generals office, was then introduced as the speaker of the evening. His address was on the State militia and is one of the series of talks arranged by the adjutant general to give the state militia more publicity.

Gen. Sweetser spoke for three quarters of an hour in a very entertaining manner. He said the National Guard or state militia was something that the business men had a right to know about, for the more efficient it is the more the business men are benefited. There was no reason why the average citizens should not take an interest in the militia.

The state and United States are spending nearly a million dollars a year in the state militia that the militia may be of some use when the time comes to depend on it. Everybody realizes the need of it and it seems to us in the militia that there should be more interest taken in it by the business men because today the state militia is on a business basis. What we want is a militia made up of men who are more or less experts in that branch. We want men physically and morally fit so that if it is called upon it will be efficient.

He claimed that much of the loss of life in the recent war with Spain was from a cause which we should have known how to take care of but which we did not, that is disease and sickness. We want men in our militia who know how to handle a gun, and to shoot so that if occasion demands we may not be found wanting. He spoke of the Civil war as being one where one side knew as little about warfare at the beginning as the other.

With the Spanish war we woke up and found that we had been wasting our time. The Federal officers realized this must be changed, so that now we are getting down to business and the militia is being put on a business basis. The former alurements have been taken away which is the reason that we find it hard to get recruits. For that reason we want to get the business men interested. It gives a young man a good training although it means sacrifice and much hard work, but at the end of three years we turn the young man out with a good training and he is better physically and morally than before he entered the three years service. And if the call for war should come, which we do not desire or think, we will have men who know something about the war game to call upon.

Gen. Sweetser also spoke of the work of the state militia in the time of trouble, mentioning by way of illustration the great Chelsea fire and the strike at Lawrence. He also spoke of Col. Kincaide as being one of the best known military men in the state and of Dr. F. E. Jones of the medical staff, and of Representative Leslie who was formerly in the militia.

Capt. Harry G. Chase of the Signal Corps was also introduced and spoke at length along the same line as Gen. Sweetser, making an appeal for the encouragement of the young men to enlist in the state militia for the three years.

After the addresses the speakers were givn a rising vote of thanks, and they left to take the 10 o'clock train.

OTHER BUSINESS.

The regular business was then taken up and a letter was read relative to the endorsement of the one cent letter postage. As the Board had already taken action on this matter no further action was taken.

A vote of thanks was extended to Joseph A. Sedgwick and his membership committee for their great work in the campaign for members.

It was voted that the initiation fee be remitted until the October meeting.

The transportation committee were

ACCIDENT STOPS BIG SCHOOL GAME

Harry Galvin, Third Baseman of Cranch School, Had His Leg Broken

Game Forfeited to Willard and Rubber Necessary

The first accident that ever marred grammar school base ball in the four years the game has been organized here occurred at the Ward Three playground Wednesady afternoon when Harry Galvin, the third base man of the Cranch team sustained two bones broken at the left ankle.

It was the second of the world's series games between the Cranch and Willard, leaders of the American and National league respectively. Cranch won the first game Monday, and Principal Townsend, feeling that the accident would interfere with the playing of his boys forfeited Wednesday's game to Willard.

Egan who had reached second on a pretty double started for third when Lundquist pegged to Galvin. Egan, slid feet first and struck against Galvin's leg which was braced against the bag. For an instant no one knew what had happened. Galvin was rolling on the grounds as though in pain and the spectators ran over to him.

Dr. John H. Ash and Dr. J. Gardner Smith, physical director, immediately made an examination. They ordered the boy removed to the Quincy City Hospital where he is resting comfortably. To ensure as much comfort as possible Dr. Ash set improvised splints during the time all were waiting for the police ambulance.

Fully 500 were on hand to see the contest. Along the lines pupils and parents were eagerly watching the last to the third innings. Egan had scored Marini on his drive.

The sentiment generally expressed by the pupils of both schools favoring the suspension of the game, but many remarked that the Willards should be sporty enough not to accept a game which was awarded under such circumstances.

In the first inning Wallace, Callahan, Marini, Egan and Reinhalter hit and scored for Willard. The second was free from scores.

In the third Marini again scored for Willard and only one man was out when the game was forfeited.

Arbuckle, of Cranch, although knowing that the game was getting away from him pluckily stuck to his place on the mound and displayed judgment of a veteran pitcher. The fielding was becoming ragged but he never changed his natural delivery or hurried in any way.

Egan of Willard secured two strikeouts in two innings, Barry three putouts, at first and two Cranch men died at third when Marini handled well thrown balls. Arbuckle had allowed five hits, one a double, when the accident occured.

Harry Galvin is the son of John Galvin of 163 Whitwell street and lives within the shadow of the hospital.

THE RIGHT TO RETRACT.

The Roosevelt-Newett case has been of great interest to the newspaper world, from the fact that in the past many publishers have been subjected to injustice through the libel law. Of recent years, the privilege of free speech seems better established.

The Roosevelt-Newett case differed from the ordinary libel case in this: Col. Roosevelt cared nothing for the money end of the game, his purpose being solely personal vindication. The majority of libel suits are money making schemes, although commonly the plaintiff merely incurs lawyers fees for both parties.

A just libel law gives the publisher ample chance for retraction, on account of the hurry under which newspaper work is done. Searching investigation is not always possible where the public incessantly demands the very latest information.

The ordinary newspaper libel is not a thing of cold blood and malice aforethought. Rather it is the slip of a hurried man, whose mind is too full of detail to note that he has left a loose end. The law should give him the same privilege of making amends for honest error that Col. Roosevelt could well afford to give Editor Newett.

It may be objected that newspapers will be reckless about making false statements, provided they can be relieved from the heavier penalties by confessing their mistake. That is not at all the case, because it is a humiliating thing for a newspaper man to admit an error.

The one thing the editor prides himself on is truth. It is no slight thing for him to print prominently an admission that even by accident he printed an untruth. He feels that it hurts him and hurts his paper. If it has the same prominence that was given the original publication, it usually vindicates fully the victim of the publication, and it fully penalizes the libeler.

If any country anywhere is strutting around with a chip on its shoulder it is engaged in a dangerous business as somebody might mix his metaphors and knock its block off by mistake.

Secretary McAdoo has just issued a "ladies number" of the Treasury Department Weekly, dealing with "Drawbacks on articles for feminine use." Strange to say he didn't have any complexion hints.

The High school boys on graduation day may suffer from thier inconspicuousness, but they can see a little how they will feel later on becoming bridegrooms.

It's about time for careful housekeepers to find some place for the bichlorid of mercury tablets other then the spice closet.

Mrs. Pankhurst is again arrested, but she will have little difficulty in getting up the usual stomach ache necessary for her release.

Now that Pugilist Jack Johnson's money is all gone, he seems to be confronted with the awful alternative of death or work.

Cabinet members' wives will not call on wives of House of Representative members any longer. There is little need for the latter to order any more party clothes when they go to Washington nowadays.

Although it will be awfully hot out in the sun next July, many people have so little foresight that they have gone ahead and planted their gardens.

There is no reason why the lawyers in the suit to dissolve the United States Steel Company should worry lest they work themselves out of a job.

There is a general feeling that it is all right to throw away litter in public parks, because plenty of people can always be hired to pick it up.

LARGE INCREASE

also instructed when they held a conference with railroad to see what could be done about having the tracks oiled in front of stations, so that clouds of dust would not be raised by express trains.

PARKWAY AND WATERFRONT.

At this point Peter T. Fallon spoke at length about the seeming lack of interest. He said that an appropriation had been made of $100,000 for the boulevard but nothing had been done and he had been informed by a member of the commission that the appropriation was to be expended for the purchase of land. He also said that while the speakers at the meeting were good he thought that more time should be given to transacting business of interest to the city, and which would benefit the city rather than spending the time listening to speeches. He also spoke at length on the public dock question claiming that this most important question was being entirely neglected. It was for the business interest of Quincy that there should be a public dock. If Brockton had our water front it would not sell it for a million dollars yet we allowed the Johnson wharf to be sold for a less sum than offered to the city last year.

Secretary Hall said that the appropriation for parks was to be expended over a period of five years. That the policy of the Park Commission was to secure what land as was needed first as values were constantly going up.

W. H. Teasdale thought the Park Commissioners should be watched or Quincy would not get what was intended for her.

Mr. Pinel spoke at length about Quincy's being able to get some of the nine millions appropriated for the Port of Boston. While we had been told that none of that could be expended in Quincy, Mr. McNary in his address before the Board told us that we should go to the Port of Boston with a plan and it might be possible to get something. He believed that the proper way was to get after this. If we do not keep after these people we will never get anything. Mr. McNary let out that the Port of Boston directors could expend money in Quincy. It was up to us to get busy and try and get something.

Secretary Hall threw cold water on the proposition by saying that a similar action had already been taken by the Board and that the Port of Boston directors had turned them down, and said that it could not expend any money in Quincy. There was however $25,000 of State money which Quincy could have when it built a public dock.

Andrew Milne, Jr., thought it time we got together in Quincy on the public dock question. It was not a selfish scheme but one that would benefit the whole city.

W. E. Robinson spoke at length on the question and said that it was time that the Board of Trade woke up to the possibilities of Quincy and got busy. If there was anything to be had we should go after it. He moved that the Committee on Water Front take up the matter with the Port of Boston directors and see if we could not get something for Quincy out of that nine million dollars appropriated.

Secretary Hall insisted that none of that nine million could be expended in Quincy under the act, but the motion prevailed and the meeting adjourned at 11.15.

SIMS—FEELEY.

Miss Alice Gertrude Feeley of Main street and Arthur Watson Sims, a well known Quincy resident, were married Wednesday evening by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan of St. John's church Miss Lucy Feeley, a sister, was bridesmaid and John Feeley, a brother, was best man.

The bride was dressed in blue charmeuse, wore a picture hat and carried bride roses. Her attendant wore champagne crepe meteor, with a hat to match and carried carnations.

A reception followed at the home of the bride which was attended by guests from Braintree, Brockton, Medfield and Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Sims were the recipients of many handsome and useful wedding presents.

The bride is a graduate of the Quincy High school class of 1902. She is popular in Quincy Point. Mr. Sims is in the employ of the Old Colony Gas Co., at Weymouth.

After a wedding trip of 10 days they will return to Quincy, but will shortly move to Weymouth where they will reside permanently.

UNIVERSITY DEGREES.

Among those receiving degrees this week at Boston University were: Bachelors of Art—Ruth Bartlett of Wollaston, Bessie L. Goddard of Newport, R. I. and Quincy, Alice M. Gorman and Bessie M. Tirrell of South Braintree, Mabel D. Taylor of Weymouth. Bachelors of Laws—Edward Avery of East Braintree and Frederick M. Smith of Quincy.

CHILDREN HEALTHIER THAN FORMERLY.

Mothers are growing more sensible; hence the statement. "Children are more healthy now than formerly." This is undoubtedly due to the fact that the inestimable value of fresh air is being realized more and more. No mother possessing the "scrap of common sense" would think of allowing her small children to sleep in a room where all the windows are tightly closed. This was a common occurrence not so many years ago.

Many mothers place their babies in a perambulator and allow them to lie out in the garden or on the veranda nearly all day. The modern mother considers the child's health and beams with pride when she notices the ruddy cheeks and sturdy brown legs. Not every child, however, is constituted strongly enough to stand this vigorous life, and a physician should be consulted on the subject before exposing the baby to outdoor life.

Open windows in the bedchamber do no good if the child sleeps with its head beneath the bedclothes. It constantly breathes the same air, which acts as a poison to the system of a delicate child. Train the child to keep the bedclothes away from its face, and if this proves impossible a sleeping sack must be resorted to.

BOTHERSOME LEAKS.

There are many motorists having difficulty in keeping their cars or garages clean, owing to the fact that oil and grease seem to leak continually from the gear box and rear axle casings. Where oil is used the unwise agent often suggests the use of a hard grease, which in a comparatively short time may be worked up into the recesses of the case, where it does no good whatever, says the Motor Age.

There are many gear sets, of course, which are so designed that grease can be used most advantageously, but where the manufacturer recommends the use of a fluid oil it should be used. The greater amount of the oil leaking trouble experienced by motorists is due to the use of too much oil in the transmission gear box and rear axle casing. In a gear box in which a fluid oil is used the amount of lubricant maintained therein should reach no higher than the lower portion of the lowermost gear shaft. This pertains to gear sets in which the shafts are in either a horizontal or vertical plane.

In a gear box having both the gear shafts in the same horizontal plane both the shafts will be partly submerged in oil, and, though only the lower shaft of a gear set having the shafts in the same vertical plane will be partly submerged in the lubricant, this shaft and its gears when in motion will throw plenty of oil on to the outer working mechanisms in the case. If too much oil is used it only tends to work out through the bearings, causing a waste of oil and dirtying the streets or garage floor wherever the car may stand.

The same applies to the lubrication of the rear axle, the only difference being that the oil which escapes not only tends to render the brakes ineffective, but often the oil is thrown out on to the wheels, tires and car body, giving them a very dirty appearance, damaging the latter two and making considerable work for the unfortunate car washer. Should a reduction of the amount of oil used prove ineffective have new felt washers fitted to the axle ends.

How to Direct Letters.

Many persons have a careless habit of directing local letters to city, instead of giving the name in full. I was cured of this by an experience I had recently. Being unexpectedly called out of town on an urgent call, I hastily wrote some half dozen notes breaking my engagements, and as they were all to go in my home town, directed them all city, instead of Albany. I very nearly missed my train, and, after just making it, found I had forgotten to mail my letters. As soon as I reached my destination I mailed my letters, forgetting all about the manner in which they were addressed, and, of course, they failed to reach their destination.

How to Economize.

Household economy does not consist wholly in careful buying. Good care is a supplement to good buying. Grape fruit and oranges, if cut in half and not used at once, should be turned cut side down on a plate to prevent drying out. Crackers and cereals should be kept in tin, glass or earthenware. The piece of left over pie dough will retain moisture if stored in the flour bin.

How to Freshen Curtains.

Take several newspapers and paste the edges together; then stretch the curtains to be cleaned upon them, putting a good amount of flour between each curtain, roll up in a tight bundle, tie and lay away for a week or so; then shake out well and hang on the line while you dust out all flour with a clean whisk broom.

Economical Oven.

A portable oven to be used on the top of the gas stove can often be used in place of the large oven which consumes so much more gas than is necessary for a few tea biscuits and other small baking.

MILL WORKERS QUIT I. W. W.

Organization Is Thrown Overboard by Ipswich Strikers

VOTE TO RETURN TO WORK

Organizer Fights In Vain to Head Off Rising Tide of Disgust—Hosiery Mill Owners Had Given Flat Refusal to Demands—Break In Strikers' Ranks Is Complete

Ipswich, Mass., June 5.—The strike at the Ipswich hosiery mills, which was inagurated six weeks ago yesterday, is over. Not only has the I. W. W. been beaten in its fight to control the labor situation here, but the 850 mill operatives who belonged to it repudiated the organization.

All of the strikers went back to work. Their action signalized the worst defeat that the I. W. W. has suffered since it has been active in labor disputes.

The strike was called off at a mass meeting of 700 Polish workmen. It was voted almost unanimously by the strikers not only to go back to work, but to disband the I. W. W. organization in this town and have nothing more to do with it or its leaders.

One hundred and fifty Greek operatives who have been out on strike met and took the same action.

As soon as the vote was taken, the meeting was hurriedly adjourned and the 850 Polish and Greek workmen marched back to their posts in the mill.

C. L. Pingree, the I. W. W. organizer and leader of the strike, fought desperately to head off the rising tide of disgust and ill feeling among the strikers towards the organization, but his efforts were in vain. His pleas for the workmen to continue the fight under the I. W. W. banners were hooted down.

When the strike was called six weeks ago by the I. W. W., the mills were closed down. Twelve hundred people were thrown out of employment. Eight hundred and fifty of them belonged to the I. W. W. and that organization claimed to control the situation. All of the workers enrolled in the I. W. W. comprised Poles and Greeks.

Demand was made by the I. W. W. for wage increases varying from 20 to 45 percent. The mill management gave a flat refusal to the demands. The reply of the management was that it was unable to grant any wage increase, owing to business conditions brought about by the tariff agitation.

About a week ago the mill people began importing English speaking operatives into this town. The steady influx of English workingmen worried the strikers, and the first break in their ranks came with the decision of the Greeks to abandon the strike, acknowledge defeat, throw the I. W. W. overboard and return to work. The Poles fell into line and the I. W. W. in this town is a thing of the past.

NEW BRAND OF TOBACCO

"Real Havana" Cigars May Be Produced In New England States

Boston, June 5.—Havana cigars, direct from Massachusetts and Connecticut, will be the next number on the program if the tobacco growers of those two state accept the discoveries of Professor E. M. East of Harvard, who is conducting experiments at the Bussey institution at Jamaica Plain.

Professor East has produced a hybrid-tobacco from a cross between the Sumatra and the Havana varieties of tobaccos, which resulted in a better quality of smoking material and a yield of 50 percent more. The new tobacco plant is suitable for the sunny tobacco districts of Massachusetts and Connecticut, he says.

BRYAN RECEIVES REPLY OF JAPAN

Text of Rejoinder on Alien Land Law Row Kept From Public

Washington, June 5.—Japan's rejoinder to the United States' reply to her protest against the California anti-alien land law, delivered personally by Ambassador Chinda to Secretary Bryan late yesterday, sets out why the Tokio government continues to regard the Webb law as discriminatory against Japanese, in derogation of the equalities of treatment prescribed by international law, and a violation of the treaty of 1911.

Nothing in the nature of an ultimatum is contained in the note. Its general tone is to invite further discussion of the controverted points, and it contains nothing tending to make up a final issue. Secretary Bryan and the ambassador agreed that no details should be made public.

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

High School — Public Schools
Woodward Institute — Parochial School

An unusually large number of visitors from out of town, superintendents, principals and others have been visiting Quincy schools recently, many of them in search of teachers. While it is probably that a few teachers will accept positions elsewhere, by far the larger number who have been approached have declined to accept.

The committee on transportation of the School Committee is endeavoring to persuade the Bay State Street Railway Co. to put on a special noon car to accommodate the Squantum children attending the Quincy school who desire to go home at the noon hour for dinner. The request seems most reasonable and it is hoped will be granted.

QUINCY SCHOOL HALL.

The hall in the Quincy school building which was used publicly for the first time last week proved admirably adapted for its purpose. The acoustic properties so far as may be judged from limited use are very satisfactory. The hall will probably be tested to its full capacity on the date of the grammar school graduation to which the parents in that district are looking forward with much pleasure.

FUEL A BIG ITEM.

The schools will require a considerably larger amount of fuel next year than has been used the past year, owing to the opening of the new Adams school. The use of the old building will be continued so that there will be no saving from that source. Bids for coal have been called for and will be opened by the sub-committee having the matter in charge at a meeting held next Monday evening. The School Committee now contracts for a year's supply at a time, and secures prices which are graduated according to the amount of ash, sulphur, moisture and heat value of the coal and is guided in its award of the contract and basis of payment by the opinion of experts employed for that purpose. As the coal is also weighed under the supervision of an agent of the School Committee the city's interests are safe guarded.

HIGH SCHOOL.

Thus far almost 990 pupils have signified their intention of studying in the Quincy High school next year. One, if not two additional teachers will be necessary to take care of the large increase in numbers.

Miss Kennedy who has done most excellent work in the school system first as supervisor of nature study and later as teacher of natural science in the High school has just been appointed to a most desirable position in the Newton schools for next year.

SCHOOL ATHLETICS.

The accident which took place at the Cranch-Willard ball game Wednesday was the first that has happened in the course of any of the grammar school sports in the last three years, and was an unavoidable one. All the inter-school sports have been carried on with the utmost regard for good sportsmanship with the elimination promptly of anything that would lead to rough play or rowdyism.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL.

A stereopticon bird lecture will be given by Mr. Horace Taylor of Brookline in the assembly hall next Monday evening, June 9, at eight o'clock. Tickets are on sale by the children of the school. Admission fifteen cents. The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the Parent-Teachers' Association and the base ball teams.

The "Working Bureau" for boys and girls in the school is well started. Some forty pupils have applied for work after school and on Saturdays. A number of boys have already been given work, mowing lawns, cleaning rugs, etc. If you are in need of a boy or girl telephone the school.

The graduation of the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields schools will take place in the assembly hall, Friday evening, June 20, at 7.30 o'clock. By the new plan each graduate will receive four tickets.

MASSACHUSETTS FIELDS.

A lawn party will be held on the play ground next Wednesday evening from seven to nine o'clock to raise money to defray the expenses of the base ball team. Candy, cake and ice-cream will be for sale.

The class of "1910" has just presented the sum of twenty dollars to the school to be used to purchase a class picture for grade VIII room.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL.

Preparations are being made for the first graduation of the Parochial school. A simple but impressive program is being arranged by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor of St. John's church who built the school. The exercises will take place in connection with the triple jubilee of the parish which commences June 15 with a solemn high mass. On Saturday about 150 pupils of the school will be confirmed in St. John's church. The necessaary instructions have been given in the school. Bishop Anderson will officiate at the service.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

In spite of the conferences, agitations, negotiations, etc., for peace and the numerous current books on international arbitration, the Near East's disturbances call for a few more books on War, and the Library calls attention to two recent books, one on the Balkan war and the other on the Italian-Turkish war.

The former, entitled The Balkan War, contains two narratives. One was written by Mr. Gibbs, special correspondent of the London "Graphic;" who was with the Bulgarian army; the other, by Mr. Grant, special correspondent of the London "Daily Mirror," who was with the defeated Turks Owing to the strict rules of the press neither correspondent was allowed to see actual fighting but their description is "the human side of the war." Mr. Gibbs tells of the preparation for the war; Mr. Grant describes the retreat of the beaten army.

The book is splendidly illustrated with photographs and also contains a map of the theatre of the war in the Balkan states and Turkey.

The other book, entitled The History of the Italian-Turkish War was written by Commodore W. H. Beehler of the United States Navy. This book is compiled from semi-official reports of the naval ministries of eGrmany, Italy, and Austria and other reliable resources. The writer has served as naval attache to the U. S. embassies in Berlin, Rome and Vienna.

The Library has just published a list on gardens and gardening. This list includes books on school gardens, landscape gardening, the garden in literature and periodical articles, as well as books on vegetable and flower gardens. These lists may be had at the main library and at the branches. In the main library, they are placed under the bulletin board near the entrance, for distribution.

The revised timetable of the N. Y., N. H. & H. H. R. R. appears in todays paper.

QUINCY POINT PARSONAGE

Plan Ready to Submit and Funds Are Pledged

The board of managers of the Washington Street Congregational church will present to the pairsh on Friday evening a plan for securing a parsonage which they say is startling in its simplicity and based on sound financial principles.

They claim for it the following advantages: That it will induce members of the parish to save. That it will give a motive. That it will furnish security triply backed. That it will teach self help and thereby independence. That it will strengthen interest in the church. That it will provide funds which will be used to encourage working people to build homes. That it will educate people as to the value of Co-operative banks. That the rent will carry all expenses month by month. That there will be reasonable profit on the whole undertaking.

The necessary funds have already been pledged and the board has an equity valued at $5,400 which can be secured for $3,500.

QUINCY MAN MAKING GOOD

Appointed As Superintendent of Streets at Milton

Ivers M. Lowe, formerly of Quincy and for the past few years superintendent of streets for the town of Weymouth has been elected as superintendent of streets by the Selectmen of Milton to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Edward M. McCue, the former superintendent of streets, to the office of chief engineer of the Fire department.

The appointment of Mr. Lowe comes after several weeks of deliberation during which it is understood that there were many candidates seeking the plum.

Mr. Lowe is well known in Quincy where he was born and received his education. He is a son of H. H. Lowe and a brother of one of Quincy's school teachers. He was for many years in the employ of the city, being connected with the City Engineers department.

Some years ago the town of Weymouth, whose streets had heretofore been looked after by the board of selectmen, decided to employ a superintendent of streets and Mr. Lowe was selected for the position. He resigned his position in Quincy and went to Weymouth where he has since been employed. He took hold of the management of the streets in a systematic manner, and as the saying goes immediately made good, and has been reappointed every year since that time.

Quincy friends of Mr. Lowe extend their congratulations on his election of the new position which doubtless carries an increase of salary. He is a member of Rural lodge of Masons, St. Stephen's chapter and South Shore commandery.

WIRELESS FOR WHOLE NATION

Necessity For System Often Demonstrated.

PLANS BEING CONSIDERED.

Several Officials, Among Them the Chief Signal Officer of the Army, See Advantages to Be Derived From High Power, Long Distance Radio Telegraph Service Covering Country.

It is now practically certain that the federal government will install a network of high power wireless aerogram station covering the whole United States, says the Chicago Tribune.

Necessity for wireless service in cases where telegraph communication is impossible was demonstrated four years ago on the day of President Taft's inauguration and emphasized strongly more recently by the cutting off of the Ohio flooded districts from communication with the outside world.

The Omaha cyclone, which put the telegraph lines out of business, also demonstrated the need of wireless stations for just such emergencies.

It was therefore suggested that the government take steps to cover the entire United States with adequate wireless service. Besides its value for government service, such a system would be of untold usefulness in affording information and hastening the sending of relief supplies to the scene of any great disaster.

This suggestion has met with general approval from government officials and members of congress.

The chief signal officer of the army is at present discussing a scheme for providing large radio telegraphic stations in the interior of the country for the purpose of maintaining transcontinental communication.

Use In Emergencies.

It is proposed that these stations be erected by and be placed under the control of the war department. These stations are to be used mainly for governmental business, but of course it could be provided that they could handle urgent commercial business in times of general breakdown of wire telegraphic systems.

In discussing this project Major Edgar Russell of the signal corps said:

"It is probable that two stations, one of which could be somewhere east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio, the other to be in the Rocky mountain region, would insure radio telegraphic communication under practically all conditions if they were given sufficient power and were solidly constructed. Such stations, including the land, buildings and necessary machinery, have been estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $300,000 each.

"In addition to these two large stations a number of smaller stations could be provided for maintaining local communication, and on account of the shorter distances to be covered between these local stations and the large stations mentioned they could be considerably smaller and much less expensive. While it is a little premature to state the exact cost of each of these, it would probably amount to $100,000 each. If such stations were put up at various important centers the cost of these and the large stations would reach something near $2,000,000.

"The advance in the art of radio telegraphy is such that communication could be maintained between these stations with great certainty, and they no doubt would serve a valuable purpose in case of general interruption of wire telegraph systems, as has occurred in great storms and floods in recent years."

Chain Across Continent.

Major C. McK. Saltzman of the signal corps also expressed his hearty approval of an extension of wireless service to cover the whole nation.

"The recent disasters in the middle west," he said, "have brought to the notice of all telegraph people the necessity for a chain of radio stations in the interior of the country which could be depended upon in time of disaster to insure communication.

"My idea is that a central system of stations should consist of Washington, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City and San Francisco. There are two northern stations, St. Paul and Helena, and three southern stations, New Orleans, San Antonio and Phoenix.

"The signal corps of the United States army maintains and operates government radio stations in the interior of the United States. The navy operates the stations along the seacoast.

"The signal corps has developed a chain of big stations in the interior of Alaska for the purpose of insuring communication across Alaska when forest fires and snowslides put the telegraph lines out of business.

"Based on my knowledge of the Alaskan system, I should say the Tribune project is an excellent one. I believe if the matter were properly set forth congress would be glad to appropriate money for building such a chain of high power stations

"If such a system of stations were built by the government it would be a great incentive to the national guard, to amateurs, newspapers and commercial concerns to build smaller stations to communicate with the higher power stations of the government."

GOLDEN CROSS.

Dorothy Quincy commandery, United Order of Golden Cross, held a regular meeting in Electa Hall, Wednesday evening which was followed by whist and dancing. Five applications were received and one candidate was initiated.

The winners of souvenirs were Miss Mabel Wentworth and Frank Rerman. Music for dancing was furnished by Miss Frances Murray. Refreshments were served.

The commandery is preparing to weclome the grand officers at the next meeting. H. W. Berry, deputy grand commander, is about ready to institute a commandery consisting of Swedish people in the city.

COL. KINCAIDE AT VALPARAISO

Letters received from Col. Henry L. Kincaide, who is with the Boston Chamber of Commerce, South American Tour party, tell of the ocean trip from the Isthmus of Panama to Callao, Peru. They found the Pacific ocean very calm and none of the party suffered from sea sickness. The heat was intense, but as they left the equator, conditions became better and it was less of an exertion to move about.

La Paz, Bolivia, is their next objective point, although there will be several stops between Callao and that place.

The party will visit the famous Lake Titicaca and the islands of the Sun and the Moon and enjoy the beautiful mountain scenery.

The first official banquet was held at Lima, Peru. At the table with Colonel Kincaide on ship board were Professor Ford of Harvard University and Prof. Rappard, also of Harvard Prof. Ford is professor of Spanish and French languages, and Prof. Rappard is assistant professor of economics and head of the post graduate school of commerce.

The party is now in Valpariso, Chile, if all connections were made and they will leave the ocean and travel across the continent to Mendoza, Argentine Republic. They should arrive in Buenos Aires, June 11. We are stretching hands across the sea. We have with us so many Argentine Republic people and now our representatives are almost at their home land.

From Buenos Aires to Montevideo, Uruguay, will be the next move; and the party will then board the steamship Arquaya, on June 20, and be once more upon the Atlantic ocean. The weather in Argentine Republic will probably be delightful. It is expected that it will be similar to our October weather. On the return trip stops will be made at Santos Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. After leaving Bahia, Brazil. stops will be made at Port of Spain the principal city of the Island of Trinidad and Bridgetown, Barbadoes. The party is expected to arrive in Boston, July 23.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT SHIPYARD

Harry F. Davis Caught Between Two Cars

Harry F. Davis, 39 years of age, died at the Quincy City Hospital late Wednesday night from injuries sustained at the Fore River yard earlier in the evening. Davis was employed as a brakeman on the yard freight and was shunting cars when he was caught between them, receiving a fractured pelvis bone. He was treated by Dr. W. H. Blanchard who ordered his removal to the Quincy City hospital in the police ambulance. He lived only a few hours after he was admitted. Davis was married and leaves a wife and four small children. He has been in the employ of the company for some time.

CLOSET FIRE AT ATLANTIC

Driver Gerry Handles It Without Assistance

Driver Gerry of the Atlantic auto combination made a good stop this morning when he was called out on a still alarm about 9 o'clock for a brisk fire in the closet of a house at 125 Atlantic street occupied by F. L. Littlefield. A little boy slept in the room and it is supposed that he accidentally started the fire in the closet. He then closed the door and running to where his mother was informed her that the closet was full of dust. Investigation showed that a good fire was in progress.

The Atlantic fire station was notified by telephone, and Driver Gerry who was all alone, the other men having gone to breakfast, made a quick run to the house and single handed put out the fire with a chemical stream There was quite a lot of clothing in the closet which was destroyed entailing a loss of possibly $25.

SEVERELY BURNED.

Although severely burned about the back, Joseph, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarkin of 230 Copeland street will live. The accident occurred Tuesday morning when the child toppled into a tub of scalding hot water which set on the kitchen floor. Dr. John H. Ash was called and said the burns were as severe as they could be without death resulting. The infant had toddled into the kitchen from the sitting room in an unknown manner scrambled over to the tub and up to its edge. A frantic scream of pain followed the slight splash made when its body struck the water.

ENVIOUS TIDDLEDYWINKS.

What! Another attack on the New Haven road? Will they never cease till all the roads of the system go back to the condition when we had to change cars every twenty miles or so. It seems to be a crime to do anything big these days. May be this is because so many little men are filling the public ear with their blather. A little man is noisy just in proportion to his littleness and he holds the stage at present. In fact, we have had a deluge of him in all departments of society, in late years.—Malden Evening Mail.

PROBLEMS GROWING OUT OF LONG WAR

Balkan and Turkish Delegates Discuss Them In Paris

Paris, June 5.—The international commission to settle the financial end of the Balkan war, after a week's delay, met here. The body, made up of representatives of the six powers, the Balkan states and Turkey, will settle the matter of an indemnity for the allies, the Turkish national debt and other money problems growing out of the long war.

The commission was to have met on May 27, but the meeting was postponed until after the signing of the treaty of London, which was approved last Monday.

Bulgarian Minister of Finance Theodoroff says the Balkan states will insist upon a war indemnity of $400,000,000, of which Bulgaria's share will be $200,000,000.

Commander Craven, director of target practice, reported that the performance of the older ships in the competition was particularly gratifying, as they were using older materials an mixed calibres, "thus reflecting great credit on the personnel of the older vessels."

FEDERALS SLIP AWAY QUIETLY

Leave Important Mexican Port of Entry In Rebels' Hands

AMMUNITION HAD GIVEN OUT

Remnants of Federal Garrison Make Last Stand Against Heavy Odds—Tremendous Advantage For Constitutionalists Fighting to Overthrow the Huerta Government

Brownsville, Tex., June 5.—Matamoras, an important border port of entry, fell into the hands of Mexican constitutionalists after a battle of several hours' duration. The town's federal defenders ran out of ammunition and they slipped away quietly, leaving the rebels in control.

The decimated garrison of regulars and volunteers had been in the trenches for nineteen hours without a moment's rest or eating, and had used the last cartridge in their fight to hold the city against General Blanco's men.

Colonel Eschasereta, with 100 volunteers, remnants of the federal garrison, made the last stand from the roofs of the cathedral and theatre in Hidala plaza.

The toll of death on both sides was heavy. Major Ramos, federal commander, was wounded early in the engagement. He was brought to a Brownsville hospital. His condition is reported as critical. Private Davis of the United States cavalry was wounded by a stray shot while patrolling the border on the American side of the Rio Grande.

Among the buildings set afire by rebel shells and destroyed were twelve dwelling houses on the Plaza de Aramas, including the home of Mayor Barragan.

It is estimated that Blanco's army numbered about 1800 men, while the federal garrison was composed of less than a third of that number. Several thousand spectators viewed the battle from the United States side of the Rio Grande, but were kept at what was regarded as a safe distance from the boundary by the soldiers of Troop M, Fourteenth cavalry, who patrolled the border for a distance of six miles.

Capture Is Very Important

Washington, June 5.—Army officers and diplomatists foresee in a rebel capture of Matamoras a tremendous advantage for the Carranza constitutionalists fighting to overthrow the Huerta government. Agents of Carranza in this country have been accumulating thousands of dollars' worth of munitions of war, awaiting the capture of a port of entry.

The neutrality laws of the United States have practically cut off the supplies from the constitutionalists. With Matamoras in their possession the rebels would have a gateway.

TO COMBAT BOYCOTT

Japanese Leaders Favor Big Showing at Panama-Pacific Exposition

Tokio, June 5.—Efforts are being made by prominent men such as Baron Shibusawa, chairman of the Tokio Bankers' association, and Buei Nakano, chairman of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, to quell the agitation which has been fomented by some merchants in favor of the boycotting of California, both in connection with the Panama-Pacific exposition and otherwise.

Nakano is leading an agitation for the sending of the finest exhibits from Japan to the exposition in order to show the true state of Japanese civilization. He also is arranging for the calling of a special meeting of Japanese chambers of commerce to combat the boycott.

The Japanese government has not yet defined its attitude in regard to the situation.

HAS TWO HAPPY HOURS

British Ambassador Gossips With Employes on Portland Wharves

Portland, Me., June 5.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador to the United States, wandered for two hours about the wharves of Portland, talking with railway clerks, customs officials and dock employes and making friends by his democratic manner. Many of those with whom he talked did not know his identity until afterwards.

He came here to meet his wife and two children, who arrived from Queenstown on the steamship Franconia. He accompanied them to Boston, thence to the summer embassy at Dublin, N. H.

Not to Fortify Against Canal

London, June 5.—The British government has no intention of building a naval station at Kingston, Jam., as a consequece of the completion of the Panama canal, according to an announcement made in the house of commons in reply to questions on the subject.

Proud of His Hair

Clearfield, Pa., June 5.—Harry L. Drew, convicted of larceny and bail jumping, was sentenced to have his luxurious crop of black hair cut short once a month for a year. He asked to be sent to jail.

ABOYEUR WINS DERBY

Favorite on Whom a Fortune Had Been Wagered Is Disqualified

Epsom, Eng., June 5.—By the disqualification of Craganour after he had finished ahead of a field of sixteen in the classic Derby this blue ribbon event of the British turf went to a 100 to 1 shot, Aboyeur. This horse, which was regarded as a rank outsider, is owned by A. P. Cunliffe. Louvois, owned by W. Raphael, got second place, and Great Sport was given third position.

Craganour was a hot favorite at 6 to 4 and a fortune had been wagered on him. The odds on Louvois were 10 to 1. Protest was lodged against Craganour for bumping. The stewards investigated and found Johnny Reiff, the American jockey who rode Craganour, guilty of blocking the field. Craganour is owned by C. B. Ismay.

A militant suffragette, Emily W. Davidson, attempted to break up the event. Just as the horses were rounding Tattenham corner she dashed from the side lines and seized the bridle of Anmer, a horse owned by King George.

Anmer crashed heavily to the ground, hurling the jockey over his head. The woman was thrown beneath the hoofs of the plunging animal and was trampled. She may not recover from her injuries.

ON GRAND JURY ORDER

Doctor Arrested After Investigation Into Death of Patient

Wareham, Mass., June 5.—Following an investigation into the death two months ago of Guy H. Craig, aged 25 years, Dr. J. A. Eldridge was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Hurley on a charge of manslaughter.

The arrest was made on a grand jury capias issued in Plymouth yesterday. Craig, who was a street railway employe, died suddenly, it is alleged, after receiving treatment from Eldridge. Owing to circumstances surrounding the case, which puzzled the authorities, an investigation was begun by Plymouth county officials.

SIX THOUSAND GUNS SEIZED IN ULSTER

Sent From Germany to Ireland by a Roundabout Route

Belfast, Ire., June 5.—The authorities believe they have checked an incipient revolt of Orangemen by the seizure of 6000 German rifles, consigned to Alexander Herdman of the Zion Mills, Strabane. The rifles were described as "electrical machinery."

Orange leaders have for some time past been threatening revolt on account of the Irish home rule movement.

Government agents have had knowledge of the movement of the rifles from the time the firearms arrived in England. They were sent to Belfast by a roundabout route by way of Birmingham and Manchester. It is said it was planned to distribute them throughout Ulster.

HURLS BABE TO SAFETY

Young Girl Sacrifices Own Life to Save That of Her Cousin

Medford, Mass., June 5.—Putting her baby cousin before herself, 17-year-old Annie Cullen sacrificed her one chance for life that she might make sure of saving the child entrusted to her care.

Caught in front of a train at the North Somerville crossing, she tossed the baby out of harm's way just as she was struck and mangled by the powerful engine.

Today the body of the little Irish girl, who came from the old country to the new but two weeks ago, lies in the home of her uncle, with whom she lived. Little Josephine Conry, the 2-year-old cousin whom she gave her life to save, awakened this morning from an ordinary sleep with a few scratches, and Medford residents are recounting the story of a girl who made the greatest sacrifice for the child of another.

DANFORTH'S BODY FOUND

Maine Wife Murderer Carried Out Threat to Commit Suicide

Belfast, Me., June 5.—All doubt as to whether Emery Danforth committed suicide by drowning in the Passawaukeag river on the night of March 20, after beating his wife to death in their chamber and drinking poison, was dispelled yesterday afternoon when his body was found in the harbor.

Danforth, a laborer, aged 35, told his children, after kissing them as he left the house, that he was going to jump into the river. Then he disappeared in the darkness and was not again seen alive.

Unions Will Fight Foss

Boston, June 5.—Governor Foss and the Sturtevant Blower company and Becker Milling Machine company are to be vigorously fought by the labor unions as a result of the governor's absolute refusal to arbitrate or to listen to the demands of his employes for better wages and working conditions.

ATTEAUX GIVES HIS TESTIMONY

WAS NOT IN PIRA TAXICAB

Says Pitman Told Him, Shortly Before He Killed Himself, That Breen Was Hounding Him to Death—Establishes Points Which Government Has Tried to Prove

Boston, June 5.—Fred E. Atteaux, the dye manufacturer, who is, with William M. Wood and Dennis J. Collins, on trial for conspiracy to plant dynamite in Lawrence, was on the stand in his own defense for nearly four hours yesterday. He denied without qualification that he had discussed placing dynamite in Lawrence with John J. Breen or ever paid him a cent for any services whatever.

Atteaux told of a conversation with Ernest W. Pitman a few days before he shot himself, in which Pitman said Breen was hounding him to death. According to Atteaux, Pitman declared:

"I've known Breen for years and I had no idea he was such a dog as this. He is a bad man. He's trying to get my heart's blood. I can't sleep with that leech on my neck. He's making my life a perfect hell."

During the cross examination, which surprised the spectators by its mildness after the merciless grilling which government witnesses had received from Atteaux's counsel, the witness stuck to his original story with hardly a verbal variation. His testimony, however, established several points which the government has tried hard to prove.

Atteaux testified, for instance, that Pitman was in Wood's office Jan. 19, the day the dynamite was placed in Lawrence. He also declared that he himself talked with Wood twice that same day over the telephone, the conversation, he said, relating to their proposed trip to North Andover for a conference of mill men.

The trip in a taxicab from 21 Fairfield street, Wood's home, to Washington and Franklin streets, on the night of the dynamite plant, of which Arthur Pira, the taxi driver, had told, and the meeting with Breen at which he passed the latter a roll of $500, as well as the subsequent payment of $200 in a special delivery letter, he denied categorically. He said that on the morning of Jan. 19 Breen and Pitman met in his office during his absence and then left together.

The payments made to him by Wood, by means of checks, which have been introduced as evidence earlier in the trial, he acknowledged, but claimed they were for legitimate services and expenses, and in part to pay a Syrian named Asa Korbee for similar services during the strike.

HUNGARIAN CABINET QUITS

Riot In Chamber of Deputies When Announcement Is Made

Budapest, June 5.—Scenes of great disorder occurred when Premier Von Lukacs announced the resignation of the Hungarian cabinet in the chamber of deputies.

Von Lukacs and Count Tisza, the speaker of the chamber, were greeted with insulting epithets. The speaker was utterly unable to keep order, the members banging the desks and shouting at one another incessantly. Tisza then ordered the sitting to be suspended and summoned the parliamentary police, who ejected some of the more disorderly deputies and persuaded others to depart from the house. The sitting was later formally adjourned.

The determination to resign was due to the acquittal of Deputy Desacs in a libel suit brought against him by the premier, whom Desacs accused of corruption.

When Judge Hardy decided against his petition the attorney intimated to the justice in the equity motion session that his client would apply for a receivership if an attempt is made to effect the transfer.

The injunction petition which was dismissed was brought by John J. Myers, a stock broker of New York.

INDIANS' MUSIC WILL BE SAVED

Agent Appointed to Record Their Tribal Songs.

WORK IS NOW UNDER WAY.

Government Has Been Working on Policy For Several Years—Composer O'Hara Will Live on Reservations and Get the Chants From Old Men and Squaws Who Know Them All.

The action of Secretary of the Interior Lane in appointing Goeffrey O'Hara, a composer, instructor of music under the bureau of Indian affairs means the policy of the government, inaugurated years ago to preserve the wonderful music of the American Indian, will be continued.

Already much has been done in this line. In fact, the first Indian music to be recorded and then played and sung by Indian students was a feature of the commencement week program of the Chilocco Indian school in northern Oklahoma in 1906.

At that time Professor Harold A. Loring was United States supervisor of Indian music, and it was under his direction that Indian music was first used at Chilocco and Carlisle in 1906.

Songs For Schools.

It will be Mr. O'Hara's duty, it is announced in connection with his appointment, to record native Indian music and arrange it for use in the Indian schools. He is to live on the reservations, and much of his work will necessarily be done, therefore, in Oklahoma, where there are so many Indian tribes now living.

In addition, too, there are the remnants of many tribes once populous and powerful living in Oklahoma—Delawares, Senecas, Wyandottes, Caddos, Waccos, Kaws, Shawnees, Modocs and various others.

The native music of these tribes is to be preserved, so far as possible, and, as a rule, it is absolutely necessary to get the music from the old men and squaws of the tribes. The younger generations do not know the music in a great many instances.

The use of native Indian music, as arranged by Professor Loring at Chilocco and Carlisle in the spring of 1906, attracted widespread attention, and there were many calls for copies of the music from all sections of the country.

In the Indian schools the music was sung by choirs of Indian young men and women, native songs with band accompaniment.

One of the pieces arranged by Professor Loring and that attracted the most attention was the "Cante Masica," a Sioux Indian love song. It was recorded from Indians on the Rosebud reservation, in South Dakota, by Professor Loring and arranged for bands

Demand Among Whites.

In speaking of his line of work he said that wherever the Indian students interpreted their tribal songs before a white audience they met with instant success, and since that time there has been a strong demand for the genuine aboriginal music rather than for the many cheap imitations.

"The Indians never sing their songs in any form other than the melody," said Mr. Loring, "yet there is little doubt but that they inwardly feel and hear a harmonization as distinctly as if it were being sung. I have often gone to the piano in company with an Indian and have asked him to listen attentively while I played one of the songs of his tribe.

"First I would play the melody only and would ask him if that were right. If it sounded satisfactory, and the reply usually would be in the affirmative. Then I would play the same melody with a harmonization, and he would generally say, 'It sounds right, and yet it is queer; it is not just complete.'"

MAY GROW RAINLESS WHEAT.

South African Expert Announces Important Discovery.

Dr. Macdonald of the South African department of agriculture declares that it is now possible to grow a "rainless wheat"—that is to say, a crop upon which no single drop of rain has fallen between seed time and harvest. It does not maintain its existence without moisture, but all that is necessary is obtained from the deposit of a previous season in "moisture saving fallows."

This would mean a great boon for those areas where the rainfall is uncertain and irrigation for various reasons impossible.

TURKEY WILL EXPAND NAVY.

Two Dreadnoughts and Four Cruisers to Be Built In England.

According to the London Daily Telegraph, Turkey is contemplating the expansion of her navy. In addition to the Dreadnought now being built for the Ottoman navy by an English firm, two Dreadnoughts and four cruisers will be ordered in England.

"The Turkish government," says the dispatch, "considers that in view of the growth of the Austrian, Italian and Russian navies her first act, now that the war is over, should be to build up a fleet capable of defending Turkish interests in the Mediterranean."

The Kitchen Cupboard

GREEN PEPPERS WITH RICE.

RICE and green peppers go together very well, and they may be combined to make very attractive dishes.

Fortunately green peppers may be had almost all the year, and they are not expensive.

Rice Balls In Pepper Rings.—Prepare rice balls as in ordinary cases. Then take some nice green peppers, cut them in rings a quarter of an inch wide and arrange the rice balls inside the rings. Serve garnished with sprigs of parsley. The pepper rings are not to be eaten. They afford an ornamental way of serving the rice balls.

Peppers With Meat.

Rice and Green Peppers With Mutton.—Take two cupfuls of steamed or boiled rice, half a cupful of milk, a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of flour, two green peppers and an eighth of a teaspoonful of salt. Rub the flour and butter together until they are smooth, add to the hot milk and let it boil until thickened. Open the peppers, take out the seeds, mince the peppers very fine and then add to the milk sauce. Serve with roast mutton or with any meat you prefer.

Green Peppers Stuffed With Rice.—Take six green peppers, remove the stems and seeds. Take two pounds of meat boiled tender. Chop it fine, add to it a half cupful of canned tomato, two small onions, a cup of boiled rice chopped fine. Add a few olives, a tablespoonful each of vinegar and sugar and salt and pepper to taste. Fry the mixture lightly in butter, then take from the fire and fill the peppers. Dip them in batter and fry in hot fat.

A Piquant Viand.

Rice Pepper.—Take a pound of rice and wash it well in cold water. Boil in one quart of water for twenty minutes. Add salt. Strain through a sieve and let cold water run on it. Fry four strips of bacon very crisp. Add chopped onion, one red pepper chopped fine, six large tomatoes, skinned and chopped fine. Put all into pot with rice and let cook slowly three hours until it is all dry and each kernel of rice is red and can be separated with a fork.

A COMMON ERROR

The Same Mistake Is Made By Many Quincy People.

It's a common error.
To plaster the aching back,
To rub with liniments, rheumatic joints,
If the trouble comes from the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidney ills,
And are endorsed by Quincy citizens.

Mrs. F. Curtis, 18 Quarry St., Quincy, Mass., says: "We used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family with good results and in 1908 publicly endorsed them. At the present time, I am pleased to confirm that statement. A member of my family was in bad shape from kidney complaint. He used plasters and several well-known remedies, but did not improve until he began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They effected a cure in two weeks and restored him to better health than he had enjoyed for years. I have also taken Doan's Kidney Pills myself and have found them excellent for strengthening the kidneys."

A FLOUR TALK

Some folks call anything made of flour, water, yeast and salt---"bread." They are content to use ordinary flour at an ordinary price---to have every other batch a failure—half of it eaten under protest—half dried up and thrown away.

That is wasteful extravagance. Better to pay a few cents more for Occident Special Patent Flour---get more loaves per sack---more food value per loaf---and know positively that every baking will be the same good bread from the same good flour.

That few cents more per sack is enough to cover the extra cost of using only the best part of the best wheat—a special process of milling—tightly woven sacks—and uniform quality.

By every test from wheat to grist—Occident Special Patent Flour is the home flour. We have it and we like to sell it and will return your money if you are not satisfied after any number of bakings.

$1,000 CASE FOR SLANDER

Complaint However Was Entered Too Late

Judge Avery found for the defendant this morning in the civil case of Arthur H. Stock of Squantum against officer Bernard M. O'Neil of the Metropolitan police department which was a suit for $1,000 for slander.

The case is an old one dating back to the summer of 1910. At that time one of the iron police box poles was stolen from the parkway at Atlantic and officer O'Neil and Sergt. Garrett started out to search for it. During their search they visited Squantum and saw Stock who claims that the officers slandered him when he was interrogated about the pole.

The alleged slander took place in August 1910, but it was not until Dec. 28, 1912, that suit was brought. Under the statue of limitations suits for slander must be brought within two years from the date of the alleged offense. On this ground therefore the court found for the defendant O'Neil, although in court this morning there was no evidence heard which served to show the slander.

It is understood that Stock is to carry the case to a higher court. Officer O'Neil was represented by Paul R. Blackmur.

A Bargain.

Mr. Pester—Why do you want to rent that place way out at the end of the car line? We can do better half the distance from the city.

Mrs. Pester—But the fare is the same, and it would be a shame to go home from shopping and have to leave the car when I had six miles more of transportation paid for.—Chicago News.

The Actor's Triumph.

In 1845 the Boulevarde du Temple was the heart of the theatrical world of Paris. In the ten theaters that lined that comparatively short thoroughfare so much blood was shed on the stage every evening at the popular plays that it was known as the Boulevarde du Crime.

The audience became so passionately devoted to some of the characters interpreted for their pleasure that they sometimes showed quite fierce hostility to the actors who had to take parts inimical to them. One night, for instance, Briand, who had represented Hudson Lowe in a scene on the island of St. Helena when Napoleon was imprisoned there, was seized by some roughs as he left the theater and flung into the basin of the Chateau d'Eau. This quite delighted him, and he gloated over it as a triumph when he was telling the tragic-comic incident the next day.—Bookman.

Making an Army Sword.

Army swords are tempered in oil After the blade, pounded, rolled and hammered to the right length, is ground it is subjected to severe tests. The point is caught under a staple, and the blade is bent over a block of wood, making the arc of circle about thirty-five inches in diameter. It is then bent in the opposite direction. Afterward the blade is struck on an oak block and tested on sides and edges. Finally it is dipped in oil and bent. While it is bent the oil is wiped off. If the blade is cracked, even though the defects might be otherwise invisible to the eye, the oil in the minute crevices will be forced to the surface when the blade is straightened, and the defects will instantly be revealed by slight streaks of oil little wider than a hair.

A Good Word For the Salmon.

Salmon live and flourish only in the purest waters of the seven seas and in the clearest of the rivers that flow into them. They exercise the utmost care in choosing the places where they breed and feed. From the time of their birth to the day they are caught they live in surroundings that are as nearly perfect from a sanitary point of view as nature can make them, and from the time they are caught and packed until they are placed before human beings as food they are kept beyond all danger of contamination. Their meat has an attractive appearance, has a delicious flavor, is readily digestible and contains as much, if not more, of the elements that are required by the human system than other forms of meat.—Western Canner and Packer.

IMPROVEMENT AT ST. JOHNS

Some of the New Memorial Windows In Place

When the staging in St. John's church is taken down a most pleasing transformation will be visible to the parishioners. The refrescoeing of the interior is part of the preparation for the golden jubilee of the church.

The work is done mostly in green and white, with gold designs. The color basis is the same, no two designs are the same. The roof beams are finished in oak stain and throughout there is a restful harmony.

A new painting of St. John the Baptist baptizing Christ has been set over the high alter. It is surrounded by a golden ring of intricate design.

The stained glass windows have been set. They consist of three sections, the centre being a cream glass with a green border and the upper and lower pieces showing brighter colors.

All the names have not been inscribed on the lower panels as yet. The following inscriptions are completed: gift of Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Cook, in memory of James and Mary Parker; in memory of Thomas Hevahan; gift of the Catholic club; gift of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McConarty; gift of John Harkins and family, in memory of Annie Harkins. Two of the windows are the gifts of Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, the pastor.

Remick Now the Largest Advertiser in Quincy

Remick's clothing house has broken all records of Quincy merchants in advertising. During the month of May they used 173 inches of space in the Daily Ledger, an average of over 66 inches per day, which is over three columns per day.

And they are obtaining such good results that they have not diminished their space. In the Daily Ledger today are four different advertisements, all as interesting as the news of the day. One tells of the superior Kuppenheimer clothes, another of children's clothing, a third of straw hats, and a fourth of the Packard shoes. Remick's is one of Quincy's largest stores, carrying a complete line of men's furnishings, which is sold at less than Boston prices. Have you visited Remick's lately?

An interested crowd assembled to catch their first glimpse of how films are prepared. Their second glimpse will be the action itself which will be shown at the Kincaide theatre within a few days.

ROBERT MILLAR.

Robert Millar, who lived with his son John Millar since coming to Quincy about five years ago, died this morning at 403 Washington street, in his 80th year. He formerly lived in Canada. He was very active for a man of his years and gained the friendship of many Quincy Point residents. His son took possession of the house where the father died about a week ago.

COMING TO WOLLASTON.

Miss Florence Maynard Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah M. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PROTEST AGAINST THREE DECKERS

Wollaston Park People Do Not Want Houses of That Class Erected

Question As to Legality of the Permit

Residents in the vicinity of Elm avenue and Wollaston Park are very much exercised because a permit has been issued to Catherine Burns to erect a three flat house on what is known as Merrymount avenue, near the corner of Elm avenue. When it was learned that a permit was issued the Mayor's telephone line was kept hot with protests.

According to Inspector of Buildings Parker the application for the permit for the building was filed May 20. He says that he is supposed to issue the permit inside of seven days but that it was not until Tuesday, June 3, that it was issued.

There is considerable speculation if the new ordinance passed Monday night covered this case. The ordinance was passed Monday night June 2, and in order to hurry matters the Clerk of the Council filed the engrossed order with the City Clerk at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning June 3.

When Mayor Stone appeared at City Hall sometime later he signed the order establishing the ordinance. It appears however that the permit was issued that same morning, but whether it was before the Mayor had signed the new ordinance or not is an open question.

Mayor Stone said this morning that the applicant appeared before the inspector with a lawyer and threatened a civil suit if the permit was not issued, and the Inspector issued the permit, although had he known it he would have stopped it.

It is of course possible under the new ordinance to build a three flat house but the regulations are much more severe than under the old ordinance which is probably the reason why the applicant saw fit to force the issue by legal counsel.

Another point that enters into the question is the fact that it was as far back as May 20, when the application was asked for. Whether the new building will come under the new or old ordinance probably depends upon whether the permit was issued before or after the Mayor signed the order. At the best however it could have been only a matter of a very short time between the two acts.

THE QUINCY CATHOLIC CLUB

A catered supper was served, the officers sitting at a table decorated with flowers and candles. The others partook of the goodies from a buffet which was set in a corner of the room.

Short speeches were given by Mrs. D. J. Deasey, Miss Mary L. Gavin, Mrs. Joseph D. Griffin, Miss S. Dunphy, Miss Anna Walsh, Miss Agnes M. Deasey and Mrs. Timothy O'Connell.

OPEN HOUSE WASECA CLUB

Thomas B. Pollard the Special Guest of Evening

Friends, relaitves and sweethearts of the Waseca Social Club of Quincy Point gathered in their spacious club house at 513 Washington street Thursday evening to help in the observance of the first open house and reunion of the club. Both floors were crowded with guests and the members were busily engaged in looking after their comforts .

The guest of the evening was Thomas B. Pollard, principal of the Washington school, where many of the members received their early training. Mr. Pollard entertained with stories connected with the school days of many of the boys and his reminisences caused hearty laughter when he spoke of some of the light troubles the boys saddled on his shoulders. However he said that he always found them square as bricks, willing to accept punishment when it was their due and after saying that he envied the years when all sought entrance to the building at the first bell he complimented them on their stepping into manhood and urged them to fraternize in a spirit that would inculcate the needs of good citizenship.

President William Field of the club introduced the speaker, and presided during the program. In his speech of welcome he briefly outlined the intent of the club and asked the cooperation of the district in all reasonable ways.

The program opened with a vocal solo by Adams Portas, and James Stack rendered a cornet solo. James Sullivan, accompanied by Peter M. Sullivan, sang "Violets" an original ballad and Adams Portas and Duncan McKimmick sang a duet. Peter M. Sullivan delivered a pianologue, a "Hot time in the old town tonight," and William Fall sang ""Way down in Virginia." Irving Hayden gave a piano arrangement of southern melodies and popular music, and Theodore Gullickson played a violin solo.

After the completion of the program refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed on the upper floor, music being furinshed by Haydens orchestra. The floor was in charge of President Field, assisted by Charles McDonnell, Ernest Saunders, Charles Costello.

The decorations throughout the building were purple and white, the club colors, and many friends loaned sofa pillows, potted plants and palms to complete the picture.

QUINCY HIGH DEFEATS MELROSE

Kingsbury and White Each Scored Three First Places for the Home Team

Running High Jump Also Won by "Bull Moose" Brown

Quincy High School defeated Melrose High at the new Merrymount Oval Thursday afternoon in a dual athletic meet, 54 to 18. Both schools had four men entered in each event. The meet, while overwhelmingly Quincys, was the most interesting ever held under the Red and Blue colors. The only first place secured by the visitors was in the running broad jump, when Holt of Melrose brought home the distance with a leap of 19 ft., 8 in. an inch further than "Bob" Murray's Quincy High record.

The feature by far was the work of Edward Brown, known throughout the school boys circles as the "Bull Moose." Brown has a splendid physique and the required stamina for a successful athlete. Born in the South and coming to Quincy but a short time ago he has made all the local boys sit up and take notice. He added to his laurels Thursday by taking places in events in which he never before competed. A talk a few days ago with a veteran high school point getter prompted him to enter the field sports.

Brown although lacking form, never before trying a jump, got second place in the running broad with 19 ft. 5 in., and won the high jump at 5 ft. 5 in, three inches higher than the mark of Edward Poland which has been the record since 1905. He also took second place in the 12 pound shot put, losing to White by a quarter of an inch.

Leon White, a sturdy member of the graduating class also finished up his school athletic career in a blaze of glory. He took three first places, adding 24 points to Quincy's score. In the dash he was the last man to get started, and Ralph Prout had a beautiful lead. With Hyland pressing Ralph White forged ahead, steadily and surely and broke the tape a foot ahead of both men. He took the 220 in 24 3-5 s, and won the shot put with 36 ft. 6 1-4 in.

Captain Kingsbury equaled his record of 55 1-4s in the 440 yard dash, won the half mile in 2m 17s, and lopped home in the mile ahead of the bunch in 5m, 4s. The feature of the

THE PURE SHOE BILL.

Efforts are proceeding in Congress to pass a law requiring the presence of adulterants in shoes to be marked. Such a Louisiana law was recently declared unconstitutional. Nevertheless, the same public sentiment that enacted the pure food laws is bound to affect all manufactures.

Years ago, men, women, and children wore thick cowhide boots which when dried were about as hard as boards. Seams were largely done by hand, and the whole shoe was very durable. The shoe bill was not large. Today even the men who dig ditches want a lighter looking shoe, and its machine stitching and thinner leather cannot stand such rough work.

Style costs in the shoe trade. It takes more pains and care to pull a thin fabric over a shapely last than to jerk a stiff hide over a formless block. As leather has advanced in price, as more style has been called for, the art of working off leather substitutes has advanced.

Ground leather scraps can be made into a material that makes a stiff counter, until a man gets his feet wet. Similar material, when neatly painted and polished, looks like a solid heel or sole.

Years ago a great many shoes were sold as "A calf," perhaps are sold still. They were simply "splits," shavings of greater or less thickness, made by splitting a thick cow-hide. The strength of leather depends upon a thorough interlacing of its fibers. Such interlacing is not the same on the inside of the skin as on the outside. The name "A calf" was an attempt to persuade the consumer that leather made out of loose fibered shavings from the skin of an old animal was the tough entire hide of a young creature.

As all shoe manufacturers of certain grades used such trade methods, the practice in a sense was fair. But it led the public to accept material that was not good economy.

Those men who demanded money of President Wilson have been jailed, but it would have been all right had they expressed a willingness to take it in the form of a postmaster's salary.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Quincy Point Man Was Alighting from Electric Car

Mohamed Alli, a Syrian living in the Fore River district, was run over by an automobile nearly opposite Chubbuck street shortly before 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and suffered a fractured arm and more or less bruises. Alli had just alighted from an electric car and he stepped from the car into the street directly in front of an automobile going in the opposite direction. Had he looked he must have seen the auto coming but he did not, and the accident happened so quickly that the driver of the car did not have time to prevent the accident.

The automobile was owned and driven by Carl E. Anderson of Randolph and was going at a moderate rate of speed. Alli was struck a glancing blow and thrown one side suffering a fractured arm. He was also more or less bruised. He was given attention by Dr. E. H. Bushnell, whose office is directly opposite, and then the police ambulance was called and he was removed to the City Hospital. Alli lives at 590 Washington street, and is employed at the Fore River shipyard.

BOSTONIANS AT SANTIAGO

Very Cordial Reception Was Given at Valparaiso

Santiago the capital of Chile, which the Boston Chamber of Commerce South American tourists are scheduled to reach June 6, has a population of 400,000. It was founded prior to the landing of the pilgrims in Massachusetts. The name is the Spanish equivalent of "St. James," the patron saint of Spain. It is a brisk modern city and was largely rebuilt after the earthquake of 1906. Around the city are large haciendas, or farms, on which are built magnificent mansions

Alamedi de las Delicias. a wonderful avenue three miles long and 300 feet wide, with trees, statues and band stands, leads out to Quinta Normal and Couseno Parks.

The Palace of Congress, the University, the National Library, the residence of the President, the Palace of Justice, the Army Building, the Opera House, the Orphan Asylum, and other buildings are worthy of note.

The Sociedad de Fomento Fabril Chile, an organization of merchants and manufacturers formed to promote Chilean business interests, has a membership of over 2,000, and maintains offices in Santiago.

Next week the tourists will reach Buenos Aires, stopping from June 11 to June 17.

Much pleased with the cordiality of the reception given them in Chile, the Boston Chamber of Commerce delegation arrived here yesterday. All in the party are well.

A stop was made at Coquimbo on the way down for a few hours, and the tourists were taken to Serena by business men and officials of the city for an inspection of the schools and colleges. The Governor of the Province tendered a reception to the party.

Upon arriving at Valparaiso the chamber representatives were met by United States Consul General Winslow and local officials. A brilliant reception was given the delegates by Gov. Zanartu at his official residence in the afternoon. Many dignitaries were present. A military band played United States National airs, and, all in all, it was one of the finest receptions the business men have yet received.

In the evening the visitors were entertained at an elaborate banquet given by the Valparaiso Chamber of Commerce and Stock Exchange. The Governor was among those who attended. Splendid feeling was displayed toward the Bostonians and an international friendship was cemented. Col.. H. L. Kincaide and Sec. Thomas F. Anderson of the New England Shoe and Leather Association spoke for the visiting delegation.

CRANCH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Supt. Barbour Speaks on Problems of Education

At the meeting of the Cranch Parent's and Teacher's Association held Thursday evening, Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools, gave a most interesting and instructive talk. He showed the problems of public education and public expenditure and what the city of Quincy was doing to solve them.

Mr. Barbour said that public education means more than the public schools; it means everything that can be done for the general betterment of all in the community.

The government is spending large sums in the improvement of public education. The Russell Sage Foundation is doing much in research work, to obtain the very best possible results in education.

We must consider the educational questions not as a local problem alone but as a general, national problem. This seems to indicate that the expenses should not be wholly a local problem, but should be borne by the state and nation. In order that each child in the whole nation should have the same advantages and opportunities there should be an equalization of taxation for educational purposes.

Quincy has been a pioneer at her own expense. Escpecially is this true in the way it has borne the expense of building sanitary schools. We are, also giving some attention to medical inspection and to industrial training We are doing splendid work to give our children vocational opportunities in the part time schools.

One of our problems is a more systematic and thorough medical inspection, to find how the children may be kept well and in the proper condition for work. Parents ought to be able to send their children to school with the absolute certainty that they are free from contagion and disease. This cannot be done if the state and city do not provide more rigid medical inspection. It is a profitable investment to give children the proper care and treatment, so that they may become useful and profitable citizens. Especially must defects in sight and hearing be remedied, so that they may not be unnecessarily handicapped.

In the matter of parks and playgrounds, we must see that the children are given the proper environment for play. The program of the children after school hours and on Saturdays should be made profitable by having good playgrounds, adequately supervised.

In the evening work, there are great possibilities. There is need of a citizenship class, conducted the whole year round. We must take foreigners, as soon as they come to our country and help them and educate them to American ideas and customs.

In the matter of expenditures, the amount raised for the schools in Quincy is deplorably small, much less than most cities of Massachusetts. The percentage of money raised in Quincy for the education of an ever increasing number, is growing less per capita each year. If Quincy is to get the best results, it must discontinue its policy of being last on the list of cities in the payment of teachers and in the appropriations for text books and in the operation and over head expenses. We cannot afford being last, because the children will be affected and will be deprived of what is their due. We must not let the standard of education run down, as it must, if the appropriation is made smaller per capita, each year.

The hearty applause given Mr. Barbour, showed the sympathy of the large assembly for the superintendent in coping with the problems with such an inadequate appropriation, and their approval of all that he said.

The business meeting consisted of the election of officers for the coming year. The following were elected: President, Clarence Burgin; vice president, William A. Richards; secretary and treasurer, Miss Annie C. Healy; executive committee, Albert Schenkelberger, Mrs. Albert M. Parker and Andrew Johnson for one year; Mrs. Andrew Deane and Eugene R. Stone for two years.

The pupils of the eighth grade sang two of their graduation songs, accompanied by Henry Peterson of grade eight. Their quality of tone and clearness in enunciation was unusually good for a grammar school chorus.

The social hour was in charge of Miss Crane of grade eight and her committee, Mrs. Gustave Bates, Mrs. William Houlihan, Mrs. Arthur Hall, Mrs. John Peterson and Mrs. Charles Stone.

Monument to Maine and Her Dead Heroes Unveiled at New York

THE memories of the heroes of the battleship Maine, the officers and men who went to their deaths in the waters of Havana harbor fifteen years and three months ago, were fittingly honored in New York city Memorial day.

On that day the high officials of the national government in Washington, representatives of the republic of Cuba, the country that saw its liberty spring from the funeral hulk of Sigsbee's famous old ship; the governors of New York and Maine, the mayor of New York and last, but not least, Sigsbee himself and his famous chaplain, the eloquent Father John P. Chidwick; Dewey, the victor of Manila; the officers and men of the United States Atlantic fleet, the army and the national guard and the veterans of the war of 1898 gathered there to do their part in the unveiling of the national Maine monument, the tribute in bronze and marble which adorns the Columbus circle entrance to Central park.

Though the official dedicatory exercises took place Memorial day, the tribute to the heroes of the Maine began early the day before, when the backbone of the American service afloat, the great United States Atlantic fleet, ordered to New York by the president and secretary of the navy to join in the ceremonies, steamed into the Hudson.

The flagship Cuba was sent to New York to represent the republic of Cuba at the dedication.

The principal motif of the composition is a pylon 18½ by 21 feet and 40 feet high, with panels on its four faces. It is flanked by two colossi, representing the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, suggestive of the national scope of the memorial, the Atlantic typified by a young man in the fullness of his strength, the Pacific by an old man half slumbering. The figures standing would be over fourteen feet high.

At the foot of the shaft and facing the circle is a group of sculpture—Courage awaiting the flight of Peace, while Fortitude supports the feeble. These are figures nearly twice actual life size.

Above the group is the following inscription:

"To the Valiant Seamen Who Perished In the Maine—By Fate Unwarned, In Death Unafraid."

On the lower part of the pedestal supporting this group is a conventional boat prow on which kneels a figure of a boy holding wreaths of olive and laurel, suggesting the new era inaugurated in Cuba through the Spanish war.

A low fountain basin extends toward the circle from this side of the monument, approached by three broad steps forming a stylobate.

The corresponding group on the side facing the park is postbellum in motif—Justice, having intrusted her sword to the genius of war to execute her mandates, receives it again at his hands, while history records its deeds.

"To the Freemen Who Died In the War With Spain That Others Might Be Free."

The pylon is crowned by a group representing Columbia triumphant, drawn in a sea car by three plunging horses. This group is in bronze, cast from guns recovered from the sunken Maine and is heavily gilded. The group is seventeen feet high; making the monument fifty-seven feet in height.

THIRD GAME ON MONDAY

Final Contest in World Series of Grammar Schools

Harry Galvin, the Cranch grammar school third baseman who had two bones in his left leg fractured on Wednesday, is now at his home 163 Whitwell street, having been taken there from the Quincy City Hospital on Thursday. Galvin received the injury in the second world series game at the Ward Three playground. The doctors were able to set only one bone at a time because of the swelling about the ankle.

The game was forfeited to the Willards when the accident occurred. The first game was won by Cranch after a sensational rally.

The final game, although scheduled for today has been postponed to Monday afternoon since the Merrymount Park field is being used by the Quincy-Milton High school teams.

A unusual amount of doubt has developed over the interpretation of the ground rules. A general impression prevails that one umpire had been instructed to call a foul tip on the third strike out. It can be firmly established however, as far as the recollection of the umpire is concerned, that no ruling of this nature had been given him or enforced. The only rule in vogue on the third strike, according to the umpire, was that it was not necessary to catch it.

The claimants of the pennant are practicing to their hearts content. Their supporters have automatically divided into two camps which although hostile in thought are fair in action.

The Willards acceptance of the game which was forfeited by Cranch has been freely commented upon. Because of the age of the players and in the interest of sport several ardent fans declare no game should be allowed. It was called in the last to the third innings and they further believe that half a game had not been played.

However, children in all parts of the city eagerly anticipate the umpires "play ball" on Monday. It is expected that nearly 1000 will see the contest and special provision is being made to police the grounds.

Principal Townsend of the Cranch school and the pupils are solicitous for the comfort of young Galvin and are planning to do all they can to help the boy bear the disappointment of being unable to play. He is admittedly, outside of "Vern" Arbuckle, the pitcher, he best player on the Cranch nine.

LITTLE FRIENDS ENTERTAINED.

Herbert Holton Holmes, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Holmes, reached his second milestone in life's journey Thursday and entertained ten of his little friends at his parents' summer cottage at Post Island. Favors of tin pails and shovels were given, and while the little ones played around on the beach, filling the pails with sand, pictures were taken of the happy little group. Light refreshments were served. In the center of the table was a birthday cake with two lighted candles. Little Herbert blew out the candles and cut the cake. The house was prettily decorated with potted plants and wild flowers. All returned to their homes after a happy afternoon, leaving many tokens of their visit with little Herbert and wishes for many more birthdays.

HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

The pas graduate class continues o set the example for perfect attendance at the Quincy High school. The susceptibility of the freshmen to sickness because of their youth is advanced as the reason for their small mark. The average of all classes was 94.2. The standing for May was: Class of 1912, 97.5; Class of 1913, 95.4; Class of 1914, 95.1; Class of 1915, 93.8; and Class of 1916, 93.5

MOVIES TAKEN OF QUINCY

Should Make a Great Feature at Kincaide's Theatre

If the moving pictures that were taken in Quincy on Thursday under the direction of Capt. Wardwell for exhibition later in the Kincaide theatre turn out well, and there is no reason why they should not, they will make an interesting feature.

Starting about noon Thursday the first picture taken was of the Wollaston fire station. The apparatus was set opposite the station and at a signal the doors flew open and out came the hose wagon and ladder truck as though answering an alarm. From here the apparatus went to the Central fire station where all of the apparatus was taken as it came from the house to answer an alarm.

The camera was then set opposite the theatre on Hancock street and the several pieces of apparatus was sent by the theatre on the run, just as they would if responding to an alarm from one of the danger boxes in City Square. Not only was the Central station apparatus led by Chief Litch field in his car sent by, but the auto chemical came up from Atlantic and was also sent by in the same manner

A picture was then taken of a crowd of young people just coming from the theatre. Then a picture was taken of the Kincaide store and the apparatus moved to City Square where a picture was taken of City Hall showing a number of the clerks and any number of small boys who followed the camera man from place to place so as to get into the picture.

The camera was then pointed at the First church and a picture taken of the historic edifice. While this was in progress several electric cars passed by as did also the automobiles of Elmer F. Ricker, C. H. Penniman and Shirley F. Nutting all of whom will appear in the picture.

The fire station at Quincy Point was then visited, and then Fore River shipyard, the last place on the list The apparatus was set near the gate just as the three thousand or more workmen were coming from the yard and this alone should make an interesting picture, as it showed the men in motion hurrying from their grim work to their homes for the night.

Capt. Wardwell said that he could not tell just when the picture would be ready but the public would be notified through the Daily Ledger so that all might have an opportunity to see the pictures in motion.

☞If you have not secured your tickets for the picture dancing Saturday afternoon on Mrs. Henry M. Faxon's lawn, it is not too late, for there a few yet remaining which may be obtained of Mrs. Pfaffmann and Mrs. Emery L. Crane.

MR. PENNIMAN NINETY-FOUR

May Be Seen Daily in His Shoe Shop Hale and Hearty

James T. Penniman, Quincy's oldest citizen and business man, passed his 94th milestone on Thursday. Mr. Penniman although advanced in years is remakably smart and while he does not get to City Square as frequently as he did two years ago, he is about every day and goes to his shop directly back of his home on Saville street, and a visit there any day will find him at work among the scraps of leather, from which heels are fashioned.

Thursday was passed in a quiet manner although during the day he received many of his friends who called to pay their respects several bringing reminders in the way of bouquets.

Mr. Penniman has been a member of the Granite City club for years and up to four years ago it took a hard storm on a Wednesday or Saturday night to keep him from his club, and he would stay as late as some of the younger men. He was very fond of cards and he had no more happier moments than when engaged in a friendly game with his old friends, George W. Prescott, Dr. H. C. Hallowell and John Q. A. Field. These four made a great team and many were the happy hours that they passed together.

Then the quartette was broken by the death of Mr. Prescott and Mr. Penniman did not come to the club so often for he said it seemed lonesome. Then Dr. Hallowell passed away and Mr. Field ceased to be a member, and he was the only one left of the quartette. He continued to visit the club however at times but his chums were gone and things did not seem the same. He still retains his membership, but is not often a visitor for the lonesomeness together with the two flights of stairs are rather too much of an exertion. During those days when he was so active in club life, smudge was the popular game, but with the departing of this quartette, it has given place to the more scientific game of whist. Mr. Penniman often plays cards now at home.

Mr. Penniman was born in Braintree, June 5, 1819, and was a direct descendant of Maj. Stephen Penniman of revolutionary fame. His father's name was also Stephen and his mother's name was Relief Thayer. He attended school in Braintree, coming to Quincy at the age of 16 years where he has since resided. Leaving school he learned the trade of a bootmaker, which was as common in those days as itlater became for a boy to learn the granite cutter's trade.

In 1844 he started in business with Ozias Pope retiring from the firm four years later to begin the manufacture of boots in a factory in Boston near Elliot street, later locating on Theatre court, Devonshire and Summer streets.

Coming back to Quincy in 1868 he formed a partnership with John R. Graham, who later married one of Mr. Penniman's daughters. Four years later he retired from that firm and started business with his son James H. Penniman which business firm still exists.

Mr. Penniman was at one time one of the district fire engineers of Quincy and is the oldest fireman in Quincy, his fire service dating back fully 75 years, when he became a member of the vounteer department.

He has been twice married his first wife being Miss Maria A. Brooks, and his second wife was Mrs. Elizabeth Osborne. Nine children have been born to him of whom three now survive, James H. Penniman, who last fall was the Democratic candidate for Mayor; Mrs. Harriet T. Dolliver widow of A. G. Dolliver; and Miss Ada W. M. Penniman who keeps house for her father.

After dinner the party embarked from the Yacht club wharf on the steamer Griswold for a trip of inspection of the various sewer disposal plants in Boston harbor, after which the steamer will land the party in Boston.

AMUSEMENTS

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the strongest and most varied all-star vaudeville bills of the season is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, including a number of new and novel attractions. Sanderson Moffatt, the original "Weelum" of "Bunty Pulls The Strings," will make his first vaudeville appearance on this side of the ocean in a one-act comedy of Scottish life entitled "Fifteen Minutes of Matrimony." Mr. Moffatt will be supported by a splendid company of Scottish players, and the comedy itself abounds in clever situations and sparkling dialogue. Another new feature will be the first vaudeville appearance of David Lythgoe, the Boston actor, and his players in a bit of musical comedy by John J. McNally, written especially for Mr. Lythgoe. Still another novelty will be the first appearance in this country of Mykoff and Vanity, the Russian dancers, in their cycle of unique and remarkable dances of the nations. Conroy and Lemaire, the famous blackface comedians, will have a brand new talkfast fully as funny as their past efforts in this line; and other strong attractions of the week will be Ed Morton, the man who sings, with a brand new program of popular songs. The Four Flourimonds, a great troupe of European novelty entertainers in an original specialty; Sam Lewis and Sam Dody, "The Two Sams," is a new act; Wentworth, Vesta and Teddy, featuring the world's most wonderful canine acrobat; Edison's Talking Motion Pictures with all new subjects; and many others yet to be announced.

BOSTON THEATRE.

There was a blaze theatre-goer; he had seen everything from musical comedy to problem plays, from opera to French farce. He pined for something new. Because there was nothing new, he went to the other extreme and sought out the oldest thing he could find—he went to see "The Old Homestead"—and seeing it he found also the newest, freshest thing he had seen for years. For 27 years "The Old Homestead" has been given year after year——and it is just as live as when Denman Thompson first brought it out. It is not necessary to have been brought up on a farm to appreciate "The Old Homestead." It isn't necessary to have been steeped in the lore and feeling of New England farm life (though most of us have), it isn't even necessary to know what the stage conception of the farmer is. If you like fun, if you like good characterization, if you like to have things move right along, but most of all if you like to laugh—you will enjoy "The Old Homestead."

Secial prices will prevail during the engagement of "The Old Homestead" 25c. 50c, 75c, and $1.00. No seat over $1.00.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

One of the best of romantic dramas, "The Three Musketeers" is certain to offer lively and varied entertainment at the Castle Square next week. It is a dramatization of Dumas's celebrated novel of the same name, and Mr. Craig has himself prepared the version for the stage that he will use. The plot of the drama concerns the adventures of one Philippe D'Artagnan, a young Gascon who goes to London in search of fame and fortune. There he falls in with certain members of the king's guards, and with them he becomes involved in all sorts of scrapes and becomes acquainted with the high and mighty ones of the French nation

Throughout the drama is picturesque in its scenes and incidents. It is strikingly romantic, there is much sword-play in it, and among its characters are the celebrated Richelieu, and no less celebrated King Louis of his day. The role of D'Artagnan will be played by Mr. Craig, and the three musketeers, Athos, Porthos and Aramis, will be respectively acted by William P. Carleton, J. M. Morrison and Donald Meek. Also in important roles will be seen Florence Shirley, Mabel Colcord, Laurett Browne, Frederick Ormonde, and Al Roberts. "The Three Musketeers" will be given for only one week at the Castle Square.

TREMONT TEMPLE.

Remarkable pictures of hunting and other scenes in the far North will be shown in Tremont Temple next week. These films were among the valuable results of the Arctc expedition sent out last Summer by the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburg. They are the most intimate pictures of animals ever taken and they show feats never before seen by naturalists. The pictures of bears swimming far under water are especially wonderful. In addition, mountain sheep, moose and caribou are pictured in their native wilds.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

"The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's delightful play, will be the attraction for the second week of Miss Eleanor Gordon and her company of selected players, at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. The warm reception accorded Miss Gordan and her unusually strong company on their first appearance, last Monday evening, was of the kind that has not been seen in Boston for some time. Unlike the usual run of summer stock companies, Miss Gordon has surrounded herself with one of the most capable companies that Boston has witnessed for years. In the company are such well known and competent players as Elizabeth Rathburn, Rosamond Carpentier, Francesca Rotoli, Ida Jeffreys Goodfriend, Cordelia McDonald, Lauretta Hoadley, Douglas J. Wood, Wright Kramer, Edward Langford, Frederick Burt, Roland Rushton, and Alfred Smith. Included in the cast in next week's bill is Mrs. George A. Hibbard, who will assume one of the leading characters. Mrs. Hibbard, as is well known, is the widow of a former chief executive of Boston, and sprung a surprise upon her friends a short time ago when she decided to take up a stage career. Her first professional debut was made in Boston, in "The Chorus Lady," and strange to say Miss Gordon was also a member of that company. Since that time the two have become staunch friends.

The Adams Market

Is Quincy's Most Modern Food Store

It is clean, wholesome and inviting. Its central location makes it of easy access. The Meats, Vegetables, Fruits, Bakery Goods, Canned Goods and all Groceries are of sterling standard quality—the Foy Quality that made the Water Street Store famous.

It is the best kind of a Grocery and Market for two classes of shoppers—the careful and careless. The former examines critically, compares, considers quality and value----and finds almost invariably an advantage in trading here. The latter consults personal likes and dislikes, but only makes superficial comparisons----and it is even more important that one of this temperament, whether of limited or most ample means, should choose a store like this, where straightforward dealing protects all alike.

We depend more upon your satisfaction than upon printer's ink to spread the good news of this good store and the fact that we do not tolerate old fashioned ideas. Personal interest is taken in your every want and we refuse to sell any goods about which there is the slightest doubt.

Come in, look our store over, note the high standard of our Groceries, Meats, Canned Goods, Teas, Coffees, Fruits, Vegetables, etc., then you will know you can depend upon this store for high quality.

DEFEATS MELROSE

race was the plucky work of Bedwell, who took third place. After making two circuits he showed signs of distress. At times he frantically pawed the air and was seen to grasp his stomach as though in great pain. Meeting the cheering and encouragement with a half hearted but sincere smile he plugged along into the finish After the race was over he rambled away from the field in agony and for nearly 15 minutes he was deathly ill. The warmness of the day and imperfect condition was the probable reason. He nevertheless became the ideal of persistency of the day through his gamey showing.

1734 INCHES IN A MONTH

Remick Now the Largest Advertiser in Quincy

Remick's clothing house has broken all records of Quincy merchants in advertising. During the month of May they used 1734 inches of space in the Daily Ledger, an average of over 66 inches per day, which is over three columns per day.

And they are obtaining such good results that they have not diminished their space. In the Daily Ledger today are four different advertisements, all as interesting as the news of the day. One tells of the superior Kuppenheimer clothes, another of children's clothing, a third of straw hats, and a fourth of the Packard shoes. Remick's is one of Quincy's largest stores, carrying a complete line of men's furnishings, which is sold at less than Boston prices. Have you visited Remick's lately?

IMPORTANT SALE.

Charles H. Johnson, real estate broker reports the agreement of sale through his office of valuable property corner of Wibird and Washington streets owned by Albert Keating to Charles H. Penniman of Quincy. The property today consists of a 12 room house and a large tract of land corner lot. The buyer will erect upon the vacant land a large and up to date garage. This sale indicates that Washington street from the library to Canal streets will soon develop into a business thoroughfare. This sale is one of several large ones passed through the office of Mr. Johnson this spring.

APPRECIATED AT WELLESLY.

In the yearly report of the Wellesley Hills Unitarian Society, recently published great praise is given Charles H Johnson of this city for the work and results he has accomplished for the Sunday school the past year. The school has doubled in numbers and a wide spread interest is now taken by the Parish in the work of the school. Mr. Johnson has prepared an elaborate program for next Sunday, Children's day, the same being printed at the Daily Ledger office.

LATE CARS OFF.

Now that the midnight train from Boston has been cancelled, the Bay State street railway announces that the late cars run in connection with the train will also be discontinued after Saturday night. These cars have been run to Houghs Neck, East Milton, and North Weymouth. A car will leave Quincy at 11.50 every night except Sunday for East Weymouth.

MUCH TO DISCUSS IN JAPANESE NOTE

Way Is Opened For Interesting Negotiations

Washington, June 6.—After reading Japan's latest note on the California anti-alien land law and just before a conference with Ambassador Chinda, President Wilson expressed the view that the new communication opened the way for "very interesting and friendly negotiations."

The president let it be known that there was much matter for discussion in the Japanese note, but that none of the documents thus far exchanged by the two governments had in themselves suggested a solution of the land law difficulty.

He indicated that the negotiations would proceed slowly and carefully. White House officials reiterated their confident expectation of an amicable adjustment eventually.

NO MARRIAGE FEES

But Chicago Parson Insists Upon Clean Bills of Health

Chicago, June 6.—Rev. Elmer Pennewell solemnized the first "antigraft" marriage since his recent announcement that he believed fees accepted by ministers for officiating at weddings were nothing less than a graft, and that in the future he would make no charge for this service. He also asserted that couples must "present clean bills of health from reputable physicians."

Clifton W. Hunt and Miss Dorothy Maize were the principals at the wedding. The father of the bride attempted to force a fee upon the clergyman but was unsuccessful.

"I get a salary for my services and couples should not feel that they are receiving charity," said the preacher.

Worried Over Stock Market Losses

Queensbury Mills Bankrupt

Boston, June 6.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Queensbury mills of Worcester and Somersworth, N. H., were filed with the clerk of the United States district court here. The liabilities are placed at $624,032 and the assets $538,688.

Veteran Chief of Police Dropped

Paris, June 6.—M. Tourney, veteran chief of the Paris municipal police, was retired by the chamber of deputies because he prohibited a demonstration in memory of Joan of Arc.

Two In Biplane Dashed to Death

Buc, France, June 6.—Aviator Bernard and a passenger were instantly killed when Bernard's biplane turned turtle in mid-air and crashed to the ground.

INEFFECTIVE WORK ON PART OF POLICE

Gotham Gambling and Social Evils Laid at Their Door

New York, June 6.—The gambling and social evils have been allowed to exist in this city because of ineffective efforts by the police to eradicate them, it is charged in a report to the board of aldermen.

The report is the second section of the document prepared by the special aldermanic committee that took up an investigation of the police department after former Lieutenant Becker's hired gunmen murdered Herman Rosenthal last July. The first section of the report recommended the removal of Police Commissioner Waldo.

A number of recommendations are made for a reorganization of the department to enable it to deal more effectively with the evil.

EVIDENCE IS ALL IN

Case of Alleged Dynamite Conspirators Goes to Jury Today

Boston, June 6.—The guilt or innocence of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, and of Fred E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, all three defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial arising out of the Lawrence strike, will be passed upon by the jury today.

When court convened at 9:30 Judge Crosby delivered his charge to the jury and the case, which has been on trial for nearly three weeks and was most bitterly contested, entered upon its closing stage.

LOBBYISTS ON ANXIOUS SEAT

Not Particularly Pleased Over Senators' Testimony

"SUSPECTS" KEEP EARS OPEN

Not Improbable That One May Turn "State's Evidence" — President's Contentions Supported by Overman, Who Says They Have Been Proved Well Grounded by Inquiry

Washington, June 6.—If there are to be any sensations in the lobby inquiry, they will begin when the committee calls to the stand the alleged lobbyists themselves and begins to inquire into their activities and the reasons therefor. The air of nervous expectation which pervades the committee room, where half a hundred men who look as if they might be lobbyists are listening to the testimony of senators, is gradually increasing, and will probably be very tense.

It is an undisputed fact that the lobby—for everyone knows and Senator Overman, chairman of the investigating committee, has admitted it himself that there is a lobby—is not having the best time it ever had. The lobbyists throng the committee room or hang about the corridors, getting what comfort they may from the remarks of the passers-by, and as their particular day of judgment approaches they are looking less and less exhilarated.

The big lobbyists and the small lobbyists are there, and they are watching each other suspiciously. It is altogether on the cards that some lobbyist, probably a small one, will turn "state's evidence" before the end of the investigation and tell some interesting if not important facts as to the business of his colleagues.

"President Wilson's charge that a powerful and insidious lobby is fighting to defeat the tariff measure has been fully sustained."

This was the emphatic declaration of Senator Overman when he announced that the investigation would be extended over the ten-day period which the Cummins resolution creating the committee specified.

Overman declared that the sixty-five senators who had been examined had proven conclusively to the committee that at least three specialized lobbies, with branches reaching out all over the country, are using every method to defeat certain provisions in the Wilson-Underwood bill. These lobbies, he said, were the sugar "trust," wool "trust" and insurance organizations.

He declared that they were making lavish use of newspapers, briefs, circulars and telegrams to create a national misconception of the effect of tariff changes in an effort to force the national legislature to vote as they desired.

At the White House it is stated that the lobby inquiry is meeting with favor from all over the country. Letters and press clippings are coming in to the executive offices which indicate that the president has taken a stand which is netting him popularity throughout the nation, and no matter what the senate investigation finds or does not find.

"BIG ANNIE" IN JAIL

Woman Who Regularly Chastises Husband Carted Off In Dray

Farrell, Pa., June 6.—When Constable George Bird with a warrant, charging disorderly conduct, went to arrest "Big Annie" Long—weight about 550 pounds—who regularly chastises her husband, he found she had prepared for his coming.

Answering the constable's knock with an invitation to come in, "Big Annie," dishabille, scampered upstairs. She informed Bird that her clothes were hidden, and he could take her as she was.

Calling Policeman Fisher, Bird got a dray and the two officers then tore down several lace curtains with which they adorned "Big Annie" and carted her off to jail.

NEW BATTLESHIP PROGRAM

Great Britain to Rush Building of Three Dreadnoughts

London, June 6.—First Lord of the Admiralty Churchill announced in the house of commons that expansion of the navy would be immediate.

In consequence of the rejection in Canada of the bill making a present of three dreadnoughts to the mother country, the admiralty will grant contracts for the laying down of three keels this year instead of in 1914, as originally intended.

No Telephone Inquiry

Boston, June 6.—There will be no investigation of telephone rates by the present legislature. This was settled in the senate when an order which has been there since Jan. 31 was taken from the table and rejected by a vote of 5 to 13.

Poet Austin's Body Cremated

London, June 6.—The body of Alfred Austin, poet laureate, was cremated at Golder's Green, without any ceremony, but a memorial service was held in the Chapel Royal, St. James' palace, at the same hour.

MURDERED A DETECTIVE

Labor Man Confesses After Becoming Immune Because of Acquittal

Columbus, O., June 6—Lee Cage, a member of the Iron Moulders' union of Wheeling, confessed in the United States district court here that he killed Detective John J. Reardon at Steubenville, O., in 1910. The killing occurred during a period of labor troubles.

Cage was tried at Steubenville more than a year ago on a charge of having murdered Reardon, and was acquitted.

Cage's confession was made during a civil hearing before Judge Sater. Having been in jeopardy once, another trial on the same charge is barred under the constitution.

Cage's confession resulted in speedy dismissal of proceedings involving the disposition of $5000 reward money offered by the commissioners of Jefferson county and another suit by Reardon's administrator to collect $5000 damages from Jefferson county because of Reardon's death.

Upon Cage's admission that he fired the shots which killed the Pittsburg detective, an agreed order was entered allowing the dead man's heirs $1500.

CONSIDERED LIBELLOUS

Government May Take Up Strikers' Postcard Attack Upon Draper

Milford, Mass., June 6.—Postmaster Cook received a large bunch of postcards, mailed by I. W. W. strikers here to be sent out broadcast to all I. W. W. locals, which bore a picture of the striker killed by special police in a strike riot in Hopedale. Under the picture were printed in Italian words which, it is said, proved to be of an inflammatory and libellous character directed against Eben S. Draper, head of the Draper mills.

Cook held up the cards and got into communication with Postmaster General Burleson, in Washington. For sending cards of the alleged character of these, the United States government has made a law to punish the senders by a fine of $5000 or five years in prison.

Just what action will be taken by the postal authorities in the matter is not known.

LOOKED SO PRETTY HE COULDN'T RESIST

Elevator Man Showers Kisses Upon Girl Against Her Will

New York, June 6.—Traffic in Ann street was blocked at office closing time by a crowd surrounding a man and a young woman in front of No. 47, where both are employed.

"He kissed me," declared Miss Gertrude Puzio, a stenographer. "He kissed me all the time we were coming down five floors in the crowded elevator. Then he followed me out here and kissed me again."

The man, William Donovan, elevator operator in the building, said to a policeman who arrested him:

"She was dressed all in white, and she was so darned pretty I just couldn't help kissing her."

REIFF'S FOUL RACING

Jockey Club May Inflict Serious Penalties For Such Tactics

London, June 6.—The incident of the disqualification of Craganour, who was first past the winning post in Wednesday's sensational Derby, has created a strong feeling. It is almost unprecedented that such a scandal should attach to one of the big classic races, although similar occurrences are common in the smaller events.

A motion has been put down for discussion at the annual meeting of the Jockey club on June 16, proposing various changes in the direction of inflicting more severe penalties on jockeys for foul riding. The public feeling is that the stewards of the Jockey club should take strong action in regard to Jockey Reiff's tactics.

THE BARBERS' STRIKE

Federation of Labor Men Say I. W. W. Is Terrorizing Shops

Boston, June 6.—Gains in the number of men on strike were claimed by the I. W. W. barbers yesterday, and to judge from the big crowd at their headquarters all day these claims were justified.

The A. F. of L. barbers have applied to the police for protection from the I. W. W. strikers. Secretary Abrahams of the Central Labor union wrote to Mayor Fitzgerald declaring that the I. W. W. strikers are terrorizing the barber shops of the city.

JAIL IS ROBBED OF LARGE SUM

Accounts Reveal $35,000 Shortage In County Funds

MAY BE AS MUCH AS $100,000

Thefts Which Escaped Notice For Quarter Century Blamed Upon Head Bookkeeper Who Died Suddenly—Investigation Has Been Carried on For a Month Unknown to Public

Cambridge, Mass., June 6.—Thefts that may aggregate more than $100,000, extending over a period of thirty years, have been unearthed by the merest accident in the books of the late Fred H. Smith, bookkeeper at the Middlesex jail at East Cambridge, by the county commissioners.

The thefts from the county treasury are known to reach over $35,000 in the period since Sheriff Fairbairn took office in 1896. They are believed to have begun when Smith became bookkeeper of the institution thirty years ago.

For more than a quarter of a century these peculations have escaped the notice of the various comptrollers charged with the yearly auditing of the prison books.

Sheriff Fairbairn is bound by law to make good the shortage that has occurred since he took office fourteen years ago. His surety bonds are declared by the county commissioners to fully cover the amount. How the state is going to recover the far greater sum, however, is a problem that the commissioners at present are at a loss to solve.

The mysterious death of Smith came on the eve of his retirement under the law last April. He had been told that his books were to be audited in order to give the new bookkeeper a clean bill of health.

He failed to report for work the following Monday morning. When Fairbairn sent for him he was found lying unconscious on the floor of his room and died in a short while.

A few days later Taylor discovered an entry on the books of Superintendent Kenney of the industrial department of the institution of a check for $1000 received and turned over to Smith, to be credited to that department and charged to the master of the institution. This was not entered on Smith's books.

The entry was made prior to the previous examination of the books made by Taylor in December last.

Sheriff Fairbairn asked Taylor why he had not discovered it at the December examination. Taylor informed the sheriff that he did not examine Kenney's books at that time.

When asked by the sheriff why he had not examined Kenney's books, he said that he did not wish to interfere with the prison commissioners.

Then the couty commissioners were notified of the snortage ad after consideration engaged an auditing company to examine the books to determine the exact amount of the shortage.

For a month the commissioners have been making a secret investigation of Smith's books. Yesterday, having established the shortage at $35,151.40, they sent a report to District Attorney Higgins.

In their report they practically accuse the comptroller of county accounts of negligence, and say:

"The county commissioners recommend to the comptroller of county accounts that a thorough revision of the accounting system be instituted in the offices of the county jail and the house of correction, and that this revision shall be made without delay."

Fred H. Smith was appointed clerk at the house of correction July 16, 1880, by Charles J. Adams, then master of the institution. During the term of John M. Fisk he continued to handle all the cash and keep the books, and continued to do so under Fairbairn until the time of Smith's death, March 31.

The sensational news of the shortage came late last night. It had been kept a secret ever since April 28, when Fairbairn notified the Middlesex county commissioners of the deficit.

PLACED UNDER ARREST

Home Office Acts When Suffragette Davison Regains Consciousness

Epsom, Eng., June 6.—Emily W. Davison, the suffragette who leaped at the king's horse and seized the reins while he was galloping at full speed in the race for the Derby, and who suffered terrible injuries, regained consciousness yesterday afternoon. The doctors are hopeful of her recovery.

As soon as Miss Davison regained consciousness she was placed under arrest on orders of the home office.

Kills Mother-In-Law and Baby

Canton, O., June 6.—Enraged because his wife had left him, Robert Roach, aged 25, started in to destroy her family last night. He shot and killed his mother-in-law and 16 months old baby, and when a policeman tried to arrest him, seriously wounded him.

AMENDMENTS ARE UNLIKELY

Wilson's Free List Will Have Support of His Party

SUGAR, LUMBER, WOOL, SHOES

All Will Remain as Provided In Underwood Bill—Wrong Date Necessitates Change In Income Tax Clause—Farmers Not Satisfied With Measure as It Now Stands

Washington, June 6.—President Wilson's position in support of free wool and free sugar seems to grow stronger as the day of the senate caucus draws nearer. The tariff bill will be put to the acid test there and party leaders now feel that the president's stand will be supported almost unanimously by the party with the exception of two or three senators being released from the caucus pledge.

There is an increasing possibility that not more than two Democratic senators will oppose the bill to the end. Free shoes, free lumber, free agricultural products, free wool and free sugar as provided in the Underwood bill are to stand, the administration leaders declare, and the probability of any amendments to those items on the floor of the senate is lessening.

Before the senate acts on the Underwood tariff bill the income tax section will be amended to remedy a defect which, it has been discovered, would make the measure unconstitutional. When the framers of the provision fixed Jan. 1, 1913, as the date from which to compute income for taxation, they overlooked the fact that the constitutional amendment authorizing an income tax was not proclaimed as ratified until Feb. 25, 1913. This fact was brought to the attention of the senate finance subcommittee and an amendment will be drafted at once.

Senator Williams' sub-committee still has under advisement the scores of protests filed by officials of the mutual life insurance companies against their inclusion under provisions of the income tax law, and the committee still is considering an amendment which would give such mutual concerns exemption if they are able to prove after the tax has been assessed that they are not conducted for profit and that all of their surplus earnings are participated by their policyholders.

Action by the sub-committee, to be ratified by the finance committee, in putting livestock and grains on the free list, retaining on the free list also meats, flour and oatmeal, it is expected, will arouse protests from farmers and farm organizations, but the committee will hold to this solution of the problem presented in the Underwood bill of equalizing agricultural raw materials and their products. One vigorous protest came from the corn belt of Iowa before the action was announced.

CONTAINS IMPERFECTIONS

Customs Reorganization Plans Delayed at McAdoo's Suggestion

Washington, June 6.—Secretary McAdoo recommended to congress a postponement of the customs reorganization plan until Jan. 1, 1914, because of objections against it and because he believes it contains imperfections.

Acting upon the recommendations of McAdoo, the senate commerce committee voted to report favorably a bill to defer until Jan. 1, 1914, the proposed reorganization of the customs service, which, by reducing the number of districts and collectors from 156 to forty-nine, would affect every customs port in the country.

MORSE WINS BIG SUIT

Was Sued For $33,000 by Assignee to Recover Securities

New York, June 6.—Charles W. Morse won a suit brought against him by Henri Lehman, as assignee of C. L. Charley of Paris, to recover $33,000, representing securities of the American Ice company and the Consolidated Steamship lines.

A jury in the federal court found a verdict for Morse after he had taken the stand and denied he had ever acted as a broker in these securities, as alleged by the plaintiff.

The Kitchen Cupboard

VEGETABLES AU GRATIN.

PLACED in a baking dish, covered with cheese or breadcrumbs and browned in the oven, vegetables of almost any kind take a specially delicate flavor. This is also an attractive way of serving them, and when they have been cooked they may be sent to the table without further trouble. If your baking dish is not as handsome as it might be its appearance may be concealed by setting it in a slightly larger dish.

Delicious Fare.

Cauliflower au Gratin.—Take a medium sized cauliflower and boil until tender. Put in the frying pan a tablespoonful of butter and when melted add a tablespoonful of flour. Stir until smooth and add a half pint of milk. Keep stirring until it boils, then add a half teaspoonful of salt and four tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. Pour over the cauliflower and serve.

Mushrooms au Gratin.—Take some medium sized mushrooms. Remove the stalks. Wash them and dry. Set them on a dish and season them. Sprinkle with a few drops of olive oil, then put them in the oven for five minutes. Sprinkle the surface with grated cheese and a few drops of oil or melted butter and set them in a hot oven.

Simple Yet Tasty.

Potatoes au Gratin.—Take cold baked potatoes which you have peeled rather fine, chop them and mix with about three-quarters of a cupful of grated cheese. Season with salt and pepper and put into a buttered baking dish. Add milk just to cover and bake slowly for three-quarters of an hour. Then cover the top with about one-quarter of a cupful of grated cheese and return to the oven for fifteen minutes to brown. Do not have the oven at full heat for the last quarter hour.

Cabbage au Gratin.—Take a quart of shredded cabbage and cook for twenty minutes in salted boiling water and then drain. Make a cream sauce by cooking one tablespoonful of butter and a tablespoonful of flour, saltspoonful of salt and dash of pepper, and stirring into it a cupful of milk until it thickens. Put alternate layers of the cabbage, cream sauce and grated cheese in a baking dish, having cheese and grated breadcrumbs over the top. Bake a light brown and you will be delighted with this dish.

SQUANTUM WOMEN'S CLUB

Every Effort Being Made to Get New Clubhouse

The Squantum Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Edward Eagar, Harbor View street, Wednesday afternoon. Ways and means for obtaining a new clubhouse is always the main topic at the meetings nowadays. While things seem to be lagging a little the finance committee are still hard at work and a new project of securing the much desired building is well underway, and it looks as if the club would get their home soon but not in time for a dedication on the Fourth of July as was originally planned.

The members of the club have volunteered to assist the men of the Squantum Improvement Association by making their costumes which they are to wear at the minstrel show. The object of this affair is to raise money for the Women's club to aid them with the clubhouse fund and the ladies thought this would be a good way to help reduce expenses. It is hoped that all of the ladies that can will meet at the home of Mrs. James Foster, next Thursday afternoon at 1.30 P. M., and bring their thimbles needle and thread.

The Improvement committee reported they would like any one to help them with their work of planting flowers in the little park-ways about Squantum this week Saturday. Mrs. Foster, chairman of this committee said they had accomplished quite a bit of work and had been successful in having some unsightly bill-boards removed and that they had already planted two gardens.

After the business Mrs. Hiram Morse, who has been selling votes on a handsome Irish chochet bag announced Mrs. Charles Bostwick as the winner.

Mrs. Eagar served iced lemonade and fancy wafers assisted by Mrs T. F. Callahan.

GREAT DANGER TO PUBLIC

Autoist Pays Fine of $20 Because of High Speed

Judge Avery administered a stinging lecture to William B. Long of Cohasset this morning when he was arraigned for violating the automobile law at Milton. Officer Chamberlin testified that Long went through Milton making forty miles an hour. In reply to a question by Judge Avery as to why he made that speed, Long said that he was in a hurry to get home to supper. Judge Avery then ga vehim a lecture on speeding, citing the great danger to the general public, and calling attention to the recent accident at Cohasset, which was the direct result of fast driving Long was fined $20 which he paid.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

The Railroad Commissioners have submitted to the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. a set of recommendations for the safety of the public on crossings in Hull and Nantasket. They follow an investigation on the death of Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Fogg of Hingham, both of whom were killed when their Ford auto was struck by a train. They also recommend that the speed should be reduced to four miles an hour when trains are approaching unprotected crossings. Mrs. Fogg's body was so badly mutilated that identification would have been difficult if she was unknown. The machine was wrecked beyond repair and Mr. Fogg received a fractured skull. The residents are highly pleased this morning with the recommendations.

If you have any suggestions to make, come and make them known.

PARSONAGE MEETING TONIGHT.

HEAVY SEIZURE OF CIGARS

Inspectors Take 75,000 Put Up Without Revenue Stamps

Providence, June 6.—Enough cigars to stock a good-sized store were seized in the Italian section here and in Natick by federal inspectors because they did not bear revenue stamps.

The inspectors from this city and Boston seized 72,000 cigars on Federal hill and 3000 in Natick. The cigars were made in New York and bore the name of a Boston dealer.

Carmen Win Fight In Senate

Boston, June 6.—Street railway employes won a victory in the senate when the nine-hour-in-eleven bill was passed to a third reading by a vote of 29 to 9. The bill has been vigorously opposed by the Boston Elevated Railway company.

Mountain of the Sacred Footprint.

Adam's peak, or Mount Samanala, a rugged mountain in the island of Ceylon, is known throughout the orient as the "Mountain of the Sacred Footprint." In a flat, rocky basin at the foot of this mountain in stone as hard as blue granite there is the perfect imprint of a gigantic human foot, five and one-half feet long by two and one-half feet wide. The Ceylonese Brahmans have a legend to the effect that the imprint was made by Adam, our first parent, but the Buddhists declare that it could have been made by no one but Buddha.

In a Different Light.

Watchful Mother—It looked very much as though young Mr. Huggins was stealing a kiss when I saw your heads so close together. Confiding Daughter—I wouldn't put it that way. He may have thoughtlessly embezzled a few, but I'm sure he'll repent and have them with him the next time he calls.—Chicago News.

Cynical Foresight.

"That boy of yours may be president of the United States some day."

"Maybe," assented Farmer Corntossel. "But the chances are that he'll be one of the fellows who think they are lucky if they get appointed to be postmaster."—Washington Star.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

INCREASE PROPOSED IN FREIGHT RATES

Railroad Presidents to Present the Railroad's Side of the Case

$40,000,000 More Revenue Desired by Eastern Railroads

(Special to Daily Ledger.)

Boston, June 7. Applications are coming in very rapidly for seats at the dinner to be given in the ball room of the Copley-Plaza hotel next Thursday evening by the Boston Chamber of Commerce in order that the members of the chamber and representatives of the other commercial organizations throughout New England may hear the railroad side of the proposition to make a general increase of freight rates. Quincy granite manufacturers and other industries are affected by the proposed increase.

To present their case the railroads will send the highest executive officers of three of the leading railroads in the country—President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio, President W. C. Brown of the New York Central, and President Samuel Rea of the Pennsylvania. President James J. Storrow of the Boston Chamber of Commerce will preside and the dinner will be an informal affair, followed by a smoker during which the railroad officials will state conditions as they see them and ask for the support of the business men of New England in their appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to make a 5 per cent increase on each ton of freight on the flat charge, disregarding the mileage basis. It is desired to make this increase in that section of the country east of the Mississipi and north of Mason and Dixon's line. This it is said, would mean an increased annual revenue of about $40,000,000 which they claim is essential.

It is the plan that the fullest opportunity shall be given those present to question the railroad representatives, and it is anticipated that most interesting features will be developed.

CITY COUNCIL BUSINESS

Adjourned Meeting Will Be Held Monday Evening

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. There was nothing particularly pressing that called for an adjournment for a week, but as the regular meeting would have fallen on the night before the Seventeenth of June it was thought best to adjourn for a week, and then if another meeting was necessary befor th summer vacation to hold it June 18 or 23.

The two most important matters to come up Monday evening are the loan order to provide funds for the new streets that have been accepted, and to pass the order for new permanent sidewalks.

The order establishing a new plumbing ordinance which has been the subject for much debate is on the table and it is more than likely that it will be taken from the table for action.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT BETHANY

Evening Topic--"Is a Minister Free to Preach the Truth"

Children's Day will be observed at the Sunday morning service of worship at Bethany church. Singing by the Bible school. The Junior chorus will be located in the choir seats, and sing anthems and lead public praise. Those parents whose children are to be baptized will meet in the chapel at 10.30.

At the pleasant Sunday evening service the pastor will speak of his seventeen years in the ministry, and among other things will answer the question, "Is a minister free to preach the truth?" All are invited to these services.

WELCOME TO PASTOR.

A reception was tendered by the members of St. Pauls M. E. Church to their new pastor, Rev. A. E. Hillman Thursday night. There was speechmaking by several members and a purse was given the pastor. Refreshments were served and a delightful social hour was enjoyed by all, who were happy that the health of their pastor was restored.

SQUANTUM DELIGHTFUL

Say the Foxboro Circle of King's Daughters

The Foxboro Reporter prints the following story of a days outing at Squantum.

Several members of the Persevering circle of King's Daughters took a trolley ride to Squantum on Wednesday where one of their number Mrs. F. A. Lovejoy, has a large and convenient cottage, beautiful for situation. On their arrival, clam chowder, steamed clams and all the fixings were served.

The cottage overlooks Dorchester and Quincy bays, with their many islands. The view is magnificent ,having water on three sides, with many small and large steamers in the distance. Five light houses are most beautiful at night, as are also the many lights in Boston and Dorchester especially on the long bridge between City Point and Castle Island.

There is historic interest also connected with Squantum relating to Myles Standish and his Indian guide Squanto, dating back to 1621.

The party had one of the finest times of their lives, and only wished that more Foxboro people could have enjoyed it..

If you want to know the most beautiful place to spend the summer, go to Squantum.

HOT TODAY.

Today will pass for a real hot summer day and a look at the thermometer will convince any one that it is so. There was but little air stirring this morning and the weather was actually uncomfortable. At noon the thermometer registered 83 degrees which was one degree warmer than June 3, when the temperature at noon was 82 degrees. Th warmest day last yearin June was June 25, when it was 91 at at noon. Again on June 26, and 29 the temperature was an even 90 degrees. The maximum noon temperature in June for fourteen years was 98 degrees and the minimum noon temperature in June for fourteen years was 50 degrees.

FLAG DAY OBSERVED

Pleasing Program by New England Order of Protection

Quincy Lodge, N. E. O. P. held a Flag Day observance in Electa hall, last evening which was attended by representatives of all the patriotic societies in the city.

George W. Penniman of Mattapan, grand warden of Massachusetts, was the orator. In speaking of the origin of national standards he said Denmark came first in age and the United States third. He spoke feelingly of the patriotism of American citizens and concluded his address by making the presentation of a handsome flag to the lodge in behalf of the entertainment committee.

It was accepted by warden Mrs. Mary A. McNeil, who made a brief speech.

Mrs. Lora I. Smith of Attleboro, department vice president of the Woman's Relief Corps, delivered an address on the flag in which he spoke of the loyalty of her family to the stars and stripes and told how she had been laboring 22 years in its behalf.

Mrs. Cylinda Richardson, the president and Mrs. Eliza Penniman, the patriotic instruction of the Womans Relief Corps also made brief remarks.

Marguerite Thompson of Quincy Point and Marie Anderson of Wollaston acted as pages and distributed small flags to those present.

An entertainment program was rendered, consisting of recitations by Mrs. Edward Sawin, Miss Mildred Robinson, Miss Dorothy McLennan Miss Cordelia McLennan and Miss Arabella Porter of Braintree. Mrs. John K. Ruggles sang "Barbara Fritchie," accompanied by Mrs. Alice White of Weymouth, who also presided at the piano during the violin solo of her daughter Miss Alice White. Mrs. Agnes Lockhardt gave several piano solos.

Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The committee included Mrs. Mary A. McNeil, Mrs. Thomas McCormack, Mrs, Joseph Avery, Mrs. Frederick Lord, Mrs. Mary Lamfair and Mrs. Edward Sawin.

UNIQUE PLAN TO OBTAIN PARSONAGE

Adopted by Washington Street Congregational Church of Quincy Point

Money Loaned by People to be Returned

Immediate action to secure a parsonage for the pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church was taken at a combined meeting of the parish and church Friday evening. It was voted to accept the recommendations of the Board of Managers who have developed a way whereby one can be purchased.

A bequest of the late Joseph Whiton to start a fund was all that was needed and soon after Mr. Whiton's fund passed into the hands of the treasurer, steps were taken which will soon result in a permanent home.

President William Lee presided at the meeting. It was announced that $945 was actually pledged to date and that more was in sight. Nearly 50 were present and all took part in the general discussion that prevailed.

The plan to financing the proposition is based on the following approximate proportion:

Gift of Joseph L. Whiton, (deceased)	$200
Donated by people of the Parish	200
Loaned by people for 12 years at 4 per cent compounded annually	800
Balance on 1st mortgage at 5 per cent	2000
Approximate cost of parsonage	$3200

The cost to carry this per month has been equalized to the amount now paid for rent. The interest on the mortgage is figured at $8.33 per month and to redeem the $800 loaned by people as above six shares of cooperative bank stock will be taken, costing $6 monthly. This leaves a balance of $10.67 for rent, taxes, repairs, on a $25 monthly rent.

In presenting the advantages offered through this system the president of the Men's Club of the church spoke of one of the options in possession of the society. The plan as originally laid down would cost, outside of taxes, etc $22.08 per month, but the sound conservatism with which the method was received developed this method. In other words, as the speaker siad, if everyone had made a big noise when asked to subscribe the chances are the scheme never would have been evolved Through keeping an open mind, induced by the kindly and Christian reception accorded his mission he was able early one morning to perfect the plan.

Several pieces of property are in view and will receive the attention of the men in charge of making the investment. They will later report to the parish.

Rev. Sherman Goodwin has been pastor for a few months only, having succeeded Rev. Mr. Marshall who went to Plymouth.

TWO WAYS TO GROW PROSPEROUS

There are two ways for a business man to become more prosperous. The first is by active competition among his neighbors. If he is a live one, he realizes to the full the law of life, that he must hustle, or young and brighter men will get ahead of him. He must get out after trade, or he will get out of trade.

But an additional prosperity can be acquired, outside of whatever can be realized as the result of successful competition with your neighbors, by united efforts to make the home town grow. The advance of a whole community brings an accretion to every one who owns real estate or a business, or who has an income dependent on the prosperity of his neighbors.

This increment brings a new prosperity without much effort. As your houselot grows in value the more valuable as more people read your advertising or pass your door.

No man is doing is duty by his own business, unless he sets apart a certain modicum of effort to be devoted to measures to make his home town grow.

Any town can be made to grow by systematic and common sense efforts to attact new residents and industries. Communities are like stores, it takes advertising to attract interest and attention.

Often it is not advertising spread broadcast that lands new business. It every community does all it can to help its own young men who have new enterprises to start, it lays the foundations for concerns that will become prosperous and bring people to the town.

A dozen active business men, who have faith in the future of their own town, who will give some time each week to working out plans and taking advantage of opportunities that would otherwise pass unnoticed, can work wonders.

Thus far Quincy has not been invaded by "three deckers to the extent that some suburban cities and towns have, and we should be thankful for it. This class of houses quickly depreciate property in any neighborhood where they are built, and for tenants who occupy them home is not what it used to be. Many people do not want all their rooms on the street floor, or the top floor, or to have families below and above. Then most everybody wants a little lawn or garden that they can call their own, but this seems impossible when people reside in three deckers. It is hoped that the new building ordinance adopted this week will make almost prohibitive the building of three deckers. Many two-family houses are as attractive and homelike as a single house, and such houses are to be encouraged, but none of the three decker flat roof houses are wanted in Quincy.

The Quincy Board of Trade now has the numbers and finances which make it possible to accomplish something. Thanks to President Hamilton and the campaign committee all parts of the city are now represented in the board. In the past most of the members were from Wards One, Two, Three and Four, but now there are several members from Wollaston and Atlantic and Squantum and Houghs Neck. When men from all parts of the city are working together in one organization, much for the good of the whole city is possible. The Board of Trade has almost overtaken the Quincy Women's Club in membership, but is not so successful in getting members to the meetings. The women can also give the men some pointers in organization, raising funds, and work accomplished.

College degrees soon announced. The one under the head B. H. in the ball scores is valued most.

Mrs. Pankhurst having refused luncheon, the chivalrous Britons have released her from jail.

As gambling was cut out when racing was resumed at the New York tracks, the horses were given some attention.

GLEANERS ARE ENTERTAINED

Several Outings Are Planned for the Summer

The Gleaners of the Swedish Baptist church held their regular monthly business meeting at the home of Miss Florence Blomquist, Nightingale avenue, last evening. Quite a large number of the members were present and all spent an enjoyable evening. The secretary's report was read and the members responded to the roll call with a verse or quotation on "charity."

Routine business and the work to be done by the society the coming month were then taken up, after which a most interesting letter from the Baptist missionary, Miss Christine Carlson of Africa, was read.

The Gleaners are planning to hold several outings this summer and intend to spend the coming holiday at Franklin Park.

During the evening refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostess, and after several amusing recitations from a Brockton visitor, songs and piano selections, the class adjourned until next month.

HOUGHS NECK TURNOUTS

Practically Completed and Will Give Better Time

The two new street railway turnouts on the Houghs Neck line are nearly completed, and next Tuesday should see them finished. The most difficult job was on Coddington street where the grade had to be raised two feet six inches at one point. While the cars are running over this turnout all of the work has not been fully completed. A large gang of men have been at work on the new turnout near the Willows all of the week.

With these two new turnouts much better time should be made on this line for it will have a fine track service. From City Square to the Coddington street turnout is but two minutes run and from there to the beginning of the long turnout near the Adams farm but two minutes more. From here there is a double rail as far down as the entrance to Post Island.

Another run of two minutes brings the car to the second new turnout at the Willows and another two minutes the car to the turnout on Manet avenue. The longest run without a turnout is from Manet avenue to the end of the line. This however is not over a five minute run so that there should be no delay in cars.

There has been a talk that sometime a new line of track would be built on Sea street between the Willows and the fire station which would give the cars a chance to go down by one route and return by the other. There is but little prospect of this line being built for some time as yet.

BASKET OF FRUIT.

The members of the Cranch grammar school baseball team who are tied with Willards for the championship of the city were photographed at the Nerses studio this morning. Harry Galvin, the third baseman who was injured in Thursday's game could not be present. A basket of fruit was set in the position he would have occupied and after several groups had been taken, Principal Townsend and the boys called at the home of Harry. "Vern" Arbuckle, the school pitcher, made a short presentation of the basket of fruit and assurred his team mate that the boys regretted his forced absence from the game but they would win Monday unless the fates were again unkind.

VACATION FOR CITY COUNCIL

Under New Rules New Business Will Be Shut Out

It is understood that the members of the City Council are planning to make an early adjournment this year for the summer vacation, and there seems to be no good reason why it cannot. Practically all of the important matters have been cleaned up, and unless the rules of the council are suspended it will not be possible to pass any more appropriations for street work this year. All petitions and orders for street construction and rebuilding received from now on must be referred to the next City Council.

Nearly all of the committees have cleaned up the business referred to them, although there are always applications for minor licenses that are received throughout the year. In other years, during the vacation period, these late people got by without a license for by the time the council had granted the licenses they had closed up and gone away.

Under this year's rules however applicants for minor licenses must file the fee for said license when making the application, so that if the party is gone when the license is finally issued the city has lost nothing. Up to the present time several hundred dollars has been taken in by the City Clerk for License fees.

PLEASED WITH OUTING.

The Boston Society of Civil Engineers who were in Quincy on Friday on their annual outing went away with the opinion well fixed in their minds that Norteman had put up one of the best shore dinners they had ever eaten. City Engineer Sargent who had charge of the outing was covered with congratulations for having selected such a fine place for dinner. There were about one hundred in the party and after dinner they embarked on the steamer Griswold for a harbor trip. The sewer disposal plants at Nut Island and Deer island were inspected and the steamer reached Boston on the return trip about 6 o'clock. The members and their ladies all report having had a fine time.

LATE CAR EVERY NIGHT.

Under the new timetable on the street railway West Quincy is to have late car service every night. Under the present timetable the last car for West Quincy with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday nights leaves City Square at 11.10. Under the new timetable however West Quincy will get a late car from Quincy every night, leaving City Square at 11.50 for West Quincy and East Milton. The car which met the late theatre train at 12.25 on Wednesday and Saturday nights will be taken off as this train has been discontinued by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

HIRED MEN TO BE ARRESTED

Charge Against Police Officials by Curran Committee

PARTNERSHIP WITH CRIMINALS

Specific Case Is Cited Wherein Head of Detective Bureau, Which Is Declared to Be Hopelessly Inefficient, Made Deal to Have Burglary Committed—Dougherty's Denial

New York, June 7.—Scathing arraignment of the detective bureau of the New York police department and the charge that a partnership exists between some detectives and criminals are contained in the third section of the Curran committee report on police conditions submitted to the board of aldermen. A brisk fight over the report's adoption is expected.

"Benjamin Levy," says the report, "who has never been convicted of a crime, testified that at the request of officials in the detective bureau he had often induced criminals to commit burglaries in order that they might be arrested. He was strongly corroborated by reputable citizens, including an official of an insurance company, a merchant, and others.

"Levy testified that in this case Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of the detective bureau, gave him $25 with which to purchase burglars' tools and after he succeeded in the burglary paid him $75 for his services. City vouchers for these amounts in Levy's favor were found in the comptroller's office.

"Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and others involved were subpoenaed by us and asked to waive immunity before giving their testimony. This they refused, with one exception, and they were not interrogated. Notwithstanding the shocking nature of this testimony and the corroboration received, the commissioner has taken no action whatever in the premises."

In conclusion the report says the bureau is hopelessly inefficient, adding: "Detectives should be chosen only because they show detective skill."

Dougherty issued a statement branding the committee reoprt as "a sample of malice and lies, worthy of the trade talent of a professional crook. The aldermen have lined up convicted thieves on their side," he continued, "against the word of hard-working, honest detectives. It is too absurd to discuss in detail, and besides, I haven't time to fight with politicians."

RIFLES SEIZED AT DUBLIN

Consigned to Irish Peer Who Is Leader in Ulster Province

Dublin, June 7.—A sensation was caused by the seizure here by the customs authorities of a consignment of 500 rifles and bayonets on board a steamer from Liverpool. The arms were addressed to Baron Farnham, an Irish peer, at his country seat, Farnham, County Caven. Farnham was formerly an officer in the regular army. He served through the war in South Africa.

The baron, who is 33 years old, is one of the leading Unionists of the province of Ulster, and has taken a prominent part in the campaign against home rule.

The cases of rifles and bayonets came from a London firm, and it is reported that the authorities have discovered an elaborate organization in London for supplying the Unionist centres in Ulster with arms.

GOING AFTER ICE BARONS

Attorney General of Bay State Will Have Aid of State Police

Boston, June 7.—"The Soak 'em Club has got to go, if I can find evidence of any illegal acts," says Attorney General Swift.

The state police on Monday will call upon members of ice firms who are said to be the worst offenders and "request" them to appear before the attorney general in person, together with any books and papers which might show the existence of any combination or conspiracy to raise or maintain prices.

Swift has already gained information that the ice supply is up to normal, and the old excuse of a warm winter and small supply, he says, will not go with him.

CONVICTS ON STRIKE

Menu Served at Auburn Prison Not Elaborate Enough to Suit Them

Auburn, N. Y., June 7.—Protesting against a noon menu consisting of creamed codfish, potatoes, pickled beets, brown bread, white bread and tea, convicts employed in the cabinet and cane shops of the Auburn state prison went on strike. The men had given indication of their dissatisfaction by groaning and later refused to go to work.

Old-time officers of the institution declared the prisoners were trying to test the "metal" of the new warden, C. F. Rattigan. The warden locked the strikers in cells and later all but twenty-seven of them returned to work.

TO FIGHT MOSQUITO.

The representatives of the improvement and patriotic associations met in the Ward six rooms on Wednesday evening and elected Louis Langelier, chairman and Henry C. Mosses, secretary.

The Association is to try and see what can be done in alleviating the mosquito plague in this section of the the city, and will experiment on a few of the swamps and ponds by the use of oil. Ex-councilman Parlee of Montclair gave the committee the benefit of his experience on a small pond in the Montclair district and believes that the use of oil would do a lot of good in extermination.

James Thomas of the Norfolk Downs Association told of his experience in the use of oil and offered ten gallons to any one wanting to experiment.

William F. Buckley of the Patriotic Association believed that the surest and best way to exterminate the mosquito was by draining the marshes.

With sentiment so strong in all sections against the mosquito it seems as if something will be done this summer.

MILTON

The firemen of Milton paid a tribute to the upright character of Chief Choate, for many years their superior officer, on Memorial Day when they laid a wreath on his grave in the Milton cemetery. Chief Choate was a faithful firemen and practically died in the harness, after years of faithful service.

MAY UNITE ON FIREWORKS

Another Meeting of Fourth of July Committee

There was some talk at the meeting of the Fourth of July Celebration committee Tuesday evening that if was possible that the Atlantic association would join with the Quincy association in the fireworks exhibition in the evening. It appears however that from the report that the Atlantic association has already ordered its exhibit.

Every year that the city has made an appropriation for the Fourth of July celebration the Mayor has given the Atlantic association from $150 to $200 of it, as the money was appropriated for the celebration of the Fourth and not appropriated for any one particular organization. This year however the appropriation is a little different, for the order as passed reads that the $999 shall be expended "under the direction of the Mayor by the association of which the Mayor is the president." If the spirit of the order is carried out the whole amount will have to be given to the Quincy association.

Another meeting of this association is to be held tonight at the rooms of the Board of Trade and Mayor Stone hopes that everybody interested in making the celebration a success this year will be present and offer any suggestions, in order that this years affair may eclipse all previous efforts.

The Adams Market

Is Quincy's Most Modern Food Store

It is clean, wholesome and inviting. Its central location makes it of easy access. The Meats, Vegetables, Fruits, Bakery Goods, Canned Goods and all Groceries are of sterling standard quality—the Foy Quality that made the Water Street Store famous.

It is the best kind of a Grocery and Market for two classes of shoppers—the careful and careless. The former examines critically, compares, considers quality and value---and finds almost invariably an advantage in trading here. The latter consults personal likes and dislikes, but only makes superficial comparisons----and it is even more important that one of this temperament, whether of limited or most ample means, should choose a store like this, where straightforward dealing protects all alike.

We depend more upon your satisfaction than upon printer's ink to spread the good news of this good store and the fact that we do not tolerate old fashioned ideas. Personal interest is taken in your every want and we refuse to sell any goods about which there is the slightest doubt.

Come in, look our store over, note the high standard of our Groceries, Meats, Canned Goods, Teas, Coffees, Fruits, Vegetables, etc., then you will know you can depend upon this store for high quality.

MEATS — Spring Lamb, Native Chickens, Eastern Pork, Heavy Beef, Smoked and Cured Meats — MEATS

New Potatoes, Egg Plant, Green Peas, String Beans, New Beets, New Carrots, New White Turnips, New Marrow Squash, Romaine Cantaloupes.

TO HAVE CLUBHOUSE.

At a special meeting June 2d, of the Milton Woman's club it was voted after careful consideration that the club make an effort to have a clubhouse. It was then voted to buy the land on White street. It was also voted that the club take the proper steps to become incorporated. It was voted that the president appoint all necessary committees and that another special meeting be called as soon as the committee could report.

In opening the meeting, Mrs. Emma H .Tucker, the president, said that this was the most important meeting the club had held in the fifteen years of its life. Every year the club has greater interests, and larger opportunities are opening before it. In order to make the most of these opportunities it needs a home of its own where it can more fully develop the spirit of all-togetherness of which the club is so justly proud. The women who started the club fifteen years ago could not see how important a factor it was to become in the town. All are agreed that a clubhouse is needed.

Ralph C., the 11 months old son of Arvid J. and Laura C. Anderson, died today at the home of his parents, 59 Garfield street, after a short illness.

SHUT OUT BY MILTON

Quincy High Not In Its Usual Good Form

Milton High school outplayed Quincy High in every department at Merrymount Park Friday afternoon and beat them 7 to 0. The local boys blew up early in the game, and at only two periods showed signs of life. The rest of the time they spent in making queer little errors of judgment which caused much wonderment in the minds of the fans who have regularly seen Quincy come across with a high class base ball.

The scoring commenced in the first inning when Hurder of Milton smashed a hit which scored two runs. In the fourth with one out Paul Larkin threw out G. Margeson who tried to score on his brothers infield tap. Driscoll reached first on a hit, Harlow was passed and both scored when "Les" Andrews went up in the air; after making a pretty stop of Babcock's hot grounder he threw wild to home with two out. Both scored. In the fifth Creedon nailed Stanley trying to steal home.

Crocker was sent in to pitch, Andrews trotted to left and Burke was pulled from the game. Stanley tried to reach home but a snappy throw from Creedon nailed him at the plate. Paul Larkin, Creedon and R. Larkin figured in a double play in the eighth inning.

The boys were not there in any sense of the word. Hamlin as catcher was the only man that played his position faultlessly. Sam Prout got a pretty hit which looked as though it was going to centre but dropped between the man and second, "Bull Moose" Brown hit in the ninth innings and "Mecca" Larkin beat out a bunt to first. All the other stick work meant a death at first.

Stanley seemed to have the local boys at his mercy. Using a high ball frequently he managed to secure 13 strike outs. The Quincy players seemed anxious to get a swat at his high delivery and made no effort to pull him down to even shoulder balls.

Crocker, while working hard for his team received wretched support. He got eight strike outs.

A photographer presents the team every season with an enlarged photo for the school, and Friday's game was the first of the two last chances the team had of clinching it. The evident nervousness however can hardly be attributed to this. The summary:

WHO IS THE JOKE ON?

Last week three young lady visitors from Quincy found time hanging heavily on their hands, says the Weymouth Times, so, for a joke, were told that it was ladies' afternoon at the bowling alley. The jokers supposed that the girls would come out when they found that they had been fooled, but Beach thought quickly and joked the jokers. He made it ladies' afternoon and the girls never knew that it was for their benefit only. They bowled several strings and attempted to learn to play pool and had a good time generally and now the jokers are trying to puzzle out just who the joke is on—the girls, Beach, or (say it softly) themselves.

"MOST LIKELY A BILLION"

Nitrate King So Rich That Fortune Is Beyond Counting

New York, June 7.—John D. Rockefeller is, by comparison, a fit subject for the poorhouse when it comes to counting cash in hand, if the statements of Ezequiel Ossio of Chile are to be accepted. Ossio arrived on a United Fruit steamer, and when questioned by reporters calmly stated that Rockefeller was a poor man compared to him.

"I have so much money that I have never been able to count it," said Ossio. "Perhaps I have four or five hundred million, or most likely a billion. I am the Nitrate King, and the richest man in the world." With this Ossio bowed himself away.

Ossio also appears to have it on John D. in the matter of health.

POLISH AND GREEK OPERATIVES QUIT

I. W. W. Induces Six Hundred to Leave Ipswich Mills

Ipswich, Mass., June 7.—Six hundred Polish and Greek strikers, who on Thursday reported for work at the Ipswich hosiery mills, failed to report yesterday, as the result, it is said, of the influence of Joseph Schiller, an organizer of the I. W. W., who came here and addressed meetings of Greek and Polish operatives.

Announcement was made by the management that hereafter no help would be taken on without application first being made at the office. Heretofore strikers have been permitted to return with the approval of the foreman. The new move is looked upon by the strikers as an attempt on the part of the mill owners to keep out members of the Industrial Workers.

WANTED A PROMOTION

Ticket Agent Fails to Get It and Shoots Two Men In Revenge

Pittsburg, June 7.—James McNair, ticket agent at the Union station here, was shot and killed, and his chief clerk, Ralph Paully, was fatally shot by D. E. Sage, a clerk in the ticket office, who is said to have become angered over failure to receive promotion when changes were made recently in this department of the railroad.

There was no quarrel, it is said, but some conversation over the promotions. Without a threat, Sage drew his gun and fired three shots. Sage made his escape through the crowded waiting room.

Won't Stand For Insult to Flag

Hoboken, N. J., June 7.—Claiming they stuck to their work while a Canadian foreman called them "Yankee pigs," but were through when he called the American flag a "dirty rag," 150 boilermakers here went on strike.

Burglar Alarm Fails to Work

Bowdoinham, Me., June 7.—A new burglar alarm failed to protect the postoffice here again from burglary. Burglars blew the safe open and secured $250 cash and $250 in stamps. This is the fourth robbery.

BREAKS SPIRIT OF 1911 TREATY

Japan's Opinion Regarding California Alien Land Law

THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT

Declaration That It Has Been Violated Raises a New Issue—Contention That Houses Are Inseparable From Land Also a New One—Latest Note In Hands of Counsellor Moore

Tokio, June 7.—The rejoinder of Japan to the United States' note on the subject of the California alien land-ownership legislation reiterates that the land bill passed by the California legislature violates the spirit of the Japanese-American treaty by discrimination against a friendly power. It points out that even if the question is an economic one, it enters the domain of international relations, and therefore becomes political.

The note says that the California legislation violates article 1 of the Japanese-American treaty of 1911, which authorizes subjects or citizens of the contracting parties to own or lease houses, which are inseparable parts of real estate.

It also declares that the new bill violates the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution requiring the states to grant equal protection under its laws to all persons within its jurisdiction.

As Viewed In Washington

Washington, June 7.—The outline of Japan's latest note, as contained in the Tokio dispatches, was received in Washington with the greatest interest by officials and diplomats. The note was read to the cabinet at the regular meeting and sent back to the state department to Councillor Moore, the government's foremost authority on international law.

Diplomatists agreed generally that the new point referred to by President Wilson as opening the field for "new and interesting negotiations" was Japan's contention that the anti-alien land law violated the fourteenth amendment to the constitution. It was accepted that Japan refers to that clause which declares that no state shall "deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

The contention that houses are inseparable parts of real estate also is a new one, but was not regarded as so interesting as the contention of a violation of the fourteenth amendment.

Secretary Bryan, haying left for Pittsburg to attend a dinner to George W. Guthrie, the newly appointed ambassador to Japan, will take up the new phases of the situation with the president when he returns. Meanwhile, Moore will work on the question. It may be two weeks or more before reply is made.

Would Keep Orientals Out

Washington, June 7.—Mrs. William C. Story, president general of the D. A. R., now in Washington, believes that the patriotic education of Americans of tomorrow is the present day duty of the 100,000 American women who belong to the D. A. R.

"The wisdom of the statesmen who excluded the oriental from this country was well timed," she said. "The oriental is not of our kind. His standard of morals is deteriorating to sturdy Americanism. I sympathize with the Californians who want to save their beautiful land for people who can become citizens and Americans."

CONDEMNED BY COURT

Canned Salmon and Nuts Seized In Boston to Be Destroyed

Boston, June 7.—Decrees have been entered by Judge Morton in the United States district court directing the destruction of 1000 cases of canned salmon and eighteen boxes of mixed nuts. The salmon is a part of a large shipment seized on the premises of wholesale grocers in this city. Salt water had caused holes to appear in the cans, making the contents unfit to eat.

The nuts were seized in Boston by order of the court. Both the salmon and the nuts were proceeded against under the pure food law.

BABY WILEY MAKES GOOD

Shows Its Strength by Relieving Dad of Handful of Hair

Washington, June 7.—Dr. Wiley, "pure food" champion, is minus a handful of hair, as the result of a wager with a friend at the Cosmos club. Wiley, to prove that a proper diet was essential for the welfare of young children, cited the case of his own baby, not yet 1 year old.

"I haven't much hair to spare," said Wiley, "but if my youngster can't yank out a handful or two of it, just to illustrate its strength, I'll buy you a new hat."

The Wiley baby "made good."

Safety For June Brides

Pittsburg, June 7.—Following the "safety first" rule, friends of June brides are substituting confetti for rice and old shoes.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Sea Sick Fish en Route for Boston Municipal Aquarium—Finny Denizens of Tropic waters Detest the Steamship's Roll—a Great and Growing Institution, Well Worth a Visit—"Sail from Boston" Slogan is Luring New Englanders to the Other Side—Former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long Edits an Encyclopaedia—Big prizes for the Hub's Ablest Composers—Good Days for professional Musicians—Several Who are Eligible to Compete.

En route from Key West with a consignment of valuable tropical fish for the municipal aquarium at South Boston Director Louis Mowbray was once again worried almost to a shadow by the prevalence of sea sickness among his captives. It sounds incredible, but it is literally so; the motion of the ship as it sways from side to side is different from the swish of the waves to whch the fish are accustomed in the nether depths and they suffer from it quite as severely as do the cabin passengers. The mal do mer is, indeed, if anything more serious in the tanks than in the staterooms, for it is frequently fatal to the finny specimens.

Director Mowbay last autumn on the trip up from Bermuda encountered a severe storm and lost more than a hundred of his fish. This time he has been fishing at Key West and has had the good fortune to meet with only moderately rough weather off Cape Hatteras. Consequently the fatalities from sea sickness numbered only 25—not an overwhelming loss, though death sometimes claims the rarest and finest. The new additions from the Gulf of Mexico will make the growing aquarium at South Boston one of the best worth while institutions of the Boston park system, and one with which every New England citizen should be familiar.

Whether it is "sail from Boston" or "sail from Portland" or sail from New York there is no doubt but that the habit of summering in Europe is growing among New Englanders. This spring it seems as if half the people with whom one talks are planning to go abroad. The development of the port of Boston may have something to do with that, but the movement was started long before the German liners sought a Boston terminus. The habit has its serious side, one is told by business people; it withdraws an immense amount of ready money from the country just as money is about to be required for moving crops. At the same time it is doubtless educational even if it does make insufferable bores of most who go over for the first time. Whatever one thinks there is no help for it; it is part of the 20th century pace and everybody's going it.

A monumental work which may help to uphold the traditions of literary Boston is a "business encyclopaedia and legal adviser" edited by former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long and Director William P. Wilson of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum. It has for its assistant editors Judge Everett C. Bumpus and Frederick W. Coburn. Much has been written and said about the broadening of the field of business, as represented by the introduction of commercial courses into the leading universities and the installation of scientific management into all sorts and conditions of industrial work. It has remained, however, for a Boston publishing house to give a very complete and comprehensive expression to the modern aspects of business as it affects every man, woman and child in the community. Such productions, manufactured in the admirable style of the better class New England print shops, tend to show that Boston is still something of a book town.

What New England musicians are in line for the big prizes now offered for successful operas: one of $5,000 tendered by the Chicago grand opera company and one of $10,000 which the National Federation of Women's Clubs will pay? These are good days for the person who can write music that reaches a high standard, and New England, as the field of the United States is surveyed, appears to have more composers competent to do operas than any other section has. Here is George W. Chadwick, of Boston, who would be sure to produce notable operatic music if his many engagements should permit him to compete. Mr. Chadwick is director of the New England Conservatory of Music, the oldest and largest American music school, and he has taught composition to many young men and women. He is likely, therefore, in any case to be represented by some former pupil among the prize winners. Horatio Parker, professor of music at Yale University, whose opera "Mona" won the $10,000 Metropolitan prize, might be induced to compete again. He is a pete. Mr. Chadwick is director of the identified with the Boston group. Another Bostonian mentioned in the connection is Frederick S. Converse, again a Chadwick pupil, whose operas "The Pipe of Desire" and "The Sacrifice" have already been produced. Of Mr. Converse's Harvard class is Louis A. Coorne, who has written in all the musical forms with greatest versatility. Arthur Shepherd, whose prize winning cantata, "The City in the sea" was recently performed in Chicago, is believed by many to be in line for operatic honors if he should elect to work in this direction. He combines the spirit of east and west. A native of Idaho, he was educated at the New England Conservatory of Music and after graduation for several years very successfully directed the Salt Lake City orchestra, returning to Boston to teach harmony and composition at his alma mater. Other names are being mentioned. The offering of these large prizes is a great incentive to the serious study and practice of musical composition.

Jury In Dynamite Case Apparently Hopelessly Deadlocked

ONE JUROR WAS APPROACHED

Declares He Was Promised Good Job and $200 to Secure Favorable Verdict—Briber Known to District Attorney, Who Says He Can Get Him When Wanted

Boston, June 7.—Early this morning the jury which is deliberating upon the guilt or innocence of William M. Wood, Fred E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, was locked up for the night, without having reached a verdict.

Rumors of a hopeless disagreement in the case of every defendant but Collins were rife about the courthouse.

Loud talk issuing from the jury room, it was said, indicated how fiercely the case was being fought out among the twelve men to whom the law has entrusted the fate of the three men.

Second in interest only to the possible outcome of the jury's deliberations was the sensational news that one of the jurors in the case, Morris Shuman, a newsdealer, who lives at 6 Cobb street, had complained to the district attorney that he had been offered a bribe to give his vote favorable to the defendants.

He had been offered, according to his story, a good job and $200, for which, according to Shuman, he was told to apply at the office of a lawyer in this city.

Shuman's story has started an investigation that may involve men high in the legal profession in Massachusetts.

Just after the jury had been locked in its room for deliberation on the innocence or guilt of Wood and his confereres District Attorney Pelletier declared that Shuman had reported to him that a man had attempted to bribe him the previous night.

"The man," he declared, "is known. Shuman has identified him. We can lay our hands on him at a moment's notice."

The defendants were within a few minutes of the courthouse throughout the night. Wood, with Attorneys Hurlburt and Powers, spent the night at Young's hotel, where he was joined later by Atteaux and his counsel, Attorney Coakley.

Collins remained at the courthouse throughout the day and up to midnight. Judge Crosby stayed at the University club, with a telephone within reach of his hand.

After the charge to the jury by Crosby, in which he told them to return a verdict of not guilty on the last of the six counts in the indictments, the jury filed out of court, in charge of four officers, at 1 p. m.

By Crosby's charge the jury must return fifteen separate verdicts, a verdict on each of the five counts against each of the three defendants.

After Crosby had ruled on the petitions filed with him by Coakley and Hurlburt came the sensational charges of attempted bribery brought by Shuman.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

Judge Quits Judicial Court Bench Because $7000 Salary Is Too Small

Washington, June 7.—President Wilson has accepted the resignation of Walter C. Noyes, one of the judges of the second judicial circuit, comprising the states of Vermont, Connecticut and New York. Noyes was appointed in December, 1907. He resides at New London, Conn.

New London, Conn., June 7.—Judge Noyes says the reason why he resigned as one of the judges of the second judicial court was: "The salary of the office, $7000 per year, is inadequate for the support of my family and for the increasing expenses of the education of my children. My outside income is not sufficient to bring the total to an amount commensurate to my family's needs."

A. L. MEAD FOR CAPTAIN

Civil Service Rules However May Be Obstacle

Mayor Stone notified the Civil Service commission this morning that he intended to promote driver A. L. Mead of Hose 4, at Quincy Point, to captain to fill the vacancy caused by the placing of Capt. C. P. Costa on the retired list and when this takes place he will be transferred to the Central station.

There is some question if under the civil service rules the Mayor will be allowed to promote a man from the ranks over a lieutenant. This has not been allowed in the Police and other departments and it is very doubtful if it will be allowed in the Fire department.

When promotions were made and new offices created in the Police department it was necessary to promite the men in regular order and it was found impossible to promote Inspector Goodhue from the position of patrolman to the position of Inspector. He first had to take a non-competitive examination for sargeant and be promoted to that position and twenty-four hours later promoted from sargeant to the office of inspector.

This rule will probably hold true in the Fire department when the Mayor's official notice reaches the Civil Service commission and they give a ruling on it.

Strictly speaking, under the civil service rules, Lieut. John J. Faircloth should be promoted to the office of captain and then if the Mayor desires he may promote Driver Mead to the office of lieutenant. He may do so and Mr. Mead can take the non-competative examination.

Driver Mead who has been selected for promotion has been a member of the Fire department for many years. Years ago in the days of the old hand tubs, when the Vulture was in its palmy days, he ran with the machine. Later he became a member of the permanent department when a horse drawn hose wagon was placed in commission at the Quincy Point station, having been appointed a driver by Chief Williams, in March 1899. When the Fire department was placed under the civil service rules, all members of the department, at that time, came under the protection of that rule and he became a permanent man under the civil service rules.

Mr. Mead has always made his home in Quincy and since he joined the Fire department has always been at the Quincy Point station. When he assumes his new position he will be transferred to the Central station.

BRIEFS

W. L. Damon of Wollaston has purchased the A. E. Hatch place at South Weymouth.

Mrs. Lee has opened Lee's Squantum Inn for the season as will be seen by special announcement in this issue.

George A. Mayo of West Quincy is building a business block at the corner of Adams street and Granite avenue, East Milton.

The new Ford runabout for the Sewer department has arrived and went into service this morning.

The fire in the gutter of the home of George Johnson on Common street, Friday is now thought by Chief Litchfield to have been set by a match which became ignited in a bird nest where it had been carried. The fire was extinguished by a chemical stream.

The Quincy High school tennis team will play Chelsea on the courts of the Quincy Tennis club Wednesday. The Quincy team defeated them in doubles and singles last Wednesday. A match is pending for June 16 with Melrose High school.

Josephine Cahoon, wife of Frederick Cahoon, janitor of the Atherton Hough school, Houghs Neck, died this morning at her home, 50 Shennen street, after a long illness. She was in her 33rd year and leaves several small children. She has been a resident of Houghs Neck for many years.

George Raymond McDonnell, son of John and Jessie McDonnell of 27 Brooks avenue, died this morning. He was 16 years of age and well known in South Quincy. He was graduated from the Lincoln school three years ago and shortly after became an apprentice machinist in Boston .

The Quincy men who left for business in Boston this morning were not feeling very pleasant over the prospect on an hour's wait this afternoon at the South station before they can get a train home. For those in the habit of reaching Quincy just after five it will be six o'clock. Rather hard on the men and not what one would call good train service considering Quincy's nearness to Boston.

The Knights of King Arthur Castle of Memorial church had its last meeting of this season, Tuesday evening in the vestry of the church. According to the custom of the Castle the last meeting was ladies' night and after the boys went through the ritual the girls were invited into the main vestry. Games were enjoyed for some time when orders were given to form for a grand march, into the dining room where refreshments were served, Warren Stewart, King of the Bethany Castle was a guest. Miss Maude E. Read had charge of the games and Mrs. William F. Cummings, Mrs. Carleton Marble and Mrs. William T. Davy of the refreshments.

CONFIRMATION AT ST. JOHNS

Large Class of 300 Today---Mostly Children

The first service in St. John's church since the refrescoing has been completed and the new memorial windows set, took place this afternoon when Bishop Anderson of the Boston diocese administered the rites of confirmation on 300 candidates. A large number of adults received sacrament and the others were children of the Parochial school. The girls wore white dresses and veils and the boys black suits.

This morning they received holy communion at a mass celebrated by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. Music was by the regular choir.

Bishop Anderson was assisted by Rev. Fr. John J. Casey of the parish and Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins of Amesbury, who is a Quincy boy. Father Quinlan who is here during the absence of Rev. Fr. Scannell and Rev. Fr. Coan also assisted.

A short address on the significance of the sacrament was delivered previous to the administering of the rite. People from all over the city attended the services.

THE WILLARD PITCHER.

Never before has the grammar school base ball championship been so freely discussed as at present. To complicate matters several of the older fans in the city have been given the impression that Walter Egan, the pitcher for the Willard school, is ineligible because he is a vocational pupil.

Physical Director Smith decided early in the season that no objections to his playing could be sustained because he was a regular pupil of the school, although taking the vocational studies, which are graded similar in the workout to grammar school studies. He has always been a pupil of the school.

MEET POSTPONED.

The interschool grammar boys athletic meet which was originally scheduled for today will not be held. It was plained to have it Monday but the deciding grammar school base ball championship game will be held. The possibilities are that unless some date can be immediately arranged the affair will be postponed until early fall.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

44TH ANNIVERSARY OF GRAND ARMY

Commander Marstin Entertains Paul Revere Post on Its Birthday

Quincy and Braintree Organizations in Attendance

The 44th anniversary of the organization of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., will long be remembered as a happy reunion by the survivors. About 100 guests attended the camp fire which was held Saturday evening from 6.30 until 9.30 o'clock at the home of Dr. Chauncy M. Marstin, 343 Washington street, Braintree. The doctor is the popular and efficient commander of Paul Revere Post and the affair was in celebration of the anniversary.

Mayor Eugene R. Stone of Quincy was present together with members of Post 88, Womans Relief Corps 103; Colonel Abner B. Packard Camp, No. 95, S. of V.; Tent 53, Daughters of Veterans; S. of V. Auxiliary No. 3, all of Quincy, and Post 87, G. A. R. of Braintree.

It was expected that assitsant Adjutant-General Wetherbee and Senior Vice Department Commander Skelton would be present, but the violent thunder storm no doubt prevented, as it was of longer duration in Boston than in this vicinity.

Others present were Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Bent, Miss Florence Bent, Elmer E. Abercrombie, John Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton R. Marstin.

The main entrance was festooned with the national colors. Old glory floated from the staff and Japanese lanterns added to the decorative scheme. The interior of the house was also resplendent with red, white and blue streamers and numerous small flags.

Doctor Marstin welcomed all with his genial smile and hearty handshake and was a busy man seeing to the comfort and pleasure of his guests. Ice cream, cake and punch were served and the gentlemen enjoyed "smokes."

In a brief but appropriate speech, Mrs. Celinda Richards, president of Relief Corps, presented the commander with a handsome wicker chair, the gift of the corps.

Commander Marstin was greatly pleased and expressed his thanks in his characteristic hearty way.

Comrade James H. Webb ,adjutant of Post 88, read a history of the Post from its organization to the present day. He also read a list of the members who have passed away and called the roll of the living, those present rising and answering to their names. Among these were three charter members, Warren W. Adams, James W. Pierce and Warren Dunbar who held a little reception and were greeted by all the guests.

Miss Florence Bent presided most acceptably at the piano as accompanist and there was singing of patriotic songs by the assembly. Miss Helen Galvin sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and Edward O. Pierson, patriotic instructor of Post 87, recited two poems "The Little Bronze Button" and "The Old Army Canteen," concluding with the vocal solo, "Abraham Lincoln Forever," all joining in the chorus.

There were remarks by Mayor Stone, William L. Gage, commander of Post 87, John Kelley, one of the Braintree Water Commissioners and Elmer E. Abercrombie. The latter gentleman aroused a storm of applause by his plea for a more general respect for the flag. There were also short speeches by W. R. French, junior vice-commander of Camp 95, and Mrs. Abbie Our, the president of S. of V. Auxiliary No. 3.

After singing "America" the company dispersed giving three rousing cheers and a "tiger." The affair was a grand success owing to the energy and hospitality of Doctor Marstin and his excellent wife.

IS A MINISTER FREE TO PREACH

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott Answers the Question

"Is a minister free to preach the truth?" The announcement that Rev. B. A. Willmott of Bethany church would answer this question Sunday evening drew another large congregation and he did not disappoint them.

Summarized in brief, he said:

Seventeen years ago next July, I was ordained to the Christian ministry in the town of Lee, New Hampshire. During these years there has been a growing appreciation of the place of the church in the gracious plans of God for the race. It is not a humane organization, but divine in its origin, sacrificial in its service, glorious in its destiny. I have also the most delightful memory of the churches with which we have served, for in all my pastorate I have never known anything but honor and kindness from the people.

Chiefly do I remember the strong and faithful men who have borne with fidelity the important trust of deacons, not one of them but was worthy of the respect of all lovers of truth and righteousness. When we consider the spirit of the age that seeks to shirk all responsibility which brings no return in money we can but admire the great number of good men and women who have served the Lord with gladness, and through the changing procession of pastors remain true to their trust, doing their work as unto the Lord and not unto men. It is an honor to have been associated for these years with the rank and file of our Congregational fellowship.

After this trial of the ministry, it appeals to me more strongly than ever, as the greatest opportunity for self investment. If I could stand again at the gateway of life, with youth, enthusiasm and life to invest, I should immediately select the gospel ministry, for in it I have found the largest social service, abiding friendships.

It has brought the great and exquisite joy of seeing those who in life and thought were alien to the gospel brought through a life of faith into vital and real religious living; of the moral life of communities raised in tone; of those in great sorrow that the world could not assuage comforted and strengthened.

REV. B. A. WILLMOTT.

I have also found in the ministry the fullest opportunity for self expression without the hampering restraint of human authority and interference It is sometimes asked whether the minister is free to preach the truth. As this is rather in the nature of a personal testimony I can but speak from personal experience.

It has always been my custom to proclaim the whole counsel of God as His spirit gave me to know it. Never have I talked around the truth, the time is too brief, nor have I hestitated to condemn in plain language any thing that would injure the moral life of the community. Yet in all these years no one has presumed to censure my messages nor to dictate what I should or should not say. I believe there is no profession so free in spirit and truth for the self expression of a fair-minded Christian as the ministry of the Congregational church.

Of course, if a minister presumes to dabble in local or partisan politics, to make use of the lofty privilege which is his to intrude upon territory that is not within his province, and that at a time and in a place where men cannot answer back, then such cowardice and abuse of privilege merits the rebuke of all Christian men.

But if he will insist on applying the great fundamental principles of the gospel of Jesus to human conduct, then all earnest minded men will approve of the purpose even when they cannot or will not follow in practice the teaching.

The man who preaches to please either the rich or the poor has lost whatever power he had, but if he preaches to help men they will suffer some painful moral surgery if only they are convinced that the purpose is not to hurt but to heal the wounded and restore the wandering to the place of sonship.

BATTLESHIP NORTH DAKOTA

Quincy Eagles Enter Good Reproduction in Boston Parade

One of the most complete floats ever devised is the reproduction of the battleship North Dakota which was in the Eagles parade in Boston today. It was manned by tars from the John Adams aerie of this city. Many of the men worked on the boat at the Fore River yards and its construction was a matter of personal pride. It is 30 feet long, is painted white and is an exact model of what is visible above deck. Guns are mounted along its side and the wireless towers above the steel mast. The float sets on an auto truck. While the members were preparing to leave their headquarters in the Johnson building today those in City Square were attracted by the float. It picked up a mooring off Johnson's market and from 8.05 to 8.30 was examined by an expert shipwright who pronounced it all O. K. after a few minor adjustments had been made.

The model was built on a scale of 1 inch to the foot. From the centre of the ship floated two flags reading "F. O. E.—our defence in time of need." There were also numerous small American flags flying from the masts. Accompanying the float was the degree team of the aerie in full uniform and they made a very attractive appearance.

Probate court for Norfolk county will be held in Quincy on Wednesday.

PARADE WILL BE BIG FEATURE

Fireworks Display Will Include 125 Numbers

If the efforts being made by Quincy Fourth of July association bear fruit, as it now looks as though they would, the morning parade this year will be well worth going miles to see. For one thing the parade this year will start at 7 o'clock and then again it will be much shorter than last year. At best the route of the parade will not be over two miles long and better still the prizes this year will be cash. With these inducements there should be many entries of features for the horrible and float division.

CAPTAIN WARDWELL.

At the meeting of the general committee Saturday night Capt. George A. Wardwell was made chairman of the parade committee, and he has appointed Capt. George E. Adams as chief marshall and Maj. Fred E. Jones as chief of staff. Entries for the parade should be made as soon as possible to Capt. Wardwell at Kincaide's theatre.

Harry G. Studley has been made chairman of the childrens entertainment committee in place of Charles H. Johnson who could not serve this year. For the children's entertainment, instead of the usual punch and judy show and ice cream, the association has voted to give the children a free moving picture show at Kincaide's theatre and at the Auditorium. These two moving picture houses will seat about 2,000 children and special features will be put on for the children. The time for these performances will be announced later.

Young America is especially urged this year not to indulge in bon fires

ORDER FOR POLICE AUTO

Chief Burrell Says It Would Pay for Itself

One of the important matters that is now before the City Council is an order for $1,500 to purchase an automobile for the Police department. This department is practically the only department now that does not have an automobile, other than the patrol wagon. According to what Chief Burrell says, if he had an automobile for his department, that it would pay for itself in a very short time. He says that now the court pays out nearly $1,500 a year in transporting prisoners to Dedham and in taking insane persons to the various asylums. If the police department had a car which it could use for this purpose that the fees now paid by the court for this work would be given to the city, as the court would rather have the police do the work. When a person is committed to Dedham or to an asylum, they always have to be accompanied by an officer and it is often necessary to send two officers along. With a five passenger car of the Police department, the department could readily do the work and bring a revenue to the city.

A WORD TO PARENTS

Let the child's foot grow as it should

The children's feet while growing require careful watching. Foot troubles, incurred while the foot is growing, last through life.

Educator Shoes (which cost no more than other kinds) positively prevent foot troubles by allowing the foot to grow as nature intended, by providing ample room for all five toes and by giving proper support to the ankle muscles, arch and instep.

THE SMALL INVESTOR.

The receivership for the 'Frisco railroad lines is a sharp reminder of the perils of the share market constantly being incurred by small investors.

The railroads have been reporting of late years a big increase in number of shareholders. Magazines and newspapers devote much space to answering questions regarding stock market propositions from people of limited means many of whom have but the most elementary idea of investments.

The railroad corporations have viewed the small investor with great favor. One sees why, from the story told by a man who spent a night at a certain city in a boarding house near the railroad yards. He remarked to his landlady that a certain freight car must have been delayed there a week, as it then had snow on it.

The landlady remarked with some asperity that the snow came the night before, and that that railroad handled its freight very promptly.

After it appeared that the landlady owned two shares stock in the corporation that owned that freight car. These little lots of stock create a widespread friendly sentiment that is felt to be valuable.

The school teacher, the clergyman, the small business man, and the widow have been frequent customers at the stock counter during the past few years. Many of their prizes are bitterly repented of. The alluring stories that the Eldorado Pacific is going to buy up the Golconda Central usually prove to have been circulated by people having G. C. to sell.

The prudent French, who recently invested freely in 'Frisco, can't understand why a surplus of $1,195,907 was claimed for seven months ending in January, while the road goes to a receiver for inability to borrow a sum less than 1 per cent of its existing debts. After some of these adventures among the bulls and bears, the old home savings bank looks good.

Half the girl graduates of Wisconsin university's cooking department are wearing engagement rings. It is doubtful if the literature department can make any such showing.

Vice-president Marshall is willing to pay only $2000 a year rent. Probably he will have to put up with something having only three parlors and six bath rooms.

The importation of cheaper beef from Australia makes it necessary for the trust to dip into its incidental account, and buy up that whole continent.

King George and Kaiser William kissed when they met. If President Wilson and ex-President Taft did that Inauguration day, it happened out in the back yard.

There is a demand for more sanitary prisons, but would they seem homelike to the prisoners?

Some people's conception of the way to demonstrate their superior brains is to get out in a park and smash benches intended for public comfort.

FOUNDER'S DAY AT THAYER

Music and Addresses Followed by a Dance

The annual exercises at Thayer academy in observance of Founder's Day were held in the main building last Saturday at two o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the pupils. These exercises, under the auspices of the members of the Senior Middle class are in memory of the founder of the academy, Gen. Sylvanus Thayer who was born June 9, 1785 in Braintree. He was a graduate of Dartmouth and West Point, served with distinction in the war of 1812 and afterward was superintendent of West Point military academy making it under his regime one of the best of its kind in the world.

In March, 1863, he was brevetted brigadier-general in the regular army Besides the Thayer academy, he founded the Thayer public library of Braintree and the Thayer Engineering school at Dartmouth college.

The program of the day was begun by musical selections by Cuff's orchestra. The address of welcome was delivered by Nathan Francis McClure, the class president followed by a reading by Mary C. F. McTague.

Then after another selection by the orchestra, there was an address by Professor Harry W. Tyler of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The program was concluded with more music and the planting of the ivy, an old and time honored custom.

Afterward there was dancing but this pleasure was somewhat marred by the heavy thunder storm which broke about that time. The floor was in charge of these members of the Senior Middle class:

President, Nathan Francis McClure.
Vice President, Almira Elizabeth Fuller.
Secretary, Grace Elizabeth Moulton.
Treasurer, John Crosby Bridgham.

FLAG DAY OF THE ELKS

Lieut. Gov. Walsh to Deliver the Address

The program for the flag day exercises on Sunday afternoon at Kincaide's theatre under the auspices of Quincy lodge of Elks promises an interesting event. Invitations to be present have been accepted by the Grand Army an dthe several patriotic societies of the city, in addition to the Elks.

The program will open with the Star Spangled Banner, followed by introductory exercises by the lodge, a brief history of the flag by Mayor Eugene R. Stone. Altar services assisted by the Temple quartette, cornet solo by Carl Rand, an Elk's tribute to the flag by Philip H. Sullivan, Exalted Ruler; and a patriotic address by Hon. David I. Walsh, Lieutenant Governor.

During the exercises there will be selections by an orchestra and the Temple quartette and the program will close by all rising and singing America.

The exercises will commence at 3 o'clock and a general invitation is extended to the public to be present.

HOLM SEA.

Probably over 100 Quincy people accepted the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent of Holm Sea, Brookline, on Sunday, for the annual exhibition of azaleas and rhododendrons. During the day over 5000 people enjoyed the freedom of the extensive grounds, and were surprised and delighted with the flowers which included nearly everything. Probably the grounds will be open next Sunday.

RUNAWAY.

A two horse wagon of the Puritan spring company ran away on Washington street, Sunday afternoon but fortunately did no damage other than to smash the top. The horses while left alone became frightened and dashed up Washington street. They turned into Union street and thence into Baxter street and then into Elm street where the team was stopped. Somewhere along the route the team got too near overhanging tree branches and had the top smashed .

PARADE WILL BE FEATURE

and the like in order that the fire department may take part in the parade.

President Stone announced that he had received a letter from Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who had promised to do what he could toward securing a battleship for Quincy waters on the Fourth and promised to let him know definitely in a few days.

In the matter of buttons the committee voted to order 5,000 buttons reading on the face "Quincy Fourth of July Association celebration 1913" and the dates "1889-1913." These will be put into the hands of the Boy Scouts who will sell them at not less than ten cents each.

Chairman Neary of the athletic sports announced his committee which was the same as published in the Daily Ledger of June 4. The several events will be announced later.

George F. Elcock of the fireworks committee announced that he had made a contract with the American Fireworks Sales Co., and that the exhibition would be even better than last year. He also announced that if anyone was not satisfied with the exhibition that if they would come to him after the exhibition he would refund, out of his own pocket, any contribution the party may have made. There will be 125 numbers in the fireworks display.

A. L. Whitman of the music committee announced that there would be a drum corps and two bands and if a battleship was sent to Quincy they would have an additional band.

Dr. Gilson of the publicity committee announced that he intended to get out immediately a two colored card to post in store windows and for use on the electric cars. He also said that he had in preparation an eight page program giving in detail the events of the day. He also stated that the two local daily papers had agreed to give him a free space to boom the celebration each day beginning June 16.

The question of finances was then taken up. Benj. Hodgkinson of the Ward One committee said that he had made a canvass of most of the stores in City Square during the day and that he had collected $70.

Councilman Edward J. Sandberg was appointed as the member of the finance committee from Ward Four.

Chairman Curran of the Finance Committee stated that he has his canvassers well in hand and that an active canvass for funds would be made. He also said that he expected to collect from $500 to $600 in Ward Five alone and that he anticipated no trouble in raising the $1,000 needed.

It was decided to have what might be called an emergency committee of which Benj. Hodgkinson was made the chairman. He announced that he was planning to have the Boy Scouts give an exhibition of emergency work.

Another meeting of the general committee will be held Thursday evening and a general invitation is extended to everybody to attend.

MRS. DANIEL W. BAXTER.

The funeral of Mrs. Laura L., wife of David W. Baxter, was held Sunday afternoon at her late home on Phipps street, with interment in Mount Wollaston cemetery, following the simple service.

Mrs. Baxter was born in Potsdam, N. Y.. in 1831, removing to Vermont at a very early age. She grew to womanhood among the hills and valleys of the Green Mountain State, receiving her education in the district schools and in the old Orange County grammar school. In 1856 she came to Quincy to teach in the Adams School, spending a year here. Then she returned to Vermont and, later, in 1859 married Daniel W. Baxter of this city.

For over half a century she had been a resident of Quincy, deeply interested in all that concerned the city, and helpful in all good works. For all these years she had been connected with the First church and never wavered in her loyalty and devotion to it. Charitable work of all kinds apepaled to her strongly, especially that for children and young people. She will be greatly missed by her circle of friends and relatives, but the memory of her kindly spirit, her bright and hopeful outlook upon life, and the cheerfulness with which she bore the pain of her protracted illness will be an inspiration to all who knew and loved her.

MISS BUCKLEY.

Miss Catherine A. Buckley, sister of the late Elizabeth Buckley, died Saturday in the Buckley homestead on Buckley street after a long illness. She was well known in West Quincy because of her good deeds and charitable acts, and was the daughter of one of West Quincy's earliest settlers. The funeral will take place Tuesday morning from her home. A high mass of requiem will be celebrate d at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock.

SATURDAY'S STORM VERY SEVERE

But Quincy Escaped With Less Damage Than Other Suburban Cities

Two Barns Burned in Braintree—Heavy Rain Fall

One of the worst storms for many a long day passed over Quincy Saturday and put a sudden end to many outdoor events that had been planned for the afternoon. The day up to 2.30 had been very hot and sultry with little or no breeze. About that time however the wind shifted around to east and deep black clouds began to gather in the northern horizon. The wind freshened and with the darkening of the sky came a heavy wind that blew great clouds of dust about the street in a blinding manner. So dark did it become that it was necessary for the local stores to light their lights in order to see. Even the electric cars lighted up.

At first it looked as though it might be no more than a wind storm, for after a time the sky seemed to lighten up some. Then the sky began to darken again and there was the sound of distant thunder which as it approached nearer was accompanied by sharp flashes of lightning.

About 3.30 it began to rain. Slightly at first but steadily increasing until the rain fell in torrents drenching to the skin any one who had not taken warning and got under cover. And how it did rain. It seemed as though the very heavens had opened their flood gates.

There was a high wind at the time and the rain was swept along the streets in great waves flooding and overflowing street gutters and converting them into running rivers. In the meantime there was a constant roll of thunder and vivid flashes of lightning.

In many places buildings were struck by lightning but as far as known no Quincy building suffered. A car on the Quincy Point line was burnt out tying up traffic for a time. Another car on the Houghs Neck line was put out of commission and a car on the Weymouth Landing line took fire but was put out by the conductor with the aid of a hand chemical.

Cars on all lines were more or less tied up and for a time schedule time was demoralized.

Chief Litchfield and the auto chemical from the Central station responded on a call from Braintree for a fire which destroyed the barns on the Col. Drinkwater estate and rendered valuable service and assistance.

The schedule race of the Quincy yacht club was called off on account of the storm and the fete on the grounds of Henry M. Faxon was also called off and postponed until Monday. All of the local ball games scheduled were also declared off for the day, and there was a general suspension of all out of door events.

It continued to rain steadily until about 5.30 when the sky cleared a bit and the rain was over although it looked rather dubious all the evening. In the evening the wind changed again and the temperature fell a number of degrees.

AT BRAINTREE.

In the heavy thunder storm of Saturday afternoon, two large barns on the estate of Colonel Albion C. Drinkwater of Elm street were destroyed by a fire caused by lightning.

The alarms were badly mixed up owing probably to the freaks of the electricity in the air but the apparatus from Braintree and East Braintree responded and also the Weymouth and Quincy departments.

The combined efforts of this force of fire fighters prevented the flames from reaching the house, but it was impossible to save the fine barns which are very close together and they were burned to the ground.

Colonel Drinkwater rushed into one of the burning buildings, and in spite of the flames and smoke succeeded in getting out two valuable horses, and neighbors assisted in saving two carriages and some harnesses.

The other barn which had been recently purchased of the Morrison estate by Colonel Drinkwater contained many farming tools, etc. The fire consumed several tons of hay, a lot of racing paraphernalia, harnesses, robes sulkies and other property on the upper floors.

The fact that many of the horses were out to pasture and most of the racing string at the Readville trotting park prevented an even more serious loss, as it would have been impossible to have gotten so many animals out.

The Colonel was intending to have the Morrison barn shingled at once, and had contemplated joining the structures, thus making them almost like one building.

Both barns were only lightly insured. The loss is fully $8000 and may total more when carefully estimated. Colonel Drinkwater is left with no suitable place for his large number of horses or the large hay crop which is about ready to cut.

In the same storm, the Braintree Baptist church was struck and the spire badly damaged. Shingles were ripped off in great patches, large joists were severed and the plastering smashed in the vestibule. The church was not set on fire, but the bell supports were badly weakened. The damage is estimated at about $600.

At about the same time, an alarm was sounded from box 23 for an electric car which had caught fire while on Quincy avenue near the bridge. A passenger jumped off and rang in the alarm but the conductor running to the Old Colony Gas company got a fire extinguisher and put out the blaze before the firemen arrived. A short circuit of wires underneath the car was the probable cause.

Minor damages to trees chimneys etc., and losses of poultry by drowning are reported from all parts of the town. The tempest with its accompaniment of hail was one of the worst known here for years.

DISTRICT COURT.

George Lavery was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth, William H. Baker $3 costs for drunkenness at Randolph and Archie Harris $10 for drunkenness at Milton.

Thomas J. Fay was fined $10 for digging clams without a permit at Quincy.

Andrew Akerstrom was arraigned for assault on Charles Asklund at Quincy. He was found guilty and the case placed on file on payment of $2.50 costs.

The continued case of Charles S. Makepeace for violation of the automobile laws at Milton was called and he was defaulted.

FIREMEN'S MEMORIAL DAY.

Sunday was Firemen's Memorial day and the members of the Quincy Firemen's Relief association observed the day by placing wreaths on the graves of departed firemen who are buried at Mt. Wollaston and St. Mary's cemetery There was no service other than the depositing of wreaths.

CHILDREN'S DAY OBSERVED

Unique Talk by Dr. Sneath at Wollaston Congregational

At the Wollaston Unitarian church the people anticipate with much pleasure each Sunday the singing of the Girls' choir as well as the fine selections so well rendered by the soloist, Mrs. Royal Turner. The pastor who now and then substitutes for an ancient prayer some beautiful prayer by a modern seer, made use Sunday of a prayer by that saintly soul, the late Rev. Charles G. Ames, D. D. The minister's theme was "Some Things We Know" based on the words of Paul, "I know in part."

Among the things we know said the preacher are our own existence and the existence of God. We know that the universe is one of order, governed by immutable laws, that can be relied on. Our life and joy and happiness we find in conforming to and obeying the laws of God, physical, moral and spiritual. Our mission is to grow up to the measure of the statue of the fullness of Christ, our exemplar.

A big missionary rally will be held Wednesday evening, June 11, at 7.15 o'clock in the Wollaston Methodist church. One of the speakers will be a member of our own Young People's Religious Union. Some very important business concerning the welfare of our own community will be considered. A large attendance is desired. Come and bring your friends.

Sunday, June 15, will be observed as Children's Sunday. The Sunday school will unite with the congregation in observing this annual red-letter day. The floral decorations will be elaborate as is customary and canaries as usual will lend their voices in the service of song. A number of children will receive the rite of baptism and will be dedicated to God and a Christian life. Several children will receive Bibles in recognition of the tenth anniversary of their baptism, in our church and a special collection will be received to carry on our missionary work for the benefit of the children of the poor. There will also be presentation of gold pins in recognition of faithful attendance upon the sessions of the Sunday school for 1912-1913. The full program will appear in Saturday's Ledger.

Remember the Unitarian Summer Meetings at the Isles of Shoals, N. H. July 6 to 20.

The church will be closed during July and August.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL

The morning service at the Wollaston Congregational church, Sunday was given over to the Sunday school, for the day was observed as "Children's Sunday." Two babies were baptized, Florence Harriet Whittemore and Louise Viola Russell.

During the service, the school repeated the first and twenty third Psalms and assisted by the quartet, sang selections from the pamphlet, "Make Christ King." Charles A. Campbell, the superintendent, spoke on the need of better accommodations for the Sunday School. The collection went to swell a fund started for this purpose.

Mrs. Charles P. Hutchins received many words of praise for the splendid way in which the children of the primary department went through their program. First, they marched to the back of the church, and to the platform where they sang, "Where do all the Daisies go?" and repeated the books of the Bible so glibly that they won applause.

Following the annual custom of the church, Bibles were presented to the children of seven years by the pastor. The twelve children to receive them were: Eleanor Bates, Eleanor Eastman, Ruth Godfery, Dorothy Cobb Brady, Mary Eller, Lottie Frances Russell, Marjorie Antoinette Johnson, Malcolm Mitchell, Horace Carpenter, George E. Welsford, Mary Bates, Virginia Follett.

Dr. Sneath's talk was most unique. Hsi subject was, "Five Little Men;" represented by five bottles of liquids Of each in turn he asked the question: "Do you kiss your mother, go to Sunday School, say your prayers, love Jesus?" Each gave his name in answer, Mr. Always, a bottle of sparkling water; Mr. Most-Always who became riled when shaken, but cleared quickly; Mr. Sometimes, who when shaken, became a dull red and remained discolored; Mr. Seldom, who was muddy all the time; and Mr Never, who was inky black, "Let us," he said, "try to be like Mr. Always.

Each child in the primary department was given a red geranium plant and marched out of church with a smiling face.

At the Christian Endeavor meeting at six o'clock, Miss Elizabeth Pettee of Japan, spoke in costume a life in Japan among the young people .

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL

It was Children's day on Sunday at Bethany church, and it was a beautiful scene, the gathering of so many children, most of the little girls in white dresses. The beginners department was grouped on raised seats on the platform, and the other departments were grouped in the front seats. The children's chorus under the direction of Mrs. Charles Sampson occupied the choir seats and gave a good account of themselves.

The call to worship was by the primary, junior and intermediate departments, a Bible reading with songs by the primary department, the 34th Psalm was recited by the intermediate department, the 23d Psalm by the beginners department, and blessings by the junior department.

Mrs. Moore sang the offertory solo and a double quartette sang a selection, in addition to the hymns and choruses.

The address of the pastor was especially to the children, and he used a counterfeit dollar bill, and some of the old paper currency to draw a lesson, which greatly interested the little ones.

Eight infants were baptized by Rev. B. A. Willmott.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M.E. church took for the text of his Sunday morning sermon St. Matthew 7-7—"Ask and it shall be given you seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you." Miss Helen Martin sang a solo. The choir sang "As panteth the hart."

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid was called at 12 M, also a meeting of the official board.

The text for the evening service was Matthew 19-28—"Ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

On Wednesday evening June 11th the Ladies' Aid will hold their annual strawberry festival. A fine entertainment is promised. The young ladies of the Sunday school will present "The champion of her sex."

Sunday, June 15, will be observed as "Children's Day." In the morning the pastor will preach to the children The Junior and Epworth League services will be omitted. At 7 P. M. the annual Children's Day concert will be given by the Sunday school.

Monday, June 16, the regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League will be held in the vestry.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Sunday was observed as Children's day at the Wollaston Baptist church In the morning, a concert was given by the members of the school in place of the regular morning service. The audience was the largest ever seen in the church.

The attendance at the Sunday school session was equally large, 399. Plants were given to the children of the primary division. At a business meeting which followed, a committee was appointed to consider the advisability of holding sessions during July and August.

At the evening service in the auditorium there was special music by the choir, duet by Miss Hardy and Mr. Walker, "What Have I to Do With Thee" from Elijah. At this service the following received the ordinance of baptism: Miss Myrtle M. Cutler, Miss Jeanette Linscott, Miss Ruth Price, Mrs. Murilla Thomas, Mrs. Margaret A. Keith, Mr. Gordon H. Walker.

Tuesday evening at 7.45 the Nearer and Farther Lights Society will meet with Miss Ruth Hardy, 28 Wollaston avenue; Miss Florence Barbour will speak on "Work of the Associated Charities."

Thursday evening at 7.45 the regular meeting for prayer, praise and testimony will be held in the chapel.

HOT CHASE FOR CLAM DIGGERS

Quincy Police However Were Able to Capture But One

There was quite an exciting time at Germantown Sunday morning when the police wagon arrived on the scene with half a dozen officers to arrest three men who were busy at work digging clams. The three men had dug something like eighteen bushels when the police made their appearance.. Two of the three men managed to get away by wading through the mud across the flats to the channel and then swimming to their boat. As the men started toward their boat the police drew their revolvers and began to shoot. Many shots were fired but all into the air in the hopes that the men would stop and come back. As the shots did not hit them however they kept on and reaching their boat started down the channel toward the bay.

The wagon was then run to Germantown point in hopes that they might be captured as they rounded the corner as the channel as this point is narrow. The men in the boat however put on full power and succeeded in getting by the danger point before the police arrived.

Near the point however was another power boat in which were two men and a woman. The police commanded that the passing boat come to the wharf and take the police aboard. This the skipper did.

The police boat then got ahead of the clam diggers boat and coming to a stop in the channel waited for the oncoming boat. As it approached the police ordered the men to stop. They headed their boat toward the police boat but when almost upon them suddenly turned and sped away before the police realized what had happened. Another fusilade of revolver shots followed but it had no effect as the fugitives kept on their way and succeeded in getting away.

The revolver shots attracted quite a crowd to the waters edge who watched with interest the contest that was going on. The two men however made good their escape and the police were obliged to return to Quincy with only one prisoner who gave his name as Thomas J. Fay of Maverick street, East Boston. He gave the police the names of the other two men but they are believed to have been ficticious names.

It is reported that a gang of men were at the same place last week Sunday and that they carried off a boat load of clams. The clams seized on this trip however were taken to the police station and there is some talk of having a clam bake.

In court Fay entered a plea of guilty to digging clams in violation of the City ordinances and was fined $10 which he paid.

WASHINGTON OR LINCOLN

Debate by Young Women's Hebrew Association

A regular meeting of the young Women's Hebrew Association was held Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. H. A. rooms on Water street. President Anna Grossman was in the chair. The association will go on an outing to Houghton's pond, Mattapan, on June 17.

During the meeting two teams composed of two members each, debated on the question, "Resolved, that Washington was a greater man than Lincoln." The affirmative was represented by Etta Grossman and Sadie Berman, and the negative by Dora Grabowsky and Celia Edelstein. The rebuttal was taken by Etta Grossman and Dora Grabowsky, on their respective sides. The judges, Marion Litchman, Anna Grossman and Frances Catler, awarded the decision, after careful deliberation, to the negative.

BLEASE WAS NOT THERE

Police Expected to Find Governor In Raid on Gamblers

Columbia, S. C., June 9.—A telephone message to police headquarters that Governor Blease was playing poker at the Commercial club, designated popularly as "Governor Blease's club," led to a raid on the place. The "tip" was found to be false. The police allege that a poker game was in progress when they entered the building, and they arrested seven men on a charge of gambling, but Blease was not in the club.

The belief prevails that the raid was in retaliation on the governor for his reprisal on the police for the arrest of the governor's negro chauffeur for violating the speed ordinance. Blease pardoned Neely and ordered his fine returned. When the police refused to return the money Blease appointed three constables for Columbia under an act which requires the city to pay half of their salaries.

This has increased the bitterness between the governor and the police, and led to the raid at the Commercial club.

RED FLAG IS CHEERED

Striking Barbers Told to "Get After" Those Remaining at Work

Boston, June 9.—Striking barbers at a mass meeting on Boston common yesterday afternoon shouted out their determination to "get after" those members of their craft who persisted in working today.

Cries of "we will" and ear-splitting cheers arose from the assembled crowd when Caleb F. Howard, the I. W. W. organizer, who has been a leader in the strike at the Draper company plant in Hopedale, shouted:

"If some of the barbers stay at work tomorrow, get after them. Get them out. I don't care particularly how you get them out. Follow this thing up and in a short time you will surely win. The only way to gain a victory is to keep going. Don't quiet down."

The sentiment, "Long live the red flag," received a discordant cheer during the meeting.

EXPERTS WORKING ON JAIL SHORTAGE

Bondsmen Will Stand by Sheriff If Suit Is Brought

Cambridge, Mass., June 9.—Startling revelations are expected in the case of Frederick H. Smith, bookkeeper at the Middlesex house of correction, whose accounts have been found to be short $35,151, following his sudden death on March 31.

Three expert auditors have gone to work on the books. The alleged defalcation covered the period from 1896 to this year. The experts will go over the books from the year 1880, when Smith took the job.

Bondsmen of Sheriff Fairbairn say they will stand by the sheriff and will defend him if sued for the recovery of the amount his subordinate is alleged to have stolen.

AT SQUANTUM TODAY.

The postal clerks of Boston who have made their headquarters at Squantum the last two summers entertained their lady friends today at their cottage on the shore of Quincy bay. The guests arrived in the morning which gave them ample time to roam about and create a good appetite for the fine fish dinner that was served at noon. The afternoon was spent on the verandas of the cottage listening to singing and selections on the piano. About a hundred were present.

CLARA FIRST AT DORCHESTER

Other Quincy Yachts in the Dorchester Race

Several of the class D. boats of the Quincy Yacht club took part Saturday in the Dorchester day races in Dorchester bay, and in spite of the storm the race was a success although the violent squall tested the seamanship of the yachtsmen. The result in this class was as follows:—

	Actual H. M. S.	Corrected H. M. S.
Clara, H. W. Robbins	1-45-45	1-44-39
Dartwell, I. M. Whittemore,	1-45-22	1-45-22
Mudjekeewis, Edgar W. Emery	1-52-30	1-51-50
Iris, F. F. Crane	1-52-38	1-52-14

The race was held under the management of the Savin Hill and Dorchester clubs and there was a large number of entries in the several classes, cash prizes being given to the winners in each class.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

LOYALTY TO MEMBERS

Shown in Memorial Service of Sons of St. George

Memorial services for the departed members of Granite Lodge, No. 193, Order of the Sons of St. George were held in Clan McGregor hall, Sunday afternoon, under the direction of John H. Andrew, worthy president.

The deceased members of the organization are: William Blee, James T. Hamilton, John H. Phillips, John Williams, William Frye, Jr., and James W. Kemp.

Rev. B. A. Willmott, of the Bethany church delivered the address. He spoke very interestingly and brought to the minds of his hearers reminiscences of old England.

He said such organizations as these minister to the life of the members and foster a spirit of brotherhood that goes beyond the bounds of its membership. Your loyalty and affection for your mother country does not make you less loyal to the land of your adoption, any more than a loyal son's affection for his mother unfits a man to be an affectionate and faithful husband. A man who loves his homeland is more likely to love the land of his adoption.

This loyalty to your members is intensified by such memorial services for those who have gone home. Your brotherliness must be made more real by the faith that you all are children of one Eternal Father capable of an immortality of blessedness.

The great movements for the amelioration of human suffering and sorrow are planned, carried out and supported by those who believe in the immortality of the soul and human brotherhood in one Divine Father. It is this faith that gives you hope and assurance in this memorial service for we know that no desire persists without it can be satisfied and our Father has provided that which satisfies all great desires and all persistent hunger and we feel confident that this noblest desire and universal hunger for reunion after death will find satisfaction and the risen Christ is the answer of God to this universal cry for a realization of the incompletions of love and of life.

The services opened with a hymn by the choir. A quartette sang "Rock of Ages," "Farewell to the Brothers" and "The Vacant Chair." While the roll call of deceased members was being called they sang "Nearer My God to Thee." The quartette consisted of W. C. Warmington, Fred Warmington, Joseph E. Collins, and Harry Watters. Arthur W. Newcombe rendered a cornet solo. The closing hymn was followed by benediction by Rev. B. A. Willmott. Miss Bessie Warmington was the accompanist.

LEGEND OF PROSERPINE

Saturday Performance Postponed Until Today

Although clouds were rolling up and it looked like showers early Saturday afternoon two or three hundred people gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Adams street, for the picture dancing on the lawn.

But before the hour of the entertainment arrived the rain began to fall and the guests, performers, musicians and boy scouts all scurried for shelter indoors. The house was filled to overflowing.

Although the entertainment did not come off Mrs. Faxon served frappe and cake and there was music and a social time while waiting for the storm to pass over.

Provision had been made by the committee to have the entertainment Monday in case of rain so that, weather premitting, it will be given this afternoon at half past three.

The violin recital of Miss Ruth Keating, held at her home on Saturday afternoon, proved a most enjoyable affair, despite the inclement weather. By their ease in bowing and sureness of intonation the young performers gave much pleasure and showed careful study on the part of teacher and student. Pupils were present from Braintree, Weymouth, and Quincy.

No baseball games were played Saturday afternoon on account of rain. Five snappy contests and a tennis match were postponed to another date.

UP FOR SECOND READING

Home Rule Bill Comes Before the House of Commons Today

London, June 9.—The home rule for Ireland bill is scheduled to come before the house of commons today for a second reading, preliminary to its second passage of the three necessary for it to become law over the veto of the house of lords.

The house of lords, it is assumed, will throw it out again, as it did last year, and it will then have to go through the usual routine in the 1914 session before becoming the law of the land.

The government thus far has not put a time limit on the debate in the house of commons.

THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN KILLED IN '61

Old War Veteran Becomes Heir to Substantial Legacy

Taunton, Mass., June 9.—Through an advertisement for the heir to the estate of the late E. Emily King, it was discovered that Edward Padelford, 92, believed to have been killed in 1861 in the Civil war, is alive and in the soldiers' home at Marshalltown, Ia. He is sole heir to the substantial legacy.

After serving in the war, Padelford joined the regular army and was detailed to a western post. When he retired from the army he bought a farm, which he lost to land grabbers and then his only salvation was the soldiers' home.

Boston, June 9.—Mrs. June Keyes, eldest daughter of Mrs. Jennie Eaton, who is in Plymouth jail awaiting trial for the alleged murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Eaton, has disappeared from the Eaton home in Assinippi. With the exception of a hurried visit to Assinippi last Monday her friends and relatives have not seen her since May 21.

Francis J. Geogan, junior attorney for Mrs. Eaton, says he knows where she is. He refuses to say more than that she is in Massachusetts. Mrs. Keyes was to be a witness at her mother's trial.

She was found by County Commissioner McKay helpless in her bed at Carbon. She had been without food for ten days. Meanwhile a score of thickens had made a roosting place of her bed, while an old dog had kept watch at the door of the tumbledown house in which she lived.

COURT TO GIVE PUBLIC HEARING

GRAND JURY IS INVESTIGATING

Remarkable Proceeding Growing Out of Dynamite Conspiracy Trial, In Which Wood Is Acquitted—Jury Hangs on Atteaux and Convicts Collins on Two Counts

Boston, June 9.—The most remarkable proceeding in the history of Massachusetts jurisprudence will begin next Wednesday, when Judge Crosby opens a public hearing to investigate the attempted bribery of Morris Shuman, a juror in the Wood-Atteaux-Collins trial.

There is only one purpose in the hearing—that is to find out who is to blame for the attempted corruption of a juror. There is no defendant—no prosecution.

The biggest development in the bribery scandal was the admission by Attorney Hurlburt, counsel for President Wood of the American Woolen company, that a man came to him and offered to "fix" the jury.

Hurlburt told this to District Attorney Pelletier. The district attorney asked for all the details. Hurlburt said the man had given him his card, but that he paid so little attention to the matter that he forgot the man's name. At the request of the district attorney, Hurlburt had the card looked up and turned over to Pelletier.

The card gave the name of a detective agency in Boston. The entire staff is to be haled before the grand jury.

Both sides have declared a determination to sift the charges to the bottom. That is what prompted the unusual investigation in open court, which was demanded by Hurlburt, and which will be separate from the grand jury deliberations.

The district attorney's office claims that the government no longer is forced to depend upon Shuman's story alone. Six witnesses were located by inspectors from police headquarters, who corroborate in whole or in part the story which Shuman told of the attempt to bribe him when he went to his home from court Thursday evening.

The hearing was announced immediately after the jury had returned a verdict of "not guilty" on all indictments against William M. Wood; a verdict of "guilty" on two of the counts against Dennis J. Collins, and a disagreement on the case of Frederick E. Atteaux.

It will be unprecedented in this state. Pelletier will conduct the hearing; that witnesses will be examined under oath and that counsel for all interested will have a part in the proceedings. Hurlburt will be given full latitude to say and offer anything he desires.

The attempted bribery came at the end of one of the most sensational cases in Massachusetts history. The richest wool manufacturer in the country, a wealty dye manufacturer, and a dog fancier, were on trial, charged with conspiracy. Dennis J. Collins, the dog fancier, took the stand as a state's witness. John J. Breen, convicted for "planting" the Lawrence dynamite, also took the stand. Breen directly accused Atteaux of arranging with him to plant the dynamite, and said Atteaux paid him $700 for it. The attorneys for the defense centred their attack on Breen and accused him of lying and of perjury.

VERMONT SOLON SHOT

Seriously Wounded by Man Against Whom He Had Testified

Vernon, Vt., June 9.—Herbert A. Staten, a representative in the state legislature, was shot and seriously wounded while he was seeing a friend off at the Central Vermont railroad station here. Hugh Collins, a substitute station agent, is under arrest, charged with having done the shooting.

The fact that Staten testified against Collins, when the latter was arrested for intoxication, is believed by the authorities to have furnished the motive for the shooting.

"IMMEDIATE WAR" URGED

Anti-American Meeting at Tokio Draws but Few People

Tokio, June 9.—A mass meeting of an organization known as the "Anti-American Youths' association" was sparsely attended.

Bellicose speeches were made, but the orators were of no prominence, being for the most part agitators attached to the opposition parties.

The speeches were mostly devoted to attacks on the ministry and a resolution, which was adopted, urged immediate war against the United States.

Steamer Sinks Fisherman

Cuxhaven, Ger., June 9.—The steamer Adendale, while putting out to sea, collided with the fishing steamer Johann Hinrich, which was sunk. Four of the crew were saved and six were drowned.

A STITCH IN TIME

Quincy People Should not Neglect Their Kidneys.

No kidney ailment is unimportant. Don't overlook the slightest backache or urinary irregularity. Nature may be warning you of approaching dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Kidney disease is seldom fatal if treated in time, but neglect may pave the way. Don't neglect a lame or aching back another day. Don't ignore dizzy spells, irregular or discolored urine, headaches, weariness or depression. If you feel you need kidney help begin using the reliable, time-tried remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. For 50 years, Doan's have been found effective. Endorsed by Quincy people.

W. Charlesworth, 33 Cranch St., Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an effective kidney medicine. They fixed me up in good shape some years ago and since then, I have had no kidney trouble."

"When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name." Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Charlesworth had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR THE CAUSE OF SUFFRAGE

Emily Davison Breathes Her Last In Epsom Hospital

SKULL FRACTURED AT DERBY

Cot Draped With Militant Colors as Woman Who Tried to Stop King's Horse Lay Dying—Was Noted For Her Daring Feats In Behalf of Votes For Women

London, June 9.—Emily W. Davison, the first martyr to the militant efforts of women to obtain suffrage, died at the Epsom hospital as the result of a fracture of the skull sustained in an attempt to stop the king's horse, Anmer, during the run of the Derby on Wednesday last.

Only the matron of the hospital and two nurses were present at the death bed, Miss Davison's relatives having left the building when told there was no hope of her regaining consciousness.

A few moments before her death two comrades draped the screen surrounding the cot with the fateful colors of the Women's Social and Political union which she wore when she made her sensational attempt to interfere with the great classic of the British turf.

Miss Davison was noted for her daring feats in behalf of militancy. One of her earlier exploits was to barricade herself in a cell and she could only be overcome by the warders with the aid of a fire hose. On another occasion she cast herself down a flight of stairs in the jail and was seriously injured.

She was one of the most persistent invaders of the house of commons, which she gained at one time by way of the air shaft. Her last exploit before the fatal Epsom incident was the assaulting of a Baptist clergyman in the belief that he was Chancellor Lloyd George.

Speaking with great emotion at a Hyde Park meeting yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Despard said she hoped the case of Miss Davison would kindle a flame in the souls of men which would end this present awful situation.

Miss McGowan, another suffragette leader, said Miss Davison had given her life to call attention to the wrongs of women. She knew Miss Davison had always held the view that a woman's life would have to be sacrificed before the women of this country would get justice.

In striking contrast to the meetings of the Constitutional society in Hyde Park yesterday afternoon, which met with only mild heckling, attempts of the W. S. P. U. speakers to address the crowd resulted in considerable disorder and a number of fights between male bodyguards of the women and spectators.

At one point the women were rushed off their feet and the police had to escort them from the park. Several arrests were made.

The Daily Sketch has received a message from Christobel Pankhurst, who is in Paris, in which she said:

"Miss Davidson died for women. She did this to call attention to their wrongs and win for them the vote. The government's refusal to grant the vote drove her to make her protest. The argument has not convinced Mr. Asquith of the seriousness of his position, but perhaps the woman's death will.

"Miss Davison's memory will live in women's hearts and history for all time. There will be a public funeral in honor of this soldier who has fallen in the war for freedom."

DAVID I. WALSH

Definitely Declares Himself Candidate For Governorship

WALSH SMOKED OUT

Will Be Democratic Candidate For Governor of Massachusetts

Boston, June 9.—Lieutenant Governor Walsh has formally given his word to the Democratic leaders that he will stand for the gubernatorial nomination this fall, whether Governor Foss is an entry or not.

The declaration on the part of Walsh was not exactly voluntary, for he was waited on by a delegation who put the question directly to him.

The insiders in the Democratic state organization have been growing more restive every minute and the matter reached the point where they laid down to Walsh that the time had come when he must say something. Without any attempt of concealment they also let him know that they were determined to have a candidate against Foss.

Enormous excitement prevails. Servia is allowing the passage of no Bulgarian messages. From today a more drastic "state of war" will be observed. All houses must close at 9 o'clock at night.

GETS $15,000 ALIMONY

Mrs. Heye's Request For $78,000 Is Whittled Down by Judge

New York, June 9.—Fifteen thousand dollars a year alimony, instead of the $78,000 she requested, was reported by Supreme Court Justice Aspinwall to Mrs. Blanche A. W. Heye, who is suing her husband, George G. Heye, a New York banker, for absolute divorce. The amount is to be paid pending trial of the suit, together with $2500 counsel fee. The plaintiff sought $15,000 counsel fees.

When Aspinwall first considered Mrs. Heye's application for $78,000 alimony he denounced it as preposterous.

DEFY TOWNSEND TO MAKE GOOD

Democrats Resent Senator's Wilson Lobby Charges

SENSATIONS ARE LOOKED FOR

Men Supposed to Represent "Special Interersts" May Be Called Upon This Week—Democrats Say Republicans Must Prove Assertion That President Is Coercing Senators

Washington, June 9.—That President Wilson, as well as the Democratic senatorial leaders, intend to put it up to Senator Townsend to prove his charge that the president is using patronage to coerce the Democratic senators to vote for the Underwood tariff bill has become known.

President Wilson will not appear before the lobby investigating committee to answer the charges; in fact, he will ignore them. The Republican members of the senate, though, are anxious to have the president appear, but it is apparent from the program being outlined by the committee for this week that there is no intention of calling the president.

It is believed the work of the committee this week will bring sensations, as, in addition to a dozen senators, a score or more men whose names have been brought out in testimony as having represented special interests in Washington will be called upon to testify.

A witness whose testimony is looked forward to with interest is R. D. Bowen of Paris, Tex. Circular letters signed by him as chairman of the "National Farmers' Committee on the Greater Consumption of Cotton" have fallen into the hands of the cimmittee and these will form the basis of the interrogation of him by the committee.

The Democratic members of the investigating committee say that since the charge against the president—that he is using patronage to coerce Democratic senators to vote for the Underwood tariff bill against their judgment—has come only from Republicans it is "up to them" to prove it.

Senator Cummins, a Republican member of the committee, said he had no thought of trying to prove Townsend's charge. He declared the Michigan senator merely had called attention to what appeared in newspapers and he believed the Democrats should investigate the subject if they wanted the country to know the truth.

Cummins added, however, that he intended to use every effort to have the president tell the committe upon what information he based his original statement that "an insidious lobby" exists in Washington. The Republicans admit there is a large lobby here, but they declare that it is perfectly proper and that there is nothing "insidious" about it.

CHURCHMEN BRING SUIT

Charge Meeting Was "Packed" to Gain Control of Heavy Funds

Boston, June 9.—Some of the most prominent men in church and social circles have been named as defendants in a bill in equity filed in the supreme court by George A. Crawford on behalf of the members of the Bromfield street church.

It is alleged that the meeting was "packed" at the recent quarterly conference of the church, called to elect a new board of trustees in order to give them control of the church's properties and funds worth nearly $500,000.

The petitioner claims that the men purporting to act as trustees of the Methodist Religious society of Boston are in the wrongful possession of properties and funds to the value of nearly $500,000. He wants the court to decide who the real trustees are.

RUN DOWN BY AUTO.

Arthur Pinel of South Quincy was probably seriously injured and a woman escaped by jumping to the running board of an electric car when an automobile tore through a crowd of people at Nantasket Sunday evening. The accident occurred about 8.30 o'clock. According to the stories told of the accident Pinel was thrown to the ground when struck, and no assistance was rendered by the three occupants of the machine.

Dr. John T. Reynolds examined him this morning and found that he had sustained injuries to his back and probably internal injuries. An X-ray examination will be given him Tuesday. He is married and has four children. He is connected with the Pinel variety store at Water and Franklin street and resides nearby.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

The strawberry festival held in the Atlantic Memorial church on Saturday afternoon and evening was a big success in spite of the storm. Plans had been made to hold the festival in the field beside the church, but on account of the storm the affair was held in the vestry of the church. The attractions at the festival were music, fortune telling, ice cream, candy, punch, strawberry short cake and the grab table or flower bed. All the tables except the candy, were in charge of the committee, but the candy table was in charge of the Bachelor Girls club.

Most af the success of the affair was due to Mrs. I. S. Smith, chairman of the committee in charge. She had carefully planned it, in every detail and was well supported by a large committee.

Cunningham carried the injured man to the office of Dr. Daniel A. Bruce and then to the hospital. Keough is a brass moulder by trade.

IN COLLISION.

A motorcycle operated by a young man whose name could not be learned collided with the auto driven by Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown, at Washington and Elm streets about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The auto was coming from Quincy Point and was turning into Elm street, while the cycle was coming out of Elm street. The motor cycle was badly damaged No injuries were sustained by the parties in the crash.

DOUBLE PRESENTATION.

The Christian Endeavor of the Memorial church presented Kenneth B. Blake with a Christian Endeavor pin, set in pearls and rubies, on Saturday evening at the strawberry festival. The pin was presented by Rev. T. W Davison, who spoke in appreciation of the work of Mr. Blake as vice-president of the Christian Endeavor and as a faithful worker in the church and Sunday school. Spencer Apollonio, choir director presented him with a loving cup in appreciation of his work in the choir.

THE LEGEND OF PROSERPINE

Presented With Artistic Beauty and Ideal Surroundings by Fair Maids

Extensive Lawns of Henry M. Faxon the Scene

In the presentation of the "Legend of Proserpine" Monday afternoon on the lawn surrounding the home of Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Adams street, expectations of something beautifully artistic were more than realized for nature and art combined in making the entertainment perfect in every way.

The story was told in picture dancing, the stage being a green velvety lawn, surrounded by grand old elm trees, with a background of rhododendrons which were a mass of blossoms ten or twelve feet high and twenty-five or more in area. Added to this was a long sweep of woodland and meadow with the blue waters of Quincy bay in the distance, the whole making an eye satisfying picture. The only addition to nature was a white marble fountain with streams of water, a white marble pedestal with urn of burning incense and the dancers in their flowing Grecian robes of soft colors.

The entertainment began at four o'clock when to the soft strains of music by a stringed orchestra the mistress of ceremony, Miss Mary M. Faxon and her aides Misses Louise Abercrombie, Eleanor and Rachel Drinker and Clarice Doble were seen slowly wending their way through the trees and shrubs. Miss Faxon was a stately and beautiful Grecian maiden in white over pink. Her attendants were in white and carried garlands of flowers. They circled around the lawn and facing the audience Miss Faxon told the story of Proserpine, how she came to play among her gay companions and gather flowers—how Pluto, dread ruler of the underworld, saw her and sent his spirits of the dark to bear her to his abode—the return of her companions to tell Ceres the goddess-mother who grief stricken wanders o'er the earth and is comforted by Aurora, guardian of Dawn and Hesperus the evening star, until discovered by the little daughter of Celeus as the reapers make merry in the fields after the day's work, and leads her home. Another day she wanders and comes upon Arethusa the luckless maid beloved of the river-god who in her flight below the earth beheld Proserpine and hastens to Jove's altar to plead her cause. He sends down Mercury and Spring to bring Proserpine back to earth and mirth and joy prevails.

After the mistress of ceremony was seated on her throne with her maidens grouped about her, the story as told by her was enacted by dancing and it was veritable picture dancing.

GRADUATED FROM TECH.

Two Quincy Young Men in the List of Nearly 300

At the graduating exercises of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology today Hilding Nathaniel Carlson of Quincy received the degree, B. S., bachelor of science. The title of his graduation thesis was a techincal electrical one, "A high potential cable test and the development of a new form of wattmeter."a Philip Simes Barnes of Wollaston graduated in the same class receiving the same degree, his thesis being, "A study of the destructive distillation of wood.

Nearly three hundred was the list of students receiving degrees at the hands of President R. C. Maclaurin, who only last Thursday celebrated his forty-third birthday.

The distribution of the students is an evidence of the cosmopolitan nature of the Institute, for thirty-six of the United States were represented and all of the other four continents and the antipodes.

President Maclaurin gave good advice to the students who were assembled for the last time in Huntington hall and each of the dozen departments furnished one of the thesis, which at the Institute take most practical subjects.

FIELD DAY OF EAGLES.

The members of John Adams Aerie of Eagles of this city were disappointed over the award of first prize to the Cambridge float after their fine reproduction of the battleship North Dakota in the parade in Boston on Monday. All along the line this mechanical triumph received a hearty reception and more than one photographer snapped it while the smoke belched from the stacks and the sun reflected from the mirrors set in such a way that they acted as search lights.

The uniformed degree team which last year won the championship of New England at the New Bedford field day never looked nattier and the aerie had a fine representation in line. The amateur atheltic events were held on the Boston National grounds.

"Fay" Phelan, of School street wearing colors of the North Dorchester A. A. and J. J. Finn of Cambridge, unattached, had a battle royal for first place in the 100 yard dash. Phelan was on the two yard mark and Finn had six and one half yards. In the final they breasted the worsted on even terms and agreed to run over to decide the winner. Again they broke the tape evenly. On the third tryout "Fay" was penalized for a false start and the handicap was too much for him. The time was 10 2-5 seconds.

BASKET BALL CONTROVERSY.

William H. Flynn of Quincy, a member of the basket ball commission of the N. E. A. A. A. U. created a sensation at a meeting of the board of managers at Boston on Monday evening when he charged that Chairman Hepbron of the national basket ball commission was "unfit" to have control of the sport. He enlivened the discussion by submitting copies of correspondence between Hepbron and himself relative to the national championships in which both the Quincy teams of which he is manager should represent New England.

WILLARDS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Shut Out the Cranch School in Rubber Game of the School League

Story of the Big Game Inning by Inning

The Willards of the Nationals defeated the Cranch Americans in the final game of the world"s series at Merrymount Park Monday afternoon, 3 to 0. Egan pitched a no-hit-no-run game, secured two hits, one putout and two assists.

Cranch won the first game making their record seven straight. Willard took the second on a forfeit following an accident to Harry Galvin, the Cranch third baseman. The game therefore decided the city championship for 1913. It was the first actual loss for Cranch although the first game was like finding money.

But 19 men faced Egan in the six inning battle. Barry, the only Cranch man to reach first was presented with the bag through Marini's error. He stole second and stayed there when McGerigle fanned the third out in the first innings.

Arbuckle pitched good ball but the fates were against him. He was hit for two singles in the first, one in the second and three in the third. He secured eight strikeouts and two assists Displaying keen base ball judgment he threw out Minihan at third on a fielder's choice in the third innings.

Wallace's catch of Weidman's skyrocket was the feature moment of the game. In the third he drove one out for altitudte and Wallace captured it as it was gliding to a landing behind second. Only two Cranch cracks went to the outfield and they were throttled to help in the fielding averages.

Atn o moment wasthe Willards in peril. All the players were on the alert and challenged everything. This dispute for honors continued until Egan fanned the last batter with his face wreathed in smiles as he heard the encouraging remarks of a small army of Willard fans.

The utmost confusion reigned when the last man died with the bat in his hand. All caution was thrown aside in the mad scamper of Willardites from the field. A stream of satisfied pupils hurried to Ward Four through all the byways and when they reached its precincts they screamed their victory lustily.

The Cranch boys, gamey little sports as they are generously, offered their congratulations to the "champs." Many walked across to "Cooler" Egan and complimented him in his showing and that of the boys behind him.

The game closed the fourth season of organized school boy ball. Crowds turned out to witness the last stand and enthusiasm was rampant. City officials and policeman mingled in the throng and an interested spectator was Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy of St. Mary's parish who helped in the making of athletic records during his college days.

Even "Bill" Shea smiled his pleasure with the outcome and the only royal rooter marked absent was "Ot" Thayer. Principal Townsend of the Cranch, Principal Upton of the Willard and Principal Goodspeed of Wollaston watched the game from the lines. Dr. J. Gardner Smith had the time to himself to watch the play, Officer Crooker keeping the field clear of children.

The wreather threatened to interfere during practice but changed its mind after sprinkling a few scattered drops. A chill east wind cut across the field but no one had time to bother about it.

Immediately following the game the sentiment expressed favored a game between the "champs" and the St.

A MESSAGE OF UNITY.

Congressman Heflin of Alabama is an outspoken, aggressive exponent of the interests of his own state and section. The fact that so positive a spokesman for the former Confederate states should have used such cordial terms in his address at Gettysburg May 30, on the subject of national unity, is an evidence of how fast old scars have been fading out.

Said Mr. Heflin "Here on this battlefield, incarnadined with the blood of patriots North and patriots South, let us, in the language of Lincoln, resolve that this government shall not perish from the earth."

Had the better understandings and comparative tolerance of these days been manifested between the two sections previous to 1861, the war never could have happened. Voices of sectional antagonism are occasionally heard from the politicians, but in the language and daily life of the people, it is a forgotten and obsolete note.

It is a mistake for people to think they will lose social standing if they pick up some of the street litter that disfigures the town.

PROFIT SHARING LABOR.

There must be a motive back of all labor which will make the laboring man take special interest in his work. He must have something to look forward to besides the actual daily wage which he receives. The workman's idea forty years ago was not to avoid work. Now, when more pay and shorter hours receive almost constant attention, the men are likely to come to think of these things all the time. Some of them probably constantly are thinking of ways by which they can do as little work as possible rather than ways by which they can do as much as possible. With more pay and shorter hours not resulting in happiness, it becomes necessary to plan some other means by which the great mass of laboring people may get their enjoyment while working. The system of profit sharing will keep the employees interested in their work and consequently content. A certain company is a splendid example of my profit sharing idea and gives each of its employees a certain per cent of the profits annually and has done so for twelve years. I believe the plan is one that can be adopted generally, except in cases of absentee ownership.—Charles W. Eliot.

Economy Hints

THERE is a deal of so called economy that is senseless extravagance and defeats in itself the purpose of economy. Too many women in their effort to save everything throw away a large amount of material that could be expended or used in a much better way and in the end attain a result that is far from gratifying. There is more than the mere saving of 5 cents' worth of leftover food to be considered in the practice of economy, notably labor, the cost of fuel, time and the final result of the whole.

The desire to save half of a five cent loaf of bread, which causes some women to use a quart of eight cent milk and four eggs at 4 or 5 cents apiece, half an hour's time and 10 cents' worth of fuel in order to produce a dish that no one likes and that the whole family refuses to eat, is the result of a mistaken idea of economy.

Far better would be the purchase of a quart of ice cream at 50 cents, which would save her time, labor and fuel and give the family the pleasure of a luxury and add to the value of the menu. If, to offset the expense of the ice cream, she could be taught to buy less bread, cut it carefully, just what was needed for each meal and no more, to use half slices and broken pieces for croutons, there would never be any more stale bread left in her bread box than she would need for breading croquettes or chops once or twice a month.

If, in spite of careful buying and cutting, she should some day find herself with part of a loaf of bread to dispose of she might much better throw away the 3 or 4 cents' worth of food than expend 30 or 40 cents to save it. If a tablespoonful of peas suggests no other dish than an omelet which calls for six eggs to be garnished with the peas they had better be thrown out.

If they can go into the stock pot, together with three or four other bits of palatable vegetables which will give a good flavor to soup, they will have been well utilized, but it is an extravagance to build up a new dish around them. There is wretched waste in saving the little piece of fat which is left from the steak if it takes an hour's time to render into clear white drippings for frying.

If there is a large amount of fat that can be used in such a way and it can be done without taking time from other necessary tasks it will be a real economy to utilize all such fat, but there are many other things besides the cost of lard to be computed when figuring the amount saved by this process.

The real beginning of economy is to study the demands of the family and to learn to buy carefully, just enough and not too much nor too little, and the woman who masters this phase of the problem will not find any difficulties in understanding the rest of the subject.

How to Make Jams Attractive.

It is an excellent idea in doing up jellies, either for home use or for a woman's exchange, where the neatness and attractiveness of a glass, often intended as a gift to the sick, count for much, to fasten around the edges of the white paper used on the top the narrow strips of colored and already gummed papers which are sold for use in the passe partout of frames for pictures and which may always be bought of any up to date stationer, the expense being insignificant.

These bands, in addition to the gain in neatness and prettiness, also give greater security in the matter of air tightness and when a light color is used may also bear the name of the jelly, jam or conserve within.

How to Bottle Green Peas.

Green peas that are to be bottled should be gathered on a dry day, and only peas that are perfectly sound should be used. Shell them carefully and dip them in boiling water in which a spray of mint has been soaked. After blanching dry the peas and put them into wide necked bottles with mint and salted boiling water. Cover the bottles and put them, wrapped in hay, in a pan of water. Bring the water slowly to the boil and allow the peas to cook gently for an hour and a half. Set the pan aside till the peas are quite cold; then lift the bottles out and lay them on a damp cloth in a warm place. Hermetically seal the bottles, dry them carefully and store till required.

How to Be Healthy and Beautiful.

Never come to the table with a mind full of worries and troubles or in an irritable state of temper, nor again should you attempt to eat when very fatigued. Both these states tend to diminish the blood supply to the digestive organs and therefore to hinder digestion. Do not read or study when eating, but also do not sit glumly silent. A little pleasant conversation is helpful and prevents one getting into the obnoxious and dangerous habit of bolting one's food.

How to Prevent Flat Tea.

Always empty out any water left before filling the teakettle. Very frequently the flat taste of tea is caused by using water that has already been boiled.

DEBATES IN CITY COUNCIL

New Plumbing Ordinance, Building Laws, Pony Expresses, and Junk Licenses

Appropriation Orders Involving Large Sums Advanced

Debates on junk collectors licenses, pony express permits and the new plumbing ordinance resulted in prolonging Monday nights adjourned meeting of the City Council until nearly 11 o'clock. It was thought that perhaps the council might be able to adjourn for the summer at this meeting but several orders that require another reading will make another meeting necessary. This will be held June 23.

H. H. LOWE'S LICENSE.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Chief of Police relative to the pony express license granted H. H. Lowe. The report stated that Lowe had immediately put on the teams of Joe Mecurio who had been refused a permit and the Mecurio was doing the business. Furthermore his reports did not come in as they should.

Inspector Goodhue, when called, state that he believed that all was not right. That Lowe was practically not doing any business but he could not tell whether Mecurio was doing business for Lowe or how it was. He had learned from his reports that Mecurio was doing business with the same Boston firms that he did when he had a permit and that his customers were also the same. When pressed by Councilman Cunningham as to what he thought ought to be done he stated that he believed that the permit of Lowe should be revoked.

He said that last year he had been criticised because he did not report to the council the expressmen who did not report as they should hence this report.

Councilman Cunningham offered an order revoking the permit of H. H. Lowe and Councilman Bryant called upon the City Solicitor for a ruling.

The City Solicitor said that he had previously refrained from giving a public opinion on the matter of the conditions imposed by the Council. Legally they had no weight for under the statute the council could impose no restrictions and that the expressmen were simply bound morally to comply with the conditions. That the only remedy that the council had was when the parties applied for a permit the following year. He also stated that the permit could not be revoked for failure to comply with these conditions.

The order and communication from the Chief of Police were then referred to the License committee.

BUILDING LAWS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Inspector of Buildings asking for an appropriation for printing in phamplet form the new building ordinance. This order was laid on the table until later when Councilman Hadlock offered an order appropriating $50 for that purpose which was adopted.

Later Councilman Cunningham raised the point of order that under the rules all orders required two readings and on a ruling from the chair that this order was passed an appeal was taken from the ruling.

Councilman Bryant then raised the point of order that there was no motion before the Council, and that the motion of Councilman Cunningham was out of order. The chair ruled the point well taken.

CITY ORDINANCES.

A communication was received from the City Clerk asking the Council to designate what papers the new ordinances should be advertised in as the Ordinances provided that the council should name the papers. Referred to the Committee on Licenses.

PETITIONS

A petition to apportion street betterment assessments was laid on the table until later when it was granted

A petition to keep gasoline from J. A. Bergfors was laid on the table until later when a hearing was ordered for June 23.

A petition from John Gardner to set fish trap near Hangman's island was referred to the Committee on Licenses.

A petition from the Telephone company for attachments on Pearl street was granted.

REPORTS.

The License committee reported orders granting a number of minor licenses which were adopted.

The committee on Sewers reported a substitute order for $2,400 for cleaning brooks. Referred to Finance Committee.

On report of the License committee the applications of Agnes Pearon and Joseph Allié for Sunday fruit licenses were given leave to withdraw.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on several petitions relative to junk, zones, etc., and also on the order establishing a junk zone, as the City Solicitor had ruled it could not be established. Accepted.

The Finannce Committee reported an order for $600 that the Tax Collector might advertise taxes, etc. Ordered to a second reading.

Also an order for $200 for the Inspector of Milk. Order passed.

The same committee reported an order for $3,500 to purchase what is known as the Murphy property adjoining Mt. Wollaston cemetery, of the Woodward Fund for an addition to the cemetery. Ordered to a second reading.

The same committee reported ought to pass on the order for $1,500 to purchase an automobile for the Police department. Order read and placed in the calendar.

JUNK LICENSES.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the applications of I. Cutler, Hyman Katz and David Silverman for junk collectors licenses.

The applications were taken up separately. Councilman Sandberg wanted Mr. Cutler to appear before the council but there was objection. He then argued at length in favor of the applicant.

Councilman Duffy argued at length against. He had nothing personal against the parties but said that the increase in junk collectors was injuring the development of Ward Two. It was also injuring the value of reality in that section of the city and people owning property near were unable to find a market for it when developed. He suggested that a large track on the outskirts of the city might be secured and that a combination entered into whereby all junk collected could be kept on this lot. Then the parties could live where they desired. He also spoke of the detriment from the standpoint of health and claimed that there was often contamination in the old rags, etc. and that there had come near being an epidemic twice in that section.

After some further argument all of the applications were laid on the table.

ADAMS SCHOOL.

Councilman Richards offered an order for $6,500 for furnishing the new Adams school building. Read and referred to Finance committee.

Councilman Bailey offered an order authorizing the City Auditor to credit the receipts from industrial training to meet bills for industrial training. Order adopted.

On motion of Councilman Bryant Rule 1, was suspended and it was voted when the council adjourn it be until Monday June 23.

PLUMBING ORDINANCE.

On motion of Councilman Thompson the plumbing ordinance was taken from the table. By unanimous consent W. A. Bradford, the plumber, appeared before the council.

Mr. Bradford stated that he had figured on a two-family house and that the difference in cost between the standard and heavy pipe was $10.21. As for the labor he did not think it would be any different.

Councilman Farquharson asked about the extra cost for freight claiming that the freight on heavy pipe would be twice that of the light pipe. Mr. Bradford disputed this saying that it would not be twice the amount.

Councilman Richards also asked many questions about the cost of freight the idea evidently being to show that while the difference in the cost of the pipe itself was nine cents that there would also be an extra charge on account of the extra cost of freight.

Mr. Bradford however claimed that you could get about as much heavy pipe in a car as light pipe as the diameter was about the same.

Councilman Richards also asked Mr. Bradford why he had used light pipe in his own building to which the latter replied that when he took the building the plumbing already in was the standard and that it was not best to try and connect the two kinds. He however said that he believed the heavy pipe the best as it was almost impossible to properly caulk the light pipe without breaking and it was also better for the owner of the house.

Councilman Griffin asked who got the profit by the extra heavy pipe and Mr. Bradford replied that the people get a better proposition and that the plumber got a little more. Plumbers try and cover up cracks in the light pipe so that the inspector cannot find them. Mr. Bradford also stated that the power station where Councilman Griffin was employed was piped with the heavy pipe. Councilman Griffin however did not think this any comparison with a house.

In reply to further questions Mr. Bradford said that he had nothing whatever to do with the getting up of the new ordinance.

Councilman Bailey stated that at the hearing before the committee that all of the master plumbers with one exception had agreed that the heavy pipe was the best. The one objection was because of the inspector, and it did not appear that this man had a plumbers license.

Councilman Griffin thought that the man who owned the house should be considered.

Councilman Thompson argued in favor of the ordinance as did also Councilman Bryant, while Councilmen Richards and Ericson were against.

Chairman Teasdale when called before the council stated that he had measured the house where it was said that 180 feet of pipe was necessary and found that but 110 feet were necessary. He further stated that the order originated with the Board of Health and that the use of heavy pipe had been recommended by the State Board. Practically all the large cities and towns now required the heavy pipe used.

Dr. Jones of the Board of Health was called before the council and stated that epidemics often started from defective plumbing and that breaks in the light pipe were hard to trace. He believed for the health of the people it was better to use the heavy pipe. He also stated that no plumber had been interested in getting up the new ordinance and that it had originated with the Board of Health.

On motion of Councilman Sandberg the order was then laid on the table.

NEW ORDERS.

Councilman Richards offered an order for $1,500 for printing the assessors valuation lists. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Bass offered an order for a light on Bicknell street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Corcoran offered an order for a light on Willard street, near the Milton line. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman Gilliatt offered an order amending the Hawkers and Peddlers ordinance. Referred to the License committee.

ORDERS PASSED.

Under the calendar the following orders were given their second reading and passed to be ordained by roll call by unanimous votes:

The order for permanent sidewalks carrying an application of $11,275.

The loan order for $27,500 to do the street work contemplateed by orders passed at the last meeting.

Granting the Gas Co. a location for mains.

WEST ROXBURY GIRL BRIDE

Becomes Wife of Edward M. King of West Quincy

Miss Agnes L. Prendergast of West Roxbury and Edward M. King of West Quincy were married at St. Theresa's church, West Roxbury, Monday morning by Rev. John F. Broderick who also celebrated a nuptial mass. Many friends attended the ceremonies.

Miss Irene M. McElroy, a cousin of the bride, was her attendant. Dorothea Prendergast, her four year old niece was the flower girl. Martin King, the groom'sb rother was the best man.

The bride was gowned in duchess satin with pearl trimmings, wore a tulle veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of the same. Her bridesmaid was dressed in pink messaline and carried Killarney roses. Dorothea wore a natty white d'esprit with hat to match and carried a basket of sweet peas in her hand.

The ushers were William L. Hogarty, Edward Ford, James King, Arthur J. Prendergast, Mr. Moore, John J. King and Daniel J. Prendergast.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey J. Prendergast, Stratford street, West Roxbury. The Jonquil Girls of which the bride is a prominent member directed the festivities. Miss Anna M. Dowd presided at the piano and Miss Hannah Gately assisted.

At noon Mr. and Mrs. King left on a trip to New York, Niagara Falls and Washington. On their return they will live at Fordham court, Forest Hills.

Mr. King is the son of Mrs. Bridget King of California avenue and a well known and respected West Quincy young man. He is a graduate of Adams Academy, class of 1904, a member of St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. society and Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus. He holds a responsible position with a rubber manufacturing concern in Boston. His bride, during her visits to West Quincy has gained the friendship of a host of young ladies and gentlemen.

FROLIC AT MEDFORD.

It took half a column of a Boston paper to report a farewell frolic of forty High school seniors at Medford on Monday, where James D. Howlett, formerly of Quincy is master. The boys assembled in Medford square about 7.45 wearing white duck trousers, athletic jerseys or sweaters and caps. They formed in single file and marched lock-step fashion to the High school building, main entrance.

When told to go to the other entrance they marched all over town cutting up various pranks.

In an interview, Mr. Howlett said: "This sort of thing is liable to happen at this time of year and has happened in the past as a sort of windup frolic on the part of the seniors. I have put it up to those boys not only to stop this foolishness and take their medicine now that they have had their fun, but I also anticipate that they will take steps to put themselves on record as discouraging its occurrence again this year or in the future by other classes."

Frank Stone, son of Mayor Stone, who has been employed at the jewelry store of Sandberg Bros., has accepted a position with the Stone, Underhill heating company and has gone to the northern part of Maine, where he will represent the firm.

SHE DID HIS BIDDING

Though It Was a Tax on Her Maidenly Modesty

By JUDSON ARMSTRONG

Sir John Throckmorton lay dying.

Sir John's only son had inherited from this ancestor a venturesome disposition. All his father's efforts to keep him at home that he might live the regular Throckmorton life, taking care of the property, attending to the wants of his tenants, for excitement occasionally indulging in a fox hunt, were futile. Young Jack at eighteen went to America without his father's permission and remained there without his father's assistance. He enlisted in the United States cavalry, served three years as a private, then on being discharged turned cowboy. All his father knew about him was that he was living what the old man considered a disreputable life in the most barbarous part of the United States.

Sir John feebly called his nurse and said to her, "Tell Gladys that I wish to speak with her."

The nurse disappeared, and presently a girl between nineteen and twenty came into the room and, approaching the bed where the old man lay, placed her hand on his forehead, looking down on him tenderly.

"What is it, Sir John?" she said.

"Draw up a chair and sit down. I have something to say to you."

She did as he required, and he continued:

"I am preparing for my end. If you were a man instead of a woman I might leave things in better condition. But even in that case the landed property is entailed and at my death will belong to Jack. But it will be an encumbrance to him without my other property, which I desire shall go to you, who have been my only comfort since you came to me after Jack left.

"I have thought the matter out, so far as it can be thought out, and have formed a plan. It may seem a wild one, but it is the best I can do. I shall make a will, leaving the income on my securities to you so long as you live, and at your death the property to be divided among the tenants of the estate. But, in case you and Jack marry, the personal property shall be equally divided between you and him."

"Listen to me. I know what the influence of a good woman can accomplish. After I am gone go to America and find Jack. I leave the rest to you. You will know how to proceed. If you find that you and he can be happy together and a marriage between you results you will have repaid whatever I have done for you. In any event, you are provided for."

The girl sank down on her knees beside the invalid.

"Now go," he said presently, "and send a messenger to Mr. Goudy to come prepared to draw a will."

* * * * * * *

Jack Throckmorton was sitting on a blanket with a number of other cowboys, their horses nibbling the grass near by, playing the American game of poker, when a man rode up and said to him: "There's a young lady wants to see you at the ranch house. She says she's from England and has a message for you."

Jack looked up at the man anxiously. He knew that his father was in bad health, and a message from England was to be dreaded. He threw down his cards, mounted his horse and rode to the house. A young girl sat on the veranda, and as he mounted the steps he raised his sombrero to her politely.

"John Throckmorton?" she asked, rising.

"I am."

"I am sorry to be obliged to announce to you the death of your father."

The young man stood wrapped in his own thoughts, his own emotions and with bowed head. He was regretting that nature should have unfettered him to walk in the path that would have pleased the man who was now no more. Death often brings such regrets to those who are left behind. When he raised his head he saw two sympathetic eyes looking into his.

"I presume you wish to know who I am and how I came to bring you this message. I will not trespass upon your grief now by telling you all. It is for the present enough to say that I am Gladys Knowles. After you left England my mother died, and your father took me in to manage his household and be something of a companion for him. Before his death I promised him that I would come to America, find you and endeavor to induce you to return to England and assume the care of your estate. Without some one to attend to it others will soon possess it, and the tenants who have long lived under your father's beneficent administration will suffer."

"If you had come before father's death," he replied, "I would have gone back at once and remained there because it was his wish. I will go back now, get things in order and return. I could never be content to live the humdrum life of an English country gentleman."

"There is no hurry for your return. Your father left the estate in good hands, and you will find everything in order."

"And you?"

"Now that I am here I hope to see something of this life that so fascinates you."

"And I trust you will permit me to show my appreciation of your kindness to my father by furthering this intention."

Miss Knowles had traced Throckmorton to the sheep ranch where he was employed, forming her own plan of procedure on the way. He was naturally curious to know what disposition his father had made of his unentailed property, but she told him that she had not seen the will, which was true literally, though not in spirit.

The young English girl, used to country life, took readily to that on a western sheep ranch. She had brought with her funds from the Throckmorton estate for young Sir John's immediate use, which made him financially independent. They rode together in the country roundabout and visited many places remarkable for beautiful and curious scenery. Sir John was drawn to her in this: She had acted the part toward his father that he should have acted himself. She made no attempt to induce him to decide upon his return to settle to the life he had inherited. Indeed, she sympathized with him in his taste for the freer life of a ranchman. She even suggested to him that he might spend a part of his time on his estate in England and a part in America. He would be able to buy and stock a ranch and could appoint a manager for both properties with whom to leave either when he should wish to be absent from it.

A month passed, and neither Sir John nor Miss Knowles made any move to return to England. They were together constantly, for since her coming he had thrown off the cowboy and resumed the gentleman. Miss Knowles was not beautiful, but in a country where woman stands almost without other members of her sex she seems beautiful, being placed in contrast with the rough men. But there is something in character that will win in the end where the most perfect beauty will fail. Every day the young man spent in the girl's company he was lifted out of his former self, and every day while this change was going on she felt more resigned to carrying out her benefactor's dying wish.

At last one day while they were riding on horseback together Sir John said to her:

"If you will marry me I will go back to England to remain there."

At this Gladys became very serious.

"I heard," she said to him, "before leaving England that your father had selected a wife for you, and I am of the opinion that when you see her—well, you will find that he has made it a condition of your inheriting his unentailed property that you shall marry this woman."

"In that event I'll cut the whole matter!" cried Sir John. "But father couldn't deprive me of the landed property, for it is entailed."

"But you could do nothing with it without an income from the other property."

Sir John was disturbed. He could not urge Gladys to marry a mere cowboy. And the prospect of keeping a wife on his entailed property was not encouraging.

"You may find the girl to your taste," said Gladys.

"Not I. I shall remain here. If I can't marry you I'll marry no one."

Gladys reasoned with him, reminding him that she had come to America at his father's request to induce him to return to his duties in England, and she would not relinquish her design.

"Why didn't father take it into his head that I should marry you?" he asked.

"Your father loved me as his daughter. You must remember that he did not approve of your living"—

"A disreputable life. No; I don't wonder that he should not have cared to inflict so worthless a chap on you But surely he provided for you?"

"He did."

Gladys insisted on Sir John's going to England, learning how matters stood and then making up his mind what his future course would be. Having secured his promise to follow her, she set out for the coast and sailed for home.

So averse was the young man to going under the circumstances that he might not have done so for a long while had not Gladys drawn him in her wake. Not long after her departure he began his journey eastward with the intention of pressing his suit in the hope that there might be enough in his entailed property to induce her to marry him. Upon reaching home the first person he saw was Gladys.

"I have returned to learn if it is possible for me to renew the offer I made you in America when I supposed that I had inherited all my father's property."

"Have you seen the will?" she asked.

"No. I arrived only this evening. I have not had time to see Mr. Goudy I shall know all tomorrow. If I can renew my offer to you I will come and see you again. If not I will do what I must do here and then return to America."

When next the young man saw Gladys he had read his father's will He met her with delight; she met him with a blush.

"Why did you keep your secret so long?" he asked.

"I don't know," she replied. "how I have ever been so immodest as to carry out your father's wishes at all."

Sir John and his wife now live half the year on their estate in England and the other half on their ranch in America, though sometimes he visits his American property, leaving her to manage his English estate during his absence. But with a growing family he spends less time each year on his ranch and is beginning to consider giving it up entirely.

BOY BURGLAR TAKES HIS TIME

Spends Two Days In Looted Home of Retired Banker

Maid Unexpectedly Returns to House Which Is Closed For Summer and Makes Startling Discovery—Telephones For Police and Robber Is Captured at Point of Pistols

Boston, June 10.—John M. Richards, 18, claiming his home is in Princeton, Me., was captured in the basement of the home of Frederic Winthrop, a retired banker, by Special Officer Lyons and Patrolman Delaney at 299 Berkeley street, Back Bay, late yesterday afternoon after he had enjoyed himself since early Sunday morning reading books, smoking cigars and wearing Winthrop's clothes.

Packed in two suit cases of small size, ready to be taken from the house, was nearly $10,000 worth of fine jewelry, several books, a bottle of champagne and a large revolver.

Around his waste he wore a cartridge belt with fifty cartridges in it, to which was attached a holster in which he carried another large automatic pistol, but which he made no other use when the officers found him than pointing it toward them.

The two officers had gone to the basement to locate the burglar and with drawn revolvers had crawled behind the boiler when they heard a noise and upon looking in the direction saw Richards with the Colt's revolver pointed directly at them.

Richards was nearly starved, as he had nothing to eat since his release Saturday afternoon from the Charles street jail, where he had been confined awaiting the action of the grand jury on the charge of breaking and entering in the West End. The jury reported no bill against him and he was released.

Despite the fact that he had found a good bed and plenty of tobacco and liquors, as well as some ice water to quench his thirst, there was no food, as the family is at its summer home in Hamilton.

The arrest of Richards came through the appearance at the house of Miss Julia McAuliffe, a maid in the Winthrop family for many years. She entered the front door and upon going to the room of Mrs. Winthrop, on the second floor, found that the bed had been disturbed. Upon the floor lay a man's undershirt, drawers and trousers.

Becoming alarmed, Miss McAuliffe was about to leave the room when she noticed a man's hat and coat. She then hurried out of the room to the front door. She found that her pocketbook, which she had left on the table in the hall, had been tampered with. Upon examination she found that $5.95 had been taken from the time she had entered the house, and that only her railroad ticket to Hamilton remained. Miss McAuliffe thereupon telephoned to the police.

Lyons was hurried to the house and Delaney was caught at a signal box by telephone. Both officers entered and went upstairs to the room of Mrs. Winthrop. They found two large arm chairs were in the centre of the room and a pitcher of water was on a table near by. Upon a chair lay the book entitled "Raffles," which was open. Cigars and tobacco as well as a bottle of rare wine, were close at hand.

The two officers then went up to the third floor and found the window leading out on the Marlboro street side of the house was broken. They looked out and saw a pair of man's shoes upon the top of the bay window below.

They went upstairs and searched the place, but could not find anything that would lead them to suspect that the burglar was in the house. Both officers had drawn their revolvers and then went into the cellar.

They saw Richards crouched behind the boiler, with the large, black barrel of the revolver pointing directly at them. They pounced upon him and he was soon disarmed without a struggle.

Richards said he broke into the house about 2:30 Sunday morning He went to sleep in Mrs. Winthrop's bed, intending to get away after dark, but slept until yesterday noon. He had planned to leave the house last night with his booty.

Proserpine,—pale yellow.
Pluto,—purple and gold.
Ceres,—blue with wheat garniture.
Herald,—grey and touches of pink.
Aurora,—pink and scarf of yellow.
Hesperus,—lavender and gray and silver star.
Celeus,—gray.
Little daughter of Celeus,—bright red.
Arethusa,—white with rainbow veil.
Mercury, —grey and silver and silver wand.
Spring,—green and white.

The groups of dancers were gowned as follows:

Companions of Proserpine, —shades of pink.
Sprites,—lavender.
Attendants of Dawn,—yellow veiled with white.
Reapers,—brown with big straw hats and straw garniture.
Water nymphs—white with pink scarfs.
Companions of Spring,—green and white.

The coloring of the groups matched the coloring of the dancers with whom they were cast as they told the story so picturesquely.

The performance was flawless and the dancers so graceful and beautiful in artistic pose that they must be appauded as a whole rather than as individuals. The stars, Mercury light of feet and graceful figure, and Hesperus appealed to the artistic; and the posing and dancing of Prosperpine Ceres, Herald, Aurora, Arethusa, Little Daughter and Spring were symphonies of grace and color; Pluto and Celes adding to the stateliness and color effect their more mannish garb contrasting with the flowing Grecian robes of the dancers.

For the conception and carrying out of the entertainment much credit is due Miss Minnie Packard, Miss Ethel G. Hersey and Miss Marian E. Johnson, Wellesley college girls, and to Miss Louise Steele, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann and committee who assisted at rehearsals and other details. The fountain, pedetsal and posing showed the artistic touch of Mrs. H. H. Kitson and the costumes the artistic eye of Miss Georgianna C. Lane. Both entertainers and the entertained are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon who not only gave the use of their beautiful grounds but also of their time and thought in carrying out every detail that would make the entertainment more enjoyable. Mrs. Faxon served tea on the lawn after the performance and Saturday served frappe to those who gathered for the entertainment which did not take place on account of the storm. The postponement to Monday did not in any way mar the enjoyment.

Benjamin F. Hodgkinson and a squad of Boy Scouts did excellent service in patrolling the grounds, taking tickets, and other duties. Their prompt and business-like ways won praise from many.

The production was given for the benefit of the girls recreation room it is proposed to open in Quincy.

IRISH POLICEMEN QUIT THEIR JOBS

Object to Orange Trimming on Their Summer Uniforms

Philadelphia, June 10.—Ten men of Irish ancestry or nativity, members of the motorcycle squad of the police department, have handed in their revolvers and badges and the resignation of several more is likely, all because of the new summer uniforms, which were worn for the first time a few days ago.

The uniforms of the reserves are trimmed with white, the mounted men's with yellow, the ordinary patrolmen's with blue and the men who ride in the wagons with red, so when it came to the motorcyclists about the only color left for trimming was orange.

ASSAULTED WOMAN NEAR THE CAPITOL

Washington Negro Pays Death Penalty For His Crime

Washington, June 10.—Nathaniel Green, a negro, who criminally assaulted a white woman within sight of the Capitol on Christmas night, went to his death on the scaffold yesterday, the first man to pay the death penalty for such a crime in the District of Columbia. He had confessed and President Wilson had refused clemency.

Almost in a state of collapse, Green was assisted to the execution and was dead in ten minutes.

"Rum and dope did this," he murmured to his guards at the last moment. "I hope I'll be an example to the other men of my race."

Green's victim, a government clerk, will be an invalid for life.

SUSPECT HAS FLED

Police Searching For Alleged Briber In Dynamite Case

Boston, June 10.—The man charged before the grand jury with being the Wood jury briber has fled. At the district attorney's office the man's arrest was looked for at any moment yesterday afternoon. But he slipped from his home in Chelsea, taking his wife with him.

The bribe investigation has revealed the fact that for a week before the district attorney's office ever heard of any bribe attempts the information that an attempt was under way to "fix" the Wood jury was common gossip among the newsboys in the street.

A number of newsboys are understood to have known the missing Chelsea man whom the police are seeking, and it is through the evidence of some of them that he has been brought into the case.

After the services the body was taken to Hopkinton, Mass., where it will be interred.

PEACE ENVOYS FAIL TO AGREE

Virtual Breaking Up of Balkan Alliance Foreshadowed

MANY POINTS ARE UNSETTLED

Delegates Decide to Leave Adjustment of Important Matters to Their Respective Governments—Adjournment of Conference at London—Breakup Started by Servians

London, June 10.—The final session of the peace conference between the delegates of the Balkan allies and those of Turkey was held at St. James palace and ended without anything being decided as to the exchange of prisoners or other matters. The delegates agreed to leave all outstanding questions to their respective governments. Each of the Balkan delegations advised its government to conclude a separate convention with Turkey.

Thus for a second time a peace conference called to end the war between the Balkan allies and Turkey has failed. The draft of a preliminary treaty had been signed, but the main issues arising from the war are still in dispute.

The break up of the conference followed the departure of the Servian delegates, who were recalled by their government. The most disquieting rumors relative to the possibilities of a fresh conflict which will drag in Roumania were circulated.

The Montenegrin delegate, who presided at the final session, delivered a speech of farewell, in which he expressed his colleagues' homage to King George and their thanks to the British government and Sir Edward Grey for the hospitality shown them and the counsel given them.

Had the peace conference lasted longer there would have been few delegates to attend it, as S. Daneff, representing Bulgaria, left some days ago and the two principal Servian delegates were hastily recalled to Belgrade by their government two days ago.

The semi-official Mir of Sofia declares: "No Bulgarian government will ever consent to a revision of the Serbo-Bulgarian treaty. If the Servians do not hasten to abandon their foolish and provocative demand for such revision we do not see that any good can be expected from an interview between the four premiers, which is momentarily adjourned."

The feeling of irritation and alarm is becoming pronounced in Belgrade, the belief being that Bulgaria is delaying her reply to the Servian note only to gain time to dispose her troops to the best advantage. Premier Pasitch held a conference with the leaders of the various political parties and discussed relations between Servia and Bulgaria.

The Bulgarians again attempted to occupy Servian territory between Douran and Strumitza. This, coupled with Bulgaria's failure to reply to the Servian note, has caused the opposition leaders to demand a speedy settlement of the crisis. It is proposed that the skupshina shall declare the occupied territory annexed, thus confronting Bulgaria with a fait accompli.

SEIZURE OF WHISKEY

Twenty-Five Gallons of Liquid "Hardware" Intended For Maine

Boston, June 10.—Five boxes of whiskey, containing twenty-five gallons, shipped to Pine Point, Me., from Massachusetts have been proceeded against by United States District Attorney French under the interstate commerce laws. It is claimed the whiskey was marked "hardware" on the outside of the boxes, and that an attempt had been made by the shippers to evade the law.

The goods are now in possession of the Boston and Maine Railroad company, and will be forfeited to the United States for destruction unless the owner settles. There is reason to believe that the whiskey will not have anyone vouch for it as owner.

IN A LOCKED OFFICE

Harvard Man and Radcliffe Woman, Both Socialists, Are Marrieid

Boston, June 10.—In a quiet little office and behind locked doors on the fourth floor of 39 Court street, Kenneth Macgowan, Harvard, 1911, and Miss Edith Behre, Radcliffe, 1913, both Socialists, were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Justice of the Peace Fraser officiated and George H. Normine, who works in an office in the same building, was called as witness.

Macgowan is assistant dramatic editor of the Boston Transcript. While in Harvard he was one of the most ardent Socialists in the institution.

STATE'S POWER UPHELD

Ruling of Supreme Court In the Minnesota Rate Cases

Washington, June 10.—The supreme court of the United States, in the decision of the Minnesota rate cases, laid down the principle that the state has jurisdiction over interstate commerce, but that congress has authority to secure freedom of interstate commerce.

In the case of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads the court concluded that proof is insufficient to justify a finding that the rates were confiscatory. The decree was reversed in this respect.

In the case of the Minneapolis and St. Paul railway it was held that the rates were confiscatory, and the decree was affirmed, with the allowance to the railroad and warehouse commission to apply to the court for a further decree when it shall appear that the rates are no longer confiscatory.

The decree upholds the power of the state to regulate interstate commerce whenever it shall not conflict with federal jurisdiction, or with the property rights of the railroad.

ETTOR IN CHARGE OF BARBERS' STRIKE

I. W. W. and A. F. of L. in Struggle For Supremacy

Boston, June 10.—The I. W. W. will hereafter try to break into every strike in Boston called by the A. F. of L. This was the open declaration of war with which the I. W. W. answered the firm stand of the officers of the A. F. of L. Barbers' union in keeping their men up to their shop agreements, or filling their places.

Successful in spreading their strike to towns outside of Boston, the I. W. W. leaders declared the barbers of the rival union would be taken out of their shops in the city by force if necessary.

The fight on the American Federation of Labor was launched by Joseph J. Ettor, the Lawrence strike leader, in person.

IN DESPERATE SITUATION

Steamer Olinda, With Fire In Her Forehold, Racing For Charleston

New York, June 10.—With her forehold afire and one United States vessel and a steamer standing by to render assistance, the Munson line steamer Olinda, New York for Havana, is racing for Charleston. She will probably make Charleston harbor tomorrow morning.

The fifty-one men of her crew and six passengers aboard are fighting the fire, while the entire enginerom force is doing its utmost to get full speed out of the steamer.

The first intimation of the Olinda's plight was a frantic wireless message. It was so imperfect as to convey nothing but the impression that the vessel was in a most desperate situation.

THREE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Gloucester Fisherman In Dory Rescued Off Cassius Banks

Portland, Me., June 10.—The fishing schooner Margie of this port brought in here last night a Portuguese fisherman, whom the schooner had picked up off Cassius banks in an open dory. The man had had nothing to eat or drink for three days, and was nearly blind from the reflection of the sun upon the water.

He belonged to the Gloucester schooner Georgiana, and became separated from her while out setting trawls. He could not make his rescuers understand his name.

LOBBYISTS ARE GETTING OUT

Washington Made an Uncomfortable Place For Them

WILSON IS WELL SATISFIED

Says His Expose Has Relieved Him and Congress of Great Burden—Committee Will Report That "Lobby" Has Been Found—Doubt Whether Methods Are Insidious

Washington, June 10.—President Wilson has given expression to satisfaction over his expose of the tariff lobby. He told newspaperman at his semi-weekly audience that his message to the country on the "insidious lobby" had already been of great effect. He said the results, even thus far, would surely relieve him and congress of a great burden.

That lobbyists have already been literally run out of Washington is believed by the president. He declared he thought the "breed" will be rather scarce in the future, at least during the present tariff session of congress.

Intimations of Senator Townsend that the "big stick" of patronage is being used by the president to "lobby" for his tariff convictions will be ignored, the president emphatically stated. He does not think Townsend's statement constitutes a direct charge necessitating a reply.

When the last senator had testified yesterday before the special committee hunting for "the lobby," it was predicted at the Capitol that the report of the investigators would substantially uphold President Wilson's declaration that powerful influences have been at work in Washington, attempting to affect congress on the tariff bill.

Whether it will be shown that "insidious" methods have been used or that improper influences have been exerted upon senators will depend upon the evidence of the next few days, when the committee examines a score or more of men who have called on senators or directed publicity campaigns.

The committee undoubtedly will recommend restrictive legislation of a strong character. It will attempt to draw a clear distinction, however, between an organized campaign to change public opinion or influence senators against their judgment, and the legitimate presentation of arguments and facts by officers or representatives of industrial concerns affected by legislation.

Senator Poindexter startled the committee when he named several former members of congress whom he believed might be found to have practised lobbying here. He named former Senators Dick of Ohio, Butler of North Carolina and Dubois of Idaho, and former Representatives Watson of Indiana and Littauer of New York. He did not accuse any of improper attempts to influence congress on legislation, but suggested that "they might know some interesting things." He said he would be glad to give the names of other men, which he could furnish upon an investigation of his records.

ON THE JOB AT 81

Woman Has Worked Forty-Nine Years In United States Treasury

Washington, June 10.—One of the first women employes of the United States government is still counting money in the United States treasury department in the person of Miss Emma R. Graves, who is now 81 years old and is rounding out half a century of service for the government. Forty-nine years of this has been spent in the redemption division of the department.

Despite the fact that Miss Graves pleaded to be left in that division one more year so as to celebrate her golden anniversary in one division, she was transferred to the register's office, but still occupies the position of expert counter.

ABOUT 744,000,000 BUSHELS

Bumper Wheat Yield Is Forecasted by Government Experts

Washington, June 10.—A bumper wheat crop, sufficient to mill more than 16,500,000 barrels of flour and which may reach the proportions of the record what harvest of 1901 if conditions from now on are exceptionally favorable, is forecasted by the report of the department of agriculture for June.

The government experts estimate this year's harvest will be 744,000,000 bushels, of which 492,000,000 bushels will be winter wheat—a record for this crop—and 252,000,000 bushels will be spring wheat.

LOST GREAT FIGHT FOR LIFE

Nation Watched Georgia Banker's Struggle Against Poison.

The attention of the whole nation was focused recently on the heroic fight made by B. Sanders Walker, a young banker of Macon, Ga., after he had taken by mistake a deadly mercurial poison.

Mr. Walker, having a headache one night, went to the medicine cabinet in his home and took what he thought was an aspirin tablet. About daylight he began complaining of terrible pains, and physicians were called.

They immediately discerned symptoms of mercurial poisoning, but it was then too late for them to be sure of saving Mr. Walker's life, as the poison he took almost invariably kills unless treatment is administered within a very short time.

They decided, however, to do what they could, and a corps of nurses were summoned. Mr. Walker, although informed that he must die, kept up an outward appearance of cheerfulness in order that his wife and their little son might not be overcome by the blow.

For six days the fight lasted, Mr. Walker steadily growing weaker. Scores of citizens of Macon called at his home, for he kept "open house" in order to bid them all farewell. He also made his will and wound up all his business affairs before the poison had him fully in its power.

Mr. Walker sank into a gradual decline and passed away peaceably several hours after becoming unconscious. All Macon went into mourning on learning of his death. While the fight lasted prayers for his recovery were offered up in all the churches of Macon.

Great things are claimed for a new style of telephone which recently was put on exhibition at the Academy of Sciences in Paris. The new instrument is the invention of Dr. Jules Glover, a French physician.

While investigating the question why the sounds of the voice were imperfectly transmitted, as a rule, over long distance telephone wires Dr. Glover was struck by the fact that vocal sounds, coming from the larynx, on arriving at the palate were split up into two streams, one of which emerged at the mouth, the other at the nose.

An ideal transmitter would take up both streams of sound equally, but it was found that this was by no means the case with ordinary instruments.

Dr. Glover therefore devised a queer looking receiver with an extra micro phone, placed at an obtuse angle to the usual one in such a way as to be immediately under the nose when used.

Two or three forms of these receivers were made. It was found that the distinctness of the voice was greatly enhanced and the general sonority was also much increased.

It is thought that the new double microphone receiver will prove indispensable in long distance telephoning.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

EAT ORANGES FREELY.

ORANGES should be eaten freely. If the blood is sluggish the fruit acid will act as a tonic. A nicely prepared orange or small glass of grapefruit and orange juice will prove an excellent appetizer if taken before breakfast. Oranges placed on the table in a fruit dish are usually passed by. Busy people who have to hurry through that meal will not take the trouble to prepare an orange for themselves, but if served in an acceptable form oranges are generally partaken with relish.

Nice For Breakfast.

Powdered Oranges.—Score the outside of a sweet orange in strips from end to end. Then remove skin and inner white covering. Divide into sections, removing fiber and seeds. Roll in powdered sugar and lay in tiers on a pretty dish. Place on the table and let each person help himself to a few sections as a relish.

Orange Cups.—Halve oranges, allowing one-half orange for each person. Scoop out the pulp into a bowl, add a little shredded pineapple, preserved or canned cherries or strawberries. Sugar to taste and fill the halved oranges that have been scraped clean. The edge can be cut into little points with a pair of scissors.

Two Novel Delicacies.

Orange Custards.—Add to one cupful of orange juice and pulp a tablespoonful of lemon juice and the grated rind of one orange. Beat to a cream one tablespoonful of butter and one cupful of sugar. Add the yolks of two eggs, well beaten, the orange mixture and two tablespoonfuls of cracker crumbs that have been soaked in a half cupful of milk. Add the whites of the eggs, beaten slightly, and bake in custard cups set in a shallow pan of hot water.

Served Hot or Cold.

Orange Pudding.—Put into the upper part of a double boiler one cupful of soft breadcrumbs, one tablespoonful of butter and one pint of milk. Let soak a little while, then bring to the scalding point. Beat the yolks of two eggs and add the grated rind of one orange, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt. Pour the hot mixture over the second, put in a buttered pudding dish and bake in a medium oven until firm. Beat the whites of the two eggs with a fork or wire beater until stiff, adding near the last three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and heap lightly on top of the pudding. Set back in the oven, which should be cooled off as much as possible until the meringue puffs and takes on a golden tinge.

RESIGNATION OF PASTOR

Unable to Find a Suitable Home Near His Church

The resignation of Rev. Sherman Goodwin from the pastorate of the Washington Street Congregational Church has been tendered and practically accepted by the church. He will continue as the nominal pastor until his successor is secured.

Mr. Goodwin's difficulty to securing a home large enough to accommodate a family of six is the main reason for his request for release. He assumed the pastorate May 1 coming here from Brookfield where he will return.

The past three months have been busy ones for the members of the church who have been negotiating for a parsonage. Their efforts will probably culminate in a beautiful home for their minister within a few weeks.

OFF FOR SCOTLAND.

Mrs. J. W. Hendry, Miss Ina and Master Jack of Farnum street sailed today on the Franconia for Scotland to spend the summer with Mrs. Hendry's parents. They were accompanied by her brother, William Ralston and Mrs. Frank Brown, both of Toronto, and left with the good wishes of their many Quincy friends. Mr. Hendry expects to join them about the end of July and will return with them about the end of August.

The funeral of Miss Catherine Buckley of Buckley street who died Saturday after a long illness took place this morning from the homestead. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. MARTHA.

A little girl.
Barefooted, ragged, with neglected hair,
Eyes full of laughter, neck and shoulders bare.
A thin slip of a girl, like a new moon,
Sure to be rounded into beauty soon;
A creature men would worship and adore,
Though now in mean habiliments she bore
A pail of water, dripping through the street
And bathing as she went her naked feet.
It was a pretty picture, full of grace—
The slender form, the delicate, thin face;
The swaying motion as she hurried by,
The shining feet, the laughter in her eye
That o'er her face in ripples gleamed and glanced
As in her pail the shifting sunbeams danced.
—William Wadsworth Longfellow.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Sarah Butler has gone to Philadelphia for the summer vacation.

Mayor Stone left Monday night for a brief business trip. During his absence the City Treasurer is holding the reins of the government.

Unity circle, Kings Daughters, will give its annual reception tomorrow at Bethany chapel to its older friends. An entertainment will be given, and refreshments will be served.

The Abigail Phillips Quincy chapter, D. A. R., of Wollaston, has delightful weather for its outing today at the summer home of its recording secretary, Mrs. F. E. Perkins at Abington. The trip was made by train.

Aleo Anglini of 19 Rodman street is at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear infirmary where an effort will be made to save the sight of his right eye which was penetrated by a stone chip at the granite yard of J. Casna & Co., on Monday. He was treated by Dr. John H. Ash and Dr. N. S. Hunting.

Walter F. Blake of Toronto, former superintendent of the Atlantic Memorial Sunday School, spoke at the Children's Day concert on Sunday evening. Mr. Blake has come back to Boston to bring his family to their new home in Toronto, also to attend the graduation exercises of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as his son Kenneth B. Blake is a member of the graduating class of that college.

Fifty members and guests of the Atlantic Improvement Association will attend the minstrel show of the Squantum Improvement Association in Richards Auditorium on the opening evening, Monday June 16. A special car has been chartered to carry the party to Squantum and return. A large party from Quincy and Atlantic will attend the Tuesday evening performance.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Furnald of Washington street who observed their 63d wedding anniversary Monday entertained many callers during the afternoon and evening and were the recipients of loving messages by letters and cards and also received flower sand gifts. They are both feeling well, although they were somewhat tired after their informal reception.

A member of the Wilmington Woman's club gave an entertainment to club members and friends recently, a feature of which was a "silvertea," the proceeds of which go toward the club fund for the endowment fund of the General Federation of Women's club. The Quincy Women's club hopes to contribute further to the fund of personal cintributions or by entertainments.

It was inadvertently stated Monday that Sergt. Larkin was with the squad of officers who chased the clam diggers at Germantown on Sunday. Sergt. Larkin however was in charge of the desk at headquarters that day and he it was who sent the officers to Germantown. Had he been with the squad he says he would not have allowed any shooting, for it simply meant the wasting of so much powder and shot.

William Hanrahan of Gay street and William Keough of 89 Fayette street are both holding their own at the Quincy City Hospital where they are being treated for injuries received Sunday night. Hanrahan was found on the Granite street bridge with a severe scalp wound and a broker arm. ADMITS DOUBLE MURDER

Youth Who Killed Mother and Brother Makes a Confession

Ironton, O., June 10.—According to local authorities Berkeley Flemming, aged 20, a farmer, confessed here to the murder of his mother, Mrs. Emma Flemming, aged 45, and his brother, aged 25, July 14, 1910, at Coryville, one mile north of Ironton.

Following the confession, Flemming was taken to his home. Near the house he pointed out the spot where he said he had buried his mother. The police found her body under eighteen inches of dirt. The back of her head had been blown away by a gun. Flemming then took the officers to a field on the farm and showed where he had buried his brother. A few feet under the ground a skeleton, the skull of which had been broken, was found. Flemming told the police that he shot his brother also.

Flemming told the police he had quarreled with his brother and then killed him. Fearing his mother suspected he had killed the older son, he said he murdered his mother.

MILK BILL "VICIOUS"

Meaney Measure Thus Characterized In Veto by Foss

Boston, June 10.—In a veto sent to the house Governor Foss describes the Meaney milk bill as grossly unfair and essentially vicious. He objects to it principally as inviting reprisal by other states against Massachusetts-made products because of its effort to discriminate against milk produced out of the state.

The bill provides for the labelling of milk so as to show whether it was produced out of the state. Labelling is also provided for pasteurized milk. The bill went through the house by a wide margin, but met with strong opposition in the senate.

The governor says he finds arrayed agains it a consensus of sentiment on the part of the public and the producers and health officials and others who have given long study to the subject of milk supply and regulation.

Bennett J. O'Brien of West Quincy, cousin of Rev. Father Andrew J. O'Brien, professor of dogmatic theology at Brighton seminary, has composed the class day song which will be sung at the Boston College exercises Monday. He is a popular member of the class and ranks high in scholarship.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Crippled and Dependent Children Enjoy Auto Ride and Nantasket Beach

Quincy Men and Women Contribute to Pleasure

Two thousand crippled and dependent children of greater Boston are having their annual outing today at Nantasket beach under the auspices of the Boston Automobile Dealers Association. The outing is under the direct charge of Chester I. Campbell of Wollaston and plans have been made to give the children a grand time.

There are twenty-five Quincy children in the party and they left City Square at 8.45 in eight automobiles. The Quincy party was in charge of Miss Jennie Purchase of the Associated Charities, assisted by Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Miss Helen Gavin, Miss Margaret Harding, Miss Avis Tobey, and Mrs. Arnold Hopkins.

The eight Quincy automobiles were contributed by B. H. Bain, Hon. Eugene R. Stone, W. L. Hawes, Albert W. Fay, C. P. Gould, E. E. Jameson and J. S. Swingle.

It was thought that the main party from Boston would meet the Quincy party in City Square but as they did not the Quincy party started along ahead. The Boston party began to go through City Square a little after 9 o'clock and there was almost a constant stream of cars laden with happy children passing through the city. All of the cars were decorated with American flags and the joyous shouts of the children left no doubt but what they were enjoying themselves. They were quick to catch on to the saying "Are we in it? Yes we are!"

Headquarters at Nantasket are at the Nantasket hotel where lunch was served to them at 12.30. In the afternoon there were a series of sports. The children will also be allowed to play in the sand and enjoy themselves in any manner they desire, although there will always be one of the attendants with them to see that no harm comes to them.

TEACHER SURPRISED.

The seventh grade pupils of the Jonas Perkins School of Braintree surprised Miss Theresa Keating, their teacher at her home on Upland road Tuesday evening. The party was in the nature of a farewell as Miss Keating is making preparations for marriage. Miss Marjorie Drohan presented her with a pearl pendant in behalf of the pupils. An entertainment was given which was participated in by the pupils and Miss Ruth Keating. Ices and cake was served.

ATLANTIC MAN DROWNED

Body Found in Creek Near Neponset River

Laborers in the employ of Patrick Buckley found the body of a man floating on the Quincy side of the Neponset river shortly before 8 o'clock Tuesday night. The place where the body was found was at the foot of Walnut street. The laborers succeeded in getting the body ashore and notified the police. Medical Examiner Dr. Fred E. Jones was notified and viewed the body pronouncing death due to drowning. The man was recognized as James Duggan, aged 67 years, a well known resident of Atlantic. He lived at 45 Madison street and leaves eight children. He was at home to dinner at noon and just how he came to be near the river is not known.

He was one of the best known citizens at Atlantic where he has resided for many years. Sergt. Bishop who was in charge of the Police station notified Medical Examiner Jones and sent Undertaker Hall after the body which was removed to his morgue.

DANGEROUS PLAYTHING

Mother Takes Cap From Son Just As It Explodes

The prompt action of Mrs. D. J. Holmes of Berkeley street last evening who snatched a detonating cap from the grasp of her two year old son "Joe" a second before it exploded resulted in his escape while half of her thumb and three fingers of the left hand were so nearly blown off that they had to be amputated at the Quincy City Hospital where she was rushed directly after the accident. She is doing well.

Mr. Holmes is a contractor and the boy secured the cap in an unknown manner. His mother's attention was attracted toward him as he was biting the cap. Not knowing what it was she went over to him just as he picked it with a wire nail. Alarmed when she saw his danger she grabbed the cap and his instant release of it just preceded the explosion.

Little "Joe" was thrown to the floor and cried loudly while the noise of the explosion attracted the neighbors. Dr. C. W. Garey and Dr. Daniel B. Reardon were both summoned and removed both to the hospital.

GUESTS OF GAS COMPANY.

The final meeting of the Gas Service club, composed of employees of the Citizens Gas Light Co. was held Tuesday evening. They were the guests of the company at a banquet at Thompson's cafe after which they adjourned to the office, where John Muir, the cashier read a paper on "The relation of the jobber to the company."

Later all attended the Kincaide theatre where some of the members were the butt of jokes sprung by the comedians on the bill. The meetings will be resumed in September. The club organized during the winter to promote a feeling of good will between the management and the employees.

THE POLICE GAME.

Six costly errors and a few well placed hits gave the Lowell police the big end in a Massachusetts Police league game at Ward Three on Tuesday. The score was 11 to 5, six runs being the visitors spoils in the first inning. Maloney and Fallon secured 10 strikeouts apiece. Lowell got nine hits and three errors while Quincy made eight hits and six errors.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL ATHLETIC MEET

Willard School Takes the Most Points with Wollaston Second

B. Stack of Coddington Has Best Record

The grammar school athletic meet which was postponed several times was run off on the Merrymount oval Tuesday afternoon before an enthusiastic crowd of school boys, teachers and parents. The day was fine and the bracing air kept the competitiors on their mettle.

The Willard school won first place with 13 points. The best individual showing was made by B. Stack of the Coddington school who hung up a distance of 16ft., 1 1-2in. in the running broad jump.

Wollaston was second with 11 1-3 and the others scored as follows: Coddington 11, Washington 7 1-3, Atherton Hough 2 1-3, Cranch 2, Quincy 1.

In the running high jump, LeCain of Atherton Hough, Isbestor of Wollaston and Gurney of Washington tied for fourth place and the point was divided.

In the 75 yard dash 36 men started. Six preliminary, two semis and a final disposed of the event. In the running broad jump 23 men left the takeoff. Some good jumps were spoiled when they fell backward but the leap of Stack was the best made, although Isbestor of Wollaston cleared that distance and possibly more. At the most a very small margin would have separated them if he had not been disqualified.

The meet was run off under the direction of L. F. LaRose and the judges were J. F. Phelan of North Dorchester A. A.; James King of B. A. A., Frank Tirrell of University of Maine; John Mead of Washington school; Charles Kingsbury, J. Smith, H. Fenner, Sturgis Hunt of Quincy High school.

Quincy has many beauty spots that are unknown generally to residents of the city. A very small proportion of our population of 35,000 have visited Third hill at Wollaston on a clear day and do not know of the varied and extensive views from the reservation about the reservoir which is unsurpassed in New England, not excepting the White Mountains or the Berkshires. But a small percentage of our people have personally seen the beauties of the Quincy Shore reservation which is becoming more and more attractive. It takes out-of-town people, sometimes, to call attention to the beauties of Squantum, Wollaston Park, Adams Shore, Presidents Hill, Adams street and other sections of our city.

Those who were enraptured on Sunday over the floral display at Holm Lea, the estate of C. S. Sargent at Brookline, do not realize that right here in Quincy on the estate of Henry M. Faxon off Adams street is just as beautiful a display of rhododendrons. Mr. Faxon may not have as many shrubs, but certainly he has in one group in front of his house, surrounded by extensive lawns and trees, with glimpses of Boston harbor in the distance, just as fine a display of rhododendrons as we ever saw. It has taken years to bring these shrubs to perfection, but now those in the backgrounds are tall and those in front are stunted, and the many colors are blended so beautifully that it is a sight worth going many miles to see. Mr. Faxon should set aside a day in the near future that Quincy people may see the beautiful rhododendrons and his attractive estate.

Among the visitors on Monday to the estate was William B. Closson of Magnolia, the artist. He found an inspiration in "The Legend of Proserpine" but he also enthused over the beauties of Quincy, the grand old estates on Adams street and the views of Boston harbor.

If the schools don't give more attention to arithmetic, pretty soon the average man will not be able to compute a batting percentage.

New York is discussing the question whether the deaf can run automobiles but from observations in many places it is evident that the blind do run them.

There is a general feeling that as only 20 were killed in last year's July 4 celebration, it is time for a revival of genuine old fashioned patriotism.

Although Newell Dwight Hillis predicts a race of bald headed men in 150 years, posterity will probably have to pay for its own hair restorer.

The only way to make row-boats as popular as canoes is to fix it so they will tip over with the same ease.

Naturally the imprisoned Suffragettes don't want any food, as they can live so easily on newspaper publicity.

Investigators Hear Former Governor of Hawaii

SUGAR LOBBY WORKINGS

Every Sugar Producer Under American Flag In "Band of Units With Common Purpose"—Carter Considers Expenditure of $300,000 Justified to Save Sugar Mills

Washington, June 11.—Workings of the sugar lobby were bared to the senate investigating committee by George R. Carter, formerly governor of Hawaii, sent to Washington by the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce. He said his organization was the "Domestic Sugar Producers' association," which published the "sugar bulletin" and placed the big advertisements which have been printed here and in other cities. He insisted their work was "open and above board and not denied." The witness said all advertisements were first examined by the New York agents of the Hawaiian sugar interests.

That he prepared and sent briefs to the president, the senate finance committee and the "interested public" on suggestion of Senator O'Gorman, was asserted by Carter.

When Hawaiian interests attempted to get a hearing before the senate finance sub-committee, Carter said, one of the members told them to "come back and make their arguments after the tariff bill was passed."

The Domestic Sugar Producers' association, the witness said, represented every sugar producer under the American flag. The organization was not a formal one, but was merely a band of units with a common purpose.

P. R. D. Mead, statistician for the Hawaiian Sugar company, paid the bills, Carter said.

"He's here to testify," he added. "If he has spent $800,000 we consider it a small sum to save the eighty sugar mills in Hawaii."

"How do you raise this money?" was asked.

"By assessing every sugar raiser in Hawaii."

Carter said the beet and cane sugar men also got out independent "literature." His total expenses, he said, had been less than $1000.

"I leave next week," he said. "We propose to carry on our propaganda so far as we can. We must save the land of our birth and 75 percent of our revenue comes from sugar. We have 82,000 children to educate and we cannot do it.

"You tell us to raise cccoanuts. We can't. I might tell you of my treatment at the White House," he continued angrily. "But what is the use?"

Nevertheless the witness went on: "I called at the White House and tried to make an engagement for the Hawaiian delegation and the president's secretary refused me. Then, as a citizen, I asked to see the president, and I was given permission to see him Wednesday. His secretary then told me his mind was made up."

Senator Williams, the witness said, told Sidney Bailew that the Hawaiian producers began too late and that the refiners had influenced the public mind for free sugar.

"DEATH BY MISADVENTURE"

Coroner's Verdict In Case of Suffragette Killed by King's Horse

Epsom, Eng., June 11.—The coroner's inquiry into the death of Miss Emily W. Davison, who died on Sunday from the effects of injuries received during the running of the Derby last Wednesday, when she rushed upon the course and seized the bridle of the king's horse, brought in a verdict of "death by misadventure."

The coroner told the jury the evidence showed the deceased had no intention of taking her own life, but only of disturbing the race. The jury, he said, might also dismiss from their minds that she had singled out the king's horse.

MEANEY MILK BILL PASSES

Massachusetts House Gives Governor's Veto a Severe Drubbing

Boston, June 11.—After a sensational attack upon Governor Foss by Representative Meaney, the minority leader of the house, that body, by a vote of 188 to 26, overrode the governor's veto of the so-called Meaney milk bill.

The bill requires that all milk imported into Massachusetts from other states and pasteurized milk shall be labelled so as to disclose these facts.

The bill went to the senate, where it is said the governor has enough votes to kill the measure. The reading of the veto was dispensed with and the matter was postponed until today's session.

SIMPLE RULES FOR POULTRY RAISERS

Farmers Blamed For Heavy Losses In Egg Industry

Washington, June 11.—Convinced that means could be found to overcome the loss of several million of dollars a year in the egg industry, the department of agriculture has just completed an extensive inquiry into the causes for bad and addled eggs. The investigators fix the blame on the farmers and poultry men.

The department urges the observance of five simple rules in the conduct of the egg industry, as follows:

Give the hens clean nests.
Gather eggs at least once daily.
Keep eggs in a cool, dry place.
Market eggs at least twice a week.
Kill or sell all mature male birds as soon as the hatching season closes.

COL. KINCAIDE AT ARGENTINA

Buenos Aires a City of Million and a Half

After crossing the Andes from Santiago and making a short stay at Mendoza, in the Argentine Republic, the Boston Chamber of Commerce's party of New England tourists in South America are due to arrive at Buenos Aires, the capitol of Argentina, the evening of June 11, where nearly a week will be spent. Col. Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy will respond to the welcoming address.

Buenos Aires, the largest city yet visited by the party, has a million and a half inhabitants and is in certain respects similar to Paris, to New York and to Chicago. There are many striking buildings, including the new Legislative Chambers, the Opera House, the Jockey Club, the Bourse, and various government and municipal buildings.

Six railroad companies have terminals at Buenos Aires. Four street railways are in operation. Miles of water-front lined with modern equipment of docks, warehouses, grain elevators, etc., are under government control and show the busy character of the port, which receives 80 per cent of the imports to the country and from which 43 per cent of its exports leave. Shipments to the United States from this port amounted to nearly $26,000,000 during 1912, the larger items being hides, skins, wool, linseed and quebracho. Extension of harbor improvements are under way.

Argentina has a population of 7,080,000 and an area of 1,131,979 square miles, and is one-third the size of the United States proper. 2500 miles long and 932 miles at its greatest breadth. Though only one-tenth of arable ground is under cultivation, Argentina is even now one of the world's important granaries. The constitution is modeled closely after that of the United States.

Some 20,000 miles of railroads are in operation, about one-sixth of which are owned by the government. Some 10,000 miles of inland waterways consolidate in the River Plate which is about 150 miles wide at its mouth.

The principal exports are wheat, linseed, wool, corn, frozen beef, hides, frozen mutton, tallow, quebracho wood and extract, skins, flour and bran. The imports in order of their value are textiles, locomotion machines and conveyances, iron manufactures, building materials, foodstuffs, stone cement, glass and hardware, agricultural machinery and implements, oil, fats, etc., drinks, drugs and chemicals, wood and its manufactures, and tobacco.

Argentina exports to United States in 1911, $23,449,946.

Argentina imports from United States in 1911, $50,521,021.

Total exports 1911 $313,333,124.

Total imports 1911, $353,972,311.

BIG SUMMER SHOW.

Packed houses Monday and Tuesday nights proved that the management made no mistake when they engaged the stock company, which for several weeks will be the feature attraction at this popular play-house.

"The Kincaide Players" is the local name for eleven clever artists of International renown whose singing, dancing and acting is more than excellent. Everybody who has seen them says "That's the best musical comedy company I ever heard."

They have a repertoire of fourteen clean, clever comedies, and will present two each week, changing with the rest of the program each Monday and Thursday.

Their first offering is a merrie Scotch musical comedy "On the Banks of Loch Lomond." It's a bright, breezy skit, which, rendered with the uinque mannerism of these well-trained artists, kept the audience in an uproar. The fairy-like dancing could not help but make the most tranquil person roundly applaud the efforts of these light-hearted performers.

Beginning Thursday the Kincaide Players will present a side-splitting comedy entitled "Miss Primm's School." Miss Rose Mauer, that extremely funny tall girl, is the teacher You can bet this school's a scream! Enjoy a session.

MONK—BRADBURY.

George Monk of 241 Washington street and Mary Stuart Bradbury of 23 Kent street, were married at Dorchester on Monday by Rev. George H. Flint. The news of the marriage was a surprise to many friends of the couple. Mr. Monk is a well known violinist and was formerly a member of the Tremont theatre orchestra. He is at present teaching. This is his third venture on the matrimonal sea and the second for his wife.

MIDNIGHT TRAIN.

President Hamilton of the Board of Trade, Chairman Teasdale of the transportation committee and Mayor Stone have arranged for a conference with the railroad officials for next Monday relating to restoring the midnight train for Quincy. It is understood that Atlantic citizens have a largely signed petition for this train to make the Atlantic stop and if the railroad will not run the train through to Brockton the committee will ask that it run to South Braintree and make all of the Quincy stops. Other train improvements are sought.

PUBLIC BEQUESTS.

The will of Olive M. Tilden who died at Medfield Dec. 31, 1912, which was admitted to probate by Judge Flint at Quincy bequeathes the sum of $1,600 to the Massachusetts Missionary society. After numerous private bequests the residue of the estate is left to the following societies: Massachusetts Baptist Missionary society, American Baptist Missionary Union, American Baptist Home Mission and Baptist Home, Cambridge.

OUTING OF DAUGHTERS

Wollaston Chapter Visits a Member at Abington

A most delightful outing was enjoyed on Tuesday by the Abigail Phillips Quincy chapter, D. A. R., of Wollaston, Mrs. E. E. Jameson regent, at the newly built bungalow home of one of its members, Mrs. Frank E. Perkins of Abington.

An added pleasure was the presence of the newly elected State regent, Mrs. George O. Jenkins of Whitman who was invited to meet with the members of the chapter.

Soon after arriving, justice was done to a delicious luncheon while seated at small tables on the broad screened verandas, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Miss Ruth Perkins.

Following an intellectual exercise consisting of guessing the names of cities represented by pictures, the prize being awarded to Mrs. T. C. Martin, the hostess entertained the chapter by reading a humorous story.

The party then took a stroll through Abington Park, appreciating the opportunity of viewing the beautiful arch and bridge erected a year ago to the "Men of '61." The day was given a worthy ending by all adjourning to the living room and joining in singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

AMATEUR DRAMATICS.

There was a good attendance Tuesday evening at the First church chapel at the entertainment given by the Junior Laymen and Mrs. Davis class. The program opened with a piano solo by Walter Rogers and was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Ruth Packard, Miss Katherine Saville also sang a solo. Both of the solos were finely rendered.

Aside from this Allan Miller and Horton Page gave a character sketch in yeddish entitled "Cohen's Divorce" which was very laughable.

Then there was a two act play entitled "The Black Diamond." The character of the Black Diamond was impersonated by Miss Margaret Atwood who was exceptionally fine and deserved many words of praise. Misses Priscilla Ring, Dorothy Kitson and Marie Schenkelberger impersonated the characters of Emily, Minnie and Fannie Makepeace, cousins from the country. They were also well taken.

The double character of Dr. Winn and Miss Matilda Makepeace, aunt of the three girls, was taken by Miss Margaret Magee. It was a hard character to impersonate but she did it finely. Harold Page impersonated the character of Clairmont Godell, the college graduate, and Fred Schenkelberger and Allan Miller made capital English dudes.

Too much praise can not be given the young people who took part in the cast for they all did exceptionally well and their efforts were duly appreciated by the audience.

INTEREST DRAWN BY GIBSON'S DETERMINED BATTLE FOR LIFE

Accused of Murdering Woman Client In Order to Get Her Money.

THE second trial of Burton W. Gibson, a lawyer, on a charge of having murdered Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo, who was his client, in order to get her estate of $10,000, opened under very dramatic circumstances in the little Orange county courthouse at Newburg, N. Y.

As Gibson entered the courtroom and sank feebly into a chair beside the counsel table, where also sat his devoted wife, Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, presiding, ascended the bench and called to the bar Dominick Gerdi-vine, who had been convicted of murdering a cook at one of the New York hospitals for the insane.

"Gerdivine," said the justice, "I sentence you to die in the electric chair in the week beginning June 23."

As Gibson heard the words whatever color had been in his face left it, and he stared at the man who had just made a fight for his life and lost.

Mrs. Gibson was hardly less affected, and the selection of the jury was well under way before either had gained composure.

A second shock came to the accused man when District Attorney Wilson looked over in his direction and saw Mrs. Gibson. He went into a hurried conference with the justice, who summoned the lawyers for the defense to his side.

The result was that the sheriff was instructed to escort Mrs. Gibson to some less prominent place. She went to the side of the room twenty feet away from her husband, although she still remained directly in front of the jury box.

From her new position she played an active part in the selection of the jury

ORANGE COUNTY COURTHOUSE, NEWBURG, N. Y.

When there was any doubt as to the fitness of a man Gibson would look in her direction, and a nod from her was sufficient to decide the question one way or the other. At least three jurors were selected solely on her approval.

In the examination of talesmen the fact that stood out most prominently was that many residents of Orange county had formed an opinion as to Gibson's guilt.

Talesman after talesman declared his opinion was so strong it could not be removed. Others said it would require a great amount of evidence to take away their impression.

Some were opposed to capital punishment and consequently were not acceptable to the state.

Despite Gibson's plea of poverty he had three lawyers at the counsel table. They were headed by Henry Kohl, who was assigned to the case.

The devotion of Mrs. Gibson to her husband during his troubles has been the subject of much comment. From the time Gibson was first accused of having strangled Mrs. Szabo last July and thrown her body into Greenwood lake, New York, where they were rowing, Mrs. Gibson's efforts in his behalf were unceasing.

She did more than give him the consolation of loyalty. She collected evidence in his behalf. After his first trial had resulted in a disagreement of the jury, she redoubled her efforts to save him from the electric chair.

When the taking of testimony in the second trial was about concluded it became evident that Mrs. Gibson by her loyalty and constant activity in the courtroom had gained many supporters.

Many expressions of hope that Gibson would be freed on account of his devoted wife were heard in Newburg during the final hours of the trial.

As the case simmered down in the final struggle for advantage in the presentation of testimony there was a period of several hours in which experts for the prosecution called names at the experts for the defense and the experts for the defense responded in kind.

The question was the rather technical one whether a person could strangle another without leaving bruises on the neck.

The experts for the prosecution, who insisted that could be done, were coroners' physicians, who said they had performed thousands of autopsies, including many on persons who had been strangled.

The experts for the defense had been present at very few autopsies of any kind and none in which strangulation was the cause of death.

There was much talk of new witnesses whom the defense would produce to controvert the stories told for the prosecution concerning the alleged strangling of Mrs. Szabo in the rowboat on Greenwood lake. But when the witnesses actually appeared they could contribute nothing to what was known.

All said their attention was called to the scene on the lake by the blowing of distress whistles by launches. It had been established that the first boat to sound a signal did so after its captain took Gibson from the water and heard from him that a woman who had been with him was drowned.

Several witnesses for the prosecution assailed the testimony of Tom Garrison, the man of all work who was the star witness for the defense. Garrison had testified that he saw Gibson and Mrs. Szabo go out of the boat on opposite sides when they were five or more feet apart in the craft.

John J. Adams, a surgeon of Orange county, and Simon Rollinson, a lawyer who employed Garrison, told of narratives of the death of Mrs. Szabo supplied to them by Garrison a day or two after its occurrence.

They agreed that in the stories then told Garrison started his personal experience with the moment when he heard the boat's distress signal and that in answer to specific questions he denied specifically that he had seen the pair fall out of the boat or ever had seen them in the boat.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Councilman Richards, chairman of the special committee who are investigating the Fire department says that there is nothing sensational about the committee's inquiry. The fact is that if the department can be improved in any way it is a good thing to do so and to-night's public hearing is simply to give any citizens who have any suggestions to make an opportunity to do so. The aim of the committee is to recommend such legislation as will tend to make the department even more efficient than it is at present.

No Score Until Last Inning in High School Game

Inability to hit at opportune moments and a poor throw in the ninth innings with two men out lost to Quincy High the game at Braintree on Tuesday by a score of 1 to 0. This is the second defeat administered Quincy by Braintree.

The ninth opened with Hubbard walking and stealing second. Pratt singled. Taylor flied to Burke who doubled Hubbard at short. Pratt stole second and while making third Hamlin threw over Price's head and he romped home with the bacon.

NOTHING EVER ESCAPED THE EYES OF JOHN M'GRAW.

According to James R. McAleer, president of the Red Sox, the Cleveland club, of which he was a member some years ago, was sitting out in front of a notoriously poor hotel in a western town one evening when a bus containing the Baltimore Orioles, deadly rivals of the Cleveland gang, whirled by. A spidery youth, whom McAleer has since identified as John J. McGraw, peered from the cavernous depths of the conveyance.

"Ha!" he bawled. "A second class club at a second class hotel!"

JENNINGS HAD DESIGNS ON UMPIRE'S WHITE SUIT

Hughie Jennings certainly had lots of sport with Umpire Connolly in a recent Chicago game. The umpires were adorned in their "glad rags," the white ones, and Connolly and Hildebrand went the limit by getting a shine as well.

"Pretty nifty," said Jennings as he met Connolly at the plate and tried to pat him on the back.

"No, you don't!" howled Connolly "I'm on to you. Your hands are dirty, and you want to leave the imprint of your hand on my white uniform. You don't make me look like a buckwheat advertisement!"

Jennings assured him that he was mistaken and tried to step on his shoes.

"No, you don't!" howled Tommy. "You want to spoil my shine."

SCHMIDT NEW GOLF STAR.

Practically Unknown, Made World Sit Up and Take Notice Recently.

"It was sheer pluck and nerve that enabled W. H. Schmidt, the Worcester (Mass.) Institute student, to play Champion Hilton in an extra hole match in the St. Andrews tournament for the world's amateur golf championship," remarked John M. Ward recently while discussing the youngster's remarkable achievement of playing the veteran to a standstill for 18 holes only to lose out on the nineteenth hole by a lucky shot.

John Ward—it was Johnny in the days when he played on the old Giants team—is a golfer of no mean ability himself. He has competed in many of the big tournaments and has seen Schmidt in action many times. He spoke entertainingly of the Worcester boy and his future on the links.

"It was too bad that Hilton defeated Schmidt, especially after the youngster played such a sensational game," began Mr. Ward. "If he could have beaten Hilton I am sure he eventually would have won the world's championship. He would have been chock full of confidence, while the four remaining contestants would probably have shown considerable uneasiness.

"While Schmidt has been playing for some time in this country, it has only been in the last two years that he has been taken seriously. He's a sort of eccentric chap. His manners and ways of dressing are somewhat peculiar, but he can play golf; make no mistake about that.

"He took part in several matches around Gotham several years ago, but his playing attracted little attention. He had confidence in himself, however, and stuck to the game. Last year he won the Massachusetts state championship, although he didn't have to break through 80 to do it. At one time in the finals he was 3 down, but never gave up and won out after a strong rally. He's always been determined in all his matches, and that trait is likely to carry him farther up the golf ladder."

Miss Alma Juurus and Miss Ida E. Maki sailed on the Franconia on Tuesday for a visit in Finland. Rev. J. E. Lillback and others escorted them to the steamer and left floral gifts.

"PORK BARREL" SINKS

Bay State Water Development Measure Killed by Senate

Boston, June 11.—Exit the "pork barrel" bill, so-called, calling for an expenditure of $5,000,000 on the development of the rivers and harbors of the state outside of Boston. The senate twice killed it yesterday, in order to convince Chairman McNary of the rivers and harbors commission that Massachusetts was not yet ready to develop her much neglected streams.

In the course of the debate Senator Ward charged the chairman with lobbying a little too energetically for the measure.

Baltimore, June 11.—Almost on the exact spot where the ill-fated Titanic foundered a little more than a year ago, the lookout of the steamship Eisenach, which docked here with 1502 immigrants, sighted a barnacle covered lifeboat.

The derelict was sighted on June 4, floating keel upward, and the officers of the Eisenach said that from its appearance it must have been at the mercy of the waves for at least twelve months.

CHARLTON WILL BE EXTRADITED

Slayer of Wife Must Face Justice In Italy

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Upholds Previous Decision by Knox When Secretary of State—Case of Man Who Threw Wife's Body Into Lake Como Has Been Hard Fought by His Father and Friends

Washington, June 11.—Porter Charlton, boy wife murderer, must be extradited to Italy and stand trial for killing Mary S. C. Charlton at Lake Como, Italy, three years ago. This was the ruling of the United States supreme court. It affirmed the decree of New Jersey courts dismissing Charlton's habeas corpus suit. Judge Lurton read the court's opinion.

"Impressive evidence of the insanity of the accused was offered and rejected by the court below," he said. "An extradition hearing is not a trial. Judge Blair did not exceed his authority in excluding evidence of the defendant's insanity. That defense should be presented at the time of the trial."

The court held Charlton's plea that demand for his extradition was made too late—not within the statutory period of forty days—was without merit.

It was three years ago yesterday, June 10, 1910, that the body of Mrs. Charlton was found in a trunk sunk in Lake Como, Italy, where the woman and her 20-year-old husband had been spending their honeymoon. Charlton disappeared, and for a time it was thought that he, too, had been murdered.

Constantine Ispolatoff, a Russian, was arrested on suspicion, but protested his innocence, and was released.

On the 23d of the same month Charlton was arrested in Hoboken, N. J., as he was leaving a steamer. He made a remarkable confession, in which he admitted he had killed his wife, placed the body in a trunk and cast it into the lake.

Charlton was locked up in the Hudson county, N. J., jail, and since then a remarkable legal battle has been waged to prevent his extradition to Italy. Solitary imprisonment is Italy's punishment for murderers—a punishment that in most cases means insanity or death.

Judge Paul Charlton, the devoted and heart-broken father of the boyish wife-murderer, used all his influence and ability to prevent the extradition of his son.

Dr. Hamilton, the alienist, examined Charlton after his arrest, and pronounced him insane. At the first hearing Federal Judge Blair of New Jersey refused to consider the insanity plea. Counsel for Charlton then urged that Italy, by enacting a law that no Italian citizen should be extradited, had abrogated all obligations of the United States to extradite its citizens on Italy's demand. Blair overruled this contention so far as the state court was concerned, and left its final decision to the federal authorities.

The state department at Washington next dealt with the case, and Secretary of State Knox decided Secretary Knox decided that Italy was entitled to the extradition of Charlton. A writ of habeas corpus was then interposed to prevent the handing of Charlton to the agents of the Italian government. The case then went to the United States supreme court.

SEIZE ARMS FOR IRELAND

Thousands of Rifles and Bayonets Captured by London Police

London, June 11.—The police raided a warehouse in London last night and discovered between 3000 and 4000 rifles and a similar number of bayonets, packed in boxes ready for shipment.

The raid was a sequel to the seizure of a consignment of rifles and bayonets on board a steamer arriving at Dublin June 6 from Liverpool. This consignment was addressed to Baron Farnham, an Irish peer, at his country seat in County Caven, and was traced to the same warehouse.

STRIKE WILL CONTINUE

Boston I. W. W. Barbers Turn Down Proposition of Employers

Boston, June 11.—The settlement terms offered yesterday by an association of the employers was rejected by a unanimous vote of the 1000 I. W. W. barbers out on strike.

The strikers directly after the refusal of the master barbers' propositions, voted to continue the strike until their demands are granted, and it was decided to picket the down-town barber shops at night.

Worcester, Mass., June 11.—Mrs. Grace Holland and Eva Reed, Hazel Rawson and Alice Thibault—the three girls Mrs. Holland is accused of luring into white slavery—were held for a hearing Tuesday, when arraigned in court here.

ELOPED SIX YEARS AGO

Jere Cooke and Floretta Whaley Are Married In Connecticut

Stamford, Conn., June 11.—Floretta Whaley and Jere K. Cooke, the unfrocked rector of Hempstead, L. I., were married here by Justice of the Peace Tipper, with two newspaper men as the only witnesses. Cooke was divorced by his former wife last Friday. Cooke gave his age as 43 and Miss Whaley as 23.

The entire country followed the fortunes of Cooke and Miss Whaley following their elopement six years ago. They traveled from coast to coast, Cooke working as a laborer or at any employment he could obtain. Then they returned to New York. Two children were born to them, but as long as Mrs. Miranda C. Cooke did not seek a divorce their marriage was impossible.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY LAW

Section Declaring For Semi-Annual Statement Declared Constitutional

Washington, June 11.—An interpreted by it, the supreme court upheld the constitutionality of the newspaper publicity law enacted as a part of the postal appropriation act of 1912.

The particular section attacked was to bar every newspaper and periodical from the mails unless the editors or owners filed with the postal authorities semi-annual sworn statements giving the names of the editors, owners, stockholders and bondholders, and the average daily circulation, and thereafter immediately published the statement. It also forbade, under penalty of a fine, the publication of paid-for articles without marking them "advertisements."

FIGHTING NEAR BORDER

Servians Reported Badly Beaten In Battle With Bulgarians

Belgrade, June 11.—Serious fighting has begun between Servian and Bulgarian troops at Makresh, twenty-five miles west of the Bulgarian border. The Servians are reported to have been defeated with heavy loss of life. The Bulgarian casualties were not learned.

With the London peace negotiations broken off without its work completed and actual fighting between the two allies, peace in the Balkans seems a long way off. Greece and Bulgaria are no nearer an agreement, and it is regarded as probable that Greece and Servia will join forces against Bulgaria.

DETECTIVE SOUGHT BY BOSTON POLICE

May Shed Light on Alleged Attempt to Bribe Juryman

Boston, June 11.—Acting upon orders of District Attorney Pelletier, police inspectors are trying to locate a detective who, it is believed, can throw considerable light on the alleged attempted bribery of Morris Shuman when the latter was acting as a juror in the trial of William M. Wood and others in the dynamite conspiracy case. Thus far, all efforts to locate this detective have failed. The district attorney is anxious to have him explain to the grand jury what he knows of the attempt to influence Shuman's vote.

Shuman was hurriedly sent for yesterday by the district attorney. He arrived at the courthouse in company with a police inspector and later went before the grand jury.

It is the general impression that whoever tried to buy Shuman's vote in behalf of the defense was "speculating." It is thought the man intended later to go to representatives of the defense and offer the vote for a much larger sum than would have been paid for it by the briber.

Boston, June 11.—Henry R. Walton of Somerville, aged 19, who was serving a four months' sentence at the Charles street jail on a charge of forgery, committed suicide in his cell by hanging himself with a silk scarf to an electric light attachment.

Walton had appeared morose and wept. "Everyone has quit me," he said. "Even my folks don't come to see me any more. I haven't got a friend in the world."

THE DUELISTS

How They Were Punished For Fighting

By F. A. MITCHEL

Cardinal Richelieu was sitting at his desk in his palace in Paris attending to official business when an attendant entered and said:

"Please, your eminence, a woman has been arrested for masquerading in man's apparel. She desires to be brought before your eminence."

"Why should I be troubled by a matter that pertains to the watch?" asked the cardinal, looking up from his papers.

"The young lady says, your eminence, that she has information to give which you would value."

"Of what nature?"

"Dueling. She will give you the names of two officers of the army who are to fight today."

The cardinal's manner changed at once. "Another of these affairs, eh, despite my orders but just published! If I don't put a stop to this practice I shall in time lose every officer in the service. I will stop it if I have to hang the whole army. Admit the girl."

She came in, blushing for her apparel, tall for a woman and well formed. She stood before the cardinal with bent head.

"Why are you so attired?" he asked.

"Because I intended to take the place of a man in a duel today."

"You fight a duel!" snarled his eminence. "Shall I have to bring the women of the kingdom to the block as well as the men?"

"Hear me, your eminence. One of the best swordsmen in France is to meet on the field of honor one of the worst. I learned of the meeting in time, sent for the latter and succeeded in locking him in a room from which he cannot escape. I intended to fight in his stead."

"Their names!"

"I will die, your eminence, rather than reveal them without your promise that their lives shall be spared."

The cardinal hesitated for a moment, then gave the required promise.

"Captain de la Tour, the famous swordsman, and Lieutenant Durant," said the girl.

On the cold visage of the cardinal appeared a trace of admiration for this woman who was going to meet death in place of another.

"You are Mlle. Remercier, I believe, one of the queen's maids of honor. This nefarious dueling pest that is killing off every year hundreds of the king's best officers seems to be more in vogue among persons of quality than the lower orders. I wish you were a man. I would behead De la Tour and give you his commission. Why were you about to give your life for that of Lieutenant Durant?"

"Because I would rather die than lose him."

The cardinal paused a moment in thought. "Singular," he said, half to himself and half to the girl, "this thing called love! I can conceive of all other passions, but not this one, and a love that will sacrifice a life for the object loved is to me as great a mystery as life itself." Then, looking up, he asked, "Where is this duel to take place?"

"In a wood on the outskirts of the city, on the bank of the Seine."

"When?"

"At noon."

"It is now near noon."

"Yes, your eminence. I was going to the ground when a gendarme of keener eye than others suspected my sex and arrested me."

"I presume Captain de la Tour is now waiting for his victim."

"Doubtless he is, and wondering why he does not appear."

Something was running with electric rapidity through the cardinal's brain. Whatever it was, it came to a head at once. Summoning an attendant, he directed him to proceed to the dueling ground and bring Captain de la Tour to the palace. Then, turning to Mlle. Remercier, he asked if she had the key to the room where her lover was confined. She gave it to him and he sent another attendant for Durant. Then he sent the girl to another apartment to await the coming of the would be duelists.

The messenger who went for De la Tour found him pacing back and forth impatiently waiting for his enemy, his seconds standing together chatting to pass the time. When the captain saw a man coming wearing the cardinal's livery he turned pale.

"Mon Dieu!" he exclaimed. "The cardinal has got wind of the affair. I am lost!"

"His eminence desires your presence at the palace," said the messenger.

De la Tour bade his comrades good by, he and they believing that they would never meet again. Only a few days before two men had been beheaded for a like affair, and with every case the cardinal had grown more determined. Having pressed the hand of each of them, he set out for the Palais Richelieu, afterward called the Palais Royale and today occupied by shops.

Meanwhile Lieutenant Durant was a prisoner, bewailing his fate. Proud and sensitive, his mind dwelt on the contempt with which his brother officers would receive him when he met them again for not keeping an engagement to fight. He heard the clocks without strike 11. For an hour he chafed, and when they clanged the hour of noon he groaned. He knew his betrothed had locked him in, but did not know that she had intended to fight in his place. Had he even supposed this he would have well nigh gone mad.

Presently, hearing a step in the hall, he listened intently, hoping for a release and that he would not be too late to keep his appointment. The door was unlocked, and he was about to push out into the corridor when he was stopped by a man, who said:

Durant quailed. He could face death like a gentleman and a soldier, but to be executed in cold blood was not to his liking, and he did not doubt that he would suffer the execution of a felon. As he accompanied the messenger to the palace he wondered if the girl he loved could have given away the secret of the meeting. No; she had locked him up to prevent his being killed by De la Tour. She surely would not turn him over to another fate far more terrible. He was wondering how the secret could have got out and whether there was any hope for him when he and the messenger entered the palace. He was taken to a chamber, where he was placed in charge of a guard and notice of his arrival sent to the cardinal.

Presently an attendant came for him and led him to another apartment, and as he entered by one door he saw De la Tour ushered in by another. The cardinal sat in an armchair at one side, and near him stood Mlle. Remercier in man's apparel. The two duelists advanced and bowed to the cardinal. But what was most astonishing were a headsman's block and ax at one end of the room. There was no executioner present, but the culprits expected to see him enter at any moment.

"Gentlemen," said the minister, "you are doubtless aware of the recent edict against dueling, and, having conspired to disobey it, your lives are forfeited."

Both men bowed low.

"I have decided, however, to permit this meeting and to witness it myself. There is an unfairness about these duels which in this one I hope to counteract. You, Captain de la Tour, are accounted the best swordsman in France. You, Lieutenant Durant, I learn, are one of the poorest. To enable you to fight equitably I have decided that you shall continue the contest till one kills the other. He who remains alive will be dispatched by the headsman."

"But, your eminence," interposed the informant, deathly pale, "you promised me that their lives should be spared."

"And my promise is not broken by this disposition. But for you both of them would be ordered to execution at once. I cannot conceive a more noble part than that you have acted. Since in this realm a practice exists by which an expert swordsman may kill one who is practically defenseless you were about to suffer death to save the unskilled combatant. Failing in this, knowing that I alone had power to prevent this injustice, you informed me of it, but not till you had received my promise that the combatants should not be punished by death. It is not my intention to punish either of them for disobeying the edict, but to render the affair between them perfectly equitable. Gentlemen, there is ample room for you on the floor of this apartment. Take your positions and an attendant will hand you your weapons."

As the cardinal spoke the last words the men were given rapiers, and at the same time a door opened, and a masked man in tight fitting garments entered, went to the block, took up the ax and stood ready for duty. The duelists, who understood that this was a mere subterfuge of the crafty cardinal to keep his promise to Mlle. Remercier in the letter and break it in the spirit and that one was to execute the other and the headsman the victor, stood facing each other, awaiting a signal to begin the combat. They had been friends, and their quarrel had been in their cups. Neither had the faintest remembrance of its cause. Realizing that they were about to die, they stepped forward and embraced each other.

Meanwhile Mlle. Remercier had thrown herself at the feet of the cardinal to beg for their lives. Her back being turned to the combatants and her head bowed, she did not see the embrace. The cardinal raised her and turned her toward them.

"Look!" he said. "The affair is ended the way I would have all such affairs ended—in a reconciliation. Gentlemen, put away your swords. If you supposed Richelieu to be so crafty as thus to break his word to one whose life is demanded by the king's welfare perhaps you are right, but you wrong him if you think he could act such a part toward this noble girl. You, Captain de la Tour, go to your quarters and be assured that if you offend again that masked person yonder will see that you do not offend a third time. Lieutenant Durant, I give you to Mlle. Remercier."

The lady seized the minister's hand and kissed it rapturously, while the two men, kneeling before him, begged that he would add his blessing to their pardon. He gave it, and De la Tour departed alone. Durant and Mlle. Remercier were driven away in the cardinal's carriage.

The practice that Richelieu strove so hard to eradicate still exists in France to a greater extent than in any other country. While the Anglo-Saxon has abandoned it, the Latin and Teutonic races still retain it. But nowhere is it so deadly as it was in France when Cardinal Richelieu tried to break it up. Today there are several hundred duels fought annually in France, but rarely does one result fatally, the object of each of the combatants being to "pink" the other, and at the letting of a few drops of blood the affair is usually called off.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

IN STRAWBERRY TIME.

FORTUNATELY early strawberries are in the market. While the early berries may not be so sweet and luscious as those that come later, they may be cooked to form many delicious desserts.

Luscious Fare.

Strawberry Salad.—Take berries not too ripe, chill and serve on crisp lettuce leaves well sprinkled with finely chopped mixed nuts. Cover the whole with cut celery until only glimpses of the red berries can be seen. Garnish the top with rings of green peppers and serve with French dressing.

Strawberry Cream.—Take a quart of strawberries and mash with one cup powdered sugar. Rub through a hair sieve. Dissolve one and one-half ounces gelatin in one pint sweet milk. Strain and add one pint whipped cream and the berry juice. Pour in a wet mold and set on ice to form. Another way to make the cream is as follows: Take one quart strawberries rubbed through a hair sieve, mix with three pints rich cream and sweeten. Whip to a froth, add one-half ounce dissolved gelatin. Serve in sherbet glasses.

A Fruit Custard.

Strawberry Custard. — Take fresh strawberries, pick and hull them. Then line a dish with the fruit and fill the center with a custard made by scalding in a double boiler one pint of sweet milk. Pour over the beaten yolks of two eggs and half a cupful of sugar. Cook in the double boiler, stirring until it thickens. Flavor with vanilla and when cool pour in the center of the bowl of berries. Whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar and heap over the top of the custard.

A Simple Shortcake.

Strawberry Shortcake. — Take two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of milk and one-quarter cupful of butter. Sift together the dry ingredients. Work in the butter with the fingers. Then add it on to a floured board and roll out, handling as little as possible. Bake in a round layer cake pan in a hot oven. When done split with a hot knife and spread with soft butter. Sweeten the berries and crush them slightly. Then place them on the back of the range to become slightly warmed. Put them between and on top of the cake. Serve at once with plain or whipped cream.

Anna Thompson.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CHILDREN'S NIGHT.

"Children's night" was the attraction after the regular meeting of Braintree Grange in Odd Fellow's hall, South Braintree, Monday evening. There was a large attendance of children and adults as well and the affair was a grand success.

There was a fine program consisting of piano solos by Mrs. F. A. Hayden and Miss Evelyn Swallow. Readings by Miss Isabel Twitchell, Miss Doris Sellers and Master Clarence Parker. The Misses Evelyn and Lillian Tenney contributed some fine songs and duets and some comical dialogues.

A one act farce, "The sick baby," was cleverly presented by Isabel Trainor, Elsie Hathaway, Agnes Messerli, Helen Fox, Evelyn Swallow, Janice Gammons, Agnes and Doris Sellers and Herbert Burrell.

After the entertainment refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed.

The affair was in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Moses T. Dyer, Mrs. George Burton and Mrs. Peter Sellers.

DISTRICT COURT.

Uno Walito was fined $10, Benjamin A. Baker $10, William Gallant $10, Thomas Brennan $15 for drunkenness at Quincy, and Joseph B. Mulvey $15 for drunkenness at Cohasset.

Peter Guarnera was fined $20, Philip Penny $15, Charles P. Myric $10, Henry J. Hoey, $15 and Albert L. Alderisio $20 for violation of the automobile laws on the Blue Hills reservation at Milton.

NEW SIGNALS.

The street railway company is installing what is known as the United States automatic signals on the Houghs Neck line. These signals, as the name denotes, work automatically. No matter how many cars enter a turnout, the line is not cleared until the last car has passed the end of the turnout. This method saves the conductor from leaving his car at either end of the switch, or turnout, to throw the block signal, as it is done automatically. It is figured out that on the Houghs Neck line a conductor loses fully five minutes in throwing signals. This time will now be saved. When a car approaches a turnout, which is occupied a light is shown and the car must wait until the signal shows clear. If the signal shows clear on approaching the turnout he goes ahead without stopping. Another thing about the signals is that if one set of lights should burn out the signals will still work for a second set of lights is automatically switched into the line.

WILD WEST SHOW COMING

The 101 Ranch Shows a Good Border Exhibition

The 101 Ranch show which exhibits in Quincy on Saturday, June 14, is called a "real" Wild West exhibition because its performance is confined strictly to the exploitation of scenes and incidents of ranch life and illustrations of the old pioneer days.

The management of the 101 Ranch distinctly avows that the show is not a circus. There are no rings, no loping horses, no somersault riders, no acrobats and no trapeze performers. All these things are proper for a circus, but evidently they do not belong in a Wild West show.

The 101 Ranch makes no claim, it is said ,to anything except just what it is —a border exhibition pure and simple. The scores of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Mexican Vaqueros and other picturesque people give a performance that is characteristically western. There is a roping contest, in which many well-known experts participate: there is a round-up, novel, thrilling and full of unexpected happenings, in which 36 long-horned Texas steers are utilized; there is a quadrille on horseback; a buffalo hunt; the capture and punishment of a horse thief; an attack by Mexican bandits on an old-time stage coach; the destruction of a pioneer's camp by hostile Indians, and many other interesting events. The only departure from the Wild West idea is the introduction of a troupe of Cossacks, who are presented simply to illustrate the different methods of riding, that prevails in two such widely separate districts as Southern Russia and the American prairies.

All the interesting Wild West people will be seen in the parade. The new auto polo sensation will be seen here for the first time.

NOT OURS THE VOWS.

Not ours the vows of such as plight
Their troth in sunny weather,
While leaves are green and skies are bright,
To walk on flowers together.

But we have loved as those who tread
The thorny path of sorrow,
With clouds above, and cause to dread
Yet deeper gloom tomorrow.

That stormy path, those stormy skies,
Have drawn our spirits nearer
And rendered us by sorrow's ties
Each to the other dearer.

Love, born in hours of joy and mirth,
With mirth and joy may perish.
That to which darker hours gave birth
Still more and more we cherish.

It looks beyond the clouds of time
And through death's shadowy portal
Made by adversity sublime
By faith and hope immortal.

RIOTOUS MOB LED BY WOMEN

One Woman Killed and Many Others Shot at Ipswich

ROCKS, CLUBS AND PISTOLS

Freely Used In Attack Upon Police by I. W. W. Strikers—Shots Fired at Bluecoats From Windows of Houses—Two of Those Shot Expected to Die From Wounds

Ipswich, Mass., June 11.—The street in front of the Ipswich mills was turned into a shambles last night, when I. W. W. strikers rushed the mill workers with rocks and clubs and engaged in a furious gun fight with the police.

In ten minutes after the first stone had been thrown one woman lay dying in the road, a dozen men and women were stretched out, bleeding from wounds, and the beaten strikers were sullenly retreating with their wounded before the line of badly battered officers. Nearly fifty persons, including many policemen, were clubbed and hurt by stones.

The mortally wounded woman, Miss Nicoleta Paudelopoulou, died an hour later. Ten other victims, most of them suffering from bullet wounds, were rushed to the Salem hospital in automobiles.

Thirty persons were seriously hurt, the strikers carrying off two who were shot and hiding them from the police and doctors.

Within an hour after the fight police were pouring into town by automobile from Salem, Beverly and Newburyport. Sixteen men and women, including the leaders of the I. W. W., were under arrest and the situation for the time being was under control.

The fight was the shortest, sharpest and most desperate battle the I. W. W. has ever waged. The 250 Greek and Italian strikers lined both sides of the mill entrance and started the attack as the 300 American workers began to pour out to their homes.

As bricks began to fly Selectman Hull climbed to the top of the mill fence and read the riot act. The thirty policemen present raised their clubs and in an instant the strikers became frenzied.

Women armed with clubs dashed fearlessly upon the police and the mill workers. Across the street stood a squad of twenty-five Greeks hurling rocks indiscriminately into the struggling mass.

The police turned and fired volley after volley from their revolvers into this group. Suddenly all of the windows in the fronts of the two tenement houses opposite the mill gates blazed with spurts of fire.

Cries of the wounded rose above the roar of the battle as the strikers hidden in the houses kept up a fusillade from the windows, as if firing from a fort.

The police returned the fire and charged across the street. The armed men in the houses fled before them and the officers took possession of the deserted citadel.

Discouraged by this storming of their stronghold, and with many of their leaders taken, the strikers slowly drew off.

The strike mob was led by the women, who fought like Amazons. They showered the police not only with stones, but with a supply of bottles, evidently brought with them for the purpose, which were shattered on the heads of the officers. Many of the officers had blood trickling from their faces when they finally routed the mob.

The outbreak took place within twenty minutes after Nathan Hermann, organizer of the I. W. W., had reached this town from Boston. He was arrested with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pingree. Hermann has led the recent strike in Little Falls, N. Y., and Pingree is the I. W. W. secretary in Lowell. They are charged with inciting a riot, resulting in murder.

Two of those shot may die, it was reported at the Salem hospital last night. Mrs. Flora Cornelius, shot through the right leg, was exhausted from loss of blood when she reached the hospital. Mrs. Pahagiova Paganus was shot in the side of the head. The bullet came out through her cheek.

The police declare that Miss Paudelopoulou, the dead woman, was shot by a bullet fired by one of the strikers. She was struck in the temple. Employed at the Essex Hosiery company, where there is no strike, she was attracted by the noise of the riot and was standing at some little distance from the battle when the bullet hit her.

RECEPTION TO OLDER FRIENDS

Annual Event of Unity Circle, King's Daughters, a Happy Occasion

About Thirty Accepted the Invitation Extended

The annual reception to the older friends of Unity circle, Kings Daughters, was held Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of Bethany church. Invitations were sent to seventy-five of the older friends and about 30 accepted the invitation and enjoyed the hospitality of the circle. The chapel was very prettily decorated with wild flowers and peonies whose fragrance filled the room.

As the guests arrived they were received by Mrs. Emma S. Moore, leader of Unity circle and escorted to the parlor where wraps were laid aside.

A brief entertainment was provided for the guests which was opened by Mrs. Moore who briefly welcomed the guests and told how pleased the circle was to see so many present.

Miss Gladys L. Flieger one of the teachers at the Coddington school was introduced and she sang a group of Scotch songs which were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. A. Isabel Davis always acceptable, gave a reading, and Miss Violet and Master Theodore Smith gave a piano and cello duet.

The guests were briefly addressed by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, the pastor of Bethany church, after which they were escorted to the dining room where tables had been laid for a lunch, which included sandwiches and tea, ice cream and cake. At each plate there was also a little basket of candy.

Mrs. C. W. Guy had charge of the refreshments and the young misses of the junior Kings Daughters under the leadership of Miss Florence Sabean served.

The executive committee of Unity circle includes Mrs. Emma S. Moore, Mrs. V. E. Miller, Mrs. C. W .Guy, Mrs. George Badger, Miss Hatch, Miss Addie Park, Mrs. A. C. Bean, Mrs. George W. Abele, Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., Mrs. John G. Roberts, Miss Florence Sabean, Miss Griffiths, and Mrs. James Young. CHARM AND CHAIN.

Thomas Walsh, of School street, a county officer of the A. O. H., was presented with a gold combination A. O. H. and K. of C. charm and chain at a meeting of Div. 5 in their hall Wednesday evening. The presentation was made by Daniel Mannix, the vice president, and was in recognition of the good work accomplished by Bro. Walsh while president of the division for two years. He was given loud applause as he arose to accept the token, and in a short speech thanked the members. Remarks were made by other members of the progress of the division.

BATTLESHIP FLOAT.

John Adams aerie, F. O. The float will be in the care of the Quincy lodge, Loyal Order of Moose. There is every probability that it will be sent to Baltimore to appear in the national convention parade of the Eagles August 4.

A class initiation is being planned for next meeting. Visitors were present Wednesday evening from Montpelier, Vt., and Brockton. Among those reported on the sick list are William Russell, George McAllister of Kearney, N. J., Allen Thompson, James F. Murphy and Daniel Lovering.

Shoes of Sterling Quality

For Men, Women and Children

The large trade we have built up on our special lines, is not a mere happening so. It is the natural consequence of our maintaining the highest standard and insisting that manufacturers conform to it.

There's genuine merit in the shoes—in the leather and materials used; in the workmanship, which is true to the last stitch, and in their shapeliness.

For Men—The Ralston—$4 to $6

The Ralston Shoes, as you know, are made on foot-moulded lasts, which means no "breaking-in." Get that fact clearly in mind and you have the keynote of Ralston superiority.

For Women--The American Lady--$3 to $4

As pretty a shoe as ever graced a woman's foot. As for comfort and wear—they have won their way into the hearts of thousands of women. All leathers, including white.

For Young People--The Educator--$1.50 up

They solve the problem because they let the foot grow as it should, and provide ample room for all five toes.

MRS. TALBOT PETITIONER

Goes to Court to Retain Office in Kennel Club

Grave charges of election frauds, mal-feasance of office and even of giving out false news of death have been brought against officers of the Women's Kennel Association of Massachusetts, an organization numbering among its members some of the most prominent women in Boston, Brookline and New York society, says the Boston Journal. An appeal to the courts has been made and the court will settle who is the president and who the secretary of the association.

Lizzie M. Blake of Wellesley and Mrs. Helen M. Talbot of Atlantic on Wednesday filed a petition for a writ of mandamus against Mrs. E. H. Seagrave of Wakefield and Mrs. E. H. Squire of Newton. The petitioners allege that they are respectively the president and secretary of the association and that they were defrauded by the illegal tactics of the two latter women, who now hold the contested offices.

The petition is returnable Friday, June 20, and it is expected that an array of Boston society women rarely seen in the courthouse will appear for and against the petitioners.

Some of the members of the association who have taken sides in the contest are Miss Fannie Brooks, Mrs. Charles F. Dennee, Mrs. E. K. Thayer, Mrs. Thorndike W. Whittemore, Mrs. A. Henry Higginson, Mrs. Thomas G. Plant, Mrs. Francis Burke-Roche of New York, Mrs. C. S. Eaton, Mrs. J. L. Frothingham, Mrs. Arnold Lawson, Miss Helen Sears, Mrs. Albert Geigler Mrs. T. E. L. Kemp and Mrs. Tyler Morse.

While the association's show was being held at the Woodland Park Hotel Wednesday afternoon, the members were apparently on perfectly harmonious terms, with only the friendly rivalry of prize-winning dogs between them. Yet at that very hour the storm clouds were brewing only a few miles away, in the office of Attorney Everett W. Crawford, counsel for the petitioners.

When the two chief officers of the association returned to their homes, elated at the success of the show, they found there the notices that they must appear to answer to the complaint brought by their rivals for office.

The petitioners claim that they were ousted from the offices to which they had been rightfully elected by the use of proxy votes. This they claim was after it had been moved in the election meeting on May 12 of the present year that no proxies be allowed. They say that Mrs. Seagrave would not recognize the motion, but ruled, after the petitioners had been elected by the quorum present that proxies be allowed, which ruling resulted in the election of herself and Mrs. Squire to the two offices.

The petitioners further claim that without these proxies, Mrs. Seagrave had been defeated for the office, while Mrs. Squire, they say, was never nominated to the office of secretary.

Outside of her petition Mrs. Talbot brings a startling charge against some of the supporters of her rival for office. She declares that in order that no proxies be made out for her, these supporters caused to be published in an afternoon paper notice of her death. She does not mention this charge however, in her petition.

Members of the association say that the trouble between Mrs. Seagrave and Mrs. Talbot arose long before the last election of officers. They say that the women became enemies over a prize awarded in a puppy class.

This had gradually grown into a bitter feud, it is claimed, which embroiled in its meshes most of the members of the association. Matters were at sword points at the last election, and the petition for a court ruling is the culmination.

Mrs. Talbot, when talking about the suit, said: "I have been secretary for five years, and on the 12th of last May we had an election of officers. On the next day the notice of my death appeared in a Boston newspaper, with my full name——Mrs. Helen M. Talbot of Atlantic. It was done by some of my enemies. They believed that I was down and out, and they were willing I should be called dead. But I am showing them now, that I am very much alive. I was dared today to come here and exhibit my dogs, which I should not have done had I not been dared. The trouble is not with the whole list of officers, but with the president, Mrs. Seagrave, and the secretary, Mrs. Squire."

Mrs. Squire, the secretary, said: "It is merely a case of talk. There has been nothing official done, and I am sure that if there were I should be the first to hear of it."

TO EUROPE BY STEERAGE

Rev. B. A. Willmott Tells of Experience Years Ago

Rev. B. A. Willmott entertained the Bethany Brotherhood on Wednesday evening at the closing meeting of the season, with a talk on "Steeraging it across the Atlantic." There was a large attendance.

Mr. Willmott told how he and four other young men located at Bath, Maine, had made a compact to go from New York by steerage. All were descendants of the British Isles—Scotch, Welsh and English. That was 21 years ago, before he entered the ministry, and he said conditions were much worse then than now.

Then no bedding or utensils were provided, and he told of purchasing a mattress, blanket, tinware, etc., in New York, and personally carrying it to the ship. They sailed on the steamship New York which later became the Harvard or Yale. Then dining tables were not provided in the steerage as now. The food was not bad but roughly served.

One sees a most diverse type of men; life in its real naturalness; men who gamble; men who were adventurers; but not bad fellows when you became acquainted with them. Many amusing incidents were related.

Mr. Willmott told of sighting land, had a tribute to the beautiful scenery of Ireland, told of arrival at dock, the old home surroundings, and greetings of family and friends. Immense changes are going on in the British Isles, and the feeling of insecurity is appalling. The new democracy has taken the reins of government. Dukes and earls have lost prestige. For the poor it will be a better place to live, and he predicted fewer would come to America.

Speed Regulation Discussed, Also Testing of Fire Nets

The public meeting of the special committee of the City Council who are investigating the Fire department Thursday evening was hardly what was anticipated, and had it not been for two or three young men who were evidently lookin g for fun it would not have amounted to anything. These same young men tried hard to learn what the committee had learned in their visits to the fire stations, but the committee refused to make public what questions they had asked of the different firemen or what it had gathered for information.

At first the committee said that it would go into session in the committee room and anyone who wanted to be heard would be listened to in executive session. There were perhaps a dozen present in the hall at that time but no one had anything to offer to the committee.

It then looked for a few minutes as

WEDDING PRESENTS.

In this month of Hymen, the philosophic observer of popular manners may well say a word on this theme. A room full of marriage gifts is a friendly lift to a young couple just starting out on the life path. But with a little common sense it might be still more helpful.

For instance, a bride known to the writer received last year a gift of two ornaments, which in the hurry of wedding doings were called vases. After the flitting and the home coming, she unpacked these articles to put some flowers in them. Then she discovered that their narrow necks were closed tight, and that they had no earthly use save to be looked at. They were of a rich pottery trimmed with gold, and must have cost heavily.

As a warning, it may be remarked that this bride gave these fakes to the first charity rummage sale that came along. Now she is trying to think up some excuse to give for their non-appearance when the giver visits her.

Pictures used to be a favorite wedding present with people who aspired to the reputation of some culture. Now that the Sunday papers distribute classic reproductions for five cents that compare fairly well will some of the $5.00 pictures already on your walls, the purchase of a picture is an undertaking to be attempted only by persons of some discrimination.

Silver has naturally been a favorite wedding gift. It is serviceable, it is easily transported, and it never goes out of style. Consequently most brides have cold meat forks and salad spoons enough for a hotel.

Wedding gifts should be both useful and beautiful. But often they are far from that, and are merely "numerous and costly," as the hackneyed reporter's phrase goes. Better ask the bride's female relatives what she wants before you spend your money!

Some men after writing to the newspaper editor to find out the difference between stocks and bonds, feel that they are qualified to go into the market on a two point margin.

The country may be ill prepared for war, but anyway the army post and navy yard appropriations help on the political battles.

I. W. W. LEADERS IN IPSWICH JAIL

Bail Is Refused Strike Chiefs Charged With Murder

OTHERS HELD UNDER BONDS

Rioting and Minor Offenses Charged Against Sixteen—Thirty-Eight Calibre Bullet In Skull of Woman Who Was Slain—Strong Guard of Police Surround the Mills

Ipswich, Mass., June 12.—Charged with the murder of Nicoletta Pandelopolou, the young woman who was shot and killed in a riot of hosiery strikers Tuesday night, Carl L. Pingree and his wife, Mary Pingree, of Lowell, and Nathan Herman of Boston, organizers of the I. W. W., were held without bail after pleading not guilty before Judge Sayward in the local police court. An additional charge of rioting was placed against them.

The other sixteen prisoners who were arrested as the result of the riot, during which five more persons were shot and seriously injured, were also arraigned and their cases continued. All pleaded not guilty. In the cases of those charged with rioting, bail was fixed at $2000, and because of the large amount, most of the strikers remained locked up.

In the cases where minor offenses were charged bail was fixed at $200 and $300, and the prisoners were allowed their liberty.

Thomas J. Halliday of Boston, national secretary of the I. W. W., who was arrested by City Marshal Lehan of Salem, was admitted to bail in $100. The charge against Halliday when he appeared in court was "violation of a town bylaw," though the bylaw was not mentioned.

Medical Examiner Bailey performed an autopsy on the body of the dead woman, assisted by Drs. McArthur and McGinley. After the work was done he said he had found a 38-calibre bullet in the woman's skull and that apparently the person who discharged the bullet was facing her at the time. He would not say whether in his opinion the bullet came from the revolver of a policeman or a striker. It is probable that an inquest will be ordered.

Warrants, charging them with rioting, were served in the Salem hospital upon the two men and three women who were brought there, suffering from bullet wounds.

The funeral of the woman who was killed was held yesterday afternoon, with services in the new Greek church. Extra precautions to prevent a demonstration during the funeral were taken.

More than 100 policemen, including state officers, local police and bluecoats from neighboring towns and cities, are on duty. The officers guarded the Ipswich hosiery mills when they opened, but there was no trouble. The riot had a sobering effect upon the strikers.

No attempt was made to picket or interfere with the loyal workers, who returned to work as usual.

Not only were the mills surrounded and guarded but flying squadrons of police went up and down the streets in automobiles ready to suppress any trouble that might arise.

The two houses from which the first shots in the riot were fired were carefully searched but no firearms were found.

WOMAN KILLED BY DESLOVERS

Verdict of Jury In "Woonsocket Headless Mystery"

A PERPLEXING MURDER CASE

Head of Mrs. Parmentier, Whose Body Was Found Weighted Down In Blackstone River, Was Never Found—Frenchman Convicted After Having Been Freed

Providence, June 12.—A verdict of guilty of murder was returned by a jury last night against Henri Deslovers, charged with having killed and decapitated Mrs. Angele Parmentier in Woonsocket on June 4 last year. The jury was out eight and a half hours.

Deslovers, who is unable to understand English, was unaware when he was led to his cell what the decision of the jury was, although the proceedings were interpreted to him. When he was visited afterward by his counsel and told that he had been convicted he seemed surprised.

"Did they say I was guilty?" he asked. "What's the matter with those fellows?"

There is no second degree murder in this state. The case will be appealed by Counsel Fitzgerald and Jalbert.

The case, which has been known as the "Woonsocket headless mystery," was one of the most perplexing the authorities have ever had to deal with, and the trial, lasting more than three weeks and three days, was the longest criminal trial in the history of the state.

Deslovers and Mrs. Parmentier came to Woonsocket from France three years ago, and went to work in the mills. She disappeared from his house on June 4, 1912. On June 25 of last year the headless and nude body of a woman, with arms and legs tied and weighted down with stones, was taken from the Blackstone river not far from Deslovers' home.

A few days later a bundle of clothing, which was later identified as having been worn by Mrs. Parmentier, was found near the spot and Deslovers was arrested. The head was never found. Deslovers pleaded not guilty and was indicted. More than six months later he was freed on a habeas corpus writ, the state having failed to bring him to trial within the six months' limit as prescribed by law.

Before he left the courtroom he was rearrested on a statutory charge, and a special grand jury, which was immediately sumoned, reindicted him. The trial was begun four weeks ago last Monday.

Deslovers' defense was that the woman had left him to go back to France to a disreputable house, and the reason she had not been heard from was because she did not want him to know where she was so that he could not take her back. The defense claimed the headless body was not that of Mrs. Parmentier and sought to establish an alibi. More than fifty witnesses testified in the case, including the defendant, who was on the stand more than twenty hours.

The penalty for murder in Rhode Island is life imprisonment.

CUTTING OFF MILLIONS

Tariff List Means Reduction of $26,500,000 In Revenue

Washington, June 12.—Changes in the Underwood tariff bill by the senate finance sub-committees transferring proposed dutiable articles to the free list, will aggregate an estimated annual loss in revenue to the government of nearly $1,500,000.

This curtailment of the total estimates for revenue under the house bill is based only on articles known to have been transferred to the free list thus far upon sub-committee recommendations and does not take into account the decreases in duties which will be proposed on many articles in the various schedules. Added to the $25,000,000 estimated loss in revenue under the house bill free list, this would aggregate $26,500,000.

DRILL MASTER SUGGESTED

though it was all off and the janitor even went as far as to turn out some of the lights.

Then the committee changed its mind and going near the presidents desks announced that it had decided to have the meeting public that all who desired could be heard.

Chairman Richards said that in view of the talk that some people had been making and the criticisms that had been heard, the committee thought it fair that the public should be given an opportunity to be heard. He then said that the committee was ready to listen to any suggestions.

After a time Joe Elcock arose and asked why it was that the steamer did not respond to all alarms from boxes in Ward One.

Chairman Richards stated that if the gentleman had any suggestions to make the committee was ready to hear them.

Peter Sullivan brought up the question of ladders for the apparatus at Quincy Point. He said that if there had been ladders on the apparatus at the time of the fire when three men were suffocated they might have been saved. Chairman Richards stated that ladders were now on the apparatus.

Ex-Councilman Harry Studley said that it was only fair that the committee should tell what its findings had been, then those present would know what had been gone over and could frame their answers accordingly. This would open up a way for suggestions that might be valuable to the committee.

Chairman Richards said that the committee had not made any findings as yet but were simply getting suggestions.

Councilman Little of the committee stated that many questions had been submitted to the firemen the committee had seen, and they had been promised that what they said would be kept a secret and the committee therefore could not go back on its word. There was one question however, and that was the feasibility of sending a fireman to Boston to take a course at the training school and then making him a drill master for the members of the Quincy department. All with the exception of one member of the fire department had agreed this would be a good thing.

Harry Studley stated he did not know whether it was in the power of the appointing party to appoint men to the permanent department who had served as call men and were thus trained, instead of men who happened to stand highest on the civil service lists. Our call men who have served for several years are better qualified than are men who are able to pass the physical and educational tests. In time of a fire men with experience are the ones wanted. The reason the steamer was not run to all of the boxes was because the hydrant pressure was so great it was not necessary. There had been some criticism of the Chief having a driver for his car but it was a good thing as the chief was the first to get to a fire and his driver could have the hydrant blown off and already to couple on the hose when the apparatus arrived. He also said that last year a chief from another city visited Quincy and suggested that it would be a good idea for the auto apparatus at the Central station to have a straight getaway. That it could get a fire first and have the hose laid and already for the men when they arrived on the other apparatus.

Dan Driscoll thought that the committee should open up and let those present know what some of the questions asked the firemen were, then the people would have something to talk about.

Councilman Griffin of the committee said that the intent was to give the public an opportunity to give any information it might have.

Councilman Duffy of the committee added that the committee felt fully able to settle the question. That they had no idea of giving out any information.

Councilman Little said that the committee felt in duty bound not to divulge any information that had been given to them.

Dan Driscoll said that if the committee would ask those present the questions they would be answered.

Peter Sullivan told how the men of the Boston department were drilled to test their nerve. It might be a good thing to test the nerve of the Quincy department.

The discussion then drifted onto nets carried by the Fire department and how often they were tested and in what condition they were and it was suggested that nets might be carried by all pieces of apparatus. Chairman Richards however said that the committee did not want any suggestions that would add any additional expense

Harry Studley had some more to say about nets which caused Councilman Duffy to make an allusion which he did not like, and he promptly raised a point of order. Councilman Duffy rather resented this and said that he did not know what right the gentleman had to raise points of order. Chairman Richards then said that the committee would eliminate matters increasing the expenses of the department.

Leo Elcock said it would be a good idea to limit the speed of the auto chemical. This raised quite a discussion as to the rights of limiting the speed. It was claimed that the law gave the Fire department the right of way, and it could go any speed it desired.

Peter Sullivan said that people could talk about speed but if there was a fire in his house he wanted the department to use all possible speed in getting there. A minute saved in arriving at a fire often meant a great saving.

There was also more or less talk as to what was the proper speed and who had the power to say what the limit should be, it being generally agreed that the committee could not tell the department what speed to use Some favored using high speed and others were against, the main idea seemed to be to get a discussion started for the fun there was in it.

The committee evidently saw what was going on, for several times the chairman started to close the hearing when some one would jump up with another suggestion.

Then the hydrant pressure came up again and the running of the steamer to different boxes.

Peter Sullivan suggested having a well defined route from the stations to the different boxes so that all firemen would know when a box sounded just what route the apparatus would take. He also spoke of the importance of having the men go through regular drills.

Then the argument went back to the speed of the auto apparatus and as before some agreed that it should go fast and others that it should go slower.

Chairman Richards finally adjourned the hearing.

After the hearing Edmund Hayden, who had been a spectator, but did not speak, said that all of the argument was wrong. That there were no better men than in Quincy department and that the committee were going at it the wrong way.

The debaters then adjourned to Hearn's corner where they discussed the speed limit themselves until after 11 o'clock.

PROVIDENCE PARADE.

Quincy lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, held a well attended meeting in Faxon hall Wednesday evening and discussed the Moose Field day which will be held at Providence June 19. It is planned to send a representation of 200 to take part in the parade. Arrangements were also made to escort the North Dakota float of the Eagles. The Quincy delegation will be headed by the Quincy degree team. About 20 younger members of the Junior Order of Moose will act as "middies" for the float. A beautiful floral display is also contemplated for the parade.

MRS. CHARLES JONES.

Mrs. Charles Jones died this morning at her home 71 South street, after a long illness. She was about 58 years of age. She was the wife of Charles Jones and mother of Miss Delia Jones and Mrs. James Milne, all three of whom survive her. Mrs. Jones was the daughter of the late Michael Collins and a sister of Timothy Collins of Quincy avenue.

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

High School — Public Schools
Woodward Institute — Parochial School

Last Thursday, Principal Larkins and Principal Demarest of New York City Manual Training High schools spent the forenoon with the Superintendent of Schools in Quincy getting details of the plan of operation of the Industrial School, having been sent by the New York Board of Education for the purpose.

GRADUATIONS.

Next week will be filled with closing exercises in the various schools of the city.

Woodward Institute has its graduation on Wednesday evening, its senior class reception on Thursday evening, and the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association on Friday evening.

On Friday afternoon, graduating exercises will be held in the Coddington, Quincy and High school halls, while the exercises in the Wollaston school hall will be held that same evening.

At the Woodward graduation, Henry Turner Bailey, well known in Quincy as elsewhere, will give the annual address.

The program for the graduation of the grammar schools will with the exception of minor details be the same at each exercise. Miss Amsden the supervisor of music, will direct the music at the High school and the Wollaston school halls. Mr. Pollard will be the director at the Coddington hall and Mr. Sampson at the Quincy hall.

Diplomas will be presented at each school by the members of the School Committee who are chairmen of the district sub-committees.

The Superintendent of Schools will make brief remarks at the graduation in the High school and Wollaston school halls and at the latter hall Eugene DeNormandie will also make a short address.

FUEL BIDS.

The sub-committee on books, supplies and sundries of the school committee met Monday evening to open bids on coal for the ensuing year. This year there were two bidders, the City Fuel Co. of Neponset and J. F. Sheppard & Co. of Quincy. The local Company was the lowest bidder and the contract will be awarded at the next meeting of the School Committee after the matter has been passed upon by the full board and its engineer, the Cutter D. Lillie Co. of Boston. This is the first time for two years that a local concern has bid on the city's coal for school houses ,they discontinuing at the time the committee adopted a detailed contract with payment based on analysis, in accordance with a sliding scale.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

A most interesting collection of views is now on exhibition at the Thomas Crane Public Library. Most of the photographs are of attractive places in or near the Tyrol. The Tyrol, the crown country of Austria, is noted for its magnificent scenery as it includes many famous mountain ranges.

This collection, however, extends from the Salzburg Alps in the western part, through the Tyrol, taking in the Dolomites and St. Ulrich, the "Toy country," to the Italian border; ending with the Jungfrau and the Lauterbrunnen in Central Switzerland. With the collection is a map which aids greatly in locating the views.

The first few pictures are of Salzburg and its vicinity. Following the map toward the south are Obeisee, Hinterbarenbad and the Bavarian Alps. The next views are of Meran, the ancient capital of the Tyrol, which is very popular on account of its fine climate, and the Gisela Promenade, where are found the finest hotels in this part of the country.

There are also exceptionally fine scenes of the Rosengarten Dolomites, one showing Kesselkogel, the highest summit, 9846 feet. Another beautiful mountain view is that of Cimadella Pala, called the "Matterhorn," which is 11,000 feet high.

The next few pictures are miscellaneous and the last but most impressive picture of all, is that of the Jungfrau showing the beautiful rapids of the Lutschine River in the foreground.

DISTURBANCE OF PEACE.

Ernest L. Grignon and Joseph P. McManus, both of Quincy, were arraigned before Judge Avery this morning for disturbing the peace at Braintree. The alleged disturbance took place in the restaurant of John A. DeAngelis in Braintree Square, last Tuesday evening. It was alleged that the affair grew out of another case the Friday before and that Tuesday evening the two entered the restaurant looking for trouble. They were finally got out of the restaurant and stood in front. Mrs. DeAngelis sent for officer Shay who soon put in an appearance. On his approach the men ran and he gave pursuit, firing his revolver to bring them to a halt. It had the desired effect and they were placed under arrest.

In court they were arraigned for drunkenness and for disturbing the peace. They were found not guilty on the complaint for drunkenness.

McManus was found not guilty of disturbing the peace and was discharged. Grignon was found guilty of disturbing the peace and the case was placed on file on payment of $15 costs.

LAUNDRY MATTERS.

How to Do Up the Season's Fashionable Embroidered Collars and Cuffs.

No matter how particular you may be in caring for embroidered collars or centerpieces, they will become soiled. Every housewife should know how to clean these articles, so that she need not resort to the professional cleaner when they become soiled.

Place a half pint of bran in a pan and add the same amount of cold water. Allow it to boil slowly for twenty minutes and then strain through a fine cloth. Add a pint of boiling water and use this mixture to wash fine embroideries and laces for the first time. Squeeze them gently with the hands, and if they are much soiled soap jelly can be added to the mixture. This is made by dissolving pure white soap in boiling water.

If the embroidery is done with colors add salt to the rinsing water, which should be clean and moderately hot. This will set the colors of silks or cottons so that they will not run. It is a wise precaution to immerse colored embroideries in salt water before washig in the bran water.

Embroidered articles should be dried quickly and ironed on the wrong side. First spread the work over a folded blanket covered with clean muslin. When ironed on this the embroidery will stand out in bold relief.

If the doilies or scarfs are fringed at the edges shake them well when quite damp and never iron, or they will become matted.

A REAL WORKSHOP.

What the Kitchen Is to the Progressive Housewife.

Many women have a wrong idea of what a kitchen should be. They often seem to think of it as a kind of room where everything should be hidden away and tucked away from sight. This may result in "appearance," but it is not efficiency. A kitchen is the workshop for the preparing of food, and efficiency and convenient placing should rule over mere looks.

The efficient kitchen should be so arranged that it is not necessary to hide all pots and pans under doors and in cupboards away from sight. Did you ever visit a factory or large establishment where the boilers and the caldrons and the belting and the thousand tools were stuck away from sight when not in use? Your kitchen equipment should be so attractive and good that it looks well and doesn't need to be tucked away.

Every time a pot is pushed into a shut closet we increase the dangers of uncleanliness, and it takes us twenty unnecessary motions to stoop to place it in a low cupboard and fish it out again. Hang up, place on shelves, put knives in strips of canvas, screw eyes on small pieces; use no closet doors if possible and let your kitchen be a real workshop.

POPULARITY OF LINEN.

Cool and Dainty Are Summer Suits In This Warm Weather Fabric.

Despite the popularity of cotton eponge or ratine, linen as a fabric for summer suits has many admirers, who claim that it is cooler than the newer materials. It certainly wrinkles and creases easier than eponge, although the ramie linen is not as great an offender in this respect as the French linen or crash.

There are some very effective shades in the new linens this season, so novel, so artistic that they have won many converts from the ranks of eponge enthusiasts. Yellow linen in a shade bordering on leaf green is one of the best liked of the new colors.

WHITE LINEN TRIMMED WITH CLUNY.

White linen, however, is always the standby of the conservative woman and the pretty dress illustrated is of white linen. It is well adapted for street wear because the linen of which it is made is not transparent and the simple bands of Cluny lace are put on with tailored effect.

The Color Note.

Whatever the fabric or fashion of your blouse, it should have on it somewhere a touch of color, for the all white blouse, it seems, is not in the running.

LIVE ISSUES DISCUSSED

Meeting of the Squantum Improvement Association

The condition of the waiting station of the Bay State Street railway company at Neponset and the conditions at the alleged odorless garbage disposal plant at Spectacle Island were severely condemned by speakers at the meeting of the Squantum Improvement association Wednesday night at the Richards house. President C. E. Carlson presided and the special guests of the evening were Ex-Representative Louis F. R. Langelier of Norfolk Downs, President Thomas of the Norfolk Downs Improvement Association and a member of the Quincy Board of Health, and Secretary David of the Atlantic Improvement association.

It was voted that the conditions at the Neponset waiting station be called to the attention of the Quincy Board of Trade as it is a matter that affects the residents of every part of Quincy. The secretary was also instructed to make a complaint to the Boston Board of health.

In the matter of the nuisance at Spectacle island it was voted to write a letter of protest to Commissioner of Public Works Rourke of Boston and that the following committee look after the matter if the matter is not rectified: President Carlson, Mr. Brooks of Atlantic and John R. Nelson.

C. N. Kenyon in his report as chairman of the street railway committee reported that complaints had been made of car crews not waiting for certain important trains at Atlantic. He said he had taken the matter up with Supt. Gammon and that instructions had been issued that the car crews wait for the following trains out of Boston— 12.36 noon, 1.17, 1.51 5.31, 5.43 and the 6.30. He asked that failures should be reported.

John R. Nelson made a report for the street and roads committee. He said that so far as the acceptance of Bellevue road and Huckins avenue were concerned they were a dead issue for this year. He said that the improvements made by private contributions had placed the streets in fairly good condition for this year. He hoped that this work might be carried on even further and that the little parks and the beach might be beautified and improved. He spoke of the fine work that Mr. Callahan, superintendent of the plant at Moon Island had done on Dorchester street and that this thoroughfare was now in very fine condition—thanks to the City of Boston.

Chairman Kenyon of the committee on lights reported that twelve of the fifteen lights given Squantum by Mayor Stone were now in position and that the matter of placing lights on Bay street, Huckins avenue and Orchard street were but a matter of a few days wait.

Chairman Smith of the minstrel show committee reported that the show to be given in Richards auditorium on the nights of Monday, June 16 and Tuesday, June 17, was well under way and that a first class performance was to be expected. He reported that $47.50 had been secured in advertising on the programs which had been distributed.

A report on garbage collection was made by Chairman Anderson. He reported that a contract had been made with Dr. Dalquist for the collection of garbage in this section and that the plan was working with success.

In regard to mosquito extermination Chairman Kenyon of the mosquito committee reported that $7 worth of oil had been purchased and that it was expected to arrive on Saturday. He said that the City of Quincy had loaned a sprayer. He asked for volunteers to meet him on Saturday to take up the work of sprinkling all stagnant pools on the marsh lands and at all places about Squantum.

The following committee was appointed to bring in a list of officers for nomination at the annual meeting the fourth Tuesday of June, Perley Bostwick, chairman, James H. Foster and Edward Eagar.

It was voted that Squantum have its annual Fourth of July celebration and on motion of Mr. Smith it was voted that the Squantum Woman's club be invited to join in this celebration and take an equal part in all the arrangements. The following committee was appointed from the association, C. N. Kenyon, chairman, John R. Nelson, John Holmes, Charles Watts, Mr. Paul, John Jepson, Edward Carlson, T. F. Callahan, Edward Bickley, James Loughan, James Allen, Frank Anderson, Warren Fifield, C. H. Singleton, Peter Olson.

This ended the formal business and President Carlson called upon Mr. Langelier who spoke interestingly of improvement association work. He said he was gratified to see the enthusiasm shown by the Squantum association.

Mr. Thomas spoke on the need of mosquito extermination work and gave some interesting points of how this work could be carried on. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock.

There was a difference of 25 degrees between the temperature at noon today and at the same hour Wednesday. The morning was rather warm but the wind shifted around to the east before noon sending the thermometer down a number of degrees.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

BASE BALL SCHEDULE

Fourth of July Committee to Consider on Friday

The Athletic committee on 4th of July celebration has secured the permits for all playgrounds for July 4th. This cancels all permits previously awarded.

There has been an appropriation of $150.00 to be used as prize money for baseball teams throughout the city on this day. Managers of the various baseball teams are requested to attend a meeting to be held in the Board of Trade rooms on Friday evening, June 13th, at 8 o'clock.

The business of the meeting will be to arrange a schedule of the contesting teams for the day. In order to be eligible for any of this prize money, attendance at this meeting is required.

HIGH SCHOOL GAME.

Quincy High school plays Melrose here on Friday afternoon at Merrymount Park. It will probably be the final game of the season and Quincy is desirous of tacking on another victory. They exhibited poor ball in the Milton game and lost at Braintree, 1 to 0. However, that run was scored on an overthrow to third by Hamlin who has been holding the requirements of his berth well in hand since assigned to the catcher's position. While it cost the game it was his first bad moment this season.

BACHELOR GIRLS.

The Samoset Bachelor Girls, consisting of young ladies from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth, closed their season Wednesday evening with a banquet at the Quincy House, Boston. In compliance with the strictness of the by-laws, no men were present. After the repast the annual election of officers took place and dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Miss Louise Glynn of Dorchester.

Mrs. Timothy Sullivan of Main street, a sister of two of the members was chaperon. The invited guests were Miss Agnes Ward of Braintree, Miss Louise Glynn of Dorchester and Miss Margaret Sullivan and Miss Teresa Tully, both of South Boston.

The officers chosen were: President Miss Nellie V. King; vice jresident, Miss Josephine Curran; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Connell; secretary, Miss Nancy Corcoran.

PARADE AND OUTING.

The New England conference of the Finnish Temperance League will be held in Quincy on Saturday, June 21, and Sunday, June 22. It includes a big parade of societies from the different Finnish settlements in New England, followed by an outing at Merrymount park. Five or six bands are expected and there will be various contests and sports for which prizes will be given. The indoor exercises on Sunday will be held at the Finnish Temperance hall on Arthur street.

The Makaria baseball team and the Clapp Memorial boys will play at Weymouth on Saturday afternoon.

Commissioner Tupper is doing a good job on Washington street between City Square and Canal street. This section of the street has been in bad condition for a long time and the thousands that use this street will appreciate the work that is being done.

MAKE MEN "RUBBERNECKS"

Women's Low Necks and Short Skirts Criticised by Police Chiefs

Washington, June 12.—Men aren't to be blamed if they take a "peek" at dresses cut low at the neck, high at the ankle and narrow all around, 400 police chiefs in convention here declared in discussing a resolution demanding a change in woman's styles and the abolishment of the turkey trot and other clinging forms of terpsichorean recreation.

Chief of Police Sylvester of Washington declared himself in favor of the gradual restriction and final abolishment of the "red light" districts, and flayed the modern cabaret cafes as dangerous to the morals of the young.

Other police heads attacked suggestive literature and plays, took wallops at the high cost of living because it prevents young men from marrying, and deplored the increase in drinking.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST MOROS IS OPENED

Disarmament of Tribes Is Object of Army Attack

Washington, June 12.—Complete disarmament of the semi-civilized tribes in the southern Philippines as a final step toward permanent peace in the archipelago is the object of the attack upon the Moros which Brigadier General Pershing began yesterday.

In the north disarmament has been affected peaceably and it had been hoped that, through the good offices of the Sultan of Jolo, the savage Mohammedan tribes in the Jolo group and in Mindanao might likewise be induced to give up their weapons.

Negotiations were carried on with the various dattos with the active sympathy and support of the Sultan of Jolo, but recent advices made it appear that the disarmament policy could be carried out only by force.

ELLISON TRUNK FORFEITED

It Led to Discovery of the Smuggling Frauds at Boston

Boston, June 12.—An order for the forfeiture to the United States government of the famous "M. Z. Ellison" trunk, seized by customs officers March 17, on the arrival of the Carpathia, was issued by Judge Morton in the United States district court. The contents of the trunk, valued at $4500 and including Parisian gowns and laces, will be sold at auction.

The seizure of the trunk resulted in the discovery of smuggling frauds at the local port, followed by a grand jury inquiry with five indictments.

The trunk was brought into this country by Kate A. Brennan, who sailed from New York and came back to this country by way of Boston under the name of Katherine Thomas.

ON HER MAIDEN TRIP

Giant Imperator Leaves Hamburg on Voyage to New York

Hamburg, June 12.—The Hamburg-American liner Imperator, the biggest passenger steamship now afloat, sailed from here on her maiden transatlantic voyage.

The leviathan was aflutter with flags from bow to stern, and a vast throng was at the pier to see her off. She carried a large list of passengers. The Imperator is due in New York June 18.

FLOUR BAG "BOMB" HURLED AT ASQUITH

Male Suffragette Sympathizer Startles House of Commons

London, June 12.—One of the wildest scenes that ever marked a session of the house of commons was enacted when a male suffragette sympathizer from the visitors' gallery hurled a bag of flour at Premier Asquith on the floor.

The missile narrowly missed the premier, who was speaking at the time, and when it hit the floor the bag burst and a cloud of flour spread over the ministerial benches, covering the cabinet members who were there.

The man who threw the flour also showered suffragette pamphlets on the members sitting below, shouting incoherently and wildly about the death of Emily Davison. He was finally subdued and arrested, amid great excitement.

London, June 12.—Lord Willoughby de Broke, chairman of the "British League for the Support of Ulster and the Union," has issued a lurid appeal for volunteers to join the league and "make ready to stand in the trenches with those who are going to defend our common inheritance."

The appeal states that the league has a hundred agents in different parts of Great Britain, engaged in organizing their fellow countrymen who are prepared "to reinforce Ulster men in armed resistance against the tyranny of the government."

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Ledger Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

If your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
If urinary troubles set in,
Perhaps your kidneys are "in a bad way."
Don't delay—use Doan's Kidney Pills.
Here is good evidence of their worth.
Mrs. S J. Mortimer, 9 Woodville St., Roxbury, Mass., says: "Kidney trouble made me miserable about six years ago. I had severe pains in my back and sometimes I could hardly move. It was next to impossible for me to do any housework. When I attempted to get up in the mornings, the pains were so bad that I had to roll out of bed on my hands and knees. If I moved quickly or brought a strain on my back, I would almost scream with the pain. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended to me that I got a box and began using them. The first few doses helped me and in less than a week, the trouble was gone. Whenever a cold or strain brings on an attack of kidney complaint, Doan's Kidney Pills cure it."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PUBLIC COURT INVESTIGATION

Considered Needless In the Dynamite Bribery Case

BUT ONE JUROR APPROACHED

Evidence Submitted to Grand Jury Does Not Implicate Defendants or Their Counsel In Any Way—Court Says Nothing Has Happened to Cloud the Jury System

Boston, June 12.—There will be no public court investigation of Morris Shuman's claim that while sitting as a juror in the dynamite trial he was approached and offered a bribe. There is no need for such an inquiry in the opinion of Judge Crosby, Henry F. Hurlburt of counsel for William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, who first requested it, and of District Attorney Pelletier, who has been conducting an inquiry into the matter before the grand jury.

When court opened Hurlburt said that inasmuch as Pelletier, following a grand jury probe of the matter, was satisfied that none of the attorneys for the defense or their clients had anything to do with the attempt to bribe Shuman, he thought it was unnecessary to have a public hearing.

Pelletier said he indorsed all Hurlburt had said and he was willing to leave it to the court as to whether the public hearing should be held. Crosby decided the hearing was not necessary in view of the turn affairs had taken.

Judge Crosby said: "The jury system has always been our pride and glory and I am very glad that nothing has happened in connection with this case to cloud it. I am glad to hear that no suspicion is connected with counsel or defendants. It was proper that this hearing be held, but in view of the complete grand jury hearing and the fact that there is no evidence to offer, in that no suspicion has attached itself to counsel or defendants in this case, I think it proper that this hearing should end."

The court then dismissed the jurors.

It was presumed from Pelletier's remarks in court that the grand jury would keep on with its inquiry into the claims made by Shuman. The district attorney gave no intimation as to the grand jury's action, if any, other than to announce that it, as well as himself, had become convinced that no other jurors had been approached and that not even a suspicion existed against counsel for the defendants, Wood, Atteaux and Collins, or against the defendants themselves.

THE JAPANESE PROTEST

Fourteenth Amendment Will Not Be Brought Up In Rejoinder

Tokio, June 12.—Japan has decided to omit from the text of its rejoinder to the American government's reply to the protest against the California alien land law the contention that it violates the fourteenth amendment, and leaves this point for discussion between Ambassador Chinda and Secretary of State Bryan.

The reason for this decision was the conviction that Japan's case, as a nation, would be stronger if based on the contention that the land bill violates the treaty.

The idea here is that the fourteenth amendment, as well as the constitutional prohibition against states passing laws impairing obligation contracts, might eventually be the basis for suits brought by the Japanese individuals.

MRS. DUKE IS NAMED

Wife of Former Congressman Pence Sues For Separation

New York, June 12.—Former Congressman Lafayette Pence of Colorado is defendant in a suit for separation begun here by his wife. She does not ask for absolute divorce, but charges extreme cruelty and abandonment and alleges continued misconduct with Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, divorced wife of the millionaire tobacco man.

"I have refrained from asking for a divorce," Mrs. Pence said, "because I do not want him to have a chance to marry that woman."

The Pences were married in 1886. After a term in congress he took up his law practice in Washington.

CATCHES UP WITH WESTON

Elmira, N. Y., June 12.—John Ennis, 71 years old, who set out from New York a day behind Edward P. Weston on a walking trip to Minneapolis, arrived here last night, where Weston also passed the night.

Weston is suffering from a wrenched knee, but otherwise is feeling fine. He arrived here late yesterday afternoon.

Death In Maine Mill Fire

Bangor, Me., June 12.—Dennis Chamberlain of Boston was burned to death in a fire which completely destroyed the plant of the Grand Island Lumber company at Grand Isle.

SHEFKET PASHA SLAIN

Grand Vizier of Turkey and His Aide Shot Down In Constantinople

Constantinople, June 12.—Mahmud Shefket Pasha, grand vizier of Turkey, and his military aide were shot to death by two assassins in the streets of Constantinople while automobiling to the sublime porte.

The murderers, who stood near the entrance to the building, fired upon the motor car with deadly aim.

The grand vizier, who came into power in February, has been exercising the prerogatives of military dictator. He was one of the chief leaders of the Young Turk party and the closest adviser of Enver Bey, the commander-in-chief of the Turkish army.

The grand vizier was undoubtedly slain in revenge for the murder of Nazim Pasha, war minister and commander-in-chief of the Ottoman army, who was shot down by Enver Bey last winter.

ACTED CONTRARY TO ADVICE OF BANKER

King George's Flyer In Canadian Pacific Cost Him $100,000

London, June 12.—King George is holding daily conferences with Sir George White, his private solicitor, as a consequence of heavy losses suffered in the recent big slump of the stock market. The consultations are to arrange for the realization on securities held in trust for the king.

The king's losses are understood to have resulted from extensive operations undertaken on his behalf in Canadian Pacific. Last week that stock declined fourteen points in the London market, and the king's loss is stated to be $100,000.

Lord Revelstroke is the king's private financial adviser, but the operations in Canadian Pacific were undertaken contrary to that banker's advice.

OATMEAL "TRUST" SUED

Government Wants Quaker Oats Company Enjoined as Illegal

Chicago, June 12.—The Quaker Oats company—the so-called oatmeal trust—controlling 90 percent of the oatmeal products and by-products of the country, was attacked by the federal government in a civil anti-trust suit filed here, charging a monopoly in "derogation of the common rights of the people of the United States" and in violation of the Sherman law.

The monopoly is declared to have been affected by combinations, conspiracies and unlawful acts in restraint of trade, to terminate which the government seeks various permanent injunctions. Pending final hearings of the case, the petition asks for a temporary injunction to bring about competition at once.

A SYMPATHETIC HEARER

Daniels Listens to Grievances Submitted by Navy Yard Employes

Washington, June 12.—Two hundred representatives of Atlantic coast navy yard employes found a sympathetic hearer in Secretary Daniels when they appeared at the navy department to submit various grievances.

The men complained about so-called "scientific" management systems and the lack of uniformity in wage scales, and insisted that they should have representation on the wage board of the various yards.

The secretary promised to give careful consideration to all of the propositions presented.

A GIRL IN A WINDOW

She Could See, but Not Be Seen

By ELLEN D. MORTON

Norman Kirtland spent the two weeks—in other words, the one twenty-sixth part of the year, which employers consider a sufficient proportion between work and play for their employees—at the seashore. Older persons, who have been hard worked for a long period, desire rest. The young dread such a spending of a vacation. Kirtland was twenty years old and devoted to boating. He owned a wherry that looked like a thin grasshopper, the outrigging and oars standing for the wings and legs. It was his pleasurable anticipation to pull himself about in this topply affair instead of forcing some other animal or some machine to do the work, as a man double his age would be inclined to do.

At Ocean Beach, where Kirtland spent his vacation, there were inlets, and when the wind was off shore and the water still he did not hesitate to go outside. Besides hotels, there were cottages all along the shore, and in them lurked danger for fine looking, muscular young men from pretty young girls.

In one of these cottages on a point of land made by an inlet and the ocean dwelt one of these dangers, Miss Edith Birney. She was of a dangerous age—eighteen—a dangerous disposition, and about her was a dangerous atmosphere. One morning from behind curtains she saw a stalwart young fellow in light boating apparel, displaying fine biceps, pulling past her summer house out into the ocean. Taking a marine glass, she brought it to bear on the boatman and saw that he was comely. Watching him, she saw him row to where a light swell was rolling, and he looked very attractive out there, "rocked in the cradle of the deep."

Kirtland sported on the surface of the water for an hour; then slowly and gracefully his sweeps brought him back into the inlet.

In nature a constant warfare goes on. Among nations some use enormous guns, some are inventing aeroplanes from which to drop bombs on their enemies, while others fill their harbors with mines to destroy ships. Now, there is also a warfare in love, and Kirtland, though unconscious of danger, was about to run upon a petard that might hoist him clean out of his bachelorhood and drop him into the slough of matrimony.

He was pulling along lazily when something drifted by him that attracted his attention. It was a bottle about whose neck was tied a bright red ribbon—doubtless to catch the eye—and that it had been placed there by a woman was evident from the fact that it had been tied in a bowknot. Kirtland backed water, took up the bottle and saw that it was tightly corked, with a bit of white paper inside. Taking out the cork, he managed with the aid of a fishhook to extract the paper. On one side was written, "We are lost." It would perhaps have been more to the point if the words had been, "You are lost." On the other side were two letters, E. B., and a strand of very fair hair, almost white hair, was folded in a smaller bit of paper within the larger one.

When Kirtland read the words "We are lost" he at once concluded that he had picked up a message from some ship that had gone down, but when he noticed the initials and saw the strand of fine hair he was puzzled. The hair was undoubtedly that of a woman, and a woman about to go down to the bottom of the ocean is not likely to put her initials on paper with a lock of her hair. She would be more likely to write her full name, with a farewell message to loved ones far away.

While Kirtland sat in the boat trying to decipher this message from the sea a pair of eyes behind a double barreled gun of aluminium and glass, protected by an embankment of lace curtains, were aimed straight at him. Unconscious of any lurking enemy, he was right in the line of fire. The girl behind the gun seemed to take an inexpressible delight in his apparent surprise, and when he carefully folded the paper about the lock of hair and slipped it into his canvas shoe—he had no pocket—her face broke into a smile of triumph. Then the young man pulled away toward his boathouse.

There is a peculiar stupidity about most very young men as to the tricks and the manners of the opposite sex. Kirtland had no more idea that the bottle he had picked up had been thrown into the water purposely for him than he had that the thrower, instead of being out at sea, was watching him from a house a few hundred yards away. Nevertheless there was a sentiment about that lock of hair, and he was not so obtuse as not to suppose that the initials E. B. referred to the owner. But that the lock had been cut from the head of a pretty girl purposely for him was furthest from his thoughts.

That very night at a dance at one of the hotels he noticed a girl dressed in garments so pure and spotless and white and simple that no one would have supposed she would be capable of lassoing a pet lamb. And Kirtland was especially struck with the fact that her hair was so light that it was almost white. Indeed, it was exactly the shade of the lock he had found in the bottle. But—and here comes in an instance of man's stupidity in woman's ways—no one could have beaten it into his head with an argumentative sledge-hammer that the lock of hair he had in his vest pocket nearest his heart had been cut from the head of that angel in immaculate white.

The toils these creatures throw out are of the finest texture, so fine that no one would suspect that they lead up to a cable. Kirtland did not analyze the connection between the silken strands in his pocket and the coiffure on the girl's head. But it existed all the while, and she had intended that it should exist. Mind you, I don't say that she laid down a definite plan of procedure. She did it by that unconscious genius for such work which is inborn in womankind. At any rate, without that lock of hair and its sentimental connection with the coiffure there is no reason to suppose that Kirtland would have hunted all over the room for some one who could introduce him to the girl concerning whom this sentiment existed.

He inquired who she was and was told that she was a Miss Birney—Miss Edith Birney. But this did not convey any information to him, as it might have done had he not been stupidly blind. They say love is blind. That must refer to the man.

He found the introducer and was received by the girl with reserve. He danced with her once; then she suggested that the air in the room being close, she would like a few minutes on the veranda. Standing there looking down on the narrow water leading out into the ocean on which he had been rowing that day, Kirtland was reminded of his find and spoke of it to his companion.

"How sad!" she said feelingly. "Do you suppose all on board went down?"

"I am not certain whether it was a shipwreck or one of those messages that persons are always throwing into the water to make fools of the finders."

"Have you heard of any ship being lost?" she asked.

"No; I haven't. And I don't believe the bottle was thrown from a sinking ship at all. If so the name of the vessel would have been given. It more likely was tossed off from some yacht or other craft. I think it must have been some fool girl did it, for it contained a lock of hair."

The young lady winced at this, but did not betray herself.

"Are you a cottager," asked Kirtland, "or do you stop at a hotel?"

"A cottager. That's our cottage over there where the inlet joins the ocean."

"Indeed. I often pull by there on my way outside."

"Do you?"

"Yes; usually when it's calm on the ocean. "I think I will be able to go out tomorrow morning."

"If I happen to be about and see you I'll wave to you."

Then they went inside and danced together, and somehow no one attempted to take the girl away from Kirtland, and Kirtland didn't seem to want to get away from the girl. He kept looking at her light hair, tinged with yellow, and thinking of its counterpart in his pocket, and the more he thought about it the more a peculiar feeling grew within him that he did not seek to analyze, but found very pleasant. When the two separated the spider had got the fly inside the outer web, and the next move would be to ask him to walk into her parlor.

This second part came the next day. Kirtland pulled by the house out to sea, but looked in vain for the girl who lived there. However, when he pulled back she was down at the private landing, pretending to engage herself with the boats. Kirtland pulled in to the landing. The girl looked surprised, but pleased, and invited him to the house for a glass of wine and a biscuit.

Kirtland, being in boating costume, declined the invitation, whereupon the young lady suggested that the refreshments could be served in the summer house. At this he accepted, and the two walked up to the place in question. He found a very dainty and at the same time comfortable stopping place. There were easy wicker chairs, a table with books and magazines in it and a hammock. If "the fly" had realized how he was being entangled doubtless the words of the rime would have occurred to him—

It's the prettiest little parlor that ever you did spy.

It is useless to follow this spider and fly process any further. The main work had been done, the fly being in the parlor. And it is to be supposed that the girl who had the ingenuity to get him there would have no difficulty in keeping him. The rest required time, but it was dead easy. Kirtland went back to business not knowing whether he was on his heels or his head. He had proposed to Miss Birney and was told that she must have some time to consider. She took time enough to drive him to the border of despair, but not over it.

One day soon after their marriage Mrs. Kirtland fished a lock of very light hair out of her husband's pocket.

"What's this, dear?" she asked, with a touch of reproach in her voice and in her beautiful eyes.

"That?" he said meditatively. "Oh, I remember! That's the lock of hair I took out of that bottle I picked up that some silly girl probably threw from a boat out at sea to make a guy of some fellow. I kept it because it was very like your hair."

"How sweet of you!"

She kissed him, but did not tell him who was the silly girl or the fellow of whom she made a guy.

And yet a young man is considered to be expanding into one of the lords of creation and a young girl is considered a budding innocent.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

BAKED BEANS.

WHEN baking beans why follow the old familiar style? Why not give variety to the dish by preparing the beans in one of the many different ways in which they may be baked?

Beans Cooked With Pork.

Baked Beans With Salt Pork.—Take a quart of navy beans and soak them overnight and parboil till tender. Place in a bean pot and cover with hot water. Add one tablespoonful of molasses, one tablespoonful of ketchup, one teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of soda. Have one-third of a pound of good salt pork and press it down into the beans. Bake in a slow oven six hours. One hour before serving remove lid from bean pot and let beans brown.

Two Novel Methods.

Baked Beans, New York Style.—Take a quart of pea or navy beans and soak overnight. In the morning pour off the water and put in cold water to boil. When they reach the boiling point drain. Cover again with boiling water and simmer till they begin to crack. Pour off the water and into a deep pan of granite ware or tin put a layer of the beans. Have ready three-quarters of a pound of mixed salt pork, score and put in the middle of the pan, rind side up. Mix together a tablespoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of pepper and a saltspoonful of mustard, dissolved in a pint of hot water and pour over the beans. This should cover the pork all but the rind. Add hot water to cover and bake in a slow oven six or eight hours, adding more water as it boils away.

Baked Beans With Nut Butter.—Soak a pint of white beans over night. Simmer until tender in fresh water and season with a teaspoonful of salt when about half cooked. Let them be quite juicy when taken from the kettle. Add a tablespoonful of molasses, place in a deep crock and stir over two good tablespoonfuls of nut butter. Bake in a slow oven for two or three hours or until they assume a reddish brown tinge. Add some boiling water if they become too dry. Turn into a shallow dish and brown the top nicely before sending to the table.

Baked Bean Salad.—When cold baked beans are on hand they may be made up into a salad as follows: Take a pint of them, the juice of half a lemon, a finely chopped shallot, the white of a stick of celery, some stoned olives and mayonnaise. Put the baked beans into a salad bowl with the lemon juice, the shallot and the celery shredded. Add the mayonnaise and garnish with the stoned olives and slices of fresh tomatoes, if these are available.

BUFFALOES IN CONVENTION

Quincy Men Prominent in This Benevolent Order

The annual convention of the Supreme herd, Benevolent Order Buffalo of the World, held at Worcester, June 10 and 11 came to a close Wednesday evening at 11 o'clock. The local subordinate herd of Quincy, No. 1, was represented by three Supreme delegates, H. F. Seldon, A. I. Dixon and Thomas Flaherty.

The report of the supreme secretary Charles H. Finn of Wollaston, was of an exhaustive nature and gave in detail the work accomplished by the supreme and subordinate herds during the year. That part of the report dealing with the financial condition of the order was a revelation to the delegates. The report showed the finances to be in a most healthy and gratifying condition and augured well for the future of the order. The progress of the order in the New England states was most satisfactory and the announcement that three subordinate herds would be instituted in the far west in July was greeted with applause by all present.

After acting upon the amendments as submitted by the member and subordinate heads, the following letters were read: One from Dr. J. T. Reynolds of Quincy Supreme medical examiner stating he would find it a physical impossibility to again accept the position, and a written statement from Martin T. Joyce Supreme President that he could not accept a re-election, Resolutions were adopted, regretting the inability of these two Supreme offices to accept a re-election.

The new supreme president is W. F. Hart of Beverly, C. H. Finn of Wollaston continues as secretary, and H. Seldon of Quincy is supreme inside guard.

The headquarters of the order are in Quincy, and brought to our city on a visit over 1000 strangers the past year.

Hastings, Jr., and Orlando B. Hastings of New York City, ushered.

The wedding took place on the lawn, the foliage of trees, shrubs and flowers making a beautiful background for the bridal group and for the receiving line. An informal reception followed the ceremony, the parents of the bride and groom assisting them in receiving.

Only the immediate family, relatives and very intimate friends were present at the ceremony and reception.

After a wedding trip the young people will make their future home in Chicago.

WOMEN INTERESTED.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ward Six Patriotic Association held a business meeting at headquarters, 5 Botolph street, Wednesday evening. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Alfred Jelenek. Mrs. Charles E. Cherrington was elected secretary after which considerable business relative to the Fourth of July and its celebration was transacted. The ladies all seem very enthusiastic to make this year's parade a banner one, and several appointments were made of women who will have charge of several of the floats. Another meeting will be held Friday evening, June 13, and it is hoped that the ladies of the ward will be well represented. The young ladies are requested to assist also and to be present.

FOURTH OF JULY FUNDS

Reports of Collections at the Meeting This Evening

Another meeting of the general committee o fthe Fourth of July celebration committee will be held tonight in the rooms of the Board of Trade, and a general invitation is extended to all interested to be present and give any ideas they may have that will make the celebration a success. The time is growing short and while many of the details of the celebration have been completed much more remains to be done. One o the prinicpal items that is incomplete is the collections.

The collectors in the different wards have been hard at work this week and in several wards a canvass for funds is being made in a systematic manner and good results should follow. Reports will probably be made tonight by the several ward committees and then some idea may be had of what amount will be raised.

It is probable that the buttons ordered by the committee will be received this week and they will soon be for sale by the Boy Scouts.

Several committees of the Board of Trade were in session Thursday evening in the offices adjoining the rooms of the board which were being occupied by the Fourth of July committee. In one office was the special committee arranging for a float for the parade on the Fourth. In another office was the special committee on entertaining the visiting granite men who will come to Quincy during the Retail Dealers convention in Boston next August. This committee will meet a committee from the Granite Manufacturers association and cooperate with them.

The most important committee was the public service committee who took up the matter of the rates charged for electric light. With this committee were representatives from all of the improvement societies of the city and the question was fully discussed, the general consensus of opinion being that the rates were higher than they should be.

No definite action was taken other than to appoint a sub committee to meet Treasurer Henry M. Faxon of the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company for a conference on the matter, after which the subject will be taken up again by the public service committee.

OUTLET FOR ROCK ISLAND

Land Owners Offer Land Free for New Street

The poor approach to Rock Island has been the subject of an annual controversey between residents of Houghs Neck and councilmen. The tender of a strip of land 20 feet wide by John T. Cavanagh and William Norteman, providing the city accepts it this year offers a solution. The land is situated between Sea street and Rock Island and is but a short distance compared to the present route.

The offer was made at the meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates Wednesday evening, and followed a discussion during which inconveniences to residents and obstacles to rapid runs by the fire department were brought out. A committee has been appointed to bring the matter before the State Board of Education and the State Board of Underwriters.

The following committee was appointed to unite the voters irrespective of party who support Houghs Neck measures: W. H. Buchan, chairman; M. F. Curran, secretary; A. C. Helfrich, P. F. O'Brien, A. F. Baker, E. F. O'Connell, William Norteman, F. O. Fellows, M. G. Coughlin, D. F. Fenner, R. Ring and J. Merriam.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Norfolk County championship doubles will commence on the courts of the Wollaston Tennis Club Saturday afternoon and continue through the 17th. Well known metropolitan players are entered. The cup defenders F. H. Harris and C. R. Currier will face an eager array of contestants. Among those now entered are W. W. Gallagher & R. M. Currier, Barker & Hillman, Porter & Bray, Pfaffmann & Niles, Davenport & Niles, Campbell & Evarts, Warner & Chapin.

All the changes contemplated in the fire alarm system this year were finished Thursday, when the electricians cut in box 172 at South Walnut and Oak street. The re-arrangement has been complete in Wards One and Two.

ENTHUSIASM FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Committee Will Need About $2,500 to Carry Out Its Program

Board of Trade to Enter Float in the Parade

Another enthusiastic meeting of the Fourth of July Celebration committee was held Thursday evening and from the enthusiasm shown it seems as though this year's celebration should be a rouser. Of course much depends upon the amount that is collected

The collectors in the different wards are hard at work and while no definite report of the amount raised was given out Thursday night, it was intimated that more enthusiasm was shown than last year.

While it has been stated that $2,000 was necessary in order to carry out the program as outlined, it is believed that to meet all of the demands even more than this will be required. Really the committee should not have less than $2,500 and this sum will be the goal.

CHILDREN'S ENTERTAINMENT.

Harry G. Studley of the Childrens entertainment, reported that Kincaide's theatre would seat 1375 and the auditorium 570, which means that practically 2000 children can be accommodated. At Kincaide's theatre there will be a special entertainment for the children and the moving pictures will include those of the local fire department, the Grand Army parade and a school scene. A program especially for children will also be given at the Auditorium. Extra ushers will be provided and water will be passed among the children between the numbers and pictures.

After some discussion it was thought that the best way to give out the tickets was for the masters of the several schools to give out notice for the children to find out from their parents who could attend and he would report back to the committee who would distribute the tickets before the schools close.

Mr. Studley announced that he had appointed A. J. LaCroix and Daniel Scouler, Jr., on his committee.

AUTOMOBILE PRIZES.

Chester I. Campbell said that he would see that every automobile owner in Quincy received a special invitation by mail to participate in the parade of the automobile division. He also asked what amount had been alloted to him for prizes.

It was then voted that $100 be appropriated for the automobile for prizes, etc., and the sum of $25 additional for buglers for this division. Mr. Campbell said that after consultation with Chairman Wardwell of the parade committee he would announce his route and the time for the start. He rather favored having the automobile parade start just ahead of the feature parade.

THE PARADE.

Capt. Wardwell of the general parade committee said that his committee were considering the route but that it could not be given out until it had been gone over. It was planned however this year to have the parade start at South Quincy and to take in Granite and School street, Elm, Washington, Sumner, Hancock, past the reviewing stand. He said that experience had shown that it was impossible to get a

Greater Quincy people do not want "cheap stuff." They want and demand the best and in this Modern Market they can find find as high quality goods as can be found any Boston market and at a lower price. It is an idle dream thinking that people hereabouts care only for second grade goods. The success of this market shows that the thinking people want food articles that are above suspicion.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMONS.

Baccalaureate Sunday used to be merely a college affair. The picture had a university atmosphere, with black gowned seniors gathering in a chapel rich in scholastic associations.

Now even grammar schools have a "baccalaureate Sunday." But the massing of class forces to hear a message of idealism is a useful function, whether it be the prospective bachelors of arts, or the fourth graders just about to receive their diplomas from the primary school.

It is a period when many young people first realize that life is a little different game from what they thought. Heretofore, to paraphrase Mr. Browning, the spirit has worked merely lest arms or legs want play.

Now they have come to a turn in the road. But life is still a game, or it may be to all who have the true zest of living. There is a whole lot of fun in making yourself a better lawyer or a better merchant than your neighbor, if you can only see it.

After graduation the game is a patient working for distant results. When you knock the ball to the far outfield, and your twinkling feet chase around the bases, while flying fielders pursue the work of your skillful bat, you get results immediately, you have "what you want when you want it." When you plant and hoe your corn better than your neighbor, you wait until distant autumn to win your triumph. And there are no howling bleachers to recognize success.

The baccalaureate preacher should discriminate. The deafening voices of the world estimate success in terms of money, automobiles and stately houses. The still small voice puts it in terms of honest labor, kindly friendship, and the serene heart. Choose ye this day whom ye shall serve!

Tomorrow is Flag Day and patriotic citizens should show their colors. Never was there a time when there was need of inculcating a spirit of patriotism among the rising generation than today, when there are societies whose principles are against the flag and what it stands for. Right here in Quincy we have a society who will not display the American flag in their parades until forced to do so by the authorities. They claim that the red flag is the only emblem that stands for liberty.

The federal health service calls for pure water and clean ice in railway watertanks, but unfortunately it does not demand that the roads serve ice cream to passengers.

Owing to the tremendous demand for Admiral Sigsbee's bath tub taken from the Maine,, it is too bad they did not also save his cuspidor and his garbage pail for public exhibition.

The statement that Mr. Bryan does his own marketing regularly is denied Probably he pays 20 per cent higher prices to give the grocer's boy his free rides like the rest of us.

It is pointed out that most cities are spending two or three times as much as they were 15 years ago, but no one seems to care as long as the money can be borrowed.

Secretary Bryan used four pens in signing the 17th amendment. It usually takes that number before you find one that won't splutter.

The kids don't want to go to Sunday school, but they are sometimes willing to do so as a personal favor to the teachers.

Now that collectors have been provided for, there seems no further reason for retaining the special stamps for parcel post packages.

The war talk has died down, but luckily for the yellow journals people still keep on being divorced.

The trusts don't object to taxes. Every levy of one per cen gives them an excuse for putting prices up two.

REAR END CRASH ON NEW HAVEN

Five Passengers Killed and Twenty-Five Seriously Injured

ENGINE SMASHES PARLOR CAR

Engineer, Who Is Said to Have Run by Signals Set Against Him, Sticks to His Post After Warning Crew and Is Unhurt—Injured Priest Proves a Hero

Stamford, Conn., June 13.—The second section of the Springfield express on the New Haven road ran down the first section in the station here. Five persons were killed and a score injured when the engine of the second section plowed through the Pullman car Skylark, on the rear of the leading train.

Blinded by an electric flash on the overhead electric system here, it is said, Engineer Doherty of the second section ran by signals set against him.

This is the explanation of the wreck given by New Haven officials. Last October eight persons were killed on this express at Westport, Conn., in a wreck from a similar cause.

Striking the fated Pullman at the speed of twenty-five miles an hour, the heavy engine tore it to shreds for forty feet. Mrs. Edward J. Kelly of Winthrop, Mass., was among its occupants who were taken out dead. Her husband was badly injured.

Engineer Doherty, waving his arms to warn the crew of the doomed train, stuck to his post and came out of the accident unscathed. Hardly had the trains crashed when the Pullman caught fire. The local department put out the blaze in time to save the lives of those caught in the demolished car.

The hero of the wreck was Fr. Anthony Berhler of New York, a Catholic priest, passenger in the Skylark. Badly hurt himself he forbade any one to attend to him till the more seriously injured were cared for and hastened to the side of the dying passengers to give them consolation.

Early arrivals on the scene found him taking full charge of the rescue work and he refused to go to the Stamford hospital, where the wounded were cared for, till all his fellow passengers had been looked out for.

The New England travelers who lost their lives included Frank K. Canfield of Springfield, Mass., and H. G. Howe of Hartford. Some of the injured may die, it is said.

In the Pullman car there were thirty-one passengers and practically all of these were more or less injured.

According to an official statement given out by the railroad, indications are that the engineer of the second section ran by both the distance and home signals.

The first section of the train, which made up in Boston, reached here on time and was halted momentarily to change the power from steam to electricity. While awaiting orders to proceed the second section rounded a curve at high speed and crashed into the last Pullman car. The engine plunged through the car for forty feet, the smokestack protruding through the roof of the Pullman.

This car was well filled and that more persons were not killed outright is considered miraculous.

BEGINS LIFE SENTENCE

Boy of Fourteen Convicted of Killing Woman and Two Children

Joliet, Ills., June 13.—A boy in knee pants, who looked like the average run of boys 12 to 13 years old and wearing the embarrassed grin of the lad who has been called in from play "to speak his piece for company," began a life term in the penitentiary here for the recent murder of a woman and two babies.

The boy was Herman Coppes, 14 years old, who last April shot and killed Mrs. Mannie Sleep at her farm home in East Plato, and brained her two children, a boy of 2 and a girl of 4 years. He is the youngest life convict who has ever entered the state prison.

THREAT OF LABOR MEN

May Declare General Strike of All Unionists In Kansas City

Kansas City, June 13.—If the 250 building contractors who on Monday instituted a lockout against 5000 union men belonging to organizations affiliated with the building trades council attempt to employ non-union men in place of those locked out the industrial council will declare a general strike of all the union men in the city.

This was the announcement from headquarters of the building trades council last evening.

Break In Fear of Brandeis

Boston, June 13.—It was said on State street that yesterday's sharp decline in New Haven stock to 99½ was due to the rumor from Washington that Louis D. Brandeis would be appointed special government prosecutor in an action to dissolve the New Haven corporation under the Sherman anti-trust law.

PET OF ROYAL FAMILY.

Princess Mary of England a Pretty, Unaffected Girl.

An interesting young woman is the Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary of England. Princess Mary, or "May," as she is called by the family, grows more like her mother every day, her friends say, not only in looks, but in disposition.

The young princess, who is now sixteen, is the pet of the whole of the royal family, and Queen Mary has been heard to declare on many occasions that her only daughter will be completely spoiled one of these days.

The princess is an excellent swimmer and has been trained in this art chiefly at the Bath club in Dover street, Piccadilly. A bathing pavilion was built a few years ago for the use of the Prince of Wales' family on the beach at Snettisham, near Sandringham, and here Princess Mary has her dip regularly every morning when she is staying at York cottage and the weather is suitable.

PRINCESS MARY OF ENGLAND.

Princess Mary has received lessons in cooking and displays considerable ability in this art. It is her great delight to be allowed to make the cakes and delicacies for a picnic in Windsor forest or the woods and moors around Balmoral, while tokens of her skill find their way at regular intervals to her brothers at school.

Her royal highness is in every respect a typical English girl, with a bright, merry disposition and a fund of good spirits that nothing seems to damp.

There is not the slightest degree of affectation about her, and one might talk to her for hours before realizing that she is the only daughter of the king of England and the emperor of the British dominions beyond the seas.

TROOPS GOING TO PACIFIC.

Men Rushed to Western Posts as Fast as Recruited.

Much comment has been created recently by the movement of troops to United States stations in and along the Pacific. For several weeks there has been great activity in moving troops from stations in the United States proper to those at Honolulu and other insular possessions.

The stations along our western Pacific coast also have been strengthened of late.

As fast as recruits can be turned into soldiers at Fort Slocum, N. Y., and other recruiting stations in the east they are being shipped to the west.

SOLDIERS EMBARKING AT NEW YORK FOR TRIP TO PACIFIC.

Of course, in view of the trouble occasioned by the California alien land bill, there were immediately rumors to the effect that the United States was preparing for war, or, at any rate, was counting on the possibility of war and not taking any chances of being unprepared.

Naturally also the inference was that trouble was expected from the far east, since the soldiers were being moved to Pacific stations.

To all these rumors, however, war department officials replied that the troops were being sent to strengthen garrisons and stations which had less than the number of men usually kept at such places even in times of peace.

OUTING AT PLYMOUTH

Quincy Point Ladies Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Holman

A very enjoyable day was spent Wednesday by the Ladies Aid of the Quincy Point church, with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Holman at their home in Kingston.

Mrs. Holman met the party of twenty ladies at the train, some going on cars to the house others walking so as to enjoy the beautiful views and scenery.

Their home is one of the old Brewster homesteads, and many exclamations of delight and surprise were heard as they went from room to room.

A dainty but pleasing luncheon was served at noon, of tomato soup, chicken salad, egg salad, olives, sandwiches pies, fancy cakes and coffee.

In the afternoon they all journeyed to Plymouth, and called on Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Marshall, former pastor, and visits were made to Plymouth rock, the monument and the church of the Pilgrimage, where Mr. Marshall, is now pastor. Returning, afternoon tea was served at Mrs. Marshall's.

All in all the day was enjoyably spent, Mr. and Mrs. Holman proving themselves very pleasing host and hostess.

Among those in the party were Mrs. Augusta Harlow, Miss F. Sheppard, Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Lincoln, Jr., Mrs. A. Foster, Mrs. C. W. Newcomb, Mrs. Bonney, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. E. R. Stone, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. G. Bailey, Mrs. McKenny, Mrs. Fitton and little daughter Gertrude, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Eaton of Brockton, Mrs. Adams of East Weymouth, Mrs. Shirley and Mrs. Sherburne.

NEW SHOW AT KINCAIDE'S.

Great applause from more than a thousand people greeted the elveen clever artists known locally as "The Kincaide Players," as Thursday night they presented the second of their series of light, lively, musical comedies.

"Miss Primm's School" is a furious funfest from beginning to end. Miss Rose Maurer, the tall slim comedienne of the company, plays the part of teacher to perfection. It is school committee visiting day and of course "the children" show what they can do. And incidentally a few pranks not prescribed by school rules are given for good measure.

Among the many song hits were "A great big girl like me," by Lucey Grover; "Toyland" by Miss Wood; "Good bye boys," by George T. Davis; "When the rainbow shines bright at morn" by Jack Wyatt; "I'm looking for a perfect man by Rose Mauer; "If I were in love with you" by Mr. Lewis and Miss Wood, with Mr. Jocelyn at the piano.

The company will present this comedy afternoon and evenings for the remainder of this week. Beginning Monday they present "London Cabret.". Vaudeville and pictures last night were mighty good. The picture taken last week of the Quincy Fire Department and other local views is being finished and will be shown at an early date.

MANY PRIZES.

"Nimrod" Elcock took her prize winning dogs to the kennel show in Auburndale on Tuesday and as usual carried off about all there was worth taking in the way of prizes. Her dogs took the first winner and seven specials, the Canada Canadian medal and $15 in cash, and prizes for the best Fox hound in the show, and a prize for the best female hound in the show. Her famous dog Comet also took the first winner. Comet has been exhibited at many shows and has never been defeated, for he has always carried off the best prize that was offered.

TO BE BUILT AT NAVY YARD.

Secretary Daniels has issued orders that battleship, No. 39 authorized at the last session of Congress shall be built at the New York navy yard. It will be almost a duplicate of the Pennsylvania now building at Newport News.

parade in perfect shape to pass the reviewing stand at the start and that a better show could be made by having it pass the reviewing stand later in the parade. The route proposed would not exceed three miles.

BATTLESHIP EXPECTED.

President Stone read a letter from Senator Lodge, which was a copy of the letter the Senator had received from Secretary of the Navy Daniels. This letter stated that the assignment of battleships for the Fourth had not been made as yet and that every effort would be made to have a battleship in Quincy waters.

BOY SCOUTS ACTIVE.

B. F. Hodgkinson Jr., of the Emergency committee reported that the Boy Scouts were drilling for the day and that there was great rivalry among them as to who was the best at signaling, and he had proposed a contest for which he would give two prizes. He further said that the exhibition would be a good one. He also desired a half dozen army blankets for his emergency exhibition.

PUBLICITY.

Dr. Gilson of the Publicity committee reported that the large posters for store windows were all ready and he hoped everybody would take some home and see that they were posted. He also said that he had ordered 500 posters for the street cars. He would start booming the celebration in the local papers after the Seventeenth.

THREE BANDS.

A. L. Whitman of the music committee announced that two bands and a drum corps had been engaged to report at 7.30 in the morning.

FUNDS SOLICITED.

The letter to be sent to the various organizations urging co-operation and soliciting funds was read. These were placed in the mail Thursday evening and were sent to every organization and society in the city.

BOARD OF TRADE FLOAT.

At this point President Hamilton came in and announced that the Board of Trade would get up a float for the parade and he desired that the Board of Trade be given the right of the line. It was voted that the sense of the meeting was that it should have the right of line and the matter was left to the chairman of the parade committee.

Mr. Campbell said any letters to him regarding the automobile division could be forward to his home address, 42 Belmont street, Wollaston. He also said that he would select a committee from the automobile owners in the city to assist him.

It was announced that the buttons had been ordered and that they were probably shipped Thursday and would be ready for distribution this week.

A meeting of the parade committee will be held Monday evening at which time the route will be decided upon. Other meetings of the different committees will be held and another meeting of the general committee will be held next Thursday evening.

Ex-Mayor Shea of the reception committee was present and said that he could not make his plans for the reception of the officers of the battleship until he had received more definite information, but that if a battleship was assigned to Quincy he would see to it that the officers were properly entertained.

AMUSEMENTS

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Royal Mounted" will be another of John Craig's new productions at the Castle Square. It will be given there on Monday for the first time in Boston, and it will take the audience to the picturesque regions of the Canadian Northwest. The story of the play, with its multitude of exciting events, and variety of characters, gives four acts of continuous entertainment, and during it the audience is kept in a constant state of eager expectancy. The authors are William C. and Cecil DeMille, and among the characters that make up their plot are taciturn Canucks, rough of manner and quaint of speech. The hero is a lieutenant in the Canadian northwestern police, and he goes through a series of exciting adventures in love and in detective work.

The cast at the Castle Square will be a strong and effective one, and the hero, Victor O'Byrne, will be played by William P. Carleton. All the other members of Mr. Craig's company will be carefully cast, and they are certain to give an effective performance of this new and notable drama. The season at the Castle Square is rapidly approaching its close, and the last week will come immediately after "The Royal Mounted."

BOSTON THEATRE.

Preserving the many charms which has made it one of the greatest successes of the stage, "The Old Homestead" continues its engagement at the Boston Theatre. That there is no longer a Denman Thompson to interpret the leading role makes no difference to the public, apparently, for the audiences are as enthusiastic as they are numerous. Indeed, the venerable "Uncle Josh" of real life, could he have lived to see his successor would have marveled at the faithful representation given this famous character by Edward L. Snader. Mr. Snader's characterization is little short of remarkable, so vividly does he portray the role as originally created by Mr. Thompsbn.

The audiences include many gray-haired men and women who come to enjoy again the quaint sayings, the homely philosophy, the sympathy, the generosity and the delicious humor of "Uncle Josh"" Whitcomb. There were also many young people who reveled in the wholesome comedy and sincere pathos. Happily there has been no attempt to modernize the text. All temptation to introduce novelties or "bring it up to date" has been resisted. It is the same as ever, from the hayload drawn by a pair of oxen in the first act to the Virginia reel at the end of the last act.

A notable feature as in former years, is the double quartette, which is made up of excellent voices. The audience demonstrate its approval frequently by calling for half a dozen encores, which are cheerfully given. The other singing is equally as effective and pleasing.

B. F. KEITH'S.

Vinie Daly, the popular Boston musical comedy favorite, who has just returned from Europe, will make her re-appearance in vaudeville in this country at B. F. Keith's Theatre on Monday afternoon. As leading lady with George M. Cohan in "George Washington, Jr." and numerous other successes, Miss Daly has been studying for grand opera abroad during the past two years. It is especially fitting that she should make her re-appearance on the American stage at B. F. Keith's Theatre, where she has so often sang and danced as a vaudeville headliner. Miss Daly will be but one feature of a really great summer show. Jack Kennedy and his players will present that most amusing of comedies, "A Business Proposal," while Kimberly and Mohr have a most novel offering in the comedy line entitled "In Clubland," introducing some splendid songs. Leitzel Sisters and Jeanette, the Spanish aerialists, will display their skill on the trapeze; O'Brien and Havel have a funny skit called "Monday Morning," full of bright lines and clever situations; and other strong features will be The Stanleys in "Shadow Fun in Silhouetteland"; Sue Smith, the singing comedienne; Miller and Mack, eccentric dancers; Lord and Payne, comedy acrobats; The Edison Kinetophone with the latest talking motion pictures; Pathe Weekly, with the world's current events pictured in motion.

The Meistersingers of Boston, composed of the famous Harvard, Schubert and Weber Quartets, will make their third annual summer appearance at B. F. Keith's Theatre very shortly in a brand-new spectacular production.

Miss Minnie McNeice of 29 Holmes street and Edward Smith of 23 Holmes street were married Wednesday evening at the parochial residence of Rev. John P. Cuffe. The couple are well known in Atlantic.

JUST AND FAIR TREATMENT

Railroad President Makes Appeal to New England

Over 700 members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and other commercial organizations of New England assembled at the Copley Plaza on Thursday evening to hear the plea of the presidents of three of the largest railroad systems in the United States Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio; W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central, and Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In their addresses these three presidents laid before the public the critical condition of the railroads of the country at the present time; the necessity of getting cheaper money for railroad purposes; finally—and most important—the absolute necessity of raising freight rates at least 5 per cent in the district east of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac Rivers to enable the railroads to do their work in a satisfactory manner.

The addresses were in the nature of an appeal to the public for just and fair treatment, and the event itself was one of the most remarkable in the history of the railroads of the country.

UMPIRE RIGLER DOESN'T STUDY NATURAL HISTORY.

Cy Rigler of the National league staff of umpires is not a student of natural history. Earl Blackburn, utility catcher of the Reds, on the other hand, is, and as a result the Cincinnati team is telling a capital story on Rigler.

While loafing on the players' bench during a game at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, recently, Blackburn opened a book and started to read a story of the African rhinoceros. Becoming interested, he read aloud to the other players:

"The rhinoceros is a beast of low intelligence and insatiate appetite. Its hide is three inches thick and is impervious to any bullet or shock, however powerful."

He got no further in his reading, for Rigler turned with a frown and said: "That will do for you. I heard every word you said and will stand for no personalities from the bench."

WHO'S HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION NOW? "I AM!" YELLS CHORUS

A heavyweight title, with all the fame and wealth it brings, is something just now being sought and claimed by all the "white hopes" on both sides of the Atlantic, besides a few on all sides of a few other oceans.

With Jack Johnson eliminated by unanimous consent of the "white hopes" the said "hopes" are now trying to grab the spoils in entirety instead of dividing them, as is done in other vocations.

There are at least three claimants to the belt whose demands receive attention from the followers of pugilism. They are Jesse Willard, "Gunboat" Smith and Arthur Pelky. In their recent twenty round go "Gunboat" Smith was given the decision over Willard. The latter's friends insist that the decision should have been a draw.

Luther McCarty before his tragic death at Calgary was considered by the majority of the pugilistic experts as the white heavyweight champion of the world. Arthur Pelky, who knocked out McCarty, was therefore the logical heir to the title. But the circumstances surrounding his victory were such that fight fans are now at sea as to who among the three men is really the best.

Inasmuch as Jesse Willard defeated Pelky in New York in July, 1912, Willard's friends say that Pelky has no clear title. But, then, you know, "Gunboat" Smith was recently given a decision over Willard. Therefore Smith's friends say Willard has no clear claim to the title. Thus it goes.

Along comes Georges Carpentier of France, who by knocking out Bombardier Wells claims the heavyweight championship of Europe. Why not let Carpentier into this free for all event for the world's "white championship?"

base during his twenty odd years on the diamond. In talking about Daubert recently Dahlen said: "Jake has no weakness. He gets grounders, wide and high ones, as well as he does the straight ones. He can throw as accurately as any man I ever saw. No man covers more ground than the man who holds first for Brooklyn. As a batter he is among the heaviest we have in the National league. He is also one of the speediest base runners in the circuit."

The large trade we have built up on our special lines, is not a mere happening so. It is the natural consequence of our maintaining the highest standard and insisting that manufacturers conform to it.

JOLLY TIME OF DORCAS SOCIETY

Delicious Supper, Surprise Pie, and Entertainment

The Dorcas society of the Universalist church held their closing meeting of the season Thursday night in the vestry of the church. This meeting is always looked forward to, as a surprise is always assured.

At 6:30 the members with their two guests, Rev. Fannie E. Austin, pastor of the church, and Miss M. Lizzie Furnald, started a grand march, incountering obstacles but reaching the supper table eventually.

The table was prettily decorated with white peonies and red roses with dainty place cards before each plate. A most delicious supper was served of hot chicken patties, salmon, egg and olive and tuna fish salads, hot coffee and rolls, fancy cake, pies and strawberries and cream.

A red crepe paper pie had attracted considerable attention on a table in the centre of the room, and after supper all formed for a grand march again and as each one passed the table they pulled a red ribbon and drew a package from the pie. The many and varied articles drawn called forth shouts of merriment. Next in order were recitations and songs by the members, each responding as their name was called.

An invitation was extended by Mrs. George W. Wheeler to visit her in her new home in Bridgewater this summer. Mrs. G. B. Barnes of Adams shore will open her house for the society for an all day meeting the ninth of July and later on a trip to Nantasket is anticipated.

After a few songs and good byes for the summer, a pleasant evening was ended, one to be long remembered.

NINE OF US.

A dancing party in Union Hall, under the auspices of the "Nine of Us" was attended by 35 couple Thursday evening. Music was furnished by Thompson's orchestra and refreshments were served. The committee consisted of Sidney W. Grossman, Leo Cutler, Morris Asnes, Percy Schwartz, Max Catler, Harry Tolpin, William Asnes, Percy Lubarsky and Harry Sherad.

BROKE HIS LEG.

VETOES WASHBURN BILL

Foss Declares Financial Sections Out of Place In the Measure

Boston, June 13.—Governor Foss sent to the house his veto of the Washburn railroad bill. In the veto he sets forth that, while the bill contains provisions desirable in many respects allowing for the regulation of the railroad, it is not worth having. He said:

"In opposition to this measure I lay down the simple principle that Massachusetts should not buy the right to regulate railroads, and I submit the issue to the candid consideration of the citizens of the commonwealth."

The governor attacked the financial sections, 15 and 16, declaring them out of place in the measure representing the price which railroads would exact in exchange for their permission to accept the other provisions of the bill.

WORTH MILLIONS, YET WORLD-WEARY

Richest Swiss and His Wife, Childless, Commit Suicide

Zurich, June 13.—Eugene Maggi and his wife, believed to be the wealthiest persons in Switzerland, committed suicide, their act being actuated by sheer lack of interest in life.

Eugene Maggi was 41 years old and his wife was 35. The joint estates of the man and wife are estimated at $10,000,000, while quite recently Maggi inherited the income from a number of extensive factories.

The couple had been greatly disappointed because their marriage was without issue, and, in a fit of despondency, they decided to end their lives. They retired to their bedroom in their villa here, turned on the gas and were found dead.

CONFESSES TO MURDER

Woman Killed Husband and Young Daughter With an Axe

Harrisonville, Mo., June 13.—Mrs. Arthur Kellar confessed that it was she who killed her husband, a railroad laborer, and their daughter, Margaret, 7 years old, Tuesday. Kellar and the girl were slain with an axe as they lay in their beds. She said her mind was deranged at the time she committed the crime.

The confession, which was signed by Mrs. Kellar, brought to a termination the coroner's inquest that had been in session in an attempt to place the responsibility for the murder. The jury reurned a verdict holding the woman guilty. Mrs. Kellar was taken to jail.

SERBS AND BULGARS AGREE TO ARBITRATE

Emperor of Russia Will Allot the Disputed Territories

London, June 13.—The Servian and Bulgarian governments have both agreed to accept Russian arbitration in their dispute over the territory acquired during the Balkan war.

With the arbitration of the "little white father of all the Slavs" accepted after he had warned the Balkan states of wrath to come and beseeched them to avoid a fratricidal war, and with France keeping the war chest closed tightly, the chances of preserving peace among the allies is improving.

But the situation is still critical. The powers may join the Russian emperor in his demand that the allies demobilize while Russia arbitrates, but one of the chief dangers of Russian arbitration lies in the possibility that it may precipitate another European crisis unless it is preceded by an Austro-Russian understanding.

EMERGENCY CURRENCY

McAdoo's Statement Regarding It Not Prompted by Market Conditions

Washington, June 13.—Stock market conditions did not prompt him to tell national banks of the country that he was prepared to issue $500,000,000 of emergency currency, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo states. "For some time inquiries have been received from many national banks asking if the department was prepared to issue such currency and I merely made a public answer to these inquiries," McAdoo explained.

The secretary declared that his statement was not due to any apprehension of the administration that issuance of the currency might be soon necessary.

BARBERS' STRIKE ENDS

Get About All They Demanded From the Boston Bosses

Boston, June 13.—The strike of the I. W. W. barbers in this city is off. By a vote of 458 to 44, the strikers voted to end the struggle, accepting the new terms of the master barbers. By these terms the strikers get practically everything they demanded.

Just when the barbers will return to the shops, however, has not yet been decided, as the union has applied to the city officials for a permit to hold a parade today and if this is granted they will not return until tomorrow.

Doesn't Know Why He Was Knighted

New York, June 13.—Sir William B. Peet of London, who was recently knighted, was asked in court why he was given the title. "Upon my word," he replied, "I'm sure I don't know."

SHOWER FOR MISS GARDNER.

Miss Margaret Gardner, of the Internos Club, accompanied John Gordon, the young South Quincy man to whom she will shortly be married, to Kincaide's theatre Thursday evening, and on her return found her home on Farrington street filled with club members who showered her with utility articles, omitting nothing that the prospective bride could desire. A monstrous basket, trimmed in purple and gold was set in the centre of a large table, which was prettily decorated, and there seemed to be an unending deposit by those present. Handpainted toasts place cards and small baskets were the favors. Ices, cakes and coffee was served and all joined in an entertainment. The party adjourned at a late hour.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

DYNAMITE CASE COMES TO CLOSE

Indictment Against Atteaux Nol Prossed by Pelletier

SECOND TRIAL UNNECESSARY

Not the Remotest Likelihood That Stronger Evidence Could Be Secured—Case Against Collins, Who Was Convicted, Placed on File, Because He Turned State's Evidence

Boston, June 13.—District Attorney Pelletier nolprossed the indictment against Frederick E. Atteaux in connection with the dynamite planting during the Lawrence strike and placed on file the case against Dennis J. Collins, the Cambridge dog fancier, who was the only one of the three defendants convicted by the jury.

As Collins turned state's evidence, he was given immunity. In view of the fact that the jury disagreed on five of the six counts against Atteaux, who is an expert chemist and dealer in mill supplies, the county prosecutor could have tried him over again, but didn't think it worth while.

District Attorney Pelletier issued this statement:

"I will no further prosecute this defendant. After trial of over two weeks before a representative jury, a codefendant was found not guilty, and a disagreement reported on the defendant, a third being found guilty, really, I presume, on his own confession.

"After careful consideration and consultation I have reached the opinion that the commonwealth could not fairly and reasonably expect a verdict against this defendant upon a second trial.

"After eight months of preparation the government has exhausted every means for securing honest evidence and there is no likelihood, even remote, that a stronger case could be made out on a second trial and in some respects there is grave doubt that the case would be as strong.

"The case of the Commonwealth vs. Collins may be placed on file.

"Collins was a government witness before the grand jury and upon trial."

The grand jury reported to Judge Crosby yesterday afternoon that, after its probe of the alleged attempt to bribe Juror Morris Shuman, it had decided there was not sufficient evidence to justify bringing an indictment against anyone. The character of the evidence presented to it was declared to be "unreliable and conflicting," although some of it "would arouse strong suspicion."

ANOTHER REVOLT FEARED

Constantinople Under Martial Law by Order of Porte

Constantinople, June 13.—With Constantinople under martial law and numerous members of the military league under arrest, the body of the assassinated grand vizier, Mahmud Shefket Pasha, was buried yesterday. The funeral service was conducted with great military pomp and display.

Prince Said Halim, foreign minister and once president of the council of state, has been made grand vizier ad interim, and the other ministers will hold their portfolios for the time being.

The people are in a state of intense excitement, fearing another revolution, and to prevent mobs the porte declared martial law. All citizens were ordered to be indoors by 10 p. m.

TOY PISTOL STARTS FIRE

Boston Manufacturing Plants Damaged to Extent of Over $100,000

Boston, June 13.—A toy pistol in the hands of a 10-year-old boy caused an explosion of chemicals and started a fire which badly damaged three manufacturing plants in South Boston, endangering the lives of hundreds of employes and for over half an hour threatened a crowded tenement district. The property damage is estimated at over $100,000.

A hot air explosion caused by fumes of chemicals in the plant of the F. A. Howard company shattered the sides of the building, and a dozen firemen had a narrow escape.

USING REAL BOMBS

Militant Suffragettes' Infernal Machine Imperils Many Lives

Runcorn, Eng., June 13.—Militant suffragettes have begun using real bombs and in an explosion in the streets here a number of pedestrians had narrow escapes from death.

An infernal machine was tossed from a Liverpool-London train as it was crossing the Runcorn bridge. It fell in the street, where it exploded, tearing a large hole and breaking windows.

Persons in the thoroughfare were thrown from their feet by the force.

USED LODGE POSTAL FRANK

How Beet Sugar Men Saved Money In Their Publicity Campaign

Washington, June 13.—How the beet sugar people saved some $15,000 by the use of Senator Lodge's postal frank, in the distribution of "Sugar at a Glance," was drawn from Truman G. Palmer, secretary of the United States beet sugar industry, by the Overman lobby investigating committee.

The volume was prepared by Palmer and 320,000 of them were printed as a public document. The printing was paid for largely by the beet sugar association, but the books were sent out on the frank of Lodge. The book is an argument against reducing the sugar tariff.

After the senate had ordered the book printed as a public document much material was added and some of the figures were changed, according to the witness.

Proofs of the book were given to Palmer by the government printers, at the request of Lodge, that corrections might be made.

FORCING "L" ROAD ACTION

Employes of Big Boston Corporation Consider Strike Vote

Boston, June 13.—Unless the Boston Elevated Railway company officials give a decision on the wage and transportation questions in dispute or agree to arbitration of these questions within the next forty-eight hours, the members of the Boston Street Carmen's union will proceed to take a strike vote.

This was the unanimous vote of over 7000 members at three meetings yesterday, when the gatherings got beyond control of the officers and all proceedings were stopped until the presiding officer officially recognized the member who made the motion from the floor.

Attempts by the officers of the union to prevent this action from being taken were overruled time after time by the members, who stood on chairs and yelled, whistled and screamed and refused to be quiet until the strike motion was put before the meeting.

WILL SHOOT FIRST AND CONVERT LATER

Minister Not Alarmed by Threats of Drunken Cowboys

Debeque, Col., June 13.—Rev. A. F. Glover, 23, pastor of the First Methodist church, is the hero of the hour here.

Dropping his work on a sermon, the pastor seized an automatic revolver and quelled a riot by a dozen drunken cowboys, whom he jailed at the point of his gun. The cowboys were fined $10 and costs each. They are on the warpath and declare they will get Glover's "scalp."

"I'll shoot on sight," the minister said, when informed of the threat, "and convert them in the hospital."

WAS NEVER MISSED

Reform School Runaway Had Been Absent For Five Days

Manchester, N. H., June 13.—Although Edward Merrick, aged 11, of this city, escaped from the state industrial school last Saturday, the officials at the institution were not aware of it until yesterday, when the police called them by telephone to inform them the lad was captured.

The boy was playing with the ball team when a home run was hit over the centre-field fence. He went over the fence after the ball and did not come back.

The police caught him yesterday and charged him with breaking into a store Wednesday night and stealing $17. They claim the boy admitted the theft and told them he escaped from the school.

Every detail of the mayor's preliminary campaign has been worked out. The petitions for an independent nomination contain 6590 names. Only 4000 names are required for such a nomination.

SOLDIERS TAKE MAIN POSITION

Rebellious Moros Beaten After Stubborn Resistance

AMERICANS LOSE SIX MEN

Dozen Others of Unusually Strong Attacking Force Are Injured—Mountain Guns Will Shell One Point Still Occupied by Outlaws—Restoration of Order Is Near

Manila, June 13.—The entrenchments of the rebellious Moros under the Sultan of Jolo at Bagsag were taken by the American forces after a fierce battle in which the American casualties were six killed and twelve wounded.

The killed were two privates of company M, Eighth United States infantry; three members of the Fifty-first company of scouts, and one member of the Twenty-ninth company of scouts. The casualties are regarded as few in view of the stubborn resistance which the Moros made to the American advance.

The attacking forces had been made unusually strong as a precaution, there being in addition to the company of regular infantry a troop of cavalry, seven companies of scouts, two companies of constabulary, a battery of four mountain guns, and a machine gun platoon.

The main position of the Moros was completely taken. Although there remains one point still occupied by the Moros, the mountain guns will be in a position to shell it easily.

Brigadier General Pershing, commander of the department of Mindanao, who led the forces, declares he will continue operations in Jolo until all the tribesmen's guns have been taken and the island is wholly peaceful.

The Sultan of Jolo, a Mohammedan, refuses to recognize the authority of the United States. He claimed not only the rulership of the Philippines, but dominion over the whole United States. The government some time ago sent the Moro ruler a few presents and evidently he construed them as tribute.

A degree of scepticism prevails in certain quarters as to the probable efficacy of disarmament as a means of establishing a permanent peace. It is suggested that through their pearl fisheries and other valuable resources the natives of the Jolo group are wealthy and will have little difficulty in replacing the archaic weapons they now possess with improved firearms secured from nearby Borneo, thereby making them more formidable than ever.

STRIKERS ARE BLAMED

Police Declare Ipswich Woman Was Slain by Sympathizers

Ipswich, Mass., June 13.—Responsibility for the death of the woman who was killed in the strike riot Tuesday night was placed upon sympathizers with the strikers by police officers who testified at the hearing of nineteen persons charged with various offenses growing out of the riot.

Previous to the opening of the proceedings an official connected with the case stated that the indications were that the woman had been killed by a bullet from a policeman's revolver.

The police witnesses, however, expressed the opinion that the fatal shot was fired by one friendly to the rioters. They said that she fell soon after two shots had been discharged from nearby houses. The hearing was continued today.

SPUDS ARE SPOILING

Hundred Thousand Bushels May Be Given to Charitable Institutions

Minneapolis, June 13.—One hundred thousand bushels of potatoes said to be spoiling on the tracks here may be turned over to charitable institutions.

A Minneapolis produce company has been appointed a committee to confer with railroad officials on the proposition of giving the potatoes to charity, provided the roads will cancel the freight charges.

The extraordinary congestion of old crop potatoes is said to be partly due to the arrival of new potatoes from the south.

OFFER TO GO TO PRISON

Five Police Grafters Show Great Sympathy For Fellow Officer

San Francisco, June 13.—Five suspended policemen offered to plead guilty to conspiracy with buncomen if the sentence to be imposed on their fellow officer, Frank Esola, convicted of grand larceny in the same set of cases, would be lightened, it was announced by District Attorney Fickert. The offer has not been accepted.

In return for pleading guilty the five men would get six months' sentences instead of a year, and all felony charges would be dropped.

SUMMER MANTELETS.

Summer Wraps That Transform a Costume—Yellow Auto-Coats.

The fields are gay with buttercups just now, and wherever the fashionable crowd assenmble, at garden fetes, weddings or the bridge parties that go on without ceasing, yellow of real buttercup hue or lighter tints is a noticeable note. Lingerie frocks and those of net and lace are worn over slips of yellow silk chiffon or some of the less expensive silk and cotton fabrics that are admirably suited for such use, with yellow sashes or girdles in plain or printed silks. It is due to this fad that Leghorn in the deep yellow natural tint of this straw is so fashionable for the dressy hats that accompany fussy frocks of filmy fabrics.

SUMMER WRAPS.

Summer wraps of all sorts, from lace coats, that dress up a simple costume to warm pretty coats that cover gauzy frocks when breezes make a warm covering needful, there is an endless variety for choice to be had at the shops, and not a few of them are not at all difficult to get up in the home sewing room if a good pattern can be had. All coats intended for warmth are loose and shapeless things at the waist, but fit nicely top and bottom with the smart looped up sweep of line that marks the modish garment.

LACE COATS.

Coats of allover net or lace are worn with all sorts of costumes and transform at a touch a simple getup into elegance of effect. These are usually made in some of the various blouse styles, Russian or the nondescript models, that are fulled into a shaped yoke about the hips. Often in the latter case the shaped pieces are of silk, satin or velvet, while the upper fulled coat is usually unlined or it has a lining of net or chiffon or silk mull. The belted Russian blouses of allover lace are often attached to the skirt of silk or crepe, but the adjustable blouse coat that can be worn with odd skirts is the more useful form for the average wardrobe. Shadow laces and figured nets are most used for these get-ups, but some very effective ones are made of plain, rather heavy nets or marquisettes, though these demand more in the way of finishes and trimmings than do the figured laces.

WARM WRAPS.

Some of the new "Sport coats" as they are called, that are cut in loose sacque shape, and reach about to the knee, are pretty enough to do duty for evening wear as well. Made of soft surfaced woolens that are light, warm and easily cleaned, these are usually belted affairs, with big patch pockets and often with the sleeve of raglin style cut up well toward the collar. Buttercup yellow, Nell rose, gray, Gentian blue, white or in the more utilitarian tans, these are youthful, smart and practical for motoring, tennis and general all round purposes out of town. The coat that appeals to other women more is the baglike kimono cut affair, that fits tight at the lower edge and slopes up in front closing with one fastening just below the waistline in front. Brocaded fabrics in silk, natlasse, woolens or plain silks and satins are all made up after this model, in the prevailing hip line length. One sees few long wraps except for elderly ladies, and in rain coats.

CHARMING MANTELETS.

The latest thing in Summer wraps are the charming little mantelets that are superseding the long popular scarf. Made in supple silks, chiffons, metal tissues, laces and satins these assume all sorts of quaint fichu and cape forms and are apt to be prolonged into sashes that cross and fall over the skirt. At a recent wedding the bridesmaids wore skirts built of three tiers of lace flounces, topped with mantelets of changeable yellow taffeta edged with pinked ruffles of the same. These crossed at the waist, surplice fashion, and tied at the back in long sash ends. Halos of yellow tulle, tied with "beauty" ribbons were worn, and each girl carried a long stemmed American Beauty Rose like a wand of office.

ODD COATS AND SKIRTS.

Any woman with a good looking black coat of silk, satin or cloth, can get no end of service from it this year when such coats are smartly used with skirts of white or figured cottons or linen fabrics. Touches of jet are also very smart for hat trimmings, belts, buckles, long lorgnette chains, slides and buttons.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

POTATO CAKES.

POTATO cakes make a nice addition to the breakfast fare. Cold potatoes can be used in making them.

In almost every household there is some favorite way of making the cakes.

Chopped onion may be mixed with the potatoes if that flavor is liked.

Several recipes for making plain potato cakes are given here:

Nice Breakfast Dishes.

Baked Potato Cakes.—Mash two large cold potatoes. Rub a quarter of a pound of beef drippings into half a pound of flour. Mix with the potatoes, add a tablespoonful of sugar and baking powder; then roll out, cut into rounds and bake in a hot oven. Serve hot with or without butter as you like the cakes.

Potato Cakes With Eggs.—Take three boiled potatoes and mash them with a lump of butter, some milk and three beaten eggs. Mix together, season with pepper, salt and a dash of nutmeg; then beat for ten minutes. Put a good quantity of lard in a pan and drop the mixture from a spoon into the boiling fat. Do not turn the cakes, but hold over each a redhot salamander. Dust with grated yokes of hard boiled eggs.

Tempting Cakes.

Crusty Potato Cakes.—Take a cupful of mashed potatoes and to them add a well beaten egg, a cupful of flour and a half a teaspoonful of salt. Mix well and turn on a well floured board, adding a little more flour for kneading, and form into a cake half an inch thick. Cut into wedge shaped pieces and bake on a hot griddle until light brown, after which cover with an inverted pan and cook on the back of the stove for about twenty minutes until crust forms. Serve hot with butter.

Griddle Potato Cakes.—Mash or put four or five floury cold potatoes through a wire sieve; add two ounces of butter, a little salt, a teaspoonful of baking powder and as much flour as the potatoes will take up. Turn out on a board, form into a round cake with a rolling pin and shape it with the hands. Cut the cake into quarters and again into eighths and bake on the griddle for ten or fifteen minutes and a delicious cake is the result. The segments should be turned frequently while cooking.

FAIRCLOTH IS A CANDIDATE

Desiras Appointment as Captain under Civil Service

Much interest is being taken in Fire department circles over the outcome of the action of Mayor Stone several days ago when he announced his intention of appointing A. L. Mead of Hose 4, as captain to fill the vacancy caused by the placing of Capt. Charles P. Costa on the retired list.

Under the ordinances the department has a captain and lieutenant both of which are stationed at the Central fire station. The lieutenant at the station is John Faircloth who was appointed to the position in 1910 and has held it ever since.

When the Mayor made up his mind to fill the vacancy that had existed since last March he says that he was informed that Faircloth did not desire to be promoted to the office of captain but preferred to remain lieutenant.

It seems however that Faircloth was not consulted in the matter and never stated that he did not desire the position. On the contrary he says that he has been in the department for eighteen years and if there is an honor coming in the way of promotion he believes he should have it.

Under the civil service rules the plan is for the men to go up in rotation. That is, it has never been the case where a man from the ranks is jumped over another officer.

After the Mayor had written to the Civil Service commissioners that he desired to promote Mead to be captain he learned that Faircloth had not said that he did not want the promotion and that he did want it. However he decided to wait until he heard from the commissioners. The commissioners state that the rule was to promote men in the regular order. In this case the secretary would give no answer until he had brought it before the commissioners when they hold their next meeting. In the mean time Faircloth has notified the commissioners that he desires to be considered for promotion, and that he thinks he should beconsidered.

While Mayor Stone has given out nothing since the first announcement it is probable now that the question is raised he will promote Faircloth to captain and Mead to lieutenant.

GYM GIRLS AT ATLANTIC

Present the Drama--"The Bargain Counter"

The sale and entertainment given by the Quincy Gym Girls in the Atlantic M. E. church, on Thursday evening met with great success. The sale opened at four o'clock in the afternoon and continued until late in the evening.

At eight o'clock in the evening the Gym Girls gave a drama entitled "The Bargain Counter."

The cast of characters was:

Mrs. Marshmarigold — Miss Ruth Hildebrand
Daisy Chaine — Miss Mary Beal
Veronica Speedwell — Miss Mullen
Mrs. Crosston, — Miss Mitchell
Rose Champion, — Miss Alice Beal

Miss Alice Beal, who took the part of Rose Champion, the Irish servant, entered into her part with great enthusiasm. Her Irish dialect caused much laughter.

Miss Mullen and Miss Beal were well suited for the parts of young girls. Miss Hildebrand was of a very poetical frame of mind, and Miss Mitchell was rather short of money; however she was able to go to the bargain sale.

Before the drama, Miss Ethel Dicey gave two piano solos. After the first act Mr. Barrowes gave several selections on the banjo. After the second scene Miss Donahue sang two selections: "Last night was the end of the World," and "Mine."

At the end of the program, Mr. Cassidy said that Rev. Mr. Pollard, the new minister was present and that he would like to have the people see him, and know him, before his appearance in the pulpit on Sunday.

Mr. Pollard came forward, and congratulated the people on their social conditions. He said that he was glad that they were not so narrow minded as to object to social activities in the church. He also said that he was glad to see so many young people in the church, and that he was to preach through June and July, although if he liked the people, he would stay longer

Much of the success of the sale is due to Mrs. J. H. Hall, who had charge of the apron table, Miss Dell Lord of the bakery table, Mrs. Arthur Thayer of the coffee table and Mrs. George Burr, who had charge of the ice cream and candy tables; also the girls who furnished the evenings entertainment.

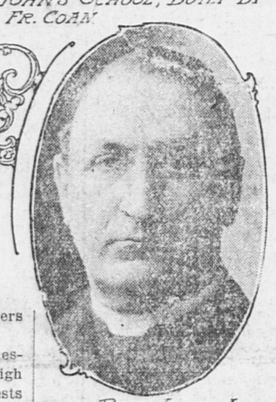
SOLEMN HIGH MASS OF THANKSGIVING

Triple Anniversary Celebration of St. John's Church Will Open Sunday Morning and Continue Next Week

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST CHURCH

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL, BUILT BY REV. FR. COAN



REV. JOHN J. COAN

The golden jubilee of St. Johns parish, the observance of which has been anticipated with pleasure by clergymen and residents, commences at the church, Sunday morning with a solemn high mass of thanksgiving. It will usher in a week of festivity and ceremony which will be participated in by all Quincy born priests who will be able to attend.

Refrescoing of the interior and new memorial windows, subscribed by societies and people, are some of the principal changes made by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, who, although hardly mentioning it, celebrates the silver anniversary of his ordination and the 10th anniversary of his coming here as pastor.

In all probability Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins of Amesbury will be the celebrant of the jubilee mass. Rev. Fr. Daniel C. Riordan of Newton Centre will officiate as deacon, Rev. Fr. William T. Deasey of Randolph as subdeacon, and Rev. Fr. Walter R. Fegan of Woburn as master of ceremonies. Mgr. Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, will possibly be present together with several other priests now located in other parishes. Rev. Fr. Daniel C. Riordan will also deliver the sermon.

In the evening a solemn high vespers will be sung.

Rev. Fr. John J. Coan will on Tuesday morning celebrate a solemn high mass of requiem for deceased priests and layman of the parish. He will be assisted by his curate, Rev. Fr. John J. Casey as deacon and Rev. Fr. Walter Quinlan as subdeacon. In the evening, the parish reunion will be held.

Thursday the first class to be graduated from the Parochial School will be given their diplomas. Among the invited guests are Mayor Eugene R. Stone and members of the School Committee. A fine program has been arranged. Miss Nonie O'Connor and Edward J. Parker are in charge of the civic portion of the evening.

A souvenir history of the parish will be distributed which will contain pictures of Rev. Fr. John T. Roddan, the builder of St. John's church, Rev. Fr. William Halley, the first pastor; Rev. Fr. James F. Sullivan, Rev. Fr. Francis Frigugletti and Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, succeeding pastors.

Since assuming the direction of St. John's historic parish, Father Coan has cleared the church from all debt, built a $60,000 Parochial school, and has purchased a large piece of land at Quincy Point for a new church in that district.

HISTORY OF THE PARISH.

Although the church of St. John the Baptist has been a separate parish for 50 years, it belonged to a parish that was much older, that of St. Mary's, West Quincy, which was the first Roman Catholic parish south of Boston and also the first Roman Catholic Church in the Old Colony.

In 1826 the first priest who ever visited the town called at the home of President John Adams and inquired if there were any Catholics in the town. President Adams, who several years before, when he was President of the United States, had journeyed from Washington to Boston to attend a dinner given to Bishop Cheverus, called in his coachman, John Kirk, a Catholic, and introduced the priest, who gave his name as Rev. Fr. Pendergast.

Mr. Kirk took Fr. Pendergast about the then little settlement, and by night the word that a priest was in the village was known to every Catholic family in Quincy.

That night confessions were heard and the next morning the first mass in Quincy was celebrated in what was afterwards called for many years the "long house" on Adams street near the brook, probably at the foot of the present Common street.

Later Mr. French and Fr. Thayer visited Quincy and mass was celebrated several times in a house afterwards owned by John Fuller. This house was used for several years, until the place got too small for the increasing congregation and the schoolhouse at West Quincy was procured by Rev. T. Fitzimmons of South Boston, in whose parish the new settlement was included.

SCHOOLHOUSE REFUSED.

The use of the school was refused after a short while. The Congregationalists of East Milton, however, offered the use of their meeting house and mass was celebrated there for a long time. Later the school authorities of Quincy rescinded their previous vote and allowed the Catholics to use the schoolhouse.

This plan continued until 1842 when the first St. Mary's Church was erected on land owned by James Hall on Crescent street, next the cemetery now bearing Mr. Hall's name.

The land was bought in November, 1841, and the church was dedicated Sept. 18, 1842, by Rev. Bishop Fenwick of Boston. That structure, however, was not the older of the two St. Mary's churches known to those of the present day, but was a structure that antedated the older building now known as St. Joseph's hall.

Rev. Fr. Fitzimmons w as made pastor of the new church; he was already pastor of SS Peter and Paul's church, South Boston, and the new church at West Quincy was included as part of his parish.

Rev. Fr. O'Beirne succeeded Rev. Fr Fitzimmons in 1843, and it was during his pastorate that the first Catholic marriages and births in Quincy are recorded as parish data. Rev. Fr. O'Beirne was transferred to Roxbury Highlands in 1845, and he was succeeded as pastor here by Rev. Bernard Carraher.

RESIDENT PASTOR.

Rev. Fr. Carraher became the first resident pastor, and Quincy, as a parish, begins from the year 1845. At that time it included the towns of Milton, Randolph, Stoughton, Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Cohasset, Scituate, Abington and beyond that to Plymouth and it is a matter of record that people from those places walked to West Quincy to attend mass.

In 1848 Rev. Fr. John T. Roddan became pastor and he established mission stations in Randolph, Abington and Weymouth, celebrating mass in Randolph and West Quincy every Sunday.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO PASTOR AND WIFE

Several Pastors Have Good Word for Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Thompson

Over the United Presbyterian Church Six Years

Rev. A. M. Thompson, who recently resigned the pastorate of the United Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Thompson, were given a farewell reception Friday evening by the people of the church. The reception took place in the church and was very largely attended. In addition to the people of the church there were a number of pastors of other Quincy churches who had been associated with Mr. Thompson in the Ministers Association, as well as Rev. W. W. Dornan of Whitman the first pastor of the church, under whose ministration the edifice was built.

During the first part of the evening there was a reception during which Rev. and Mrs. Thompson were assisted in receiving by Alexander Falconer and Mrs. Alex H. Morrison. The ushers were Miss Marion and Miss Jeanie Russell, Miss Mary Melrose, Mrs. Charles Campbell and Miss Sadie McDonald. Mrs. Duncan McKella presided at the new organ during the reception.

The committee in charge included Alex H. Morrison, D. K. McLennan, Neil McLeod, and James McPhee. Mr. Morrison had charge of the program and after the reception spoke briefly of the work of Mr. Thompson as pastor of the church. This reception he said was to show in our humble way our love and regard for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. During his years as its pastor the church has prospered and while not large numerically was large in a social and financial way. There

STATE PUBLICITY.

It has never been customary to spend public funds to any extent in the form of advertising. So much taxpayers' money slips along the easy path of ordinary expenditure, that some needed enterprises are not under taken.

The subject is suggested by the fact that the Legislature of so conservative a state as New Hampshire recently made an appropriation to advertise the state as a summer resort. This is a kind of thing that individual cities are doing, overdoing in some cases, but which is but rarely done by a state as a whole.

Individual localities boards of trade and merchants' associations, real estate dealers, hotels, and railroads circulate a good deal of literature. But no comprehensive, systematic effort has been made to set forth in one telling appeal all the resources of this state. It is the kind of thing, which, being everybody's business, is nobody's.

A host of city people are looking for agricultural land, or for summer homes for rest and refreshment. Thousands of young men are looking for chances to engage in business. The American people are on the move and they will go to the states that advertise their resources the most thoroughly.

An attractive illustrated book ought to be gotten out, by state expense if in no other way, showing the advantages of this state for all classes of home seekers, for those wishing country places, summer rest, for farmers, for manufacturing and trade.

It should give first of all a list of the newspapers published in Massachusetts,—a list of the dailies, a list of the local weeklies and semi weeklies, a list of trade journals and a miscellaneous list to include all other publications.

Then there should be a list of the Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce and the commercial organizations of the State.

One page or a part of a page should be devoted to each city or town, giving the salient points. The principal business, the educational advantages, the improvements, the principal historic facts, the population, valuation, natural advantages, attractions, etc.

Such books should be sent to all the public libraries of the country, all the hotels, colleges and clubs. And to others upon request.

Many of the Ledger exchanges are commenting on the parsonage needs at Quincy Point. The Lynn Item says;

"A clergyman in Quincy resigns his pastorate after six weeks of occupancy because no suitable house can be found for himself and family.

The wisdom of providing a home for the pastor at the time when the meetinghouse is built is indicated by this incident, as well as by a recent occurrence in Jamaica Plain. If the cost of a parsonage was taken into account as a building expense, and the church and the parsonage procured at the same time, many a trouble that has arisen in churches might have been avoided."

Paterson editor sentenced to jail for defaming police. There are some men in the business who are much better off if they spend their time writing up the church socials and the millinery openings.

The cost of getting a bachelor's degree at Yale is estimated at $4370, but the boys think that is cheap for the fun they get. The old man's opinion is not on record.

The college graduates will soon be waiting around to see which of the big interests shall hustle the hardest to get their services.

Now that watermelons are coming into the market, the doctors may look for some hurry calls.

So far the Supreme Court justices have not been caught lobbying ,but everybody else seems to be doin' it.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

was now a small mortgage which had been reduced to $2,000. The interior of the church had been renovated and decorated and we have a new pipe organ. All of these things had not been accomplished without considerable self denial on the part of the pastor and people of the church. His work has built a foundation on which the church can go forward and he felt that Mr. Thompson left the church with a foundation for one of the most prosperous churches of the city.

Rev. Dr. A. L. Hudson of the First church wanted to express his appreciation for the opportunity to join with the people of the church in taking a formal farewell of your pastor. It is a profound sympathy that brings the great work has been in bringing the church into cordial and sympathetic feeling. There is no question but his great work, has been in bringing the Kingdom of God on earth and unless we realize this the world loses. He alsc spoke of his own personal loss. Mr. Thompson was the first man to meet him in the Ministers Association, of which he was president, and made him feel at home. It is a loss not only to you but to the city for he is a man of splendid personality. The loss of such a man is one that will be felt for many years and it was a sad duty to say good bye Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

Rev. Thomas W. Davidson of the Memorial church, Atlantic, said that Mr. Thompson was a man that stood absolutely for rightousness. When any question relative to the moral of the city arose, Mr. Thompson was one of the first to take a stand. What had been accomplished un the church may seem great but the things that count the most for the future are that the influence of the gospel of Jesus Christ has gone out from this church to live for the ideals he has preached. His joy will be in leaving a church that is going to rise and still exert a greater influence in the city.

A. F. Bromley of the Y. M. C. A., spoke briefly of the work of Mr. Thompson in the Y. M. C. A. In coming to this church tonight he felt that he was coming home. We of the Ministers association regret the going from us of a man of his influence.

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany church said this was like a funeral with eight ministers to speak for the dead but he was a lively dead man. Very much alive. He felt that Mr. Thompson was a man upon whom you could depend. His successor may be a strong man, yet not one with whom we can co-operate as with Mr. Thompson. He is a man with a strong and powerful influence. That is what you are losing in this church. He knew that it was not easy to gain the influence he had gained. Rev . Mr. Willmott also spoke briefly about ministers leaving pastorates and said that he regretted the short pastorates that some churches had. For Mr. Thompson he could only bespeak his heartfelt thanks for his fellowship with his church.

Rev. James Matheson of the First Presbyterian church spoke of the recent meeting he had attended at Newport where everything was about the work of Rev. and Mrs. N. J. Sproul a former pastor of his church, and he felt that he could compare him to Mr. Thompson, for it was here what Mr. Thompson and his wife had done. He supposed that now he was going that he would be the dean. He was very glad to be present to express his appreciation for the opportunity to say a word. He was glad to have had such a neighbor as Mr. Thompson. He stood for everything that was right. He also wanted to say a word for Mrs. Thompson and the good work she had done.

While the speaking was in progress Rev. T. C. Martin of the West Quincy M. E. church came in and he was called upon. Mr. Martin made a humorous address in which he said that he was the poorest paid minister in the city and that Mr. Thompson was the only clergyman in the city that had called upon him. He therefore felt at home here for he had been privileged to exchange three times with him. He was very sorry that he was going. He would say however, if any church was thinking of calling him and wanted an endorsement, to send them to him.

The last speaker was Rev. W. W. Dornan of Whitman, the first pastor of the church. He spoke of the early days of the church and how the people had labored and sacrificed to build the church, working until late into the night in the basement on the foundation. It gave him pleasure to look about and see the new organ and the other improvements that had been made. All knew how difficult it was to carry on the work of the ministry. Many do not realize the constant strain it is or how much the wife helps the minister. Too much can not be said for the minister's wife for her work is far from easy. This church is one that requires a man like Mr. Thompson and in him you had a man of strong personality. He had always kept in close touch with this church and had followed its growth. He could only wish that the church could have kept him a little longer, but he has built a foundation for a larger work, for he has done a splendid work in this church. He has built up Gods palace with living stones.

At this point Mr. Morrison the toast master in a few brief words presented Mr. and Mrs. Thompson in behalf of the church with a purse of gold.

In accepting the gift Mr. Thompson spoke feelingly, expressing his thanks, for he said that he realized the sacrifice that his people must have made. He had never felt so bashful in his life but once before, and that was when he had asked Mrs. Thompson to become his wife. He felt extremly grateful for all that had been done for him and for the many kindnesses shown and for the co-operation in the church work by the people of the church. He felt that in going from Quincy he was parting with many warm friends. In leaving the Minister's association he also felt sad, for they had many good times together, and had never had a note of discord in their meetings. He could only say to his people, may God's blessing rest upon this congregation.

Mr. Morrison read a letter from Rev. W. B. Barr of Central Falls, R. I., a former pastor, expressing his regret at being unable to be present.

After the reception there was a brief social hour during which the ladies of the church served ice cream and cake.

Rev. Mr. Thompson came to Quincy from Ferrona, N. S., and has been the pastor of the United Presbyterian church for six years.

101 RANCH SHOW HERE

Over 500 People in Parade and Many Good Riders

Thousands of men, women and children gathered about City Square and the route of the parade this morning to see the grand free show of the 101 Ranch which is exhibiting on the Water street grounds today. The parade was one of the best ever seen in Quincy upwards of 500 men and hundreds of horses taking part. There were a number of lady riders as well as Indians and Squaws without number, cowboys, Mexicans, Corsacks and the like, all of which made up a parade that pleased the people and gave evidence that the show would be well worth seeing.

There were the usual number of bands, bag pipers, fife and drum corps, the steam calliope and a squad of buglers who led the line.

Then there was the old stage coach, similar to those used before the days of the steam horse in crossing the prairies; an Indian village scene, caravan wagons, gilded wagon, and tableaux, not forgetting the wild bulls.

From Quincy the show goes to Boston where they will exhibit all next week and the management informs the Ledger that the same show is given in Quincy as will be given in Boston next week.

PROMPTLY ARRESTED.

Tanau Abraham, who says that he has been in this country but 3 weeks was arrested Thursday afternoon by Officer Cahill for the larceny of two five dollar bills from Mrs. Catherine Healey of 346 Adams street. It seems that the fellow appeared at her home Thursday afternoon selling sacred pictures. She did not wish any but to help the boy out said she would give him ten cents. She also gave him a piece of cake. The change she took from her hand bag. After giving him the cake he asked for a drink of water. She left the room for the water as she did so she heard the door shut. Going back she saw that her bag had gone and the boy was running down the street. She immediately gave chase and enlisting the aid of a passing automobile the boy was finally overhauled near the High school, and turned over to Officer Cahill. When searched at the police station the two missing five dollar bills were found in his possession. He was arraigned in court for larceny.

GRADUATION AT MILTON

Class of the Belcher School Numbered Twenty-Nine

The graduation exercises of the class of 1913 of the Belcher Grammar school took place Friday evening in the school hall. The affair marked the 43rd class that Principal Andrews has fathered. His first class, consisting of a few Milton boys and girls was graduated from the old East school. His present building was named after Governor Belcher a colonial magistrate who resided in Milton.

The guests of the evening were Jesse B. Baxter, Josiah Babcock, George Eaton, all of the town government and John J. Gallagher, representative to the General Court from Milton and Canton. The diplomas were presented by Frank P. Fanning of the school committee.

The purple letters of the class motto, "Aim High" were conspicuously set in a border of greenery and brambles which adorned the platform. Interwoven were patches of gold, completing the class colors. A shield with the monogram of the school hung over the platform.

The graduating class, consisting of 30 pupils were assisted in the exercises by the pupils of the seventh grade. The music was under the direction of Mrs. Farnum.

The program opened with a song, "Summer Roses." Langdon Parson gave a sketch on "Wonderful New England." "The Coming Man," by Ella Wheeler Wilcox was given by Elizabeth Park and the pupils sang "In the Woods."

Mildred Davidson recited Henry Bunner's "Grandfather Watts" and Doris Pearce with a sketch on "Architects" by J. A. Edgerton preceded the song "Over the Summer Seas." President Wilson's well known economic lecture, "Why you should save" was read by Louis Gosselin.

An amusing portion of the program was the anecdotes of four of the graduates, Malcolm Joe, Violet Hammon, Leonessa Powell and Ross Doherty. Carolyn Bates gave a violin solo, "The Enchanted Hour" and "Buried Treasures" were given by Sherman Ellsworth. Paul Howe presented "Mr. Butterick's House" by Max Adler and the pupils sang "O, Sweet Summer Wind."

"Elizabeth Jane" by Alice Hansberry was followed by an essay on Samuel Adams by Harold Leatherbee and the pupils sang "Last Night" by Kjerulf. James McGuire gave A. P. Putnam's "Our Flag."

The presentation of diplomas by Frank F. Fanning was followed by the closing song, "The Magnolia of Old Tennessee."

A liberal applause followed each number and after the exercises Principal Andrews was busily engaged accepting the congratulations of friends and parents and in renewing the friendship of many of his former pupils.

CHILDREN ADRIFT.

Unknown to their mother, four year old George and five year old Mary McKenna jumped into a row boat tied at the wall on the Fore River Friday afternoon, untied the rope, and in the stiff off-shore breeze drifted down stream. Their frantic cries were heard by Harry Redding of 656 Washington street and he put out in Hiram Phillip's motor boat and towed them ashore.

Both children were taken to their home on Wharf street where they quickly recovered from their fright and gaily told Mrs. Mary McKenna of their delightful experience. The tide was running out and the boat was being rapidly carried down stream when Redding sighted the sailors. An instant later the boat would have rounded the bend in the river and hours might have elapsed before they were discovered.

This morning the children are at play in the yard but the watchful eye of mother is on them and frequent cautions seemed to have brought to the children some realization of their danger.

PLAYED HOOKEY.

Four Braintree boys, finding the closing days of the school year irksome, played "hookey" Friday afternoon. Their absence was reported to the truant officer Galvin, who made a search of Braintree and Quincy. Shortly before three o'clock he visited a local place of amusement and after passing down the aisles, scanning the faces of the audience, his gaze lighted on the boys. They discovered him as soon as he saw them. They immediately arose, left the place and accompanied him to Braintree where they were given the punishment meted out to boys who break regulations.

SOLEMN HIGH MASS

was appointed to help Rev. Fr. Roddan in 1849 and a monthly mass was celebrated in Abington and Weymouth. When Rev. Fr. Roddan built St. Mary's church, Randolph in 1850 he received another assistant, Rev. Fr. Lynch.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH BUILT

At this time St. Mary's church became too small for the ever-increasing congregation, and it became a serious question whether it was expedient to enlarge the church or build another edifice in Quincy, where the boot and shoe industry had attracted many Catholics. The parishioners voted in favor of the new church, which was the original of the present edifice dedicated to St. John the Baptist.

It was finished in 1853 and that same year Rev. Fr. Roddan bought 3 1-2 acres behind St. Mary's church for cemetery purposes.

The first church cost $6000 and the land $2000. The church was started in 1851, but a financial panic delayed its completion until 1853, and on Nov. 23 of that year the edifice was dedicated by Bishop Fitzpatrick. It was 70 feet long and 40 feet wide and seated 430 persons.

The dedication was attended by many distinguished non-Catholics, including Hon. Charles Francis Adams, afterward United States Minister to England, and Chief Justice George Tyler Bigelow of the State Supreme Court.

In 1856 Rev. Fr, Roddan was transferred to Boston to the regret of both Catholics and Protestants of the town and he was succeeded by Rev. Aaron L Roche who made his home in Randolph.

EVENT CELEBRATED.

In 1863 St. John's church was set off in a parish by itself and it is the 50th anniversary of this event that will be celebrated. Rev. William Halley was the first pastor and he remained until 1867.

During the pastorate of Rev. Fr. Halley the towns of Hingham and Weymouth were organized into a separate parish, Randolph into another. Abington and surrounding towns into a third. In 1871 East Braintree was annexed to the Weymouth parish and the parish of St. John's then remained intact until 1903 when Rev. Fr. Friguglietti died.

After Randolph had been set off in a parish by itself, St. John's became the parish church of all Quincy and St. Mary's Church, the first parish church south of Boston, became a mission station of St. John's.

Rev. Fr. Halley was succeeded in 1867 by Rev. James Sullivan, an uncle of Rt. Rev. Mgr. Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, but he did not live long and was succeeded by his curate, Rev. Francis A. Friguglietti, popularly known as Fr. Francis, in 1871.

Fr. Francis enlarged St. Mary's church in 1875 and St. John's in 1872. In 1874 and 1885 Fr. Francis bought additional land for the cemetery in West Quincy, in 1878 he built the Sacred Heart church in Atlantic, in 1879 he built St. Francis' church in South Braintree and in 1892 he built the chapel of St. Francis-by-the-eSa at Houghs Neck.

On the death of Fr. Francis in 1903, Rev. John J. Coan was made pastor of St. John's church. A few years before this St. Mary's Church, West Quincy was made again what it had been, a separate parish church, and Rev. Ambrose F. Roche was transferred from Hingham to be its pastor.

When Fr. Coan was made pastor of St. John's church the churches in Atlantic and South Braintree were set off into parishes by themselves.

During his pastorate of 10 years in Quincy Rev. Fr. Coan has cleared the Church of St. John's and St. Frances of debt has built a $60,000 parochial school, and has purchased a valuable piece of land at Quincy Point for a church site. In the district once ministered to by Rev.. Fr. Roddan there are now over 30 churches and 50 priests.

The subject of Rev. B. A. Willmotts message at Bethany church Sunday morning will be "The age of a man." At the pleasant Sunday evening service the subject will be—"Why men do not establish homes."

Greater Quincy people do not want "cheap stuff." They want and demand the best and in this Modern Market they can find find as high quality goods as can be found any Boston market and at a lower price. It is an idle dream thinking that people hereabouts care only for second grade goods. The success of this market shows that the thinking people want food articles that are above suspicion.

BASE BALL FOR FOURTH

Seven and Possibly Eight Teams in the Schedule

The base ball committee of the Fourth of July Association met in the Board of Trade rooms last evening, decided the contests and announced the program to the managers of the teams represented. Particular pains were taken to advise that all not present would forfeit their right to be considered in the disposition of the prize money.

Seven teams sent managers and early in the evening showed their preference over the teams they wanted to meet. They discussed this thoroughly and appeared to be entirely satisfied with the arrangement decided. However, their enthusiasm became apparent when several jumped to the floor and issued challengers to one another for substantial purses.

The committee decided to appropriate $100 for base ball. The seven teams anxious for a portion are Makarias, South Quincy, Fore River Apprentices, Station Outing Club, Redman A. C., Colonials and the Orients, the latter 1912 amateur champions. Because of the odd number a three team group was picked to play for $50, the first game being six innings and the loser eliminated from the prize money. A drawing will be made to pick the teams that play first.

This leaves a reserve fund of $50 at the disposition of the committee to provide for future emergencies, should any arise. The committee in making these selections were guided by the expressed preferences of each manager and their own acquaintance with the team's merits.

The assignment of a battleship here on that day may mean that they have base ball team which will rely on the hospitality of the city. If this is the case instead of the three cornered contest two complete games can be played.

James Neary, chairman of this committee, has been given the supervision of parks and playgrounds on the Fourth. Unless bookings are countersigned by him they are void in case of an argument.

The choice of the committee is as follows:

Makaria, South Quincy and Fore River Apprentices, one team to draw for a bye, at Merrymount Park for a purse of $50, winner take all.

FINED $25.

Guiseppi Dintino was captured by William Smith of Quincy avenue on suspicion that he was the man who had been annoying his sisters Irene and Hazel Smith. Dintino who is said to be 22 years of age and married resides at 11 Lancaster street. He is alleged to have followed the Simth girls for more than a mile on their way home. Noticing that the man persisted in following them they broke into a run for home. As they rushed into the house their brother William looking through the blinds saw the fellow entering the back yard.

Waiting for a favorable opportunity William dashed out and after a tussle with the fellow succeeded in holding him until the police arived and took charge.

There have been many complaints to the police of a man who has been following women and young girls and annoying them and from the description given of the fellow the police believe Dintino is the same man. He was arraigned in court this morning on the technical charge of disturbing the peace. After hearing the evidence the court imposed a fine of $25. Being unable to pay he was committed to Dedham for the next three months.

DISTRICT COURT.

Francis J. Sheehy was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Tanau Abraham was arraigned for larceny at Quincy. Case continued until next Tuesday.

Samuel Flamelant was arraigned for collecting junk without a license at Holbrook Complaint was dismussed on payment og $10.60 costs.

Guiseppi Dintino was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy and was fined $25. He will probably be committed in default of paying his fine.

LAST GAME A DEFEAT

Melrose High Takes Quincy High Into Camp

Quincy High closed its base ball season by losing to Melrose Friday afternoon at Merrymount Park, 8 to 2. The game was poorly played on the part of Quincy. Crocker and Andrews were the pitchers, the former starting the game.

Melrose showed heady base ball work at all times, although they commenced to loosen up in the last two innings. Hunter the visiting shortstop was the star of the game from all angles. He is credited with a homer which went into the hollow, got a pretty single, took 10 out of 13 chances and performed in a fine manner for a school boy player. The team displayed the results of intelligent coaching and followed the ball or the man at all times.

Pitcher Leavitt received good support and while two strikeouts appear after his name it demonstrates in no way his inferiority to the Quincy batters. The men reaching first were not allowed a great ways off and during his pegging to first and second he never lost his sense of direction. During the last two innings the local team got several hits and most of them were clean and outside the territory of the visitors.

The Melrose scored their first runs through the wild throwing of the boys and a timely hit now and then presented them with a score after the runner had reached first on a juicy error. The game was in no ways up to the standard of base ball they have exhibited and was a keen disappointment to the fans who have seen them perform in other games. The score:

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

WIDOW WILL CARRY OUT FLAGLER PLANS

Railroad Construction In Florida Will Be Continued

New York, June 14.—Wall street has discovered that Henry M. Flagler, who died a few weeks ago, trusted his widow's ability to carry out his railroad dreams as fully as did E. H. Harriman when he gave Mrs. Harriman as large a voice in the management of his estate. The Flagler son, wealthy in his own right, has no taste for business.

Mrs. Flagler is one of the three trustees who control most of the estate. It is believed Mrs. Flagler will continue the railroad construction in Florida, particularly the line to run along the Florida peninsula to Lake Okeechobee.

Then Flagler's plan of double tracking the entire Florida east coastline as far south as Miami will be carried out. The system is the greatest single-owned railroad system in the United States.

IN SIGHT OF CROWDS

Highwayman Chokes Woman and Gets $128 and Check For $1000

New York, June 14.—Miss Dorothy Daniels was beaten and choked and robbed by a man who had followed her to the bank and two-thirds of the way back to her place of employment, a candy concern in Varick street.

The highwayman escaped with $128 in currency and a certified check for $1000. Hundreds pursued him for several blocks, but he eluded them by darting through a hallway.

The holdup occurred in a busy downtown section, in full view of the noonday crowds.

WOMEN DON'T WANT VOTE

At Least That Is the Opinion Expressed by Uncle Joe Cannon

Tuscola, Ills., June 14.—Women don't want the right to vote, a privilege granted them in Illinois by the legislature last Tuesday, Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the national house of representatives, told a Douglas county audience.

"I am not afraid of woman suffrage," asserted "Uncle Joe." "I am not violently opposed, if the women really want it, but if the proposition were put to the women of the state it would be lost by 50,000 votes."

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD.

The annual business meeting and closing party of St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church was held in the Parish house Friday evening with a large attendance.

The usual opening exercises were held and much business was dispensed with. It was voted to change the night of the Guild meeting to Tuesday. After all of the business had been taken care of and the books and records left clean the election of officers for the ensuing year was held which resulted as follows:

President;—Gertrude Jones.
Vice President—Mrs. Louise Woodbury.
Secretary;—Mildred Smith.
Treasurer—Lucy Moyle.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered Miss Florence Ford, the retiring president, for her faithful and untiring efforts during the past year, and also to the other members of the executive board. The members of the new executive board were wished every success. At the conclusion of the election the meetings were suspended until September.

A social followed. Games of various sorts were played, which afforded much amusement, and dancing was enjoyed, Edna Wright presiding at the piano. Refreshments were served.

Shoes of Sterling Quality
For Men, Women and Children

The large trade we have built up on our special lines, is not a mere happening so. It is the natural consequence of our maintaining the highest standard and insisting that manufacturers conform to it.

There's genuine merit in the shoes—in the leather and materials used; in the workmanship, which is true to the last stitch, and in their shapeliness.

Shoes of every description---for street, dress and out-door wear.

For Men—The Ralston—$4 to $6

The Ralston Shoes, as you know, are made on foot-moulded lasts, which means no "breaking-in." Get that fact clearly in mind and you have the keynote of Ralston superiority.

For Women--The American Lady--$3 to $4

As pretty a shoe as ever graced a woman's foot. As for comfort and wear—they have won their way into the hearts of thousands of women. All leathers, including white.

For Young People--The Educator--$1.50 up

They solve the problem because they let the foot grow as it should, and provide ample room for all five toes.

FOLLOWED OLD SENATE CUSTOM

Precedent For Lodge's Sending Out "Sugar at a Glance"

SENATE FRANKING PRIVILEGE

Has Been Widely Used to Further Political Interests—Gallinger Declares President "Perilously Near" to Lobbying and Refers to Threat to Investigate Industries

Washington, June 14.—Senator Lodge is still out of Washington, but it is learned that he will pay no attention to the testimony before the Overman committee showing that some 320,000 copies of "Sugar at a Glance" had been sent out by the beet sugar interests under his frank.

In moving the publication of this document and allowing the use of his frank, Lodge followed the custom of the senate since the early days. The government prints at its own expense only a limited number of each edition, but members of congress and anyone else are free to buy as many copies as they please and send them out under frank.

The theory on which this is done is that the senate, in authorizing the publication of the document, implies that it is one that should be given general circulation and that the government will be glad to circulate it if it can be supplied to the mails without cost.

In the present instance the plates, which constitute the bulk of "Sugar at a Glance" were provided by Truman G. Palmer, secretary of the American Beet Sugar association, who offered also to pay for the printing of the text, but this offer was declined.

It is doubtful if any senator, unless a brand new one, has failed to make use of his franking privilege either in his own political interests or that of some argument formulated or approved by him. One senator from the west is known to have sent to every voter in his state in one envelope five documents, one a speech of his own, another a sketch of his career and a third his picture. The senator, of course, bought these documents, but they were circulated free by the government.

Senator Lodge's rally speech has run into an edition of 1,200,000 owing to outside demand. About 2,000,000 copies of a speech of Senator Sutherland discussing constitutional questions have gone out, and Senator Newlands of Nevada, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, has had 2,000,000 copies of his "Democratic legislative program" go out to the people.

"Sugar at a second glance," an argument for free sugar prepared by F. C. Lowry of the Federal Sugar Refining company, has been printed as a public document on motion of Senator James. The Overman committee have indicated that they would be glad to hear Senator Lodge if he should care to testify, but it is understood he will not testify unless subpoenaed.

President Wilson's name, in connection with "White House influences" for the tariff bill, was brought before the senate lobby investigating committee again by Senator Gallinger, who said the president had come "perilously near lobbying," in some of the things he had done relative to the tariff bill.

Gallinger did not make a direct charge that the president had "lobbied" for the tariff bill, but the intimations in his testimony were taken by Democratic senators to be so broad that they subjected him to a long cross examination on the subject of White House influence. Gallinger's statements caused a sensation. He was about to leave the stand when Senator Reed asked a final question.

"When a man says that he would hang some one as high as Haman,' if that person did certain things," said Gallinger, "and that an industry which proposed reduction of wages and did so would be investigated, I think that is about the worst kind of influence I can imagine."

"What do you think of a public official that gets up a scare about an insidious lobby?" asked Senator Nelson.

"That he intends to influence public opinion and the opinion of public men," returned Gallinger.

"Would you regard it s a species of lobby?"

"From my own inability to define the term to my own satisfaction perhaps I would not like to say. It was a species of lobby influence."

"It was an intimation that men are afraid to use their own judgment lest the people suspect them of lobbying?" persisted Nelson.

"It so impressed me," replied Gallinger.

English Aviator Killed

London, June 14.—Lieutenant James R. B. Kennedy of the naval wing of the royal flying corps was killed and C. Gordon Bell, another aviator, seriously injured in the fall of a monoplane near the Brooklands aerodrome. Bell was driving the machine and Kennedy was a passenger.

THE LARGEST ON RECORD

Estate of the Late John Jacob Astor Is Appraised at $83,966,611

New York, June 14.—The estate of Colonel John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster, was officially appraised at close to $83,000,000, of which Vincent Astor receives $68,964,499; Mrs. Madeline F. Astor, $7,678,896; Muriel Astor, $4,856,758, and John Jacob Astor, son by his second marriage, $2,922,672. The estate is declared to be the largest on record in this country.

A feature of interest is an affidavit of the examiners that the property embraced in the ante-nuptial agreement for Mrs. Ava W. Astor, amounting to about $1,738,000, which was to have reverted to her at the time of her husband's death, now terminates and the property goes to Vincent Astor for the reason that the youth's mother, although once Astor's wife, was never his widow. Mrs. Ava W. Astor divorced her husband, whose legal widow is Mrs. Madeline F. Astor.

However, Mrs. Ava W. Astor has had a very substantial amount settled upon her, but the papers do not disclose the financial arrangements under which Mrs. Astor relinquished all claim to the estate.

WASHBURN BILL UPHELD

Railroad Measure Passed by Both Branches Over Veto of Governor

Boston, June 14.—The Washburn railroad bill, "with all its imperfections on its head," was passed over the veto of Governor Foss by the house by a vote of 170 to 58, and by the senate by a vote of 33 to 3, with one pair.

The fight for the bill has been a long and bitter one, neither side being willing to concede a point. Foss gained more support for this bill than he did for the western trolleys bill, which the house put over his veto by a vote of 164 to 48.

The vote in favor of the railroad bill in the house before it went to the governor was 217 to 13. The vote was not all along party lines.

During the debate in the house, Mr. Washburn, author of the measure, defended the governor and voted against the veto, saying Foss was right in the stand he takes, but he wanted power of control as given in the bill.

SAYS WOMAN WAS SHOT BY OFFICER

Testimony of Ipswich Riot Witness Creates Sensation

Ipswich, Mass., June 14.—A sensation was furnished in yesterday's court hearing of the Ipswich mill riot cases when the defense produced as a witness John Baker, 32, who positively declared that he witnessed the killing of Nicollati Pandelopulou, the Greek woman, and that a uniformed officer was the person who shot her down.

From the first the government has contended that the fatal shot came from a Greek lodging house, from which bullets were fired during the Tuesday's riot.

But Baker, who by his own admission is a rover, is the first person who has stated flatly that he saw the fatal bullet fired.

"I can identify the policeman who fired that shot," said Baker. "While walking about the town this noon I saw him patrolling the streets near the mill gates."

GETS $27,500 DAMACES

Original Verdict Increased In Woman's Suit Against Trolley Road

Providence, June 14.—Damages of $27,500, the heaviest sum ever given a plaintiff in the state for injuries, was awarded to Miss Flora Gibbons of Smithfield, who sued the Rhode Island company as the result of injuries sustained when one of the company's cars struck and threw her out of her carriage in Pawtucket on Aug. 12, 1910.

In the first trial she was awarded $25,000. The supreme court then decided that unless she would accept $18,000 a new trial would be granted. She refused to take this amount and a new trial was begun.

Last night the jury gave her $2500 more than the original verdict.

WIFE'S GRAPE JUICE BEST

But Bryan Accepts Present of the California Product

Washington, June 14.—A delegation of Richmond, Cal., business men called on Secretary Bryan at the state department and presented him with a quantity of California grape juice in a eusalyptus wood case with a silver inscription plate.

The secretary said Mrs. Bryan made the best grape juice in the world, but that he would be delighted to try the California article.

London Brokers Caught In Slump

London, June 14.—Two failures were announced on the London stock exchange. One was the brokerage firm of Benito Weiser, a house having large continental connections. The other is that of Percy Browning. Both failures were caused by the recent heavy slump in the stock market.

BLAZE ON FIFTH AVENUE

Small Barn Burned and House Takes Fire

Awakened in the night by the roaring of flames consuming an unoccupied barn on the next lot, Mrs. Olympia Di Grazia and her 12 year old son James aroused the other four members of the family and ran to the street when they thought their house at 21 Fifth avenue was doomed.

In the meantime a neighbor sounded box 174.

The flames soon reduced the barn to ashes while the fire communicated to the roof of the Di Grazia house. Working in under the eaves it slowly crept toward the ridgepole and before the department could head it off a large hole had been burned in the roof. The house is owned by Harry Gallagher and was damaged about $200. The barn was owned by Joseph Delorey and the loss is about $200.

The first to arrive was the auto chemical and in lightning time a line of hose was laid to the barn . Couplings had just been tightened when the Point apparatus arrived and their line was quickly laid. The latter company protected the barn and home of Harry Gallagher and kept fire from spreading to them after a hard fight. The house fire was fought from the chemical in the Chief's car at first and when they had broken away the roof hiding the seat of the fire the auto's line quenched it.

The alarm sounded at 1.15 A. M. On the first tap of the second round the auto chugged down Quincy avenue with a full crew. Arriving at the fire no time was lost in making connections and but a short time elapsed before the water was pouring into the building.

When the department rounded Glencoe place onto South street they plunged into a pitchy darkness. Two arc lights were not burning and they were obliged to slow down because of the apparent danger. The all out sounded at 2.05 A. M.

Makaria Fraternity

SUNDAY 12 TO 1—SHARP
Bethany Church, City Square

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.

A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

A pair of mules from the 101 Ranch became unmanageable on Water street and throwing their rider started on the run toward City Square. On the corner they ran into a pole taking off some of the signs. They then collided with Schwartz vegetable wagon upsetting it and scattering the vegetables along the street. The man thrown was apparently unhurt for he got up and started the runaway mules which he succeeded in capturing.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOKING SHAD.

SHAD is a fish that is generally popular. Boiled, baked, broiled or fried, it is an appetizing and nourishing food.

A delicious way of broiling the fish is as follows:

When Broiled or Fried.

Broiled Shad.—Prepare and clean the fish. Split and take out the backbone; then marinate in olive oil seasoned with salt, pepper, minced onion and parsley. Drain and broil. Baste with the olive oil. Serve on a hot platter garnished with watercress. Maitre d'hotel sauce may be served with this.

Maitre d'Hotel Sauce.—Take half a cupful of butter and work into it a teaspoonful of minced parsley and all the lemon juice it will take up.

The sauce may also be made by melting the butter, adding to it a teaspoonful of minced parsley and the juice of half a lemon.

Fried Shad.—Clean and lay the fish in very cold water for a few minutes, dry and split the fish down the back and cut each half into four pieces. Dip in beaten egg and then in cracker dust and set in the icebox for an hour or two. Fry in deep hot fat to golden brown. Drain off the grease and lay on a hot platter. Garnish with parsley and slices of lemon.

For baking select a thick shad and prepare as follows:

Two Ways of Baking.

Baked Shad.—Cut off the head and tail of the shad, split down the back and remove the backbone and the small bones along the edge. Wash, but do not allow the fish to lie in cold water. Dry with a piece of cheesecloth. Brush a shallow pan with a tablespoonful of drippings and lay the shad in, skin side down. Sprinkle with a teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of white pepper. Melt a tablespoonful of butter and put over the shad. Dust with a little flour and pour over one-half cupful of milk. Put into very hot oven twenty-five to thirty minutes. Bake till light brown. The hotter the oven the better the shad will be.

Planked Shad.—Split the shad as for broiling and place it on a buttered fish plank with the skin side next to the wood. Rub with melted butter, season with salt and pepper and place in the oven to cook. Baste with melted butter seasoned with walnut ketchup. Serve on the plank, bordered with mashed potatoes and garnished with slices of lemon and sprigs of watercress. Use any sauce preferred.

THE MERRY MONTH OF JUNE.

It is an acknowledged fact that the month of June belongs to the sweet girl graduate and the happy bride,—June the month of rose buds and roses!

The young girl turns her eager face toward the world with its opportunities for social pleasures and service, and the bride leaves the home nest, with mingled feelings of regret and joy, to make a home of her own in the month of June.

Both are busy with their preparations for the Day of Days—the Graduation and the Wedding. The simple but dainty dress of the graduate and the more elaborate gown of the bride require thought and planning.

There is a shop in Quincy where these outfits may be found. Willing clerks are ready to help select dainty dresses, gloves, ribbons and lingerie for both. The bride—in addition—will be interested in the attractive assortment of table linen and, in fact, all kinds of household linen. This shop goes by the name of D. E. Wadsworth & Co., or the "Shirt Waist Store."

GALEN GETS A PROMISE

Secretary Daniels Will Send Warship If Possible

Secretary of the Navy Daniels was the guest of the Boston Press club at lunch this noon. While at dinner he was interviewed by Galen Vinton Bowditch, Quincy's hustling collector for the Fourth of July funds. Galen urged upon Secretary Daniels the assigning of a battleship for Quincy waters on the Fourth. Secretary Daniels informed the old veteran that he would do the best he could to have a battleship assigned for Quincy.

WOODWARD PARTY.

The Prophecy party given the seniors by the juniors was held on the Woodward lawn Friday evening. The ground were illuminated with Japanese lanterns and colored lights. A bevy of pretty girls in costume danced the "Butterfly" and a folk dance under the direction of Miss Maccarty. Music was furnished by Miss Beale, piano, Miss Emma Walker, violin, and Miss Helen Moulton, violin.

The class history was read by Miss Margaret Read and the prophecy by Miss Catherine Merrill. Refreshments were served, consisting of ices and cakes. After the outdoor pleasures were completed all adjourned to the gym where dancing was enjoyed until 10.30. The teachers of the school and Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Rice were the guests of the evening.

Joseph Foster, William Walsh, Sr. and William Walsh, Jr., of Everett street, East Boston, were arrested by Officer Healey for Quincy officers by whom they were wanted for digging clams without a permit at Quincy. They were arraigned in court this morning and their cases continued until June 28.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES
QUINCY LODGE OF ELKS

Patriotic Address of Lieutenant Governor Walsh Struck Popular Chord

Many Tributes to the Flag and to the Elks

The flag day exercises Sunday afternoon at the Kincaide theatre under the auspices of Quincy Lodge of Elks was one of the prettiest services of its kind ever held in Quincy. The exercises were very largely attended, the members of Paul Revere post, the Sons of Veterans and Spanish War veterans, the Woman's Relief corps, Daughters of Veterans, and Ladies Auxiliary occupying seats in the centre front.

The stage was set to represent a lodge room. Across the front of the stage was a row of potted plants with a massive bouquet of roses in the centre while on either side of the stage were American flags.

The exercises opened with a prelude by Wilson's orchestra which was followed by the ritualistic opening exercises by the officers of the lodge under the direction of Philip H. Sullivan, exalted ruler. Following the prayer by the chaplain C. P. Gould the Temple quartette sang the Lord's Prayer.

Hon. Eugene R. Stone, mayor of Quincy, was then introduced, and read a history of the flag from the landing of the Mayflower in 1620 until the adoption of the present flag, June 14, 1777, or 136 years ago which consisted of seven red and six white stripes with a blue field in which was a five pointed star representing each state in the union.

A selection of National airs by the orchestra followed and then the very impressive altar service, and the formation of the floral bell on the altar surmounted by a bar of seven five-pointed stars. First the base of red roses was placed on the altar, then the centre piece of white lilies, the crown of blue violets and the starry cross bar. Music during the formation of the bell was rendered by the quartette.

Then came the sound of a bell, eleven strokes were sounded, the mystic hour of Elkdom closing with "Our Absent Brother" by the quartette. It was a most beautiful service.

A cornet solo by Carl Rand followed after which Exalted Ruler Sullivan gave the Elks tribute to the flag. As he gave his tribute the electric fan was turned onto the two flags on either side of the stage causing them to wave proudly. Mr. Sullivan told how the flag had expanded and grew until it gave the world a name for liberty. It was a fine tribute and well rendered.

While Mr. Sullivan was delivering his tribute Lt. Gov. David I. Walsh entered the hall and was given an enthusiastic welcome. The Lieutenant Governor had intended to arrive earlier but his train from Fitchburg had broken down and he had to leave the train and come by automobile.

Following a selection by the quartette, the orchestra gave a selection of songs from the sunny south and Lt. Gov. Walsh was introduced.

After the applause that greeted his introduction had died down, he said that it was fitting that these exercises commemorative of the birth of the flag should be conducted by such a representative order as the Elks. We have fraternal societies and religious societies for the purpose of perpetuating historic traditions of men but this of all orders is really and truly American, because it appeals to all men. No question of race or creed, Democrat or Republican, Catholic or Protestant, Jew or Gentile, the employer or employee, but merely that you will seek to look into the face of your fellowman as a brother and that you are loyal to America.

The great work of today is the amalgamation into one great common citizenship. Never can we break down the barriers and solve the social problems until men come together as this society does. It is fitting then that this society should perform these exercises. What does the flag mean? Why is it revered? Not for its beauty or color, but for what it represents. It means home, country, freedom and hope and opportunity. That is why we love the flag.

The sons of hundreds of thousands of families have gone out to fight for that flag. Mothers have sent their flower to preserve the Union. The remnants of the war of fifty years ago are with you today as a glory of the sacrifice made by them for the flag. Valley Forge, Gettysburg, and the rescue of Cuba are all well known to you, and you all know the sacrifices that have been made.

There are men who question the future of the flag but he had no such a feeling. Never was there a time when men of the American people were more willing to make sacrifices for it than today in which we live.

People consider the great problems but never the government for which it stands. The best thing of all was the love for it whereby the mother may look into the eyes of her babe and say, "I live under a flag and government where there is every opportunity for this babe to rule over the country." No other flag in the world stands for that.

How much it means to those from other countries who come here to seek homes and a new life. It means that they are coming to a land where every man has an equal right and there is no higher type than that of citizenship under that flag. Charity, brotherly love, fidelity and justice. That flag stands for all these. These mottoes of this order mean that the flag shall give something of charity, brotherly love to the millions of people.

Every great movement, every great law has been dedicated along the line of making this a great industrial nation but this flag stands not alone for industrial and great development but for humanitarianism in government. Our government has said the lives of children shall not be stunted by work in the mills, but that they shall be preserved, that the people of the future shall be able to handle the great questions. That is our mission, that is our tribute to the flag, so that when we are through we will leave our flag to those to whom it will mean more.

LT. GOV. WALSH.

We think of what the Romans did, and of the privations of the loyalty of Peasants on the Alps, but I think of our patriotism and the love for Christian republic.

Lt. Gov. Walsh closed his brilliant address by reciting that well known poem "Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself had said, this is my home my native land."

The exercises closed by all rising and uniting in singing "America."

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THE MERRY MONTH OF JUNE.

It is an acknowledged fact that the month of June belongs to the sweet girl graduate and the happy bride,—June the month of rose buds and roses!

The young girl turns her eager face toward the world with its opportunities for social pleasures and service, and the bride leaves the home nest, with mingled feelings of regret and joy, to make a home of her own in the month of June.

Both are busy with their preparations for the Day of Days—the Graduation and the Wedding. The simple but dainty dress of the graduate and the more elaborate gown of the bride require thought and planning.

There is a shop in Quincy where these outfits may be found. Willing clerks are ready to help select dainty dresses, gloves, ribbons and lingerie for both. The bride—in addition—will be interested in the attractive assortment of table linen and, in fact, all kinds of household linen. This shop goes by the name of D. E. Wadsworth & Co., or the "Shirt Waist Store."

QUINCY BORN PRIESTS
AT SOLEMN HIGH MASS

Celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of St John's Church Opened

Notable Sermon by Rev. Fr. Daniel C. Riordan

The golden jubilee week of St. John's parish was opened Sunday with a solemn high mass at which only Quincy born priests participated. In the evening a solemn high vespers was sung.

The 50th anniversary of St. John's parish marks an epoch in the growth of Catholicism in the archdiocese of Boston and friends from far and near, in addition to many members of the parish, attended the services.

Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins of Amesbury was the celebrant. Rev. Fr. Daniel C. Riordan of Newton Centre was the deacon and also delivered the sermon, and Rev. Fr. William T. Deasey of Randolph was the subdeacon. Rev. Fr. Walter R. Fegan of Woburn was master of ceremonies and seated within the sanctuary were Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, the pastor and Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe, a former curate, at present pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic.

The musical portion of the service was McEroy's mass, sung by an augmented choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. A quartette assisted, consisting of Joseph Morrisette, Emma Ecker, Eva Rice and Marcus Mahon. The Veni Creator was sung by Joseph Morrisette, the O Salutaris by Emma Ecker, the Benedictus by Eva Rice and the Agnus Dei by Emma Ecker.

Rev. Fr. Coan, in a brief summary of the weeks events that were included in the observance of the program told of his pleasure at bidding the parishioners welcome to the golden jubilee of the parish. He announced that Tuesday morning a requiem mass would be said for the departed of the parish and that in the evening the reunion would take place in St. John's hall.

In speaking of the graduation of the school which will be held Thursday evening Father Coan said that he was happy to state that he had been advised by Albert L. Barbour, superintendant of the public schools, that an entrance examination would not be given the parochial school graduates, but that he was willing to admit them on the recommendation of the pastor.

THE SERMON.

Rev. Fr. Riordan took his text from Leviticus: XXV; 10—"Thou shalt sanctify the fiftieth year and shall proclaim remission to all the inhabitants of the land for it is the year of jubilee." He said in part:

"The divine command is ample evidence that the close of a half-century should be a time of jubilee and readjustment. Notable period it is in any life, of man or parish or people and no like period in our land of promise has been crowded with equal effort in pursuit of knowledge, wealth efficiency. If it leaves men with sounder minds in sounder bodies, with sounder parental love, filial devotion, sounder love of fellow men, sounder patriotism and firmer Godliness, it has made real progress. This progress can be only the result of greater knowledge and love. The knowledge of his eternal destiny is absolutely needed for men to live lives worthy of God and worthy of themselves.

"This knowledge has ever been at their command. God did not create to destroy. To man erect in original justice, falling or fallen, there were never denied by our long-suffering God sufficient light to know his supernatural destiny and sufficient help to achieve. In the fulness of time Jesus Christ, the Lord and God, became man and lived among men to be the Light of the World with his very own human voice and word to preach his doctrine of God and man, life and death, earth and heaven.

"Besides its response to longings and needs of mankind, its power to elevate, man-made theories of life are caricatures. To contain and preserve his truth, he chose 12 men, unfolded to them the mysteries of the kingdom, promised to be with them all days and that the Holy Ghost would bring to their minds whatsoever he had said, and when his revelation was com-

REGULATING WOMEN'S COSTUMES

Now comes the police superintendent of Indianapolis, with a regulation that women wearing the new split skirt must also wear undergarments. Also a Milwaukee judge has fined a woman for wearing a skirt that did not come within 12 inches from the ground. The latter official would find considerable work at any bathing resort.

While these efforts to enforce modesty are of course well meant, there is an authority that is far more efficient than any official created by the works of man. And that authority is Madame Grundy, the spirit of gossip, who soon enough places her fatal veto upon departure from common sense and womanliness.

It can be predicted that the near future will see radical changes in women's dress. For centuries conventionality has compelled them to swathe themselves in various layers of inner and outer clothing. These not merely concealed the form and motions of the body, but made healthful exercise difficult. The principal reason why women have missed the stimulation of athletics has been that custom did not permit them to dress for such exercise.

Any costume that hampers and restricts the physical development of half of the human race is all wrong. Time will see changes that will permit women to engage in athletics with men on nearly even terms, as far as clothes go.

Of course much of the alleged immodesty complained of in prevailing styles, is not due to a reasoned conviction that the old fashions hampered woman's best development. There is more commonly some spice of daring, some liking for the eyes of the male animal. Still, it does seem funny that so many people who are shocked by a few inches of bare skin will stoutly defend the free tendencies to nudity prevailing in the modern theatre.

In these days of eugenic marriages, it will be embarrassing for the young man who goes courting and finds he has left his medical certificate in his every day coat pocket.

The Colonel has not yet said what he should do with the six cents, but it would settle all questions if he would drop them in the contribution box on Sunday.

150,000 Brooklyn Sunday school children paraded the streets the other day. Probably a good many of them also do it during the Sunday school hour.

It is said that Weston's remarkable record is encouraging some men to walk half a mile to the office .

They are trying to get through a constitutional amendment against polygamy, but it won't affect the installment plan kind.

Shortage of capital is said to have caused the stock market break. There will never be prosperity until people can borrow all the money they want.

It is claimed that New Yory teachers are poor spellers, but it takes poor writing to show signs of real genius.

BRIDGE BILL IS SIGNED

Granite Avenue Improvement to Cost $70,000

(Special to the Ledger).

State House, June 15—Governor Foss has signed the bill calling for an appropriation of $70,000 for the construction of a new bridge over Granite avenue, Milton. The bill was introduced early in the session of the legislature.

For several years it has been the belief of the members of the Quincy Board of Trade and the West Quincy Improvement Association, that a new bridge over the Neponset river at this point would mean considerable to Quincy, particularly West Quincy, as it would probably be the forerunner of a street railway extension. Throughout both organizations there has been a spirit of co-operation and Peter T. Fallon, who fathered the proposition, did good work in its favor.

The present bridge is wooden and hardly strong enough to sustain some of the heavy loads which cross it. The draw is in poor condition and the planking is in a deplorable condition A feeling of great satisfaction was expressed this morning in Quincy with the attitude of the Governor Foss.

RHODODENDRONS.

Nothing in the way of landscape gardening shows up in the panorama whizzing by the motor in these brilliant June mornings like the rhododendrons says "Listener" in the Boston Transcript. Some of them have been allowed to attain the height of saplings or the largest sumachs, and so to make the effect of an orchard of roses. The English make much more of the rhododendron than we do. The annual exhibitions of the plant in London are marvels of beauty. And yet at the beginning of the last century an English rhododendron was not to be found. Now such numbers of its hardy varieties are grown in England that their original identity and individuality are lost.

How many of those who admire the dashes of color they throw into some shadowed grove at the back of a Newport lawn have ever heard that the chief parent of these domesticated plants grows in those Sikkim hills whence Hooker, in his Himalayan journey, looked across eight other ranges of the same altitude (that is with peaks 20,000 feet high) in dazzling snow, sixty miles away? It was with such a background that he found the rhododendrons in their native habitat. Some, wide-branching, covered the ground with canopies of flowers; others, striking root on stalwart trees, crept and twined themselves in wreaths about their trunks From the modest displays in our gardens but a faint idea may be formed of the splendor of the rhododendron in native haunts, where the "R. arboreum" grows to twenty feet or more and trunks are measured thirteen and sixteen feet in girth.

The plant loves moisture; it cannot stand the severe summer drought so frequent in some parts of this country and, not thriving in limestone districts it is successfully cultivated only in the Atlantic States from Massachusetts to Virginia. To have it in perfection the rhododendron should be planted in well-drained peat ,or in a soil composed mostly of decayed leafmould. It also needs sheltering from the winter sun, which is harmful to so many evergreens.

Amateurs in the cultivation of these plants succeed in flowering a great many of them together and presenting an effect that can be compared only to a cloud of the tenderest colors congealed into bouquet-crystals of radiant blooms. But all these exquisite variations of color, so delicately commingling the red, white and blue, are the hybrid productions of the gardener's skill, the inter-breeding of the Indian with the hardy American sorts, semi-hardy varieties that flower well in our tolerably temperate climate. The wonder is that our florists do not make more of our native rhododendrons. They have brought marvellous changes over the common garden rose, and have transfigured the common daisy; the way is here open for further triumphs in the floral kingdom.

FIRST 90 DEGREE DAY.

The temperature at noon today reached the high water mark for this season when the mercury registered 90 degrees. There were but three days in June last year when the temperature was as high. They were June 25, 91 degees; June 26 and 29, 90 degrees. A year ago today the temperature at noon was but 69 degrees.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

QUINCY BORN PRIESTS

pleted, and it was eternally completed at his ascension, he sent them with all his power on and in earth to teach all his truth for all days, to preach his gospel to every creature—to be witnesses to it to the uttermost parts of the earth.

"They were to suffer death for truth as He had but his words were not to pass away. In the persons of their undying successors and their voice men were to hear God forever and the prophecy be fulfilled; 'And there shall come a Savior to Israel and to them that return from iniquity in Judea.' This is my covenant with thee: "My spirit that is in thee and my words that I have put in thy mouth shall not depart out of thy mouth nor out of the mouth of thy seed nor out of the mouth of thy seed's seed from henceforth, now and forever."

"The early church is the most competent witness as to the Apostles leaving properly commissioned successors Then, surely, error and sin could not have triumphed nor the gates of hell prevailed. They acknowledged an infallible, living, teaching body, commissioned by Christs authority and easily recognizable as the depository of Apostolic truth, a means sufficient for all and all-sufficient.

"Imagine their astonishment could they be hailed and highly favored with the loud-resounding new learning and enfranchising ressurrection of a thousand years after that 'struck the death blow to superstition and priestcraft and religious thraldom' could they learn that their fathers and prelates were not successors of Christs apostles because they had no successors and could have no successors, but that it was foreordained that each one by the flickering light of his own little lamp must search for the Scriptures and discover for himself God's truth in them alone. Why must they?

"The Scriptures themselves do not do it because they are Scriptures and they cannot be the sole rule of faith for they cannot of themselves prove they are authentic. The Apostles have not said it. Jesus Christ said nothing of the kind. Personal, individual inspiration was never promised by the Apostles of Christ or Christ himself. Reasoning and reaching personal conviction of reasonableness of truths revealed by Christ is nothing like His word.

"Then and now, and through antiquity, when God, unlike in Christ's day, so explicitly and repeatedly commissioned the writing of his truth, although even then 'the lips of the priests preserved wisdom and the law was to be sought from their mouth,' always the living teaching, divinely commissioned body was to deliver true knowledge of text and truth that faith indispensibly necessary, might be attained by all.

"It was and is the only sufficient provision and shows forth unity and harmony of divine method and ensures anything like one faith in one divine truth. Men can close their eyes and their ears but they must do so through the concupisence of the eyes, concupisence of the flesh or pride of life to fail of reaching truth faith or lose it when found.

"This is the only thing to explain life and its duties, to nourish real wisdom and virtue, to enable men to grow steadily better and to make half centuries eras of real progress and their complete jubilee before God and man.

"And so this church comes down to us this day bringing to all of us gathered here fond memories of days that are gone, of faithful friends who have passed to their reward, sturdy pioneers of the faith in the parish. And the day also brings great promises for the future if we by our lives give to others an example as inspiring as that left by the men and women who formed this parish 50 years ago.

"What inspirations we can gain from those of the past. The great Fr. Roddan, who built the first St. John's church, struggling against the adversities of his time that we cannot appreciate. Then came Fr. Halley, directly opposite in temperament; positive in his opinions but kindly and respected by all. And then came the saintly Fr. Sullivan who, it seemed to us who know not the workings of divine Providence was taken from us all too soon. And then came the son of the order founded by St. Francis, a pastor remembered by most of us all here. He went about doing good and as a dispenser of good deeds Fr. Francis will be remembered for years to come.

"And on this auspicious occasion your present pastor, Rev. Fr. Coan, has reason to feel glad of this day. A priest consecrated to the Lord 25 years ago this month, this occasion is a double jubilee for him. His work and devotion in other places are well known. The fruits of his work here are already apparent. It is my wish and I know it is the wish of every parishioner of St. John's that the true ring that has come with his silver jubilee may, 25 years hence, be turned to a golden sound.

"I cannot let this occasion go by without saying a word for that kindly, sympathetic priest who sits within the altar railing today; a man who served as curate here for nearly a quarter of a century. You all know him and love him as I do. May God Almighty long spare to us Rev. Fr. Cuffe."

THE VESPERS.

In the evening the officers of the vespers were Rev. Fr. William T. Deasey, celebrant; Rev. Fr. Walter R. Fegan, deacon; Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins, sub deacon, and Rev. Fr. John J. Casey, master of ceremonies. On the altar were Rev. John J. Coan, Rev. Fr. JJohn P. Cuffe and Rev. Fr. Walter Quinlan.

CHILDREN'S DAY IN CHURCHES

Wollaston Unitarians Celebrate an Anniversary

The perfect June day, the large congregation that filled every pew, the exquisite floral decorations, the happy faces of the children, the beautiful notes of a canary joining with the children's voices—all these helped to make Children's Sunday a red letter day in the life of the church.

The service opened with the doxology, followed by a recital of "Our Faith," the Lord's Prayer and the Gloria Patri. After the singing the familiar song, "I think when I read that sweet story of old" five children were baptized in the name of God our heavenly Father, and into the faith and fellowship of Jesus Christ, after the parents had solemnly promised to instruct the children in the gospe l of Jesus Christ the best of their ability to train them in the principles of all right living, to help them to be fearless, impartial and reverent seekers after truth and to set the children such an example, as they may safely follow. The children were Priscilla Abigail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Gorham Nickerson, Jr., George Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Reed Wheeler; Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Rohn; Lewis Littlefield and Dorothy Catherine, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bertram Ela and grandchildren of the first deacon in the church.

Bibles in commemoration of the tenth anniverscary of their baptism were presented to Richard Wilmarth, Moulton, Helen Chamberlain Seymour and Martha Cary Pratt.

The appeal from Fred M. Rollins for funds to aid in the relief of weary and careworn mothers and to restore to health sickly and emaciated children resulted in a large collection.

One of the features of the service was the singing of a song sung at the first Children's service of our church in Boynton and Russell hall in 1889.

Supt. Frank A. Page, then gave out pins, not as a reward, but in recognition of faithful attendance upon the seniors of the Sunday school, to Earle Cath, Clarence Cath, Carl George Horst, Gretchen C. Horst, Judith Page, Anna Weston, Frances Adams, Dorothy Holmes, Julia Polk, Marcia Adams, Hope Robinson, Dorris Broker, Elsie Thurber, Virginia Bishop, Priscilla Robinson.

The sermon to the children was from the text "Watch and pray, lest ye enter into temptation." Mark 14-38. Rev. Mr. Horst told most interestingly the story of the "Arab and his Camel," which held the attention of both young and old. He said: "Beware of the Camel of Dishonesty. Do not allow it to put its nose into your heart, for it is sure to put in the whole body also, displacing whatever honor and integrity there is in a boy, pushing the boy out into the cold, and putting him at last behind the bars at Concord Reformatory. Beware of this camel. Do what is right. Establish for yourselves a character that can be trusted. I know of nothing worse than not to have the trust and confidence of the people of the neighborhood in which you live.

Again there comes the temptation to touch liquor. Older boys will invite you to "come along," "just this once," "don't be a coward. Now it takes backbone, conviction and principle to say "no." Blessed is the boy who realizes the danger that lurks in the first glass of liquor. Blessed is the girl that has decided positively to have nothing to do with one who is addicted to liquor. In total abstinence alone is absolute protection against intemperance. All drunkards have become such through moderate drinking. I advise you not to touch, handle or taste it.

My young friends beware lest some camel forces its nose into your heart. Look out for the nose. If that gets in, the whole body is likely to follow. Thus instead of being masters of yourselves you become slaves of evil thoughts and habits and purposes. All is lost, then, and like the Arab you are crowded out of your tent and must shiver in the cold. Therefore watch and pray that no wicked camel takes possession of your heart. Amen."

The floral decorations, in charge of Frederick H. Bishop and Mrs. C. G. Horst, included an abundance of mountain laurel from Worcester county, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Poole, exquisite roses from Mr . and Mrs. Arthur Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bishop and others.

The church will be closed during July and August. Sunday morning, June 29, the last service of worship of the season will be held. The church reopens Sunday Sept. 7.

Rev. Carl G. Horst and family will spend their vacation at Nestledown in Ossipee, N. H. The pastor will gladly respond to any call and asks that he be notified by telegram.

All the members of the Kindergarten department and the Cradle Roll are cordially invited by the Ladies' Aid Alliance to attend a party Wednesday from 3 to 5 in the vestry. If Wednesday should be stormy the party will be held the following day.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The Sunday school has voted to discontinue its regular sessions after Sunday, June 29, and to resume them again on Sept. 7. But it also voted to provide for those who desire to meet for Bible Study during July and August.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M. E. church took two texts for his Sunday morning service. The first from Luke 2-40—"And the child grew and waxed streng in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him." The second was from Luke 2-52.—"And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."

Mr. Martin preached a good helpful sermon for young people speaking of the early life of the Christ and pointing out the lessons for young people of today. The choir sang "Consider the Lilies." A special collection for the Educational Fund was taken.

A children's day concert was given in the evening at 7 o'clock. The pleasing program included choruses by the school; prayer; responses; an exercise on our emblems by Edith Trask, Ethel Miller, Grace Newcomb and Mona Norris; and recitations by Doris Trotman, Charles Hazel, Ivy Trottman, Marion Cormack, Edith Trask, Ralph Newcomb, Henry Nichols, Charles Stewart, Ethel Nichols, Ethel Newcomb and Hilda Francis, and a short address by the paster.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

Rev. Sharman Goodwin continues to occupy the pulpit of the Washington Street Congregational church and preached an excellent sermon Sunday morning subject, "Live in the presence of God."

The pulpit will be supplied next Sunday, and Rev. Mr. Goodwin will preach June 29.

The prayer meetings have been resumed and are held on Friday evenings at 7.30.

BON VOYAGE.

John Johnson of Broadway was given a farewell party at Electa hall Saturday evening and presented with a signet ring by his associates and friends. He sails for Scotland on Saturday. The presentation was made by John J. Johnson and songs were sung by May McGregor, Hugh Boyle and Edward Pole. Dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Donald McLachlan and Joseph Murray. The committee included Robert Millar, Edward Cole, James Murray, Mrs. Nellie Nugent and Mrs. Agnes Carruthers.

COUNTY FAIR AT BRAINTREE

Well Known People Do Some Great Stunts

The third grand yearly event of the Friendly Aid Association was held on French's common, South Braintree, Saturday afternoon, June 14.

The first attempt last year was so entirely successful and met with such hearty support from all of Braintree's people that the affair was repeated this year on a similarly large scale. The church bells at 1 o'clock rang simultaneously announcing the fact that the celebration was in progress. Those who reached the common early were busy with the different attractions until two o'clock when the Doll carriage parade was started. There were nearly seventy carriages in line.

The committee in charge of this feature was Mrs. Harry W. Hall, assisted by Miss Harriet Hill of the Pond school, Miss Elizabeth Pray of the Abraham Lincoln school, Miss A. R. Howard and Miss Ada MacDonald of the Hollis school. The parade was a very pretty sight, many novel and original ideas were expressed in the decorations of the carriages and the costumes of those who accompanied them.

Little Katherine Church impersonated the district nurse and upon the stretcher in her carriage was a doll dressed as a convalescent patient. It was the most unique equipage in the parade and received the prize of a gauze fan.

Willis Butterworth showed great originality and his pen containing two white bantam hens received the prize for the oddest display. He was presented with a folding drinking cup in a leather case. Little Elsie Trufant was the smallest girl in line and was given a tiny dressed dolly. The prettiest outfit in the procession was that of Leora Torrey. Sh received a pair of gold clasp pins.

The smallest boy was Otis B. Oakman, Jr., who was so tiny that it took the judges some time to find him and award him his prize. He received a set of sand moulds and spoon.

Other contestants worthy of mention were Eleanor Drinkwater whose carriage and costume were in the Dutch fashion, Elizabeth Hall who was very attractive as an ox-eyed daisy with "Dinah" in the carriage, Esther Drake looking very sweet as a jonquil Eleanor Knight as an Indian, Doris Sampson with her decorations of American flags, Ruth Rollins who dressed as a squaw and carried her papoose on her back and Margaret Arnold whose dress was 75 years old and whose doll carriage and doll were over 50 years old.

Rebecca Gallagher, in white over pink with her carriage garlanded with streamers of green was a symphony in pink and green.

Another cute rig was that of Master Paul Freeman with his teddy bear in a wheelbarrow.

There were a great many others having unique costumes and the parade was the feature of the afternoon. The detachment of boy scouts who led the line in command of Sergeant Harry Moulton was a novel addition to the spectacle.

The Stoughton brass band played while the suffragettes were preparing to appear.

The first prize was awarded to Dr. C. Haworth whose complete mastery of the idea of costume and hair dressing easily gave him first place. Arthur W. Kirkpatrick took the second ribbon. The ladies simply fell for and would have second place for him. His naive ways and the delicate handling of his parasol completely captivated their hearts.

Harrison W. Macomber showed the rapid growth of the Indian squaw and for so doing was unanimously awarded the yellow ribbon.

Dr. W. Porter Pratt wore the emancipated costume of the Chinese and easily captured fourth place.

The judges for this latter event were Ralph L. Wiggin, William L. Gage, Mrs. C. A. Sullivan, Mrs. Eugene Webber, Mrs. W. H. J. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Otis B. Oakman who after mature and discriminating care gave out the ribbons to the entire satisfaction of everybody. The efficient judges of the former contest were Mrs. Caroline M. Bill, Elmer E. Abercrombie and Mrs. George H. Hamblett.

The gate was in charge of I. Wendell Hammons, ably assisted by C. S. Hanaford who as "barkers" rivalled the famous Coney Island shouters. Among the field attractions were the pony carts driven by Eleanor Drinkwater and Alice Wilson, giving many children a joy ride. Frederick C. Folsom assisted by Samuel and Lemuel, two dusky venders kept the populace supplied with peanuts. Mr. A. A. Smith sold cigars. W. E. Knowlton had charge of the "cover the spot" game which proved interesting.

The fortune telling booths were in charge of Mrs. Zama King Burke of Quincy and Mrs. Sarah Oakes of East Braintree who told past, present and future and were busy the entire afternoon.

The pail and ball was capably cared for by George L. Anderson. The putting green was in charge of Harrison W. Macomber and attracted large crowds. The general scheme of decorating the booths which were in charge of the various churches was crepe paper, flags, bunting, Japanese lanterns and in some cases the attendants were in costume corresponding to the idea of the booth.

The Japanese tea garden in charge of the South Congregational church was presided over by some near-japs who dispensed refreshing beverages. The ladies in charge were Mrs. Tyler E. Gale, the Misses Ruth Robbins, Mary Dyer, Louise Wetherbee, Lillian Tenney, Olive Robbins, Evelyn Tenney and Masters Harlow and Russell Thayer. The decorations were in charge of Mrs. James H. Kilbrith. The cake table was run by the same management and the ladies in attendance were Mrs. Charles F. Luce, Mrs. Thomas Downey, Mrs. J. C. Briggs, Mrs. Chas. E. Gilman and Mrs. Paul Jennings.

The candy counter was well stocked and generously patronized. Those serving were delegated from the several churches interested in the County Fair. The chairman was Mrs. A. Humphrey Smith assisted by the Misses Ethel Sanguinnette, Claire Steven-

THROWN FROM CAR.

Benjamin C. Leonard, one of the long residents of Houghs Neck, fell from a car in City Square Saturday night but fortunately was but little injured. He was standing on the running board stowing away some bundles under one of the seats when the car struck the switch at the junction of Saville street. The jar caused the car to give a lurch which threw Mr. Leonard off. He was taken to the office of Dr. Garey where it was found that no bones had been broken but that he had received a bad shaking up. He was then taken home.

The accident is one that many have feared might happen any time. When the cars arrive from Houghs Neck many people make a rush for the car while it is unloading near the fountain in order to get a seat often being unable to obtain a seat when the car starts for Saville street. Thus it was with Mr. Leonard. He had an arm full of bundles and boarded the car near the fountain and was busily at work stowing away the bundles under the seat when the lurch of the car threw him off.

DISTRICT COURT.

James A. Donovan was fined $15 John Moore $15, William C. Bates $15, Michael Cross $15, Thomas J. Roache $10, William Kelley $10, James A. Parker $10, and Andrew McIntosh $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William Haney was arraigned for indecent exposure at Quincy. He was sentenced to one month in the house of correction and sentence was suspended until Dec. 19.

Parents who have never bought their children's clothes in Quincy find that they can do even better here than out of town. There will be many suits from Remicks at the graduation exercises next week.

BLOCK SIGNALS ORDERED

Would Have Prevented Granite Branch Accident

The Railroad Commissioners have made their findings on the Granite branch disaster near the Braintree junction which occurred April 28, when a passenger train from West Quincy and an extra work train from Braintree met in a head on collision, resulting in injuries to 30 or 40 people, largely residents of West Quincy who were on their way to work.

The board orders that the road instal at once on the West Quincy branch block signals of such type and in such locations as may be approved by the board.

According to the commission's findings the conductor of the work train was ordered by the towerman at Braintree to wait on a side track until the passenger train from Boston, which was proceeding over the single track of the West Quincy branch arrived at Braintree.

Another train via the main line came along to the Braintree station, which was assumed by both the conductor and the engineer of the work train to be the train via the branch for which they had been ordered to wait.

The work-train accordingly proceeded along the branch line, when the collision resulted.

The engineer of the work train claimed that he received from his conductor the signal to proceed, but the conductor denied giving such signal. The board finds, however, that the engineer did not have the benefit of knowing the conversation between the towerman and the conductor at the Braintree station.

The board states the various rules of the New Haven Road relating to the conduct of engineers and conductors, but finds that their provisions are not as explicit as those of some other roads with respect to the joint and equal responsibility of the engineman and conductor.

The board adds: "Had the rules of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company required the engineer of the work train to make an examination of the register at the Braintree Station before leaving, or to have received a clearance card before entering upon the branch line, his exact responsibility with reference to the accident would be less difficult to determine.

"This accident belongs in the preventable class, and the board recommends the adoption of such rules and the enforcement of such discipline as will tend to prevent the recurrence of accidents of this or a similar character."

SEER PREDICTED RUIN OF GOTHAM

Yellow Invaders and Negroes Will Throw Dice For Spoils

Paris, June 16.—There is much talk here of the death of one of the most picturesque figures in Europe, Maria B. Frey, who breathed her last near Rome after having been bedridden fifty-two years. She is said to have made many predictions which were fulfilled with absolute accuracy, which gives a sinister significance to her last utterance dictated on her deathbed to the nuns:

"Before two years are past—about the end of 1914—yellow invaders and negroes will be throwing dice for the fate of the last American girl in Central park, New York, amid the smoking ruins of the great city, given up to the idolatrous cult of the Golden Calf."

WED BY OWN RITES

Fifth Matrimonial Venture of Doctor Well Along In Years

Beaver, Pa., June 16.—Dr. Askelon Mercer, 75 years old, of Beaver Falls, and Sarah L. Cosgrove, 65 years old, of Wetzel county, W. Va., performed their own marriage ceremony here.

When the pair obtained their license they informed Clerk Hamilton that all they needed was a license.

Mercer stated that he had been married five times and that in each instance he and his bride had performed their own ceremony, always in the presence of two witnesses.

SHOCK IS WIDESPREAD

Earthquake Felt In Several Parts of Southeastern Europe

Sofia, June 16.—An earthquake was felt throughout Bulgaria and serious damage is reported from the central districts.

London, June 16.—Dispatches from various points in southeastern Europe indicate that the earthquake reported from Sofia was widespread. At Bucharest two distinct shocks were experienced. Several towns in southern Hungary also were affected. In none of these places, however, was there any serious damage.

Many Drowning Accidents

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

"Food by Weight" is New York Innovation of Which Massachusetts Housewives are Talking — Short Weight Evil is said to be Rampant in New England—"Justice, not Chivalry" is Suffragist's Slogan—Yet she Wants Both—Slumless Hub is Praised by Visiting English Woman—Astronomical Trust Gives Interesting Employment to Many Women Astronomers—How one Hundred Thousand Stars are being Catalogued.

The new New York law that food stuffs must be sold by weight, measure or actual count" is interesting many Boston housewives who have long been cognizant of the short weight evil as it exists in many Hub mercantile establishments. There was an investigation of dealers' scales in Boston some time ago which showed that some 38 per cent of them were defective—almost invariably to the detriment of the consumer. Some temporary corrections of this situation were made, but the New England capital has had no such scheme of regulation as the metropolis is now trying out. An interesting fact brought out by the law that went into operation on June 1 in Gotham is that many Boston manufacturers of food products are likely to be barred out of the Empire State's chief city unless they mend their ways. It is stated, for example, that certain Boston cracker makers are sending out packages made to look larger than others sold at the same price but which really contain two and a half ounces less of food than they should. Uplift advertising associations make much of the slogan "Made in New England"; such instances suggest one possible line of usefulness in applying moral suasion.

"What we want is not chivalry but justice." The remark is attributed to Miss Margaret Foley, speaking at one of the open air meetings which the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association is holding in various parts of greater Boston. The sure thing is that Miss Foley is of the kind who are out to secure both. In the course of her speaking to all sorts of audiences for several years past no one has more effectively mingled daring and dignity than this eloquent young Irishwoman, huskily athletic(she was formerly a swimming teacher) and thoroughly feminine (as in her treatment of numerous offers of marriage which her work has brought her.) Miss Foley is one whom a man may folly but whom he may not trifle with. In her earnest way she is appealing to men to see to it that the proposed constitutional amendment granting equal suffrage shall go to the people three years from now. This she urges as a simple act of justice.

The slumless Hub has been praised again—this time by an Englishwoman, Miss Evelyn S. Clarkson, who is studying child labor, sweat shops and similar social problems in the United States. She finds that the poorest quarters of Boston are Arcadian compared with the East End of London and that the children of these districts appear to be well clothed, well fed and contented. One rather wonders if she ran upon any of the cases that occasionally are reported through some of the charitable associations—like that of a family of seven, the father too consumptive to work and the total income from the labor of two children less than eight dollars a week. Still, it probably is true, as a generalization that even the very poor in Boston are better off than the corresponding class in foreign cities. That accounts for most of the immigration.

Of all the world's great trusts the star trust, which has its headquarters at the Harvard university astronomical observatory, is perhaps the most beneficent, and it is one in which women have reason for being specially interested since so much of its important work is done by members of their sex. That the trust exists hardly seems doubtful, for every now and then some astronomer somewhere raises his voice to say that it is impossible to do anything in astronomy except through the Harvard observatory or one of its affiliations. The actual work performed at the observatory at least looks very interesting to the visitor who sees sharp eyed young women perpetually engaged in examining negatives and recording the results of their observations. They do not have to sit up nights to discover new stars and comets and other things. One man with a photographic outfit can take pictures enough of the heavens on a starry night to keep a score of women observers busy for a long time. From the photographic records of the sky which cover a period of more than 30 years, Miss Annie J. Cannon and her helpers are at work on a great catalogue of 100,000 stars which will supplement the now antiquated Draper catalogue of about 10,000 stars

It will be published some four years hence and will be a monument not only to the profund scholarship of Director Edward C. Pickering but of the patience and thoroughness of his corps of women assistants. Among the stars to be catalogued are many absolutely new ones, of which more have been detected by the Harvard negatives than fit any other way.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are The Voices Of Quincy People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Quincy people are in this chorus. Here's a Quincy case.

Charles J. Somers, barber, 17 Newcomb St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I had a lame back and weak kidneys for ten years. Nothing ever relieved me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They soon restored my kidneys to their proper working order and corrected the other ailments. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills after they helped me so much, and I have watched their effect in other cases since. I have no reason to change my high opinion of them. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills off and on and I wouldn't be without a supply."

MELLEN WILL FACE PROBERS

New Haven's President to Testify at Wreck Inquest

WILL APPEAR VOLUNTARILY

Coroner Will Go Deeply Into Questions Brought Up Thus Far—Will Probably Make Demand For "Work Book," Which Has Disappeared—Experts to Examine Locomotive

Stamford, Conn., June 16.—Coroner Phelan and Prosecutor Carter, investigating the rear end collision between the two sections of the New York-Boston express of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad on Thursday, spent Sunday analyzing the testimony already given at the inquest by Charles J. Doherty, the engine driver, whose locomotive crushed six to death and injured a score of others, as well as the testimony of other witnesses.

They are preparing for the expected examination of Charles S. Mellen, president of the road, and of P. O. Sauer, assistant superintendent of the Pullman company in New York city. One of his counsel said the railroad president would be a voluntary witness before the coroner.

The paramount question is where rests the responsibility for the equipment of the road. Phelan will go deep into the question of the reasons for using an old wooden parlor car, the alleged stiffness of the reversing lever and the air brakes of Doherty's locomotive and the belief expressed by one New Haven official that it is impossible automatically to compel obedience to signals.

The work book, in which Doherty testified he entered a complaint that the air brakes of his locomotive were "no good," is reported to have been taken from the roundhouse to the company's offices at New Haven. Phelan will probably make a formal demand for its production.

When Clayton M. Woodward, general superintendent of the road, was being examined the coroner asked:

"Have you any engine drivers who are not fully competent and efficient?"

"We believe there are none," replied Woodward, "and along that very line we have been giving careful attention to our men, holding personal interviews with conductors as well as engine drivers."

Woodward went on to describe the efforts made by the road recently to make the men better observe the rules. He said the road was constantly experimenting with new devices to make travel safer, to which Phelan replied:

"I wish the public would cease to travel on this line until the experiments you tell me you are carrying on prove successful, don't you?"

John Harmon, the engine driver whose place was taken by Doherty when Harmon was "laid off" for running by a signal in the locomotive which figured in the wreck, said the running levers were stiff. He said he did not have great trouble with them, because he is heavy—250 pounds.

At the request of Mellen a body of air brake experts are to be asked to examine the braking apparatus of Doherty's locomotive.

AT END OF RESOURCES

Angus Hamilton, War Correspondent, Kills Himself In New York

New York, June 16.—Angus Hamilton, a war correspondent, killed himself in his apartment at the Hotel St. Louis by cutting his throat with a razor. He was at the end of his resources after the failure of his lecture on the Balkan war.

At the outbreak of hostilities in the Balkans Hamilton was assigned to accompany a detachment of the Turkish army. He was captured by the Bulgars and imprisoned as a spy, but escaped.

Many Horses Burn to Death

Melrose, Mass., June 16.—Fifteen horses were burned to death in a fire of mysterious origin which destroyed the city stables of Melrose and caused a loss of $25,000. Devotion to an old blind horse which he has driven for several years impelled John Murphy to the sensational rescue of the only animal saved from the fire.

Langtry, Tex., June 16.—Carranza followers in Coahuila raided the Garcia ranch in that state and drove off 10,000 head of sheep owned by Walter Weatherber of Del Rio, Tex. Weatherber protested to constitutional headquarters and obtained a promise that the sheep would be returned.

SUMMER HOTEL BURNS

Guests Routed From Sleep as Flames Make Rapid Headway

Patchogue, L. I., June 16.—More than fifty men and women were forced to flee from the Lincoln House, one of the largest summer hotels here, when it was destroyed by fire early Sunday.

Several of the kitchen help were badly burned when the fire started. One of the cooks had a heavy towel in her hand when a kettle of fat boiled over and caught fire from the gas flame as it fell on the towel. The blazing towel was dropped on the floor and in a moment the woodwork of the kitchen caught fire.

The hotel was a wooden structure three stories high. Flames and smoke shot up through the stair wells and air shafts with great rapidity. Hall boys ran through all the corridors, awkening all those who were asleep. These had just time to wrap something about them and make their way out, so rapidly did the fire spread.

Fanned by a brisk breeze the hotel was soon aflame from cellar to roof. In a short while it was in ruins. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

AMERICANS RETAIN TROPHY

Defeat British Polo Challengers by a Quarter of a Goal

Westbury, N. Y., June 16.—By the narrow margin of one-quarter of one goal the American polo team won the second and deciding game of the International Cup series at the Meadowbrook club, thereby retaining the trophy for at least another year. The score was 4½ to 4¼.

The slight advantage to the United States four over the English challengers at the end of one hour of the most desperate kind of play is fully indicated by the trifling difference in the scores of the two teams.

Polo play of the type shown by both the fours in the crucial game has never been seen heretofore in either national or international contests in this country.

The spectacle thrilled the crowds of 35,000 persons until the dignified assemblage was fairly carried away and "rooted" like a typical baseball crowd during the final period of play.

San Francisco, June 16.—Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked, a clergyman of international repute, has foresworn his allegiance to King George of England and become a citizen of the United States.

Aked came to this country six years ago to become pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York, which is attended by John D. Rockefeller. In 1911 he became pastor of the First Congregational church of this city. In England his last charge was in Liverpool.

AN UNCANNY REQUEST

Murderer Asks to See Electric Chair In Which He Is to Die

Boston, June 16.—Stefen Boraski, under sentence of death at the state prison in Charlestown, made an uncanny request of Warden Bridges yesterday afternoon, when he begged to be allowed to see the electric chair in which he is to die one week from today for the murder of Mrs. Rose Umansky at West Granville. The request was refused.

Boraski was of the opinion that he was to die in the chair immediately after his arrival there last Friday.

As Boraski can neither read nor write, he spends his time playing cards with the prison officer or in conversation.

RENEW TREATY WITH AMERICA

Japanese Officials Announce Willingness to Do So

FOR A LIMITED ARBITRATION.

Bryan Confident of Overcoming Senate Opposition to Conventions With Japan and Other Countries—American Yacht Seized For Entering Closed Port of Nagahama Released

Washington, June 16.—Japan has notified Secretary of State Bryan of her willingness to renew the limited arbitration treaty with the United States, which will expire on Aug. 24 next. Similar conventions with France, Great Britain, Italy and Spain already have been continued, but the British, Italian and Spanish conventions were held up in the senate through the opposition of Senator Chamberlain of Oregon.

The conventions provide for the arbitration of all questions except those affecting the national honor and the vital interest of the rights of a third party. They were originally negotiated in 1908 by Senator Root, then secretary of state, and were operative for a period of five years. Eight of these conventions expire this year, and will be renewed with any government willing to extend them.

Mr. Bryan declared he not only hoped, but expected, the senate would ratify the new arbitration treaties already signed with Great Britain and other countries despite the opposition against them. No date for the signing of the Japanese renewal has been determined.

President Wilson has had frequent conferences over the arbitration treaties with senators at the White House and at the Capitol. Members of the foreign relations committee likewise have been frequent callers at Bryan's office.

Mr. Bryan would not say upon just what representations he based his expectation that the arbitration treaties would receive senatorial approval.

Japan has discontinued proceedings against the American yacht Columbia, owned by J. H. Ladew of the New York Yacht club, for entering Nagahama, a closed port. Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador, made this announcement to the state department.

The state department has also received a statement to the same effect from Arthur B. Blanchard, charge d'affaires of the American embassy at Tokio. He reported that although the local police, acting in accordance with the law, began proceedings against the captain of the yacht, the suit was dismissed after an investigation.

The imperial authorities have not only ordered the release of the yacht but have ordered that it be kept safe from interference while cruising in Japanese waters in the future. They deny the vessel was arrested or forcibly detained.

DISGUISED AS A PRIEST

Anarchist In Italian Chamber of Deputies Trapped by Police

Rome, June 16.—Francesco Cocuzza, a Neapolitan anarchist, was arrested in the Italian chamber of deputies here after having gained admittance by being disguised as a priest.

The anarchist twice before succeeded in entering the chamber, in 1906 and 1911, and on the latter occasion insulted Premier Giolitti, before he was taken into custody.

Cocuzza said he simply wanted to renew his acquaintance with the premier, and that he had disguised himself in an attempt to avoid arrest. He praised the officer who had recognized him, saying he deserved promotion.

Dunn, broad-shouldered and physically fit, allowed himself to be supported by his mother, 60 years of age, a ragpicker.

THE COUNTY FAIR

son, Bertha Tripp, Leta Weston, Lora Emerson, Florence Burnham, Ethel Goss, Mrs. W. H. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Vaughan.

For those who liked to trip the "light fantastic" the committee from the St. Francis church provided a hurdy-gurdy and dance board. The band also furnished music for the dances. Mrs. C. A. Sullivan and Mrs. W. H. J. Fitzgerald were the committee in charge.

Delicious native strawberries and fragrant flowers were on sale by the Baptist church delegates who were assisted by little girls who went about the grounds selling boutonnieres. The people in charge were Mrs. Harry A. Bates, Mrs. George W. Burton and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hoe.

The advertised ice cream shop deluxe conducted by the South M. E. church was probably the best patronized booth on the grounds. The chairman of this shop was Mrs. Edmund Stevenson assisted by Mrs. William H. Hesselton, Mrs. George Charnock, Mrs. Warren W. Sylvester, Mrs. Lester A. Johnson and Miss Helen Wolfe.

Cold temperance drinks of all kinds were dispensed at the booth conducted by the Emmanuel Episcopal church. The public were served by Mrs. George C. Fuller, Mrs. James Mack, Mrs. Chas. S. Hannaford and Mrs. Charles A. Hobart. A new idea in Chinese laundries was worked out by the Union Congregational church of Braintree and Weymouth.

Mrs. Albert E. Avery was in charge of the attractions and was assisted by Mrs. Fred Harris, Mrs. A. D. Tirrell and the Misses Florence Richards, Dorothy Avery, Catherine Kempl, Bertha Johnson, Alice Grace, Hazel Dexheimer, Bertha Harris and Marion Bullock. The following were in Chinese costume and sold the checks: Clifton Harlow and Stetson Avery.

The cane board was managed by the committee from the All Souls' Church Aubrey Hilliard in wild west costume and George S. Young as a policeman made good hawkers and did a rousing business.

Varied novelties such as flags, balloons, pennants and other souveniers were sold by a committee from the East M. E. church. They were: Mrs. Margaret Johnson, Mrs. Flora Goss, Miss Myrtle Howe, Miss Agnes Marr.

Supper was served in the parish house of the new First Cong. church. The committee consisted of Mrs. Benjamin F. Wallace and Mrs. Henry H. Butler. Tickets were limited to 225, but doubtless many more would have availed themselves of the opportunity could they have been accommodated. A most appetizing repast was served and it is hardly necessary to say that this feature was one of the most popular ones of the entire afternoon's proceedings.

The officers of the Friendly Aid Association are deeply grateful to the general public for their hearty support and generous patronage. It is estimated that about 3000 tags were circulated. It is quite impossible to publicly thank all who assisted in any way to make the affair a success. The unique posters caused much favorable comment and advertised the fair in a highly satisfactory manner. They were the work of I. Wendell Gammons of Franklin street, printed by the Observer.

The Selectmen were most considerate in their efforts to assist. They were responsible for the floating signs in the streets and furnished ample police protection in charge of Chief Horace F. Hunt.

The manager of the Pearl Theatre, Hugh Towne, was most generous in his donation. The usual Saturday matinee was omitted on account of the County Fair and one half of the evening's proceeds was donated to the Friendly Aid Association.

It may be interesting at this time to note those who have made the association the success it is today.

Mrs. Willard E. Dow is the president and her efforts have been untiring.

Even with the hearty support of the townspeople the undertaking is a stupendous one but she overcame all obstacles and brought the affair to a successful finish. Other officers are vice president, Mrs. A. T. Johnson, of East Braintree, secretary, Mrs. Harold M. Gage of Cedar street, Braintree and treasurer, Miss Leta M. Weston of Central avenue.

Two representatives from each church with the above form the board of directors. The Overseers of the poor with the Philergians woman's club are affiliated with the aforesaid officers and uphold the working of the organization.

It is needless to go into the details of the association as its workings are generally but it is hoped that a large sum of money was realized as it needs a well filled treasury to carry on a most worthy work.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PINEAPPLES FOR DESSERT.

FRESH pineapples are abundant and inexpensive and make delicious desserts. Where fresh fruit cannot be bought the canned pineapple is available, so that, no matter how far one may be from city markets, this tempting fruit may be enjoyed.

Pineapple Baskets.—Wash the fruit, take off the leaves and save them to garnish with. Without paring cut the pineapple in three or four sections, according to its size. Scoop out the pulp, leaving a thin layer to form a bottom to the center cuts, thus forming baskets or cases to which the pulp is returned after shredding.

A Fruit Mold.

Pineapple Cream.—Take the pulp of a large fresh pineapple or a can of the fruit and chop it up. Dissolve a box of gelatin in a pint of cold water, add the juice of the pineapple, place in a saucepan on the fire and let it boil. Take two cups of sugar and beat with the juice of two lemons. Pour the hot gelatin over the sugar and stir well; then add the pineapple. Set in a cold place until it begins to thicken; then stir in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Beat the whole for ten minutes, place in a mold and let cool. Serve with whipped cream.

Pineapple Fritters With Sauce.—Dip slices of pineapple in fritter batter and fry to golden brown in hot fat. Drain on soft paper and serve at once with the following sauce:

Sauce.—Take the juice from the pineapple and add to it three-quarters of a cup of sugar, place on the fire and boil. Mix a level teaspoonful of arrowroot until smooth with three or four tablespoonfuls of cold water. Stir the arrowroot in boiling sirup and let simmer five or six minutes. When ready to serve add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice to taste.

Refreshing Dishes.

Pineapple Cocktail.—Cut a pineapple into quarters, remove a small portion of the core and grate on a coarse grater. Serve in cocktail glasses, with small pieces of ice.

Pineapple Pudding.—Take a cupful of sugar, a half cupful of butter, a cupful of cream, four eggs and a grated pineapple. Beat butter and sugar to a cream, add to this the beaten yolks of the eggs. Stir in the grated pineapple and the cream, then the whipped whites of eggs. Line a baking dish with a layer of puff paste, pour in the pineapple and bake with an under crust.

He had proceeded but a short distance when his transmission case struck some sleepers, stalling the engine. Although making between 12 and 15 miles an hour all escaped injury when thrown forward by the sudden stop. He was able to reach home in the machine.

THE CHAMPIONS BANQUETED

Party in Honor of Victorious Willard Teams

The members o fthe base ball team of the Willard school were given a party Friday afternoon, June 3, by the teachers in honor of their successful season in the field.

A table was daintily laid in the cooking room by the girls of the prevocational class, three of whom acted as waitresses. A clever souvenir placecard the handiwork of John Minihan, was at each boy's plate, and the table was decorated with large bouquets which were later presented to Pitcher Egan, Catcher Reinhalter and to Wallace and Minnihan who have been so successful in running bases.

After the boys had been bountifully suplied with ice cream and cake, Mr. Upton and Dr. Smith, the guests of the honor weer called upon for a few remarks.

Dr. Smith first complimented the players upon their sportsman like conduct throughout the entire season, then gave them some good advice applicable to the many games of life as to baseball. He said "If you lose fellows, don't get sore-headed, and if you win don't get swell-headed."

Mr. Upton, who has so wisely and patiently coached the team told the boys some of his own experiences on the diamond.

The party closed with cheers for both speakers and votes of thanks to the teachers and girls who had aided in giving the Team such a swell time.

BOYS ARRESTED.

Four boys from Neponset who were at the circus Saturday night, stole a bicycle from in front of the store of Hanrahan & Dalton on Hancock street The theft was reported to the police and some time later Officer Avery held up four boys with a bicycle near the Adams Academy on suspicion. It later developed that these were probably the boys who had stolen the bicycle. They will be in court at the next juvenile day.

There was not a very large attendance at the meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee Saturday night, as evidently most of those interested had gone to the circus. ST. JOHN'S PARISH REUNION
VERY HAPPY EVENT FOR MANY

Reminiscences of Forty and Fifty Years Ago Recalled by Speakers

Speeches by Fr. Roche, Fr. Cuffe and Others

Hundreds taxed the capacity of Parochial hall Tuesday evening at the reunion of St. John's parish, held in connection with the golden jubilee observance. Visiting clergymen were on the platform and delivered speeches reminiscent of olden days, when the parish included many surrounding villages and towns and was known in Catholic circles as the little diocese. The remarks were eulogistic of the departed and congratulatory to Father Coan.

Circlets of yellow and white paper arched the stairway and attached to them was the greeting, "Welcome, 1863-1913." Fastened to the platform was the byword of the Emerald isle, "Cead Mille Faelte" and tastefully arranged about were the decorations of the evening.

On the walls were portraits of past parishioners and clergy whose good work is the inspiration of the present congregation. They were Rev. Fr. Roddan, Rev. Fr. Francis A. Frigugletti, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Ambrose F. Roche, of Watertown, Rev. Fr. Danahy of Newton Centre, George Cahill, John Cavanagh of Braintree and James Collins.

Edward J. Parker was chairman of the evening and surrounding him was Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe of Atlantic, Rev. Fr. Daniel J. Riordan of Newton Upper Falls, Rev. Fr. William T. Deasey of Randolph, Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins of Amesbury, Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy of West Quincy, Rev. Fr. Dennis J. Cremmins of South Weymouth, Rev. Fr. Madden of Houghs Neck, Rev. Fr. Matthew McDonnell of South Braintree, Rev. Fr. John J. Casey and Rev. Fr. Walter Quinlan, both of St. Johns church.

In the audience were some of the early residents and conspicuous was John Mundy of Arnold street who with his wife celebrated his golden anniversary at his home a month ago; and Michael Daly, familiarly known as "Squire" Daly, to whom belongs the honor of planting the trees surrounding the present edifice.

It was a good old fashioned time where everyone possessed a superabundance of good will toward their neighbors and sincere warm greetings hearty handclasps and a renewal of friendships of days of old was the program of those assembled.

THE SPEAKERS.

Father Coan, was presented by Chairman Parker as the opening speaker and a round of applause showed a tender spot in the hearts of his parishioners. Modest of his achievements, he barely mentioned them but said he was happy in being here to assist in the golden anniversary observance, that the splendid cooperation of the people of the church was an inspiration to any man and the good deeds of the past are but a forerunner of the accomplishments of the future.

FATHER ROCHE.

Rt. Rev. Mgr. Roche was obliged to wait for the ovation to subside before he could be heard and his eloquent and scholarly address covered many years of parish life as he recalls it. Firm in his denunciation of some of the present day doctrines, he urged all to be worthy of the dignity of their religion and possessions and to fearlessly carry out the inspirations of the heroes who built the church.

FATHER CUFFE .

Father Cuffe, for many years a curate, in his kindly manner touched briefly on bygone days, on his love for the deceased Father Frigugletti and for the members of the church, included his congratulations to Fr. Coan, and closed midst a burst of applause.

FATHER RIORDAN.

Father Riordan, who on Sunday preached a masterly sermon, proved to be the wit of the evening. Claiming to be the oldest born resident priest of the parish he said he knew something of the days of yore, and prefacing a serious conclusion with a happy and mirthful introduction in which he mentioned the names of the "old boys" he entertained while the audience roared their delight. When he finished he had covered the history of many years and he received a round of applause.

FATHER DEASEY.

Father Deasey said he found it hard to resist the opportunity of again joining in the observance and his fondness for Quincy and its people, past and present would never be shadowed by the future. He also spoke in endearing terms of Father Frigugletti and extended his blessing on the good work of Father Coan and his aggressive supporters. Long time friends blocked him in the corridor as he hurriedly left for home.

FATHER HARKINS.

Father Harkins, the youngest ordained Quincy born priest present, briefly sketched his relations with the church, expressed his pleasure and happiness and concluded in a din of applause.

FATHER CREMINS.

Father Cremins thought it was meat to visit the parish which once sheltered South Weymouth Catholics and after telling of his long friendship of Father Coan and his admiration for the fine development of the parish closed and was liberally applauded.

Father Duffy was the last speaker of the evening. Short, sweet and to the point he spoke of the pleasant relations between St. Mary's and St. John's how the people of West Quincy watched its wonderful growth and anticipated more achievements. He extended the congratulations of Father Grady who is at present in Europe and sat down while the audience roundly clapped.

Dancing followed and music was furnished by Provosts orchestra. In the corridors of the building an impromptu entertainment was held for the old folks and with Thomas Joyce "fiddling" jigs and reels and square dances they were able to enjoy their old time pleasures. Coughlin Brothers did an Irish dance which brought down the house. Others played whist.

Supper was served on the lower floor and a table set for 100 was filled seven times with eatables. The reunion adjourned at 1 A. M. and will go down in the memory of htose present as the one good time of their life.

The committee in charge was recruited from all sections of the parish and was headed by Edward J. Parker and Miss Nonie O'Connor. William Lynch was floor director and Peter M. Sullivan assistant.

HIGH MASS OF REQUIEM.

A solemn tribute to the departed dead of St. John's parish was given Tuesday morning when Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, the pastor, celebrated a high mass of requiem at St. John's church. Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon and Rev. Fr. Walter Quinlan, sub deacon. Thomas Clarkin was master of ceremonies. The remembrance was in connection with the observance of the golden jubilee.

At the head of the main aisle a catafalque was erected and after the mass the clergy performed the absolution ceremony there. The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist.

Rachel P. Winship, widow of Francis J. Winship, died Tuesday at her home, 50 East Elm avenue, in her62nd year. She leaves one daughter and several sons.

THE MERRY MONTH OF JUNE.

It is an acknowledged fact that the month of June belongs to the sweet girl graduate and the happy bride,—June the month of rose buds and roses!

The young girl turns her eager face toward the world with its opportunities for social pleasures and service, and the bride leaves the home nest, with mingled feelings of regret and joy, to make a home of her own in the month of June.

Both are busy with their preparations for the Day of Days—the Graduation and the Wedding. The simple but dainty dress of the graduate and the more elaborate gown of the bride require thought and planning.

There is a shop in Quincy where these outfits may be found. Willing clerks are ready to help select dainty dresses, gloves, ribbons and lingerie for both. The bride—in addition—will be interested in the attractive assortment of table linen and, in fact, all kinds of household linen. This shop goes by the name of D. E. Wadsworth & Co., or the "Shirt Waist Store."

WARD TWO CELEBRATION

Town River Yacht Club Has Plans for Fourth

The Town River Yacht club will this year have a celebration on the Fourth of July to which all residents of Ward Two are welcome. The clubhouse will be open to the public all day and in the morning there will be power boat races, sail boat, rowing, swimming, cane races and all sorts of water sports.

An orchestra will be present and furnish music for those who wish to dance. In the evening the club hopes to eclipse last year's display of fireworks which were set off on a float in the middle of the river.

The committees in charge will be about Ward Two for subscriptions and hope that residents will respond generously. They are also urged to show their interest by their attendance.

WILL CONTINUE THE FIGHT

Mayor Stone Working for the Midnight Train

Mayor Stone, Chairman Teasdale of the Committee on Transportation and President Hamilton of the Board of Trade did not meet with much success Monday in their interview with the officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. The committee met the railroad with reference to putting on the 12.05 midnight train for Quincy which was dropped with the new timetable. The committee put up a strong argument to have the train put back. Mayor Stone has received a letter from the railroad declining to put the train on again. The reason was that the theatre season was over and that probably the train would go on again in the fall.

Mayor Stone said this morning that he would take the matter before the Railroad Commissioners today and that he had notified the railroad that he intended to do so.

Weymouth Landing car service was blocked for 15 minutes this morning while a wheel was being replaced on a double team of the Eaton Ice Co., in front of John Hall's, Hancock street. The team was loaded with auto wheels. The nut worked off after leaving the stable, located on Adams street.

RAMBLER RUN PROPOSED

Joy Party for the Mayor and City Government

Manager Winsloe of the Wollaston Center garage has planned a "Rambler" run for Friday evening of this week. Invitations have been extended to Mayor Stone, members of the City Council, heads of city departments, the press and others.

The start will be made from the garage promptly at 6 o'clock, and the route will be through Wollaston, Milton and Quincy to Houghs Neck. A fish dinner at Norteman's at 7 o'clock will be a feature of the outing. It is expected that 25 to 40 Rambler cars will participate.

CAR ACCIDENT.

Mrs. A. A. Otis of Somerville was slightly injured in City Square the morning of the holiday by being struck by a seat that was being overturned. Mrs. Otis was a passenger on an East Weymouth car and one of the passengers in a hurry to overturn the seat struck her on the arm causing her to faint from pain. She was taken to the office of Dr. C. W. Garey. After being treated she was taken to her home.

That due care is not exercised in Quincy in the appointment of constables, and that many persons are appointed as such, that should not be, was made evident at a hearing before Judge Avery Tuesday morning when it came out that some of the constables go about armed with clubs and revolvers, which as the court said was a dangerous thing for constables to do, unless specially assigned to duty. The court also said that constables should find out what authority they had to carry revolvers and should get a permit from the proper authority.

The case in question was one where Paul Hersey a Squantum fisherman, who held an appointment as constable, was arraigned on two complaints for assault. One charged him with assaulting Benjamin Graff and the second charged him with assaulting Salvatore Salvatorie Sunday June 15. It appears from Graff's story that he and his wife and children were at Squantum and seeing a boat tied to the shore he put his wife and children in the boat and allowed them to sit there. Constable Hersey the owner of the boat came along and after some words placed a pair of handcuffs or twisters on Graff and placed him under arrest. While they were talking Salvatore came up and remonstrated that Graff was doing nothing. At this it was alleged that Hersey drew a revolver and pointed it at Graff while with the other hand he drew his club and struck Salvatore a clip over the head. Later as Graff had children with him he let him go.

Hersey claimed that Graff was pushing the boat back and forth and that he and Salvatore both attacked him and that he only defended himself and that he considered it necessary to use his club. He further said, that while he had a gun in his pocket fully loaded, he did not draw it.

At this point the court informed Hersey that he could make a complaint against the men for using the boat if he desired which he did swearing out a warrant against Graff for taking a boat without permission. Graff pleaded guilty and was fined $15.

The court then fined Hersey $5 for assault on Graff and $10 for assault on Salvatore. In rendering the fines the court said that it was dangerous business for constables to go about fully armed when not assigned to special duty and that it seemed unnecessary for him to do so. The court also advised not to carry a revolver in the day time, and that he should get a permit from the Mayor to carry a revolver. Further that when he undertook to arrest a man he should carry out the act and not release him.

It has long been a well recognized fact that too much looseness has been exercised in Quincy in the appointing of constables and it is a well understood fact that almost anyone who desires to be appointed a constable finds little difficulty in getting such an appointment. An attempt was made the first of the year to cut down the list of constables but many have since been appointed so that there are now about as many as before.

It is also a well known fact that many of these constables go fully armed with guns at all times which as the court said is a dangerous thing, as with such a large list it is not unlikely that some irresponsible persons might get an appointment and when circumstances arise might easily lose their head and use the gun when it was entirely unnecessary. The City Council therefore should use more care also in the confirming of appointments of constables.

It is complained that men and boys don't raise their hats when the flag goes by, but there is no trouble when some one gets a three bagger.

President Wilson has been given the key to his room at the Capitol, but the Congressmen say they will never let him have the keys to the outside doors.

The Chicago houseworkers' union demands a full day off every week, when they might be at home in the kitchen breaking china.

FINLAND'S GREAT HOLIDAY

Midsummer Day to be Observed Here on Saturday

The Finnish Athletic and Glee Clubs will hold their annual celebration on Saturday. This is known as Mid-Summer Day and is celebrated throughout Finland with sports, entertainments, races, bon-fires and dancing. All the Finnish speaking people of the United States will celebrate next Saturday for it is a national holiday in Finland.

The Eastern Athletic and Glee Clubs have decided to hold their annual outing at Merrymount Park in Quincy this year. There will be bands from Lanesville, Gardener and Maynard. The Glee Clubs—three from Quincy, one from Worcester, two from Maynard and one from Lanesville will hold contests and prizes will be awarded. The Quincy Athletic Club will also compete with the Maynard and Worcester Athletic clubs and prizes will also be awarded to winners.

Among the speakers are Mayor Stone and Prof. Nichols. Rev. Waananen of Maynard will deliver the oration.

A mammoth parade will start from Quincy Adams Station at 11 A. M. and march to Merrymount Park through the principal streets of Quincy. Music will be furnished all the afternoon by the bands and the glee clubs and the evening's programme will be held at the Uljas Koitto Temperance Society hall.

WOULD BUILD AT FORE RIVER

Mayor Fitzgerald Sees No Reason to Go to Philadelphia

Mayor Fitzgerald shows his interest in Greater Boston and New England industries in the following letter to the Boston Chamber of Commerce:

"Gentlemen—I have just come across a notice in the Journal of Commerce to the effect that the Hamburg-American Line directors had asked for plans and specifications from the American shipyards at Philadelphia for six combination passenger and cargo ships. The article says they will be of about 10,000 tons and capable of use on any of the company's routes.

"I thought I should give you this information so that you can take the matter up with the Hamburg-American Line with a view to getting them interested in the Fore River Shipyards In view of the close relations which the Hamburg-American Line has with this community at the present time it is very desirable that some of these ships should be built here.

"I saw in another newspaper a statement quoting Mr. W. G. Ross, president of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal, to the effect that while this will be the greatest year in the history of the port of Montreal, millions of bushels of grain will necessarily flow through American channels through lack of ships to take it away from Montreal."

N. E. O. P. OUTING.

The N. E. O. P. triangle, including the Harvard, Somerville, and Newton lodges, held a successful outing on the holiday at Merrymount park. Special cars brought about 500 members from the three lodges to the park and all report a grand outing. At noon a lunch was served near the pavilion on the lower park overlooking the water. One of the features of the day was a series of field sports which included the following events: 100 yard dash, 50 yard dash, three-legged race, fat man's race, fat woman's race, hobble skirt race, relay race, potato races for women, boys and girls, flag race for children, running broad jump, standing broad jump.

Another feature was the flag race for children for which six prizes were offered. A handsome silk flag was also offered by Grand Warden George W. Penniman for the winner in the base ball game between the Harvard and Somerville teams which was won by the Harvards by a score of 25 to 13.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CLAIMS SELF DEFENSE

Boston Policeman Kills a Man When Attacked by a Crowd

Boston, June 18.—The testimony of the only known witness to the killing of Ralph E. Shea by Police Officer Miller, exclusive of David F. Collins, who was yesterday sentenced to Deer island, contradicts the testimony of the police officers.

It is said by these witnesses that the row was precipitated by the arrest of Cornelius Bresnahan, who lives a short distance from the home of Shea.

Despite the accusations of the parents of Shea, who lived at 75 Carver street, that he was murdered by the officer, Superintendent of Police Pierce and Captain Armstrong both insist that Miller used his revolver only to save himself from death at the hands of the gang that attacked him, and that he had no intention of singling out Shea from any of the others involved in the fracas, nor of fatally injuring him.

Miller was sent on his customary beat last night and will continue to patrol the Kerry Village district until action is taken by the headquarters' officials.

PANAMA ZONE PLANS

Will Be No Permanent Government Until Beginning of 1915

Washington, June 18.—Plans for a permanent government on the canal zone will not be put into effect until the formal opening of the canal in January, 1915, Secretary Garrison announces. In the meantime the zone government will continue as heretofore, with such modifications as changing conditions may demand.

Garrison has conferred frequently during the past week with Chairman Goethals of the isthmian canal commission, and he has asked Goethals to submit from time to time recommendations as to the organization of a permanent government.

It is practically certain that the government will continue to operate the Panama railroad after the canal is completed, Garrison said, as it would be necessary to have a means for the transportation of troops and supplies, in the event the canal should be put out of commission at any time.

RIVOLI CAPTURES THE ASTOR STAKES

$12,500 Prize Carried Off by Lord Carnarvon's Entry

London, June 18.—The Ascot stakes, the $12,500 event of the royal race meet at Ascot Heath, was won by Lord Carnarvon's Rivoli. Twenty-two horses ran, including one from the king's stable and several horses owned by Americans.

Colonel McCatmont's Tetrarch won the $5000 Coventry stakes, the first important event of the meeting.

E. Hulton's Sho Gun won the gold vase trophy, carrying $2000 cash.

The Ascot season opened amid scenes of great brilliance. King George with Queen Mary and the entire court driving in state from Windsor castle.

MILITANTS SENTENCED

Seven of Them Must Serve Terms In Prison at Hard Labor

London, June 18.—Guilty of conspiracy to commit malicious damage to property was the verdict returned in te trial of seven militant suffragettes, which has occupied Justice Phillimore in the central crimina court for several days. Now the defendants threaten a hunger strike.

Justice Phillimore imposed sentences as follows: Annie Kenney, eighteen months; Beatrice Saunders, fifteen months; Harriet Kerr, twelve months; Rachel Barrett, nine months; Agnes Lake and Laura Lennox, six months each, and Edwyn Clayton, twenty-one months.

All the prisoners were committed to the third division, which entails hard labor. Each defendant was ordered to pay one-seventh of the cost of the prosecution and was bound over to keep the peace for a year after the period of imprisonment.

SEGREGATION IN ATLANTA

Majority of Voters In Block Can Prevent Negroes Buying Property

Atlanta, June 18.—Race segregation in city blocks, where the majority of voters favor it, is the object of an ordinance passed by the Atlanta council.

The ordinance does not seek to force the removal of negroes who already have secured property, but will prevent others from gaining a footing where the majority of voters in any block oppose such acquisition.

Spanking Leads to $75,000 Fire

Monticello, N. Y., June 18.—Mrs. Wolfe of Ferndale tried to spank her young son and in so doing upset an oil stove. In the fire that followed twelve business houses and three dwellings were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

HARVARD AND RADCLIFFE.

The Harvard and the Radcliffe admission examinations for Quincy candidates are being conducted this week in the High School building. Mrs. John D. Mackay is proctor for Radcliffe and Carl H. Fornell represents Harvard, succeeding Herbert Arnold who is now teaching in Germany.

Mr. Fornell's name has seldom appeared in print in Quincy, but he is a Quincy boy who deserves recognition and credit. Graduating with honor from the High school in 1905, he entered Harvard University and graduated in 1910 with the degree of A. B. He then entered the Harvard Medical school where he has completed his third year and is president of his class. Mr. Fornell's appointment as proctor shows Harvard's confidence in her own graduates. He is a son of John N. Fornell of Cranch hill.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

Strolling through the city yesterday a person could not but notice the deserted streets but upon walking up Hancock street and entering Kincaide's Theatre the reason for such a condition of things was apparent, for those wonderful entertainers, The Kincaide Players, had been advertised to present a "London Cabaret." The singing, dancing and humor, scenery, etc., impressed you with the idea of London music halls. The Laughing Song of Miss Maurer was of such irrisistibility that in a few moments the entire house was in the midst of laughter unrestrainable until the artist had finished when laughter turned into deafening and continuous applause. Miss Maurer had to repeat the song twice before the audience would cease in their applause; Miss Kelly, the tambo-dancer, with her graceful steps and sylph-like movements was rewarded in a manner that called for more and more.

The solo parts and chorus were finely and beautifully rendered. From the continued applause on all sides during the entire duration of the play it demonstrated that the management have the proper idea in regard to what will surely and unmistakably please Quincy audiences.

Beginning with tomorrow's matinee the Kincaide players, will present a quaint Dutch musical comedy by Jarvis Jocelyn entitled, "What Happened in Holland."

TWO RIBS FRACTURED.

Joseph McGilvray, fell 20 feet down the trunk in the dynamo room at the electrical department at the Fore River shipyard Monday afternoon and escaped with minor injuries and bruises. The fall was broken by his foot catching on the side which probably accounts for his miraculous escape.

He was taken to the Red Cross Hospital where he was examined by Dr. Blanchard who found two ribs fractured. He was afterward removed to his home on Willard street where he is confined to his bed. He is doing well today.

Mr. McGilvray is a prominent member of Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's C. T. A. and M. R. Society and a popular employee.

ATLANTIC PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the Atlantic Memorial church was held on the holiday at Highland park. Nearly three hundred attended, the trip being made in special electric cars. A basket lunch was served during the day. One of the features was a game of ball between the Atlantic boys and boys from the Dorchester Methodist church, which was also holding its picnic there. The game was won by the Dorchester boys.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

Edwin P. Jamoneau of 52 Prospect street, Atlantic, was found in an unconscious condition in Jamaica Plain, early Tuesday morning with an empty bottle, which had contained muriatic acid, at his side. He is at the Boston City Hospital and is today resting comfortably. His chances for recovery while good are not too promising.

He lived in Atlantic with his daughter Ella and is said to have shown symptoms of despondency of late. When discovered the indications were that he had swallowed the acid with suicidal intent.

ELKS KEEP OPEN HOUSE.

Quincy lodge of Elks kept open house the night before the holiday and entertained a large number of the brothers and guests. The evening was an entirely informal one. Music was furnished by several of the lodge members, Bro. Binney presiding at the piano. During the latter part of the evening an appetizing lunch was served.

FOURTH OF JULY MEETING.

An important meeting of the general July Fourth celebration committee will be held in the rooms of the Board of Trade Thursday evening. The time before the Fourth is growing short and as it is of the utmost importance that the committee should be informed about collections, the president hopes that the finance committee will be able to make a report at this meeting.

The City bath house has been opened for the season and as for the past few years will be in charge of Jack Starr. Although the bath house has but recently been officially declared open the beach has been in use by bathers for some weeks. Every day tide for the past few weeks has seen some of the Brownies taking their dip. Cold weather has no fears for these fellows.

MINSTRELS AT SQUANTUM

Grand Show and Also a Financial Success

Squantum celebrated Bunker Hill day with an old time minstrel show in Richard's auditorium on Bellevue road It was a big success and marked Squantum's first real show since this section of Quincy developed into a thriving residential community. The same show was given Monday night and Tuesday night.

The hall was prettily decorated with flags and bunting. The stage had a background of American flags and the walls were draped with national colors. Every seat in the hall, seating 225 was taken when the program began shortly after 8 o'clock. A delegation of 50 members and friends of the Atlantic Improvement association occupied a section of the auditorium Monday night.

The program opened with the singing of a medley of popular songs arranged by Charles Bostwick, the musical director of the show. The interlocutor, C. E. Carlson, president of the Squantum Improvement association, opened the program with the familiar words "Gentlemen, be seated" and the chorus of 20 voices sang with a good deal of vigor and harmony, the opening chorus which ended with "America" the audience rising as this selection was sung.

The first solo was the "Watermelon" song by John Mardon, secretary of the Improvement association, who gave the selection a touch of real southern darky accent.

In rapid fire the end men began their good natured banter which included local hits that were live and funny. Charles H. Singleton and Joseph Uppling played the bones while John Jepson, Jr., and Russell Rich manipulated the tambos. Rich and Jepson developed a darky accent that was so good that some in the audience believed they were real colored men.

The second solo was by Joseph Uppling, who sang "The Prodigal Son." Mr. Uppling sang in excellent tenor voice and responded to an encore.

"The Laughing coon" proved a hit as sung by Charles H. Singleton. He had the audience in roars before the song was over. Mr. Uppling gave his well known whistling solo to a banjo accompaniment which he played himself.

"When Mrs. McNaught learned to dance the Turkey Trot" was a real live wire selection given by John Jepson and Russell Rich. They put a lot of snap into their song and wound up by doing some "turkey trotting" about the stage.

Lester Wallace sang "When the Bell of the Lighthouse Rings Ding Dong." Mr. Wallace has an excellent bass voice and his rendition of this tuneful piece brought forth an outburst of applause and he responded to an encore. The end men took a number of cracks at the City of Quincy and its officials. They referred to Squantum's fine street which "Squantum had paid for itself and had tried to give the city." Mr. Jepson asked "Say Sam, did you know that the Quincy police have all been vaccinated." "Why no," replied, Sam, "I don't see why they should be vaccinated they never catch anything."

The opening part ended with the singing of a medley the "Star Spangled Banier" while every member of the chorus waved flags.

(Report Continued Tomorrow.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CANTY.

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral of Mrs. Ellen Canty which was held from her home, 50 Hodges avenue, Atlantic, Tuesday morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at Sacred Heart church by Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe. The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir, directed by Miss Louise Costello. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Canty was the widow of Michael Canty, and leaves one daughter, Mrs. William A. McGuinness of Quincy, and four sons, Simon Canty of Medford and Patrick, John and Michael of Quincy.

PROSTRATED.

Michael Grady of 176 Willard street fell prostrate to the sidewalk in City Square at seven o'clock this morning. Dr. E. Ramon Burke was called and treated him in City Hall. He was taken to his home in the police ambulance. Grady is an employee of the city and was waiting to draw his pay. He was seen to totter and fall. The first to his side was Charles Austin, the car starter. A weak heart was probably the cause of his collapse. Grady is a widower and has several children.

CHILDREN AND BIRDS.

By BEECHER S. BOWDISH, Secretary of the New Jersey Audubon Society.

WHAT do birds do for us? The answer is indicated in the example of the chickadee. Who does not know the chickadee, that cheery ball of feathers with a black cap?

When winter shrouds the earth in a heavy mantle of white and the snowy flakes are driven in swirling masses through the leafless branches, loading them down in glistening arches and plastering the rough barked tree trunks, a merry "dee, dee, dee" reminds us that even at this forbidding season nature has not entirely deprived us of her most inspiring creatures, her vegetation guards, the birds. Even the tree sparrows may have retreated to the protection of the dead weed tangles in the clearings, the crossbills may be quietly exploring the cones in the dense pine forest and a weary tramp in the great woods be necessary ere we catch the alert call of the downy or hairy woodpecker or the nasal "yank, yank" of the nuthatch, but our chickadee friends are searching our dooryard trees for their meager fare with the same cheeriness with which they greet summer's bounty.

Winter is the season when the chickadees perform a service for us which, perhaps, no other bird could so well undertake. At that time the eggs of many destructive insects are eagerly sought by these birds on the twigs and in the crevices of the bark. Many insects, too, lying dormant and concealed from the duller visions, fall prey to the sharp eyed little birds. Cankerworm moths, tent caterpillars, codling moths, gypsy moths, browntail moths and the various plant lice all are included in the chickadee's bill of fare.

While these birds are hardy, self reliant little providers, yet in severe weather they suffer from scarcity of food. Bits of suet nailed to the trees or rubbed in the bark will help out their winter food supply and insure them as neighbors, and it will not prevent their assiduously seeking their natural food.

Four birds were found to have eaten 105 female cankerworm moths. A careful count showed that twenty of these contained 3,703 eggs. The average per moth was 185, which would give a total of 19,425 eggs thus destroyed by the four chickadees. Three of the birds had eaten a large number of eggs besides. It has been estimated that a single chickadee will destroy 138,750 eggs during the twenty-five day season when the moths are out.

This is only one instance. Nearly all birds are beneficial to man in their feeding habits, and they are also attractive of form and pleasing of song.

What can we do for birds? What can children do? What they have done in the public schools is to organize by thousands into junior Audubon classes and study about the birds from the educational leaflets of the National Association of Audubon Societies. They have scattered crumbs on the porches and sheltered bare spots for hungry winter birds and built bird houses and placed dishes of bathing and drinking water for the summer birds. They have persuaded other children not to abuse birds, but to love and protect them.

Every child should know the birds. Every child should love and protect them. Every child should grow to be a man or woman recognizing how much birds mean to the world.

SOCIETY PLANTS TREES.

Organization In New York Has Branches All Over Country.

Slowly but surely the work of the American Association For the Planting and Freservation of City Trees is spreading from one end of the country to the other. Much of the work of the association has thus far been confined to the borough of Brooklyn. But the Hon. George V. Brower, a former park commissioner in New York, hopes to see the day when the work of the association in planting and preserving trees will be felt in every city in the United States. The association already has a membership of nearly 1,000 and is represented by states from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The association was organized as a result of a series of lectures by J. J. Levison, M. F., New York city forester, at the Children's museum, in Brooklyn. John J. Schoonhoven, a member of the Brooklyn institute, became its first president upon its organization two years ago. His wife was the first vice president.

A children's branch has already been organized, with a membership of twelve chapters. Five hundred children, members of the chapters, are daily engaged in collecting newspapers, tin foil and other waste, which are disposed of and the proceeds put into a fund to promote a more active interest in the care of the city's trees.

Several publications are already printed, under the guidance of the association, while the members of it are continually on the watch for places which may prove available for tree planting purposes. As a result of the work of the members of the association several blocks in Brooklyn have been planted with trees. In some instances but one and two trees were planted, while in other places forty and fifty trees have been planted in one location.

It is the success of the work in Brooklyn which has prompted the society to spread its wings over the whole country, or at least over that part of the country where interested people are willing to accept membership and assist in the work of the association.

WAS EASY FOR SOUTH QUINCY

Scored Six Runs and Shut Out Makaria Boys

South Quincy defeated the Makarias at the Old Colony grounds on the afternoon of the holiday, 6 to 0. The infield of South Quincy composed of Hoyt formerly of Brockton, Gillis, Kane and Ericson, appears to be the fastest seen in the city for several seasons. Patterson was in the box for Makaria for six innings and was hit liberally. "Les" Andrews succeeded in the sixth but was not hit for many safeties.

The score jumped by leaps and bounds in the first innings after a play which did not look like good base ball. Gillis stole home on Patterson and Kane shot across the plate on a pretty slide after Hoyt dumped an infield hit in front of Matty Nicols who did not relax speedy enough.

Appearances indicate that the prize money up on the July Fourth game will be tendered the South Quincys unless the Makarias take a decided brace.

With two men on base Hoyt drove a high fly to deep centre but "Bull Moose" Brown of High school who is breaking into the semi professional ranks secured the pillett in territory bordering on the distance limit a ball can possibly go on that field. The summary:

TIME TOO SHORT TO PROVE HIS CLAIMS

Friedmann's Visit to United States Comes to an End

New York, June 18.—Dr. F. F. Friedmann, the German physician whose arrival in this country in February with a purported "cure" for tuberculosis stirred up discussion in medical circles, sailed from Hoboken for Germany. At the pier he gave out a statement declaring that the time here was too short for him to prove all his claims.

The reports made on cases treated by him in New York prove nothing, Friedmann declared, as they were investigated after the patients had been given only one treatment. He declared he had repeatedly stated that more than one treatment was required for beneficial results, and that making a report on such cases was like allowing a surgeon to make an incision and then refusing to permit him to sew up the wound.

ATTORNEY IS JAILED

In Contempt of Court For Failure to Pay His Wife's Alimony

Boston, June 18.—Merrill H. Browne, an attorney, located with his father, J. M. Browne, at 85 Water street, was adjudged in contempt of court by Judge Jenney, in the superior court, equity motion session, for failure to pay his wife alimony. He was committed to the Charles street jail.

As a result of the commitment and shortly after the procedure in the superior court, his counsel filed a habeas corpus petition in the supreme court against Sheriff Quinn, claiming that Browne was unlawfully and illegally committed and praying the court to release him at once. This petition will be heard in the supreme court by Judge Braley.

A Sailor's Cat-Fish Story

Baltimore, June 18.—Captain Girtler of steamer Delphine says his ship's cat fell overboard, was given up for lost and pulled in alive seven miles further on hanging onto the cook's fishline.

Plague Breaks Out In Hayti

Port au Prince, Hayti, June 18.—An epidemic of bubonic plague has broken out at the seaport of Jacmel, thirty miles from here.

USED TOO MUCH MORPHINE

Charles W. Eliot Tells of Quincy Tragedy of 1869

The story of the triple tragedy in Quincy, more than 40 years ago, which brought about a reform in the methods of medical instruction and education in the Harvard Medical School and incidentally in all the other medical schools of the country—was told by President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot for the first time in public at the annual dinner of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Nearly half a century ago he said, a young man who had received a degree from the medical school opened an office in Quincy.

A few days after he had begun practice he received a call from the family of a quarryman who was suffering from some slight ailment. The man was apparently a strong healthy man, but about an hour after the doctor had seen him the man died.

A few days later the same doctor was called to another house where a quarryman was suffering from some apparently trivial illness, but about an hour after the doctor left the house the man was dead.

The sudden death of these two men whose illness had not been taken even seriously created a good deal of sensation. Both the men were foreign born.

Shortly after the death of the second man an American mechanic, who lived in the vicinity of this same doctor, was taken ill. The man's wife carefully watched the doctor and she became alarmed when she noticed her husband sink into a comatose state almost immediately after the doctor had given him some medicine.

She insisted on a consultation immediately and before the doctor left the house. She went for an old physician and brought him to the house.

The old physician looked at the patient and asked the young doctor what he had given him.

"Morphine," replied the young doctor.

"He'll die," said the old physician. "And he did," added Pres. Eliot.

This story was told by Mr. Adams of Quincy, a member of the Harvard board of overseers, during a board meeting when the question of reforming the methods of instruction in the Harvard Medical school was up for consideration.

Pres. Eliot had brought the subject up again and again, but had not been able to get the consent of the board to a reform until Mr. Adams told this story. That was in 1869.

THINKS LOBBY IS LEGITIMATE

Always Has and Always Will Be One, Says Senator Smith

DEFENDS INTERESTS' RIGHTS

Sundry Civil Bill Now on President's Desk Put Through by Labor Lobby —Admitted by Gompers to Be Class Legislation—Presidents Declared to Be Lobbyists

Washington, June 18.—Senator Smith of Michigan declared before the senate lobby investigating committee that the clause in the sundry civil bill, now awaiting President Wilson's signature, exempting labor unions and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law, represented the work of a lobby.

The American Federation of Labor, he declared, had lobbied for the exemptions, although Samuel Gompers, the senator said, had admitted to him that it was class legislation, a term former President Taft applied in vetoing the bill last spring.

"The very bill on the president's desk," he said, "was put through by a lobby of labor organizations; they know there is class legislation in it. Gompers admitted to me it was class legislation, and that is the kind of a lobby I think exists.

"Of course the American Federation of Labor has a lobby here. I don't condemn it. They have a right to be here; so have the other people, and the steel people and the others. I think there is a very considerable lobby here; there always has been and always will be, and I think it has a right to be here.

"In everything I have done here I have encountered the lobby—it does not do any harm. I encountered it in the Titanic investigation and the Mexican revolution. They are here and they have a right to be here."

Senator Smith added he knew John Norris of the "newspaper people" had been here for free print paper.

"He was for it and I was against it," said the senator. "I own a paper, but I'm more of a protectionist than a newspaper man." He added that the "temperance people had maintained a lobby in Washington."

"You don't attach any odious significance to the lobby, do you?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I do not; it is obstinate and often unwise, but these people have a right to be here and be heard."

Smith said he approved of the influence by presidents. He said that every president since Cleveland had undertaken to influence legislation, and added that if he had been in the White House he would have done the same thing.

RECORDS ARE SHATTERED

French Aviator Completes Trip From Paris to St. Petersburg

St. Petersburg, June 18.—The flight from Paris to St. Petersburg, over 1600 miles, was completed by the French aviator, Marcel G. Brindejonc des Moulinais, who covered the last lap of his journey, from Dvinsk to St. Petersburg, something over 300 miles, in three and a half hours in the face of a strong head wind. The Russian Aero club presented the aeronaut with a silver vase.

The aviator left Paris a week ago yesterday and made a record-breaking flight to Warsaw, 930 miles from his starting point, before nightfall. After resting he started on his way to the capital, but after covering more than 300 miles slightly injured his machine in alighting at Dvinsk. The repairs were soon completed and he flew the remaining distance, shattering all cross-country records for an equal period of time.

Murphy reined in his three-horse hitch into aerial ladder truck 14, sustaining serious internal injuries and causing the slight injuring of Assistant Engineer McLaughlin.

When he was picked up unconscious, he was given first aid treatment in a nearby drugstore and was then taken to a hospital.

The fire engine had its smokestack torn off and the bell hangers bent out of shape by the collision, while the ladder truck was practically undamaged.

KAISERIN IS INDISPOSED

Recent Social Functions In Berlin Have Overtaxed Her Strength

Berlin, June 18.—Worn out by the strain of the festivities attending the marriage of her daughter, Princess Victoria Luise, and incidental to the quarter centennial jubilee in commemoration of Kaiser Wilhelm's accession to the throne, the empress is indisposed and unable to take part in the ceremonies.

There was a big parade of workmen yesterday through the streets between banks of massed spectators. Thousands of Germans and tourists rubbed elbows or mingled their "Hochs" in in the beer gardens.

LOCOMOTIVE 1338 PUT THROUGH PACES

Mellen Experts Prepare For Evidence at Wreck Inquiry

Stamford, Conn., June 18.—The great super-heater engine 1338, which on Thursday last crushed the parlor car Skylark on the first section of the Springfield express on the New Haven road and snuffed out six lives, was put through its paces yesterday afternoon, under conditions nearly identical with those on the day of the disaster. The train was made up the same as it was last Thursday.

The levers of the engine were operated at the direction of experts designated by President Mellen to determine so far as possible the technical condition of the engine.

Running at a mile a minute at times, the brakes on the engine were applied in the tests and every time they apparently responded as they should.

The railroad officials claim that aside from repairs to the boiler tubes the engine was in just the condition it was found after it had been dragged free of the wreckage of the parlor car.

APPEALS FOR RESCUE

Girl Student of Northfield Seminary Held Against Her Will

Northfield, Mass., June 18.—Out of some strange resort of New York's East Side came a dispatch written in odd characters, and which has led to the belief that Miss Annie McKenzie, a student of the Northfield academy, as been the victim of kidnappers.

Miss Julia Ritter of Keene, N. H., also a student at the seminary, received the strange note.

This states briefly that the writer, believed to be Miss McKenzie, 15-year-old student, was in trouble, housed in a resort against her will, from which she pleaded for assistance.

Immediately the police of New York and detectives were set at work upon the case. It is feared that the girl has fallen victim to a white slave band.

PINGREE AND HERMANN HELD

I. W. W. Leaders Morally Responsible For Death

RESULT OF THE IPSWICH RIOT

Defendants Must Remain In Jail Until Hearing on Murder Accusation—Fourteen Others Held In Bail of $800 Each on Charge of Rioting at Hosiery Mill

Ipswich, Mass., June 18.—Declared by the court to be morally responsible for the death of the woman who was shot during the strike riot at the Ipswich hosiery mill last week, Carroll L. Pingree of Lowell and Nathaniel Hermann of Boston, both leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World, were held in $1200 bail each for the grand jury on a charge of rioting, at the end of a hearing before Judge Sayward.

Mrs. Pingree was freed of this charge, the court saying she had acted at the direction of her husband and was therefore, if for no other reason, beyond the law.

A more serious charge, that of murder, is still pending against the three defendants, and they will have to remain in jail, at least until the hearing on the murder accusations. The grand jury will meet in Salem on July 9.

Eleven other defendants were held for the grand jury on the charge of rioting, bail in each case being fixed at $800. Five, including Mrs. Pingree, were discharged.

In rendering his decision, Sayward, after declaring Pingree and Herman responsible, said: "They might as well have put a match to powder as to have crowded these dupes into a corner with working operatives, for they both admitted they knew there was bad blood between the two crowds.

"They led these people to intimidate and scare the workers in the mill, but I can find no evidence to sustain the belief that the rioting was premeditated or planned. In fact, I doubt if either Pingree or Herman contemplated such a result of the picketing, but as leaders they advised such measures and as leaders they are responsible."

Harry M. Sayward, a son of the presiding judge, argued in behalf of the defendants, while E. M. Sullivan made the argument for the prosecution.

RELIEF IS IMMEDIATE

Tuberculosis Patient Has Shinbone Grafted Into Spinal Column

New York, June 18.—Substitution of shinbone for spine has given Vito Tasaquika new hope of prolonging life, according to the verdict of doctors in St. Barnabas hospital, Newark, N. J.

Tasaquika was in a critical condition from dorsal tuberculosis. This grafting of healthy bone into the spinal column resulted, forty-eight hours after the operation, in the return of the patient's temperature to normal and the cessation of pain. The doctors say that in a few weeks the man will enjoy good health.

Tasaquika entered the hospital last month. Diagnosis disclosed tuberculosis of the spine, which crumples the vertabrae and produces hunchback. The hospital staff called in Dr. Minningham, who had treated successfully another case of this kind. He proposed operation and the patient gave his consent.

A REMARKABLE DEATH FEAST

Given by Chinese Laundry Proprietor Who Was Ill

SIX BEST FRIENDS INVITED

Light Their Pipes After Farewell Dinner and Serenely Look on as Ho Why Puts Bullet Into His Head and Is Gathered Unto His Ancestors—An Atlantic City Tragedy

Atlantic City, N. J., June 18.—Arrested for murder, six Chinamen sedately shook their heads and said calmly that not by the Rising Sun had they any hand in the death by bullet wound in the head of Ho Why, laundry proprietor, 200 Kentucky avenue.

But this was transcendently true—they had been the guests of privilege at Ho Why's suicide party. They had as by honorable custom, ordained in the writings of Confucius, sat and watched their brother kill himself—"honorably," they said, shoot himself in the head and "honorably" die.

There are other, older Chinese methods that he might have used. But Ho Why was modern, or, as one of the witnesses of his death said, he wanted to die in the American style. He used a revolver with a highly polished nickel barrel and a mother of pearl and silver mounted butt.

Ho Why had been in this country twenty years. He had done much over the wash tub. He had sent much money back to China to the glorification of his ancestors, the aid of his relatives and the support of the revolution. But he had coughed a great deal; he had become wofully thin and he knew that his revered ancestors awaited his coming. And also he had been a failure; he had no son.

Under such circumstances it was perfectly "honorable" to die. With Ho Why the act was to be no secret thing. It was that which a Chinaman of mettle and spirit would perform. As if to his funeral he invited his best friends.

The six friends received each a summons in dignified, unemotional language. They were invited to attend at 6 o'clock at Ho Why's laundry; all were there.

Ho Why had carefully drawn the curtains of his shop window facing on the street. The friends greeted him with smiles and went into the rear. Ho Why acted as host at a formal but pleasant dinner.

After they had feasted Ho Why went to a little cabinet in the rear of the room. And when he turned from it he bowed—holding now the revolver of the shining barrel.

His friends were lighting pipes with long thick bamboo stems and tiny silver bowls. They watched him serenely as he placed himself quite rigidly upon a stool.

Ho Why put the revolver muzzle against his right temple. His friends removed their pipe stems from their lips expectantly. The shot was fired. His friends watched him sink in death, looked at one another, nodded, puffed agan and then Shu Nan got up and caught Ho Why's corpse lest it should fall to the floor.

Patrolman Marshall smashed his way in from the street and arrested the guests of the "suicide party," but when the six Chinamen had quietly explained they were released. Ho Why had done as his father would have him to do; his friends had done as a Chinaman's friends should.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TEMPTING RICE PUDDINGS.

RICE pudding is a favorite with the housewife. It is easy to make and is economical.

Lest the family find it monotonous, it may be varied by using different flavors and by combining it with fruit. Raisins are generally used for the purpose, but other fruits are quite as available.

Some recipes for rice puddings with fruits are given here:

With Winter Fruits.

Rice and Apple Pudding.—Take a half pint of milk, two heaping teaspoonfuls of rice, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, two eggs and six tart apples. Boil the rice in the milk, and when the cereal is soft add the yolks of the eggs and the sugar and let it cook for several minutes, stirring all the time. Then take from the fire and line a buttered baking dish with it. In the meantime pare and core the apples and stew these until soft in sugar and water with the juice and rind of a lemon. Place the apples in the center of the rice lined baking dish. Beat the whites of the eggs to a froth and spread these over the rice and apples. Sprinkle with sugar and brown in the oven.

Rice and Marmalade Pudding.—Take half a cupful of rice and simmer in a quart of milk till it is soft and thick. Add a little salt, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and a little cream. Let all cool together, then pour into a baking dish and bake till set. Then spread over the pudding a thick coating of some favorite marmalade. Put a meringue over that and return the pudding to the over till the top is lightly browned. This is delicious cold.

Served With Sauce.

Rice and Date Pudding.—Mold this in a shallow serving bowl. Take a small cup or bowl similar in shape to the mold, wet on outside and set in the mold. Now with a spoon take up some boiled rice and form a ring around the cup. Press firmly against the sides and have the outer edge nice and even. Remove the inner dish. This forms a ring of rice with a little well inside for sauce. Place the sauce in center, sift a little sugar over the rice and serve with cream or milk.

Date Sauce.—To make the sauce take half a pound of dates and remove the stones. Add enough water to cover and simmer slowly until perfectly soft. Mash and sweeten to taste. Some prefer them unsweetened. Let cool, then fill rice border.

HOW TO USE A LIFE PRESERVER PROPERLY.

"The worst trouble about a life preserver," said an old sailor, "is that few people know what to do with one when it's thrown to them. Many a man would drown in trying to get a life preserver over his head.

"The average person struggling about in the water would try to lift up the big life ring and put it over his head. That only causes the man to sink deeper and take more water into his lungs.

"The proper way to approach a life preserver in the water is to take hold of the side nearest you and press upon it with all your weight. That causes the other side to fly up in the air and down over your head, 'ringing' you as neatly as a man ringing a cane at a country fair. After that the drowning man can be rescued."

GARDEN LORE.

How to Make Roses Bloom All Through the Summer.

Outdoor roses may be divided into four general classes—namely, climbers and ramblers, monthlies, teas and hybrid teas and hardy perpetuals.

The climbers and ramblers bloom only once each year, in late June or July, except a very few, among which are the new flower of Fairfield, also called the ever blooming crimson rambler; climbing American Beauty and Christine Wright, a bright wild rose pink in color. The dwarf or baby ramblers with proper treatment bloom throughout the summer and autumn, as do also the monthlies, teas and hybrid teas.

The hardy perpetuals give a heavy crop of blooms in June and under skillful handling will give several more small crops of blooms during the season. The name perpetual given to this class of roses is misleading and means not that this class of roses blooms all the season normally, but that they live year after year out of doors.

In order to secure the greatest number of blooms from rosebushes of any class the first step is to cut the rose blooms and summer prune the bushes properly. The bloom always appear on the young growth and in picking either a single rose or a cluster of roses, as in the case of the baby ramblers and other cluster roses, cut with a sharp knife, taking with the bloom or cluster of blooms a stem long enough so as to leave a stub having only one leaf between its end and the old hardwood branch or main stalk of the bush.

The second plan in securing more or less continuous summer blooming in roses is the weekly working of the surface of the soil about the rosebushes and monthly fertilization of the soil. Work the surface of the soil at least once a week so as to leave it fine and soft to the depth of two or three inches. The drier the weather the oftener the soil should be worked, and if this is done there will be very little need for artificial watering.

About once a month work into the soil all over the rose bed or border or where the bushes are set as single specimens in a circle about two and one half feet in diameter around the bush a layer of well decayed cow or sheep manure about one inch thick. This may be varied by a spread of bonemeal in the place of the manure thick enough to make the surface quite white and worked in the same as manure. Both kinds of manure and bonemeal can be obtained from the seedsmen.

How to Save Ice.

"I wish to tell you of a contrivance of mine," said a woman recently, "for saving ice when the refrigerater has to stand in a heated kitchen or when hot weather comes around. Even though the refrigerator is in a cool place in summer, the ice melts fast during the heated term. I learned the trick during a torrid summer and wish to pass it on for the benefit of others.

"When the iceman came around with a hundred pound piece of ice I had him put it inside a gunny sack, and after three days of intense heat I had about fifteen pounds left when the iceman came with another hundred pounds and put it inside a dry sack. The butter had kept hard and sweet, so I infer that the refrigeration was sufficient even if the chill was less than when rapid melting was going on."

How to Make Nut and Date Bread.

A bread that will appeal to the vegetarian is made by the following recipe: Measure one cupful of warm wheat mush made from any kind of wheat preparation, add one-quarter cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and one-quarter yeast cake dissolved in four tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water. Stir together, add one cupful of finely cut walnut meats and three-quarters cupful of dates cut in small pieces. Mix in flour enough to make a dough that can be kneaded, cover and set in a warm place to rise overnight. Knead, shape into a loaf and let rise in the pan. Bake in a moderate oven.

How to Make Glass Tough.

Tumblers, wineglasses, lamp chimneys and other glasses may be rendered so durable as to be almost unbreakable by placing them in a saucepan of cold water and gradually bringing it to boiling heat. Care should be taken that they do not touch each other during the bubbling up of the liquid.

GRADUATION AT THE WOODWARD

Fine Musical Program Followed by Excellent Address by Henry Turner Bailey

Class of 22 Young Ladies Graduated in Class of 1913

The graduation exercises of the class of 1913 of the Woodward Institute were held Wednesday evening at Woodward hall and as usual were attended by an audience that was only limited by the capacity of the hall. The exercises were of the usual interesting character consisting largely of music by the school and a short address.

The front part of the hall was reserved for the students of the school, the graduating class occupying seats on the floor during the musical exercises in which the whole school took part. Then they marched out and entering the platform by the rear entrance were seated in a semi-circle on the platform during the address and presentation of the diplomas.

Very stately were the school as they marched in with military like precision and took the seats set apart for them and it was noticed that simplicity of dress was a rule not only with the graduating class but with the school as a whole. The front of the platform was attractively arranged with great clusters of peonies of varied colors and these comprised the decorations.

The exercises opened with music by the school under the direction of John D. Buckingham. Their selections included "Elfin dance" by Marcus Koch; Schumann's pianoforte solo Novelette in F, by Miss Margaret Louise Read: Mendelssohns "Ave Maria" and W. Sterndale Bennett's "May Dew." As the speaker said in his opening remarks such a performance as had been listened to was really ideal and a credit. A fine piece of work from the artists view was the product without effort, and such had been the music.

The speaker of the evening was Henry Turner Bailey, a brother of Councilman Charles W. Bailey and a gentleman well known to many of his hearers. He said this vividly recalled to mind his graduation 31 years ago and in the light of his experience he had three things to say to the graduating class, which he wished had been said to his class.

The first is "whatever you do and wherever you go, make up your mind to keep well physically." To sit well and not crumpled all up in a heap. To walk well remembering when a person walks he rides from his hips upward. To breathe a long deep breath at least five times a day. When sitting at a table do not eat but dine. There is a vast difference between eating and dining. Babies feed, children eat but others dine. You will enjoy life better if you keep well, and will add to the neighbors enjoyment in life. Above all he hoped that every girl would have a home and family and have the supreme honor of being a link betwixt us and the coming race.

The second thing he would say was to be healthful intellectually. Do not give too much time to reading newspapers, magazines and novels. If you do you are simply destroying your mental digestion. Read something however worth while every day.

The third thing was to have spiritual health. The right spiritual attitude of spirit toward life. The human spirit is not right until it leads you into the spiritual realm. Try to do some unselfish kindly thing every day. It does not matter what, but do it. Take a little time every day and think about yourself and what you are called to be. Every great achievement in the world has been love of woman. It is given to women to lead men, to furnish the ideas for and to lead the race.

Taking up one of the diplomas and noticing the colors of the ribbon, the speaker said that the white was a symbol of puriety and perfection, of all that was highest and best. The green was the symbol of hope, and may you never lose it.

The address was out of the usual run of addresses on such occasions but was all the more enjoyed as it certainly was, fully as much by the audience as by the graduates to whom the speaker addressed himself directly

At the conclusion of the address Rev. Dr. Adelbert L. Hudson ,chairman of the trustees, spoke briefly in awarding the diplomas. He said he felt sure that 31 years from now they would feel glad for what the speaker had said. He hoped that the class would receive these diplomas as a condition to give their best effort to preserve their physical, intellectual and moral health. He wanted the class to think what these diplomas cost and what they stood for and they should be an obligation. Think what they cost. Dr. Woodward gave the product of a lifetime to found this school. He had come to believe that he was a democratic person to give to every Quincy born girl the best equipment.

THE WOODWARD INSTITUTE FOR GIRLS.

It was his Democratic purpose that every girl should have an opportunity to equip herself for her work and the product of a life stood back of it.

He also spoke of the loyalty and devotion of the teachers. They are not doing the work for the sake of the salary. The duty and sacrifices of the teachers and also of the parents has cost something. This then is a trust. You stand pledged to make your lives worth what has been given to you. There was no higher ideal or happier destiny than to help found a home.

The diplomas were then presented by Dr. Hudson to the twenty-two graduates.

Mr. Rice, the principal, then announced that there would be an exhibition of the work in drawing on the second floor after the school had marched out, and all were invited to inspect the work.

QUINCY MAN WINS BIG HARVARD GAME

Hardwick's Hit Brings in Deciding Run in the Fourteenth Inning

Yale Defeated in Royal Battle Four to Three

"Tack" Hardwick of Quincy was the hero of the day in the royal battle of Harvard and Yale on the diamond on Thursday, and was carried on the shoulders of Harvard men after the game.

Harvard tied the score at 3 to 3 in the ninth and won the game by 4 to 3 in the fourteenth inning, on Soldiers' Field. As Yale had defeated Harvard 2 to 0 at New Haven on Tuesday, a third game will be necessary at Brooklyn on Saturday.

The Herald says: "It was one of the best played Harvard-Yale contests in years. Up to the time of the deciding drive, the outcome of the game was in doubt. The "break" came when Cornish raced out into short centre field and then dropped Gannett's pop fly, which allowed the Harvard right fielder to reach second. "Tack" Hardwick beat Yale by driving a liner over Capt. Blossom's head, scoring Gannett. Hardwicks' hit would have been an easy home run had the bases been unoccupied, but as Gannett was on second Hardwick only got credit for a double."

The Globe says: "Not since the palmiest days of Harvard's greatest long distance hitter, Orville Frantz, has such a clout been made on Soldiers Field as that which broke up a 14-inning ball game between Harvard and Yale yesterday afternoon and won it for Harvard, 4 to 3.

"The youngster who so supremely shook the underpinning of Frantz' baseball pedestal was Huntington Hardwick, 1915, who after being hitless all day, came across with a magnificent drive that cleared the head of Yale's center fielder by 20 feet and went scooting for the Charles River."

The Boston Advertiser says: "It was either side's game up to the time Gannett banged a fly out to short centre-field and reached second. Hardwick was up next. Twice he foul-ticked the twirls sent over by Giles, the Eli pitcher. Then came one to his liking, and the Harvard stands went wild as Gannett crossed the plate with the winning run. Hardwick circled the bases, reaching home before Middlebrook, the Yale centre-fielder, had even found Hardwick's hit.

"This was a fitting ending to a game that had held thousands spellbound throughout 14 innings and a still more fitting tribute to the work of Felton of Harvard, who pitched through the whole 14 innings without faltering and finishing as strong, if not stronger, than when he started."

WELLESLEY GRADUATE.

Lois Marjorie Kendall of Atlantic street was graduated with honors this week from Wellesley College as bachelor of arts. Miss Kendall has been very successful in her college career, both in academics and athletics, having been elected to a fraternity to which are eligible only those who have a high standing in their studies, being cast for the senior play, and besides winning the golf championship of the college for two successive years, having been "head of golf" with full charge of that sport, President of the Golf club, captain of her class team and a member of the student athletic committee.

The annual committee of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge will hold a whist party in Odd Fellows hall Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

PRESENTATION TO FR. COAN

St. John's School Subscribe for Memorial Window

The pupils of St. John's Parish School assembled in the hall Wednesday afternoon with Rev. Fr. John J. Coan as their guest and after a well arranged program, formally presented him with a memorial window for the church which will be inscribed, "Gift of the Parish School." Father Coan accepted the gift in a speech that was both thankful and instructive. He was also given a ladder of roses.

The program opened with the "Welcome" chorus by the school. Mary McCue, one of the graduates, then made a brief address touching upon the object of the gathering. Then followed the Jubilee song by eight boys, each representing a letter of the word. They were Daniel Kelliher, John P. Sullivan, Joseph Mitchell, Gerald Barry, Francis Moro, Raymond Caron, John Shea, and Edwin LeCroix leader.

"The Gleaners" was sung by 16 of the graduates who were dressed in costume and carried sheafs of wheat. Those who sang the "Ladder to Heaven" were Emma Bouchard, Catherine Griffin, Ethel Fay, Helen Houston, Gertrude Chisolm, Joseph Stacey, Francis Barrett and John Smith.

The presentation speech was by Anna Cremmins, at the conclusion of which two pages, Mary McMahon and Francis Barrett carried between them a basket containing the purse of gold sufficiently large enough to subscribe a window. The program closed with the singing of the hymn of Thanksgiving, by all the pupils. John Mahon was the accompanist.

Bay View Loyal Orange lodge, No. 187 at their last regular meeting accepted an invitation from Manager Wardwell of the Kincaide Theatre to attend performance on Friday evening, June 20. Members will parade from Wilson's hall to the theatre.

ATHLETICS IN SCHOOLS.

A South Dakota exchange notes that at the coming close of its local High school year, medals will be presented for success in athletics. While this is an idea that may seem eccentric to the older educators, it represents a growing tendency to recognize athletics as a part of school work.

It of course remains absurd that in the colleges a substitute player on a football team gets about as much news paper space as the valedictorian of his class. Still the fact remains that in the secondary schools where athletics are closely regulated, they have an exceedingly beneficial effect.

The boy who can keep his temper when the umpire calls a poor pitch a strike, who can play for his team score rather than his own batting average, has acquired a self-control and a capacity for co-operative effort that may be worth quite as much as a familiarity with the battles of Julius Caesar.

Columbia university gave diplomas to 2141 graduates this year in the various departments. When they gave the class yell ,the neighbors must have thought it was some noise.

Now that it seems unlikely that the proposed tax will be placed on the tobacco trust, the combine is anxiously fearing that it will have no excuse for putting up prices.

There may still be lots of lobbying but the time has passed when a senator could walk up to the corporation office and draw his weekly pay envelope without anyone noticing it.

While Mr. Bryan denies that he does the marketing, it is probable that when his wife telephones down for him to step around to the grocer's and bring up a bag of potatoes, he does not venture to refuse.

The baccalaureate sermons are so impressive that the students feel that all the efforts they made to get on the varsity ball team were well worth while.

Perhaps there would not be so much objection to the lobbyists if they would agree to do business on a strictly grape juice basis.

Nine hundred thousand Chicago people see the movies daily. There is a suspicion that if a careful count were made, the other two million of the population would be found there, too.

There is a vacancy in the job of English poet laureate, but as it only pays $60 a year, it does not solve the problem how poets shall support a family.

It is declared that the circus clowns have just the same old jokes, but perhaps people wouldn't stand for it if they were asked to grasp some new ones.

GRADUATIONS TOMORROW

Four Halls Will be Used by Grammar Schools

The grammar school graduations will be held Friday afternoon and for the first time they will be held by districts instead of one general graduation in the High school hall as in other years. One of the reasons for this is that there is no school hall large enough to accommodate hte parents and friends of the graduates who desire to attend those graduations.

The exercises will be held as follows:

At High school hall at 3 P. M.,—Adams, Cranch, John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard schools.

At Coddington school hall at 3 P. M.,—Atherton Hough, Coddington and Washington schools.

At Quincy school hall, at 3 P. M.,—Gridley Bryant, Montclair and Quincy schools.

At Wollaston school hall—at 7.30 P. M.,—Wollaston and Massachusetts Field schools.

DOHERTY NOT QUALIFIED

Should Not Have Been Allowed to Run Flier, Says Expert

Bridgeport, Conn., June 19.—"My own personal opinion is that Engineer Doherty should not have been allowed to run the train," declared Patrick J. Langdon, an air-brake expert of the Lackawanna railroad, referring to the wreck at Stamford last Thursday, before the joint inquiry by the interstate commerce commission and the Connecticut public utilities commission.

He said Doherty would not have been allowed to run a passenger train on the Lackawanna until he had at least three years' experience as a freight engineer.

Langdon also gave testimony as to the results of the test run made by the same engine and equipment as in the Stamford werck and intended to duplicate conditions at the time of the accident. He was asked this question:

"As an air-brake expert would you say that the perfomance of the test train was satisfactory—that is, as trains come and go?"

Langdon promptly replied: "Yes."

DAMAGE NOT HEAVY

Cause of Wreck of Bar Harbor Special Train Is a Mystery

Lowell, Mass., June 19.—Although investigations have been conducted by railroad officials, no cause has yet been ascertained for the wreck yesterday of a special train of Pullman cars on the Boston and Maine bound from New York to Bar Harbor, Me.

The baggage and mail cars broke away from the rest of the special train and rolled along the edge of an embankment, one-half mile south of the Graniteville station.

According to a statement issued by the New Haven, the loss will not exceed $25, as outside of the damage to the baggage cars there was very little injury.

The report states that an engineer who was riding in the baggage car bumped his head, and that no one else claims to have been even shaken up. There were seventy-five passengers on the train.

TURNER—SPEAR.

Mr. Linwood B. Turner and Miss Viola Marie Spear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Spear of East Weymouth, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the home of the bride, 67 Charles street, by Rev. Walter Commons. The bride was attended by Miss Susie Louise Daly of Weymouth and the best man was William F. Daly of Weymouth. The ushers were Mrs. Henry P. Tilden of Weymouth and Mrs. Herbert J. Eno of Braintree.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Albert M. Andrews of Hingham. The bride wore a white messaline gown with shadow lace and rose bud trimmings. She carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid wore a blue chiffon over blue messaline, with pearl trimmings. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas. A reception followed the ceremony. They will reside at 1120 Commercial street where they will be at home after Aug. 1.

BURNS—CROTTY.

Miss Mary E. Crotty of 7 Willow avenue, Wollaston, was united in marriage to Robert R. Burns of Old Colony avenue, Wednesday evening by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan at the parochial home at seven o'clock. A wedding reception followed at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Crotty.

The bride wore white satin and carried Bridal roses. The bride was attended by her sister Agnes Louise, who wore white charmeuse trimmed with shadow lace and carried Killarney roses. The best man was James J. Manning of Quincy. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents of cut glass and silver.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns left on a wedding tour to Maine and New York. They will be at home to friends after July 8, at 7 Moscow street, Atlantic.

LIMITED BY WATER ACT.

A special bill was introduced in the legislature Wednesday to allow the city of Quincy to sell its water bonds at a greater rate of interest than four per cent. Under the water act, for the extension of the water system, it is expressly stipulated that the rate of interest shall not exceed four per cent. The city was unable to sell the bonds for that rate and the City Council authorized the bonds to be sold for four and one-quarter per cent. It appears however that this could not legally be done, and a special act is being rushed through the legislature to allow the city to sell the bonds at a greater rate of interest than four per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Williams of Barry street have gone to Maine for a two weeks vacation.

WATSON—HOBART.

The Methodist Episcopal church at South Braintree was packed to the limit and there seemed to be nearly as many people on the outside, Tuesday evening, the occasion being the wedding of two young people at South Braintree, Miss Bertha Standish Hobart, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hobart, 691 Washington street, and Fred Bruce Watson, son of Mrs. Ada L. Watson, 311 Union street. Soon after seven o'clock the church was completely filled with relatives and friends and the wedding, which was to have taken place at 7.30 was delayed until 7.47, and it was with great difficulty the wedding procession proceeded from the vestry to the back of the church to the main aisle which left a free passage to the altar.

Miss Lida Tupper of South Braintree presided at the piano and rendered Lohengrin's wedding march. The procession was headed by six boy scouts in uniform followed by the pastor Rev. A. Lowell Ryan, the groom and best man, bridesmaid, the bride and father. The wedding was pretty and impressive, the bride being given in marriage by her father. She was charmingly gowned in white with embroidered net and tulle veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of roses and shower of sweet peas. Miss Margaret J. Michael of South Quincy, was the stately bridesmaid and beautiful to behold in a gown of pink marquisette over pink silk. She carried pink roses.

The groom's present to his bride was an amethyst and pearl brooch. To his best man, Ernest W. Clark of Braintree, he presented an opal stick pin. A turquoise ring was given the bridesmaid by the bride.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the vestry, the bride and groom being assisted in receiving by the bridesmaid and best man. The ushers were Lloyd Weston, Karl Rodgers and Otis Randall of South Braintree, Warren Bates and Wilbur Call of Braintree and Harold Calkins of Melrose Highlands. During the reception while sweet music was rendered by Tupper's orchestra, refreshments were served, and the Kroweldeens, of which the bride is an active member, passed through the receiving line with a shower of confetti.

The twelve young ladies who served refreshments are Mary Heath, Florence Parkhurst, Ethel Erwin, Susan Erwin, Bessie Hollis, Maude Mosher, Ida Leighton, Hazel Stevens, Arlene Stevens, Beatrice Bird, Mabel Bird and Nettie Cudmore.

At 8.40 the bridal party slipped quietly away and departed in a well trimmed auto for the Touraine, Boston. After a week at Niagara Falls and other points of interest they will be at home at 311 Union street where they will be glad to welcome their many friends.

The church was decorated by the Kroweldeens with ferns, daisies, birch branches, palms, rose acacia blossoms and other wild and cultivated flowers. Especially pretty were the floral arch, and the open gate at the back of the platform banked with flowers.

The happy couple received an abundance of wedding gifts, cut glass, silver and linen, which are at the bride's home. These gifts were evidently selected with great care for they are useful and serviceable. A beautiful mantle clock was received from Blue Hill Lodge, No. 208 A. O. U. W. of which the groom is an active member, a china chocolate set from the church choir, and a beautiful picture of leaning birches from the Circuit of the Epworth League.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bruce Watson have been very active members in the South M. E. church and the church is fortunate in the continuance of their activities. The bride has written the church news for a long time very acceptably and has been a bookkeeper for C. W. Calkins & Co., printers, 52 Purchase street, Boston. Mr. Watson entered the employ of Rice & Hutchins, shoe manufacturer at South Braintree as bookkeeper and has advanced with them to the position of superintendent of the pattern department.

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN

Roger Sherman Hoar Addresses Quincy Women

About fifty men and women gathered at the Women's clubhouse on Coffe street Wednesday evening to listen to a talk on "Equal Suffrage for Women," by Roger Sherman Hoar In the audience were suffragists, anti-suffragists and those who were neither for or against, but desirous of information.

Mr. Hoar gives a man's view of the situation and his straightforward, comprehensive statement of the question was convincing. He believed in suffrage for women, not because they were women or because they want the ballot, but because they are a representative body. He would no more exclude all bankers from voting, or all merchants, or lawyers, than he would women, for it would be a lop-sided government.

He believed more light was needed on political matters for clean legislation and if women had the franchise there would be more political discussions in the home which would tend to better and cleaner politics.

He advised women to get into politics, to meet the politicians in their ward and discuss equal suffrage with them, for after all it is the men that can bring it about in this state. Violence or a desire to vote will not accomplish the desired result, but co-operation and working together men and women will undoubtedly win in the end. There was much of interest brought out in the discussion which followed the lecture. All felt that it had been a most profitable evening, and regretted that graduations and other affairs had prevented a larger gathering.

The meeting was arranged by Miss Edith Randall who introduced the speaker and it was entirely informal. Other meetings are to be held from time to time.

PETITION IN CIRCULATION

Asks for Hearing on Price for Electricity

The Quincy Electric Light and Power Co., today answered the ultimatum of the committee appointed by the Board of Trade to secure lower rates on electricity. Their statement says the company cannot make definite their line of action until a meeting of the board of directors is held.

The document was presented to the officials of the company and stated that unless favorable action looked possible a petition would be circulated to secure a hearing before the Board of Electric Light and Gas Commissioners.

This afternoon, Captain George A. Wardwell who was chosen by the committee to circulate the petition commenced on consumers in view of the company's reply.

The petition reads as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Electric Light and Gas Commissioners:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned members of the Quincy Board of Trade and citizens of Quincy, Mass., respectfully ask for a hearing regarding the reduction of lighting rates in the city of Quincy as applies to Section 121 of the statutes.

Advertising Is Insurance

By HOLLAND.

AN advertisement is an insurance policy. It insures against loss through the purchase of goods of inferior quality. When you buy goods that are advertised you know you are getting the best. Makers of poor articles can't afford to advertise them. Unreliable merchants are not allowed to advertise in this paper even if advertising would be profitable to them, which is unlikely—unlikely because truth and reliability are the essence of successful advertising.

You don't take chances when you buy advertised goods, because if by any chance there should be anything wrong with the goods there is the reputation of merchant and manufacturer back of them, and any article that is not up to the advertised specifications will be replaced.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES. BUY ADVERTISED GOODS.

COTTAGE CHEESE.

How It May Be Easily and Quickly Made In the Home.

When one understands the possibilities of sour milk on the farm, where it may be used in satisfying quantity, the secret of many healthful and appetizing dishes will be solved. In the form of "cottage cheese" many delicious desserts and side dishes will give a pleasing variety to the daily bill of fare.

Plain cottage cheese "without the trimmings" is well worth considering. It may also be made to serve as the foundation for various other dishes. To serve it at its best there are two points to keep in mind. The sour milk, or "clabber," should never be allowed to reach boiling point in separating the curd from the whey, and care in draining the curd is equally important.

When the sour milk first forms a smooth "clabber" and before it has had time to separate is the best time for starting the cheese. Set the pan on the stove and let is simply "come to a scald," but do not on any account allow it to reach boiling point or the cheese will be tough and hard.

At the first sign of scalding, when the curd and whey begin to separate, pour the cheese in a bag and hang it away to drain without squeezing the bag.

Careful draining is very important. When allowed to drain too long it will toughen, and when the bag is squeezed to hasten the process the cheese will lose its lightness and creaminess.

The best plan for draining is to suspend the bag over a bar. When made in large quantities for marketing the big draining bag may be suspended from a broom handle laid across two chair backs, with a big bowl or pan on the floor to catch the drippings. As soon as the whey has drained off and while the cheese is still soft and creamy turn it from the bag, beat it up with a little sweet cream or milk, season with salt to taste, and it is then ready for serving as plain cottage cheese.

With the addition of a variety of flavorings it may be served in many appetizing ways. When mixed with sweet custard it gives the bulk to various pies and cheese cake desserts. In almost any form it is one of the most healthful of food products.

Snug White Skirts.

The softest materials are being used for white underskirts. The overskirts are so narrow that the white skirt of necessity must be as sheer as possible.

The more expensive skirts are slashed to a depth of six inches in the flounce to assure ease in walking. Beading is used to head the flounces, which are being worn this season. Beading, too, is worn to edge the skirt itself.

One and three-quarter yards is the width for the fashionable skirt, but they are also being made two yards wide.

New materials, such as Oxford cloth and cotton rep, are used, and in addition soft finished piques.

When these cotton goods are used it is advisable not to use under flounces. Buttonhole scalloping and fancy hemstitching make admirable edgings for these skirts.

Fly Net For Baby's Crib.

A fly net made of bobbinet or brussels net is useful. Buy two yards of net a yard and a half wide and either bind the edges with blue or pink wash ribbon, machine stitched or feather stitched on or else turn a hem and run it with blue or pink mercerized cotton threads.

At each corner fasten a weighted ball of silk to match the binding or thread. A small piece of silk gathered about a wad of cotton makes a weight that is heavy enough to keep the net from blowing away. It is to be thrown over carriage or crib to keep away flies or mosquitoes.

Collar and Cuff Sets.

Sets of collar and cuffs with belt to match are extremely good looking accessories to trim up the linen frock. They are fashioned from linen, with polka dots embroidered in various bright colors. The belt carries out the same design and fastens with a pearl buckle. Sets of embroidered net collar and cuffs are very effective on silk frocks, and the narrow plaited frill adds that truly feminine touch which many fastidious women demand.

BATCH OF BEET SUGAR LETTERS

Interesting Correspondence Before the Lobby Committee

INTERESTS' PUBLICITY PLANS

Some Light on How Sugar Was Injected Into Politics—Inquiry as to How Congressman Could Be Reached Made by Committee Chairman —Wiley Engaged as a Lecturer

Washington, June 19.—More letters and telegrams from the private files of the anti-free sugar "lobby" put into the record of the senate investigating committee purported to show that the beet sugar men furnished the sugar tariff arguments contained in the Republican national campaign text book of 1912; engaged Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former government pure food chief, to deliver lectures; expressed "great doubt" of former President Taft's ability to carry such states as California, Idaho, Utah and Colorado, and added: "If we don't head him off we might be able to get a promise relative to the sugar and tobacco industries."

The introduction of the private letters was accomplished not without opposition from Henry T. Oxnard and Truman G. Palmer, both prominent in the beet sugar campaign. Through their attorney they protested that the committee had no authority to bring in any correspondence dated prior to the present session of congress on the ground that it was authorized only to investigate if a lobby threatened legislation now pending. Many of the letters referred to activities years ago.

After an hour's executive session, however, the committee voted to overrule the protest and to continue reading the letters.

Only a few letters were read prior to the executive session. These told of attempts to influence campaign counsels and threw further light on the sugar interests' "publicity" methods.

One telegram, dated Feb. 19, 1912, sent to F. A. Gillespie, at Garden City, Kan., and signed by C. C. Hamlin, until recently chairman of the executive committee of the Beet Sugar Producers' association and Washington representative of that interest, read:

"Write me fully about your new congressman and how he can best be reached. Would get up new petitions not only at Garden City, but also at Sylvia and other places. Also have as many letters sent as possible. Letters to your new congressman from substantial Democrats very desirable."

Two communications were spread on the records before Mr. Yerkes, counsel for Oxnard and Palmer, could object. In one of these, dated July 15, 1906, Oxnard, multi-millionaire "legislative expert" of the beet sugar association, congratulated Palmer for having Aaron Gove, a Great Western Sugar company employe, go around trying to educate congressmen.

The letter to which Yerkes particularly objected was written to Oxnard in 1907 concerning Gove's anxiety to buy an influential newspaper and secure space in an eastern newspaper. The most significant paragraph, however, was as follows:

"Mr. Collins is very anxious about the Taft situation and hopes there will be some way to make it known there would be great doubt about his ability to carry such states as California, Idaho, Utah, Colorado and Michigan, and that if we can't head him off we might be able to get a promise from him relative to the sugar and tobacco industries. He asked me for suggestions as to action and I think I will write him as to the annual meeting, when the whole subject can be thoroughly canvassed."

JOKER IN SUGAR SCHEDULE

Would Have Placed Two-Cent Duty on All Refined Sugar

Washington, June 19.—An eleventh hour discovery that the sugar schedule of the Underwood tariff bill had a "joker" in it which would have operated to make all refined sugar dutiable at 2 cents a pound and nullify the provision for free sugar after three years, resulted in an amendment to the schedule by majority members of the senate finance committee.

The majority members of the committee late yesterday received expert reports to the effect that the language might operate as a joker, and they promptly struck out the language as it referred to refined sugar, and left it applicable only to confectioneries.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The Thomas Crane Public Library has just added the complete Biographical edition of Robert Louis Stevenson's works. This edition was published in 27 volumes by Scribner in 1909 and 1910; is conveniently small in size, printed in good, clear type, and on good quality paper. Most of the volumes have prefaces, written by Mrs. Stevenson, telling when, where, and under what circumstances each novel essay sketch, etc., was written These prefaces are exceedingly interesting, and give a very intimate picture of this "Virgil of prose" as Richard La Gallienne calls him.

The reference books in the Reading Room have been incerased by the following additions. Accountancy problems in 2 volumes by Leo Greendlinger answers the call by High school pupils, for this sort of reference work, as it contains solutions as well as problems. Gould's Student's medical dictionary, eleventh edition, illustrated, will supply an also repeated need for a dictionary of this kind. And lastly the law books have been advantageously increased by Parsons' Laws of business.

MINSTRELS AT SQUANTUM

"Hunting for Hapgood" Was a Scream

Only the first part of the minstrel show at Squantum on June 16 and 17 was reported in yesterday's Ledger. But it was a great show from beginning to end and the report is continued today.

The olio opened with a musical sketch by John Mardon. He played on a variety of instruments and his sketch was a most entertaining one.

The Squantum quartet composed of Messrs. Singleton, Mardon, Uppling and James H. Foster sang several selections in excellent harmony and responded to encores.

George Jones recited "The Football game" which was a hit. Mr. Jones is an Emerson school of Oratory graduate and his rendition of the selection was excellent in every respect.

John Jepson who is familiar to all Squantum people for his sketch work entertained the audience for 15 minutes with a series of drawings of notable people.

Mr. Arthur Sherwood Kendall, composer appeared in two of his original Kipling songs "Tommy" and "Gun-Ga-Din." He was excellent.

Charles Bostwick made a hit in an original monologue filled with local hits.

The closing number of the program showed that Squantum has some excellent dramatic talent. The one-act play "Hunting for Hapgood" was a scream. The play was given under the personal direction of Louis Osbourne Holt, who is a well known actress of the Keith circuit who makes her permanent home in Squantum. The success of the piece reflected great credit upon Mrs. Holt who took the piece at the 11th hour of rehearsals and brought out a finished production.

Edward Carlson was a hit in the leading role of Cyrus Brown and Benjamin Hapgood. He played the dual role with a good deal of finesse. James Allen was excellent as Dr. Tatlock and his solo "Why I Love you" was given in excellent voice. Mrs. Holt got a lot of good laughs from the part of Mrs. Cyrus Brown and Clara her daughter, as played by Charles Cullen, was excellent. Cullen's make up was so good that few in the audience recognized that it was not a handsome young lady taking the part until he began to talk in a heavy voice Cullen's love scenes with Dr. Tatlock were a big hit. Warren Fifield played the part of the colored waiter with a lot of spirit and good humor.

The plot proved most interesting. It was the adventure of a Cyrus Brown who got mixed up with a crazy man who had escaped from an asylum who was Brown's double in appearance. The fun came when Mrs. Brown, Dr. Tatlock and Clara all confused Brown for the crazy man and could not tell their own husband and father when the real Cyrus Brown returned.

Those who took part in the opening chorus were: Frank W. Anderson, T. F. Callahan, C. E. Carlson, Edward Carlson, Warren Fifield, James H. Foster, George Hersey, John Jepson, Jr., John Mardon, Hiram A. Morse, David Olson, Russell Rich, Harleigh Schultz, C. H. Singleton, Herbert A. Smith, Joseph Uppling, Lester Wallace and Mr. Swanson and James Allen.

The entire production, which was Squantum's premier effort at a real show reflected great credit upon the committee in charge and upon all who took part. The proceeds of the two performances go to the Squantum Woman's club in aid of their building fund.

The committee in charge of the affair was: Herbert A. Smith, chairman T. F. Callahan, Edward Eagar, Edward Carlson, John Mardon, Joseph Uppling, William A. Reed, Hiram A. Morse, C. H. Singleton and John R. Nelson.

MURDER CHARGE WILL BE MADE

Warrant to Be Asked For Arrest of Hub Policeman

QUESTION OF DANGER ARISES

Shea's Defenders Say He Was Unjustifiably Shot by Miller and That Latter's Life Was Not In Jeopardy as He Claims—Medical Examiner Also Investigating

Boston, June 19.—Captain Armstrong of police headquarters will today ask Judge Sullivan of the municipal court to grant a warrant charging Patrolman Charles W. Miller of the Lagrange street station with the murder of Ralph P. Shea of 75 Carver street on Tuesday morning.

The request for the warrant will be made in the course of the regular police routine in all homicide cases. The evidence collected during the investigation of the shooting will be presented to the court by Armstrong. The stories of each witness examined by him for or against Miller will be given and the matter left in the hands of Sullivan.

Independent of this step is the investigation which is being conducted by Medical Examiner Leary, who will request that the inquest be held to investigate the exact circumstances of how Shea met his death. This is done because of the fact that Leary himself will not himself determine the result of his investigation.

The family and friends of Shea claim he was unjustifiably shot by Miller and that at the time the second shot was fired by the policeman the crowd had disappeared, being frightened by the first shot, and that Miller's life was not in danger, as he claims.

They are determined to press the affair to the end so that the stigma placed upon Shea by the allegations made that he was one of the leaders in the gang who it is alleged attacked Miller may be removed.

Miller was last night placed on duty at the patrol wagon house as the extra man on the wagon for the next two weeks. Captain Canney announced that the transfer of Miller from his route in "Kerry Village," where the shooting occurred, was not because of that fact. He stated that he had originally planned to use Miller on the wagon during the vacation of one of the regular men.

SKIPPER AND FIVE MEN LOST

Freighter Crashes Into Fisherman Off Sable Island

OLYMPIA IS SPLIT AMIDSHIP

Eight Men on Gloucester Schooner Rush to Rigging and Then Leap Aboard the Sagamore as Their Vessel Quickly Disappears Beneath the Waves

Boston, June 19.—Clinging to the remaining strands of rigging drooping from a half-shattered mainmast, eight seamen on the sinking schooner Olympia of Gloucester off Sable island were saved just as their ship sank beneath the waves.

Six of the crew lost their lives when the freight steamer Sagamore of the Warren line rammed the fishing vessel in the fog, and only after a remarkable exhibition of master seamanship and thrilling bravery was the rest of the crew of the Gloucester vessel saved from a watery grave.

Realizing that the wound given the smaller vessel was mortal, the captain of the Sagamore drove the steel nose of the liner still deeper into the heart of the fishing vessel and thus kept the craft afloat for the few precious moments necessary to effect the spectacular rescue of the survivors.

Then the liner tore herself carefully from the hull of the Gloucester boat, and there was a crunch of timbers as the engines churned the fog-blanketed waters into whirlpools of foam which rushed into the gaping wound.

The schooner, with five of its crew penned like rats in the flooded forecastle, lurched, listed to starboard, the mainmast cracked off short and the vessel sank from sight, a maelstrom of racing waters strewn with sattered wreckage marking the grave of Captain John A. Doggett of Portland, his son, John, and four of his crew.

Powerless to offer the slightest aid, Frank L. Doggett, the captain's only other son, stood on the foredeck of the freighter, watching a long boat manned by sailors from the Sagamore encircle time and time again the vortex of the abating whirlpool in a vain search for a bobbing head or an outstretched arm.

Early Tuesday morning the Olympia, fog-bound, with four lookouts straining ear and eye for some warning of the steel-nosed ocean liners which cut down schooners as if they were rowboats, was rolling in a heavy swell.

The remaining ten of the crew were asleep below decks when the towering bow of the Sagamore loomed through the inpenetrable fog hardly 200 yards away and an instant later the weird wail of a great siren seemed to shatter the fog.

The pathetic little wail of the schooner's fog horn in return sounded almost like an echo to the lookouts on the freighter as they saw four sailors scattering down the deck of the sailing vessel.

One of them was seen to shout down the companionway to arouse his sleeping captain and the crew. Two more made their way onto the deck. A cry went up, a bell jangled on board the freighter, and after a moment the bow of the liner buried itself in the side of the schooner, just abreast the mainmast.

The great mast tottered, its woodwork splintered and shivered close to the deck, and then the snapping stays stopped popping like pistol shots. Up the rigging clambered eight of the crew, clinging desperately to broken ratlines and realizing that their salvation rested upon whether the bow of the steamer remained in the side of the ship to act as a sort of temporary gigantic plug and check momentarily the inrush of the waters into the gaping wound.

Captain Fenton of the Sagamore, who was on the bridge, singnalled for his engines to again start ahead at slow speed, this impetus keeping the bow jammed in closely.

Swinging along the rigging until they reached a point where it was possible to leap to the forward deck of the freighter, eight of the crew were caught in the arms of the Sagamore's sailors.

Simultaneously, a long boat had been swung from the davits of the Sagamore and was making its way through the fog in a circular course as the steamer backed slowly away from the wrecked schooner when it was seen that it was sinking and might pull down the bow of the freighter.

The whirlpool pulled Captain Doggett down with his ship, in the forecastle of which was his son, John; William Sullivan of Eastport, Me.; Rainey Doucette of Gloucester, Frank Paner of Eastport and Fred Train of Portland.

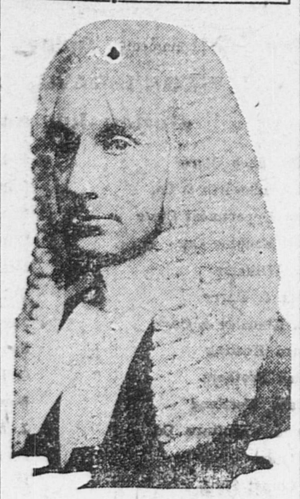
The Sagamore finally recalled its long boat and resumed its trip to Boston, arriving at quarantine at 8 o'clock last night with the eight survivors.

Dix For the Philippines

Washington, June 19.—Senator O'Gorman has recommended former Governor Dix of New York for governor general of the Philippines.

SIR RUFUS ISAACS.

England's Attorney General Involved In Marconi Scandal.



NO DISHONEST INTENTION

Cabinet Ministers Merely Acted "Thoughtlessly and Mistakenly"

London, June 19.—For the first time in many years British cabinet ministers were compelled to defend their personal honesty before parliament. Attorney General Isaacs and Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George excused their dealings in American Marconi shares on the floor of the house, and the final scene in the Marconi affair was tense and dramatic.

The two ministers admitted they had acted thoughtlessly, and mistakenly, although without dishonest intention, and regretted their failure to divulge all the facts when they had made their denials to the house last October of buying English Marconi shares.

The resolution introduced by George Cave, Unionist, in behalf of the opposition, which brought about the debate, went no further in its censure than to express the regret of the house at the transactions of the ministers and the lack of frankness displayed by them toward the house.

JAPANESE DEMAND LIBERTY OR DEATH

Agitators Quote Patrick Henry In Call For Mass Meeting

Tokio, June 19.—Posters calling a mass meeting and bearing the headline "Give me liberty or give me death.—Patrick Henry" were pasted by agitators on some walls in the vicinity of the United States embassy and at other points in the Japanese capital.

The organizers of the meeting declare that their object is to secure a more determined diplomatic attitude against the United States.

FRANKLIN BANK WINS SUIT

Trust Company Wrongfully Took Check of Town Treasurer

Boston, June 19.—The Franklin Savings bank recovers from the International Trust company the value of the $24,122.22 check endorsed by John B. Lombard, former town treasurer of Framingham, who is now serving time in prison for forging a $25,000 note of the town, by a decision of the full bench of the supreme court.

The International Trust company was guilty of conversion in wrongfully receiving the check, the full bench says in its opinion.

The court in overruling the exceptions of the defendant company decides that a town treasurer had no power to endorse a check made payable to a town for circulation, and that his only power of endorsement is for the deposit of the check for collection to the account of the town.

Recorder Donohue declared that the class of men of which he was a type did more damage in the world than and other criminals with whom the court has to deal.

The Paisley Shawl

Story of Return to Rightful Owner

By CLARISSA MACKIE

It smelled of camphor and attar of roses when Camilla Atwood lifted it from the chest where it had lain for many years. The Paisley shawl had a little history of its own, and Camilla, sitting in the sunny western window of her sky room, spread it in her lap and tried to recall what her mother had said about it.

Years before, when Camilla was quite a little girl, the Atwoods had been driving along a country road when they discovered the beautiful shawl lying in the dust, where it had no doubt fallen from some passing carriage.

When Camilla was twenty-two her father failed in business and lived but a short time, and as her mother had died some years before Camilla was left alone to make her own way in the world. That was why she was occupying this sunny top floor room in a city boarding house. She taught French and music in a private school, and the slender salary she received was sometimes eked out by engagements to play at musicales at the homes of her pupils.

She expected to play tonight at the Channings', and she had spent all her spare time since 3 o'clock in furbishing up her one evening gown, cleaning her white gloves and carefully darning a small tear in her small black slipper. Camilla had sadly lacked a cloak to wear on these occasions, and she was ashamed to appear again in her faded raincoat. That was why she was sitting on the floor before the old camphor wood chest looking speculatively at the Paisley shawl.

Suddenly she sprang to her feet and shook out the folds of the shawl. It billowed away in lustrous tints of red and brown and gold and green. Camilla caught it up, dropped one fringed corner over her black mist of hair and gathered the rest of it over her arms and about her slender figure. As she surveyed herself in the mirror a swift blush of pleasure at her own loveliness heightened her beauty. Her dark eyes shone like stars, and a charming smile played about her tender lips.

She was going over her evening's repertoire when the whistling tube warned her that Mrs. Channing's carriage was at the door. With a last glance at the reflection of her tall, graceful form clothed in filmy black, with a string of tiny pearls at her throat, Camilla draped the Paisley shawl about her shoulders and went downstairs.

The evening was much like other musical evenings, and when it was over Camilla declined to partake of refreshment and was glad to re-enter the carriage which waited to take her home.

Just as the carriage was turning into the uptown cross street where Camilla lived there was the sound of an automobile horn, hoarse shouting and then a sickening crash as the horses swerved aside and swung the vehicle against a lamppost.

Camilla was flung from side to side of the softly padded carriage, but suffered no injury beyond a severe shaking up and a violent fright. At last the babel of confusion outside ceased, while some one forced open the door. A man's hatless head and a pair of broad shoulders were thrust within.

"I hope you are not hurt?" he queried anxiously.

"No, not in the least. What has happened?" asked Camilla in her turn.

"A motorcar frightened your horses, and they shied and threw the carriage against a post. May I assist you to alight and call another carriage for you?"

Camilla placed her hand in his and descended to the pavement, where a crowd had gathered. The motorcar was puffing impatiently on the other side of the street, and the coachman was striving to quiet the restive horses. At a little distance an ambulance was backed up to the curb, and a couple of white clad hospital doctors were bent above a form on the pavement.

"Some one has been injured," cried Camilla as she moved toward the ambulance. The tall man with the broad shoulders kept beside her as if to protect her from the inquisitive crowd.

"Yes. An elderly woman was crossing the street at the time, and, while it is not believed that that carriage struck her, we think she has been so thoroughly frightened that it has resulted in a shock of some sort."

"Oh, are they going to take her to a hospital?" asked Camilla as they drew near.

"They were, but as my office is close by I have persuaded them to turn the case over to me. I am a physician, you know, and the woman begged so hard not to be taken to a public institution that I could not resist her appeal."

Camilla turned and, looking up at him, found his glance resting on her with unmistakable admiration. He hastily turned his eyes away and bent over the woman on the pavement.

"I think I can carry her in now," he suggested, and as one of the attendants started to throw a sheet around the shrinking old form he added, "I'll send into the house for a rug."

"Oh, take this," said Camilla, and in an instant she had tossed off the Paisley shawl and was wrapping it about the injured woman.

Shivering in the night air and blushing at the publicity which her impulsive act had occasioned, Camilla meekly followed the doctor's tall form as he strode along to where a red lantern gleamed above a stone doorway.

"Here we are!" he announced cheerfully, and at his direction Camilla pressed a button which opened the front door like magic, and they were bathed in the grateful warmth of a long, red lighted, crimson carpeted hall.

The physician turned aside into a reception room and laid the woman on a leather couch. She was a small, meek looking little body, with snow white hair, from which a shabby little bonnet hung disconsolately. Her old fashioned mantle was thin and worn, and a shabby piece of mink fur was tied about her throat. Her eyes were bright and shining, and her thin hands caressed the folds of the Paisley shawl which the physician was carefully withdrawing from her form.

"How beautiful it is!" she sighed regretfully. "It seems so like old times to have the 'feel' of it between my fingers." She closed her faded eyes, and two tears trickled down her wrinkled cheeks.

"I wish you would keep it for a few days," said Camilla with another impulse to pity, "only—I don't see how I am to get home."

"Oh, if I might just have it to look at! It is so much like one I owned many years ago! You will scarcely believe me, my dears, but once I lost a Paisley shawl from my own carriage—it was a gift from my husband—and I never recovered it." The old woman pressed the shawl with loving fingers, which threaded the silken fringe with little stroking movements of delight in its very touch.

"What shall I do, doctor?" asked Camilla in perplexity. "I would dearly love to gratify her desire."

"She will be here at the most for a couple of days," returned the physician gravely. "Your beautiful shawl seems to have acted as a restorative in her case, and if you care to leave it here until she departs I will assure you that it will be treasured. It is very beautiful. I can remember that my grandmother wore one like that."

He smiled boyishly, and the smile seemed to invade every feature of his good looking face. Without more ado he stepped to a wardrobe and brought forth a long army cape of dark blue. "If you will wear this home"— he suggested.

"That is just the thing," said Camilla as he laid it over her shoulders and she fastened it about her white throat. She went over to the woman lying on the couch and took one of the thin hands in her own.

"I hope you will feel very much better at once," she said sweetly. "I am going to leave my shawl with you while you are under the doctor's care You will enjoy that?"

"Indeed I will," smiled the woman gratefully. "It looks like the one I lost so many years ago."

"Where did you lose it?" asked Camilla quickly.

"In a little New England village called Blakeford," said the woman slowly as if refreshing a latent memory. "My husband and I were enjoying a driving tour through some of the country towns, and I always carried my shawl with me. It was so soft and warm and so rich in color that I loved to look at it. While we were passing through Blakeford our progress was interrupted by a cable message from abroad calling us to the bedside of our only son. I suppose the shawl was dropped from the carriage during our mad rush to catch the only train that would connect us with a departing steamer. I did not miss it until we arrived in New York, and I knew it would be too late to recover it. Your shawl is a perfect copy of my own. I suppose it is an heirloom."

"Tell me what year you lost your shawl," requested Camilla with agitation.

"It was in 1883. I well remember the date, for our son died, and then my husband followed, and since then my life has been one of loneliness and hard work."

Camilla pressed the shawl around the shrunken form, and she bent gracefully and kissed the withered cheeks. "It is your very own shawl come back to you across the years," she whispered, "and perhaps it is to herald better times for you!"

She sat down and related to the enraptured old woman the story of how her own parents had found the shawl in the village of Blakeford in the year 1883, and Dr. Lindley stood near, an interested listener. His eyes more often rested on the animated face of the beautiful girl, and he appeared to be ridiculously pleased when the old woman insisted on introducing herself as Mrs. Benton, the widow of a once prominent financier, and then introducing Camilla and the doctor in the most formal manner.

It was early in the morning when the doctor called a carriage and Camilla entered it to return to her boarding house. She was without the gorgeous Paisley shawl, but wrapped in the long military cape that smelled of tobacco she did not seem to miss the richer garment. The room on the top floor seemed bathed in a rosy glow, and a little song rippled in her heart. Camilla did not know why she was so happy.

It came out beautifully in the end. The doctor fell in love with Camilla Atwood, and old Mrs. Benton came and kept house for them. The doctor said that he and Camilla would have met somewhere, somehow, in the world anyway, but his wife maintained that if it had not been for the Paisley shawl they never would have met each other.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FINNAN HADDIE.

FINNAN haddie is haddock smoked and dried. It is sometimes called finnan haddock. The fish gets its name of finnan from Findcorn, in Scotland, where the fish are preserved most perfectly.

Finnan haddie may be cooked in various ways. Some popular styles are the following:

You Will Relish These.

Broiled Finnan Haddie.—Wash the fish well. Then with the skin side up let it soak in cold water for half an hour. Take out of this water and cover in water which has been brought almost to the boiling point. Let it stand in this for ten or fifteen minutes and then dry thoroughly. Now brush it with melted butter or olive oil and let it broil over a slow fire for about a quarter of an hour. Serve on a hot platter, sprinkle with the juice of half a lemon and dot with bits of butter.

Finnan Haddie In Cream.—Remove bone and skin from a finnan haddie then cut up very fine. Take one-half pint of milk, one-half pint of sweet cream, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth spoonful of pepper. Mix all this with pieces of fish and boil for ten minutes.

With a Nice Sauce.

Baked Finnan Haddie.—Wash a finnan haddie and let soak half an hour in cold water, skin side up. Wipe dry and set in an agate baking pan. Pour over it a cupful and a half of the following sauce and let bake about ten minutes. Baste with the sauce twice.

Pepper Sauce.—Take two cupfuls of tomatoes, a green pepper chopped and seeded, half an onion chopped, three branches of parsley and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Cook and strain and baste with this sauce. The mixture may be thickened with two tablespoonfuls of flour beaten into two tablespoonfuls of creamed butter.

A Scotch Recipe.

Scotch Haddie.—This is the way the Scotch like finnan haddie prepared: Take one fish, four cupfuls of milk, one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of flour and three hard boiled eggs. Soak the fish in lukewarm water. Then free from bones and skin. Pour boiling water on the fish and let stand until cool enough to handle, then pick to pieces. Have three cupfuls of milk in a double boiler. When it boils add the fish and cook ten minutes. Then drop in the flour stirred smooth with the remaining milk and after it boils again cook for five minutes more. Add the butter and the eggs cut in pieces. Serve hot.

GRANITE AVE. BRIDGE PLANS

Commission to Meet Tomorrow to Start the Work

Mayor Stone has already taken the preliminary steps in connection with the rebuilding of the Granite avenue bridge over the Neponset river, between Milton and Boston, to cost $70,000.

Under the act the Mayor of Boston, the Mayor of Quincy, the chairman of the Selectmen of Milton, and the chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners, are the commission named to build the bridge. A meeting of this commission has been called for Friday morning at 10.30.

It is expected that plans will be obtained at an early date, so that work can begin in a few weeks. The most expensive part of the new structure will be the draw. The bridge will be much wider than the present bridge and much more attractive.

HOW MUCH CAN BE RAISED?

Funds all That Is Needed for Fourth of July

Everybody interested in having a grand celebration in Quincy, on the Fourth of July is invited to attend the meeting of the general committee in the rooms of the Board of Trade tonight. The meeting is called for 7.45 sharp. It is announced that the route of the morning parade has been decided upon and will be given out tonight.

Chairman Studley of the children's entertainment committee has been in touch with the different schools this week and has arranged to distribute tickets for the two theatre performances through the teachers to those who notify the teachers that they desire to go.

Although Atlantic is to have a celebration of its own free tickets will be distributed to the children of the Quincy school as well as to the children of the other school buildings of the city.

Practically all the plans for the celebration are complete, and the only thing that now remains is to secure the necessary funds to carry out the program as outlined by the committee. For this reason it is particularly desirous that the emmbers of the finance committee and those who have been soliciting funds should be present tonight to make a report of the amounts collected or pledged for the celebration.

Festal decorations were strung throughout the building and a brilliantly lighted moon peeped over the top of one of the rafters, adding to the picturesqueness of the scene. Marie Grosse gave tamborine solos and Robert Wilkinson gave vocal selections. The committee consisted of Commodore E. F. Drew, William J. Hartley, Leon E. Barnes, William F. Willmann and L. Wesley Sargent.

FREIGHT RATES.

Among the rate cases against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad heard Wednesday by Ward Prouty of the Interstate Commerce Commission was that of Milne & Hector of Quincy, granite manufacturers asking for a reduction of the rate for shipping building granite from Quincy Adams to Woodlawn, N. Y., over the New Haven lines. The petition is for a reduction of the rate from 12 cents to 10 cents. The Quincy company presented that the present rates are excessive, but the defendant company claimed that the rate was a special one for monumental work at Woodlawn and that it was fair and just.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FIRST GRADUATION AT ST. JOHN'S PARISH SCHOOL

Mayor Stone, School Committee, and Clergy Take Part in Program

Class of 49 Boys and Girls Graduated

The first graduating exercises of St. John's Parish school took place Thursday evening in its hall and before the program opened every seat was taken, all anxious to join with Rev. John J. Coan who built the school, in showing their appreciation of the work of years. The event was probably the most important connection of the golden anniversary of the parish, the silver jubilee of Father Coan and the crowning achievement of his ten years of labor here.

Among the invited guests who attended were Mayor Eugene R. Stone; Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of the public schools; John L. Miller, chairman of the School Committee; Dr. E. H. Bushnell and John D. MacKay of the school board and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Johnson.

The clergy present were Rev. Timothy Danahy of Newton a former curate, who has not been here for 23 years, and Rev. Fr. Patrick Coleman of Swampscott, both long time friends of Father Coan; Rev. Fr. Howland J. Harkins of Amesbury; Rev. Fr. John J. Casey and Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan of the parish.

Tasteful decorations presented a picturesque stage setting, illuminated with colored electric lights hidden in festoons of crepe paper. Potted plants and palms lined the front of the platform and evidences of the jubilee celebration were all about th hall.

The program which was carried out under the direction of the Sisters was different from graduations formerly seen here. Children of all ages took part, including the graduates, and several novel features were introduced.

Throughout the entire program the theme seemed to be the jubilee and the frequent references to the accomplishments of Father Coan and the Sisters evoked applause.

The salutatory was delivered by Gertrude Pauline Driscoll and the valedictory by George William Howard. While the first thanked all for the opportunities given, the valedictorian bade the farewell of the class and urged future graduates to be loyal to the principles of the school. Both did exceptionally well for grammar school pupils and proved to be a treat that was surprisingly good.

By far the most complicated part of the program was the class recitation, "The vision of the dream ship," given by many girls in which they told of the arrival of the dream ship, its mooring, its discharge of its message and the fulfillment of desires, concluding with a tableaux in which appeared five girls representing angels who were chanting a Thanksgiving and who afterward blew their joyous sounds to the four corners of the earth from golden trumpets. As their notes penetrated the recesses of the whole world a group of small children tripped in, each carrying a cross of gold. A dark drop inscribed "Jubilee Night" and set with wondrous stars banked the superb setting.

Thomas Francis Clarkin gave the greeting which covered many points connected with the work of Father Coan, and finished by presenting him with a copy of the greeting, done in old English lettering on silk threaded paper and bound in a fancy material.

The "Welcome" song was sung by the graduates, the "Gleaners" by little girls in costume carrying sheafs of wheat; the jubilee recitation by eight little boys, the jubilee chorus by the graduates, a "Minuet" by the girls and the farewell chorus by the graduates. John Mahon was accompanist and was assisted by Thomas Joyce and John Garmory.

Before presenting the diplomas, Father Coan made a short speech. Personally thanking Mayor Stone, and Messrs. Miller, Barbour, Johnson and the members of the board, he found his sentiments echoed by liberal applause of fond mothers and fathers. He thanked Mayor Stone for attending and expressed his pleasure, (applause) told Mr. Parbour that it was the crowning part of a years kindness to be present and assured Mr. Johnson that the children had a warm spot in their hearts for him. His sentiments re-echoed throughout the hall in a burst of applause.

He said: "Kind friends we welcome you. I feel glad and joyous and I suppose with many reasons, because of the many grand things said about me. As it progressed they made me out an old man, and in the service, but there was a reward, a crown and a reception by angels at the end. I am really satisfied that it should be so.

"I feel this is the crowning night of my life. In my 25 years work this is the most important work I have done, and it is heartfelt pleasure I feel at witnessing our first graduation. It is one of the things I looked forward to and it is now completed. I am ready to receive that crown and say "nunc dimmittus."

"This is the starting of a unique feature in the city. For the first time there is a graduation apart from the public school exercises. I would like it to be distinctly understood, that although I considered the necessity of building this school and of giving our children a Catholic education, not because I wanted to cause disunion or trouble between us. On the contrary our children are taught to respect authority, and we ourselves try to practice it, and not for an instant do we tolerate disrespect or disregard for the feelings of anyone else. Our object and aim is unity, charity and good citizenship (auplause.)

"We have no fault to find with the public school for the education they give. I believe they do as well as they can and by that I mean no limitation to mental or teaching powers, but I feet that for us they do not go far enough. For a secular education we would be perfectly satisfied with what they give. He finished in a round of handclapping.

Mayor Stone received a royal welcome when presented by Father Coan. He said he often wondered why men of different denominations give up their life to religious purposes when with the same effort they might make a great deal of money, and I think it has been solved as I listened to the sentiments expressed throughout the program. There are other things than money and this shows it. I want to be with you again at your graduating exercises. (Applause.)

Chairman Miller said the school showed a keen and lively interest in education. Quincy taxpayers never object to the passage of the annual school appropriation. Boys and girls, go on with the same enthusiasm, work and energy evident, here tonight, and your accomplishments will be many.

Thirteen Grammar Schools of City Send Forth 492 Graduates Today

Montclair School in the List for First Time

Again this year the record is broken in number of graduates from the public schools of Quincy, the thirteen buildings sending forth 472 boys and girls. This is 11 more than last year and 52 more than in 1910.

The total includes the first class of graduates from the new Montclair school at Montclair, which numbers 22.

At six buildings the number is less than last year. At the Wollaston it is the same, and at five buildings the number is larger.

In another column is given the number of graduates by buildings in four different years—1913, 1912, 1910 and 1905.

In recent years all schools have united and held exercises at High School hall, but this year there are four groups of schools, the exercises being held today as follows:

At High school hall at 3 P. M.,—Adams, Cranch, John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard schools.

At Coddington school hall at 3 P. M.,—Atherton Hough, Coddington and Washington schools.

At Quincy school hall, at 3 P. M.,—Gridley Bryant, Montclair and Quincy schools.

At Wollaston school hall—at 7.30 P. M.,—Wollaston and Massachusetts Field schools.

"I Have Heard A Great Deal About This Store But I Never Knew What It Was Until Today"

So said a well known Quincy Woman a few days ago when she paid this Modern Market a first visit. She was delighted with its wholesome neatness, its fine display, its up-to-date method of refrigeration and the completeness of its stocks.

The same methods that made our Water Street Store such a conspicuous success—better service, better satisfaction, better goods—are helping us to accomplish greater things in our new store.

We believe that every woman is interested in the best when it comes to the home table, and it is the woman that takes pride in her table that we can talk to about quality. She knows what quality means in food—a sort that is distinguished from others. We speak with pride—good honest pride when we say that no unworthy or questionable goods are ever sold here at any price, and that QUALITY---100% standard---the Foy Quality will measure up to the ideals of the most critical.

Straightforward dealing, high quality, real economy, satisfaction guaranteed---that's the plan and platform of this store. Our business is our pleasure, and our pleasure is to satisfy our customers.

Come in, look our store over, note the high standard of our Groceries, Meats, Canned Goods, Teas, Coffees, Fruits, Vegetables, etc., then you will know you can depend upon this store for high quality.

THE POLICY OF FRANKNESS.

Much was said at the gathering of advertising men at Baltimore, about truth in advertising. This is a principle that this newspaper has always emphasized. It may say something more about it soon. It is a principle that is pervading all business life.

A slump of speculative discouragement followed the decree in the Minnesota railroad rate cases. Railroad men complain bitterly of the hostility of the public. Business men call for more co-operation, in which the public shall allow the railroads to make a fair dividend, and the railroads shall give the best possible service at moderate charges, and all shall pull together to boost the community.

The same policy of frankness that the advertising writers have been urging which leads the modern business man to tell just what his goods are, will help remove anti-corporation hostility.

The old motto used to be, in the language of the mining country, "Every man for himself and hold your cards close to your belly." Now a good many people have become convinced that some games can best be played with the cards down on the table.

When a railroad bought up a competitor, the reason formerly assigned was that the property was wanted as a "feeder." If this was not the real reason, irritation was created. When you are dealing with a man who fails to give you the real reason for his action, you view all his acts with suspicion. The same principle prevails in the dealing between the public and the roads.

The railroad magnate who opens his accounts to the public who assigns the real reason for his acts, is going to dissipate existing hostility. It is only fair to say that frankness is much more in evidence than it was. The railroads are suffering now for the sins of the past more than from those of the present.

Frank Hitchcock's claim that a bunch of Post office novitiates couldn't possibly find out in three months all the things he didn't do in four years is pretty fair logic, at any rate.

One can't help sympathizing with the Ohio husband who, while admitting that his missing wife may have been drowned, "fears" someone has hidden her.

A fine instance of the law of compensation is found in the fact that Alfred Austin didn't live to read the things that were written about him after he died.

Maine objects to having a three-blocked street named after her in Washington. Still, Maine cannot expect much from a Democratic administration.

Visiting England engineers who left their boots outside the Hotel in Detroit now understand why we don't have portable bathtubs over here.

Cities that find bad spellers among their school teachers may have to revive the idea of spelling reform in self-defense.

Pugilists would be justified in forming a union for the sake of refusing to give Jack Johnson a card.

Disapproval of horse racing is at least one point on which the Queen of England and the militant suffragettes agree.

People are now preparing for roughing it in the country by having a lot of swell clothes made.

The under dog wants no sympathy; what he wants is assistance.

Poor season for lobbygosters in Washington.

The honesty of one man is often good policy for others.

THE SPIRIT OF '76

The Stars and Stripes Forever—Long Live Quincy

We are like some department stores, we have a Bargain Friday—Friday July Fourth.

• • •

The family of the chairman of the Children's Entertainment committee is so large that he has been obliged to hire two theatres to keep peace in the family. Happy man?

• • •

Be sure and see the athletic events on the finest athletic oval in this part of the United States. It is a credit to the city.

• • •

Would you pick up a dollar or more if you saw it on the pavement? By helping make our celebration a success, you will "pick up" many dollars by having a safe and sane fourth.

PERROW—COYLE.

Miss Catherine W. Coyle of Weymouth, and James E. Perrow of Quincy Point, were married Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Coyle, Richmond street, Weymouth, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Holland, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart of Weymouth.

Miss Helen Coyle, a sister of the bride, was her attendant, and Richard Perrow, of Cambridge, a cousin of the groom, was the best man.

After the ceremony the couple were given a reception and a wedding supper was served. They left later in the evening for their future home, 49 Chestnut street, Quincy, to which they were escorted by many of those who witnessed the ceremony.

SMITH—DAMON.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season took place Wednesday afternoon at 247 Washington street, when Miss Mabelle Annie Damon daughter of Everett A. Damon of Ipswich became the bride of Harry Bairns Smith of Stoughton. The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Herbert A. Cassidy, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride was attired in silk voile with shadow lace trimmings and carried brides roses. She was attended by Miss Bessie Grant who wore embroidered voile over yellow messaline and carried white pinks.

The groom was attended by Charles Sayward of Wollaston. The presents were beautiful and numerous. Guests were present from Ipswich, Beverly, Lynn, Stoughton, Easton, Haverhill, Norwood and Gardner.

After a short wedding trip among the lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home to their many friends in North Stoughton.

FINED $200.

One of the largest fines ever imposed by Judge Avery in a liquor case was given to William Crane of Weymouth tihs morning for keeping and exposing liquor for sale. Crane peladed guilty and was fined $200. According to the police they have been trying for many years to catch Crane but have been unsuccessful until a recent raid.

DISTRICT COURT.

James Maguire was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William Crane was fined $200 for keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to sell the same at Weymouth.

The case of Herbert Burke for violation of the automobile law at Milton was called and he was defaulted.

ROUTE OF PARADE ON THE FOURTH

Marshals Selected for the Different Divisions---Five in All

No Definite Reports on the Collection of Funds

George E. Adams, chief marshal of the morning parade on the Fourth of July has announced the route of the parade. As laid out the route is less than three miles. The parade will form on Independence avenue with the right resting on Franklin street. It is planned to have the parade move at 8 o'clock, the route being as follows, Franklin, Water, Pleasant, School, Elm, South Walnut, Union, Main, Sumner, Washington, Maple and Hancock streets passing in review of the judges on the grand stand in front of City Hall, thence along Hancock street to be dismissed near the High school.

The marshals of the several divisions have been announced as follows:

Chief Marshal,—George E. Adams.

Chief of Staff,—Maj. Fred E. Jones.

Division 1, Military,—John A. Phelan, Marshal.

Division 2, Societies and Organizations,—B. F. Hodgkinson, Jr., marshal

Division 3, Antiques and Horribles,—Galen V. Bowditch, marshal.

Division 4, Decorated floats,—Ernest L. Collins, marshal.

Division 5, Trades and Civic,—John L. Hamilton, marshal.

AUTOMOBILE PARADE.

The automobile parade will probably start just ahead or immediately after the feature parade, but probably before as it will cover so much ground that it can easily keep ahead of the main parade. Just what the route of the auto parade will be has not been announced as yet. It is probable however that it will cover considerable more territory than the main parade.

It was announced at the meeting Thursday evening of the general committee that permission had been obtained from the Metropolitan Park Commissioners for the auto parade, including any trucks that may be in it to pass over any portion of the parkways desired.

In the absence of Mayor Stone, president of the association, Vice President James H. Elcock presided. Reports from the several committees were first in order.

EMERGENCY STAFF.

Scout Master Hodgkinson of the Boy Scouts announced that an emergency tent would be established on the Faxon estate opposite the residence of Dr. Gordon in City Square and that a public nurse would be in charge assisted by the Boy Scouts.

Chairman Neary of the athletic committee announced that the committee had been given entire charge of the parks for the Fourth. That the sports at Merrymount park would take place on the new oval and that the events would be open to Quincy oys only. Thatt here would be ball games in other wards and two games at the park in the afternoon. He also said that he would like to have the attendance of a band if possible. If the funds admit a band will be at the park.

The secretary was authorized to send out 400 return postal cards to the automobile owners in Quincy urging them to take part in the automobile parade.

The publicity committee was authorized to have printed 12,000 small programs giving the time and place of all events during the day, the route of parades, etc. These to be on red, white and blue paper.

C. W. Hanscom of the Entertainment committee announced that he had perfected arrangements to provide cooling drinks for those who took part in the parade on the Adams Academy grounds, and a lunch for the jackies of the battleship.

Mr. Gilson of the Publicity committee announced that he had prepared slides booming the celebration which would be shown on the screen at Kincaides theatre.

THE COLLECTORS.

The selection of a chairman of collectors in Ward Three came up . The committee has been unable to get a chairman in this ward up to the present time and while it is known that there are funds in this ward that can be collected there is no one to go after them. Steps will be taken to make collections here.

In Ward One it was announced that Galen V. Bowditch had collected $76 and that the total collection of the ward at the present time was $246.

Chairman Griffin of Ward Two said that while he could not give out any figures that he had a lot of good men at work and that he felt sure of getting a good sum. He stated that the Syrians in the ward, who came forward so generously with a contribution for the flood sufferers, had taken hold of the collecting and that aside from making a good collection that there was a strong possibility that they would enter the parade as a body with a band.

Joseph L. Fitton one of the collectors in Ward Two said that collections were also being made by the Town River Yacht club for its celebration and that it was not right to ask a man to contribute twice. He said that there were many who on account of their families would be unable to go to the park and see the fireworks. He believed that if the committee adopted the plan of expending thirty per cent of what was collected in each ward for a celebration in that ward that more money could be obtained. He believed that if this was done it would be an easy matter to raise $4,000.

The committee however were oposed to splitting up the celebrations into several small celebrations believing that one large celebration was better than several small ones, and that the people would be better satisfied. No action therefore was taken on the suggestion. Chairman Curran of the Ward Five Committee reported progress but was unable to give any figures at that time. The same was true of Ward Four.

It was voted that the names of the contributors be published in the daily papers.

Harry Studley announced that all arrangements had been completed for the childrens entertainment and that the tickets were being distributed.

Chief Marshal Adams desired that all residents along the line of the parade be requested to decorate their homes or at least display a flag.

The committee adjourned at 10.45 until Saturday night.

RAMBLER RUN TONIGHT.

Everything is already for the Rambler run tonight, and Manager Winsloe announced this morning that the run would be held rain or shine. Invitations have been generally accepted and a large party is anticipated. The cars will leave the Wollaston Central garage at 6 o'clock and the run which will be of about an hours duration will take in the park system, Milton and Quincy, and will wind up at Norteman's where a shore dinner will be served. All who participate in the parade and run are assured of a grand good time. Most of the city officials and members of the City Council who will participate in the run will take their wives with them.

BANK WRECKER ENJOYING LIFE

Sentence of Year In Prison Served Only at Night

HAS RECOUPED HIS FORTUNE

Robin Makes Daily Visits to Lawyer's Office and New York Restaurants—Unusual Legal Lenience by Means of Writ of Habeas Corpus Issued by Federal Judge

New York, June 20.—Joseph G. Robin, the bank wrecker, who is technically serving out a year's sentence on Blackwell's island, walked out of the Tombs debonair and smiling.

He stopped a moment, blinking in the sunshine, and then sauntered leisurely to the office of his lawyer, Robert D. Ireland, at 68 William street. There he passed the entire day, working among his books and papers connected with the Northern bank, of which he was once president and which was part of the string of banks that failed through his speculation and caused him to be convicted on the charge of grand larceny.

At noon he went out to a restaurant and enjoyed a course luncheon, and again at night before he returned to the Tombs he went to a restaurant and took dinner. At night the prisoners at Blackwell's island had corned beef hash and bread. Robin had a four-page menu to choose from.

For over four months and a half—since Jan. 30—though it has been commonly presumed he was behind the bars at Blackwell's, Robin has been undergoing the same pleasant routine while serving out his sentence.

So far as can be learned, he is always accompanied by Keeper Norton when he leaves the Tombs and when he returns at night, often as late as 8 and 9 o'clock.

Always he leaves on a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Judge Holt of the United States district court, placing him in the hands of William H. Willis, referee in bankruptcy, who is conducting the affairs of the Bankers' Realty and Securities company. The writ, made continuous by adjournments, has given Robin his freedom except at night and on Sundays and holidays.

Among friends it is rumored that Robin has recouped his fortune through this unusual legal lenience and has made $250,000 by speculation.

Deputy Commissioner Wright told a reporter he couldn't understand why Robin received this freedom.

"Never in the history of the Tombs," said Wright, "has there been a case anything like this. Here is a man who is doing time on Blackwell's, presumably, yet who is kept in a house of detention and allowed to go out practically every day, and doing it legally. Every day he spends down town is taken off the time that he is sentenced to serve in the penitentiary. I have to let him out. It is the order of the court."

The writ of habeas corpus issued by Holt provided for the appearance of Robin before Willis, to "give testimony concerning his acts and conduct concerning the property, assets and effects of the estate of the Bankers' Realty and Securities company, which is in the process of administration, and assist its counsel in the examination of such other witnesses as may be called."

FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

I. W. W. Leaders Are Now Held For Alleged Inciting to Riot

Ipswich, Mass., June 20.—Carroll L. Pingree and his wife and Nathaniel Hermann, the I. W. W. leaders who were arrested on the charge of complicity in the murder of Nicoletta Pandelopulos in the Ipswich strike riot last week, were released, this charge against them being dismissed. Each, however, was held in $1200 on the charge of inciting to riot. Bonds were furnished for all three.

Both District Attorney Atwill and Judge Sayward expressed their personal opinion that the shot which killed the woman came from the revolver of a policeman.

HYDE WINS APPEAL

Appellate Court Overrides Conviction of Ex-New York Chamberlain

New York, June 20.—The conviction of Charles H. Hyde, former city chamberlain, of bribery, by a jury in the supreme court, was overridden by the appellate division.

In a decision and an order handed down by Presiding Justice Ingraham, Hyde's conviction was declared due to erroneous rulings of the trial court, and District Attorney Whitman was directed to have him discharged from custody and the indictment against him dismissed. Hyde is out on bail.

Woman Offers to Sell Children

Berlin, June 20.—Newspaper advertisements of a 14-year-old girl and two other children for sale for $750 each led to an inquiry by the police, who found the offer made by a divorced woman.

AMUSEMENTS

BOSTON THEATRE.

"The Old Homestead" is on the sixth week of its phenomenal engagement at the Boston Theatre. Of this quaint, delightful old New England idyl nothing new can be written, any more than of some of the older classics, for the play is a classic, even though a New England one! It has no peer among American domestic dramas. It stands for what is good and wholesome, true and honest, in New England life, and it is bound to have perennial youth because it tells a true story of the human heart in a homely and sympathetic way. As naturalness is the keynote of Danman Thompson's play, so too, the same is exacted from every member of the company, so far as possible, and consequently there is about the performance a perfect unity and harmony which never fails to impress an audience. The singing of the quartette is one of the most attractive features of the performance, as it has always been.

E. L. Snader, is a character actor of the "old school" and for many seasons has appeared as the dear, lovable, Uncle Josh. His portrayal of the kind hearted New England farmer is a master-piece of character acting. Millions have seen the old favorites and the past five weeks of the phenomenal engagement at the Boston. The welcome accorded the company was never kinder or more enthusiastic.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The famous "Meistersingers" of Boston, composed of the Harvard, Schubert and Weber Male Quartettes without question the greatest vocal organization of its kind that New England ever produced, will commence their third annual summer engagement at B. F. Keith's Theatre on Monday afternoon June 23rd. This year the Meistersingers will be seen in an entirely new and different kind of production from previous seasons. This new scenic spectacle which serves to introduce the famous organization is entitled "In The Wild Woods," and is the most faithful and realistic picture of life in the open ever played on a theatre stage. The Meistersingers' program this year will be entirely new, and a number of unusual and unique features have been introduced which will combine to make "In The Wild Woods," the greatest singing production ever staged in Boston. Surrounding this great feature will be an excellent vaudeville bill. The Three Mori Brothers, wonderful Japanese barrel jugglers have a most amusing turn with a strong element of comedy; Frank Rae and company have a new and very funny comedy sketch; The Eight English Rosebuds are England's greatest terpsichorean specialists; Lee and Hussey are a pair of newcomers with something good; Daniels and Conrad are another new team of entertainers; Leona Stephens was formerly with Eddie Foy in "Over The River"; Sampsel and Reilly are known as the fashion plate entertainers; and numerous other features will contribute towards one of the strongest shows of the summer season.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The last week of John Craig's fifth season at the Castle Square will begin on Monday with a revival of Charles H. Hoyt's masterpiece of musical farce comedy, "A Trip to Chinatown." With its clever medley of comedy, singing, dancing and variety, including much new and topical material, it will provide excellent entertainment for Mr. Craig's closing week. It is productive of laughter from beginning to end. The plot of course is of minor consideration, the dialogue is crisp and sparkling, the situations continuously novel and amusing, and the music of a lively up-to-date character. All these features, and many others, make "A Trip to Chinatown" one of the breeziest of Hoyt's many plays, and the best of productions for the entertainment of a summer audience.

Mr. Craig will himself appear as Wolland Strong, and with Florence Shirley as the widow, Donald Meek as Son Gay, and Al Roberts, Fred Ormonde, William P. Carleton, Laurett Browne, Mabel Colcord and all the other Castle Square players in the cast, it will be an excellent all-round series of performances. Due announcement will be made of Mr. Craig's sixth season at the Castle Square, which will begin the last of August.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

Manager Birch announces that on Monday Miss Eleanor Gordon and her excellent company will present J. Hartley Manners' brilliant comedy "The House Next Door," at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. The play had a long run in Boston, some years ago, when it was presented at the Colonial Theatre, with J. E. Dodson in the leading role. "The House Next Door" offers a very interesting and amusing situation of the difficulties that arise in the neighboring relations of the Jew and Gentile. It will be the first time that the play will be presented in stock in Boston. In addition to the full strength of Miss Gordon's company, the cast will include Mr. Birch, who will be seen in the important character of Sir John Cotswold, a part that Mr. Birch has admirably portrayed on numerous occasions. Miss Gordon will appear as Ulrica, the sweet and charming daughter of the strong-minded and iron-willed old Englishman. The part will offer Miss Gordon an opportunity to display her charm and winsomeness to an unusual extent. And it is safe to say that Miss Gordon will be far more fascinating than she usually is. Others in the cast are Mrs. George A. Hibbard, Francesca Rotoli, Douglas J. Wood, Wright Kramer, John Meehan, Edward Langford and Frederic Burt.

The usual Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday popular priced matinees will prevail.

YOUNG QUINCY FISHERMAN.

One of the youngest fishermen has the biggest fish story to tell of any one who has dropped the hook in the Rangeley waters this year says Maine Woods of the issue of June 5.

Louis Kenneth Edwards of Quincy, Mass., came Saturday night to spend a few days with his grandfather, J. Henry Emery of Quincy. Henry Bunker was to guide them, but the young fellow on Monday morning got up at 4 o'clock and went off down the lake all by himself, for he could handle the oars, and proved he could also handle a fish and a fishing rod too. It was a little after 5 o'clock as he was rowing past Black Point, when a fish struck. The young man had all he could do alone in the boat with the wind blowing, but he held onto the rod and let the fish fight and for more than an hour it was a question of who would win. The boat drifted among the "dry-ki" and the fisherman at last got the trout, nearly dead, close to the boat and landed him. Then he rowed back to the wharf as fast as he could for he was much excited. The workmen were coming down and he called to one of them, and they all came to see th efish which still had the hook in its mouth. They all guessed on the weight. The proud fisherman walked up to the hotel. His grandfather was at breakfast as it was only a little after 7 o'clock. All gathered around as the big trout, for it was a trout, and the largest caught in the Rangeley water this year, was put upon the scales and balanced the weight to 8 1-2 pounds. The speckled beauty is to be mounted by "Nash of Maine."

BIDS FOR WATER PIPE.

Bids were opened by Commissioner Tupper this week for furnishing the city with ten tons of 4-inch water pipe, 325 tons of 6-inch, 150 tons of 8-inch, 17 tons of 10-inch and 60 tons of 12-inch. Four bids were required. T he lowestbi dder was M. J. Drummond & Co., whose bid was $24.38 per ton net. The other bids were R. D. Wood & Co., from $24.70 to $23.70 per ton net; Charles Miller & Son Co., from $27.20 to $25.20 per ton net; United States Pipe & Foundry Co., from $26.50 to $24.20 per ton net. The bids were taken under advisement.

TOOK FIRST PRIZE.

The Quincy Moose, 175 strong, attended the field meet of the New England lodges at Providence, R. I., on Thursday. They participated in the parade preceeding the athletic events. The North Dakota float was escorted by the men and was awarded first prize money. The representation was divided as follows:—Quincy lodge, 100 members and uniformed degree team; Women's circle 40; Junior Order of Moose 50, including 35 who acted as middies to the float. They arrived home late in the evening.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

WOODWARD RECEPTION

Class of 1913 Entertain Large Number of Friends

The reception of the class of 1913 of the Woodward Institute graduated on Wednesday was held Thursday evening at Woodward hall, and proved to be a most enjoyable occasion for the graduates and their friends. In addition to the faculty and several of the parents of the students present, the guests included Supt. and Mrs. A. L. Barbour, Ernest L. Collins of the High school and Mrs. Collins and Miss Towne a former teacher at the school.

In the receiving line were Horace W. Rice, principal of the school, Miss Burgess and Miss Dinegan, teachers, and Miss Beryl Thelma Turner, president of the class.

There were no ushers, the class with their escorts marching to the receiving line where the guests of the seniors were presented. Dancing was enjoyed until 11 o'clock and the party was a very pretty one. On one occasion some of the younger people not members of the school started to dance some of the modern dances, which is not considered in good form but a word quietly spoken by one of the teachers checked any trouble.

Light refreshments were served in one of the rooms adjoining the hall during the evening.

REBEKAH VISITATION.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge received a fraternal visit at its meeting Thursday evening from Rising Star lodge of Randolph. In addition to the members of Rising Star lodge there were many visitors fro mBrockton, Braintree, Weymouth and other lodges in the immediate vicinity. The occasion was also graced by the presence of District Deputy Grand Master Ella M. Downes, of Brockton and suite.

The work of the evening was performed by the degree team of Geo. L. Gill lodge with Miss May Gaynor as degree master and was pronounced to have been very impressively rendered. Four candidates were given the degree. After the work of the evening refreshments were served in the banquet hall and there were brief remarks by many of the visiting brothers and sisters, many of whom took occasion to compliment the degree team the excellence of their work.

Washington, June 20.—As a result of an investigation that the head officials of the department of agriculture have been making recently, Victor H. Olmsted, statistician of the department, has been suspended pending complete inquiry into the conduct of his office.

It was said at the department that none of the charges reflected on the integrity of Olmsted, but that the discipline of the statistician's office had not been satisfactory.

Prior to Olmsted's appointment there had been allegations that the crop reporting methods of the statistician's office had not been conducted in a proper manner.

'Varsity Eights of Crimson and Blue Come Together Today

New London, Conn., June 20.—Both the rival captains express themselves confident of victory in the Harvard-Yale 'varsity eight race today, but Gold and Kirby, the English coaches, who have had charge of the Yale crew for several weeks, and Head Coach Harriman of Yale, all decline to talk.

The fact that Harvard won both preliminary events yesterday, the four-oared freshman and second 'varsity races, did not take the fight out of the Elis, who sent $500 to the Harvard camp to be placed on the 'varsity eight race on even terms.

EXPERTS GIVE THEIR OPINIONS

Doherty Lacked Experience Enough to Run Big Engine

WARTIME COACHES IN SERVICE

Many Built Between 1861 and 1872 Still In Use on the New Haven—Springfield Express Could Not Have Run on the Pennsylvania Road, Says an Official

Bridgeport, Conn., June 20.—Expert railroad men testified here that the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was at fault in allowing Charles J. Doherty, a young and inexperienced engine driver, to run the ponderous mogul engine which crashed into the rear of the first section of the Springfield express at Stamford a week ago Thursday with the loss of six lives. This testimony was given at the joint investigation of the interstate commerce commission and the Connecticut utilities commission.

"It is our task now to find out who was responsible for putting Doherty on that run," said Commissioner McChord after hearing that evidence.

One of the most surprising bits of testimony was that of G. W. Wildon, mechanical superintendent of the New Haven road, who said that all but thirty-one of the road's total equipment of 2288 were wooden cars. He told of the construction of the train in the tragic collision.

It was further brought out in Wilden's testimony that ninety-six cars, now in service on the New Haven railroad, were made between 1862 and the Centennial year of 1876.

Patrick J. Langan, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad expert, was recalled to the stand. General Manager Bardo questioned him.

The official called attention to the emphasis that has been placed on Engineer Doherty's inability to reverse his engine. Langan said that a locomotive should never be reversed after the emergency brake was applied.

Langan swore that if the brakes were working properly and Doherty had applied them as he testified, his train should have been stopped 271 feet on the safe side of the danger point. He based this opinion, he said, on the result of test run No. 5 on Tuesday when, at a speed of 59½ miles an hour, the train was brought to a standstill in 2586 feet, stopping 400 feet east of the home signal.

The witness said it was "very bad judgment" for Doherty to apply the pressure as he did on the day of the wreck, for it had the effect of neutralizing the pressure.

Commissioner McChord interrupted to ask Bardo how long Doherty had been on the run. "Three days," was the answer.

Charles W. Martin, general air brake inspector of the Pennsylvania railroad, was asked by Chief Inspector Belnap of the interstate commerce commission whether he would allow a train equipped such as was the second section of the Springfield express, as he found it in the test, to run as the "Pennsylvania Limited." He replied "No." He would not allow it to run as any of the fast Pennsylvania trains.

Martin described the qualifications necessary for men to secure positions as engineers on the Pennsylvania railroad. Experience as freight engineers is first required. Special thorough examinations are demanded after the road foreman has made recommendations. Traveling engineers and road foremen ride on the engine with the men on their first runs.

"I do not think Doherty should have been allowed to handle a fast train. We wouldn't allow it on the Pennsylvania railroad, unless there was no one else available," said Martin.

J. F. Carroll, road foreman of engines on the New Haven road, told of cautioning Doherty on Tuesday preceding the wreck. He saw him again on the day of the wreck, Thursday. Doherty had had trouble in working the reverse and had gone by Bridgeport station.

"For God's sake be careful today," he told Doherty. The latter was told not to place too much confidence in the water gauges as on some of the engines they "were not reliable."

TWO AIRMEN KILLED

Biplane Turns Somersault When a Hundred Feet In the Air

Berlin, June 20.—Two German airmen were killed at the Johannisthal areodrome in the suburbs of the capital.

Aviator Kraftet, carrying as a passenger a man named Gerblitz, had ascended with the intention of making a two hours' flight. There was practically no wind and the biplane was making good speed when it suddenly turned a somersault at a height of 100 feet, throwing the aviators to the ground, where they were picked up dead.

Policeman Revives a "Corpse"

New York, June 20.—Floating face downward in the Narrows, Gordon Benson was picked up by a tug and placed on a pier as dead. Three hours later a policeman came along and revived him.

THE MARCONI SCANDAL

Asquith Deplores Ministers' Breach of Rules of Prudence

London, June 20.—Speaking for the government near the close of the Marconi debate in the house of commons yesterday afternoon, Premier Asquith expressed regret that Attorney General Isaacs and Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George withheld from the commons last October their connections with American Marconi shares.

The prime minister said he spoke "with reluctance, but with a strong sense of personal responsibility," when he said that the cabinet ministers "broke no rules of obligation, but failed to observe the rules of prudence" when they failed at the first hue and cry to make a clean breast of their wireless transactions.

By a vote of 346 to 268 the house of commons last night officially closed the Marconi affair by accepting the regrets of Isaacs and Lloyd-George that purchases of stock were made by them and acquitting them of acting otherwise than in good faith.

FLOATING HOTEL DOCKS

Imperator Warmly Welcomed as She Completes Maiden Voyage

New York, June 20.—With her band playing, pennants flying and greeted by salutes from every craft in the harbor, the new giant of the seas, the Hamburg-American liner Imperator, steamed up the bay and docked at Hoboken. The deep bass whistles and sirens of the Imperator bellowed a reply to the shrieking welcome of smaller boats and tugs which appeared as waterbugs beside the leviathan.

The Imperator left Cherbourg June 12 and averaged twenty-two knots an hour on her maiden voyage. When she sailed she had in her larder 48,500 pounds of fresh meat, 48,000 eggs, 121,000 pounds of potatoes, 27,500 pounds of fresh vegetables, 6000 tins of canned vegetables, 10,500 pounds of fowl and game, 9000 pounds of fish, 12,500 quarts of milk, 400 pounds of tea, 500 pounds of chocolate and 7000 pounds of coffee.

BARRICADE DOORS AND BURN BUILDING

Russian Beet Sugar Workers Cause Death of Eighty Girls

St. Petersburg, June 20.—Eighty girls were deliberately burned to death when villagers in the Pyriatin sugar beet district, Southern Russia, set fire to the building where the girls were asleep, according to a dispatch from Kief.

They barricaded the doors, and the young women had no chance of escape. Their shrieks for help and frantic beating on the doors and windows could be heard as the flames roared around them.

Much cheap labor has been imported into the dictsrict by the sugar planters of late, and it is supposed the men who set fire to the building, which was a dormitory occupied by women sugar workers, were enraged because of that fact.

HAD LOST THEIR FORTUNE

Real Reason For Suicide of Supposed Rich Swiss and Wife

Zurich, June 20.—The mystery surrounding the suicide last Thursday of Eugene Maggi, reputed one of the wealthiest men in Switzerland, and his wife, has been cleared up by the discovery among Maggi's papers of a letter to his family saying that he had been irretrievably ruined financially and had decided to kill himself. Underneath this message in his wife's handwriting was the following:

"I believed myself rich and was happy. Eugene has just revealed to me that we are ruined and announced his determination to die. My duty is to follow him in death. Adieu."

An investigation has confirmed the fact that Maggi had lost his all. When Maggi and his wife were found dead as a result of gas asphyxiation it was believed their suicide had been prompted by the fact that although their wealth was estimated at $10,000,000 they were greatly disappointed because they were childless.

THE KILLING OF SHEA

Boston Police Apply For Warrant For Patrolman Miller

Boston, June 20.—A decision from Judge Sullivan of the municipal court is expected today as to whether a warrant shall issue charging manslaughter against Patrolman Charles W. Miller in causing the death of Ralph P. Shea early Tuesday morning.

The warrant was applied for by Captain Armstrong of police headquarters and Sergeant Mosher of the Lagrange street station.

The accusers of the officer stoutly maintain that Miller was really in no danger at the time he fired the fatal shot.

Eleanor Wilson Unveils Monument

Valley Forge, Pa., June 20.—In the presence of a large crowd Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the president, unveiled the monument erected by New Jersey to mark the site occupied by continental troops from that state during the stay of General Washington's army at Valley Forge.

Tragedy at Stamford as It Was Re-Enacted For Coroner

TIMELY DISCOVERY BY PRISON GUARD

Indications of a Plot to Free Insane Convicts

Bridgewater, Mass., June 20.—What the authorities believe to have been a plot to effect a wholesale delivery of criminal insane at the Bridgewater state farm was discovered by Officer Folsom of that institution.

As he approached the heavy door to the seventeen-acre walled field where murderers, life prisoners and other desperate insane criminals are allowed to farm, Folsom discovered that the lock had been broken and a stout oak bar which held the halves of the door together had been thrown to one side.

Further investigation disclosed a ladder concealed inside the lot beneath some vines at the base of the twenty-foot wall. The door, according to the theory of the institution officials, was tampered with by outside friends of some of the prisoners.

SOLONS ADJOURN TODAY

This Year's Work of Massachusetts General Court to Be Cleared Up

Boston, June 20.—That the 1913 session of the Massachusetts legislature will end this afternoon is now a certainty. Governor Foss has called a special meeting of the executive council for this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

This signifies the intention of the chief executive to close up the year's work of the general court this week. The purpose of the special meeting of the council is to prorogue the legislature. Under the constitution, the great and general court is dissolved for the year by the governor and council.

The mock session of the house, which always marks the close of the legislative year, will be held late today. At this time the legislators cast aside all the dignity which they have acquired during the year, and indulge in various kinds of "horseplay."

BIG LOCKOUT IN CHICAGO

Strike of 150 Stone Masons Causes 20,000 to Be Out of Work

Chicago, June 20.—The lockout of 20,000 men engaged in the buildings trade here recently threatened by contractors who are putting up buildings in the down-town district, became effective yesterday.

The lockout followed refusal of 150 striking stone masons to return to work on a big bank building.

Officials of the Building Trades council declared that they would retaliate by calling a strike and stopping building construction throughout the city.

HURLS HIMSELF BEFORE HORSE

Maniac Puts Belmont's Entry Out of Ascot Cup Race

RECEIVES A FRACTURED SKULL

Jockey Shoots Clear of Saddle as Horse Hits Man and Is Uninjured—King George, Queen Mary and Other Royalties Witness Act In Emulation of Miss Davison

Ascot, Eng., June 20.—The race for the Ascot gold cup, one of the most coveted prizes of the English turf, was marred by an incident similar to that which brought the king's horse down in the Derby when Emily W. Davison sought and found death in the cause of the militant suffragettes. In this case it was a man, Harold Hewitt, who emulated Miss Davison's feat.

According to the Ascot police Hewitt was not connected with the suffragettes and was of unsound mind, of a type peculiarly liable to be carried away by the imitative impulse. He received the same penalty for his temerity as did Miss Davison—a fracture at the base of the skull.

Hewitt is lying unconscious at a hospital after undergoing an operation in the forlorn hope that his life might be saved.

King George and Queen Mary, ex-King Manuel of Portugal, the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden, the Duke of Connaught, Princess Patricia, and a number of lesser royalties were watching the race from the royal stand.

Coming down the straight, August Belmont's colt, Tracery, shot into the lead. He was going like a well oiled piece of machinery, and soon had the nearest horse several lengths behind. Seemingly Tracery was assured of an easy victory.

Suddenly a man jumped from the rails waving a red flag with one hand and with the other pointing a revolver at Jockey Whalley, who had the mount on Tracery. He shouted, "Pull up! Pull up! or I'll shoot you!"

Whalley did his best to divert the horse's course but failed. Tracery, striking the man full in the chest with his shoulder, sent him flying several yards and came down on his nose. Whalley shot clear of the saddle, but, being an adept at taking a toss, fell on his back and rolled to safety under the rails.

In the meantime the other horses came thundering on, one of them giving the author of all the trouble, who lay sprawling, a kick on the head in passing.

Save for some bruises, Whalley was uninjured, and when the king sent for him he walked stiffly to the royal box to receive the congratulations on his escape.

Hewitt is about 50 years of age. According to the police he is a cultured man, having been educated at Harrow and Cambridge, and is possessed of independent means.

He had, however, shown evidences of religious mania. A Bible was found on him, the fly leaves of which were full of quotations, and also a diary in which the last entry was made a few hours before his mad act. It was:

"Oh, the weariness of these races! If I fail in my intention to stop the gold cup, I hope I shall not hurt any of these jockeys. These races bring out all that is worst in humanity."

The Ascot cup was won by Prince Palatine, owned by T. Pilkington. The race was at two and a half miles with 3400 sovereigns added.

JAPAN MAKES APOLOGY

Violently Worded Statement on Walls of Our Embassy at Tokio

Tokio, June 20.—During the night some unknown persons wrote in English with Japanese ink on the walls of the American embassy a violently worded inscription directed against the United States. It charged Americans with being the enemies of liberty and justice.

The incident is considered of no importance but the police immediately called at the embassy and apologized. Later the foreign office expressed regrets to Secretary Blanchard of the embassy, although no protest had been registered with the Japanese government, and the government at once took steps for a closer guard by the police over the embassy premises.

Cruiser Sticks on Ways

Hamburg, June 20.—All efforts to remove the German battleship Derflinger from the ways, where she was partly launched Saturday, have been futile. Hydraulic jacks have proven insufficient to move her.

Mrs. Catt Re-Elected

Budapest, June 20.—Mrs. Carrie C. Catt of New York was re-elected president of the International Woman's Suffrage alliance by acclamation without balloting.

The Board of Trade is arranging for another "seeing Quincy" trip about the city, to wind up at Norteman's where a shore dinner will be served. The exact date for the trip has not been decided upon but it will be some time in July.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FILLETS OF FISH.

FILLETS of fish are the flesh taken from the bone and served whole or divided into separate strips.

Flounder, sole, halibut and bass may have the fillet on each side divided lengthwise, making four thin pieces each. They are often rolled up, tied and cooked thus:

Quickly Made.

Fillets of Bloater.—Skin two rather large bloaters, split them down the back, remove the flesh from the bones, place on the gridiron over or before the fire and broil until nearly tender. Dip them first in oiled butter and then in grated Parmesan cheese. Have ready some pieces of hot, buttered toast; cut them into neat shapes, place a fillet on each, set on a dish, sprinkle with a few fried crumbs and set in a very hot oven for a few minutes. Garnish prettily and serve.

Fillets of Sole.—Take fillets of sole, allowing two for each person, and roll them neatly. Dust with white pepper and salt and place in a baking dish. Add chicken stock to nearly cover them. Then grate some lemon peel over them and add equal parts of finely minced shallot and mushrooms and a teaspoonful of minced parsley. Cover thickly with breadcrumbs which have been freshly fried in butter and cook in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Serve at once in the dish they were cooked in.

With Nice Sauces.

Fillet of Flounder.—Take large flounders so that the fillets may be of good size. Season them with salt and pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Spread one-half of each fillet with a tablespoonful of a mixture of mashed potato, beaten with the yolk of an egg and seasoned with one tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Fold over the other half of the fillet, cover with crumbs, dip in white of an egg beaten with two tablespoonfuls of water, add more crumbs and fry in deep fat. Drain on soft paper. Garnish with lemon and serve with tomato sauce.

Fillet of Halibut.—Take two slices of halibut from the tail of the fish. Cut half an inch thick. Remove skin and bone, thus making eight fillets of the same shape and size. Sprinkle with one tablespoonful of lemon juice and a half teaspoonful of salt. Roll and run through each a wooden toothpick dipped in melted butter. Roll in crumbs, then egg beaten with two tablespoonfuls of cold water, then again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat. Serve on hot dish with slices of lemon. On each place a spoonful of bearnaise sauce. Serve extra sauce in a bowl.

RECKLESS MOTORING.

Horror stricken bystanders cried aloud, a crowd of people scattered, and Charles Austin, starter of the Bay State street railway narrowly escaped being struck, when a Ford machine rammed through City Square about 5.50 Thursday evening. The machine jumped into the limelight at one of the busiest hours of the evening.

Operating the machine was a person said by witnesses to be intoxicated, and two other passengers in the machine appeared to be in similar condition. According to starter Austin they came like a bolt out of a clear sky, struck the curbing near the transfer box at which he was standing, turned into a crowd boarding the East Milton car and then shot through them, as they broke and ran toward the pole in front of Hearn's store. The machine proceeded and took Granite street. As far as can be learned no one was injured.

Steps will be taken today to place the information in the hands of the police. Several in City Square took the number of the machine and believe they can identify the occupants. Arrests will follow.

Several bands are expected in the Quincy parade on Saturday of the Finnish Athletic and Glee Clubs of New England. The march will be from the Quincy Adams station to Merrymount Park at 11 A. M., sports and contests will be held in the afternoon, adjourning to the Finnish hall in time for the evening program.

THREE HOUSES ENTERED

Burglars at Work at Atlantic While Families Are Away

Three breaks at Atlantic were reported to the police within a short time of each other Thursday afternoon. The first was that the house of F. R. Wall at 58 Webster street had been entered. The family are in California at the present time and the house has been shut up for some weeks but is being looked after by Mrs. Walls mother who lives near by. Entering the house Thursday afternoon she discovered that the place had been visited by burglars and that they had thoroughly ransacked the house from top to bottom. Just what was taken if anything, could not be told as the family are away and they had taken the precaution to remove all their silver. This break was reported at 3 o'clock.

At 6 o'clock a report was received that the house of J. E. Packard at 93 Billings road had been entered. The family had been away since the Seventeenth and it is not known just when the house was entered. Here also things were turned upside down and a desk belonging to Mr. Packard had been smashed open and $65 in cash taken. The family have been unable as yet to tell whether anything else is missing.

The third break was reported at 7 o'clock and was that the house of George Phillips at 13 Appleton street had been entered. Here also the family had been away since the Seventeenth and did not arrive home until Thursday night. Things about the house were considerably upset, showing that the parties had rummaged about. It is not known just what was taken if anything. Sergt. Larkin was assigned to make an investigation of the breaks.

SCHOLARSHIP AT HARVARD

Son of City Clerk Crane Is Awarded One

The five scholarships of $200 each offered annually by the Harvard Club of Boston have been awarded to the following men for the academic year 1913-14, provided they enter Harvard College next fall as members of the class of 1917: Robert H. Allen of the Roxbury Latin School; Earle H. Bean of the Melrose High school; Richard Z. Crane of the Quincy High School; Leland L. Fitz of the Melrose High School; Arnold S. Potter of the Lynn Classical High School.

Richard Zeigler Crane is the son of City Clerk and Mrs. Emery L. Crane of Whitney road.

The five scholarships of the Harvard Club of Boston and the Charles Sumner Scholarship are offered every year to boys in public high and Latin schools within a radius of twenty miles from the State House who intend to enter Harvard College. The funds are available for the successful candidates during their freshman year in college. In awarding the scholarships the committee in charge weighs not only the school work of the applicants, but also their character and attainment.

NUTMEG VS. MARIE L.

The stakes have been posted for the sweepstake match race between the Nutmeg, owned by Albert C. Jones of Boston and the Marie L, owned by Albert W. Finlay of Quincy. The match will be for the best three out of five races for a sweepstake of $500—$250 a side.

Both boats sail now close to a 25-foot water line length. The Nutmeg was designed by Hanley and the Marie L by A. A. Boardman, under the 22-foot restrictions. With the going out of existence of this class and several changes in each boat yachtsmen wonder which is the faster.

The races will be over a triangular course at Marblehead and Nahant. They will sail at Nahant June 29, July 4th and 6th and a Marblehead July 1 and 3. The fifth race will be decided by the toss of a coin.

The match will be run under the Interclub Yacht Racing Association rules. Three hours will be allowed on each leg and if either boat becomes disabled the race will be declared off. The yachts will be measured at the Baker basin June 26.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WINSHIP.

A large number of friends and neighbors besides relatives attended the funeral this noon of Mrs. Rachel Potter Winship of East Elm avenue. Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church of which she was a member, officiating. Miss Ruth Hardy sang "I heard the voice of Jesus say, Come unto Me and rest," and "In the land of fadless day."

The beautiful roses, lilies, carnations and sweet peas in profusion were silent messengers of love and esteem. The burial was at Lexington. Albert W. Fay taking the body in his new limousine hearse.

For the past ten years from time to time a sufferer no one would have known that a fatal disease was present, but since October complications have existed which made intense suffering—and that quality of being patient through prolonged pain of body and mind endured with such courage is worthy of remark, her natural temperament, was full of good spirits.

The family came to Newton street, Wollaston, ten years ago and she made many friends who remember her warm hearted loyalty and kindliness. A woman was never blessed with a more devoted son and daughter, Granville W. and Ella F. Winship, who have made a home for their mother. Another son Howard E., lives at South Windham, Maine. May the remaining ones find peace and comfort in the thought of her rights to Heaven's best rewards.

Burning of Beautiful Buildings Laid To English Militants

THE militant English suffragettes, with scores of outrages already to their credit—and discredit—continue to ply the torch, if the inferences of the police are correct.

Since militancy assumed such great proportions scores of beautiful and historic buildings in the British isles have been set on fire, and some of them were destroyed. Others were damaged almost beyond hope of repair.

Two recent fires in which beautiful buildings were ruined are attributed by the authorities to the "arsonettes." One was St. Catherine's church at Hatcham, New Cross, South London.

The other was at Farington Hall, a mansion on the outskirts of Dundee, Scotland. Both buildings were destroyed, only blackened walls and charred beams remaining when the flames had been put out.

Farington Hall was a typical Scotch mansion and was a valuable piece of property. It was owned by a former lord provost of Dundee.

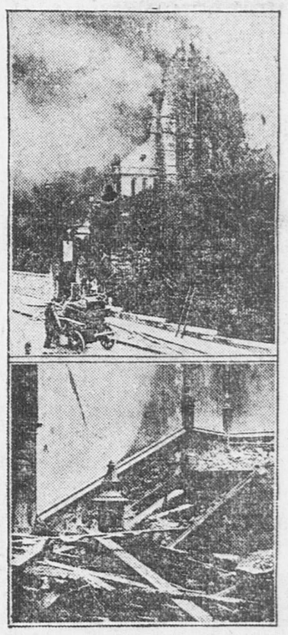
St. Catherine's church was a gift to its congregation and cost $90,000, exclusive of its fittings. It was consecrated nineteen years ago.

It was a fine building in the Gothic style, situated at the top of Telegraph hill, and had seating accommodation for nearly a thousand persons.

All that remains of it are the four outer stone walls, the inner chapel and the magnificent stained glass windows.

Within the building are masses of charred timber, the organ has been reduced to ashes, the carved oak roof has gone, the solid oak lectern was burned, the mosaic pulpit lies in cinders on the floor, the beautiful altar is no more, and the pews of pitch pine are blackened with fire or damaged by the falling timbers of the massive roof.

Apparently the fire started in the organ loft at the east end of the church and opposite the vestry, and the flames spread swiftly outward and upward.



Photos by American Press Association.

ABOVE—ST. CATHERINE'S CHURCH, SOUTH LONDON, ON FIRE. BELOW—RUINS OF STAIRWAY IN FARINGTON HALL, DUNDEE, AFTER A FIRE.

"I had only left the church a few minutes before," said the vicar, the Rev. H. J. H. Truscott, "and in those few minutes practically the entire roof had caught fire.

"I saw no one in the church when I left, and there was not the faintest smell of fire. A few minutes later, while I was paying a visit to a friend in the neighborhood, some one ran up to me and told me the church was on fire.

"To my amazement I saw the flames bursting from the east windows and out of the roof. Running back, I managed to save the registers in the vestry, the cassocks and the surplices, and that is all we saved."

That the authorities intend to make the suffragettes pay the full penalties for their offenses, whenever conviction is possible, was indicated when Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militants, was returned to her cell in Holloway jail, from which she was released after she had made herself seriously ill by a "hunger strike."

Mrs. Pankhurst was being treated at a private hospital, and her friends had begun to hope that the government would forget the three year prison sentence against her. These hopes were rudely dispelled when she was rearrested.

It is said that Mrs. Pankhurst immediately resumed her "hunger strike" on being returned to jail.

Her daughter, Miss Christabel Pankhurst, who fled to Paris when a warrant for her arrest was issued on a charge of inciting the suffragettes to malicious damage to property, has given the police fully as much trouble as her mother.

It was predicted recently that she would be tried at the Old Bailey in her absence. No such procedure can take place in England without the fiat of the attorney general, but the recorder at the Old Bailey intimated that the official fiat could be easily obtained.

ACCIDENT.

Thomas G. Smith of Washington street met with a peculiar accident Thursday while alighting from a train in the South station. Some weeks ago Mr. Smith underwent a surgical operation on one of his legs, and while the injured member is healing nicely he still has to use crutches. Thursday morning while alighting from the train he had a fainting spell, dropped his crutches and fell to the platform. Mayor Stone and several others from Quincy were present at the time and rushed to his assistance. He was put into a wheel chair and sent home on the next train and immediately took to his bed. He had a rather bad night but is more comfortable this morning.

BRIEFS

John T. Conway, superintendent of the Old Colony division of the Bay State Street Railway, had a narrow escape this morning, when his automobile skidded and struck a post near the turnout at Mayflower Park, Braintree. One of the wheels was crushed and the bender was badly bent. Mr. Conway was operating the car at a slow rate of speed and this accounts probably for his escape. No passengers were with him. The car was taken to a garage where it will be repaired.

Vol. 28 No. 143 QUINCY MASS., SATURDAY EVENING JUNE 21, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS

RAMBLER RUN ENJOYABLE OCCASION

City Officials and Others, Guests of the Wollaston Centre Garage

Concludes With Shore Dinner at Houghs Neck

Although the weather Friday was threatening, the rain kept off long enough to allow the program arranged for the run of the "Rambler family" to be carried out according to the program. It was planned to leave the Wollaston Central Garage at 6 o'clock, and it was but a few minutes after that hour when the twenty-five cars that took part in the family run started from the garage.

It was a remarkably pretty sight, for every one of the twenty-five Ramblers carried its full complement of guests. There were seven seaters, five seaters and runabouts for 2 persons. The run was led by J. S. Swingle, who has been named the father of the Rambler family in Quincy as he owned the first Rambler car. Each car bore a Rambler banner and the guests wore small bright pins with the word "Rambler." Many city officials were in the party.

From the garage the route took the cars through Beach street, to the boulevard thence along the shore front to Squantum street, through a section of Atlantic back to the boulevard, to the Sailors Home end, thence along Fenno street through Merrymount park, Park lane and Greenleaf streets to Hancock and Adams streets. Thence by Newport avenue, and Brook street and Highland avenue to Beale street to East Milton. Here the cars crossed the track and made a circle of the old Granite Avenue house back through Adams street to City Square to Elm street, Washington and Maple streets to City Square again, thence via Greenleaf, Valley and Sea streets to Houghs Neck, where the dining room at Norteman's was found already for the hungry guests.

All along the route horns were kept blowing and the appearance of so many cars of the same make in one line drew the constant attention of everybody along the route. There was not a blow out or puncture along the whole route which was made at an average rate of fifteen miles an hour.

There must have been fully one hundred and fifty in the party, which included many ladies, and the dining room at Norteman's was pretty well taxed. No time was lost in seating the party at the tables and as the savory chowder was brought on Chester I. Campbell proposed a toast to the host, Mr. Winsloe, which everybody was only too willing to join in. Then the next hour was occupied in discussing the merits of the following menu:

Radishes Olives
Clam Chowder
Steamed Clams Drawn Butter
Fried Cod Mashed Potatoes
Fried Clams Potato Chips
Tomatoes Lettuce Cucumbers
Plain Boiled Lobster
Ice Cream Frozen Pudding
Assorted Cake
Coffee Rolls

During the dinner Sheriff McDevitt of Suffolk county, a long personal friend of Mr. Winsloe, rendered several solos of popular airs, in which some of the musically inclined guests joined.

Dinner over Mr. Winsloe expressed his pleasure at having so many of the present Rambler and future Rambler family present, and called upon ex-Mayor William T. Shea.

The genial ex-Mayor said that he was not a member of the Rambler family but after the run and the enthusiasm shown he did not wonder how fast it had grown.

Chester I. Campbell, who is doubtless the best known automobile man in the state, spoke of the enterprise of Mr. Winsloe and of the Thomas J. Jeffery Co., the manufacturers of the Rambler cars, paying them a high compliment. He knew what it meant to establish an agency and he congratulated Mr. Winsloe.

Mr. Wall, assistant manager of the company, had a few words to say as did also Mr. Rollins of the company. They told how the Rambler was not known until Mr. Swingle purchased his car and that while twelve was the number set for Quincy, the sales had been four times that number. They also said that Mr. Winsloe was a great salesman and a very convincing one and that it was due to his energy and push that the number of Ramblers sold had been so large. They also spoke of the stability of the Jeffrey company and said they stood back of all their cars.

John L. Miller also congratulated Mr. Winsloe on his push and enterprise and regretted that Quincy did not have more of such enterprising citizens. He had known him personally for a number of years and had always found him to be square and above board.

Councilman Richards was introduced as one who was not now a member of the Rambler family but whom it was hoped soon would be. Councilman Richards spoke briefly but did not commit himself as to whether he intended to join the family or not.

Councilman Gauthier proposed a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Winsloe for the very enjoyable evening and the motion was seconded by everyone in the dining room rising.

This closed the evenings program and the cars again being boarded the guests were taken to their homes. It had been a most successful evening and one that had been thoroughly enjoyed.

FINE OF $100 AND SENTENCE

For Reckless Driving of Automobile in City Square

August Terila received a sentence of ten days in the house of correction and a fine of $100 for operating an automobile in a reckless manner in City Square. It seems that Terrila and three friends went to Neponset and purchased a case of beer. They then drove to Merrymount Park where they drank the beer. A start was then made for West Quincy. Terrila was operating the car, and as it went through City Square about 5 o'clock, it went from one side to the other greatly endangering the life fo a large number of women and children who were in City Square at the time.

An accident seemed certain as the driver had no control of the car. Fortunately however no one was injured. The number of the car was taken and Inspector Goodhue placed the man under arrest Friday. He admitted that he was the man and said he did not remember much about going through City Square, only that he could not control the car.

PARADE AND FIELD DAY

Finnish Societies of New England in Quincy Today

In keeping with the custom of observing Mid-Summer Day in Finland, nearly 500 of Finnish descent paraded from Quincy Adams to Merrymount park this morning where they are holding an outing. The program is under the direction of Finnish Athletic and Glee Clubs of New England. A like celebration is being held all over the world where Finnish people reside.

The day broke with lowering clouds hanging over the horizon but a warm sun scattered them. Many who had planned to attend delayed starting because of the weather outlook and consequently only 60 per cent of those attending were here in time to take their place in the formation of the line.

The Finnish National colors were carried beside Old Glory at the head of the line of march and in front of the Quincy Athletic Club, Quincy Glee Club and the Finnish Temperance Society of Quincy. With them was the Quincy National Band. This division consisted of nearly 200 men, women and children, most of the women being gowned in white.

One of the prettiest features of the Quincy division was the romping along of about 150 children, all under ten years of age who wore blue and white the colors of the home land.

The Waino Band headed the second division comprising the Wainola Temperance Society and the Waino Glee Club of Lanesville. About 150 men and women marched in this division.

The third division consisted of the Finnish Temperance Society of Gardner and the Maynard societies marched in the fourth division.

Arriving at the field they immediately commenced their program which included band and glee club contests running and jumping and other athletic events. Entered in today's games were many members of the Finnish Athletic Club of Worcester.

Throughout the day music was furnished by the bands and glee clubs and in the evening all will attend closing exercises in the Finnish Temperance hall, West Quincy.

BURGLARS ABOUT.

After several months of inactivity, burglars are again playing their nefarious trade in Quincy and the early morning attempt at breaking and entering the home of Leon F. Besse, 30 Kemper street, follows closely on the burglary of three houses in Atlantic. About three this morning the members of the Besse family were awakened by noises and investigating they found a man trying to enter the house through a piazza window. The family telephoned to the police and the auto was immediately dispatched. A search of the territory produced no results. A meagre description was furnished the police.

Nothing new has been learned as to the three burglaries at Atlantic which weredi scovered Thursday. Sergt. Larkin who has been investigating has learned that from the Philips house a number of pieces of ladies jewelry wree taken. At the Packard house they secured a diamond ring, a gold watch and $60 cash. Just what was taken from the Wall house can not be learned until the family return. There is no clew to the burglars.

ONLY FIVE YEARS REQUIRED BY ONE GRAMMAR GRADUATE

Interesting Statistics Presented at Graduation By Superintendent Barbour

Addresses by Members of the School Committee

For the first time for several years the graduating exercises of the Grammar schools of the city were held in separate buildings, proving the wisdom of the city fathers in providing assembly halls in the modern school buildings.

There were four separate graduations. Three of these were held in the afternoon and one in the evening. That of the Atherton Hough, Coddington and Washington schools was held in the Coddington school hall; that of the Adams, Cranch, John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard at the High school hall; that of the Gridley Bryant, Montclair and Quincy schools at the Quincy school hall in the afternoon; and that of the Massachusetts Fields and Wollaston schools at the Wollaston school hall in the evening.

Superintendent Barbour gives the following statistics relative to the graduating classes of all the grammar schools.

The total number of graduates was 472 of which 227 were boys and 245 girls. Of this number 429 will continue their studies in secondary schools, namely High school 361, Woodward 50, and other schools 18.

Of the total, one spent only five years in the grammar schools, eight spent 6 years; 26 spent 7 years; 216 spent 8 years; 154 spent 9 years; 61 sent 10 years; 5 spent 11 years and 1 spent 12 years.

The youngest pupil in the class was 11 years and 5 months, and the oldest 17 years and 4 months, while the average age was 14 years and 2 months.

There were 2 between 11 and 13 years, 37 between 12 and 13 years, 178 between 13 and 14 years, 152 between 14 and 15 years, 79 between 15 and 16 years, 22 between 16 and 17 years and 2 between 17 and 18 years.

CODDINGTON HALL.

The graduation exercises of the Atherton Hough, Coddington and Washington grammar schools was held at the Coddington school hall and the exercises were not only of a very interesting nature but were very largely attended. As usual in graduations of late years music was a special feature and the music as rendered by the graduating classes of the three schools was of an unusual high quality. Miss Helen M. Lincoln presided at the piano, and Thomas B. Pollard, master of the Washington school, was the director of the chorus. It was no new position for Mr. Pollard for he has long been interested in music. The choruses were remarkably strong and were rendered with a vim that was very pleasing.

Particularly pleasing was the opening number "Morning Invitation" and the applause that greeted pupils was self evident that the audience had thoroughly enjoyed the music. In addition to this number the classes also sang "The bells of Seville," "The clang of the forge" and Kellers "American Hymn."

Pomptly at the hour of 3 the gong sounded and the three classes marched in from the rooms on the second floor and took their seats on the platform, and so promptly was the program carried out that the exercises were over in just an hour.

In addition to the choruses by the classes there were three declamations the three young men representing the three schools. James M. LeCain of the Atherton Hough school gave Grady's "The hope of the country;" Robert Miller of the Coddington school, Kaufman's "The heritage of to-morrow"; and James Greenhalge of the Washington school, Field's "The Owl critic."

There was no speaker announced on the program but Dr. E. H. Bushnell of the School Committee spoke briefly just previous to the presentation of the diplomas. He said that it was hardly a fair show that he should be selected from the School Committee and that he felt a little embarrassed. "You are now passing into a new era. Heretofore you have been called children, but now you will assume a new responsibility of independent thought and action. You will be called upon to act and think, but your heart must be independent. If you wait for ideals to come to you, you will never have them. Bring nothing into your lives that you are not willing to keep, and do no wrong. Be ever ready to find enjoyment in all things. Let no sun set without having done some deed of kindness. Keep a

CHILDREN'S HEALTH

Many of the leading scientists are making a study of the physical development of the child, realizing that without perfect health the problem of mental and moral development is doubled.

The necessary rules for health are, proper food, regular sleep, fresh air and proper clothing.

One of the modern discoveries is that children's clothes may be comfortable and at the same time, pretty and becoming. Certainly nothing is more attractive then a healthy, well mannered, well dressed child.

In the Children's Department at D. E. Wadsworth's & Co., may be found dainty little dresses for children of all ages. The new Empire style and French style of dresses are particularly attractive, with the kind of underwear to be worn with them. There are also hats, parasols, chamoisette gloves and in fact everything to make the little ones comfortable and pretty can be found at D. E. Wadsworth & Co. 21-1t

COLLEGE LIFE.

A college professor told in confidence the other day how much he deplored the tendency of the colleges to become training schools for the children of wealthy men. Most serious minded young people, he said, go to the technical schools now.

His indictment did not refer so much to the colleges in the younger states as to the famous old institutions of the East. But no doubt the tendencies he deplored exist in most well endowed institutions.

According to his idea, the dominating purpose now i n sending a boy to college is to help him make friends and to form useful personal connections. It may be an exaggerated view, but these are tendencies to which the baccalaureate and commencement orators may well give prominence.

The boy who thinks the pulls of college friendship may carry him high in after life, may find later that the earnest, toiling students of the technical schools, have acquired the efficiency that is the only real basis for success.

Some people took a new job June 13, 1913, without breaking the hoodoo by going down the night before to lay out their tools.

Now the government is trying to dissolve the oatmeal trust, which probably will be required to put up its product in different colored boxes.

You Can Depend On Your Neighbors

By HOLLAND.

TO whom do you appeal for help in time of trouble or sickness? On whom would you depend if dread misfortune laid its heavy hand on you? Your neighbors? Exactly.

Man is a gregarious animal, and he naturally cares for relatives, friends and acquaintances rather than strangers. Social affairs depend entirely on acquaintanceship, and business affairs are controlled to large extent by the same element. It would be better if business and friendship were still more closely linked.

If you would depend on your neighbors in time of adversity why not depend on them in prosperity? Isn't the man whose hand you would like to grasp the man to whom you ought to hand the dollar that you have to spend? Why send it away to a mail order house which would be interested in a death in your family merely because it offered a possible chance to sell you a tombstone or a crape band for your hat?

You know your neighbors are reliable, that they can be depended on, that they would come to your aid with sympathy or material help should the occasion arise. Then why not show that you appreciate their good qualities by doing business with them regularly and as a matter of habit? They know you and are interested in you. The mail order man is merely interested in getting your money, and that in advance.

SPEND YOUR MONEY WHERE YOU MAKE IT.

ONLY FIVE YEARS REQUIRED

clean heart and a clear head, and blessing will be upon you. The School Committee, your teachers and parents congratulate you, for in you they see loyal citizens of the future."

The presentation of diplomas then followed, Chairman Foster of the Atherton Hough school presenting the diplomas to that class, which he said while small was of the best quality. In presenting the diplomas to the Coddington school, Dr. Hunting, chairman of that school, said that Dr. Bushnell said it was not a fair deal, but it was the fairest show he had seen in a long time. The diplomas of the Washington school were presented by Dr. Bushnell.

Then came the chorus "The American Hymn," the salute to the flag, and all rising in singing "America."

QUINCY HALL.

The exercises of the Gridley Bryant Montclair and Quincy schools were held at the Quincy school hall at Atlantic and were well attended. The musical program here was similar to that held in the other buildings. Charles Sampson, master of the Quincy school, was the director of the music, and Miss Bertha F. Estes presided at the piano. Promptly at the appointed hour the pupils of the three graduating classes marched in, their appearance being greeted by a round of applause. The choruses by the schools were the same as in the other buildings. In addition to these numbers however, Miss Helen Gertrude Shevlin gave two piano solos, "Austrian song" and "La Cascade" Miss Amy Gudrun Holmes also gave a piano solo and Miss Florence Olivia White a violin solo.

Previous to the presentation of the diplomas John L. Miller, chairman of the School Committee, made a few remarks during which he congratulated the graduates on having attained the qualifications to enable them to graduate and enter the higher branches.

Chairman Miller presented the diplomas to the graduates of the Gridley Bryant school, and Dr. Bruce to the graduates of the Montclair and Quincy schools.

Following the presentation of the diplomas came the salute to the flag by the three classes in unison; "America" in which the audience joined, and the march out of the graduates.

HIGH SCHOOL HALL.

At the High school, 186 pupils were graduated from the Adams, Cranch, John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard grammar schools. Choruses were particularly good, no strained effect being noticeable.

On the platform were Horace W. Rice, principal of the Woodward Institute; Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, director of the St. John's parish school, Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M. E. church, Rev. A. M. Thompson of the First United Presbyterian church and many teachers and friends.

The program opened with a march by the High school orchestra, consisting of Edith L. Abbott, William J. Roche, Beatrice I. Costello, Elton F Chase, Lawrence Ferguson, Edward Berman, Margaret E. White and Rosalie M. Du Temple. Edward C. Bullock was the accompanist for the songs.

Miss S. Maude Amsden, director of music in the schools, conducted the choruses, consisting of "Morning Invitation" by Veazie, Jude's "The Bells of Seville" and "The Clang of the Forge" by Rodney, and the "American Hymn" by Keller.

Supt. Barbour gave the statistics before mentioned.

Arthur W. Newcomb presented the diplomas to the Adams and Cranch schools, John D. Mackay to the John Hancock and Lincoln schools and Joseph H. McPherson to the Willard school. Each prefaced the presentation with brief remarks.

Mr. Newcomb told the pupils of the historic bonds connecting the Adams and Cranch school through the marriage of the gentlemen for whom they were named to sisters. He introduced several anecdotes illustrative to the life and character of the Adam's family and spoke of the early association with the Town government of Mr. Cranch who was the first local postmaster. Developing along character lines and persistency he urged all to strive for the attainment of an ideal.

Joseph H. McPherson, the youngest committee man that ever represented the district that graduates the largest number of pupils faced 64 Willardites, he said, with a feeling of congratulation, not only for the completion of the first lap of their education but for the securing of the base ball championship and the field day honors. He also congratulated the Cranch boys on being good losers.

In speaking on the development of a personality he stated simple but wholesome truths, told how the personality of a man could be commanding and of the type that adjusts itself to leadership without effort. A strong personality is a great business asset, he said, and Napoleon, the French general who intended to conquer the world but was forced to retreat from Moscow was worthy 40,000 of his best fighting soldiers on the field of battle.

John D. Mackay spoke as follows: "My young Friends: After several years of patient toil on your own part, faithful supervision on the part of your teachers and sacrifices on the part of your parents, you are assembled here to be formally graduated from the Grammar schools. Most of you will pass through the High school, and quite a few will continue the student life until they graduate from college. To those who are so fortunate I have but little to say except to congratulate them on having their lines fall is pleasant places. Let a boy start out with the determination to acquire wealth or political power and the world little cares whether he wins or fails. But let him apply himself to obtaining an education and everybody is his helper and friend. Such is the attitude of the world toward scholarship.

"But my remarks must be chiefly addressed to those who will go no further than the grammar school. Your education, my little friends, is more liberal than you can yet appreciate. Your young minds have been trained to think and reflect. Of different nationalities and races, you have passed through the "Melting Pot" of America, which more than any other agency is hastening the glad day when differences of opinion will cause no bitterness, and man to man the world over shall brothers be. And while this process was going on you were acquiring a fund of information,—real wisdom,—which, if you use it aright, will be your greatest asset and your chiefest joy in life.

"It behooves you now to add to the sum total of your knowledge something every day. Otherwise your minds are bound to deteriorate and ere long you must present your diplomas to prove that you have gone through the grammar school at all. The opportunities for continuing your education are vast. Books and literature in other forms are accessible to all. And if you improve your time you will be surprised when you come to maturity to find how little you are behind the boy who has gone through college. Knowledge is power. It matters little how you acquire it, but get it.

"I remarked that your education represented the toil and sacrifice of yourselves, your teachers and parents. Let me add that you are also debtors to the Greek and the Barbarian. What do I mean by that? Simply this. Every man in Quincy who pays his way, whether he be a workman living in one room, or the owner of large taxable estates, is contributing to the maintenance of the public schools. Try to carry this thought with you. It will increase your sense of proprietorship in the community; likewise your sense of responsibility.

"Now, what does the City of Quincy expect of you? Just this: Secure some useful employment at once, and thereby become a burden bearer, instead of continuing a part of the burden. Give your employer a fair day's work and don't try to beat the cash register. If you give him a little more than he is entitled to, you are thereby taking the first step in your own advancement and you are reasonable sure to succeed in life. Don't feel too strong to work.

"To the girl graduates I need say nothing. Of course they will be ambitious and industrious. I hope you will patronize the libraries more than the dancing schools and the dance halls, for the development of the brain is fully as important as the training of the feet. If there is one girl among you who will tarry at the gate or at the piano while her mother washes the dishes alone, she has failed to get from the grammar school what was intended for her, and she ought to go through again and acquire a love of industry.

"Just one work of appreciation for our teachers. It has been said of a certain profession that its members work hard, live well and die poor. The teachers too work hard. They live well, not because of the adequacy of their salaries, but because their tastes are wholesome and not extravagant: I will not be so ungallant as to say that they die poor, but candor compels me to tell you that their estates don't often pass through the probate court.

"But they enjoy life and its good things. Every door that is worth opening flies open before the teacher. She has the entree to the best society. Everybody from the clergyman to the man in the street tips his hat when he meets the school teacher. Even the hoodlum on the sidewalk is respectful while she passes by. And when her noble service is ended and she passes on, it may be said of her in the words of Sidney Smith that 'mankind has lost a friend and no one has got rid of an enemy.' "

Several pupils were unable to be present. Harry Galvin of the Cranch school who had his ankle broken in the world's series between Cranch and Willard received his diploma at his home, 166 Whitwell street where it was taken by the members of the base ball team. The presentation was made by "Vern" Arbuckle.

Theresa Agnes Nardone of the Adams school could not attend because of diphtheria in the family. Gunnar Paridon Carlson of the Cranch school is confined to his home with measles, and Florence Inglis of the John Hancock class sailed Tuesday for England with her parents where she will permanently reside.

WOLLASTON HALL.

At the first evening grammar school graduation ever held in the city, 92 pupils, comprising the graduating classes of the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields schools, received their diplomas in the Wollaston school hall Friday evening.

The hall was prettily decorated and was filled to capacity with fond parents and friends. Large American flags adorned the walls while across the entire front of the platform was a bank of foliage dotted with electric lights of varied colors.

The children marched in to the music of William's "Processional" played by Miss Dorothy Taylor, the accompanist of the evening. Each class carried a banner with the name of its respective school upon it.

The program opened with a chorus of the classes "Morning invitation" by Veazie, led by Miss S. Maude Amsden the director of music.

Introductory remarks were made by Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of the Quincy public schools.

Two choruses "The bells of Seville" by Jude and "The clang of the forge" by Rodney followed.

In a brief address Eugene F. DeNormandié of Wollaston, one of the parents, reminded the graduates after being associated for eight years in the same studies they were now to separate and make their own selections. He urged them to select those qualities that would place them in the D. I. R. and D. I. N. classes. D. I. R., he explained, meant "Do It Right," and D. I. N, "Do It Now."

Some of the qualities to be sought for were perserverence, observation work, efficiency and responsibility, their initial letters spelling "power." The graduates he said went from the school with the best wishes of the parents, teachers and community.

A chorus "American Hymn" by Keller preceded the presentation of the diplomas by Dr. William G. Curtis of the School Committee assisted by David H. Goodspeed, principal of the school.

The salute to the flag and "America" by the children closed the exercises and the graduates marched out of the hall to the loud applause of those present.

A complete list of all the grammar school graduates of the city appeared in the Daily Ledger of Friday.

PLEASING RECITAL.

Many attended the recital of the pupils of J. Barraja in New Colonial hall Friday evening. Those who took part were well aplauded for their fine rendition of difficult extracts from well known compositions. In the pianoforte class were Marion Butler, Mary Ricca and Master George Aiken of the Juniors; Elizabeth Whorf and William Hale of the intermediates, and Clarence Lundin of the advanced class.

In the voice recital were Ernest Borzono and Arthur Rosen of the juniors; Ethel Stevenson and Lawrence F. Loring of the intermediates, and Miss Catherine Saville and Miss Catherine Brown of the advanced.

The program was divided into two parts. "The Autumnale" of Mr. Barraja was sung by Leo Stroppiana who also sang Donizetti's duet from "La Favorita" with J. Barraja-Frauenfelder. Miss Othilda Fritz of Boston was the violinist.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD.

Capt. Thomas T. Spear, a veteran of the Civil war, died suddenly at his home at Annisquam on Thursday. He was the son of the late Capt. George Spear of Quincy, and brother of the late Samuel H. Spear and of Theodore Dudley Spear now of California.

Capt. Spear served in the U. S. Navy during the war. He married Deborah L. Studley of Cohasset, and made his home there for some years, but for the past twenty years he has lived at Annisquam where by his gentle manner and kindly disposition he has won the love and respect of his townspeople. He has been for many years closely associated with Major Luther S. Bent, also a native of Quincy, whose summer home is at Annisquam. An only son Walter Spear, survives him, his wife having died several years ago.

The Social Realm

Mr. Carlton A. Gifford of Wollaston and Mrs. Josephine M. Dodge of Malden were married on Friday at Malden by Rev. E. V. Hinchcliffe of the Faulkner M. E. church. —Some of Sing Sing's prisoners who are near to the end of their terms will live during the summer in tents instead of in the old prison's damp and disease-breeding interior. It ought to be a blessed relief, even on nights when the storms prevail. After all these years of use the prison is a place of horror to anyone who has not gotten used to it by long years of being immured there.—Brockton Enterprise.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FREED AFTER SENTENCE

Thirty-One Paterson Strikers Are Put on Their Good Behavior

Paterson, N. J., June 21.—Thirty-one striking silk mill workers, members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who were convicted recently of unlawful assemblage, were sentenced by Judge Klenert to serve three months each at hard labor in the county jail. As soon as the sentences were imposed the court suspended their punishment subject to the good behavior of the prisoners.

Hannah Silverman, the 17-year-old strike leader convicted with the others, was lectured by the court. With tears streaming down her cheeks she promised to refrain hereafter from disorder.

HORSES KILLED IN ELECTRIFIED POOL

"Juice" From Defective Trolley Wire Reaches Puddle

Boston, June 21.—Two horses owned by the Ferguson bakery, driven by Samuel Fletcher, were electrocuted by stepping into a puddle of water on Oakland street, Mattapan, which had been electrified by a defective wire of the Boston Elevated system connected with the street through the iron posts holding up the trolley wires on either side of the street. When the horses walked into the pool their bodies completed the circuit.

Experts from the company who made an investigation stated the horses received the full voltage of the current.

Fletcher received a slight shock but was not seriously injured.

REPRESENTATIVE IN '61

Death of Last Survivor of Body Which Declared State of War

Reading, Pa., June 21.—Major Sydenham W. Ancona, 89 years of age, the last surviving member who served in the national house of representatives in 1861, died here last evening. He was a Democrat and served in the Thirty-Seventh, Thirty-Eighth and Thirty-Ninth congresses.

On the occasion of his last visit to Washington, a year ago, the house took a recess for fifteen minutes in his honor, during which he was given a reception. Every representative in the house filed past the veteran and shook his hand.

It was the body of which Ancona was a member, in 1861, which, at a special session on July 4, declared a state of war against the confederacy.

FEW SURPRISES IN PENNANT RACES

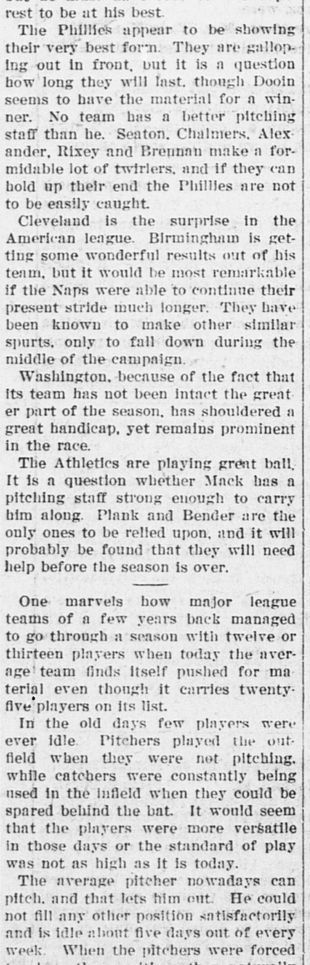
Last Year's Leaders Disappointing Fans This Season.

PHILLIES LOOK VERY GOOD.

Charley Dooin's Team Playing Great Ball—Philadelphia Americans Going Well—Cleveland a Big Surprise. Giants Not Doing So Well.

It is doubtful if any pennant races have furnished as many surprises as the present one. In both major leagues teams which were considered as having the best chance to lead the procession have proved disappointments.

Boston in the American league was expected to get a flying start in the race this year, yet is occupying a lowly position, with but slight hope of improving. The National league race was believed to be a fight between Pittsburgh and New York, and yet neither of these teams has shown pennant winning ball to date.



Photos by American Press Association.

PITCHER BENDER—HOW HE HOLDS BALL TO DELIVER HIS FAMOUS DROP.

McGraw's machine seems to have broken down. Marquard's great pitching of last season, when he won nineteen straight games and kept his team in the lead, is missed. Tesreau is not near as effective as he was, and Mathewson is still the Giants' star twirler, but he must have four or five days' rest to be at his best.

The Phillies appear to be showing their very best form. They are galloping out in front, but it is a question how long they will last, though Dooin seems to have the material for a winner. No team has a better pitching staff than he. Seaton, Chalmers, Alexander, Rixey and Brennan make a formidable lot of twirlers, and if they can hold up their end the Phillies are not to be easily caught.

Cleveland is the surprise in the American league. Birmingham is getting some wonderful results out of his team, but it would be most remarkable if the Naps were able to continue their present stride much longer. They have been known to make other similar spurts, only to fall down during the middle of the campaign.

Washington, because of the fact that its team has not been intact the greater part of the season, has shouldered a great handicap, yet remains prominent in the race.

The Athletics are playing great ball. It is a question whether Mack has a pitching staff strong enough to carry him along. Plank and Bender are the only ones to be relied upon, and it will probably be found that they will need help before the season is over.

One marvels how major league teams of a few years back managed to go through a season with twelve or thirteen players when today the average team finds itself pushed for material even though it carries twenty-five players on its list.

In the old days few players were ever idle. Pitchers played the outfield when they were not pitching, while catchers were constantly being used in the infield when they could be spared behind the bat. It would seem that the players were more versatile in those days or the standard of play was not as high as it is today.

The average pitcher nowadays can pitch, and that lets him out. He could not fill any other position satisfactorily and is idle about five days out of every week. When the pitchers were forced to play other positions they naturally acquired ability aside from pitching, and this made them of more value to their teams.

Wood Is Very Modest.

Joe Wood, modest young fellow, admits that Walter Johnson is a better pitcher than himself. He says Johnson's greater strength, size and longer arm enable him to put more speed on the ball with less comparative exertion.

LOAN SHARK EVIL BEING WIPED OUT

Many Usurious Lenders Convicted In Various States

New York, June 21.—A nation-wide war on usury has resulted during the past year in legislation being enacted in twenty-four states, in six of which—Oregon, Colorado, Missouri, Minnesota, Indiana and Pennsylvania—laws that are adequate have been passed, according to a report submitted to the National Federation of Remedial Loans associations in convention here.

Many usurious lenders have been convicted in various states, the report declared, but it was held "unfortunate" that many of them were "agents and not the real proprietors."

Policeman Miller Arraigned In Court For Killing Shea

Boston, June 21.—Charged with manslaughter as the result of the killing of Ralph P. Shea early Tuesday morning in Warrenton street, Patrolman Charles W. Miller of the Lagrange street police station was yesterday placed under arrest.

Miller was arraigned before Judge Ely, pleaded not guilty and was released under bonds of $1000. He was not suspended from the police department and will continue to do duty on the patrol wagon until his case has been disposed of in the courts.

The family of the young man who was shot and killed, it is claimed while running away, declare they will bring the case to the attention of the district attorney, irrespective of any police action.

TO PRISON FOR AUTO DEATH

Son of New Jersey Judge Loses In State Supreme Court

Trenton, June 21.—The supreme court confirmed the conviction of Daniel A. Dugan, Jr., of manslaughter in Essex county. While driving his automobile on Christmas day, 1911, Dugan ran down and killed Leo F. McDermott, a boy who was crossing the street.

Dugan's sentence of imprisonment at hard labor for not more than ten nor less than five years stands unless there is an appeal to the court of errors and appeals and the latter releases him.

Dugan is a son of Judge Daniel A. Dugan of Orange, a personal friend of President Wilson, who appointed him to a judgeship.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

"Go West, Young Woman," Is Advice of Feminine Voters from Oregon—They say Ranch Cooks Get Seven Dollars a Day Out There—a Great Increase in the Number of People in Boston Graveyards—Not of Dead Ones, Though, But of Curious Visitors Seeking Quaint Epitaphs—A Wild Revolutionist Turns Temperance Agitator—He says the Workingman Will Never Assert Himself Right Until He Quits Booze—Comments on Maine's Greatest Art Exhibition.

Several Hub artists are hoping and praying that the usual success will attend the greatest of Maine art exhibitions, that which Miss Nettie M. Ricker annually arranges for display in the Maine state building at Poland Spring. This art show, probably the most important of any held in New England in the summer (since the Worcester Art Museum has dropped its annual summer exhibition,) has an enviable reputation for making sales that benefit the contributing artists at a time of year when pictures must ordinarily be kept in the studio with never a hope of their being seen or purchased. For now nineteen years Boston and New York painters have been asked to send some of their latest and best works to a gallery which is frequented by guests from every part of the continent and from which many pictures have gone to western and southern homes. This year's exhibition as seen in the upper part of the historic building which was brought away from the Chicago exposition in 11 carloads and reerected on the hilltop overlooking most of western Maine, contains canvases by such Boston painters as Benson, Churchill, Paxton, Pope, Hazard and many others.

Oregon belles seeking Liberty Bell for the Panama exposition have been visiting in Boston and telling a tale to depopulate many a New England village where every other girl is foredoomed to spinsterhood. Out in the Northwest, say these energetic voters, an eastern school teacher is given just two years, on the average, in which to sign her name as "Miss." Thereafter she becomes the wife of a well to do orchardist and drives her own automobile. While she remains a maid her salary will be good, whether she teaches or engages in any other occupation open to women. Teachers out there get five dollars a day, stenographers four dollars, while ranch cooks are few and far between at six dollars a day. Many women are farm superintendents and many run their own farms. It all sounds like a romance but the young ladies from Oregon swear—gently—to its truth and urge New England girls to go where womenkind have more ginger than they have in this Bostonized neighborhood.

About this time of year look for a great increase in the number of people in Boston graveyards. Not of interments, however, but of live visitors anxious to renew acquaintance with the dead and buried past. Nothing about the Hub so appeals, it would appear, to the average American from the hinterland as its grey old burying grounds. The Granary plot is frequently opened as summer approaches and groups of pilgrims cluster around the graves of Samuel Adams, John Hancock and other Revolutionary worthies. Copp's Hill burying ground, which is far less accessible also has its quota of the seekers after the quaint and curious. It is not uncommon for one of them to spend half a day copying the epitaphs on old stones. That is why the West considers Boston a dead one.

Extremes meet, and one finds Morrison I. Swift, the storm petrol of the labor world, whom many conservative New Englanders have for years regarded as the arch enemy of society, the apostle of wild and irresponsible revolution, preaching to workingmen on the evils of alcohol and tobacco in a manner to win him the applause of the Y. C. T. U. No Sunday school superintendent could be more impassioned in denunciation of drink than this orator of the Humanist platform that meets in Franklin Union. Mr. Swift's idea, of course, is that the wage earner will never be able to think clearly and assert himself rationally until he throws off the incubus of the two enemies which keep so many men perpetually fuddled. "Science more and more insistently declares," he says, "that tobacco and drink are foremost among the power wrecking agencies. By weakening the human mechanism they consume brain strength. It would be interesting to try the effect of tobacco and liquor on a race horse on which the owner was placing a big stake. The man who would alcoholize a precious beast would be called an imbecile. Yet man is himself a more precious beast than his horse, though he does not seem to have discovered it, and the stake he is playing for is not dollars but life itself." Mr. Swift, who is personally a mild mannered and courteous little man, says that he believes brains and not force will settle all social troubles. For that reason he is counseling those who belong to the working class to "let everything that lessens vital energy alone." Whether complete sobriety among workers would cause the results that Mr. Swift predicts may be questionable; some would expect it to induce greater content with things as they are. There is at all events considerable interest in the temperance teachings of a revolutionist.

JURY CONVICTS HEAD ASSESSOR

Segee Guilty of Forging Revere's Public Records

BAIL IS DOUBLED TO $6000

Counsel For Defense Saved Two Hundred Exceptions During Trial Which Lasted Six Full Court Days—Charges Brought by Tax Collector When Clerk Found Discrepancies

Boston, June 21.—Samuel A. Segee, chairman of the Revere board of assessors, was found guilty in five counts of forgery of public records of the town of Revere, in the Suffolk superior court. Segee's bail was at once raised from $3000 to $6000. Ten years' sentence in state prison is the maximum penalty in Massachusetts for forgery. Bail for Segee was furnished last evening.

Segee heard the verdict read without a show of emotion. He was later taken to the detention room at the courthouse, while his friends made efforts to raise bonds to secure his release. It was understood the jury took but one ballot.

Segee's counsel during the trial, which lasted six full court days, noted 200 exceptions, seventy-five of which were taken on the opening day. The attorneys for Segee have three days in which to file motion for argument on the exceptions. It is also expected a motion for stay of sentence will be filed.

Segee was indicted by the grand jury on May 19. He was arrested the same day in Revere, on the charge of forging the Revere valuation lists and was later arraigned before Judge Crosby. His arrest followed charges made by Tax Collector Pendergast of Revere that the Revere town books had been falsified and that a discrepancy of $900 was shown on the books.

It was Mrs. Gladys Hamilton, clerk in the office of Pendergast, who first discovered the alleged discrepancies and brought them to the attention of Pendergast. Mrs. Hamilton was a government witness during the trial of Segee.

Segee is 60 years old. For several years he has lived apart from his wife and has been a lodger at the home of Mrs. Ida McLeod of Revere. At the trial Pendergast testified that Mrs. McLeod had been taxed $380.55 on real property, but on the tax lists she had been taxed for only $80.55. Pendergast declared the missing $300 had been found as being taxed to Ilah McLenton and as a tax on personal property. He stated that there was no such person as Ilah McLenton.

DIES IN BROTHER'S ARMS

Young Woman Killed In Crash of Trolley Cars at Boston

Boston, June 21.—While her brother, John Russell, a conductor, stood on the platform of his car, powerless to aid, Sarah J. Russell, 25 years old, was crushed to death between two cars at the public garden entrance to the subway. She died in her brother's embrace en route to the City hospital in a taxicab.

Another woman, Mrs. James Newton, 35 years old, was hurled from the platform of one of the cars by the shock, and impaled upon one of the sharp iron spikes of the fence surrounding the public garden.

The motorman of the car responsible for the accident, William Kelley, was arrested on the charge of manslaughter.

SENTENCE OF BESSETTE

Bank Teller Who Embezzled $40,000 Is Given Three Years

Providence, June 21.—For embezzling $40,000 from the Peoples Savings bank in Woonsocket, of which he was teller, a sentence of three years' imprisonment was imposed upon Herbengilde Bessette by Judge Rathbun in the superior court.

Bessette was found guilty on four indictments and was given three years on each charge, the terms to run concurrently.

A petition for probation, signed by the mayor and three former mayors of Woonsocket, Senator Bennett, and the directors and trustees of the bank, was presented by his counsel. Bessette made restitution of $9000.

LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS

Senate Passes Nine-In-Eleven-Hour Carmen's Bill Over Veto

Boston, June 21.—Governor Foss prorogued the general court just before 6 o'clock last night after a day of excitement caused by the fight over the 9-in-11-hour carmen's bill, which went over his veto in the senate by a vote of 26 to 11. All the afternoon the legislature enjoyed a mock session.

The last bill to become a law in spite of a veto was the one increasing the pay of the district police $250 a man. It went through the senate by a vote of 30 to 5.

Governor Foss established a record with the legislature of 1913 by his veto of thirty-two measures.

The legislature has passed ten of these measures over his veto, and also establishes a record, for nine was the number of bills passed over the governor's veto last year, and nine were passed over the veto in 1911.

Twelve measures have become a law without the governor's signature. Twenty-two vetoes have been sustained.

In 1912 his vetoes reached a total of twenty and in 1911 a total of twenty-five.

"GREATEST IN THE WORLD"

Carter Warns of Railroad Strike In Urging Larger Peace Board

Washington, June 21.—Declaring that unless some plan were devised to broaden the Erdman mediation act the country would face a tie-up by strikes on railroads, President Carter of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen urged the senate and house commerce committees, in joint session, to approve the Newlands measure, which is intended to increase the membership of the arbitration board provided in the Erdman act.

"Unless something is done very quickly," Carter declared, "the country is likely to see the greatest railroad strike in the world, as the railroad trainmen and conductors are now balloting upon a strike. The 80,000 involved men are threatening a strike because the railroad managers have absolutely refused to arbitrate points in dispute. A larger arbitration board, I believe, might solve the difficulty."

SCHROEDER NOT TO BLAME FOR WRECK

Engineer Was Charged With Having Caused Forty Deaths

Hornellsville, N. Y., June 21.—William H. Shroeder, engineer of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, was acquitted of the charges of manslaughter in connection with the wreck at Corning, July 4, when forty passengers were killed.

He was indicted at the time, but the indictment was quashed on the recommendation of former District Attorney Smith, who was a candidate for surrogate. He was reindicted after W. H. Truesdale, president of the railroad, had written Governor Sulzer that the indictment had been quashed as the result of a "political bargain."

WILEY MAKES DENIAL

Never Agreed to Lecture For Beet Sugar Producers' Association

Boston, June 21.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, formerly chief of the federal bureau of chemistry, who came to Boston for commencement at Harvard, says he never agreed to deliver a series of lectures for the United States Beet Sugar Producers' association, as charged at a hearing before the senate lobby investigating committee.

"It is true," he said, "that after I left the government service and was considering propositions to earn a livelihood I was approached by a representative of the Beet Sugar Growers' association.

"I never accepted the proposal. I found on investigation that the proposition had been misrepresented to me. The charge that I had agreed to deliver a few lectures in the middle west in the June preceding the national conventions of 1912 is an unqualified falsehood."

YALE IS NEVER IN THE RUNNING

Every Event on Thames River Is Won by Harvard

ANNUAL RACE A PROCESSION

Crimson Crew In Fine Condition at Finish, While Blues Are Played Out—Freshmen Win Hard-Fought Contest by Half a Length and 'Varsity Four Lead by Six Lengths

'Varsity eight-oared race—Harvard took the lead after passing the first half mile mark and pulled away in such form that the Yale crew was left exhausted nearly ten lengths behind at the finish of the four miles. Harvard's time for the distance was 21m. 42s; Yale's 22m. 20s.

'Varsity four-oared race—The Yale four closely pressed the Harvard four for the first half mile, rowing a higher stroke. Harvard plugged away at an even stroke and from that time on gradually increased her lead until six lengths of open water was between the two crews at the finish. Harvard's time for this race was 11m. 52s.; Yale, 12m. 11s.

Freshman eight-oared race—The freshman race was a contest from start to finish, Harvard winning by one length in 10m. 45s. The Eli youngsters covered the two-mile course in 10m. 45s. At the half-mile mark Harvard led by half a length, and at the mile by a length. Going to the mile and a half Yale gained slightly, only to lose water again going to the finish.

Sixth Straight Victory

New London, Conn., June 21.—For the sixth year in succession and for the seventh time in the last eight years Harvard showed its rudder to Yale, which for the first time in the history of the classic meeting between the two colleges put Harvard in the lead of races won and lost. There have been forty-seven races rowed, Harvard winning twenty-four and Yale taking twenty-three.

Almost ten boat lengths separated the two 'varsity crews when the cannon shot from the committee boat at the finish. Those who came to New London to witness a boat race went away disappointed, for instead of the close and exciting race which was predicted by rowing authorities the event developed into a procession.

While the string of defeats was a bitter pill for Yale to swallow, the remarkable line of victories has brought joy into the hearts of every Harvard supporter and New London never witnessed such a celebration as Harvard men had last night.

Everywhere squads of Harvard men celebrated their clean sweep by parading about the streets with red lights in one hand and a large broom in the other. The town fairly rang with the cheers of Harvard, while the colors of the Crimson were everywhere to be seen.

The Harvard crews started at early morn to clean up their Eli rivals, and in the first race of the day the Harvard 'varsity four defeated the Eli 'varsity four by five lengths.

The freshman race followed, and in justice to the embryo oarsmen it must be stated that they presented the best race of the day. Harvard won by less than half a length in one of the hardest fought and closest races ever fought between rival crews at New London.

It is estimated that about 50,000 people witnessed the 'varsity race, for they were located at every available point along the four miles of river bank lining the course, while a crowd of 10,000 people jammed themselves on the banks at both ends of the big railroad bridge, and many thousands saw the race from canoes, sailboats, power boats, excursion steamers and pleasure yachts.

Early in the race the Yale crew had a gripping catch with a steady upheave for a pull through and the long finish. The finish of the stroke was very distinctive, inasmuch as the men were almost lying on their backs at this point of the stroke, appearing to rely on the body swing for a large part of the work, in direct opposition to the Harvard stroke, which called for the men relying more on the drive with the legs to send the boat ahead. Harvard's stroke was finished with the men almost on the perpendicular, their bodies exemplifying rhythm rather than power.

The smooth going stroke with the power behind it pushed the shell along at an even keep, the boat gliding along smoothly, not appearing to slacken up between strokes. The Harvard men finished in excellent condition, every man sitting up when the finish line was reached.

On the contrary, the stroke used by Yale, which gives every indication of tearing a man to pieces, completely fatigued the Yale crew. When the Elihu Root pulled up alongside the Eli shell to take the defeated oarsmen aboard it was a relief, for no man in the boat was any too sure of his bearings.

The Harvard crew finished in splendid condition and the crew of 1913 will long be remembered by those who viewed the procession. Harvard had the better crew and won, Yale making a game fight to stave off a defeat.

ASKS ERECTION OF NEW PRISON

Grand Jury Presentment Describes Sing Sing Horrors

NOT EVEN FIT FOR ANIMALS

Inmates Forced to Be Doubled Up In Vermin-Infested Cells, Some of Which Have Never Been Penetrated by Sunlight—Men Permanently Crippled and Driven Insane

White Plains, N. Y., June 21.—In a presentment recommending that the present Sing Sing state prison at Ossining be abandoned and a new prison built, the Westchester county grand jury denounced the cells of the penal institution as "unfit for housing animals, much less human beings," and the situation at Sing Sing as "a scandal to the state." No reference to Warden Kennedy is made in the document handed to Supreme Court Justice Tompkins.

The jury asks that a fertile and well located site of from 500 to 1000 acres be chosen for a new prison and that, if it be legal, the legislature at its pfesent extra session take immediate action in the matter. Some of the evils which the jury declares exist at Sing Sing are as follows:

The cell house was built in 1825, and there are many cells where sunlight never penetrates, hence chills and dampness exist, as the house is only a few feet above tidewater.

Many inmates have rheumatism and others have left the prison permanently crippled or suffering with organic heart troubles.

Cells are infested with vermin, which, on account of the physical construction of the cell block, it is impossible to exterminate.

During the last two years as many as 2000 prisoners have been lodged at one time, whereas the capacity is 1200.

Men who are dangerous and who are repugnant to one another are forced to be doubled up in cells, and there are instances of convicts in pronounced state of tuberculosis being housed with men in perfect health.

Men have been driven insane by incarceration in the "dark cell" or "the cooler" and have lost from twenty-five to thirty-five pounds in weight and in consequence of agony and suffering have attempted suicide.

The medical staff is inadequate and at night there is no physician on the premises.

The mess hall is inadequate and some prisoners are not properly fed. Contagious disease cases are not segregated and the hospital is infested with vermin. The only cooked food served is boiled, there being no other means of cooking.

SCALE MT. M'KINLEY

Archdeacon Stuck and Two Others Reach the Highest Peak

Seattle, June 21.—Archdeacon Hudson Stuck, the Episcopal missionary who set out from Fairbanks, Alaska, several months ago to climb Mt. McKinley, reached the summit of the highest peak of the great mountain June 7, according to a private cable dispatch received here.

The message, which was sent by Stuck from Fairbanks, said in part:

"Expedition successful. Accomplished first complete ascent of Mt. McKinley June 7. H. P. Karstens, R. G. Tatum, Walter Harper and I reached top of south, the highest of all peaks. The present estimate of the summit's height is upward of 20,500 feet.

"After completing observations on the summit we hoisted the American flag on the upper basin, erected a six-foot cross and said 'Te Deum' on the highest point of North America."

Boston, June 21.—Twenty barrels, marked bananas, but containing, under a layer of fruit, bottled liquor destined for the prohibition state of Maine, were seized in Boston and Maine freight sheds here by United States Deputy Marshal Cameron as not being properly marked for shipment as required by law.

All were large sugar barrels with false heads covered with bananas and burlap. Underneath were pint and half pint bottles of whiskey, gin, rum and 100 gallons of alcohol distributed in 20-gallon cans. The consignment was billed to a store in Waterville, Me.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SPRING GREENS.

EARLY vegetables are high, but if you live in the country nature offers many wild substitutes for these. Old fashioned country people will tell you that dock, plantain, lambs quarter, sorrel and dandelion, if cooked like spinach, can scarcely be distinguished from it.

The sour, narrow dock is claimed to be excellent for the blood. Dandelion is recommended for stomach troubles.

Salads may be made with fresh young dandelion leaves or pepper grass.

A Novel Soup.

Puree of Sorrel.—Gather a half peck of the sorrel and clean it by washing through several baths of cold water. Then cut off the stems, the leaves only being used. Pour a cupful of cold water into a saucepan, add a teaspoonful of salt. Put this on the fire, and when it boils throw in the sorrel leaves. Cover the saucepan and let boil for twenty minutes; then drain and chop fine. Press through a colander and place it again in the saucepan, adding a tablespoonful of butter a half cupful of veal stock, and salt and pepper to taste. Let it come to the boil and then serve.

Use Only Young Stalks.

Poke On Toast.—Only the young shoots of the poke are available for this. They should not be over four inches long and with only a tuft of leaves at the top. If they are more mature they are likely to be poisonous. Wash and lay them in cold water for an hour. Tie them together to form a bundle like asparagus. Put into a kettle of boiling water and boil for three-quarters of an hour. Then drain, lay on buttered toast, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with drawn butter and serve.

A Roadside Plant.

Wilted Dandelions.—Pick a quarter peck of the dandelions, wash, drain and shake until dry. Cut the leaves into small pieces. Beat an egg till it is light and then mix a half cupful of cream with it. Stir over the fire until it is thick. Then add a piece of butter the size of a walnut, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, salt and pepper to taste. Put the dandelions into this and stir over the fire till they are wilted and tender.

Long of Hingham, who is popular in Braintree, presentation of keys by Charles C. Mellen, chairman of building committee, acceptance of keys by Hon. B. Herbert Woodsum, selectman. It is hoped and expected that the business places will close at 12 o'clock on this day.

HIGH SCHOOL RECEPTION.

The reception to the class of 1913, Braintree high school was held in the Town hall last Thursday evening and was a most enjoyable affair. The floral decorations were ferns, hydrangeas, palms and other potted plants. Music was furnished by Atkinson's orchestra of eight pieces. There were about 1000 persons present and the grand march was led by the principal, Dr. L. Paul Chapin and Mrs. Chapin followed by about 200 couples. To Dr. and Mrs. Chapin belongs the distinction of being the first couple to dance upon the floor of the new hall.

The class prophecy was given by Miss Pauline Scollard and the history by Miss Helen French. Both papers were witty and full of "knocks" which elicited laughter and applause. The class gifts with their verses descriptive of some foible or vanity of each recipient were distributed by Joseph O'Brien. The popular janitor of the High school, John H. Macandrew was not forgotten, his gift being a frying pan, presumably for the preparation of quick lunches. Dancing and sociability were enjoyed until a late hour.

KINCAIDE THEATRE, QUINCY.

Those eleven clever artists called "The Kincaide Players" are scoring a big success at Quincy's pretty playhouse. Every three days they change their play and each succeeding skit seems better than before. "What happened in Holland" now being told, is a Quaint Dutch Musical Comedy written by one of the company, Jarvis Jocelyn. It's rich in mirth, music and melody. Vaudeville attractions include Fitch B. Cooper, the rube comedian with his musical saws. The Boldens, a clever couple of colored entertainers, have s mighty good novelty act. Beginning Monday the Kincaide Players present a good old Irish musical revue entitled "The Fair in Tipperrary." There are many song hits, and lots of good dancing in this skit which is fun from beginning to end. Charlie Farrell, a real old Southern darkey is one of the vaudeville attractions. Several big fans have recently been installed, so that the house is cool and comfortable even in the hottest weather.

QUINCY MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Victim was Alton H. Tripp of Wollaston Daniel Dowling Also Injured

Automobile Turned Turtle at Foot of Tower Hill, Braintree

LATEST

Daniel Derley, the injured man was taken from the Quincy City Hospital at 1.50 today to the Quincy police station where he confessed to Captain Daniel R. McKay that he was one of the three that stole the machine. He said the missing man was his brother George E. Derley and that Tripp, whose body was found beside the overturned car was operating when the accident occurred. He and Tripp, according to his confession left Wollaston in the afternoon for the beach. When they arrived they met George Derley and after companionship they celebrated by taking the machine, a short time after the garage fire was extinguished.

One Quincy man lost his life and another, Daniel Dowling also of Quincy is at the City Hospital suffering from a fractured wrist and leg and injured back as a result of an automobile accident, at Braintree late Sunday night, which is somewhat shrouded in mystery. The dead man is Alton H. Tripp, aged 23 years of 267 Safford street, Wollaston and the seriously injured man is Daniel Dowling of 5 Old Colony avenue, Wollaston.

The accident took place near the corner of Pond street and Butler road but just when it happened is not known, as the fact that there had been an accident was not discovered until the last car from Randolph passed the spot. They discovered the car upside down with a dead man beneath it. They then hurried on to Braintree where Officer Shea was notified. The car then took him back to the scene.

On searching near the scene of the accident Dowling was found lying in a field where he had been thrown.

The license number of the car was 38218 and is registered in the name of William W. Pettus of North Abington. Mr. Pettus license was also found in the car. Late in the evening Mr. Pettus visited the Quincy police station and said that his automobile had been stolen at Nantasket beach during the excitement of a garage fire.

Dowling the injured man was treated by Drs. Weston and Sullivan. During a brief interval of consciousness he said that there was a third man whom he did not know. He further said that he and Tripp were at the Cleveland house, Nantasket when the man asked them if they did not want a ride and not suspecting that the car was not his they accepted. All went well until teh accident which had been caused by the car skidding. It would seem that as the car was going up Tower hill more power had been put on and that the car had skidded and turned turtle. Dowling was thrown out into the field but Tripp was buried beneath the car and his life crushed out, probably killing him at once.

Who the third man was is not known as Dowling did not know. He probably escaped uninjured and lost no time in getting out of the way. The police however believe that the missing man made his way on foot to Randolph. Carl Bangs says that he saw three men running about the car just after the accident but that they disappeared as he approached. At Randolph it was learned that a man had hired a team to take him to Brockton and they notified the Brockton police to try and trace him.

Tripp was a son of George A. Tripp a well known Wollaston painter and was employed by his father. His parents were shocked and horrified when informed of the accident. They said that they did not know anything about Dowling and that their son went to ride Sunday morning with a friend and they thought probably that he might have gone to Nantasket.

It was learned this morning that the name of the injured man is probably Daniel Durling , a resident of Brockton, who is employed as a carpenter by Fred Boyden of Wollaston, an uncle.

A short time before the accident was discovered by John Burke, a large automobile, with dimly burning headlights and no rear lights, containing three people, passed School street and turned up Franklin street. Several who saw it remarked that it was travelling at dangerous speed. They place the time at about 11.15, about 10 minutes before the accident is supposed to have occured.

Chief of Police Hunt of Braintree who has been investigating the automobile accident Sunday night has learned that the third man in the party walked from Braintree to Randolph, where he secured a ride on a passing team and rode into Brockton where he disappeared. Search is being made in and about Brockton for the man.

Chief Hunt said this noon that if Durling, who is now in the hospital should make any attempt to escape that he would be immediately placed under arrest and held until the investigation was completed. At the hospital this noon it was said that Durling was doing well.

HOWLETT—MERRILL.

Saturday afternoon, June 21st at 5 o'clock in Hopkinton, N. H., was solemnized the marriage of James David Howlett, head master of the Medford High school and Miss Agnes Morrill of Hopkinton. The ceremony took place in St. Andrews church, a quaint little stone structure of gothic style, sheltered by stately elms that have stood guard through many generations. The church was effectively decorated with pine boughs and mountain laurel. Unattended, the bridal party proceeded to the altar to the strains of Lohengrin, and were married by Bishop Niles. Just outside the church, the bride and groom lingered to give the guests an opportunity to congratulate them.

After a short honeymoon at Brier Hill farm, Mr. and Mrs. Howlett will sail for Europe, where they will spend the summer. Mr. Howlett for two years and a half was head master of the Quincy High school during which time he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Emery L. Crane of Whitney road making many friends here. He was also president of the Associated Charities, resigning when he went to Medford.

SOCIETY EVENT AT WOLLASTON

Brilliant Church Wedding at Congregational Church

WESTON--MOULTON

Wollaston and Quincy society people were present in large numbers Saturday evening at the wedding of Miss Elsie Clive Moulton, daughter of Mrs. Eben Moulton and one of Wollaston's most popular young ladies, to Mr. Louis Bailey Weston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Weston, who is prominently identified with the S. S. Pierce Co., of Boston both also being very prominent in musical circles.

The ceremony took place at the Wollaston Congregational church at 8 o'clock the officiating clergyman being Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D.

The color scheme of the decorations at the church were pink and white and were in charge of Luard. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, an aunt of the groom presided at the organ and the bridal party entered the church to the inspiring strains of Mendelssohns wedding march, preceded by the ushers, the flower girl, two bridesmaids, the maid of honor and the bride leaning on the arm of her brother Mr. Clarence H. Moulton who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and the best man Mr. William Ellis Weston of Wollaston a brother of the groom.

The bride wore a white satin gown with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The maid of honor Miss Abbie B. Penley wore a pink charmeuse with chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Eva Hungerford of New London, Ct., and Miss Florence W. Griswold of Hartford Ct., both of whom wore blue violet over pale pink charmeuse carrying a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

The flower girl was Miss Dorothy Lunbert of Philadelphia, Pa., a cousin of the bride, who wore a gown of white.

The ushers were brothers of the groom, Mr. Ray Francis Weston of Portland, Me., Harvard '07; Mr. George Bennett of Hudson, Mass., Brown '12; Mr. Ralph Washburn Weston of Waterville, Me., Colby '15, and Mr. Winslow Bradford Weston of Wollaston.

Following the ceremony at the church there was a reception at the home of the bride 204 Belmont street from 8.30 to 10 o'clock, which was very largely attended. The decorations at the home were wild flowers in great profusion, roses, peonies, syringa and ferns.

HAS MAYOR THE AUTHORITY?

New Phase Relative to Appointment in Fire Department

Since the announcement several days ago that the Mayor intended to appoint A. L. Mead as captain at the Central fire station, but little has been heard and as far as known no movement has been made to carry out the idea.

Persons interested in fire department matters however have not been quiet, but have been questioning to learn where the Mayor gets his power to appoint members of the Fire department. For years it has been recognized that the appointment of permanent and call men under the civil service rules was entirely in the hands of the Chief Engineer although he would doubtless receive suggestions from the Mayor in regard to whom should be appointed. Never has an appointment been made to the call or permanent force of the Fire Department by any other person except the Chief Engineer until the present time. Even the appointment of men earlier in the year were made on requisitions by the Chief Engineer and the question that arises, when did the Mayor wake up to the fact that he was the appointing power.

Several years ago, when the case of a man in the permanent department who had been removed came up in the superior court at Dedham, it was brought out that the Mayor had no right to suspend a permanent man and had no authority to give such a suspended man a hearing. The result of the matter was that it cost the city quite a sum to settle the case.

There is nothing in the City Charter or ordinances that covers this particular point unless it is the ordinance establishing the Fire department, section 3, which provides that "The Chief of the Fire Department shall have sole and absolute control and command of all the members of the department."

Further on in the same section it is provided "He may suspend officers or members and shall forthwith report such expensions to the Mayor."

Now if under the ordinance the chief has absolute control, and has the power to suspend, the question comes, where does the Mayor get his authority to appoint a captain? The logical conclusion is that it is up to Chief Litchfield to appoint a captain and not the Mayor. The chief being under the Mayor would naturally be governed by the wishes of the Mayor.

DREW—NASH.

George Kittredge Drew, of 38 South Central avenue, Wollaston and Miss Louise H. Nash of Abington were married at the Congregational church of that town Saturday in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends which taxed the capacity of the church.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. F. Hawkes, the pastor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mabel H. Clark of Kingston and Miss Phyllis K. Lean of Abington. Nathan Drew, the brother of the groom was the best man.

The bridal party was escorted into the church by five young girls who sang the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as they proceeded down the aisle.

A reception followed at the home of the parents of the bride Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Nash who assisted in receiving. The gifts were many. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Drew will reside in Wollaston.

BREAKING GAS LAMPS.

Two boys were arrested on Babcock street Houghs Neck Sunday night by Officer Farrell for throwing stones at street gas lamps. There were four boys in the crowd but two of them got away. The two boys arrested were George Bieiler aged 14 years of Jamaica Plain, and Gerald Kelly of Jamaica Plain. They were later allowed to go home in the custody of friends and will be brought before the juvenile court Tuesday.

BATTLESHIP HAS BEEN ASSIGNED TO QUINCY

The Michigan, One of Largest War Ships Here for the Fourth

Officers of Battleship Assured of a Royal Welcome

It has now been assured that one of Uncle Sams big fighting ships will be in Quincy waters on the Fourth for in the assignment of war vessels it is stated that the battleship Michigan has been assigned to Quincy. According to the orders issued by the navy department the battleship will arrive off Quincy Thursday July 3, and will leave on the morning of July 6, for Narraganset Bay.

Up to Saturday night however Mayor Stone had not received official notice of the assignment of the Michigan to Quincy but his mail today will probably bring official notice.

As the battleships carry a band this means that another musical organization will appear in the morning parade. Now that it has been decided about the battleship ex-Mayor William T. Shea, chairman of the reception committee will get busy and arrange for the proper entertainment of the officers and jackies of the vessel.

A meeting of the general committee was held Saturday evening and some routine business transacted. Chairman Gauthier of the Ward Three committee announced what he had done in the way of collecting funds and at Thursday nights meeting of the committee it is expected that a detailed report of collections in the several wards will be made.

This morning Mayor Stone received the following communication from E. E. Capehart, Captain of the battleship

GRADUATION DAY.

The American people like forms, ceremonies, and "functions." The senior boys, who don't quite know how to find places for all their arms and legs, would be glad to receive their diplomas out back of the school house. Not so for the girls, who have undergone weary hours of dressmaking, nor for the admiring relatives, who want the wide world to know what their young folks have done.

The American people make great sacrifices to educate their children. The only midnight oil consumed nowadays is what the parents burn in earning the tuition fees. For the children it is a history of pleasant work, exhilarating social life, thrilling athletics. It looks like one land of holiday when Commencement day rings down the final curtain on this scene of pleasure.

No cloud of doubt obscures the graduate's view of the future. American friendliness to education has so far removed the rocks from the way. Who can doubt that the pilgrim path yet to be trod will be equally smooth? Who would speak his doubts if he had them?

SUMMER SUPPLIES.

Formerly when the vacation habit was not developed, trade used to slacken a little at this time. In this restless age, people are about ready to move on to summer resorts, or to visit their country or city cousins. As one always puts his best foot forward in going among strangers, a whole lot of purchases are being made.

The advertising columns of this newspaper tell where you can buy all kinds of summer, outing, vacation, and athletic supplies to advantage. The merchants usually shade prices at this time of year. They are already fearful of carrying stock over until fall. If you have things to buy, you can save money by reading the news from the stores.

A considerable number of strangers are in town now. Most of them buy the local newspaper to see what is going on here. To these transient readers, it can be said that the local stores are well worth a visit. The advertising columns of the Daily Ledger supply a directory of enterprising merchants.

Gen. Wood says the army would be 12,000 officers short if there was a war. There are the Kentucky colonels though.

The department of agriculture claims American farmers lose $50,000,000 through bad eggs. In the present condition of the theatre and the political platform, they have their uses though.

Chief Justice White, now a doctor of laws, is making several visits daily to a very distinguished patient, Mr. Sherman Law, who has a complication of disorders.

President Wilson worked some on his message the other Sunday, but it is not true that he charges time and a half for overtime.

The people who came in on the stern of the big Imperator must have got up quite an appetite walking up to the wharf.

McDEVITT GETS HIS PAY CHECK

First Visit to State House Since His Suspension in March

CHECK WAS $55

Senator John J. McDevitt made his first visit to the State House since his suspension from the senate March 13, until he publicly apologized for having made charges against a fellow legislator which he could not substantiate, his visits being for the purpose of drawing what salary there was due him.

McDevitt's sensational charges were made at a meeting in Wollaston where he alleged that he had been approached by a legislator in the interest of a certain bill, and that he had been offered a bribe. As a result of these charges an investigation was held by a committee of the legislature and Representative Buckley was completely exhonorated and McDevitt was not only publicly reprimanded but ordered to be suspended until such time as he should publicly apologize. This he absolutely refused to do, with the result that since that time Quincy has not been represented in the senate.

Saturday McDevitt put in an appearance at the Treasurer's office to draw his salary. As his pay had stopped the minute he was suspended there was but $401.05 due him for services out of the salary of $1,000. McDevitt had already drawn $365 of his salary at the time of suspension so that all he got Saturday was $56. After receipting for the money he left the State House refusing to disclose his plans for next year.

BRYAN BACKS CURRENCY BILL

Expects It to Have Republicans' Cordial Support

WILSON URGES ITS PASSAGE

Appears Before Joint Session of Congress and Delivers Message—Senators March In Body to House For Second Time In More Than a Hundred Years

Washington, June 23.—The president went to congress again today to deliver the second message of his administration. As when President Wilson submitted his ideas on tariff reform, congress met in joint session in the chamber of the house to hear his message on currency legislation.

For the second time in more than a hundred years upon such an occasion the senate marched in a body to the house chamber at 12:30 o'clock. The front rows were reserved for the senators, members of the house crowding into the rear seats. President Wilson arrived at 1 o'clock and, being presented by Speaker Clark, delivered his message urging currency legislation before the close of the special session.

On the eve of this extraordinary occasion Secretary Bryan issued a statement on the currency bill prepared by Chairmen Glass and Owen of the congressional banking and currency committees, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and the president. Bryan gave his "unreserved" endorsement to the proposed measure, and removed all doubt as to his position with reference to currency reform, the ideas of the president and the necessity for immediate action.

"I feel sure that the Democrats of the senate and house will rally to the support of the bill," said Bryan, "and I am sanguine enough to believe that it will receive a cordial support from Republicans as well."

Despite the opinions of many house and senate members against the wisdom of enacting currency legislation at this session, administration leaders say they are at a loss to understand, in view of the urgency with which Wilson presents the situation, coupled with the statement from the secretary of state, how there can be any hesitation on the part of congress in complying with the president's desires.

The currency bill will be introduced in both houses, and the house banking and currency committee is expected to meet early this week to begin consideration of the measure.

RHOADS RESIGNS

President Wilson's Military Aide Finds He Has Little to Do

Reading, Pa., June 23.—Major Thomas L. Rhodes of Boyertown has written personal friends here that he has tendered his resignation as aide de camp to President Wilson.

The public reason given by Rhoads for his resignation is that he desires to resume his work in surgery and medicine at a hospital in Washington, with which he was connected when he was appointed aide de camp to President Taft.

The private reason given is that Wilson has absolutely no use for an aide de camp, even though, as commander-in-chief of the army, the regulations prescribe that he shall have one, and that, with President Wilson, unlike President Taft, the aide de camp doesn't have enough to do to keep himself warm.

BURNS IN HIS HOME

Sheriff's Force Sets Fire to House In Which Man Stands at Bay

Oroville, Wash., June 23.—J. H. Ethel, charged with arson, successfully defied the efforts of a sheriff's force to take him alive. The officers set fire to his home after riddling it with bullets. Ethel's body was found in the ruins. One deputy was fatally wounded and another seriously hurt by Ethel's return fire.

Ethel, a sawmill owner, was charged with arson and ran away. Officers pursued him to his home. He turned his family out of doors and stood off the officers with a rifle.

Kelley was represented by John C. Jones of the Boston Elevated, and on the latter's recommendation the case was continued until June 27. The motorman was released on $2000 bail.

Bill to Register Lobbyists

Washington, June 23.—Senator Thompson introduced a bill for the registration of lobbyists in Washington and the appointment of a house and senate joint committee on lobbying.

LIPPINCOTT'S PATRIOTIC.

The July Lippincott's out today has a strong patriotic flavor. The leading special article is "When History Repeats," by Colonel Willard French. It is an appeal for saneness and deliberation in efforts to change our Constitution, and points out the possible dangers which lie in the adoption of the Initiative, the Referendum, and the Recall, about which so many prate glibly without more than a superficial understanding of what they mean. Every voter and every would-be voter will find much to ponder in this paper. Elizabeth Maury Coombs contributes a charming tale of an old Confederate veteran entitled "Not in Action Sun." "'Tween Night an' Mornin'" is a story of the American Revolution by Gertrude S. Mathews and John L. Mathews. "Celebration," by Helen Coale Crew, is a clever Fourth of July paper. "Gettysburg," by H. Percival Allen, is a timely poem of unusual merit. The complete novel is "Monte Carlo and Julia," by Margaret Stacpoole.

ST. JOHN'S GOLDEN JUBILEE CLOSES

Children's Day Saturday on Parish School Grounds, With Sports, etc.

Solemn High Vespers Closes Celebration

The golden jubilee of St. John's parish closed Sunday evening with a solemn high vespers, celebrated by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon and Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan was subdeacon. Thomas Clarkin was master of ceremonies In the morning a solemn high mass was sung by Rev. John J. Coan with Rev. Fr. John J. Casey as deacon and Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins as sub-deacon. Music for both services was by an augmented choir.

One of the most acceptable souveniers of the anniversary was the history of the parish which was distributed at late mass Sunday. The arrival of the first priests and the gradual growth of the parish are treated in conversational style and affords the reader a wealth of information hitherto unknown.

Saturday was Children's Day, and how they did enjoy it. Packed around the booths set in the Parish schoolyard and eagerly watched the few athletic events. When the all star team of grammar boys defeated the Parish school team in a six innings contest, 9 to 1 they were disappointed.

"Verne" Arbuckle pitched for the winners. He had a strong team behind him and they made good iwth the stick, so good in fact that Swain who is hardly eligible in school boys' contests was allowed to fill in for Vanner. However, Swain forced two men and was touched up quite a bit.

The one hand catch of Costello in deep left prevented possible injury to a large gathering of children who were directly in the path of the ball. They were interested in the musical program of the St. John's orchestra and were wholly unaware of their danger. Not until a few had recovered their balance which they lost when Costello plunged into the thick of them did they realize how narrow had been their escape. "Young" Moynihan from Main street picked a couple of long drives out of the air and closed the innings each time when men were on base.

The work of the winning team was good throughout. A few errors were made. The Parish school boys opened the first innings by throwing the ball around. They tightened up after the second but were too slow for Arbuckle's combination.

Gloves, bats and balls were the prizes given the winners and the girls were awarded useful souveniers. The athletic results were as follows:—

100 yd. dash, first heat, won by James Gilcoine, Cyril McGerigle, second, Arturio DiCenso, third.

Second heat won by Edward Barry Maurice Horrigan, second; John Moynihan, third.

Third heat, won by M. Horrigan, Bert Reed, second; Salvatori Sarno, third.

Fourth heat, won by Daniel Horrigan, John Sheahan, second; Joseph Cahill, third.

Fifth heat, won by Leonard Ferguson, Thomas Currie, second; Clarence McDonald, third.

Semi finals, first heat, won by James Gilcoine, Edward Barry, second, Cyril McGerigle, third.

Second heat, won by John Moynihan, Leonard Ferguson, second, Maurice Horrigan, third.

Final heat won by James Gilcoine, Cyril McGerigle, second.

220 yd dash—won by Maurice Horrigan, James Gilcoine, second; John Wrenn, third.

Girls race, 12 to 15 years—won by Julia Moynihan, Margaret Horrigan, second.

Girls race, under 12—won by Rose LaSante, Rosie Norris, second Lillian Reed, third.

The base ball score:

JULY 4th COLLECTIONS.

Editor Daily Ledger:

Firmly believing that all men are created in the image of God, and that therefore they will accept the eternal truth if it is presented right, and further believing that its acceptance or rejection depends not so much on the attitude of the mind of the one receiving it as on understanding by the presenter of the way to first tear down in the presentee's mind those thoughts or ideas which though false are accepted as axioms by the holder, I am writing to present to the people of Quincy through this and other papers an idea for their acceptance or rejection.

At this point I want to thank the members of the Quincy 4th of July Association and 25th Anniversary Committee for their kind and patient consideration of this idea presented in a bungling and too personal way by the writer Thursday night, and furthermore compliment them on the breadth and scope of their plans which takes into consideration those details which tend to make the perfect whole, and regret that the lack of ability to speak in public and thereby persuade them to adopt an idea for a great enlargement of their plans makes it necessary to appeal from their decision to the people who gave them their authority.

Last year in Quincy Point and other parts of the city there were local celebrations for the citizens who could or would not wander far from their homes, and the citizens thereof paid for them as well as contributed towards the main celebration. Now this is manifestly a hardship, for the majority of the contributors to the local celebrations are working people whose contribution of 50 cents or a $1.00 or more to both funds is an amount that compared to their income is from 100 to 10,000 times greater than what most of those who gave from $5.00 to $25.00 to the main celebration could afford, and therefore if this double contribution can be avoided to the mutual interest of all it should be done.

Now a patriotic celebration to be of any great value must have everybody in the city interested. If every one of the 40,000 population of Quincy is interested on an average of 10 cents worth, we would have $4000.00 plus $999.00 voted by the city, which would give us more money than the committee is planning to spend, and the committee granted it would be desirable, if it could be done, to have the money so raised.

Now to put it up to each of the six wards to do their part, it is proposed that all collections for local affairs be suspended and that the Central Committee vote 30 per cent or some other agreed per cent of the amount collected by each ward towards the expenses of a local celebration managed by a duly authorized organization. This would leave 70 per cent from each wards collection for the main celebration.

Last year the attendance at the main fireworks was by estimate of the committee from 35,000 to 40,000. As it is certain that not over half of our population attended this celebration it is self-evident that the surrounding towns enjoyed something for which they did not pay—which is all right, for good should be enjoyed by all. But how about the people who contributed towards it who were refused a percentage of their own money to take care of the comfort of those who desired or had to stay near home.

From 2500 to 3000 witnessed our local celebration in Quincy Point besides hundreds in Germantown on the other side of the river. The situation is illustrated by the following table:

Residents of Quincy at main celebration	25,000
At local celebrations in each of the wards assuming there were such, and each ward has equal population, 2500 at each totals	15,000
	$40,000

As 2,500 is 6 1-3 per cent of 40,000 and this per cent is over 38 per cent of the money that each ward should furnish, based on conditions stated in table which requires that each of the six wards furnish on an average of 16 1-3 per cent of the money and as some of the events of the day will take place in each ward or touch each ward for which the city as a whole has appropriated $999.00, I will leave it to the experts to figure out how much less than 38 per cent of what they collect should be assigned to each ward. I do not desire to be known by the public in connection with this idea as it is not original with me and I am only the instrument of the many people who believe in it and that it is based on a sense of fair play and cooperation and a patriotism that is broad enough to take in the whole world when that world has shown it is fit but not so broad as to overlook the interests of one's own immediate locality.

In conclusion I would suggest that your readers, if they believe in this idea, and want the committee to know it, write a postal card or letter to the Mayor who is president of the association and say they believe in the idea for 10 cents worth or more for each member of the family, as the case may be, and thereby secure a condition of feeling which will unite the people of Quincy as a unit behind our 4th of July and 25th Anniversary Celebration.

A Citizen of Quincy Point. and President of Pt. Church Men's Class and Washington School Parents and Teachers Association.

FOURTH IN WEYMOUTH.

The people of Weymouth are entering into the celebration of the Fourth with much enthusiasm judging by an article in the Weymouth Times of Friday under the heading of "The Fourth is coming and so are the funds." We quote from the piece as an encouragement to our committee on the Fourth. Quincy being a much larger place than Weymouth it is harder to arouse enthusiasm and also it takes more money to make the celebration one that will reach all parts of the city.

"Did you hear the bugle and listen to the spell-binders last Saturday night? The chairman and secretary accompanied by Russell B. Worster as chauffeur and George A. White, bugler, made what is called by politicians, a whirlwind tour and talked Fourth of July to several hundred people in all parts of the town, the grand finale being at Bates' Opera house where Mr. Bates kindly held up a vaudeville act, to allow an announcement to be made from the stage. The chairman reached about 700 people at this place.

"A holiday celebration is just like ice cream. The more money you can spend, the more features you can have. The committee have engaged the Stetson Shoe, the Emerson Shoe and the Regal bands for all day and the Morris band of Brockton has been hired for the evening, so that band concerts can be held in all parts of the town either afternoon or evening.

"Flags are to be distributed to the children at 8 A. M., by members of the G. A. R. from the steps of their hall. The parade will be short and will finish at the Clapp Memorial field where exercises will be held followed by sports of some kind.

"In the afternoon, music in different parts of the town and other features if the contributions warrant the outlay. It is planned to have the scout detail of the 8th Regiment and Co. K of the 5th Regiment, M. V. M. take part in the parade if arrangements can be made and it now looks as if they could.

"With a good measure of public support, the day can be made one of pleasure and interest to all. The financial side is the one most necessary to devote our energies to at present. Over $800 has been pledged up to date. L. F. Bates, proprietor of Bates Opera house, has offered to give a benefit performance and turn over the proceeds to the fund. The Selectmen have given the free use of the town hall for a dance."

STOLE KEELEY'S SHOES.

William Foley was arraigned this morning on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from the boarding house of John Keeley, Quincy avenue. The offense was committed last June. About the same time a brother of Foley is alleged to have taken a suit of clothes and two watches. Keeley, watched the places usually frequented by Foley and located him Saturday in East Boston. He was arrested by officer from Station 5. He pleaded guilty this morning and was held in $200 until Wednesday when he promised to make restitution.

A daughter was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Johnson at Eureka, Utah. Mr. Johnson is a former Quincy boy, is a graduate of the Adams Academy and has many friends and companions here. He is at present a mining engineer.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. BATTLESHIP

Michigan relative to that vessel's visit to Quincy July 4th.

U. S. S. Michigan, Navy Yard,
Norfolk, Va.
June 21, 1913.

The Mayor, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir: In view of the fact that the U. S. S. Michigan, under my command has been ordered to Quincy from July 3rd. to July 6th. 1913, information is requested as to what anchorages battleships previously visiting Quincy may have used.

It is suggested that you communicate with the officials of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation with the view of using their pilot, and obtaining from them any information at their disposal so that the Michigan may be anchored as near to Quincy as possible.

This vessel will draw approximately 27 feet of water, and will swing at anchor in a circle of 200 yards radius. Unless better berth can be suggested, it is our present intention to anchor in the western end of Nantasket Roads to the northward of Peddock's Island.

Yours respectfully,
E. E. Capehart.

Captain, U. S. Navy, Commanding U. S. S. Michigan.

Last year it was found necessary for the battleship North Dakota which visited Quincy to anchor in the vicinity of the place suggested by Capt. Capehart and it is probable that the Michigan, will anchor near the same place. From the battleship the crew was landed in small boats at the yacht club float and special cars were taken from Houghs Neck for Quincy.

THE SATURDAY BALL GAMES

Orients Defeat Strong Cunningham Team at Milton

MAKARIAS LOSE

After tieing the score in the ninth innings the Orients of South Quincy broke up the game, scored three runs and pinned a defeat on the Cunningham Gym team at East Milton, Saturday afternoon, 7 to 4. The game was witnessed by an enthusiastic gallery who rooted hard for the home team but saw the amateur champions of Quincy come across in recognized style.

Ciardi, Mitchell and Sullivan featured in two double plays which greatly assisted the Orients. The batting of the latter was also of the stellar variety. Dan O'Connell covered short for the Gyms and secured three putouts, one a difficult line drive behind second. Whitney bumped Bradley for a long triple, which was one of ten hits allowed. Stanley of high school secured eight strike outs but was touched for 11 safeties, two of them doubles. The summary:

MAKARIAS LOSE.

Makaria lost to the Winthrop Athletics at Winthrop Saturday in a 14 inning game, 3 to 2. The game was scoreless until the 11th when each tallied two, the 13th resulted in no runs and timely hitting in the 14th gave Winthrop the victory.

Fast base ball is usually the card at Winthrop but Saturday's game is conceded to have been the finest ever played there. The sudden brace of the Makaria looms up in base ball circles and assures a snappy contest on the Fourth of July.

"Les" Andrews of the high school was on the Makaria mound. He allowed 11 hits and got 6 strike outs. Hagman figured in the run getting for the victory. "Bull Moose" Brown got a hit and a put out. He and Andrews displayed the necessities during the past high school season and are breaking into semi professional ball.

From a fielding point the Makarias work was faultless. McKenzie at first handled a bunch of balls tossed across from all sections and is credited with 20 put outs. He also jumped his two hits into the averages. The score:

REBEL AIRSHIP IS NO LONGER A JOKE

Fifty-Two Mexicans Killed by Bombs Dropped In Trench

El Paso, Tex., June 23.—The most conclusive test of the efficiency of airships in modern warfare was made in the latest Mexican battle when Didier Masson, a French aviator, dropped a dynamite bomb in Guayamas harbor, killing Mexican federal troops and also showing the rebel artillery the position of the enemy.

After repeated fiascos, during which his machine and his flights became a standing joke, the aviator succeeded in getting his war engine in action.

Masson located the federal army in command of General Ojeda, and at once started dropping bombs into the trenches. One trench upon which he had showered bombs contained fifty-two federal dead when the rebels finally succeeded in capturing it.

WAR STILL MENACES

Servia Presents Fresh Note to the Bulgarian Government

London, June 23.—The menacing Balkan situation shows no sign of improvement, although it is still believed in the European capitals that the powers will succeed in forcing a peaceful settlement.

The Servian ministry has again resigned, and the Servian minister to Bulgaria has left Sofia for Belgrade. He first presented a fresh note to the Bulgarian government, declaring that Servia was willing to accept arbitration but not on the basis of the antebellum treaty and again urging demobilization.

CRASHES INTO AN AUTO

Motorcyclist Killed When He Loses Control of His Machine

Providence, June 23.—Russell F. Crowe, 19, died here of a fractured skull sustained when his motorcycle crashed into an automobile driven by Smith Marshall on Willard avenue, Riverside.

Crowe lost control of his machine around a curve, and although Marshall swung his car to one side of the road, Crowe smashed into it with great force. He was employed in a Lonsdale mill.

Last Confederate Congressman Dead

Florence, Ala., June 23.—Judge Henry C. Jones, 94 years old, and the last surviving member of the confederate congress, died at his home here. As a member of the Alabama legislature prior to the war, he voted against secession and refused to sign the ordinance after it had overwhelmingly passed.

COBB'S STRONG ARM IS GONE

Detroit's Great Outfielder Now Forced to Relay Ball.

HE DIDN'T HEED ADVICE.

Manager Jennings Warned Him Practicing Pitching Before Games Would Injure Salary Wing—His Batting and Base Running as Good as Ever.

Ty Cobb, Detroit's great outfielder, is no longer the perfect ball player. For the first time in his career he has developed a weakness.

His throwing arm is gone.

It is only with the greatest effort that he can throw a ball at a distance of a hundred feet, and on all plays that are made into his territory one of the infielders, usually Vitt, goes out to take Cobb's throw.

Cobb has been punished for his indiscretion. For years he has abused his arm by pitching for half an hour every day before the game. He has been repeatedly warned that he would lose his arm if he did not stop that practice, but he did not heed the advice, and as a result his usefulness as an outfielder has been considerably marred.

In every other respect Cobb is playing even better ball than ever before. He is hitting in his best form, and, if such a thing is possible, his speed is even greater than it has ever been.

But that weak throwing arm is proving a great handicap. Opposing teams which make the discovery that Cobb cannot throw take all sorts of liberties on the bases when the ball is in his territory. It is pitiful to watch him trying to throw to the bases from the outfield.

Cobb has cut out the pitching now. He hopes that by care and rest he will recover his throwing arm, but the chances are against him, and it is most probable that he has suffered the first permanent setback of his career.

With Cobb's arm lacking power and Crawford's worn out, the Tigers' outfield has only one fielder who can throw—Veach—and he, of course, cannot do the throwing for his teammates.

SUN FIELDS BOTHER JACKSON.

Naps' Great Batter Loses Batting Eye When Forced to Face Old Sol.

Joe Jackson of the Cleveland Naps is a wonderful hitter at home, but he always loses a lot of ground as soon as he is asked to play on eastern diamonds. But for his failing to hit up to his standard in the east Jackson would probably have led the league in hitting for the past two years.

Manager Birmingham has figured it out that the sun fields which Jackson has been forced to play in in the east have had a bad effect on his eyes. He proposes to avoid this in the future, and on the recent eastern trip Jackson was shifted to those fields where the sun does not interfere with him in the hope that he will be able to keep up his terrific gait with the stick on the road. When Jackson stops hitting the Naps will cease to be a real ball team.

GOTCH TO GRAPPLE AGAIN.

Champion Says Alluring Offers Keep Him In Wrestling Game.

Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler, is in hopes that his wrestling days are over, but he has stopped using the word "retired."

The champion so expressed himself at Des Moines, Ia., recently while on his way to Humboldt from Kansas City, where he made a monkey out of another foreign challenger when he dumped George Ehrich a couple of falls in less than half an hour.

"There is a possibility I will wrestle again on Labor day," said Gotch, "but there is nothing certain about it. I would much prefer keeping out of the game. But when they come around dangling those big purses and begging me to throw those fellows it is human nature to accept."

Cross to Meet Anderson.

Leach Cross of New York and Bud Anderson, the northwestern lightweight, are to meet in a twenty round fight at Los Angeles, Cal., July 4.

Johnson Is Some Batter Too.

Walter Johnson in addition to being a great pitcher is one of the most dependable hitters the Senators own.

CLOG THE BASES FIRST; PASS THE SLUGGERS.

Manager Stahl and the Red Sox say there is but one way to dispose of such dangerous batsmen as Ty Cobb and Joe Jackson. As Sam Crawford of the Tigers bats before Cobb and is a comparatively slow runner, the world's champions believe that by walking him and then passing Cobb the latter would be unable to steal bases or hit safely. This scheme applied to Turner, who precedes Jackson in the Cleveland batting order, would be equally successful. The Bean Eaters outlined this strategy recently without smiling.

RESIGNS OVER FATAL DELAYS

United States District Attorney Files Charges With President

SAYS HIS HANDS ARE TIED

Attempts at Corruption In White Slave Cases, Friends of Defendants Boasting of Influence at Washington—Attorney General Accused of Interfering—McReynolds' Comment

San Francisco, June 23.—Charging that James C. McReynolds, United States attorney general, had ordered what he considered "fatal delays" in the prosecution of four men indicted by the federal grand jury, John L. McNab, United States district attorney, of this city, tendered his resignation by telegraph to President Wilson, with a request that it be accepted by the same quick method of communication. McNab made public the text of his telegram to the president, together with a message sent to the attorney general.

McNab's message to President Wilson reads:

"I have the honor to tender my resignation as United States attorney for the Northern district of California, to take effect immediately. I am ordered by the attorney general, over my protest, to postpone until autumn the trials of Maury Diggs and Andrew Caminetti, indicted for a hideous crime which has ruined two girls, and this after I have advised the department of justice that attempts have been made to corrupt the government witnesses, and friends of the defendants are publicly boasting that the wealth and political prominence of the defendants' relatives will procure my hand to be stayed through influence at Washington.

"On receipt of the attorney general's telegram I prepared my resignation to take effect at the close of the trial of the Western Fuel directors and the J. C. Wilson stock brokers' cases. Before I could send my resignation I received another telegram from the department ordering me to postpone the case against certain of the Western Fuel company and not to try them unless ordered by the department.

"In bitter humiliation of spirit I am compelled to acknowledge what I have heretofore indignantly refused to believe, namely, that the department of justice is yielding to influence which will cripple and destroy the usefulness of this office. I cannot consent to occupy this position as a mere automaton and have the guilt or innocence of rich and powerful defendants determined in Washington on representations on behalf of the defendants without notice to me.

"I seem unable to convey to the department the understanding of the serious situation in which this action will leave this office. If the department in future has to review the finding of grand juries and nullify their indictments, then this office might as well be abolished, for its functions will have ceased to exist.

"Neither my sense of honor nor public duty can permit me thus to destroy the prestige of this office.

"In view of my absolute inability to agree with the department, I ask that I be immediately relieved from duty in order that the department of justice may be permitted to carry out its policy in these cases without future obstruction by me."

McReynolds Not Worrying

Washington, June 23.—"A Republican district attorney has resigned and I am shedding no tears. The department of justice will interpose no objection to the exit of Mr. McNab if he wishes to leave us."

This was the statement of Attorney General McReynolds when asked about the resignation of John L. McNab, United States district attorney at San Francisco. He could not be induced to comment further on the case.

JOHN S. KENNEDY

Sing Sing Prison Warden Is Removed From Office

In a presentment to Supreme Court Justice Tompkins the June grand jury at White Plains recommends the abandonment of Sing Sing prison and the erection of an institution to take its place. Conditions there are said to be intolerable. While Warden Kennedy is not held responsible, it is charged that his administration has not been a success and that he has not improved conditions as he ought.

KENNEDY IS REMOVED

Charges Against Sing Sing Warden Are Now Being Investigated

Albany, June 23.—John J. Kennedy was removed as warden of Sing Sing prison by Superintendent Riley of the state prison department.

Kennedy has demanded a grand jury investigation into charges of misconduct and neglect in connection with the management of the prison made by George W. Blake, the governor's special commissioner. Governor Sulzer, after talking with District Attorney Winslow of Westchester county, decided to call a special jury, which is now making the investigation.

Kennedy is a Tammany man. He was appointed by Joseph F. Scott, who was removed by the governor.

MARTIN PERFECTS AERIAL LIFEBOAT

Woman Drops Safely From Height of Thousand Feet

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23.—Leaping from an aeroplane 1000 feet in the air while going thirty miles an hour, Miss Tiny Broadwick, 18 years old, soared gracefully to the ground, alighting as easily as a bird and thereby establishing a record never before accomplished in the world of aeronautics.

The affair was a test of Glenn Martin's new "lifeboat," by the use of which he declares the aeroplane will be made far more formidable in war, and much safer in peace. The "lifeboat" is a silken parachute, weighing but eleven pounds.

RESULT OF JOY RIDE

Chauffeur Disappears After Wrecking New $5000 Touring Car

Lynn, Mass., June 23.—After wrecking a new $5000 touring car owned by Mrs. Estelle S. Clark of Boston, which he had appropriated for a joy ride at midnight Saturday, Richard Maguson, Mrs. Clark's chauffeur, deserted the wreck and four companions on the Nahant boulevard, near Little Nahant, fleeing across the marshes in the direction of Lynn, and his whereabouts are still a mystery.

Maguson's companions were three women and a man, whose identity the police of Lynn, Boston and the Metropolitan park force are endeavoring to learn.

WILL ASK PAY FOR PRISONERS

Randall Thinks It Should Go to Families of Criminals

OTHER SENSATIONAL REFORMS

Massachusetts Commissioner Says Penal Institutions Are "Filled With Misfits"—Would "Treat" Rather Than Punish Convicts After Case of Each One Is Diagnosed by Board

Boston, June 23.—Frank L. Randall, the new chairman of the Massachusetts prison commission, contemplates sensational reforms. Among his schemes are:

A system of pay for prisoners so that they may earn money in their prison terms.

A system by which the man's prison earnings may be sent to his family to help support them till he is released.

An intermediate prison to which all persons would be sent after their sentence to be examined by alienists, so that if they are found mentally deficient they may be committed to an institution for treatment.

A system of training for persons intending to become prison officials.

"My experience has shown me," Randall said, "that the prisons are filled with misfits. In one of the western reformatories tests were made of 250 prisoners, taken at random. Of the 250, 147 were weak mentally and fourteen were imbeciles.

"There should be criminal institutions, or intermediate detention stations, to which all offenders found guilty by the courts should be sent for examination by trained penologists.

"It should be the duty of a carefully chosen board of men and women to diagnose each case, just as physicians diagnose in cases of illness, and determine just what treatment is best suited to the criminal's needs.

"This would result in the segregation of criminals, and thus at one stroke remove one of the greatest evils of the prisons—indiscriminate mixing of criminals.

"The courts would have nothing to do with this. The courts would simply decide whether a prisoner was guilty or innocent. Then that prisoner would be turned over to a board of experts for treatment just as though he were sick. You notice I say 'treatment,' and not 'punishment.' I have never known of any real good from a prison sentence given purely as a punishment."

DRUGS WOMEN AND DOG

Burglar Then Robs House, but Overlooks Much Valuable Jewelry

Pittsburg, June 23.—A burglar drugged three women with chloroform within sight of the Forty-third street police station, and one of them is near death following a robbery in their home.

The intruder even had to drug the watchdog before he could enter the residence by "porch climbing." The woman not expected to live is Mrs. Josephine Folsom. Mrs. C. F. Folsom, her sister-in-law, and her daughter, Jean, were the other victims of the robbebr.

He got only a small sum of money and overlooked several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry in the bedrooms, when he easily could have stolen it after he had drugged the women.

DROWN IN VAT OF OIL

Foreman and Helper Meet Odd Death at General Electric Plant

Pittsfield, Mass., June 23.—William R. Wiley, night foreman in the transformer department of the General Electric company, and Fred Van Zuzi, a crane hitcher, were drowned in a 7000-gallon tank of oil.

They were standing on a plank over the oil ready to dip a high tension lead weighing 400 pounds. The table containing the lead broke, and both men were thrown into the tank, which is fourteen feet deep. The oil was drawn off as rapidly as possible, but both were dead before their bodies were recovered

Wiley, who was 25 years old, was a graduate of Pennsylvania state college. He had been employed at the plant for two years.

JOHN AGUINALDO IN TOKIO

Rumor That Visit Has to Do With Philippine Independence

Tokio, June 23.—The newspapers here report the arrival in Tokio of John Aguinaldo, son of Emilio Aguinaldo, the former Filipino revolutionary leader. They say he wore Japanese dress and came to Tokio secretly.

The newspapers reflect the impression which obtains in some quarters that Aguinaldo has come to Japan to take advantage of the negotiations between Japan and the United States to secure the liberation of the Philippines from American rule.

Cairo, Ills., June 23.—Frank Blake won a bet of $25 by eating sixty-one eggs. The world's record is supposed to have been sixty.

THE HALO GIRL.

Tulle Halos Fascinatingly Becoming Medici Collars and Frills Galore—Dolly Varden Goddess of the Season

In the annals of 1913 Dolly Varden will rank as the presiding goddess of the season. Flowered printings in quaint old timey forms and colorings are liked in all sorts of fabrics, but cotton voiles in this style are the leading mode. Combinations of plain and patterned stuffs are the rule, and the combinations are effected in so many and various ways that they allow great opportunity for that display of personality in dress which when well done, is so attractive. Flowered coats and tunics with plain skirts and sleeves are perhaps the most successful, but gowns all of printed stuff with plain accessories are often equally pretty.

LATEST HALO HATS.

Surely a girl need not be a saint to wear a halo, or else the women are all saints just now, for frills of tulle create halos above pretty faces, in most fascinating fashion. Early in the Spring the liking for tulle edged brims, and tulle crowns topping those of velvet, satin or straw were chronicled, but the craze had then only just begun. Now full double ruches, such as are worn at the neck, circle crowns of straw or, latest of all, are worn in crownless fashion, a halo of filmy color that frames the face bewitchingly. All colorings are used for these hats, black, gray, white and purple—the last the leading favorite—usually with a deep pink rose or two nestled in the tulle or rising, aigrette fashion, above the halo. Ribbon trimmings have not fallen off a whit in popularity for more general wear, for the tulle trimmings are pretty only when fresh and must therefore be worn only in daintiest fashion. Long streamers hanging, down the back with little nosegays or single flowers tacked to them are quaint and girlish in effect while ribbon frills worn halo fashion are not unknown, but are not as becoming as the more airy concoctions.

THE LATEST NECK DRESSINGS.

Frills that stand up after the fashions that prevailed in Elizabethan times are popular, but the latest thing is the Medici collar made of thinnest lace or tulle, wired to stand up well, and without a trace of fullness, or any ruffle accompaniments whatever.

MODISH SIMPLICITY.

In fact the most exclusive styles just now run to extreme simplicity. Waists of fussy gowns, are mere wisps of tulle or chiffon or shadow lace drawn over the shoulders in fichu fashion, the sleeves in one with the bodice. This latter fashion prevails quite as extensively as last year though many models have the sleeve set in plainly at the shoulder line, especially in the tailored shirts of washable silks that are at once so smart and comfortable.

GIRDLES AND SASHES.

Girdles grow wider and sashes more important adjuncts of the gown as the season advances. In fact half the smart bodices are principally girdle, with just enough lace or net or chiffon cloth to piece out the upper covering.

LINGERIE IMPORTANCE.

With waist so filmy and with shirts of perfectly transparent cotton voile made plain except for the front frills, as leading favorites, the fit and trimmings of the lingerie beneath becomes increasingly important. Princess slips are an essential feature of every well turned out woman's outfit, and are capable of making or marring the effect of thin summer gowns according to their shape and finish. For the lines and quality of the underwear make all the difference in the effect of the costume worn over it. After being out for some time Torchon and Cluny laces are used again. French and German "Val" and shadow laces are also popular. All princess combinations are shaped in at the waist, and every particle of unnecessary fullness is eliminated. Well cut petticoats are all important and garments made of crepe-de-chine which washes perfectly are very much worn by those who can afford the outlay.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PORK CHOPS.

PORK CHOPS are nice served for breakfast with fried potatoes, hominy, fried mush or rice.

The chops should be absolutely fresh and should be cooked to a nicety—that is, they should be neither too rare nor yet burned.

Pork Chops With Potatoes.—Slice potatoes as for scallop, put in baking dish, season with salt and pepper and cover with water. Lay pork chops on top of potatoes and bake. The drippings from the chops will season the potatoes.

Chops and Vegetables.

Pork Chops With Tomatoes.—Put to boil two pints of water. When at the boiling point drop in one pound cornmeal by handfuls and stir all the time to avoid lumps. Let boil for ten minutes. Then put in plates to cool.

Fry one onion in lard until brown Then put in three pork chops. When they are half cooked put in two table spoonfuls of ketchup and a little later some tomatoes. Pour in some water when needed, also a teaspoonful of salt. Let boil fifteen minutes and then pour on the cool cornmeal and grated cheese. Serve hot.

Fried and Broiled.

Mock Fried Chicken.—Fry four pork chops until brown. Slice three medium sized onions and spread over chops in the same spider in which they were cooked and season with pepper and salt. Cover chops with boiling water, place cover on spider and simmer for one hour. When rightly cooked they taste like chicken.

Broiled Pork Chops.—Get the chops from the best end of the loin or from the leg. Remove the fat and skin, turn them frequently and quickly while broiling. Prevent the fat from falling into the fire, the flare of which is apt to impart a disagreeable flavor to the chops. This observation applies also to mutton chops. Sprinkle them with salt when nearly done and rub with a little fresh butter previous to serving. If for a side dish garnish with crisped parsley.

POINTS THE WAY

The Statement of This Wollaston Resident Will Interest Our Readers.

Our neighboring town, Wollaston points the way in the words of one of its most respected residents:

A. T. Preston, 33 Park street, Wollaston, Mass., says: "Jumping on and off a wagon a good deal weakened my back and caused kidney trouble. Some years ago I had to give up that business and was in pretty bad shape. The kidney secretions were discolored and caused much pain in passage. I tried remedy after remedy, but got no relief. I was discouraged; suffered awfully at times and did not know what to do. Finally, I read in the Quincy paper an advertisement for Doan's Kidney Pills, telling of what they had done for a man I knew. I got a box and began taking them. I noticed a change at once. The passages of the kidney secretions became less frequent at night and caused less pain. I passed two gravel stones; one of them as large as a pea. I kept on taking Doan's Kidney Pills and I can now sleep better at night and am improved in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

THE FINNISH FIELD DAY

Finnish Societies Have Grand Time at Merrymount Park

SEVERAL CONTESTS

The observance of Midsummer Day by the Finnish Temperance Societies from all sections of New England at Merrymount Park, Saturday was one of the most enjoyable affairs ever held here. Ushering the visiting bodies from the Quincy Adams station in parade formation the local societies appeared to advantage and favorable were the comments along the line of march.

K. Elo, president of the Temperance Societies of Massachusetts and New Hampshire opened the day with a short address and presided during the exercises. He introduced Mayor Stone who gave the welcome to Quincy. A. Kantola, president of the Quincy Society, Prof. John Nicholas of Cambridge and Rev. John Vaananen of Boston were the speakers.

Band contest and glee club singing for prizes resulted in a wholesale award to the Quincy residents, C. W. Bennett of Malden judged the band music and Prof. Sangfrid Mustonen of New York and Mrs. John Aspergrin of Brewers corner judged the singing.

A series of athletic contests, the same as at the Olympic contest were run off during the day. The three mile run finished in a cloudburst. Luncheon was served under the trees and the Finnish national colors and Old Glory were generously used in the decorations. The gathering met at the Finnish Temperance hall Saturday evening where the results were made known and the prizes awarded.

TONIGHT'S CITY COUNCIL.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. The only committee that has met since the last council meeting was the License committee. The Finance committee however meet tonight at 7 o'clock and it is probable that they will have some reports to make. There are some important matters on the table which may come up, chief among which is the much discussed new plumbing ordinance. Then there are four junk collectors matters on the table which may also be cleaned up. It is understood that the council will try and adjourn tonight for the summer.

25 YEARS IN PRIESTHOOD

Rev. John J. Coan Ordained to Priesthood 25 Years Ago Today

MANY CONGRATULATIONS

Rev. Fr. John J. Coan was ordained a priest 25 years ago today. He included the celebration of the day in his joy of Thursday evening when he presided at the graduating exercises of St. John's Parish school which he considers the crowning event of his accomplishments.

He has been pastor of St. John's parish 10 years and planned the successful observance of its golden jubilee which closed yesterday. In that time he has been a factor in the community.

Father Coan today receives the congratulations of many whose friendship he has gained since his ordination. Several of his years service was at Brighton Seminary where he was stationed when he was chosen pastor of St. John's parish.

Prosperity For One Is Prosperity For All

By HOLLAND.

IF you are a farmer the value of your farm depends on the value of the adjoining farm, and the value of both depends on the value of property in the nearest village or town. Farms near prosperous towns are always more valuable than those near dead or dying settlements. And this is true without regard to the fertility of the soil.

The farmer depends on the town just as the town depends for prosperity on the farmer. Their destinies are interlinked; their interests are common. What hurts one hurts the other. Poor crops will affect the city resident who does not even raise radishes, and depressed business affairs affect the farmer who depends on soil, weather and muscle for his living.

Money sent to mail order houses helps to turn thriving towns into dead hamlets. It thereby depreciates the value of farm land. It decreases the population of the towns that most directly use the products of the farm. It lowers the price for butter and eggs, for chickens and for fruits and vegetables.

So, Mr. Farmer, if you deal with a mail order house in a distant city you are taking a course that takes from the value of your farm, that renders it less desirable as a place of residence and less productive of profit. You can't follow a system that injures your neighbors without being compelled to shoulder some of the expense yourself. Take the safer course and

SPEND YOUR MONEY WHERE YOU MAKE IT.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 28 No. 145 QUINCY MASS., TUESDAY EVENING JUNE 24, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS

CLAIM THAT CITY OFFICIAL HAS BEEN MAKING THREATS

Applicant for Junk License Claims Official Threatened to Fix Him When He Applied for License This Year

Accused to be Given Opportunity to be Heard at Next Meeting of Council. Business at Monday's Meeting

The only thing of a sensational nature at Monday night's adjourned meeting of the City Council was the charge made by Joseph Silverman, an applicant for a license to drive a wagon for the collection of junk, that last year a city official Dennis J. Ford, one of the Registrars of voters, that he would fix him this year when he applied for a license. This was brought out when on motion of Councilman Bailey Silverman was allowed to appear before the City Council.

In response to questions Mr. Silverman said that last year Ford wanted to hire his horse to cart some stone out of town for which he wanted $7 and Ford offered him $2. Silverman alleged that Ford then said that he would fix him next year.

Councilman Bailey said that there had been numerous rumors. That there had been too much talk and he wanted to get out the smoke and find out who was lying. When there is so much talk about City Officials making such sensational talk we should get at the meat of the matter. If the official has been saying something he had no business to say we should find out. All he desired was a square deal.

Hyman Katz and I. Cutler also appeared before the Council but they made no sensational charges other than Ford had circulated petitions against them.

An effort was made to see if Mr. Ford was in the hall but as he was not present the applications were laid on the table and it was voted Mr. Ford be requested to attend the next meeting of the council to hear what he had to say on the matter.

The only absent members were Councilman Bass and Gilliatt.

The Mayor forwarded a communication appointing Andrew M. Stewart as superintendent of gypsy and Brown Tail moth. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a communication appointing Charles E. Decker a constable. On motion of Councilman Corcoran the appointment was laid on the table.

The Mayor forwarded a draft of a contract with the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., for the use of the water in the old reservoir. Under the contract the city is to lay an inch main from the 12 inch main near the old pumping station to the Fore River plant and the company is to be allowed to use one million gallons a day and is to pay at the rate of $10 per million gallons, the water to be metered. The water however is not to be used for drinking or domestic purposes. The contract is to run fifteen years and may be terminated at any time thereafter at an election. The communication and contract was referred to the Finance Committee.

A hearing was held at 8 o'clock on petition of F. E. Bergfors to keep gasoline. No one appeared in opposition and the hearing closed and order laid on the table until later when Councilman Gauthier offered the necessary order which was adopted.

H. C. Lowe applied to have his street betterment assessment apportioned. Granted.

BIG JUMP IN THE STATE TAX

Quincy Called Upon to Pay $13,025 More than Last Year

TAX DODGERS HIT

Quincy in common with other cities and towns of the Commonwealth are hard hit by the apportionment of the state tax which has just been announced. The state tax this year which passed through the legislature without a word of protest amounts to $8,000,000.

The $8,000,000 tax has been in prospect since the first of the year, and the House ways and means committee had expert advice to that effect from their clerk, Deputy Auditor William D. Hawley, so that it was no shock to the Legislature. The excitement will come when the local tax rates are fixed and the taxes are assessed at the new tariff.

The amount of Quincy's state tax this year is $62,400 an increase of $13,025 over last year. Proportionately however Quincy does not suffer as much as some of the other cities for the apportionment this year is fixed in accordance with the new rate as approved by the legislature. Under the act passed last year the tax commissioner was not obliged to rely upon the figures of the local authorities, but could make his own valuation for the purpose of making the apportionment.

Under the old rule, if the taxable property held by large estates was over-looked or the rate of valuation was low, the municipality escaped paying its fair share of the tax burden of the state. The present law is an attempt to distribute the tax burden more equally, although the equity of the arrangement may not appeal to communities which have become tax dodgers' paradises.

MARRIED UNDER FLORAL CANOPY

Gram--Watts Wedding at Wollaston Largely Attended

TWO CLERGYMEN

At a pretty home wedding, Monday evening, largely attended by many relatives and friends Miss Henrietta Maria Gram became the bride of Harry M. Watts of Wollaston.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry G. Megathlin of Walpole, N. H., a friend of the family and former pastor of the Park and Downs church, assisted by Rev. Charles Clark of North Weymouth.

It took place at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Gram of Kemper street, under a floral canopy.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Leonard Barney of East Milton and the bride was given away by her father.

She wore a gown of white crepe de chine with shadow lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley The veil was the one worn by her mother at the latter's wedding.

She was accompanied by Miss Freda M. Klingenhagen as maid of honor, who wore white shadow lace over pink satin and carried pink sweet peas.

The best man was Sidney Watts of Wollaston, brother of the groom. The ushers were Carl W. Gram of Milton, M. I. T. '09, Leonard L. Titus of Wollaston, Elias Watts of Norfolk Downs and William Watts of East Boston, the last two brothers of the groom.

A reception from eight until nine-thirty at which over 200 guests were present followed. The couple were assisted by the parents oft he bride and groom's parents Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Watts of Wollaston.

The flowers were beautiful, the rooms being banked with a color scheme of green and white consisting of field daisies and mock orange blossoms. The dining room where pink roses were in evidence was the only exception.

With the assistance of the best man the couple avoided any misadventures planned and departed amid a shower of confetti and good wishes for a honeymoon in the mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Watts will make their home at 99 Phillips street, Wollaston where they will be at home to their friends after October first.

The former Miss Gram has made her home in Wollaston for many years and has enjoyed the pleasure of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She has been prominent in the affairs of the Park and Downs church, where she was at one time the organist.

Yesterday morning she was serenaded by a group of her young friends. At six-thirty nearly a score of young people gathered at the house under the direction of Miss Ruth Hardy and sang the "Bridal Chorus" from the "Rose Maiden," Miss Gram was much affected but succeeded in replying fittingly.

ANOTHER DROWNING IN NEPONSET RIVER

Body of Thomas Griffin Found Floating Near Neponset Bridge This Morning

Second Drowning Near Same Spot Within a Few Weeks

For the second time within a few weeks the dead body of an Atlantic man has been found floating in the Neponset river. There is a similarity in both cases in as much as both men were seen a few hours before their dead bodies were found and there was nothing in either case to indicate how the men happened to be in the river.

The second body was found this morning floating in the water about one hundred feet west of the Neponset bridge on the Quincy side by Dennis O'Neil one of the cities street foremen. Mr. O'Neil was at work near the bridge when he saw the body. Securing a boat he succeeded in dragging the body ashore. Later the body was recognized as that of Thomas Griffin of Atlantic, who has been employed by S. H. Edwards.

Medical Examiner Jones who viewed the body gave it as his opinion that the body had probably been in the water all night. It was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms, and later turned over to a Neponset undertaker.

An investigation showed that Griffin was seen about Atlantic as late as 5 o'clock Monday evening for he called at a store and paid a small bill. Nothing strange was noticed about him by the employees at the store and there is considerable speculation as to how he was drowned.

Griffin is said to be about 49 years of age and married. He has been employed by S. H. Edwards for some time and was considered a first-class workman of good habits.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cleaves of Standish avenue are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born June twenty-second. Their other two children are sons and the advent of daughter is most pleasing.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Too much typhoid about. Boil your drinking water. Swat the fly.

The man who doesn't get all that's coming to him, is generally lucky.

The report that King George and the Czar Nicholas look like twins does not flatter either of them.

Since there is a shortage of beef, people should eat less veal and give the calves a chance to grow up.

Patience has enabled Dr. Mary Walker to see the day when her dress of male feminine attire are regarded as comparatively conservative.

The enormous increase of National prosperity which the opening of the Panama Canal will shortly bring may cause the "money trust" to dissolve from overwork.

San Francisco's dish-washers' union has 100 college graduates, although some of them probably went to college to learn how to escape working with their hands.

It is said that semi-convertible street cars will be mostly used in the future, but people don't have to ride in them for pleasure.

Let'em raise the price of beef as long as the average garden is going to furnish him and his neighbor's chickens all they want for the next four months.

Saving $1,000,000 in 17 years on a salary of $1,000 is the finest type of high financing New York has yet shown us.

People complain bitterly about the railroad wrecks, and then growl if a train slows down so that the danger signals are distinguishable.

Children's Sunday and Mothers' day have been observed, and if Dad can be persuaded to go to church, a Fathers' Sunday will undoubtedly be arranged.

From the confident tone of the graduating essays, it seems likely that all of the country's problems will be settled by Sept. 1.

While Space was given in Monday's Ledger to a communication signed by a citizen of Ward Two and president of the Point church Men's class and the Washington school Parents and Teachers association, the Ledger in no way endorses the ideas as expressed. In times like today when the general committee are striving hard to make the celebration of the National holiday a success they should have the loyal support of every patriotic citizen and no attempt to disrupt the association should be endorsed.

The communication was not published until after considerable consideration, for it was received last Friday, but believing that every citizen should have the right to express his views it was given space.

The writer of the communication appeared this morning with another communication along the same line which the Ledger absolutely refused to publish although the author expressed his willingness to pay for the communication at advertising rates.

PARK FOR PICNICS.

Should our parks be used as picnic grounds is a question to receive consideration now that Quincy is growing rapidly. It would strike one as odd if two or three large picnic parties settled down on Boston Common or the Public Garden for a day's outing and it would interfere with the pleasure of those who went there to enjoy rest and the beautiful surroundings.

It seems to us there is a distinction between a public park and a picnic grove or grounds. It would be proper for a family party, a small group of mothers and children or small clubs or societies to enjoy a day's outing at Merrymount park and such groups would not interfere with the pleasures of those who went there for a stroll, a drive, or for bathing, whereas a large picnic parties or several parties would especially on Saturday the recreation day.

To illustrate our meaning more clearly take last Saturday when not only our Finnish residents but the Finnish people of New England had the use of Merrymount park for the day. As individuals and residents the freedom of the park should be theirs but as a body, augmented by out-of-town bodies it seems like a misuse of the park, and a case where a park for picnic ground should have been used instead of the city park.

We have used the above as an illustration only and would apply it to all nationalities, churches and large societies. Residents of Quincy should have the privileges and enjoyment of our parks especially on Saturday afternoons, holidays and Sundays in preference to picnic parties. If picnic parties are to be given the privilege of the park there should be some restriction as to numbers.

We believe in recreation and a general use and enjoyment of Merrymount and Faxon parks but think it should be as individuals rather than in wholesale fashion except for the city as a whole, like the Fourth of July.

EVENING GRADUATIONS.

Many are in doubt as to the wisdom of breaking through a long fixed custom of having the grammar school graduations in the afternoon, and allowing the Wollaston school to have theirs in the evening and by themselves instead of with a union of all the schools in High School hall.

Parents should be the first to realize the importance of early hours and the least possible excitement for children just entering their teens, especially girls. We do not know just what the circumstances were this year that made it seem necessary that the children of Wollaston should be graduated in the evening instead of with the other pupils of the city.

If every school in the city had a suitable hall we should favor each school holding graduation exercises in the afternoon in their own building with the attendance of parents and friends. Going to the High necessitates carfares for pupils and parents and other expenses. We believe in making the exercises as simple as possible.

LOCATION OF THE FOUNTAIN.

Since the uprooting bodily a few years ago by Commissioner Knowlton of the grand old elm tree that shaded the fountain in City square many have thought its removal would also be as well. It is not particularly ornamental where it is, needing a setting of trees and green background to bring out its artistic lines. As for the horse it would be as well served in some other location—for instance at the junction of Hancock and Adams streets, in front of the Porter estate. This would be an ideal location in every way and serve the public as well as the present place, or possibly in the triangle it is proposed to have at the junction of Washington and Coddington streets.

The expense of removal would probably not be heavy and the outlay would add to the improvement of the civic centre. The beasts of burden would be as well cared for elsewhere and the wants of man should be cared for by a waiting room maintained by the Street Railway and sanitaries by the city.

FINISHING HIGH SCHOOL.

As one looks over the newspaper stories of high school graduating exercises, it seems too bad that the classes are so small compared with the population. And the few boys look lonesome. Among the more recently arrived immigrants children often quit at about the seventh grade. Many of them will by and by be parading with flags marked "No God, No Master," perhaps "No Government." The families of these children need their wages. But many others in fairly comfortable circumstances are quitting far too soon.

The boy of about 15 is consumed with a desire to have spending money of his own. He sees his older brother treating the girls at moving picture shows, ice cream stands, and on motor car rides. A dollar a day pocket money dazzles his eyes so that he cannot see the chances of larger success farther on. To cure his listlessness, the parents foolishly let him go to work.

In the first year of High school the pupil has merely learned to cope with the most elementary facts of life. He can go into a store and make change, he can write a letter that may be legible.

But his drill has been mostly memory work. There has been little development of original reasoning powers in his mathematics. He has had no opportunity to cultivate his powers of expression through English composition or the study of foreign languages. He has not begun the works of literature that will give him common interests with intelligent people. He has learned some historical dates, but has no conception why nations and parties rise and fall. Nothing he has yet acquired will help him estimate the gold bricks of politics at their true value.

No task set before the teacher is more important than persuading his pupils to stick it out, at least through high school.

THE GRADUATE AND BASEBALL.

Hundreds of college ball players at this moment face a most perplexing question. Shall they take the $50, $100, or more a week that the insinuating league scouts offer them? Or shall they return to every day employments, in which, for a few years, they may not be able to earn their own board?

Shall it be the cheers of the multitude, and black lines in the newspapers? Or shall it be dull prosaic addition and subtraction in an office, the grind of producing cloth or boots or shoes?

Formerly when mother heard that her loved boy, destined for law books or the brick trade, had become a professional ball player, she almost wept. On the ball field, she thought, sporty men swore, gambled, and adjourned to the saloon.

Now there are plenty of absolutely clean, high-minded fellows in all the big leagues. A man must at least be temperate to hit a swiftly curving ball.

Probably the average player in the big leagues earns more than the average college graduate for the same period in business or the professions. Probably also, the average big league player quits with less money laid aside than the average college graduate has at the same age in his business or profession.

The atmosphere surrounding the ball player is not one conducive to thrift. He is subject to the adulation of the sporting fraternity. But they are more than willing to smoke his cigars and accept his provision for their thirst.

So it is hazardous as a business proposition for a fellow to go into professional base ball permanently, unless he is the master of his own will, and can be satisfied to live his own life. And he knows that in 10 to 20 years he has a great big break to make. While his former classmate has reached a substantial success, he must learn the A B C of some business though he should be assisted on his way by a substantial capital (which he may lose.)

EXCITEMENT BUT LITTLE FIRE

An acetylene gas tank of the lighting system aboard the Richmond which is under construction at the Fore River yard took fire Monday afternoon and was thrown over the side by workmen who were near when it commenced to smoulder and smoke. Some one saw the heavy cloud roll out of the hold and thought a serious fire was underway and sounded box 78. The men who had tossed the tank over the side had not even summoned the yard department and were rather surprised when the central station apparatus dashed in on them. The tank was close by others and a spread of the fire would have probably been disastrous.

GARAGE BUT LITTLE DAMAGED

Edwin E. Glover of Quincy, one of the firm of Glover & McDonald, proprietors of the Nantasket Garage, near Paragon Park, which was damaged by fire Sunday, said this morning that repairs are now underway and that the fire had not gained enough headway to force him to suspend business. Mr. Glover purchased the building early in the spring.

While the department was fighting the flames two autos were stolen. One was found wrecked in South Braintree with a dead boy and an unconscious form close by, and another was discovered about a mile from the scene of the fire. It was not damaged.

When the two machines were discovered missing, word was telephoned to Quincy and in a short time all streets going out of Quincy were closed and autoists stopped for examination.

SUBURBAN LIFE.

Appropriate reading for the hot days is the July issue of Suburban Life. Without featuring purely frivolous things the editors have provided some splendid light articles, most of them having to do with the out-of-door and its many attractions at this time. There are also the wonderful illustrative features for which this publication is noted. Besides being very timely, the cover is a triumph of color printing. It shows a mass of luscious red currants natural enough to eat.

Harold J. Howland has a bright little story, "The Conversion of Jim"—a discussion for and against suburban living. Other leading articles in this attractive number are "The Duty of the Public Toward Its Highways," "The Story of a Homestead," "A House Built with a Camera," "Suburban Development in Stockholm," "An Ideal House for the Seashore," "Our American Queens" and another instalment of the "The Story of an American Farm."

—Probably the most radical and far-reaching application of the pure food and drugs act since its enactment was made when Secretaries Houston, McAdoo and Redfield, charged with enforcing this statute, ruled that meat and meat products in interstate of foreign commerce, which hitherto have been exempted from the provisions of the pure food law, may be seized if misbranded, or adulterated. Manufacturers of meat foods will be required to comply strictly with the food and drugs act, as well as with the meat and inspection law.—Banker and Tradesman.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF ARRAIGNED IN COURT

Case Goes Over Until Saturday Under Bonds of $1,000. Other Warrants Probable

Will be Arraigned in Abington Wednesday for Larceny

Police action is being rapidly taken in the case of Daniel Derley who has confessed to being one of the party that stole the automobile at Nantasket Sunday evening and which was wrecked at South Braintree, resulting in the death of Alton H. Tripp of Wollaston and injuries to himself. He was arrested at the Quincy City Hospital Monday charged with the larceny of the automobile.

Derley was arraigned in court this morning but with the consent of Judge Avery, J. J. McAnarney, the defendant's counsel, and the prosecuting officers, Derley did not plead. The case was then continued until Saturday and bail was placed at $1000 which was furnished by his father Daniel Derley of Hunt street, Brockton.

Frank Reynolds, chief of police of Hull appeared at court, with a warrant charging him with the larceny of an auto at Nantasket. After a conference between J. J. McAnarney and Chief Reynolds it was agreed not to serve the warrants here. Counsel McAnarney agreed to produce Derley in Abington Wednesday where the warrant of Chief Reynolds will be served.

Saturday the complaint made by the Quincy officers will probably be dismissed, Chiefs Burrell of Quincy and Hunt of Braintree are giving Chief Reynolds full jurisdiction in the case.

Derley, who was one of the three that stole the machine implicates his brother, George E. Derley as being the missing one of the party. The Brockton police have been notified but he has not been apprehended.

The body of Alton H. Tripp was removed to the undertaking rooms of A. W. Fay, Wollaston, Monday, following an autopsy which was performed at Cortwright & Hurley's, Randolph. Instead of dying from injuries to the head it was found that he had sustained a rupture of the liver.

George H. Derley, a brother of the arrested man, who was named as being the missing man by Daniel Derley is still at large, but police circles have been furnished with a description of him, and he will probably be taken before night.

According to the confession, Tripp was operating the automobile when the accident occurred which resulted in his death.

Chief Reynolds notified the local officers Monday that he intended to prosecute the case, as the offense was committed in Plymouth county, although the accident and arrest occurred in Norfolk county.

CHILDREN WERE SPECIAL GUESTS

The second annual children's party was held Saturday afternoon at the Wollaston Yacht Club over one hundred young people participating.

Nearly as many older people were onlookers and helped make the afternoon enjoyable for the young folks.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. Joseph K. Barber, ably assisted by Mrs. Edward A. Bean, Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, Mrs. H. C. Seymour, Mrs. A. N. Potterton and Miss Irene Potterton.

The party lasted from two until six. Dancing was enjoyed by the children and refreshments were served.

Mrs. E. Harrison Tunneliffe of Boston, a dancing teacher, who was present with her pupils added much to the afternoon's enjoyment.

Attired in the costumes of the dances they represented a number of fancy dances were given. These included the Highland fling, Sailors hornpipe, Dutch dance, Spanish dance and several others.

The committee is to be congratulated for the success of the affair which will result in another party being held next year.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

Field Secretary in Quincy to arouse Public Interest

ADVICE FREE

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. The field secretary, Mr. J. McD. Miller, is in Quincy for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give any advice or information concerning shade-trees, orchards or woodlands free of charge. All that is needed is to write a postcard to him addressed general delivery and he will come to see you.

The advice he gives you will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we would be pleased to recommend Mr. Miller to do the work because of his training and experience. Arrangements can be made with him as to the cost of doing the work, but no one is under obligations to hire him, nor to the Association for the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

WHIST PARTY.

Mrs. Walter K. Pendis gave a whist party at her home, Rogers street, Monday evening, which was attended by 65 people. The proceeds will be devoted to the Rogers street table of the coming St. Mary's festival. An entertainment and refreshments follow the whist. CITY COUNCIL authority to remove one pole. Granted.

The Street Railway Co. petitioned for a relocation of a pole on Hancock street and Sea street. Granted.

An application of Charles E. Decker for an auctioneers license was referred to the License committee.

A petition was received from the Gas Co. to lay mains on Standish avenue. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order for a public hearing Sept. 8. Adopted.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting a number of minor licenses. Adopted.

The Ordinance Committee reported ought to pass on the order amending the Hawkers ordinance, fixing a fee for said Licenses. Order passed.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the application of John Gardner for license to set fish trap near Hangman's Island. Report accepted.

The Committee on State Aid reported orders granting Soldiers Relief. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order for $2,300 for lowering water courses making the amount $2,700. Amendment accepted and order ordered to a second reading.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $1,500 for printing the assessors valuation lists. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order appropriating $6,500 for furnishings for the new Adams school building making the rate of interest four and one half per cent. Report and amendment accepted and order ordered to a second reading.

Councilman Bailey offered an order amending the $50,000 water order and the $40,000 sewer order making the rate of interest four and one quarter per cent instead of four per cent. A similar order was passed several weeks ago but it was found under the water act that the rate of interest could not exceed four per cent. When this was learned a special act was put through the legislature last week allowing the city to pay more than four per cent. The order of Councilman Bailey was to comply with the law. Order read and ordered to a second reading.

At this point Councilman Cunningham requested the principal Assessor to appear before the Council.

In response to his questions Mr. Adams said that the Bay State Railway had been granted a rebate of $250,000 on its power plant. That the supplementary tax would not amount to more than $1,500 or $1,600. That no assessment was made against the City of Quincy for tax titles which it held.

City Treasurer Tilden was asked that if every dollar of the 1912 tax was collected he would still be shy, to which he replied he did not think so.

Councilman Cunningham. If you are ten thousand dollars to the bad on the 1912 account how are you going to make it up? The treasurer replied he knew of no way.

Councilman Cunningham asked of the Mayor if there was a deficiency in the 1912 amount how it was to be made up?

Mayor Stone replied that if a deficit was found the City Council would have to provide money.

Councilman Cunningham then asked if there was a deficit in 1912 and what was to take care of the abatement of $250,000 when but $7,000 was put in the levy for overlays and abatements?

Mayor Stone replied when we decide what to do we will tell you.

Assessor Adams was then asked about the abatement of the street railway property. If the Mayor was agreeable and if the Advisory board had anything to do with it?

Mr. Adams replied that the Assessors made the abatement on their own account. That they had put an expert on the property and found that the plant could be duplicated for much less than for which it was assessed.

Mayor Stone was then asked if he had not stated to the Chairman of the Finance Committee that you had instructed the Assessors to make no abatement?

Mayor Stone started to reply but was interrupted by Councilman Cunningham who wanted a direct answer. Mayor Stone however said that he would answer in his own way.

He then said that the counsel of the railroad had appeared before the city intending to fight the case. That an expert had been employed by the city to value the property and that after consulting the legal department of the city that he advised that it would be cheaper to settle than to fight the case.

That ended the questioning at this point but later in the evening Councilman Cunningham offered the following order: "That the sum of Ten thousand dollars be appropriated and said sum be set aside to cover the amounts abated by the Assessors in excess of the amounts raised by overlays and the Assessors are hereby directed to provide in the tax levy of 1913 the said amount of Ten Thousand dollars for the purpose above stated."

The order was referred to the Finance Committee.

Councilman Bailey offered an order amending the street improvement order for $25,000 and the sidewalk order for $11,000 recently passed by changing the rate of interest from four and one quarter to four and one half per cent. Order read and ordered to a second reading.

On motion of Councilman Bryant the petition to change the name of Goffe street to Presidents Lane was taken from the Committee and he offered an order for a public hearing Sept. 8. Order adopted.

Councilman Duffy offered a resolution for a special committee to consist of the President of the Council and three members of the City Council to attend the hearing before the directors of the Port of Boston June 26, and urge an appropriation of $10,000 for improving the channel and deepening the basin at the public landing at Houghs Neck. Adopted.

President Whiton appointed Councilmen Sandberg, Thompson and Gauthier on the committee.

On motion of Councilman Bryant it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until Thursday June 26.

On motion of Councilman Thompson the much debated order establishing a new plumbing ordinance was taken from the table and passed.

The vote on the order caused some laughter in as much as one member of the council who had argued against the order voted for it on its final passage through a misunderstanding. It was considered quite a joke on the member from the third ward.

The vote on the order was 13 yes and 5 no, those voting no being Councilman Ericson, Griffin, Richards, Ross, and Sandberg.

Those to favor were Councilmen Bailey, Barker, Beeman, Bryant, Corcoran, Cunningham, Devaney, Farquharson, Gauthier, Hadlock, Johnson, Little Thompson—13.

Councilman Devaney offered an order for a fire alarm box at the corner of Coddington and Canal streets. To Committee on Fire Department.

The order appropriating $1,500 for a police automobile took its second reading and was laid on the table.

The order appropriating $600 for advertising etc. by the Tax Collector was passed.

The order appropriating $3,500 to purchase the so-called Murphy property adjoining the Mt. Wollaston cemetery was passed.

Adjourned at 9.22 until June 26.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A WISE WOMAN.

A thirteen-year old boy was recently convicted in a Chicago court of snatching a woman's purse on the street and getting away with it. The judge gave the boy's mother the privilege of imposing sentence, which she did as follows: "You must earn the money to repay what you stole. You must be in bed every night at nine o'clock, or I'll ask the judge to send you away, till your hair grows gray." The judge approved the sentence and it was enforced. That was a wise mother, and it is to be hoped that the labor involved in earning the money to make restitution may impress a wholesome lesson on the youngster's mind that will keep him from falling again into evil ways, and lead to an honest and industrious life in the years to come.—Milford Gazette.

ATTEND TO BURLAPS.

"God helps those who help themselves." That old saying is never more aptly expressed materially than during the burlaping season of the gypsy and brown-tail life. At night the larvae or caterpillars are chewing the leaves with might and main, but as the light of the sun comes stronger they begin to look about for a sheltered nook to hide from the heat, with the result that a large percentage in each tree head for the ground. On the way they come to the strip of burlap and, crawling under it find, according to their lights, an ideal resting place. From ten in the morning to late afternoon they may be found neath the bands. Turn up the cloth each day and cut or crush the caterpillars beneath.—Milton Record.

HIGHBINDERS' PLOT REVEALED

Letters Showing Operations Found on Chief of Bing Tung

WARLIKE AND POWERFUL TONG

Blackmail, Smuggling of Opium and Coolies, and Murders by Hired Gunmen Carried on by Wholesale—Leading Chinese In Many American Cities Will Be Prosecuted

San Francisco, June 24.—Blackmail, murders, opium smuggling and smuggling of coolies across the border were revealed in letters and documents taken upon the arrest of Wong Do King, head of the Bing Kung tong, according to information given out by federal officials.

Death, the immigration men say, was the penalty for all who opposed or attempted to betray the schemes of the highbinders. The deportation of Wong will be sought at once and other Chinese, powerful in many American cities, will be prosecuted.

Wong for twenty years has been head of the Bing Kungs, the most warlike and powerful of the Chinese tongs.

Widespread levying of blackmail, said to be the principal activity of the Bing Kungs, was made effective by a score of gunmen, on salaries and with bonuses for killing "big men." The gunmen also protected gambling dens and owners of Chinese and American slave girls, the letters show.

Many letters bear upon the recent tong war which extended the length of the Pacific coast, some of them giving specific instructions for the killing of various men.

One of the letters was a catechism for smuggled Chinese, preparing them for questions by immigration inspectors if apprehended.

FITZGERALD IN THE RACE

Democrats Plan to Run Mayor of Boston to Oust Foss

Boston, June 24.—Before the week is over Mayor Fitzgerald is expected to announce his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Lieutenant Governor Walsh drops out of the race.

The mayor will fight Governor Foss for the nomination. He will have the backing of the Democratic state committee and of the various Democratic aspirants for the mayoralty.

No greater surprise has been sprung on the rank and file of the local Democracy for a long time than the premature disclosure of this new plan to oust Foss. And perhaps the biggest single feature of the surprise was the positive declaration that Walsh had consented to the plan and agreed to give it his earnest support.

Bulgaria Refuses Czar's Invitation For Meeting of Premiers

Vienna, June 24.—A special dispatch from Sofia says Bulgaria has definitely declined the Russian emperor's invitation for a meeting of the premiers of the Balkan states at St. Petersburg to discuss the critical situation.

London, June 24.—The great powers have engaged in the liveliest sort of telegraphic exchanges to avert fresh war in the Balkans. Pressure was brought to bear on all of the allies, Servia, Bulgaria, Montenegro and Greece, to force them to abide by the arbitration of the czar.

It has been asserted that Austria-Hungary has fomented the disagreement among the allies, with a desire to make impossible anything like a powerful Slav coalition.

BOY FIRES THREE SHOTS

Attempts to Shoot Washington Prosecuting Attorney In Court

Washington, Jan. 24.—When Justice Stafford of criminal court No. 1, District supreme court, refused to parole Ray Stewart, 18, convicted on a charge of highway robbery, Stewart ripped out a revolver and began shooting at S. McHawkins, the prosecuting attorney. He fired three shots at him, none of which took effect.

He then swung around toward Stafford, but before he had time to shoot he was overpowered by court attendants.

The case on which Stewart was tried was the alleged holding up of Norman Butler, killed on Dec. 20 last in Washington.

Claim of Woman Indicted For Murder of Wealthy Husband

Chicago, June 24.—An indictment charging Mrs. Louise Van Keuren and George A. Penrose with the murder of the woman's husband, John B. Van Keuren, was returned in Judge Kersten's court.

The Van Keurens, who are wealthy, had been separated and the husband engaged a detective to watch his wife. It was shortly after Penrose left her apartment that Van Keuren called. According to Mrs. Van Keuren she mistook him for a burglar and fired the fatal shot.

POWDER PUFFS OF EGYPTIANS FOUND

How Women of Thousands of Years Ago Doiled Up

Philadelphia, June 24.—The "tear bottles" which women of the Orient carried centuries ago reveal the hypocrisy of the women.

Several of these bottles are included in a collection of glassware which has been bought for $13,000 for the University of Pennsylvania museum. In ancient prints and histories the women of fashion of 1000 B. C. are represented as carrying the "tear bottles" in which to give vent to their grief on public occasions.

It now develops that when the woman raised one of the bottles to her eyes she was just dabbing powder over a red spot on her cheek.

Examination of the "tear bottles" in the museum collection disclosed traces of rouge, powder, paint and cold cream still sticking to the bottom of the glass.

PAGE NEED NOT SETTLE

Wins Suit Brought Against Him For Gambling Debt

Boston, June 24.—Louis C. Page, president of L. C. Page & Co., book publishers of Boston, will not have to pay $1500 which he lost at roulette in a gambling house in New York.

Judge Parmenter, who heard the suit, sent down a finding in his favor. In it the court says: "The check was given for money lost at gambling, and contrary to the laws of New York, and the check is void. I find that on all the evidence the plaintiff was not a holder of the check in good faith."

The plaintiff was Alexander F. Moore of New York, who claimed that he had received the check with a lot of others for collection at first and then had taken title to this particular check.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

New Hampshire Man Accused of Striking a Death Blow

Newport, N. H., June 24.—Ned Welch of Enfield was arraigned here and held on a charge of murder, in connection with the death of Edward W. Duff of this place. He was arrested yesterday at Lebanon.

It is alleged that Welch entered Duff's room and struck him a blow on the head, which caused him to fall against a radiator. Duff died from a fractured skull.

Receivership Asked For Watchman

Boston, June 24.—A receivership for The Watchman, the Baptist religious weekly, is asked for in a bill in equity filed in the superior court. The action is brought by creditors. The case will be heard July 2.

SIGNS SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

President Expresses Dissatisfaction With Labor Exemption Clause

Washington, June 24.—President Wilson signed the sundry civil appropriation bill, with a statement declaring that he would have vetoed, if he could, the provision in it exempting labor unions and farmers' organizations from prosecution under a certain $30,000 fund designated for the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The president characterized the exemption as "unjustifiable in character and principle," but called attention to the fact that the department of justice possessed other funds with which to enforce the anti-trust law. The urgent needs of the various government departments for funds appropriated by the bill influenced the president to speedy action on the measure.

The bill carries $116,000,000 in appropriations and was vetoed by Mr. Taft on March 4 because of the labor exemption clause.

NINE HURT IN CRASH

Two May Die as Result of Collision on the New Haven

Canaan, Conn., June 24.—One woman was fatally injured, another probably so, and a half dozen other passengers were injured in a collision here between a combination milk and passenger train on the New Haven road and a switcher on the Central New England railway. The two lines intersect near the Canaan station and the wreck occurred at that point.

The switcher, backing down some freight cars, reached the intersection and the rear freight car struck the passenger, smashing in the end, tossing it from the trucks and overturning it. The passengers were thrown about in great confusion.

Mrs. Frank Olin, aged 83, of Falls Village, had her skull fractured. She will die. Mrs. M. C. Lowerre of Clinton Corners, N. Y., was hurt internally and her condition is critical.

CARTRIDGES WERE PLACED NEAR GUNS

Explosion and Two Deaths as Poincare Is Saluted

Cherbourg, June 24.—While the forts were firing a salute in honor of the arrival of President Poincare, on his way to England, an explosion occurred which resulted in the death of two men and the serious wounding of four others.

It was thought at first that a cannon had burst, but later it developed that several of the blank cartridges had prematurely exploded. Contrary to the regulations, they had been placed close to the guns, and a piece of burning wadding fell among them.

The lieutenant in charge of the section has been placed under close arrest.

RESIGNS AS CHAIRMAN

But Segee Remains a Member of Revere Assessors' Board

Revere, Mass., June 24.—Samuel A. Segee, convicted of forging public records while chairman of the Revere assessors, resigned the chairmanship of that board. Charles H. Bates was elected chairman in his place. W. H. Colcord, the third member of the board, vainly protested an election at this time.

Segee placed Bates in nomination. The vote stood: Charles B. Bates, 2; blank vote, 1. He then moved that the board proceed to vote for a secretary. Colcord protested, but the motion prevailed, two against one. Segee nominated Colcord, and with Colcord again casting a blank ballot he was elected, two against one.

LENIENCY PLEA FAILS

Two-Year Sentence For Brayton, Who Stole From Postoffice

Boston, June 24.—Robert E. Brayton, former assistant postmaster at Brockton, was sentenced to two years in the state prison by Judge Morton in the United States district court. He was found guilty of embezzling $2398.26 from the Brockton postoffice.

Counsel for Brayton made a strong plea for his client, saying Brayton had paid back all he had taken and asking that the court deal lightly with him.

Judge Morton ruled, however, that he would sentence all offenders who came before him unless in cases of an exceptional nature.

Fire Destroys Maine Hotel

Boothbay Harbor, Me., June 24.—Their escape by the stairway cut off by a fire which started in the basement, twenty guests of the Mettawarmett hotel were forced to leave the building by means of the piazza roof and a ladder. The hotel was burned to the ground. Its value was $12,000.

WHITTED HASN'T A BIG OPINION OF MATHEWSON.

"This Mathewson isn't so much," says young Whitted, the colt shortstop of the Cards. "Why, I never saw him before in my life, and I walked right up and slapped him for two."

This is the same kid who, when called down by Roger Bresnahan for making a play Roger did not like, shot back, "I know it might have been a bone, Mr. Bresnahan, but I've seen you pull worse ones, so we'll let it go at that."

BLANDING BLAMES UMPIRE'S WHITE SUIT FOR WILDNESS

Umpires Dinneen and Ferguson were given a warm welcome when they appeared in their new white uniforms in Cleveland on Memorial day. Ferguson was a real Algernon right off the yacht, but Bill Dinneen looked as if a little more liberal use of talcum upon his ruddy complexion would have been more in harmony. Bill, however, was embarrassed. The players gathered about him when he timidly made his appearance and took turns feeling of his white raiment.

Every one wondered what would have happened had either of the officials slipped in the mire and come a cropper. But no such untoward event took place, and all hands, with one exception, approved of the disguise worn by the arbitrators. The exception was Fred Blanding, who produced an alibi, declaring that the white background provided by Dinneen caused him to fail to locate the plate.

Champion Mile Runner, Rated Highest at Cornell, Is Laundry Agent.

John Paul Jones, holder of the world's amateur record for a mile, has been voted the best all round man at Cornell. He is one athlete who does not neglect his studies and give all his time to the track.

Despite his duties as captain of the varsity track team he finds time for attention to his work in classrooms. He is completing a course of engineering, and he stands so well that his services have already been spoken for by a large manufacturing concern of Pittsburgh.

TWO VIEWS OF JOHN PAUL JONES; LOWER ONE SHOWS HIM MAKING NEW WORLD'S MARK FOR MILE.

Jones has worked his way through college for four years by running a laundry agency.

Jones graduates from Cornell this year and is going into business. He will give up running. It takes hard training to keep in championship form, and Jones doesn't wish either to spend the time on it or to run when he isn't at his best. He trained to break the world's record again in his last race, and he succeeded. He has glory enough. The race at the intercollegiates in Cambridge recently was the greatest mile contest ever run. Norman Taber of Brown, who finished second, came within a second of the old mark. Harmon of Dartmouth and Madeira of Penn both ran the mile under 4 minutes and 20 seconds. Two years ago Jones smashed Tommy Conneff's record, which stood for seventeen years, when he went the distance in 4 minutes 15 2-5 seconds. His new record of 4 minutes 14 2-5 seconds made at Cambridge recently is likely to last a long time.

FRISCO WHITE SLAVE SCANDAL

Members of Congress Are Seeking Facts In the Case

CALL FOR THE M'NAB PAPERS

President Defends McReynolds' Postponement of Case Which Has Stirred California—Son of New Federal Immigration Officer Involved In the Controversy

Washington, June 24.—Representative Kahn of California introduced in the house two resolutions calling for all the correspondence and papers in the cases that led up to the resignation of District Attorney McNab of San Francisco.

One resolution calls upon Attorney General McReynolds to transmit to the house all papers on file in the office of the attorney general or referred by the president to the attorney general relating to the prosecution of Maury Diggs and Drew Camnetti. The other calls for the same papers in the case of the prosecution of the Western Fuel company.

A resolution introduced in the house by Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois calls for an investigation by the judiciary committee of the resignation of McNab.

President Wilson defended McReynolds' postponement of the Caminetti case until the fall as "the only humane thing to do."

The president said it was impossible for Immigration Commissioner Caminetti to visit California until the fall and therefore he considered McReynolds was entirely within his rights in requesting a postponement of the case after the matter had been laid before him by Secretary of Labor Wilson.

President Wilson also said that he had had no knowledge of the matter prior to the newspaper reports, but that he had directed the attorney general to lay before him a complete report of the entire matter.

Apparently appreciating the political significance of the McNab charges, Secretary of State Bryan conferred with McReynolds.

They were closeted for some time and Assistant Attorney General Marr was summoned with the files in the case of the Western Fuel company, one of the cases mentioned by McNab in his allegations of interference with justice.

McNab, in a personal telegram to President Wilson, charged that orders from McReynolds had tied his hands in the prosecution of two "white slavers" against whom the whole state has risen in indignation.

McReynolds had refused to answer the charge directly, and this mystified government circles until a statement from the White House gave the first inkling of McReynolds' defense, and showed the president was supporting him.

McNab has offered his resignation, which will be accepted. His charge was that McReynolds had prevented the prosecution of Maury Diggs and Drew Caminetti, "indicted for a hideous crime which has ruined two girls of respected parentage." Caminetti is the son of Immigration Commissioner Caminetti, and the friends of the men have been boasting in San Francisco that the wealth and influence in Washington of their relatives would block the prosecution. Caminetti's father was appointed immigration commissioner by President Wilson.

Diggs is the son of a family rich and powerful in the Sacramento valley. Caminetti is the son of former State Senator A. Caminetti. Both men are married.

CANAL LOCKS CRACKED

Due to Settlement of Masonry, According to Panama Engineers

Panama, June 24.—Numerous alarming rumors of damage have gained currency as a result of the crack that recently developed in the cut-off wall of the northwest wing of the Miraflores locks of the Panama canal.

One of the reports had it that the gates had pulled away some portions of their supporting masonry and that cost to demolish and rebuild the damaged structure would be $1,500,000.

The canal engineers say the crack is only a minor one and that it probably was due to a slight settlement of the masonry.

Dynamite Plot Against King Constantine Is Frustrated

Salonica, June 24.—Clever and rapid work on the part of the government officials in this city frustrated what is believed to be an attempt on the life of King Constantine.

Several small carts loaded with explosives, which, it is thought, were to be placed beneath the royal palace here, were seized at the gates of the city, and several Bulgarians believed to have been responsible for the presence of the explosive have been placed under arrest.

The carts in which the explosives were found were apparently harmless fruit venders' carts loaded with their products. Beneath the bags of fruit were found quantities of dynamite.

Strenuous efforts are being made by the officials to prevent a repetition of the assassination of King George and all suspicious characters are being rounded up and expelled from the city.

ALSBERG'S "DON'TS" FOR HOT WEATHER

Above All Things Keep Your Eyes From Thermometer

Washington, June 24.—The last word in hot weather "don'ts" was issued in brief form by Dr. Alsburg, chief of the United States bureau of chemistry, who would abolish the thermometer because of its dispiriting influence on the minds of perspiring men and women. Here are his "don'ts:"

"Don't eat to excess."

"Don't wear too many clothes."

"Don't drink ice cold beverages."

"Don't look at the thermometer; keep from thinking how hot it is."

Iced drinks not only disorder the stomach, says Alsburg, but they also interfere with digestion. The secret of keeping cool in the dog days, according to Alsburg, lies largely in temperate eating.

"But," he says, "above all things keep your eyes from the thermometer."

BARBERS TALKING STRIKE

Secured Raise In Wages, but Can't Make Public Give Tips

Boston, June 24.—The dissatisfaction of I. W. W. barbers regarding their working under the new wage scale granted them after the recent strike developed into open revolt yesterday, about fifty of them quitting work and refusing to return unless under the old conditions.

They claim that because of the increase in wages granted by the master barbers, the prices of shaves and haircuts have gone up, and they no longer receive tips.

There was considerable talk of calling another strike among the I. W. W. barbers unless shaves and haircuts are reduced to the old prices.

NO FALTERING AS DEATH NEARS

Electric Chair Takes the Life of Murderer Borasky

HE DISPLAYS GENUINE NERVE

Doctors Say Slayer of Mrs. Umansky Died Instantly In Less Than a Minute After Entering Execution Chamber—How Condemned Man Spent Last Day on Earth

Boston, June 24.—Stefan Boraski died in the electric chair at the state prison in Charlestown at 12:13 o'clock this morning for the murder of Mrs. Rose Umansky, in her home at West Granville, Sept. 27, 1911.

It was not bravado, but real, genuine nerve, according to the prison officials, with which he met his fate. Not an indication of depression or weakening over the nearness of death was shown by the prisoner in his march to the chair. He was the eighteenth man electrocuted in this state.

Within one minute from the time the prisoner passed through the door leading to the execution chamber he was dead.

The witnesses, eight in number, assembled in the residence of Warden Bridges last night, and just as the bells on the neighboring church towers were tolling the midnight hour, the party, headed by Warden Bridges, marched to the death house.

It was eleven minutes after midnight when Deputy Warden Allen went into the death cell and said: "Come, Stefan, we are ready; are you prepared?"

Boraski, who was reclining on his cot, holding conversation with Chaplain Murphy, arose. One of the guards rent his trousers on his left leg, in order to attach the electrode, and then the procession started.

As the prisoner entered the execution chamber, four guards sprang to their posts. One raised the trouser leg on the left side until it exposed the lower limb. He then fastened the electrode between the knee and the ankle. Others attended to the fastening of the straps that bound the body into the chair. The fourth, with the aid of the electrician, placed the electrode on Boraski's head, then fastened the mesh head guard. He then covered the man's face with stout rubber bands. Only the mouth and nose were left exposed to view.

Warden Bridges, standing a few paces from the chair in front of the condemned man, raised his cane as a signal to the electrician behind the screen. The switch was thrown on. A flash of clear white light, followed by another of changing colors, issued from the electrode on the head of the man in the chair. His body surged forward against the straps that bound him. He died instantly, the doctors said.

The witnesses filed out slowly and gathered again in the warden's apartments and signed a paper stating they had been present at the execution of Boraski.

Boraski spent his last day on earth in prayer with priests. The prisoner arose early and enjoyed a hearty meal of scrambled eggs, toast, coffee, strawberries with powdered sugar, and a large dish of ice cream.

PELKEY ACQUITTED

Jury Finds Pugilist Not Guilty of Causing McCarty's Death

Calgary, Alta., June 24.—Arthur Pelkey, the pugilist, last night was acquitted of a manslaughter charge which was placed against him as a result of the death of Luther McCarty, who died in the first round of a scheduled ten-round bout here May 24 last.

It was charged by the government that McCarty died from a blow administered by Pelkey. The jury was out only forty-five minutes before returning the verdict, although Chief Justice Harvey's charge was said to be unfavorable to the defendant.

The men were without food and water for two days and two nights and were rescued by the O'Hare on Pearl bank. Both stated they could have held out but a short time longer.

Montreal, June 24.—Four firemen were killed and three seriously injured as the result of a fire which destroyed a sash and blind factory and an ice warehouse. The blaze started presumably from a match or a cigaret.

TABLE KNIVES.

The Work of Cleaning These Necessary Articles Made Easy.

Those who have to clean knives would find their work much lightened if they warmed the knife board before using it.

Stains on knives can be instantly removed if rubbed with a piece of raw potato dipped in brickdust or knife powder.

Knives that have been used for onions can be rid of the taste if the blades are run two or three times through a raw potato.

Handles that have become loose can be refixed by half filling the hole with resin and quicklime, equal parts. Then heat the blade and insert it in the hole.

A knife board on which the original leather has worn off can be renewed by fixing a piece of plain good linoleum in the place of the leather.

Ivory handled knives, if discolored, should be cleaned with lemon juice and salt. To repolish the ivory scour it with the finest sandpaper, make a paste of whitening and oil and apply with a piece of flannel, rubbing it well and polishing with a lightly oiled linen rag.

Bone handles should be sandpapered and polished and pearl handles cleaned by rubbing with a soft cloth dipped in fine salt. Polish with a chamois leather.

Reserve knives can either be oiled and wrapped in brown paper before being put away or dusted with finely powdered quicklime and wrapped in flannel. This latter is the better plan, as there would be no suspicion of an oily taste if the knives were suddenly needed.

Special knives should always be kept for onions, bread and for hot fat. The two latter will make the sharpest knife dull in a very short time.

SUMMER PILLOWS.

They Are Attractive When Matching the Cretonne Furniture Slips.

Spring and summer call for a discarding of velvet, damask and tapestry pillow covers and the replacing with light, fresh looking covers that can be laundered and that fit appropriately with summer hangings and furniture.

If you have planned to have cretonne decorations allow for two or three yards extra when you order, so that pillows to match will complete the attractive idea. These need not be made entirely of cretonne. They can be combinations of this material and any other fabric, preferably plain.

One of the simplest summer slips is of white or unbleached muslin, edged with a four inch band of flowered cretonne or poplin. Long pillows can have six inch borders at each short end. The heavier fabric gives a firmness at the ends, where most wear is.

Cut out patterns, stitched in borders or muslin or plain poplins make effective covers. Arrange the stems and the flowers at the tops, in straight rows, so that a conventional, old fashioned border effect will be the result. The flowers should not reach any higher than two-thirds up, and they should be about on the same line. Machine stitching serves to hold down the irregular edges with success.

Sunbonnet For 1913 Baby.

After all, there is nothing like a sunbonnet for shade and comfort when baby plays on the beach or in the garden. The fetching bonnet pictured is of white machine embroidered linen, and the crown may be removed by unbuttoning it on washdays.

With a good pattern any mother who is the least familiar with the needle can make a similar piece of headgear with little trouble. Pique buttonholed in white wash cotton makes a practical sunbonnet for the baby.

Summer Writing Materials.

Those who enjoy writing summer notes out of doors will delight in the small pads of pale tinted note paper designed for this purpose. They are to be had in two sizes. The paper is smooth and of good quality, the hard back and cover of the pad exactly matching the tint of the paper. A pencil is attached to the side of each pad, which also matches it and has a top of glass in the same color. Such pads make pretty bon voyage gifts, although they are priced at only 34 and 39 cents each.

The Round Table.

For small luncheon parties the round table is again becoming popular. This table is kept very highly polished, and a very elaborate round tablecloth in fine lace and linen, buttonholed all around in deep scallops, shows the edge of the table and the polished woodwork through the lace. Very little of the linen is seen, and in some cases the cloth is entirely of rich thread lace.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

"WHEN mothers object to their daughters 'mussing up' the kitchen they never seem to think that they are interfering with a possible future livelihood," pouted the girl whose mother had just sent her out of the kitchen in digust at the sight of the array of sticky dishes and saucepans that were everywhere in evidence.

This was an entirely new viewpoint to the only semisympathetic listener who had memories of former bad half hours of dishwashing on similar occasions and had felt very much on the mother's side of the argument. But she was forced to admit very much to herself that there was something in the daughter's way of looking at it, and when one stops to think of it, isn't there? Think of the Mary Elizabeths, the Virginia Lees and all the other girls whose names are identified with pure candy throughout the country. Isn't it more than probable that they began their work as fudgemaking schoolgirls?

Any one doubting that "sweetmeats," as the English call all candy made by girls, have a commercial value should look about at the next church luncheon, bazaar or social attended and notice the popularity of the little bags of candy, contributed almost invariably by the younger members of the congregation. The candy booth is usually the first to report itself sold out. There is no appreciable reason why the same success should not be met with commercially. We are constantly being told by the "how to reduce your weight overnight" artist or doctor that American women are the greatest candy eaters in the world, so that it would seem there is always a good field for such a business enterprise, even though it sometimes appears this business is overcrowded.

There is an especially good opportunity for any one who can work out original ideas or put even an old or standard commodity up in a newer and more attractive form than it has hitherto been got out in. It is an age when the public willingly and generously pays for the form and style of a package, especially when it contains a food product. The shops—those dealing in sweets especially—refuse to allow us to overlook a single holiday; consequently the production of a different kind of Easter egg or rabbit, a valentine heart or a St. Patrick's day shamrock or a variation of the time honored Fourth of July firecrackers meets with instant recognition and, naturally, financial success. Go over our list of holidays, you girls who are interested in the making of fudge and fondant and want to earn money, and consider the opportunities here.

How to Quiet Noisy Boys.

Have you never wished you could think of something to keep those noisy boys quiet Sunday mornings when nobody but boys thinks of rising as early as upon other days?

A maiden aunt—always a blessing to any household—has devised this plan. Every Sunday morning, when the obstreperous ones awake, their eyes rest upon two mystic packages tied with many strings. After much undoing of knots they find within the big brown paper bags animal crackers, bits of candy, fruit and some pictures for their scrap books or any of the thousand simple things it takes to entertain a child. It takes many minutes to unearth the treasures, and by that time the grownups are astir, having enjoyed their last morning's doze undisturbed.

How to Make Delicate Perfume.

Some of the richest and most expensive perfumes can be made in the following way: Select your blossoms, whatever essence you desire, pluck from the stems and drop into a jar half filled with almond or olive oil. Allow these flowers or leaves to lie for twenty-four hours in the oil; then squeeze through a cheesecloth bag into a perfectly clean glass disb.

Repeat this operation until you have procured the strength you desire. Pour this essence into a new jar and thoroughly mix with an equal quantity of pure rectified spirits. Let this mixture stand for three weeks, shaking and mixing it thoroughly every day. After this process it must be again strained, and then it is ready to be bottled for use.

How to Repair Derby Hats.

If you are ever unfortunate enough to smash a new derby hat, so that it cracks and in spite of rubbing and brushing refuses to resume its pristine smoothness of surface, try the simple expedient of holding a lighted match inside the hat close to the broken spot. By the time the match has half burned out you will find the hat has become soft. If you will then brush it vigorously with a stiff brush for a moment it will regain its former smoothness and look as if nothing had ever marred its surface.

How to Improve Hard Sauce.

When making hard sauce beat in a little sweet cream. It is a great improvement. The sauce will not be quite so true to its name of "hard sauce," however, as the cream softens it a little.

The case was continued until July 1. The arrest was made Monday afternoon by Officer Murray, Mr. Taylor alleges that both were employed by him and that after they had been discharged from domestic service they pulled up the flowers in a garden on his lawn. Both deny the allegation. They were held in $50 but were allowed to go on their personal recognizance.

WARD SIX IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Every one seems enthusiastic and anxious that this year's celebration shall be the banner one. The committee is headed with Josiah C. Fuller as chairman. The rest of the committee are:—C. H. L. Brown, Frank Badger, C. A. Hadlock, C. F. Mosman, Harry Burr, Henry Von Emden, Ted Keohane, John Fuller, J. J. Herne, Frank Johnson, Thomas Smith, William Buckley, Arthur Stowers, James Smith, David Hamilton, L. F. R. Langelier, James Thomas, H. F. Mosses, E. F. Parlee, B. B. Taylor, F. J. Kessler, Joseph Thomas, A. R. McKay, John Burke, John Bigelow, Maurice Tuttle, Thomas Musgrave, Frank Daran, Irving Bancroft, John E. Mc Donald, William Ennis.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Among those present were the Misses Inez Waterhouse, Muriel Fratus, Laura Pratt, Catherine Bean, Mildred Wilmore, Mary Brown, Margaret Buzzell and Cora Pratt, and the Messrs. Harold Wight, Clifford Keay, Edwin Heap, Herbert Barclay, Donald Wight William Cullen and Ralph Coombs.

THE NOON FIRE.

While Chief Litchfield was squeezing a lemon on a well prepared blue fish at Noteman's today, someone needlessly sounded box 17 at 1.09 for a bon fire in the rear of the Pandora hotel. He walked across to the fire, sounded the all out and returned to his dinner.

THE WONDER OF STORY TELLING.

The good mother who gathers her children from the streets for a twilight, firelight story telling hour is developing in the soul of those young ones a beauty and an ideal and a love of the nobler things that will in after years hold her children honorable men and virttuous women when others less cared for stumble and fall. And story telling was healthful for all ages. Adults should frequently renew their youth in the magic story telling circle. Love of story telling could keep them children long after they numbered the years of life counted by the psalmist. On the day that we burn the books and take to story telling by the blazing pile the forgotten joys of the olden world will gather to warm themselves by the blaze while they listen, entranced as of yore. And they'll not depart again.—Seamus McManus.

BRIEFS

Mrs. George Richardson of Botolph street has been entertaining her mother from Lynn.

Regular meeting of Wollaston Citizens Association will be held in Brasee Hall, Wollaston, Friday evening, June 27 at 8 o'clock. Last meeting of season.

Meeting of the July Fourth celebration committee Thursday evening.

We are now having a touch of real summer weather. The indications are that it will continue all the week.

The City Treasurer did not get a bid Monday for the $38,775 four and one quarter per cent street and sidewalk loan. The Council will probably increase the rate to four and one half per cent.

PARADE ROUTE.

Editor Daily Ledger:

As the route over which the parade is to move on the morning of the 4th of July has been given so little publicity it is doubtful if many people know it. The line forms at Adams square and marches through the narrow part of Franklin street to Water street, here it turns and passes up Water street, crossing the railroad track at the Quincy Adams station, where so many accidents have occurred—the parade will be interrupted by passing trains—on to Pleasant street, to School to Elm, to South Walnut, to Union, to Main, to Sumner, to Washington, to Maple, to reviewing stand and disbands near High school. Just why Hancock street from School to Granite street is omitted is explained that there was some mess made in countermarching last year near Mill street and it is proposed to avoid the tangle. Let us hope that the public will be able to connect up the two localities. The committee should again consider the route and first of all cut out the dangerous Water street grade crossing, then it should turn the parade from School street into Quincy avenue, to Scammell which leads into Sumner, to Washington to Elm and then Hancock street to the High school. The people always congregate along Hancock street, it is the main street of the city and the parade should pass over it.

SCHOOL ADDITION.

The Chairman was authorized to send a communication to the City Council asking that provision be made for an addition to the Wollaston school and accompanying the letter will be a plan for an addition of four rooms and an assembly hall, the plans being by Albert H. Wright, the architect of the original Washington school building.

The sub committee on Transportation announced that arrangements had been made with the street railway for a noon car between the Quincy school and Squantum.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY

Two Quincy Pupils in This Years Graduating Class

FOUR YEARS COURSE

Miss Helen Maria Lincoln of 618 Washington street and Roscoe Raymond Ricker of 24 Whitney road were among the graduates of the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, last Tuesday, June 24. The commencement exercises in which they took part were held in Jordan hall of the Conservatory building and the diplomas were awarded by the well known composer, George W. Chadwick, who is director of the school.

The class of 1913 of which these Quincy young people are members, entered the New England Conservatory in the autumn of 1909. During their four years of student life in Boston the oldest and largest American musie school has continued to expand and to present more and better opportunities to the ambitious young musician. The attendance in 1911-12 for the first time passed the 3,000 mark; the Conservatory is thus in point of numbers a greater institution than many a famous university with collegiate, scientific and professional departments. While the class has been at the Conservatory there has gone on an earnest quest of funds for increasing the number of free scholarships and other means of aiding needy and deserving students. A very important outcome of this quest was the receipt early in the present year of the sum of $100,000 from an anonymous donor, the income of which may be applied to the creation of scholarships and other purposes of the institution.

Simultaneously with this class entering the junior year the Conservatory opened a school of grand opera, made possible through cooperation of the Boston Opera Company. There have been many other important developments tending to strengthen the position of Boston as the leading center of musical education in the United States.

The class of 1913 has shown the spirit of sociability and good fellowship which from the days of the founder, Dr. Eben Tourjee, has been traditional at the New England Conservatory. There was a famous musicale and reception given to this class by the class of 1912 on Jan. 9, 1912. Early in the present season the 1913 class entertained the juniors with a dance and reception which proved to be a great success and which led to a similar entertainment tendered by the juniors to the seniors on Jan. 20 last.

In these and other happenings Miss Lincoln and Mr. Ricker have taken part. The Conservatory Neume, the students' year book, conveys the information the former has been a student of the pianoforte under Charles F. Dennee and that the latter has studied the violin with Felix Winternitz.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers of the Norwegian Society of Quincy took place at the meeting in the Johnson building, Tuesday evening. The attendance was large. Elaborate preparations were made for the installation which will be held July 1. The officers chosen were:

President—Nils Lodengaard.

TOUGH GANG INFEST NEPONSET BRIDGE

Rumor that Recent Drownings were Result of Attempted Robbery by the Gang

Steps Should be Taken to Make Bridge Safe for Pedestrians

In view of the fact that within a few weeks two Atlantic men have been found floating in Neponset river near the Neponset bridge between Quincy and Neponset and from the fact that there have at other times been several mysterious drownings in this vicinity it seems not out of place that an investigation should be made. It is a well known fact that a gang of Neponset toughs infest the Neponset bridge every night and that it is not safe for a man to walk across the bridge at night unattended. There have been many cases of hold ups and robberies by this gang and it was only ten days ago that three of them jumped onto a passing car and after robbing a Chinaman of his gold watch made their escape.

Altogether it is a very undesirable locality, and it has been hinted, that it is not among the impossibilities that the bodies of the men recently found might have been robbed by the gang of toughs that infest the bridge and during the scrimmage, that would naturally follow, they have been pushed overboard only to drown without the possibility of a hand being raised to assist them. In the case of the man Griffin whose body was found Tuesday morning, he was known to have been about Monday evening and is said to have visited Neponset during the evening.

He was an innoffensive man and there is no known reason why he should have taken his own life and it has been hinted that while on his way back to Atlantic he was held up by the gang, who were bent on robbery and that during the scrimmage he may have been pushed overboard.

Quincy has one officer who in the course of his nightly route crosses the bridge as far as the draw, at certain hours while an officer from the Boston side comes to the draw on the Neponset side. There is an hour or more however in the interval of the visits of the officer, which affords ample time for the toughs to get in their work and make their escape.

It would seem that it would be a good idea to have the bridge much better lighted than it is at the present time and if necessary to have an officer on duty on the Quincy side all of the time, or at least until after the last car leaves for Quincy at 1.30 in the morning.

As Sarah Bernhardt carried home $170,000 from her American trip, many stage-struck girls feel it is foolish for them to stay on the farm any longer.

When Col. Roosevelt lectures in Argentina on "Progressive America," it is hoped that he doesn't leave out the railroad accidents, the fire-trap buildings, Tammany and the lynchings.

President Wilson would seem to get better results by having a President's room at the baseball park rather than at the Capitol.

It is said that you can again drive a horse at the summer resorts this year without being called Uncle Reuben.

It is complained that the college graduate can't read his own diploma, but if it was easily perused it might not do him any good.

The strike situation does not seem to come under the Bureau of Commerce and Labor so much as the war department.

One clergyman blames the Stamford, Ct., disaster on the "idle rich." If the idle rich will keep from getting in the way while other people are trying to work, they will be doing pretty well.

The batting and fielding averages of the college teams are printed in all the papers, while the standing in studies is filed away in some dusty card catalog and hard to find at that.

Owing to the fact that clothes will not be half worn out when the summer ends, there will have to be some radical changes in style next season to sell new goods.

The literary men are getting some good appointments, but what caucuses can they carry for the next campaign.

The girl who has just graduated from college may not be able to go into the kitchen and make pies like mother, but she is a mighty handsome ornament for the front piazza.

The women who are blamed for wearing gowns that attract the attention of the men must feel that at last they have found a competent dressmaker.

If they have those noiseless roosters, how will some people know when it is time to go to bed?

Grasshoppers sweeping through the Southwest. No doubt this is one result of allowing every one to have bird pie.

The Balkan allies are fighting among themselves. Their idea of the proper way to celebrate a victory is to commit suicide.

There is a growing feeling among the young people that you can get all the results of the new dances while sitting in a shady hammock, and without the expense of hiring an orchestra.

If you are willing to work yourself most to death, you can probably get money enough for a vacation rest at a summer hotel.

Seventy-six per cent of the note issue of the National Railways of Mexico is unsubscribed. This is one of the cases where the principal looks a lot better than the interest.

There is $500,000,000 at Washington ready for the bankers to borrow, but the grocers need not expect to get any of it on their bills.

If Wall street is so anxious to get rid of its railroad stocks, it might leave them out on the sidewalk some night and perhaps some one would come and cart them off.

After the college graduate gets a job it is tactful to wait a month or two before advising the boss how to run his business.

The book learning a boy gets at college may not count much, but if he becomes a running broad jumper he at least should be able to keep out of the way of the automobiles.

When the camera concerns are asked if they have combined in restraint of trade, it is expected that they will reply in the negative.

The stock market is loudly calling for mother to come in and hold its hand until morning.

Public sentiment in the United States always insists that those responsible for these awful railroad wrecks shall be visited with severe punishment, consisting of a warning never to let it occur again.

The correspondent in Tuesday's Ledger was right when he said that crossing the tracks at Water street was a dangerous thing for the Fourth of July parade. While it is well to have the parade form at South Quincy so that it can get into shape before it passes in review it seems as though some better plan might be devised than crossing the railroad tracks. To be sure some of the trains will be taken off that day yet for all that there is little doubt but what some passing train will cause a break in the line of the parade.

As for the Water street crossing it would seem wise to come directly up Franklin street to School street, thence to Elm street instead of passing through Water and Pleasant streets to School street. This would also cut out about three fourths of a mile from the parade which would not be objected to especially by those who have to march.

As for that part of Hancock street between City Square and School street which has been omitted, this can be easily remedied. As now laid out the parade comes through Maple street and after passing the reviewing stand is dismissed near the High school. Instead of going through Maple street the parade could continue up Washington street and passing around the fountain pass in review of the grand stand and then continue up Hancock street and be dismissed near School street.

MERRYMOUNT PARK.

It would seem as though the time had come to consider the laying out of good road through Merrymount park if autos are to be allowed to use the park to the extent they do at present. When the horse or walking was the mode of travel the narrow ways were adequate but now they are dangerous and there should be pathways as well as roads.

One instance came to our notice recently. Four ladies were driving in the park when a man in a large touring car came up behind and tooted his horn so persistently that the women knew he wished to go by, but the road was only wide enough for the carriage with a banking on one side and a quick slope on the other. The autoist did not try the bank or the slope but forced the women to the bank where in returning to the road they ran the risk of an upset.

All the roads are not as bad as the spot mentioned but most of them could stand widening for comfort and safety especially the one from Fenno street through to Park lane.

THE SCARCITY OF TEACHERS.

June is a time of stress for school boards and superintendents, when vacancies occur in teaching forces, and anxious candidates of more or less rawness are scrutinized.

In spite of all the abundant facilities offered by normal schools and colleges, it is harder than ever to find acceptable teachers. In many places where it was once required that candidates have had actual school experience, now the single condition of a normal school training is made, often not as much as that.

The explanation is simply that other fields are offering women more encouraging returns. The average stenographer, who may not have had a full high school course, who has to pay from her own pocket for but about six months training, probably gets more than the average grade school teacher who must usually be both a high and normal school graduate.

Furthermore business and professional fields are opening wider every year to the feminine aspirant. People would be surprised did they know how many women are running little farms or market gardens, bake-shops, millinery and dress-making establishments, restaurants and lunch rooms, hotels, even newspapers. In these and other fields, whatever brains and business ability they have is not discounted on the ground of sex, but brings its full value in the market.

Under these circumstances, the school room grind looks less and less attractive to the ambitious girl. Why should she teach for $10 a week for only 35 to 40 weeks a year, when she can make so much more if she has the initiative and efficiency to conduct a little business of her own?

Towns and cities are poor paymasters. In New York City where cost of living is at the top, they have it figured out that the average elementary teacher earns only $540; the average street cleaner $631. In all other fields brains command a better price than muscle.

SOUTH AMERICAN TOURISTS.

Saturday, Col. Kincaide and the Boston Chamber of Commerce tourists are due at Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil, and a city of over a million inhabitants. Brazil itself has a population of 20,515,000 and an area of 3,218,130 square miles, which is nearly half of South America. It is larger than continental United States with a third of Alaska added. The coast line is more than 4000 miles long. It was a monarchy until 1889, when the republic was proclaimed. Portugese is the national language.

The principal exports are coffee, rubber, tobacco, sugar, yerva mate, cocoa cotton and hides. The chief imports are food products, beverages, iron and steel, machinery and tools, textiles and coal.

Brazil's exports to the United States in 1911 were $115,855,767; her imports from United States in 1911 were $34,602,757. Total exports 1911, $325,271,614; total imports 1911, $257,762,557.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

At this season of the year the public generally look to the beaches for entertainment on account of what they term the "cooling breezes," but with the beautiful, cool, and well ventilated Kincaide Theatre right at home it is not necessary to go further for amusement, as is attested nightly by the large audiences in attendance; furthermore, the entertainment is of the very highest standard. Many after coming within the theatre to the outside exclaimed to one another how much cooler the interior was than out of doors. Enough has been said of the interior of the theatre as that surely speaks for itself in its coolness, comfort, and beauty.

The merry company of thespians The Kincaide Players" in "The Fair at Tipperary" excel even their past successes and upon their entrance were greeted by a laughing, applauding audience of immense proportions. Miss Maurer, the inimitable fun and laugh creating comedienne, was a host in herself and with her witty allies and manouvers kept the house in constant good humor and uproarous applause. She is without a peer on the Vaudeville stage today. You may visit any high class theatre anywhere and you will surely realize that she cannot be surpassed in part in which she is placed.

Each and every player was individually applauded for their magnificent work in singing, and dancing of familiar dances, Freeman and Carr, were received with the greatest applause. Their act was in itself a whole show.

Charles Farrell, the real old Southern Darkey, in his song when 'Gabriel Blows his Horn" and his whistling of the "Mocking Bird" was an act in a class that is seldom seen on the stage of today. The audience went wild over his production.

The Feature Picture "The Governor's Double" was a picture of deep interest throughout and the attention of the audience was centered intently upon it to the end.

The clearness of the Kincaide Pictures is unexcelled by any in the State, and are always of such an interesting nature that all who have witnessed them are loud in their praise of the magnificent and augmented entertainment presented to the public by this popular playhouse.

Col. Kincaide on his return to this city will certainly be pleased with the able manner in which the management have conducted the affairs of his theatre and the successful and magnificent series of Pictures and Vaudeville that have kept the public talking, and will continue to keep them talking at such a continuous display of high class entertainment.

VIOLATED ORDINANCE.

Theodore Crocker of Fensmere avenue, Houghs Neck was arraigned in the district court this morning on the complaint of the Board of Health for failure to comply with plumbing regulations after he had been given a reasonable time to do so. J. J. Kenney, inspector of plumbing was the only witness to testify. He said that the man had not complied with the ordinances and that he had notified the Board of Health and after an inspection of the premises they had brought the action. Judge Avery disposed of the case by imposing costs on Crocker, providing he would take immediate steps to comply with the requirements.

NEW ROUTE FOR PARADE

Dangerous Grade Crossing on Water Street Cut Out

ROUTE SHORTER

The Fourth of July parade committee held a meeting Tuesday evening at which the question of route of the parade was again taken up. In view of the danger of having the parade cross the tracks at Water street the committee after some discussion voted to eliminate that part of the route. It was also decided to make another change in the route so that the parade might pass through Hancock street between School street and City Square The route as now decided upon is as follows.

Forming on Franklin street near Independence avenue the parade will move over Franklin street to School street, to Quincy avenue, to Scammell street, crossing South street to Summer street, to Washington street, to Elm street, to Hancock street, past the reviewing stand in City Square to near the High school where the line will be dismissed.

This route is somewhat shorter than that first outlined and as stated above will eliminate the necessity of crossing the railroad track at grade, which is always an element of danger and will take in that part of Hancock street which was not included in the route as first announced.

BAD ROADS AND COST OF LIVING.

"Until very recently the vast majority of people failed to understand that the good road is not a mere country dweller's convenience, or the means to motorists' pleasure, but that it is an actual economic necessity. That it costs the farmers of this country more for a ten-mile haul of produce from farm to town than it does to ship that produce from New York to London, is a fact. That it costs farmers abroad from one-half to one-tenth as much to haul a ton a mile on a road as it does the farmers of this country, is another fact. That practically every pound of flesh and bushel of wheat we consume must travel over a road at least once and sometimes twice before we eat it, is a third fact. The three are the answer to one part of the question 'Why does it cost so much to live?' Some one has to pay for the expensive hauling. Some one has to pay for the depreciation in the value of horses and vehicles caused by poor roads. Some one has to pay for the extra time it takes to haul cotton to market, when two mules are required to haul two bales of hay ten miles in one day, when on a good road the same two mules could haul twenty-four bales in the same time with the same effort."—Suburban Life Magazine.

NEW PRESIDENT IS ELECTED

Annual Meeting of Squantum Improvement Association

REPORTS

In one of the liveliest meetings of the Squantum Improvement association since that organization was founded, the annual election of officers took place last night. The meeting was in the Vacation House owned by C. E. Carlson and 76 members were in attendance. The entire slate as selected by the nominating committee was approved by the association.

There were two candidates for president Herbert A. Smith was the candidate of the nominating committee and James Hagan was nominated from the floor by Joseph Allen. The balloting resulted as follows—Smith 46; Hagan 29. Mr. Hagan in an enthusiastic speech congratulated the winner and made the election unanimous.

There were no opposing nominations for the rest of the slate and these officers were elected—Vice president, John R. Nelson; secretary, James Foster; treasurer, Charles Bostwick; executive committee, C. N. Kenyon, Frank Anderson and John Holmes.

Mr. Carlson, the retiring president, thanked the association for its support for the past year. He said the association had made rapid strides forward and that there had been little or no strife or dissension.

T. F. Callahan and Edward Eagar escorted the new president to the chair. President Smith thanked the members for the honor they had conferred upon him. He said his only interest in the association was for the upbuilding and advancement of Squantum. He hoped to see Squantum the best suberb of Greater Boston. He spoke of the needs of an assembly hall for this section where shows, whist parties and other gatherings could be held. He said such a meeting place was greatly needed as soon as possible. He hoped to see harmony prevail in the association and a continuation of the fine advancement that had been made during the past year.

Mr. Callahan, treasurer, made his annual report. It showed that for 1912 the paid up membership was 126. At last night's meeting about 30 new members were added to the rolls making the total membership now about 150. His report showed a balance of cash in the treasury of $235.

Chairman C. N. Kenyon of the mosquito committee made a report of the valuable work that had been accomplished by his committee. He said that a week ago Saturday with a number of volunteers and a sprayer loaned by the City of Quincy that all the stagnant pools that could be found in the marsh lands and about the hill at Squantum had been sprayed with oil. He said that these pools were found to be literally alive with breeding mosquitoes. The effects of the committee's work has been apparent as there has been scarcely a sign of mosquitoes in Squantum so far this season.

Mr. Anderson of the police committee reported that an officer had been placed upon the Squantum beat and that he had the promise of the chief of police that he would be kept here as long as the police appropriation for the purpose lasted.

The following committees were appointed by President Smith:—Entertainment—Edward Eagar, chairman; C. H. Singleton, Edward Carlson, John Jepson, Harleigh Schultz, Perley Bostwick, William A. Reed, James A. Foster, Charles Bostwick and John Mardon.

Spectacle Island nuisance—C. E. Carlson, F. E. Brooks, John R. Nelson.

Street railways—C. E. Carlson, Joseph Allen, Hiram A. Morse.

The mosquito committee headed by C. N. Kenyon chairman was reappointed for another year.

The meeting adjourned at 10.30 o'clock. At the next meeting two weeks from last night, which will be held at Mr. Carlson's vacation house, an hour's entertainment will be provided.

—It may be wished that all the newspapers on the Pacific coast might follow the excellent example of the Sacramento Bee, which has framed and hung up in its office this rule:—"Sneers at race, or religion, or physical deformity will not be tolerated. "Dago," "Mick," Sheeney," even "Chink" or "Jap"—these are absolutely forbidden. This rule of regard for the feelings of others must be observed in every avenue of news, under any and all conditions.—Milford Gazette.

SURPRISED BY FRIENDS

Mrs. M. A. Yule, Presented with Several Gifts

TO TAKE VOYAGE

Seventy-five long time friends gathered at the home of Mrs. M. A. Yule, 631 Washington street, Tuesday evening and tendered her a surprise party. Mrs. Yule who has lived at Quincy Point for ten or more years is a well known and respected resident. Friday she sails on the Parisienne for a four months tour of Scotland, England, France and Germany.

Mrs. Yule was calling at a neighbors house when her friends took possession of her home. About 8.45 she was escorted into a darkened room of her home by her daughter Catherine. After a short conversation all lights were set to the limit and she found herself the centre of a crowd of smiling friends.

Alice Mosher of East Braintree, the five year old daughter of Lloyd Mosher, eight year old Douglas Yule and six year old Bertha Hendry encircled Mrs. Yule with ribbons and one after the other made a presentation. A handsome travelling bag, a travelling set and a large bunch of sweet peas were given her.

Mrs. Yule attempted to respond, burst into tears, but quickly recovered. Glancing into the faces of her friends she quietly accepted the gifts. Seized with hearty laughter she entered into the spirit of the occasion and during the rest of the evening was the leader in sports, games and dancing. Music was by "Billy" Wilson.

NEW HAVEN'S RECORD.

In Ten Years Has Carried 755,678,338 Passengers And Had 29 Killed.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad has made a careful compilation of the number of trains it has operated in the last ten years, the number of miles these trains have covered, the total number of passengers carried by these trains and the number of train accidents in which passengers were killed. The period taken for purposes of this compilation was from June 30th, 1903 to June 15th, 1913. This is three months longer than the period covered by the incumbency of President Charles S. Mellen, who assumed his duties in October, 1903.

This compilation shows that between June 30th, 1903, and June 15th, 1913, the New Haven road has operated 5,078,750 trains over a distance aggregating 158,531,541 miles and has carried a total of 755,678, 338 passengers paying fare. Of the 5,078,750 trains operated in this period just 6 suffered accidents in which persons travelling on them were killed. The number of passengers who lost their lives as a result of these accidents amounts to just 29. This is one passenger killed for every 26,057,873 carried.

The record of accidents here given includes those accidents only in which passengers were killed on board of trains. Reports of "accidents to passengers," such, for example, as those filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, are usually not confined to this class, but include those persons killed by being struck by trains or killed while boarding or alighting from trains. The figures given here show that in actual train wrecks caused by collisions or derailments there were killed on the company's lines in those ten years a total of 29 passengers.

In six of the ten years—1904, 1905, 190 6 1907, 1909 and 1910, not a single passenger lost his life by reason of accident to a train notwithstanding the fact that in those six years a total of 441,426,000 passengers were carried over a total distance of 110,777,639 miles in approximately 3,520,000 trains.

The 755,678,338 passengers carried from June 30th, 1903, to June 15th, 1913, is practically eight and one quarter time the popualtion of the United States. These figures show, in other words, that eight and a quarter times the population of this country have in these years been carried a distance equivalent to 6,341 times around the globe with a loss of life through accidents to the trains they were on of but 29. The territory covered by the New Haven is such that its passenger traffic is the densest of any railroad in the country with the exception of a few minor lines, thus greatly increasing of course the problem of operation.

Of the 29 passengers killed in accidents to trains in the ten years covered by this compilation all but one have been killed in the last three years. This is the period in which the New Haven road has suffered most severely from the attacks of Louis D. Brandies and his coterie in an effort to get control of the road. The effect of these attacks according to the sworn testimony of General Manager Clinton L. Bardo before the Interstate Commerce Commission has been to impair the morale of the road's operating force.

In a determined effort to emphasize the necessity for improving this morale and for observing and improving the smaller details as well as the larger essentials of safety and efficiency Vice-President Adelbert R. Whaley and General Manager Clinton L. Bardo of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company are addressing meetings of engineers, conductors and trainmen at which they state that while they appreciate that ninety per cent. of the men are careful and dependable the management must insist that the other ten per cent be equally dependable.

A compilation of figures for the period covered shows the number of passengers carried to be 755,678,338; train accidents in which passengers were killed 6; passengers killed in train accidents 29.

These figures indicate the highest order of operating efficiency.

IMPORTANT CITY IS TAKEN BY REBELS

Large Portion of American Property Is In Durango

Mexico, June 25.—The capture of the city of Durango by rebels is reported officially here. Durango is in the centre of the district which has been the scene of the destruction of a great amount of property in the small towns, ranches and mines, including a large proportion of American property.

The railroad service has been interrupted for some time, and the rebels have been gradually approaching the city.

The fate of the federal garrison is unknown. The garrison at Durango was small, and the city was in a deplorable condition from the long siege. Only a few commodities were available and these were extremely high priced.

Butter and Eggs And Merchandising

By HOLLAND.

MR. FARMER, do you spend money with mail order houses? Do you send your cash to Chicago or New York while doing a credit business with your local merchant? You do not? Then we congratulate you and beg to say that these words are addressed to the man who does.

You, Mr. Mail Order House Patron, should think a few thoughts before buying another money order or draft payable in Chicago. Think what sort of welcome you would receive if you went to that big Chicago concern with a few pounds of butter or a few dozen eggs! Would the Chicago concern buy your eggs, think you? Would it take your butter and give you in exchange sugar that is sold at such a narrow margin of profit that the weighing must be careful and close or there will be a loss? Hardly.

The mail order house insists on cash—cash in advance. There is no bartering and no credit. It is "Send me your money first if you want my goods."

It will be to your advantage directly and indirectly to spend your real money where you take your butter and eggs.

AFTER CABINET TALKS IT OVER

President Accepts Resignation of District Attorney McNab

McREYNOLDS IS EXONERATED

White Slave Cases to Be Tried at Once, Probably Under Direction of Heney as Special Prosecutor, Who May Have Two Assistants—Western Fuel Case Also Up

Washington, June 25.—President Wilson last night telegraphed United States District Attorney McNab of San Francisco acceptance of the latter's resignation, the form of which the president characterized as "an inexcusable intimation of injustice and wrongdoing" on the part of Attorney General McReynolds.

In a letter to the attorney general the president exonerated him from blame and adopted McReynolds' suggestion that the Caminetti-Diggs and the Western Fuel company cases be prosecuted immediately by special counsel for the government.

White House officials announced that the president would confer today with the attorney general about the appointment of special prosecutors, and that the president had in mind Francis J. Heney, who prosecuted the famous San Francisco graft trials; Matt J. Sullivan, who assisted Heney in the Ruef trial, and Thomas Hayden, a former assistant city attorney in San Francisco.

It was said that at least two of these three men, and possibly all, would be selected to take charge, not only of the Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases, but the Western Fuel company indictments.

Developments were rapid during the day in the situation which was precipitated by the telegram of McNab on Saturday to the president and the attorney general, accusing the latter of yielding to "rich and powerful influences" in ordering a postponement of these cases, the father of one of the defendants being Anthony Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration. The subject absorbed the cabinet meeting yesterday.

In his letter to the president McReynolds recited the history of the two cases and submitted the complete files in each case.

Responding to instructions from the attorney general for a detailed report of the Caminetti-Diggs cases and to take no affirmative action until further advised by the department of justice, the attorney general said McNab sent a report, received May 27.

In this report, he added, McNab "detailed a version of the acts with his inferences therefrom and expressing the opinion that the case was aggravated and should be vigorously prosecuted; also that there might be attempts to interfere with the due course of justice by improper influences."

McNab Is Defiant

San Francisco, June 25.—While important developments were following one another in rapid fire order in Washington, District Attorney McNab himself was driving one more nail in the flag of rebellion which he spiked to the masthead last week.

McNab resigned because he could not agree to McReynolds' decree to have the Diggs-Caminetti white slave and certain Western Fuel conspiracy cases continued for a long period.

Yesterday he obtained a continuance of three weeks, instead of the longer one his chief had requested, and refused to proceed with the prosecution of those Western Fuel officials not mentioned by McReynolds separate from the cases of the two directors whom the attorney general had asked to be favored.

The cases of Drew Caminetti, son of the commissioner general of immigration, and Maury I. Diggs, former state architect, indicted for white slavery, were set over until July 15 upon motion of McNab.

Ex-Mayor of Richmond Would Dynamite and Poison Newspaper Men

Richmond, June 25.—Carleton McCarthy, ex-mayor of Richmond, at the session of the administrative board of which he is a member and which controls the city's water system, termed an article and an editorial in The Times-Dispatch relative to the board's delay in acting on the water question as deliberate lies and hurled denunciation at the proprietors and editors of the paper.

McCarthy said a McNamara was needed in Richmond to destroy the newspaper plant owned by the Bryan estate, and he offered a motion that the administrative board instruct the city engineer to place bichloride of mercury in the pipes leading to the Bryan estate and into the pipes running to the new ten-story building of The Times-Dispatch. The motion was not considered.

WASHINGTON WOMEN TO WEAR TROUSERS

Mrs. Hemmick Says People Will Soon Get Over Shock

Washington, June 25.—Mrs. Christian Dominic Hemmick, a leader in Washington society, made the capital people take notice by announcing that women of fashion will walk the streets within a few weeks wearing "modified trousers." Mrs. Hemmick is the instigator of the scheme.

"Of course, people will be shocked," said Mrs. Hemmick. "They were shocked when women began riding astride and wearing socks, but they got over these things and they will soon get used to the trousers. Besides, trousers are the only sensible things for women to wear. They are much more practical than skirts, and just as becoming and stylish."

The trousers will be wide and loose and of any color or material, but preferably of broadcloth, satin or silk.

WIRELESS BUNCO GAME

Results In Separating Visitor In New York From Roll of $2000

New York, June 25.—It was an old game, but pulled in such an up-to-date manner that Sam Clark of Tucson, Ari., is hurrying back to his home minus a roll of $2000 which arrived here with him last week.

"Dead sure" tips on horse races, transmitted to a wireless station high up in the trees in Central park, were furnished to Clark during his brief visit here.

It was the new "open air bunk." A suave gentleman wanted to let Clark in on a good thing, then came the handing over of the money and then the disappearance of the "friend."

STERN SLICED OFF BY STEAMER

Schooner Priscilla Goes to Bottom In Boston Harbor

HUNDREDS WITNESS COLLISION

Fisherman Rammed as She Suddenly Appears From Behind Colliers—Men Aboard Have Barely Time to Snatch Belongings and Take to Dories Before Craft Sinks

Boston, June 25.—The Nahant steamer Machigonne cut in two and sunk the auxiliary fishing schooner Priscilla in the upper harbor yesterday afternoon.

The Machigonne was jammed with passengers bound for Nahant, and they crowded to the rails and watched the Priscilla sink. She dropped out of sight twenty minutes after the collision.

Captain Wolf of the Priscilla declared immediately after he landed that the man at the wheel of the Machigonne was not looking and that the Nahant boat plowed straight into his craft.

Captain Olson of the Machigonne, however, declared the fishing boat shot from behind some colliers, and that although the Machigonne reversed her engines, it was too late to prevent a collision.

The revenue cutter Gresham sent a cutter to rescue the men on the Priscilla, but they needed no aid.

The collision occurred just off the Commonwealth pier. Both boats were outbound. The Priscilla was on her way to the fishing grounds, after swordfish. She was running under her auxiliary power, while the crew got the sails to drawing.

The iron prow of the excursion steamer sliced off the fishing boat's stern as neatly as a saw might have done.

The Machigonne's engines were reversed, and passengers leaned over her rail to see the fishermen fight for their lives. In a trice they had slit the ropes that hold the "nest" of dories and slid the clumsy-looking boats overboard. They had time to snatch suitcases from the cabin and tumble them into the dories before the Priscilla sank. Ten feet of her masts remained above water.

The Nahant boat, after seeing that the fishermen were safe, went on its way.

The Priscilla is sixty-four feet over all, with forty-four gross tonnage. She is owned by Jacob F. Brown of Gloucester, but is a Boston boat. After her last swordfishing trip, she went to East Boston for repairs on her engine, and these were just completed yesterday.

PLAN TO OUST MELLEN

Committee Opposed to His Regime Gets Proxies of Morgan & Co.

Boston, June 25. — President Charles S. Mellen is to be deposed as head of the New York, New Haven and Harford railroad, according to a rumor current throughout banking circles and State street.

Strength was added to this report when it became known that Morgan & Co., their allied interests and the Pennsylvania railroad had turned their voting proxies to the New Haven stockholders' committee.

This committee is composed of men opposed to the Mellen regime. The action is taken to indicate that the Morgans, financial backers of the New Haven system, have withdrawn their support from Mellen. A reorganization of the railroad is expected.

RECEIVERSHIP IS DENIED

Court Refuses Petition of Southern New England Road Contractor

Boston, June 25.—Judge Braley of the supreme court refused to grant the petition of John Marsch, a Chicago contractor, for the appointment of a receiver for the Southern New England railroad—the Massachusetts branch of the Grand Trunk.

Attorney Haight agreed not to encumber the road's property in any way and was given till Thursday to decide whether he would transfer the case to the federal court.

Marsch claims he lost $1,500,000 through the road's action in abandoning the New England extension of the line.

ALDERMAN IS ARRESTED

Denies Charge of Accepting Bribe From a Junk Dealer

Beverly, Mass., June 25.—William Blaisdell, an alderman, was arrested on the charge of accepting a bribe. He was held in $1000 for a hearing Friday.

Judge Sears of the Salem court issued the warrant after hearing the testimony of Robert Arth, a junk dealer of Beverly, who said Blaisdell agreed, on receipt of $25, to get three other aldermen to vote with him in favor of granting a junk dealer's licence to Arth. Blaisdell denies the charge.

POINCARE IN LONDON

People and Government Show Friendly Feeling For French President

London, June 25.—The friendly feeling between Great Britain and France was manifested on the arrival in London of President Poincare, who is to be the guest of King George and the British nation until June 27. All the newspapers in editorial articles heartily welcomed the chief executive of the republic across the channel, and it is expected that his sojourn in London will impart additional solidity and warmth to the existing relations. Poincare was met at Portsmouth on behalf of King George by the young Prince of Wales.

The president and the Prince of Wales departed on the royal train for London. King George was waiting at Victoria station to greet the president and after a few cordial words, escorted Poincare to York House, which has been placed at his disposal during his stay. They passed through lavishly decorated streets lined by the regiments of the brigade of guards.

BEATEN TILL BLOOD FLOWS

Brutal Father First Hangs Daughter by Neck on a Hook

Augusta, Ga., June 25.—Charges that he fastened a chain around the neck of his 15-year-old daughter, suspended her from a meat hook in his butcher shop and then beat her with the butt end of a whip until the blood flowed from her wounds, were made against J. J. Johnson in the recorder's court.

Policeman Moore, who arrested Johnson, said he was called by neighbors, who heard the girl's screams, and that when he reached the meat market he found the girl suspended from a meat hook by a chain wrapped twice around her neck and locked.

The girl's arms and neck, the officer testified, showed evidences of severe beating and she was exhausted when released.

Johnson said he whipped his daughter because he could not control her. His case was continued. One of the specific charges against him is assault with intent to murder.

PRISONER FLEES FROM COURTROOM

Leaps Through Window, Taking Sash and Curtain With Him

Dedham, Mass., June 25.—Eugene H. Worster escaped from the prisoners' pen in the Dedham court and, jumping through a window to the ground six feet below, rushed toward Boston.

Court had adjourned and Worster was awaiting the arival of the van that was to take him to jail. Worster opened the door of the cage, which was not locked, and before he could be prevented by Probation Officer Schultz, who was at the opposite side of the room, the prisoner had jumped through the window, carrying the sash and window curtain with him. He was soon lost from sight.

The two complaints against Worster were for breaking and entering. In each case Judge Grover had found probable cause and the prisoner had been held in $500 in each case for the grand jury.

BUFFALO GRAIN MILL BLOWS UP

Ten Men Reported Killed, While Others Are Missing

AT LEAST SIXTY ARE INJURED

Hospital Doctors Say Half of Them Have but Slight Chance of Recovery —Fire Which Followed Explosion Causes Many to Be Burned as Well as Seriously Maimed

Buffalo, June 25.—Ten men are believed to be dead, sixty were injured, some fatally, while four are reported missing, as the result of an explosion and fire which destroyed the big grain mill and storage warehouse of the Husted Milling company. The damage will amount to $500,000.

The explosion was terrific. Windows for a quarter of a mile around were broken. The whole north wall of the immense structure was blown out. The bodies of men were hurled high in the air. An engineer in the cab of a passing train was thrown from his seat, receiving injuries which will probably be fatal. Fire following immediately after the explosion completed the work of horror.

Every ambulance available in the city was rushed to the scene as quickly as possible. Physicians from all parts of the city were pressed into service. The dead and injured were loaded into ambulances and cars of trains passing by the elevator located beside the tracks of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis and Nickel Plate railroads.

Puffing of dust accumulations in the feed house are believed to have caused the explosion. Its detonation had scarcely aroused the city and the earth tremor of the shock subsided before alarms for fire were sent in from sections about the mill.

So quickly did the flames spread that many of the men injured in the explosion were imprisoned and burned, some fatally, before the rescuers could reach the scene and aid the victims.

Firemen, police and citizens worked like mad among the burning structure.

There are sixty injured in the various hospitals of the city, half of whom, according to the hospital physicians, are so badly burned that they have but slight chance of recovery. The majority are burned about the head, face, arms and chest, and a few are suffering from broken arms and legs. Others, slightly injured, were treated at their homes.

At the scene of the accident a priest administered the last rites to twenty-five men who were believed at the time to be mortally hurt.

A WILD WEST WRECK

Seats and Canvas Scattered When Cars and Vans Overturn

Boston, June 25.—The 101 Ranch Wild West show experienced a delay of several hours when two flat cars, the property of the show people, were derailed while taking a cross-over in Somerville.

The cars carried six steel framed vans, which were loaded with seats and canvas, and they were thrown to the ground by the sudden drop of the cars and canvas and seats littered the tracks.

Traffic on both divisions of the Boston and Maine road was completely tied up for half an hour and thousands of Boston commuters were compelled to walk half a mile to the nearest trolley line.

Thousand Members of Imperator's Crew Denounce Working Conditions

Hoboken, N. J., June 25.—A thousand members of the crew of the giant ocean steamer Imperator, now in this port, held a mass meeting here and adopted resolutions denouncing working conditions on the vessel, demanding better food, better sleeping accommodations and a nine-hour day.

Speakers said the men had been "treated like pigs," poorly fed and over-worked. Their quarters were crowded, it was said; sixteen hours' work a day was not unusual and the sanitary equipment was inadequate.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WAYS OF COOKING LOBSTER.

TO open a lobster first boil it, then separate the tail from the main part of the lobster and shake out the liver.

Draw the body from the shell, freeing it from the stomach, which is situated near the head, by pressing the meat near the head close against the shell with the first and second finger.

Split the lobster through the center and take out the meat. Cut the underside of the tail shell open with a sharp knife or scissors and remove the meat in one or two large pieces.

In taking out this meat look on the upper part near where the tail joined the body proper and lift up the small piece of flesh. Underneath will be found a vein running the entire length. Remove this.

The easiest way to remove the meat from the claws is to crack the shell with the broad side of a hammer.

A Lobster Pastry.

Vol-au-vent of Lobster.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter over the fire and stir into one and one-half ounces of flour. When thoroughly mixed dilute gradually with one pint of boiling white stock. Add the juice of half a lemon and a seasoning of salt and pepper, the yolks of two eggs beaten up with a spoonful or so of milk or cream. Then put in the flesh of two small cooked lobsters, cut into dice, stirring these all together over the fire. Have ready a vol-au-vent case, fill with the mixture, put on the cover and serve at once as hot as possible.

Lobster Stew.—Take a three pound lobster, remove the meat from shell and chop finely. Place one quart of milk in double boiler. Scald. Mix two tablespoonfuls of flour, pinch of salt, dash of pepper with enough cold milk to mix well. Add this to scalded milk and stir well for three minutes. Add a piece of butter the size of a walnut and the lobster. Cook for five minutes. Serve with crackers.

Piquant Viands.

Broiled Lobster.—Cut a cooked lobster in half lengthways, removing all the uneatable parts. Open it out flat, dot from one-half ounce to one ounce of butter broken up small all over it, dust it with pepper and place the halves of the lobster just as they are on a gridiron and let heat slowly over a clear fire. When quite hot serve on a hot dish garnished with parsley and seasoned with lemon juice and a dust of coralline pepper.

Buttered Lobster.—Remove the meat from a freshly boiled lobster, mince it up finely and put in a casserole with one and one-half ounces of butter rolled in flour. Stir it all over a slow fire until quite hot. Then add a grate of nutmeg, a dessertspoonful of chili or ordinary vinegar, to which a grain or two of cayenne and half a saltspoonful of white pepper have been added and two tablespoonfuls of good gravy. Heat it all again and when thoroughly hot serve in the halved shells. Sprinkle with breadcrumbs.

PUPILS GIVEN AN OUTING

Tuesday was indeed a gala day at Nantasket. It might have been called "Children's Day," as the number of children at the beach would have been hard to estimate.

Three Sunday School picnics; the Boy Scouts; Co. H. 2nd Boy's Regiment all from Brockton a church picnic from Montello the Universalist picnic from Quincy and the Adams school pupils from Quincy made a beautiful showing of the rising generation of South Shore.

A jolly crowd from the Adams school left Quincy centre at 10 o'clock for a basket picnic. All enjoyed the trip. Arriving at the beach, all sat for a group picture taken with a kodak by Mrs. Lucy B. Page, a teacher of the school.

This was followed by lunch, goodies galore which disappeared quickly, including the famous Paragon Park ice cream cones.

The children were restrained only in indulging in roller coasters, everything else was patronized, Paragon Park being free to "picnic parties" for the day.

Many went in bathing and then visited the park where they saw the sea lions and the exhibition of acrobats.

At 5.30 when their car arrived, reluctantly they left the scene of a delightfully spent day. A vote of thanks and three rousing cheers were given for Mrs. Page and Miss Jennie Griffin another teacher.

They did not forget to cheer for the affable conductor and motorman who certainly did enjoy the jolly youngsters.

The Adams school yell; cheers for the old and for the new Adams schools were given and the patriotic songs of their concert, held in Music hall last April were sung, much to the enjoyment of everybody.

Arriving at Quincy a happy lot of children wended their way to Ward Three.

Relaid in 1911 after eight years service and is still giving good service. There is a law of averages in the lifetime of roofings just as there is in the life-time of men. FINE PROGRAM GIVEN AT HIGH GRADUATION

Notable Address on "The Meaning of Education" by John G. Thompson

Chairman Miller Announces This the Last Graduation at Which He Would Officiate

In the presence of an interesting gathering of mothers, fathers and friends, 115 young men and women of the class of 1913 were graduated from the Quincy High School in the assembly hall Wednesday evening with particularly appropriate exercises. The class, the largest in the educational history of the High school presented a fine appearance.

During the exercises a shot rang out followed closely by groans. Several in the audience rapidly reached a window through which they saw the prostrate form of a man. These few left the hall but what had actually occurred was unknown to the people in general until all outside excitement had quieteded. Ushers and teachers who were immediately acquainted with the true facts stood at the doors and would have done their utmost to urge people to remain for the completion of the program.

An unexpected portion was added to the program by John L. Miller, chairman of the school committee, who, previous to his presenting the diplomas quietly made the announcement that this was probably the last class that would receive the reward of their public school education at his hands. A wave of inquiry swept the hall as questioning glances were directed at the speaker who however made no further comment.

The address was by John G. Thompson, principal of the Fitchburg Normal school. His topic, "The Meaning of Education" was discussed in a logical, though entertaining way. Never before, if the recollections of the Ledger reporter are correct, has anyone who has spoken to a class of graduates here received more genuine applause than Mr. Thompson. He won his audience at the start and never lost them until he drew a remarkable conclusion to his scholarly and instructive address.

A glimpse of the interior of the hall through the glass doors caused more than one sigh of anticipation to escape from the fortunate guests and as they entered they were charmed with the simple, natural beauty of the platform whereon were seated the graduates. Banked across the row of lights were flowers in abundance. Starting near the end the committee had woven stem after stem of varied blossoms into a chain which grew thicker and brighter as it reached to its centre, a wealth of handsome Jack roses, the class flower.

On each panel was laid colored cloth, draped at the top and bottom and supporting the four foot, blossoming class numerals. Across the hall, over the platform in well executed Old English letters was the class motto, "Esse Non Videri." On the floor were seated the high school orchestra while on the opposite side was a bower of greenery, harboring a table on which set a lamp which reflected its rays on

HANDSOME ROSES.

Aside from attending to his numerous duties as Chairman of the Board of Health, Chairman Teasdale finds time to busy himself about his rose garden with which he has been unusually successful this year, for a handsomer lot of roses would be hard to find. FRANCIS GILRANE IS SHOT BY OFFICER JOHN J. AVERY

Shooting Followed a Street Fight Near the High School in Which Gilrane had Taken Part

Officer Claims That he Fired Toward the Ground While Chasing Gilrane to Make Him Stop

Francis Gilrane of Carruth street was shot by Officer John J. Avery Wednesday evening on Butler road when Gilrane refused to stop at the officers command. The shooting occurred about 8.40 while the graduation exercises at the High school were in progress.

From what can be learned Gilrane and Thomas McDonnell met on Hancock street near the High school. According to Gilrane, who is a brother-in- law of McDonnell, he met McDonnell near the High school and an argument started during which he claims that McDonnell insulted his family. A fight was immediately started during which McDonnell was knocked down. The noise of the fight was heard by officers Avery and Canavan who were at the graduation, and they rushed out.

Avery says that when he came up to the men one of them was on the ground and the other standing over him. At the sight of the two officers both McDonnell and Gilrane jumped to their feet and tried to get away. McDonnell started up Bridge street with Officer Canavan in pursuit. The officer overhauled his man before reaching the President's bridge and placed him under arrest.

Officer Avery started after Gilrane who dodged behind an electric car and started down Butler road with the officer in pursuit. The officer says that he shouted twice to Gilrane to stop but he kept on. Then the officer drew his gun and fired. He says that he did not fire at the man but intended to fire into the grass so as to frighten the man. Unfortunately however the bullet found lodgement in the right buttock, and Gilrane dropped like a log.

Chief Burrell who was at the graduating exercises, where his daughter was one of the graduates, rushed out as did also many of the others at the graduation, and in a few minutes the street in front of the school was filled with an exciting throng.

Chief Burrell sent for Dr. Hunting of the school board who was at the graduation exercises also City Physician Dr. Ash who was also present. Rev. James F. McNiff of the Sacred Heart church also came out of the High school hall.

The place where the shooting took place was near the side entrance to the High school and directly under the windows of the hall where the exercises were taking place. The police auto was sent for and the injured man with officers Avery and Canavan, McDonnell and the injured man and Chief Burrell were rushed to the City Hospital, after which McDonnell was taken to the police station and locked up.

The surgeons at the Hospital found that the bullet had entered the right buttock and had turned to the right fracturing the thigh bone. The bone was set although the surgeons were unable to find the bullet. The wound is not necessarily a dangerous one and Gilrane will probably recover. An attempt will be made today to find the bullet by the use of the X ray machine.

Although McDonnell married Gilrane's sister there has always been bad blood between the two men and whenever they met, especially if either had been drinking there was sure to be trouble. How the two men happened to meet Wednesday night is not known but it is said that it was but a minute after they had met before blows began to fall, and it was the noise of this fight that attracted the attention of the officers on duty at the school hall.

At the time of the shooting it is said by eye witnesses that a distance of not more than twelve feet separated the officer from Gilrane and considerable surprise is expressed that he should have even drawn a revolver.

As officer Avery says he doubtless had no intention of shooting Gilrane and the only reason he fired was to frighten him and make him stop. The distance between the two men was so short however that the bullet instead of entering the ground as intended hit Gilrane.

Officer Avery has been a regular officer for several years and for the past few years has been covering the night beat in the vicinity of the High school. He has always been considered a good officer and has an excellent record and has done considerable creditable work in the running down and arresting men who were annoying women in the vicinity of the Presidents bridge, as well as other police work. He is the last officer one would expect to use his revolver unless absolutely necessary. He is married and resides at Quincy Point.

Gilrane the injured man is also married and has one child. He lives on Carruth street.

Entrance blanks for the athletic events have left at the drug stores throughout the city. The events are for Quincy boys only and should be made to L. F. LaRose of the Y. M. C. A., before July 2, on which date the entries will close.

The circus menagerie does not attract so much interest as formerly, as all the animals are now the real thing.

The business men are now anxiously waiting for the college graduates to go to work for them, and reorganize their method on a scientific basis.

Andrew Carnegie was the only one at the Berlin jubilee dinner who wore plain black clothes without decorations. He might appropriately have tied a library card to his buttonhole.

Anyway, Congress has got to finish this session before March 4, 1915, as the newly elected members will then order them to vacate the Capitol.

Some people seem to feel that if the inflammable rubbish is cleaned out of their back yards before July 4, the firemen may not get their customary exercise.

Do some of these orators who discuss so fluently the billions of the currency law feel a start of surprise when they actually handle a twenty dollar bill?

The graduate should have his diploma sticking out of his pocket when he goes looking for work. Also if he puts over a few Latin quotations the boss will no doubt be impressed.

President Wilson wrote out his currency message on the typewriter. If he can handle the shift-key, so as to line the capitals all up properly, he will never lack employment.

The City Council should hesitate to ratify any water contract between the City of Quincy and the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, especially along the terms proposed; for house owners of the city now pay at the rate of $17,500.00 per million gallons, and it is proposed to charge the shipyard but $10.00 per million gallons. There can be no justice in such an inequality of rates.

But this is only one of many reasons why such a contract is undesirable.

The proposed contract will reduce the water revenue of the city; increase the debt and interest; and postpone the day when water rates generally may be reduced.

At best the gross revenue to the city from the company under the contract cannot exceed $3,650 per year, or $10 per million gallons per day. Should half a million gallons per day be ample the revenue would be but $1,825. Perhaps the company would use even less water.

The large water revenue which the city now receives from the Fore River Company would be lost, and the city would be put to the additional expense of installing the main from the reservoir to the shipyard; also for valves meters, meter readings, maintenance, etc.

It would be well to remember also, that the Metropolitan Water Commission assess Quincy about $50,000 annually for THREE million gallons of water per day, whereas Quincy proposes to charge but $3,650 for ONE million gallons per day.

WHY JULY 4 DEGENERATED.

The tendency for the national holiday to run into mere noise and hoodlumism, was due to a change in the way the grownups observed the day. Years ago there used to be processions, picnics, athletics, and a general jollification. The youngsters were content with two inch fire-crackers and simple pin-wheels.

Then the leading citizens of the community became tired of getting up patriotic festivals. It took too much time, and they wanted to make trips here and there.

Feeling that there ought to be "something doing," the boys undertook to fill the gap. Under their rule there came the dynamite cracker and the Deadly Fourth.

The modern tendency toward pageants, picnics, and athletics is simply a return to the spirit of the original Fourth, more or less modified to suit modern needs. Let all take hold and make it so lively that the Small Boy won't feel it is up to him to do all the celebrating the night before!

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING.

The above phrase was the recent convention slogan of the Associated Advertising Clubs. President Wilson's greeting expressed warm approval of the sentiment.

This motto expresses so thoroughly the spirit of retail advertising in a town like this, that one questions why this big organization needs to have given such prominence to the idea. It may seem like a confession.

Undoubtedly many of the advertising campaigns on a national scale, which blossom out in the magazines at high space rates, are over colored. You are promised all the blessings of health and happiness if you only eat Jones' bacon. Many of the attractive cuts printed in the mail order catalog are only a half truth. The cunning camera conceals all defects.

A druggist was once questioned why it was necessary to advertise that a certain medicine would be a sure cure Even admitting it was a good remedy it couldn't help all cases. He replied that if you simply told the truth, that it was helpful in the majority of instances, people would never buy it The public discounted anything that was said, and the advertising had consequently to be written above reality.

In the long run this exaggeration hurts. The mail order house and the national advertiser, however, are not easily accessible to customers. They can sell quite a quantity of goods before suffering for exaggeration.

The retail merchant catering to a public near his own store suffers instantly from any mis-statement. The goods, like the cat, come back. They come back very soon.

The imminence of retribution for misstatements in local advertising has compelled even a slippery merchant to be very careful of what he says in a newspaper. Hence the public can rely on it. When a merchant says publicly that his goods are so and so, he gives a bond to secure the genuineness of the article and the satisfaction of the purchaser.

THE COLLEGE RACES.

The big rowing events which come the last of June furnish a dramatic climax for the year of college sport Athletic authorities commonly deplore, in this connection, the fact that only a small minority of the colleges take up rowing, although a large part of them have navigable waters handy.

An almost hysterical tension accompanies the coaching of a college rowing team. The high strung American temperament takes it so hard that other forms of sport seem better suited to the average student.

The defeated English oarsman saunters away with a feeling of melancholy, and is soon consoled by pleasant reunions with former friends. The American fellow just defeated is almost or quite on the verge of tears. He slinks out of sight as if he had broken a bank or run off with the cook.

Some one calls the training eight months like a galley slave in preparation for 20 minutes of agony. The first preliminary practice pulls down weight four to seven pounds. The coxswain may have to divide his time between steering the boat and throwing water into the pallid face of the stroke oar.

The strain of baseball and football is distributed over a series of games. Young men of college age do not usually row more than one four mile race in a year, so if that fateful 20 minutes sees the race lost, the best vitality, hope, and energy of a year goes unto the discard in a storm of black despair.

A well trained oarsmen is a magnificent specimen of physical efficiency. But American boys take these contests too much to heart. Let the defeated oarsman cheer up. He is not the disgraced and leprous outcast of society that he thinks himself.

TONIGHT'S COUNCIL MEETING

Although the Fourth of July is some days off yet, there is likely to be a display of fireworks at tonights adjourned meeting of the City Council when the question of granting junk licenses comes up for action. There are now four junk license applications pending. At the meeting Monday night several of the junk applicants appeared before the council and testified. Charges were made that threats had been made by a certain city official.

On vote of the council this official was notified to be present at tonights meeting and if he comes, as is likely, he will have a word to say on the junk business in general. Aside from a squabble over the granting of junk licenses the meeting should not be a long one. It is probable that when an adjournment is taken it will be until the second Monday in September.

MAY RAILROAD I. W. W. LEADERS

Citizens of Ipswich Have Had Too Much of Them

SAY RED FLAG MUST GO

Movement For Appointment of "Vigilante" Committee Made at Mass Meeting—Strikers to Be Invited to Join In Flag Day Celebration—Strike Organizers In Defiant Mood

Ipswich, Mass., June 26.—At a mass meeting of the citizens of Ipswich in the town hall last night, at which more than 500 men and women were present, a movement for the appointment of a citizens' "vigilante" committee was planned, and ten citizens will be appointed by the board of selectmen.

It will be the duty of this committee to "railroad," either peaceably or by force, from Ipswich, the I. W. W. leaders who have been in charge of the strike of the 1000 men and women workers in the Ipswich hosiery mill.

"We have had too much of the red flag in Ipswich, too much of these so-called leaders, and we have got to do as we did in the days of 1776 and in 1861—we have got to meet force with force. We are going to run this town as a clean and law-abiding community if we have to railroad such men as Pingree and Hermann and the rest of the 'never-work gang of leaders.'"

This was the statement made at the beginning of the mass meeting by Chairman Hull of the board of selectmen, who also acted as chairman of the mass meeting.

While the citizens' meeting was in progress in the town hall, more than 600 strikers were assembled in the Greek church, a mile away, and listened to a fiery speech by Nathaniel Hermann, an I. W. W. organizer, who is in charge of the strike. Organizer Pingree has left town to collect funds for the benefit of the strikers, so Hermann declared.

Last night's mass meeting was called by the board of selectmen because of persistent rumors that the strikers intended to make a monster demonstration on the Fourth of July. Just as soon as the selectmen heard that such a demonstration was planned, orders were given that no merchant in Ipswich would be permitted to offer fireworks for sale and the use of all fireworks is prohibited.

Hull made a bitter denunciation of Pingree and Hermann, who were only recently freed from the charge of murder in having participated in the riot on the night of June 10, in which a Greek girl was shot to death.

In addition to Chairman Hull, there were speeches by Postmaster Waitt and former State Senator Schofield.

A monster parade, in which all "good citizens" of Ipswich will be invited to march will be the chief feature of the celebration of July 4, and it is proposed that every man in line shall carry an American flag.

"We want to show our Greek and Polish citizens that we are for them; we believe that they should have an increase, and the only way to get it is by a peaceful demonstration," said Schofield. "I hope that every one of the strikers will join us in the parade, and that each one will have an American flag, and forget the red banner of blood and anarchy of the I. W. W."

Thousands of miniature American flags were distributed by the citizens of Ipswich yesterday and every man and woman attending the mass meeting wore a flag.

When informed that the railroading of I. W. W. organizers had been suggested Hermann, now in charge of the strike, declared that if he and Pingree and the rest of his I. W. W. companions were railroaded from Ipswich they would come back, and that they would came back with reinforcements.

Hermann is now out on $1200 bail, he having the charge of "inciting to riot" hanging over him, along with Pingree and the latter's wife.

The board of selectmen will advise the "Citizens' Committee of Ten" to issue a circular, printed both in Greek and Polish, advising the strikers that the town "with them" and urging them to cast off their allegiance to the I. W. W. and depend upon loyal arbitration for a settlement of the strike.

CLOSE STORES AN HOUR

Merchants In Oregon Town Help Drive Out Two I. W. W. Leaders

Marshfield, Ore., June 26.—Business houses closed for an hour yesterday afternoon while proprietors joined several hundred men in driving two Industrial Workers of the World leaders out of town with warnings never to return.

The citizens then marched to the building where the workers have been accustomed to gather and gave the proprietor notice that all other members of the organization and their sympathizers would be similarly treated.

The deported pair were placed in a small boat, supplied with food for a day or two and taken eighteen miles from town before they were allowed to land.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

a choice collection of books, the foundation of the unusual beliefs expressed by Miss Marion Rand.

Included in the program were two high school choruses and two selections by the glee club. The pupils sang "Jehovah Reigns," Mendelssohn, and the "Song of the Vikings," Fanning, while the glee club gave "The Gallant Troubadour," Watson, and "The Fairy Song," Zimmerman. The well modulated tones of the mixed chorus had an indefinable charm which was expressed in the outburst of applause following each number.

Miss S. Maude Amsden was director and Edward Carrington Bullock and Miss Rosalie May Du Temple were the accompanists. The orchestra was William J. Roche, Edward Berman, Frances L. Hibberts, Lawrence Ferguson, Margaret E. White, Elton F. Chase and Edith L. Abbott.

Challen Morton Beattie, opened the speaking by delivering "An Interesting Epoch" in which he disputed the saying, "there is nothing new under the sun." So practical were his remarks that one could easily dream of the millenium, as far as housekeeping at least, was concerned. He also touched on the development of other necessities and luxuries, but best of all were his views of the changed program of education.

The old time feeling of awe and fear of teachers has been replaced with a companionship, friendship and simplicity, according to Mr. Beattie's observations of his public school career. All enjoy it together and in our own High school teachers enter into the occasion. He spoke of the comradicity between teachers and pupils, of the advancement and progress made in social events, including shows and socials. "We," he said, "who are about to go out into the world have lived in a wonderful age. Who can say what we may give or see given to the world in the years to come."

Miss Beatrice Costello, in "Songs of Other Lands" and Miss Priscilla Robinson in "Songs of Home" romanced with their audience. Assisting both was the double quartette, Edward Bullock, soloist, of the school, which sang old favorites which were followed by word pictures of the inspiration drawn from them by men who have been active in world's history. All countries were favored and a most pleasing half hour was passed by those through whose heads ran snatches of the old, but ne'er to be forgotten masterpieces.

Miss Rand's five feet of books were slightly different from the heavy works chosen by Dr. Eliot but he never described more touchingly his love for his books than did Miss Rand as she waxed eloquent, tearful and humorous in the descriptions of the Bible, Idylls of the King, Tale of Two Cities, Lorna Doone, Old Virginian and Mark Twain. Quaint were her descriptions, clear was her enunciation and sorry were her audience as she gracefully reclined in the wicker chair beside her table, with her head resting on one hand while the other idly strayed over the books of her choice.

Mr. Thompson was presented by Ernest L. Collins, principal of the school. He said that Mr. Thompson was going to tell them how and why of the "Leaning of Education."

Mr. Thompson said it was the most intelligent audience he had ever faced, in Quincy, but he had never appeared here before. He consumed about 20 minutes. He said one of the phases of modern education that appealed to him is that pupils have been taught to love nature. Everything is changing. Something drives out the accomplishments of the lowest inanimate forms in the mineral and vegetable world. We are impelled to do our best.

The question lies here, is it haphazard or a purposeful development. Mr. Thompson talked along progressive lines and illustrated his meaning with the experience of a city chap who said to a down East farmer, "you don't know who I am or what I want er where I'm going, "and the farmer, in his characteristic way looked him over and answered, "Yes, I do. You're a darn fool, going nowhere, after nothing."

So, back in the hearts of these young human beings there is something always urging them. This is true of all life when it becomes conscious of the hidden force within us. It is a question of directing it into the proper channels. Education never finishes and in order to appreciate the beauties of one part you must complete the first part. It can be summed up in four words, joy, love, work and life.

Chairman Miller prefaced his presentation with a brief and interesting speech in which he told the pupils that one and one half millions had been expended for education since he became a member of the committee and that $800,000 was for buildings. He said no regrets were felt because of this expenditure. He offered his congratulations to the class, urged them to fine efforts and said he particularly wished this the largest class ever graduated, to make good since it was probably the last to receive a diploma at his hands.

The closing number was the singing of the original graduation song written by Russell Green in which the class took farewell of all its material connection with the school. As they marched out of the hall they were applauded long and loudly.

FINED FOR SPEEDING.

Although Zenas W. Lewis of Brockton, major-general of the Patriarchs Militant, took the witness stand in defense of his chauffeur Robert E. Farren, who was arraigned for violation of the automobile laws at Milton, Judge Avery declared him guilty and assessed him the costs $10.

The offense was committed on Thatcher street which has a double curve, Officers Fallon and Shields were the complainants. Chief of Police Pierce conducted the prosecution and Attorney Heathcroft of the A. L. A. represented Farren.

The visiting attorney was vigorous and his attempts to bewilder the officers were unsuccessful. He became angry and told the court that he did not care to have Mrs. Lewis testify because of the treatment witnesses were receiving.

He referred to the cross examination of General Lewis by Chief Pierce who forced him to admit that he had not looked at the speedometer. When he asserted continuously that he could judge the speed of his 70 horse power Oldsmobile, Chief Pierce told the court he was a wonder.

Judge Avery assured the visiting brother that his witnesses were being courteously treated.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

Continuing the custom of several years, the Library will this year again lend books for the summer with vacation privileges. These privileges are, that any one registered at the Library who is going away for the summer, may borrow ten books,—fiction, non fiction, or both and may set the date when they will be returned. No recent fiction may be borrowed in this way, nor any other book for which there is constant demand. The regular fine will be charged for books not returned on or before the date set by the borrower.

The Library has issued this week a selected list on Camping and Scouting which includes a few books on allied subjects, such as Boats and boating, Sports, etc. These lists may be had as usual at the main library, and at the branches.

Next week not only marks the 137th anniversary of our nation's birthday, but it is also the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, which took place July 1, 2, 3, and 4 in 1863, and in celebration of which Congress has authorized the Secretary of War "to make certain provisions for the care of the participants." The late Lieut. Col. and Brevet—Col. of the 37th Reg't. of Mass. Vols., Mason Whiting Tyler, had written just before his death his Recollections of the Civil War, and it has been published lately by his son. This book contains an unusually interesting personal account of the battle The Library has just added these Recollections and the call number is 402.45.

SHOOTING OF BIRDS.

The eagerly-awaited regulations of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Biological Survey, fixing the seasons in which the shooting of migratory birds is allowed, authorized under the recently enacted Weeks-McLean migratory bird law, have just been made public by the Department. They are effective as of October 1, 1913.

Generally speaking, the country is divided into two zones, northern and southern, the dividing line running wholly or in part north of latitude 40 degrees and the Ohio River.

In most cases three months of open shooting are allowed for water fowl and in some cases as much as three and one-half months.

Spring shooting is absolutely prohibited.

Shooting of migratory birds between sunset and sunrise is likewise prohibited.

Birds that may be shot are divided by the new regulations into four classes. No shooting whatever is allowed of cranes, or the columbidae-doves, pigeons, etc.

A closed season until Sept. 1, 1918 is established for band-tailed pigeons, little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlew, all shore birds except black breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack snipe, wood duck, greater and lesser yellow legs. Wood duck in addition are given a closed season in Massachusetts.

Insectivorous birds, including robins, larks etc., are protected at all times in all states and similar protection is given the smaller shore birds and other species which have been greatly reduced in number.

The regulations constitute beyond a doubt the most sweeping action ever taken in the country's history towards the protection of its wild life. They take absolute precedence of all existing statutes in the several states with which they come in conflict. That they will be of the greatest interest to the 25,000,000 or more of the country's population who are directly or indirectly concerned with the subject to which they pertain is certain. It is felt that on the whole the underlying principles are sound and well adapted to an urgent need. Wise discrimination for the most part seems to have been made in dealing with species that are relatively abundant and those that are not holding their own under existing regulations and there is evident intent of giving a square deal to all sections of the country.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NO NEGLIGENCE IN GREAT EXPLOSION

Report on Disaster in Which Over Sixty Lives Were Lost

Plymouth, Mass., June 26.—The explosion and fire which destroyed the shoe factory of the R. B. Grover company at Brockton and caused the loss of more than sixty lives on March 20, 1905, were not due either to negligence on the part of the corporation or to incompetence of the engineer, according to the finding announced by Probate Judge Chamberlain, who was appointed auditor to hear the testimony in fourteen damage suits against the company.

The Grover factory fire was one of the worst in the history of New England. The boiler exploded with such force as to cause the collapse of the wooden factory building. Fire broke out in the ruins.

The suits were brought either by persons injured in the disaster or by relatives of victims, the plaintiffs alleging that the company was negligent and that the engineer was intoxicated.

Sentence was deferred.

Witnesses from several cities testified that Blanc was extensively interested in immoral traffic in women. He was arrested here after he had boarded a steamer about to depart for France.

Boston, June 26.—The brakes on the locomotive and cars which made up the second section of train 53, wrecked at Stamford, Conn., June 12, were in good serviceable condition at the time of the accident, according to a report of experts made public here.

The experts declared, after exhaustive tests in which the train was taken out for road trials, that the brakes were in every way capable of stopping the train short of the home signal at Stamford at the time of the accident. The report is signed by the four members of the committee.

MAXIMS OF MARCUS AURELIUS.

Thou wilt find rest from vain fancies if thou doest every act in life as though it were thy last.

As for life, it is a battle and a sojourning in a strange land, but the fame that comes after is oblivion.

The lot assigned to every man is suited to him and suits him to itself.

The universe is change. Our life is what our thoughts make it.

Nothing can come out of nothing any more than a thing can go back to nothing.

DEATH RESULTS FROM TORTURE

Two Youths Fill Companion With Compressed Air

SAY IT WAS ONLY A "JOKE"

Coroner Finds Body Greatly Swollen and Marks of Violence on Arms and Throat—Pair Arrested and May Have to Answer to Charge of Manslaughter

Camden, N. J., June 26.—Officials have begun a thorough investigation into the death of Joseph DeFine, 18, who died after two companions pumped compressed air into his body, rupturing his stomach and intestines. Demands have been made for an extensive probe into the affair, which the youths, Eugene Byscher and William Simon, say began as a "joke."

DeFine was tortured during the noon hour at the plant where all three were employed. New compressed air machines had just been installed and in order to test them Byscher and Simon claim they induced DeFine to put the brass tube of one machine in his mouth, then turning on the air. The lad died before he had been taken three blocks in an ambulance.

There was none to witness what really occurred when DeFine received his injuries. The other lads came running into the office saying DeFine was sick. The men who went to investigate found him unconscious and gasping, his face enpurpled.

It is believed the frightened torturers lost considerable time before calling for aid in efforts they made to revive their victim, but in any event DeFine's injuries were so terrible that he could not have recovered.

When the body was examined at the hospital Coroner Bentley and physicians noted the greatly swollen condition of the body and marks of violence were found on the arms and throat, which may, at the coroner's inquest, be adduced as contradicting the story Byscher and Simon tell.

They were arrested and committed by Justice Huyett to the Camden county prison in default of $1000 bail each on a charge of atrocious assault. The detectives say the boys protest they had no grudge or ill-will against DeFine and that their only notion in submitting him to the powerful shock of compressed air was by way of playing a "joke" on him. They assert, despite the marks of bruises on his arms and neck, that they did not force the tube down his throat. They deny they held him down and forcibly kept the tube in his mouth after they had persuaded him, as they say, to insert it. It is expected the charge against the youths will be changed to manslaughter.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Double Crime of Boston Man In Last Stages of Consumption

Boston, June 26.—Nebalo Nazzara, who yesterday noon shot and killed his wife in a West End hotel restaurant and then turned his revolver upon himself, died last night. Both victims of the double tragedy died without regaining consciousness. Three little girls are orphaned by the tragedy.

Nazzara, the police say, learned yesterday that his wife was seeking a legal separation from him. In the last stages of consumption and out of work, it is said the news of the proposed action of his wife affected his mind.

That Nazzara had made threats to take the life of his wife is the statement of the police. He had also told his brothers of his intention to kill his wife and himself. They paid no attention to his remarks.

FIFTEEN PERHAPS KILLED

Express Train Laden With Immigrants Drops Into a River

Ottawa, June 26.—Fifteen persons are believed to have been killed on the Canadian Pacific railway's western express train, three miles west of here. Four cars tumbled down an embankment into the Ottawa river, and two were wrecked on the track.

The train was heavily laden with immigrants. The cause of the accident, it was said, was spreading rails.

GERMAN SPY CONVICTED

Student of British Torpedoes and Submarines Gets Five Years

Winchester, Eng., June 26.—William Klare, a German dentist residing at Portsmouth, was found guilty at the assizes here on the charge of espionage at Portsmouth, England's chief naval station. He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

Torpedoes and submarines, it developed at the trial, were the special subjects of Klare's research.

Ulysses Grant to Wed Again

San Diego, Cal., June 26.—The betrothal of Ulysses S. Grant, son of the late president, and Mrs. A. L. Wills of Marshalltown, Ia., is announced. Mrs. Wills is 35 years old, while Grant has passed his 60th milestone.

ROSS THE BALTIC

Arrives at Stockholm After Breaking Another Record

Stockholm, June 25.—The French aviator, Moulinais, who recently made a record flight from Paris to St. Petersburg, arrived here yesterday, having crossed the Baltic in his aeroplane from Reval in four hours, including the time spent in making a descent on the Swedish coast in order to ascertain his whereabouts. He intends to start again tomorrow for Copenhagen on his way back to Paris.

The flight of Moulinais across the Baltic exceeds in daring any aeroplane journey as yet undertaken over open water. The Baltic, at the point crossed by the aviator, is approximately 25 miles wide. The longest previous water journey under similar conditions was that of Garros last fall, when he flew across the Mediterranean from Tunis to Sicily. The distance here is approximately 175 miles.

PATCHIN GETS $19,500

Bulk of Suicide Fletcher's Estate Goes to Another Palmist

Cambridge, Mass., June 26.—The will of John W. Fletcher, the palmist, who killed himself in his office on April 22 last, as the police were about to arrest him, was allowed by Judge McIntire in the uncontested session of the probate court here. He left a $28,500 estate, and $19,500 of it goes to Cameron A. Patchin, a New York palmist. Nine thousand dollars is left to relatives and friends.

Within a week after the Fletcher will was filed last April, fourteen people, who claimed to be relatives, filed their intentions to contest it. It has been since proven that thirteen of them had no legal standing in court through relationship, and the only real near relative, an aged man, withdrew his objections.

CHAUFFEUR WAS SLIGHTLY MUDDLED

Explorer Amundsen Lost In Portland as a Result

Portland, Me., June 26.—Without his quadrant or his chronometer, Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole and the man who had trod the trackless wastes of the Antarctic polar cap, was lost for forty-five minutes in the city of Portland last night because his taxicab driver had participated too much of the cup that cheers.

Captain Amundsen had been given a cordial greeting by his fellow countrymen in the city during the day. They nearly filled the immense city hall here in the evening and eagerly awaited his coming. But he did not come—at least for some time.

Just how the discoverer of the South Pole happened to get lost was learned later. He does not speak the best of English and when he gave his direction, "city hall," to the chauffeur, that individual, with beclouded brain, thought he said "city home," and took the explorer to the poor farm. He took him to several places where weddings were being held and finally reached city hall.

BARNEY DECLARED INSANE

Springfield Millionaire Has Done Much In Way of Benefactions

Springfield, Mass., June 26.—Everett H. Barney of this city, of Barney & Berry, skate manufacturers and millionaire philanthropist, has been declared insane by Dr. Kilroy, a local alienist, and Dr. Martin, his family physician. The court was petitioned for a guardian to manage his affairs.

Springfield's famous Forest park is one of Barney's gifts to the city and upon his death his beautiful estate on the Connecticut river, Pecousic Judge Long of the probate court on Villa, also goes to the city. He is 80 years old. The case will be heard by July 2.

PRISCILLA IS RAISED

Schooner Rammed by Steamer Is Not Badly Damaged

Boston, June 26.—By means of chains run under the bow and stern, the fishing schooner Priscilla, sunk by the steamer Machigonne off Commonwealth pier Tuesday, was raised yesterday, towed to East Boston and grounded in the mud. After the water had been pumped out, she was taken to a wharf in East Boston for repairs.

It was comparatively an easy job to bring her to the surface, and as she came up she appeared to have sustained practically no damage with the exception of the slice taken off her stern just inside the transoms.

Death of Minstrel Thacher

Orange, N. J., June 26.—George Thatcher, an old-time minstrel, died here of cancer, aged 63 years. He formerly played with Primrose and West and other minstrel stars, after which he appeared in vaudeville.

WILSON PILOTS OVER SHOALS

Has Saved Administration a Dangerous Situation

POLITICS IN McNAB CASE?

District Attorney Said to Have Made Plans to Seek Nomination For Governor—Secretary of Labor and Attorney General Not Relieved of Criticism In Delaying Prosecution

Washington, June 26.—President Wilson's skill in saving a dangerous situation and in dealing justice to all interests concerned has been put to the test in his disposition of the McNab-Caminetti case which has caused the administration serious embarrassment.

The one feature upon which Washington is commenting is the president's promptness and apparent fairness to all parties. Since District Attorney McNab went over the head of his official superior, the attorney general, there was but one course to pursue in regard to him—to accept his resignation.

The president, in ordering immediate prosecution of the "white slave" cases without delay for any cause, personal or impersonal, has indirectly administered a rebuke to Secretary of Labor Wilson, whose plea for delay is regarded generally in Washington as indiscreet rather than wrong.

The resolutions of investigation now before the house, which will be heard by the judiciary committee, will bring forth any possible concealed evidence, but it is the current opinion here that the case is ended for purely political ramifications.

Among these must be mentioned the fact that McNab, according to information from California, is making a strong play for nomination as governor on the regular Republican ticket, running as Hiram Johnson's opponent. How much this influenced McNab's actions can only be guessed, but those who are in close touch with the situation in California say this influence amounts to a good deal.

Representative Kent, Independent, of California, has been, it is believed, giving the administration the benefit of his advice, and it is conceded to have been his suggestion that the name of Francis J. Heney, the "graft prosecutor," has been mentioned as a special counsel to continue the case. At the White House the incident is regarded as closed except for the work of selecting the special counsel.

The point is made in current comment here that although the president has sharply criticised McNab and accepted his resignation without hesitation, he has ordered exactly the proceedings insisted upon by McNab in both the Diggs-Caminetti and Bruce-Smith cases, and that the documents made public have not relieved either the secretary of labor or the attorney general of the distinction of having failed to appreciate the public bearings of the cases or to estimate the political effect upon the administration of flying in the face of a strong countrywide public sentiment.

The circumstance which aroused this sentiment was the intimation from San Francisco that Diggs and Caminetti were relying upon official "pull" at Washington to delay action and perhaps permit them to escape altogether. When this was made public the administration had no other course than to order the trials after the official documents giving the history of the cases were in hand.

The public has learned with surprise also that a subordinate in the department of justice or even the attorney general himself can override the findings of a grand jury, and although this custom may be familiar to lawyers, taken in connection with the other circumstances of the Caminetti case the shock has given point to the telegram of protest from the twenty-three members of the federal grand jury which heard the cases of the directors of the Western Fuel company.

PROTEST FROM CHURCHES

Ask President That Cases Be Brought Immediately to Trial

San Francisco, June 26.—The San Francisco Church federation sent the following telegram to President Wilson:

"We urgently request speedy trials of the Diggs-Caminetti and Western Fuel cases here. If the indicted men are innocent they should have their innocence speedily determined by the courts. If guilty, let punishment follow. We believe all should stand up before the law regardless of wealth, position or political prominence."

CLEVER DRESSING HINTS.

Glimpses of Coming Modes—Silks Prominent—"Niniche" Hat Toques —Vests— Gloves—Veils.

Half the world of womankind has come to depend largely on "ready mades" for the replenishing of their wardrobes and for the person who plans cleverly so that her things last over well from season to season, there are great opportunities in the clearance sales that offer costumes of all sorts at little above cost, sometimes it's at less. To take advantage of such "occasions" as they call them in Paris, one must know as much as possible of the trend of style. Which modes are advanced and likely to remain and which have been so overdone that they are practically dead.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

All the "ready made" designers are now getting out Autumn clothes, so that a glimpse behind the curtains is invaluable to the woman who plans ahead. A revival of Louis XV modes is coming as various signs show. In Paris they are powdering the hair, not much, just a dash but the perruque or queue is predicted by Fall. Neck ruffs are already arrived, and the wearing of a narrow band of black velvet ribbon about the throat tied coquettishly in a small bow at the left side. Slides of brilliants and tips of the same for the ends of the ribbon are often used. The lorgnette ribbon of velvet or moire similarly ornamented is reckoned extremely smart. There are ribbons for this use of white or black moire, with tiny edges in contrast. The black with white edges, the white with black borders, that are new and smart not only for the lorgnettes but for the small watch, which is worn locket fashion.

SILK EXCELLENT STYLE.

Silk frocks remain in excellent vogue, so that one is quite sure the Autumn will see them in great use, and silk coats, especially the kind that slope into tails at the back are perfectly in line with coming modes. Yellow or natural tones in gloves are better style in Paris than white and we'll get that fad here shortly too. Long Mousquetaires are the thing with abbreviated sleeves and the more they wrinkle the better they are liked.

VEILS AND GAMPS.

Veils still languish, but there are some enticing showings in the very newest things that are likely to catch on later in the season. There is a new Bulgarian veil, woven with the face part plain and the rest figured, that occulists will surely approve. Silk washable veils for motor use and travelling reversible veils, half plain, half figured, so that you can turn either side up or down over the face.

5318

The above design is by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

All sorts of gamps can be had ready to wear with only a tiny bit of adjustment, and these are a great convenience for wear with tailor suits, now that low blouses are so universal. Vests are increasingly popular, so much so that the latest and most expensive blouses show vest attachments modelled exactly after a man's garment even to the matching silk back with a strap, only where a man hides his under a coat never removed outside his room, the women's variety are supposed to be in full sight when the coat is laid off.

NEW JEWELRY.

The latest thing in jewelry are sets of wedding veil pins, which come in pairs made up on platinum in the form of an extra size hair pin, the top half circle or open oval set with diamonds or pearls. Hat pins also come in pairs, and are small and dainty in their make up and finish. Seed pearl effects, and platinum set with small brilliant rhinestones are very much liked.

CARROT OPPORTUNITIES.

THE carrot is one of the most useful vegetables which the housewife has on hand in the spring before fresh garden vegetables are available for cooking.

Carrot soup, salad, croquettes and puddings are among the variations available in serving this food.

A Wholesome Soup.

Cream of Carrot Soup.—Take four good sized carrots, scrape clean and then grate them. Place three pints of flavored white stock in a saucepan and simmer the carrot in it for an hour and a half. Rub together two tablespoonfuls of butter with the same quantity of flour, add it to the soup and continue stirring till it all boils. Let the soup cool a little, then add half a pint of cream, a tablespoonful of minced boiled onion, with pepper and salt to taste. Pour into a very hot soup tureen and serve with fried dice of bread. If milk should be substituted for cream a larger quantity will be needed.

Carrot Croquettes.—Take six carrots of fine texture. Put in a saucepan with a piece of butter, a small lump of sugar and as much water as may be needed to make a cupful of sauce. Add some minced parsley, pepper and a teaspoonful of salt. Let simmer uncovered until tender enough to mash fine. Then measure and to each cupful add the yolks of two raw eggs, a little nutmeg, a tablespoonful of butter and salt and pepper, if needed. Mix thoroughly and set away to cool. Then shape in tiny croquettes, dip in beaten egg, roll in fine crumbs and fry in deep hot fat.

Nice Way of Creaming.

Creamed Carrots.—Cut up enough carrots to make a quart. Take the carrots, one tablespoonful each of finely chopped onion, butter, flour, chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of salt and a half teaspoonful of white pepper. Put the carrots on in boiling water enough to cover and boil until tender. Drain and save the water in which they were cooked. Put the butter and onion into a saucepan over the fire and cook one minute. Add the flour and mix well, then add one cupful of the carrot water. Mix the carrots and sauce together and add the salt, pepper and parsley. Cook three minutes.

Carrot Pudding.—Take four ounces each of flour, suet, currants, raisins, sugar, raw carrots, raw potatoes, one teaspoonful of baking powder and a dash of nutmeg. Mix the ingredients, place in a greased mold and steam until done.

$10,000 WANTED FOR CHANNEL

Hearing Before Directors of Port of Boston This Morning

THOSE FAVORING

Quincy asks for $10,000 for Houghs Neck channel and basin to the public landing at a hearing before the Directors of the Port held at their office, 40 Central street, Boston this morning. The hearing was conducted by Frank Fessenden Crane, Commissioner of Water Fronts, Waterways and Navigation of the City of Quincy. Mr. Crane stated that Houghs Neck had a summer population of from 7,000 to 10,000 people that the electric railroad carried an average of 1500 people every Saturday who spent their week ends here and on Sundays 4500 more people came to Houghs Neck. That the channel for which this improvement was asked, was the only channel that ran from the 30 foot deep ship channel, to the wharf at Houghs Neck. The original channel, 50 feet wide and 9 feet deep was dredged by the steamboat company at its own expense. There has been expended as follows:

Steamboat Company	$8,000.00
Quincy Yacht club	$1,000.00
City of Quincy	2,750.00
State of Massachusetts	5,000.00
Total	$16,750.00

This channel had filled and now averaged 6 feet in depth and about 40 in width. A yacht anchoring at low water so as to swing across the channel would stop all navigation, the people who used the channel at low water were in danger of their lives When the steamboat passes them several minor accidents have already occurred.

The Public Landing at this point is the only Public Landing in the City of Quincy with its 26 miles of water front. The increase of population and business and the immense summer travel make it a necessity that this improvement should be made. Mr. Crane introduced William Cavanags president of the Houghs Neck Steamboat Co., who recommended the width to be only 80 feet but to increase the depth to 9 feet. There was also a plan of Houghs Neck submitted by City Engineer E. C. Sargent which was filed with the plan of the Water Front Commissioner's.

Recorded in favor of the improvement were: His Honor Mayor Eugene R. Stone, City Solicitor, John J. McAnarney; City Engineer, E. C. Sargent; a committee from the City Council consisting of President James L. Whiton, William P. Thompson, George E. Gauthier also William Norteman hotel keeper; John Moses, hotel keeper; Jason L. Harvey, boat livery.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

An unknown Jew expressed his love for his friend, Max Peven, who was being assaulted this morning, by driving his horse at a full galop to City Square where he located Officer Murray and brought him to Chestnut street in time for the officer to pull George Chabot of Hall Place from Peven's wagon before further punishment was administered.

Chabot was placed under arrest and charged with assault and battery. He drives a single team for the Rhines Lumber Co. He alleges that Peven crossed his path in a way that made it dangerous for him to proceed. The assault followed and according to Officer Murray several blows were thrown in for good measure in plain sight.

He will be arraigned in court Friday morning.

DISTRICT COURT.

The continued case of Leon J. Owen for unlawfully keeping and exposing liquors at Weymouth was called and he was discharged.

James Carriaco was fined $50 for illegally keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquor at Weymouth. Sentence suspended to Aug. 16.

Rogers S. Dix paid $10, Algernon B. Varnum, $50, Stanley J. Fountaine, $15, for violation of the automobile regulations at Milton.

Thomas McDonnell was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Plea of not guilty entered. Continued to July 3rd.

Thomas McDonnell arraigned for assault of Frank Gilraine. Plea of not guilty entered. Case continued to July 3rd. Bond $300.

Large Class of Pupils Heard by Many Parents and Friends

COLONIAL HALL

New Colonial Hall was crowded last evening with the parents and friends of the pupils of pianoforte of Mr. Frank Wrigley, assisted by Mr. Roscoe Ricker and Mrs. R. M. Grant. Mr. Wrigley is well known as organist at Christ Church, Quincy, where he has played for many years, coming here from St. Edmunds Cathedral, Manchester, England. His pupil's recitals are always looked forward to as one of Quincy's most interesting musical events. His pupils play with decision rythmn and fine singing touch as taught at the Royal Academy of Music of which Mr. Wrigley, as well as his father, were graduates. Mr. Ricker, Quincy's favorite violinist gave much delight, as did also Mrs. Grant, the Scottish vocalist. According to a pretty English custom the pupils were seated on the platform.

IMMIGRANT DISTRIBUTION.

The real problem which confronts us is not restriction of immigration, but the distribution of the immigrants. America has not yet been discovered by most Americans. Millions have never penetrated beyond the Atlantic seaboard. What we need are more people who have the ready and venturesome spirit of the pioneer. Instead of a helter skelter, haphazard migration of the nations let us have a carefully directed distribution of the people to the place of self support and independence, and we shall have less need of sustaining charities for those who become helpless and jails for those who become worthless in the present scramble.—Henry Berkowitz.

One Roofing With Two Lives

PAROID

Relaid in 1911 after eight years service and is still giving good service. There is a law of averages in the lifetime of roofings just as there is in the life-time of men. Well managed insurance companies accept only selected lives. That is lives which in every probability will last long beyond the average life time. The roofing that lives long beyond the average lifetime roofing is PAROID ROOFING—and it is the roofing for careful buyers to select.

HIS QUEER SENSE OF HUMOR.

It Found Relief In Practical Jokes Upon the Clergy.

Some thirty odd years ago a young man came to New York from England (I have forgotten his name), and for a year or so he posed as a very ardent churchman. He had a mania which seemed to be the making of trouble for other people, with no particular object except that and certainly with no advantage to himself, as he very naturally remained "incog."

As illustrative, he would send out a hundred or more postal cards addressed to as many different plumbers in New York, asking them to call on a certain day, at a given hour, at the residence of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity church. Another time it would be an army of bakers, and so on. On one ocasion he sent invitations to a dozen of the clergy to dine with Dr. Dix on a given date. Imagine the good doctor's consternation when his unexpected guests arrived!

One of his bits of "funny" work, in which he used the name of the late Bishop Jaggar, was as follows: Dr. Cornelius B. Swope was the vicar of Trinity chapel, in Twenty-fifth street at the time, and Dr. Horatio Potter the bishop of New York. Dr. Dix had become so exasperated as hardly to know what to do, and one day he went to consult Dr. Swope and to ask his advice as to what could be done, taking with him one of the cards that he had received. On looking at it Dr. Swope said:

"I recognize that handwriting because I received a card some time ago in the same hand, which I have kept as a curiosity."

This was the card:

Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dear Cornel—It is rumored out here that you would like to be a bishop. If this is true please let me know at once. I have great influence with Morg. Dix and will see old Potter about it, so—

If you would like to be a bishop
And with the bishops stand,
A miter on your forehead
And a crozier in your hand, please write me immediately. Faithfully yours, THOMAS JAGGAR, Bishop of Southern Ohio.

New York became rather too "hot" for our friend shortly after that, as the police got on his track, and he disappeared. He turned up later at his old tricks in Pittsburgh, I think, where he was exposed, and I don't remember what became of him.—Rev. Dr. W. W. Holley in Living Church.

Books From Unexpected Places.

Not only art, but literature, has been produced in unexpected places. There was, for instance, Robert Bloomfield, who produced his "Farmer's Boy" while working so hard as a shoemaker (in a garret with five or six others) that he frequently had to carry a hundred lines in his head through lack of leisure to write them down. James Hogg, too, "the Ettrick Shepherd," wrote his earliest verses while tending his sheep in the Perthshire highlands. And Taylor, "the Water Poet," combined the very different offices of literary man and Thames waterman.—London Chronicle.

The Third Hand.

How often the little things in life make impressions that linger in our memories long after the larger events are forgotten! Several years ago I was making a visit in a family where there were several daughters. One of the girls brought a hat into the sewing room one morning and prepared to trim it. Before doing anything else she took a hatpin and pinned the hat firmly to her skirts at the knees, so that she had both hands free and held the ribbon and flowers in place with her left hand while she sewed them with her right.—Philadelphia North American.

It's Easy to Learn.

Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, hit on his marvelous discovery while studying and while teaching the deaf.

Professor Bell once said, apropos of this fact:

"Yes, we can learn valuable secrets from the most unlikely sources. A Persian poet, famed for his wisdom, was once asked by his king where he had learned his philosophy.

"'From the blind, sire,' the poet replied—'from the blind, who never advance a step until they have tried the ground.'"—New York Tribune.

Diamonds and Glass.

The diamond, instead of being a real solid, is a mass of atoms all in rapid and violent motion. The edge of the stone is formed of these moving molecules as well as the body. Now, glass is also made up of moving atoms, though they do not move so rapidly or so violently as the diamond atoms. When the diamond edge, therefore, is applied to the glass surface the diamond atoms drive the glass atoms out of the way and force a passage.

Merely a Microbe.

"Do you believe that love is due to a microbe?"

"I know it is."

"How do you know?"

"One calls on my daughter four times a week, and she is beginning to fall in love."—Houston Post.

Partially Successful.

"Didn't I hear you fire something at that yowling cat early this morning?"

"Yes; I threw the confounded alarm clock at it."

"Hit the beast?"

"No, but I got rid of the alarm clock."—Boston Transcript.

BRAINTREE'S NEW TOWN HALL DEDICATED

Gov. Foss, Ex-Gov. Long and Others Assist in Dedicating New $83,000 Building

Band Concerts, Ball Games, Fire Dept. Drill and Banquet Features

Thursday, June 26, 1913, will be marked on Braintree's historical calendar as a red letter day and will long linger in the minds of those present at the various exercises as a most memorable date and one worthy of the civic pride and traditions of the good old town of Braintree. The occasion was the dedication of the new Town house, a beautiful and commodious building, at once a credit to the energy and ability of the citizens and the pride of all the townspeople. The program of the day was well planned and proceeded without a flaw or hitch, the weather cloudy but without rain and the whole affair was almost like a day of thanksgiving and praise for the new structure which has risen like the proverbial phoenix from the ashes of the old.

The building is dignified in design, roomy, planned for the expeditious handling of the town's business and like the thing of beauty that it is, must surely be a joy forever.

The proceedings were begun by a ball game for a silver trophy, between the Braintree White Sox and the Braintree Athletic Association teams. The game was played at 1.30 P. M. on French's common and was witnessed by a crowd of 5000 people. Contest was a pitchers' battle largely, but full of exciting incidents and lasted for fourteen hard fought innings to the intense excitement and enthusiasm of the fans. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of the Sox. Ross, pitcher for the Sox was best in the pinches while Carson for the B. A. A. was credited with more strikeouts. The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	Total
Sox	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	2
B. A. A.	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1

Hits—Sox 4, B. A. A. 3.

Errors—Sox 2, B. A. A. 1

Batteries, Sox, Ross and Burrill. B. A. A. Carson and Pitts.

All the afternoon, delightful music was furnished by Milo Burke's band of Brockton, stationed on the stand in front of the town house, and a Punch and Judy show on the common was a source of delight to the youngsters. About four o'clock the hose laying contest was the attraction. This was taken part in by the three hose companies and consisted of unreeling hose from the apparatus while at full gallop, connecting with the hydrant, turning on the water while men at the other end jump from the flying wagon, "break" the hose and attach the nozzle, the company getting water quickest being declared the winners.

Hose 2 of Braintree tried first but had trouble and was disqualified. Hose 1 of South Braintree was next and did the trick in 59 1-5 seconds. This performance looked good but East Braintree clipped the time to 58 seconds and won the cup.

The ladder raising contest came next and created plenty of thrills. The three companies competed in the stunt, the run being from Taylor street to the corner of Union and Washington street where ladders were raised and men put on the roof of the barn of the Jonathan French estate. The time for this contest was as follows:

East Braintree—1 min, 8 sec.

South Braintree—1 min. 8 4-5 sec.

Braintree—1 min. 17 4-5 sec.

As seen from the foregoing, East Braintree was again the winner of the cup. The judges for the two events were William L. Gage, Carl P. Lothrop, Harry W. Macomber and William E. Maybury.

NEW TOWN HALL, 1913

Timekeeper, William H. Heath.

At 6.30 o'clock a bountiful and delicious banquet of roast turkey, salads, fruits, ices, cake, coffee, etc., was served in the lower hall by a well known Boston catering firm. Most delightful music was furnished throughout the banquet and at intervals during the evening by Atkinson's orchestra and both upper and lower halls were brilliant with the national colors and potted plants of all kinds, the floral decorations being from the conservatories of Ellis Hollingsworth.

The divine blessing was invoked by Rev. Daniel W. Waldron, now city missionary of Boston and a former Braintree pastor. After the discussion of the repast, James H. Stedman rose in his place and presented three silver cups to the winners in the various contests of the afternoon. All the recipients responded with brief but appropriate remarks, John Kelley voicing the thanks of the East Braintree hose company, Ralph A. Newcomb responding for the victorious White Sox and Martin Frazier, for the East Braintree hook and ladder company.

After these pleasantries, all adjourned to the main hall practically every seat in gallery and auditorium being taken. Col. A. C. Drinkwater, chairman of the dedication committee, was presiding officer and seated with him on the stage were noticed the following members of committees and invited guests:

Mme. Wilhemina Wright Calvert

His Excellency, Eugene N. Foss, governor of the commonwealth; Ex-Governor John D. Long, Rev. Daniel W. Waldron, B. Herbert Woodsum and Henry M. Storm of the board of selectmen, Town clerk Henry A. Monk, Charles C. Mellen, chairman of the building committee, Judge Albert E. Avery, Daniel Potter, William A. McKean, John Kelley of the water commissioners, William E. Maybury, superintendent of water works, G. H. Ingraham and P. A. Hopkins the architects and F. Edgar Norris, associate architect of the building, Nathaniel F. Hunt, J. Parker Hayward, Elmer E. Abercrombie, Charles G. Sheppard, James A. Stedman, William W. Mayhew, Charles Thayer of the Randolph selectmen, E. W. Hunt chairman of the Weymouth board of selectmen, Arthur W. Paine chairman of the Holbrook selectmen, J. Murray Knight, ex-selectman of Braintree also President R. C. Harlow, S. R. Nichols and Frank W. Whitcher of the Monatiquot Rubber Works. Regrets were received from I. F. Woodbury of the Woodbury-Leighton Company.

The program of dedication was begun with prayer by Rev. Daniel W. Waldron. Then came a stirring march played by the orchestra.

The third number was the beautiful sextet from "Lucia" rendered by the Boston Quintette, Walter E. Anderson, tenor; John E. Daniels, tenor; Dr. Arthur R. Gould, baritone; Augustus T. Beatey, bass; Robert Nichols, tenor and accompanist. Such wonderfully beautiful singing almost baffles description and it took the audience by storm, the artists receiving thunders of applause. The singers responded with the "Toreador" song from Carmen, the solo part sung by Dr. Gould.

Madame Wilhelmina Wright Calvert, soprano soloist rendered "Poppies" and the "Happy Song." She has a superb voice of wonderful range and power, and was accorded an ovation for her magnificent vocal efforts. She was ably accompanied by William Weston at the piano. The work of all these artists was flawless and exquisite and was fully appreciated and enjoyed by the great assemblage.

The opening remarks incident to the dedication were made by Col. Drinkwater who spoke in a happy vein thanking the governor, ex-governor

DENNIS J. FORD DENIES HE MADE THREATS TO FIX SILVERMAN

Makes Plain Statement to City Council Why He Objects to More Junk Places in Ward Two

Thursday Night's Council Meeting Replete With Lengthy Debates on Several Important Matters

No more meetings of the City Council will be held until next September as an adjournment was taken at the meeting Thursday evening for the summer vacation until Monday, Sept. 8.

Thursday evenings meeting was marked by an almost endless debate upon several matters. These included the contract with the Fore River Co., for the use of the water in the old Braintree reservoir, the order for $10,000 to take care of the deficit caused by abatements and on the matter of licenses to collect junk.

Dennis J. Ford of the Board of Registrars who was accused at Monday nights meeting with having threatened David Silverman that he would fix him this year in regard to a junk collectors license appeared before the Council and denied absolutely that he had made the threat attributed to him, and as Councilman Bailey later remarked there is a lie somewhere.

Councilmen Bryant, Little and Johnson were absent.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was in progress when the meeting was called to order and although a quorum was present a recess was taken until the Finance Committee should have finished its session.

An invitation was received from the National Letter Carriers association to attend its field day at New Downer Landing, July 4th which was placed on file.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Edward M. Lowe a special constable. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Directors of the Port of Boston relative to a hearing on the application of John J. Powers to build a pile wharf and pier in Quincy Bay. Referred to Committee on Legislative matters.

A communication was received from the School Committee urging the necessity for additional rooms and an assembly hall at the Washington school and forwarding a sketch of the same which the committee stated the estimated cost of was $38,000. Referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

Several applications for minor licenses were received and laid on the table until later when they were granted.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the Executive on the order authorizing the Assessors to appropriate and place in the tax levy of this year the sum of $10,000 to take care of the deficit of 1912 caused by abatements.

In reply to a question by Councilman Cunningham, Chairman Bailey of the Committee said the reason of the report was that the committee had reason to believe that the Council had no authority to act in the matter as it was an Executive function.

Councilman Cunningham argued that it was well to put things where they belonged. He believed that it was the duty of the Council to act and from what he had learned from a legal gentleman the Council should pass the order. Referring the order to the Executive was a mere joke. Things will be allowed to drift unless this body takes action. The order for $150,000 last year was to wipe out just such a condition as this and will prevail again this year unless action is taken.

Councilman Richards protested the method being used of doing business. This was just as much of a department of the city as any other. He also had received a legal opinion that the Council was entitled to take action.

Councilman Bailey believed that action should be taken but he questioned what value it would be. It would be desirable to have the Council take action.

Councilman Cunningham. Have you any doubt of the fate of the order if passed and of the opinion of the legal official of the city?

Councilman Bailey. None whatever.

The report of the committee was then accepted and the recommendation adopted on roll call 10 voting yes and 10 no as follows:

Yes:—Bailey, Beeman, Duffy, Ericson, Gilliatt, Griffin, Hadlock, Sandberg, Thompson, Whiton:—10.

No:—Barker, Bass, Boyd, Corcoran, Cunningham, Devaney, Farquharson, Gauthier, Richards, Ross:—10.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the Executive on the communication from the Mayor relative to the contract with the Fore River Co., for the use of water from the old reservoir.

Councilman Cunningham asked why and was told by Councilman Bailey to read the act giving the city authority to sell the water.

The Clerk read the act passed in

The Attitude of the Present-Day Storekeeper Is Curious

Almost every concern ranks itself as the "greatest," "biggest" and "most perfect thing in existence" How the world ever got on until each of us came along is our enigma.

It took a long time for some people in this city to get off the old country roads of storekeeping and make up their minds to travel along the new turnpike of mercantile reconstruction.

We are living in a great country, and Quincy is one of the good cities, and it goes without saying that this is Quincy's greatest food store.

It is just what you see it is, and it is not what it will be tomorrow, for it will be a great deal better as rapidly as we know how to make it should be every man's first choice, but we realize that many men prefer to shop around before finally deciding on the purchase of their garments.

¶ By now, however, most men have had an opportunity to carefully inspect the offerings of others. Let us, therefore, again call your attention to the appeal of Kuppenheimer Clothes to your better judgment.

¶ First of all, they are authoritatively correct in point of style.

¶ Again, the purity of the woolens from which they are made, and the quality of the workmanship in the making, insures the service they will give; the wear you get out of them.

Finally, the price is practically whatever you care to pay.

At $18.00 the choice of styles, patterns and shades is in every sense as varied as at $20, $25 or $27. Of course you realize that the better the price, the better the clothes, but this one point is worth remembering. Whatever the price—Satisfaction is guaranteed.

Remember: If you are looking for lower priced Suits, Ours at $10, $12 and $15 are $2 to $3 less than sold elsewhere. Outing Pants $2 to $6.

TIPPING THE BARBER.

Barbers' strikes have been reported from a considerable number of cities the past few months. In this controversy the nuisance of tipping has been a large factor. Where the hair artists have been gathering in $18 and $20 a week by the addition of the tips to their pay, it takes a substantial wage to satisfy them if the fee custom is cut out.

There seems less ground for the tip habit in the barber shop than in the restaurant. Irritating and un-American as it is in eating houses, it has at least had the effect to stimulate good service. The waiter who formerly dawdled around seems to have springs in his heels where there is a chance of gathering in an extra dime or quarter.

In the barber shop the customer is never compelled to tip for self protection. The shears operator is too closely under inspection. The exaction is tolerated by the master barbers because it helps pay the wages of the help.

..THE COLLEGE DEGREES.

The Americans are ostensibly a plain, democratic people. By principle they are supposed to despise titles and social tinsel. Yet the college degree custom indicates a very distinct hankering after social tags.

Originally academic degrees were a dependable certificate, at least that man had worked four years in an atmosphere of cultivation and learning.

Now a degree may mean simply that a fellow went to college to have four years fun, hiring a coach to do the thinking end of the game. Or in some "colleges," the attainment represented by the certificate hung on his parlor wall may signify no more than is meant by membership in the sophomore class of the stronger institutions.

One "university" advertised to confer honorary degrees on any one sending $10. The entire plant of this university consisted of an office in a city building, with desks, two chairs, and letter press. There is one really truly university that confers a degree on any one who will read eight books. Examinations must be considered cumbrous and antiquated, as the applicant's word is taken for the required reading. The sum of $50 has to be paid on the installment plan. A year later, by paying $40 more, it is possible to get a Master of Arts degree.

The end of every college year brings an increasing demand for the abolition of academic degrees in domestic America. That may or may not be desirable. These old practices have a certain element of poetry and romance that one hates to let go. But at least, some academic authority ought to get up a "White list," of institutions which confer degrees based on merit.

The men most worthy of these literary laurels are the most apt to hide them out of sight.

EUGENIC MARRIAGES.

Certain clergymen have decided not to marry persons who can not bring suitable health certificates. Here is a big question from the scientific laboratories, on which the every day man must soon pass.

While millions of money are poured out in breeding better horses and cattle, the only reward given for breeding better babies is the useless trinket awarded at the society baby show.

It arouses thought to learn from statistics that the average mechanic of London has but five children, while the average mentally defective person in the same city has a family of seven. The more unfit the person is to have children, the faster he seems to produce them.

On the other hand the making of a vital distinction between individuals, on the basis of a physical examination, leads to chances of grave error. There may be harm from prejudice and malice. One who is debarred from normal human privileges as results of failure to conform to a physical standard, must suffer a most depressing shock.

Skeptics adduce the fact that though the Greeks had few health laws, their type of physical health and mental efficiency has never been surpassed. Even some of the so-called unfit may have their place in the world. Caesar, Alexander and Napoleon were epileptics, Carlyle was a dyspeptic, and Spinoza, Keats, and Mozart were tubercular.

Undoubtedly the world is getting ready to take a stricter stand on the marriage of habitual criminals and persons of a weak mentality. The duty of not transmitting dreadful diseases to a future race of children is one that should be pressed home to every individual conscience.

But probably it is some time before a young man will need to put his medical certificate in his pocket before he goes courting.

In Medford recently when a policeman politely told her when she was distributing literature in the street that she was violating a city ordinance she remonstrated with him and finally mounted the City Hall steps and berated the officer and the ordinance. If Miss Foley should quit her advocacy of the cause the movement would not be the loser.—Waltham Free Press.

SIX MONTHS FOR FARNSWORTH

Short Story Writer and Poultry Farmer Killed Man Whom He Caught In His Chicken Coop at Midnight—Petition to Governor For Clemency Will Not Be Opposed by Judge

Plymouth, Mass., June 27.—David B. Farnsworth, the Bridgewater poultry farmer and short story writer, found guilty by a jury of manslaughter in the shooting of Thomas Hagan, whom he surprised at midnight in his chicken coop, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction by Judge King.

The courtroom was crowded when the final disposition of the case was brought up in order on the docket. Many poultry raisers, among them signers to a petition for clemency for Farnsworth, were present.

Judge King stated that he had received numerous telegrams and letters from people and also a petition asking for clemency in the case. In imposing sentence he said, addressing the defendant:

"I have endeavored to give substantial weight to the communications testifying to Farnsworth's character, and he should be proud of it. Nevertheless, in spite of all this, I am unable to find any other way than a jail sentence to show you that you cannot take a human life.

"We are often tempted in matter of this kind, but we must learn to withstand them. I am sorry for you from the bottom of my heart. And if the governor sees fit to extend clemency, I shall not raise my hand against it. I shall make the sentence six months in the house of correction."

Farnsworth began his sentence at once. His friends, it is understood, are going to petition Governor Foss for clemency.

The shooting occurred at midnight, Aug. 16, 1912. Hagan was caught in one of the chicken coops by Farnsworth, who was awakened with his wife by the cackling of his fowl. They left the house, Farnsworth armed with a shotgun. Farnsworth said he shot into the air. The next morning, however, the body of the intruder was found some fifty yards away.

LIBERTY BELL GOING WEST

Will Be Shown at San Francisco Exposition Despite Protest

Philadelphia, June 27.—Despite the dire predictions of expert metallurgists and others, it seems settled that the Liberty Bell, which proclaimed the independence of the United States 137 years ago, will be sent to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

Assurances to this effect were given by Mayor Blankenburg, in the face of most earnest protests from patriotic societies and individuals, who declare the trip across the continent will result in further extensions of the great crack in the bell's side, which may cause it to fall to pieces before it is returned to its resting place in Independence hall.

"CAMPAIGN HOLDUP"

Foss Charges Political Trickery In Strike In His Shops

Boston, June 27.—Governor Foss charges political trickery in connection with the strike now in progress in his Hyde Park workshops. He declares that an attempt is being made to hold him up for a 20 percent increase because of the possible fear he may have for his political fortunes.

He charges labor leaders with malicious misstatements and says they are injuring the real interests of the workingmen.

In his statement Foss reiterates his statement that the raise asked for is impossible. He says he is not importing labor and both plants are now in operation.

HARRY MARTIN KILLED

Racing Car Overturns While Going Seventy-Two Miles an Hour

Indianapolis, June 27.—Harry Martin, relief driver for Charley Merz in the 1913 500-mile race, was killed and Frank Agan, mechanician, was badly injured, when a Stutz racing car which they were driving was ditched while testing out the speedway track.

The car skidded and overturned on the back stretch while going at a speed estimated at seventy-eight miles an hour.

Good FRIDAY—One week from today JULY 4th.

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

Dr. A. H. Gilson was pleasantly remembered this week by the Brimmer school association of Boston by two handsome rugs. Dr. Gilson was one of the organizers of the association in 1878 and has been its secretary for 15 years. He was also President of the association at the time it celebrated its 21st anniversary. The gift was in appreciation of the good work he has done for the association.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Convention of Granite Men Will Mean Much to Quincy

TO MAKE EXHIBIT

John L. Miller has been in Barre, Vt., the past week working on the coming convention of the National Retail Monument Dealers Association that will be held in Boston August 19, 20, 21 and 22, and the New England Monument Manufacturers Exhibition, which is scheduled for the same time.

They have taken the Boston Arena for eight days. This building has 25000 square feet of floor space, the sale of which has been put in the hands of Mr. Miller, also the getting up of the souvenir program, and sale of advertising space in it. This will be a book of some two hundred pages and will give illustrations of the historic places in and around Boston, King's Chapel, the Old State House, Concord Bridge, the Granary burying ground, Mt. Auburn Cemetery, and many of our Boston public monuments, as well as the Fore River plant at Quincy. It is proposed to make it a historic reference book that will be kept by all dealers throughout the country. The monumental manufacturers are seeing its advantages as an advertising medium.

Mr. Miller informs us he thought he could get through at Barre in a few days when he went up, but the work was so large that he could not, and as the High Schol graduation was due Wednesday evening he felt it his duty to come home for that event, and then go back and finish up his work at Barre. He reports the Barre manufacturers most enthusiastic. They have appointed a committee to make arrangements for a special train to carry the delegates from Boston to Barre after the convention, giving them a free trip. It is expected that the City Council will appropriate $500 for their entertainment while there, and every manufacturer and quarryman is to keep open house. The main street is to be decorated beyond anything ever seen there before. It is these whole-soul methods that have made Barre the leader of the world in the production of monuments.

As the plans of the Arena were not received until the latter part of last week Mr. Miller had time to see only six manufacturers in Quincy before he went to Barre, but all six took space in the souvenir program, and five took space in the exhibition building, which is a splendid showing.

Quincy must put forward strong work if they are to get the share of the good of this great convention which is to be held at our very doors, when 1500 to 2000 dealers from every state in the Union will be there.

CITY COUNCIL

February which stated that the Mayor and Commissioner should have power to make a contract for the sale of the water.

Councilman Cunningham then moved to lay on the table.

This motion was followed by a lengthy debate.

Mayor Stone said that he understood that he had a right to make the contract but he desired that the Council should know what it was and that was the reason of his communication.

Councilman Devaney then asked the Mayor a number of questions. He wanted to know why it was that the bill of the company in March 1912 for water was $552 and but $132 in March this year to which the Mayor replied that the company had another supply.

In reply to further questions the Mayor said that in testing commercial vessels salt water was used and that in testing battleships fresh water was used. That when a battleship was being tested more water would be used.

Councilman Devaney then went on to argue at length about the Fore River Co., and its water supply and he did not think the Mayor was on to his job when he was willing to allow the company water for $1,500 a year for what the city was now selling them for $6,500.

Councilman Ericson said as the Council had no voice in the matter he hoped the report would be accepted.

In reply to Councilman Ross the Mayor said that arrangements were to be made so that water could be sold to the granite men at South Quincy if they wanted it.

Councilman Devaney again argued that the city was getting nothing practically from the company for water sold as it took all they got to pay the Metropolitan company for it.

Councilman Cunningham also argued in favor of laying the report on the table. The Fore River Co. has paid as high as $8,000 a year for water. The return which the city got from the water sold was so small it could not be seen with a magnifying glass. He believed that the Fore River Co. was able to pay for what water it desired and take its chances with other concerns of the city.

Councilman Farguharson believed that the Mayor should be allowed to do as he desires as he has provided to supply the granite men from the same source

Councilman Richards said the contracts called for a million gallons a day and if the Fore River C. needed the whole output it could use it. It seemed to him that the city should get a little more. It simply means reducing the price the company pays for water from 8 cents to 1 cent.

Councilman Sandberg favored the company being given a contract. It was time we got something for the water in the reservoir.

The report of the committee and its recommendation was then adopted.

On motion of Councilman Cunningham the application of Charles E. Decker for an auctioneers license was taken from the table and granted.

Councilman Richards offered an order that the Assessors print as a part of their annual report a list of all abatements made, the name of the party, the amount and reason. Referred to the Finance Committee.

Councilman Gauthier offered a resolution requesting the Mayor to petition the Directors of the Port of Boston to expend a sum not exceeding $10,000 on the channel at Houghs Neck and on the basin at the public landing at Houghs Neck. Adopted.

At this point Dock Commissioner Crane briefly addressed the Council. He said that last year a special committee was appointed to investigate the public dock question and had referred the matter to this years Council. If the city built a dock there was $25,000 it could have for dredging but there was danger of this being lost unless the city took some action. If the Council would appoint a special committee to consider the subject it would keep the matter alive.

Councilman Cunningham then offered a resolve for the appointment by the President of a committtee of five to act with a committee of five citizens to be appointed by the Mayor, and the Mayor and Dock Commissioner to investigate the matter of a public dock. The resolve was adopted.

Mayor Stone at this point stated that the city had been offered a piece of land free and with the expenditure of not more than $1,500 the city could get a dock.

On motion of Councilman Corcoran the communication from the Mayor appointing Charles E. Decker a constable was taken from the table.

Councilman Bailey said we had too many constables now. A man was shot by an officer the night before and he did not believe any more people should go about with guns or someone else would get shot.

Chief of Police Burrell in reply to a question stated that [illegible] table had no right to carry a revolver without a special permit. The appointment was then confirmed.

Joseph Fitton asked permission to address the Council but objection was raised.

Councilman Corcoran offered a resolve that the Mayor be requested to pay day laborers $2.25 per day to take effect July 15.

Quite a discussion followed. Councilman Corcoran spoke at length in favor of the resolve. Everything was going up and he believed that the city laborers should be given more pay.

Councilman Bailey said this was one of those things with which the Council had nothing to do.

In reply to Councilman Gilliatt the Commissioner said that better men could be obtained for more money.

Councilman Cunningham favored the resolve. He believed the city should fix a minimum wage.

Councilman Richards questioned the wisdom of passing the resolve. The orders for street work are figured out on a certain basis, and if this were passed it would put the Commissioner in a bad position.

Councilman Gauthier believed a man should get all he could.

The resolution was adopted on roll call 10 voting yes and 8 no as follows:

Yes: Bass, Boyd, Corcoran, Cunningham, Devaney, Duffy, Farquharson, Griffin, Hadlock, Ross—10.

No:—Bailey, Barker, Beeman, Ericson, Gauthier, Gilliatt, Richards, Sandberg:—8.

On motion of Councilman Gauthier Dennis J. Ford appeared before the Council.

When asked by Councilman Bailey if he had threatened Mr. Silverman he emphatically said no. He never had said to him on anyone else that he would fix him. It was an absolute falsehood. He had never had any dealings with Silverman.

Mr. Ford was asked many questions oy Councilmen Devaney, Duffy and others about the junk business in Ward Two all of which went to show that the business was spreading and depreciating the value of property.

In summing up his statement Mr. Ford said that he objected for four reasons. First from the standpoint of health for it was well known that the accumulation of old rags and junk meant that there must be germs, and only last year but for the prompt action of the Board of Health there would have been an epidemic.

Second on account of injury to adjacent property. It was a well known fact that property adjcaent to one of the places where junk was kept depreciated the property.

Third. It is absolutely necessary before long to erect a new school in Ward Two and the logical centre for this school is in this district and it would hardly be the proper place with so many junk places.

Fourth it was not right that Ward Two should be made the dumping ground for all the junk collected in adjoining towns as it now was. As to the men under discussion he had nothing against any of them he only objected when they commenced to spread out.

The applications of David Silverman, Hyman Katz and I. Cutler were taken up separately and on roll call each was given leave to withdraw.

The order granting Sam Silverman a license to collect junk was taken from the table and rejected.

On motion of Councilman Bailey Rule one was suspended and it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until Monday, Sept. 8, at 7.45.

Under the head of the calendar the following orders took their second reading and were passed under suspension of the rules.

Amending the Water and Sewer orders so as to make the rate of interest 4 1-4 per cent.

Amending the street and sidewalk orders making the rate of interest 4 1-2 per cent.

Appropriating $6,500 for furnishings for the new Adams school building.

The order appropriating $2,700 for lowering water courses.

Adjourned at 10.54 until Sept. 8.

RECEPTION OF CLASS OF 1913

Affair a Most Enjoyable One and Largely Attended

THE OFFICERS

The class of 1913 of the Quincy High school, the largest ever graduated, held their reception in Music hall, Thursday evening. Over 500 attended and a more enjoyable class affair has never been given.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Albert L. Barbour, Mrs. Ernest L. Collins, Miss Clara Thompson, Miss Anna G. Kennedy, Miss Mary Brown, Albert L. Barbour and Ernest L. Collins.

The ushers were the members of the junior class with Harry Burr as their director. The hall was prettily decorated. Across the front of the platform was the motto, Esse non Videre and palms and plants and flowers were about the hall in abundance. Placed on the platform was a three foot letter "Q" with the numerals 1913, which had been presented to the class by Nerse, the photographer, a sincere admirer.

The grand march was formed shortly after nine o'clock and was led by President Richard Crane of the class and Miss Bessie Perry of Somerville. The committee and their lady friends followed while the seniors and guests added to the length of the column.

The class officers are Richard Crane, president; Josephine Aulbach, vice president; Ralph Prout, treasurer; Ednah Sanborn, secretary.

The committee was Miss Millicent Chapman, Miss Mary G. Morrison, Miss Eva B. Linton, G. Edwin Brown, Roland W. Estey and Allen P. Miller.

Ices and cakes were served and music was furnished by Poole's orchestra.

BLIND HORSES FOR CHICAGO PEDLERS

Dealers Accused of Mutilation of Young Animals

Chicago, June 27.—That a large number of horses in Chicago have been deliberately made blind to make them more easily managed is the report of agents of the Anti-Cruelty society, whose curiosity was aroused by the docility of young and apparently normal animals. Warrants will be asked for horse dealers accused of the mutilations.

"These horses have been blinded by men who guarantee to purchasers that they will not shy and need no blinders," said Hugo Kraus, superintendent of the society. "A needle has been jabbed through each retina. The wound is scarcely noticeable, but a horse so treated never will see again. Pedlers in particular desire horses which are quiet, and the blinding of the animals has been put on a commercial basis."

In South Water street market yesterday fifty horses were found that had been blinded presumably by this method.

BEGINNING OF REAL WAR?

Serbs and Bulgars Reported Locked In Battle In Macedonia

Vienna, June 27.—Fierce fighting between Servians and Bulgarians continues in Macedonia, according to dispatches from Belgrade.

Reports issued by the war office there assert that the Servians were victorious in Wednesday's battle. It is said that the Bulgarians attacked the Servians without provocation. The Belgrade and Sofia newspapers regard the fighting as the beginning of real war.

WOMAN'S FUNERAL RESEMBLES PICNIC

Her Request That There Be No Mourning Carried Out

Manchester, Eng., June 27.—More like a picnic than a funeral was the burial of Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips, 79 years old, who for years was one of England's leading spiritualists.

By her request there were no signs of mourning. The relatives and friends wore bright-colored clothes and the hearse was draped in white and decorated with flowers.

The coachmen wore the liveries they usually wear for weddings and the dead woman's son, who read the service, wore a flower in his buttonhole.

Both men are out of town at present, endeavoring to raise funds for the 700 strikers of the Ipswich Hosiery mills. Hermann left yesterday for Beverly, and Pingree is said to be in Lowell. They are expected back today, when it is said they will be surrendered to the authorities by their bondsmen.

London, June 27.—Miss Harriet Kerr, the last remaining militant suffragette prisoner of those sentenced for conspiracy on June 17, was released from jail because of the effects of a "hunger strike."

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND

Noted as Large Land Owner and Sportsman

NOTED AS A SPORTSMAN

Duke of Sutherland Also Second Largest Land Owner in Europe

London, June 27.—Cromarties Sutherland-Levenzon-Gower, fourth Duke of Sutherland, died last night.

The Duke of Sutherland, who was born July 20, 1851, was, with the exception of the Emperor of Russia, the largest land owner in Europe.

He was noted as a sportsman and a fine yachtsman. He several times visited the United States on shooting trips.

In 1884 he married a daughter of the fourth earl of Rosslyn, two sons and one daughter being the result of the union.

TORCH APPLIED TO FRIGATE WABASH

Junk Dealers Burn Famous Man-of-War to Secure Metals

Eastport, Me., June 27.—The torch was applied to the United States frigate Wabash here and the famous old wooden man-of-war of Civil war days was burned that her valuable metals might be secured by Boston junk dealers, to whom she had been sold for about $3000. Much of the metal work had been removed at Boston and since the vessel was towed here two weeks ago.

The Wabash was built at Philadelphia in 1854. She took a prominent part, both in defensive and offensive operations in the Civil war, and was used as a flagship by Rear Admirals Dahlgren and Dupont.

JURY IS EXONERATED

Charges of Misconduct In Segee Trial "Absolutely Untrue"

Boston, June 27.—Judge Brown in the superior court, in dismissing the jurors for the June sitting, branded as "absolutely untrue" the charges of misconduct which have been made against jurors in the case of Samuel A. Segee, the Revere assessor convicted of forgery. He said the woman who made the charge had a "strong imagination."

When Segee was called for sentence Miss Cala I. Smith, one of the government witnesses at the trial, told Judge Brown that last Thursday, while she was sitting with other spectators, during a recess just before arguments began, she saw one of the jurors approach a court officer and give him a paper, saying: "Give this to Pendergast."

PROTECTION OF WILD BIRD LIFE

Amply Provided For In New Government Regulations

SUMMARY OF CHIEF FEATURES

Spring Shooting Absolutely Prohibited—Unlawful at All Times to Kill Insectiverous Birds—Five Year Close Season on Wood Duck—Country Divided Into Two Zones

Washington, June 27.—The regulations of the United States department of agriculture, bureau of biological survey, fixing the seasons in which migratory birds may be shot, as authorized under the recently enacted Weeks-McLean law, have just been made public. These regulations have been eagerly awaited by sportsmen and lovers of wild life. They become effective Oct. 1.

Some of the more important features of the regulations follow:

It is unlawful at all times to kill robins, larks and other insectiverous birds in any portion of the United States.

Shooting of migratory birds between sunset and sunrise, while they are at rest, is prohibited at all times.

Spring shooting is absolutely prohibited.

It is unlawful at all times to shoot cranes, columbidae-doves and pigeons.

The beautiful wood duck, which was fast disappearing in New England until the states prohibited their killing, is given a close season to Sept. 1, 1918, in the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia and Wisconsin. A country-wide close season to the same date has been established for band-tailed pigeons, little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes; swans, curlew, all shore birds except black breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack-snipe, greater and lesser yellow legs.

Under the new regulations the country has been divided into two zones, northern and southern, the dividing line running wholly or in part north of latitude 40 degrees and the Ohio river. There are twenty-five states in the northern zone and twenty-three in the southern. Birds that may be shot are divided by the new regulations into four classes. These, and the open seasons allowed on them, follow:

Water fowl—Northern zone, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15; southern zone, Oct. 1 to Jan. 15.

Rail—Northern zone, Sept. 1 to Dec. 1; southern zone, Sept. 1 to Dec. 1.

Woodcock—Northern zone, Oct. 1 to Dec. 1; southern zone, Nov. 1 to Jan. 1.

Shore birds—Northern zone, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15; southern zone, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15.

An important feature is the regulation prohibiting the hunting of birds on the great rivers of the country—Mississippi from New Orleans to Minneapolis; Ohio from its mouth to Pittsburg, and Missouri, from mouth to Bismarck, N. D., during all months except November and December.

BARS RIDING ASRTIDE

Queen Mary Compels Women to Use Side Saddle at Show

London, June 27.—Queen Mary's adhesion to the Victorian proprieties is doubtless responsible for an edict issued by the management of the International Horse Show at Olympia, to the effect that all women competitors in the equestrian procession before the king and queen and President Poincare must use side saddles.

Miss Ruth Boyd has been the most conspicuous among the women who ride astride. She bowed to the decree and for four days practiced with a side saddle. Miss Boyd maintains, however, the superiority of riding astride.

JOHNSON IN MONTREAL

Says He Is Going to Russia, but Will Not Forfeit His Bail Bond

Montreal, June 27.—John Johnson, the negro pugilist, who is in this city, admitted that he intended to sail for Europe next Tuesday to engage in fights in St. Petersburg next September.

He said he did not intend to forfeit his bail bond, which calls for his presence next November in Chicago, where he is under sentence on a white slave charge.

Lost Son on the Titanic

London, June 27.—The king's bench court gave judgment in favor of Thomas Ryan, an Irish farmer who brought suit against the White Star Steamship company to recover damages for the loss of his son in the Titanic disaster. Ryan was awarded $500 and the costs of the suit. A similar award was made in two other cases at the same time.

Farmer Hangs Self With Towel

Fryeburg, Me., June 27.—James Ela, a farmer, committed suicide by hanging himself in his home by means of a roller towel he had wound around his neck.

JULY FOURTH SUGGESTIONS.

Editor of the Ledger:

Following along the lines suggested by my letter of June 24th, I respectfully suggest to the central committee of the July Fourth Association, through your readers, that the following modification of the program be arranged:

1. Eliminate all horribles which are vulgar and automobile parade and other ostentatious parts.

2. Have the parade made up of citizens, without regard to social standing or race.

3. Have the parade made up of six parts (of both sexes,) one part coming from each ward and so arranged, by dress of people, that when they join on Hancock street they will form large human flags; of stars and stripes and Jack. I am sure that as all who love their country are willing to die for the flag, they will all gladly live part of it for a few hours. Have each flag separated by automobiles, each containing a veteran or wife or widow of a veteran of the Civil War surrounded by small children, six years old or younger, whose parents have no automobile; children to have simple dresses, some of red, some of white and some of blue. Have the sailors drawn up in the square and previously drilled by officers of ship in Naval Academy siren yell, and have them use this yell to salute the approach of each flag, after which the people composing the flag can sing patriotic songs, as they pass the defenders of Our Country, and then march to Merrymount Park and listen to gems of prose and verse by good readers.

4. Have large sounding boards erected so that the sound of the speaker's voice can be heard by all. I am sure our electrical experts can devise something inexpensive that will do the trick. If not, ask Edison to do it for us.

5. Arrange the sports in a manner that will convey a patriotic lesson to the rising generation and our prospective citizens from other shores.

6. In the evening eliminate the usual type of fireworks and have set pieces showing against the sky the faces of those who have made or are making our history, such as Washington, Lincoln, Lafayette, Jefferson, and others with an appropriate gem of verse or prose thrown in living fire against the sky, with the people repeating same in unison.

7. Have the stars and stripes hung high, with searchlights from automobiles playing upon them in such a manner as to give the effect of their floating in the air without support.

8. As a grand finale, throw our President's face against the sky with an appropriate extract from his "A Declaration of Independence and a New Freedom."

Citizen of Quincy Point.

SMITHS, BROWNS AND JONES.

There are more Smiths, Browns and Jones listed in the summer edition of the telephone directory, delivery of which will commence June 25, than the total number of telephone subscribers in East Boston. The Smiths alone number over 1000, the Browns 500 and the Joneses 350. Approximately as many Smiths have telephones as there are subscribers in Wellesley and more than there are in the city of Woburn.

People with these names would make a large exchange if grouped by themselves. It would be pretty nearly as large as the Waltham exchange, twice as large as Wakefield and nearly four times as large as Needham.

This indicates that the Smiths, Browns and Jones are really a prosperous lot and recognize the value of telephone service. But as there are over 3000 Smiths in the Boston city directory the field for development in this one family alone is large.

About 212,000 copies of the summer edition have been printed, containing 424 pages, a total of nearly 100,000,000 pages for this one issue. The book contains 35,000 changes, including removals, additions and corrections, and has about 130,000 names of subscribers, about 9000 more copies than the winter issue.

It will take six days to deliver these books, according to the following schedule:

June 25, Central District Exchanges, Hull and Boston Hotels.

June 26, Revere, Winthrop, Weymouth, Quincy, South Boston and Arlington.

June 27, Hingham, Cambridge, Roxbury, Brookline, Belmont, Braintree and Dedham.

June 28, Dorchester, Chelsea, Hyde Park, Malden, Melrose, Newton West, Somerville, Waltham, Charlestown, East Boston, Cohasset, Lexington and Needham.

June 30, Everett, Newton North, Brighton, Woburn and Norwood.

July 1, Medford, Newton South, Canton, Bellevue, Wakefield, Jamaica, Wellesley, Milton, Stoneham, Randolph, Reading, Lincoln and Winchester.

BRAINTREE'S NEW TOWN HALL

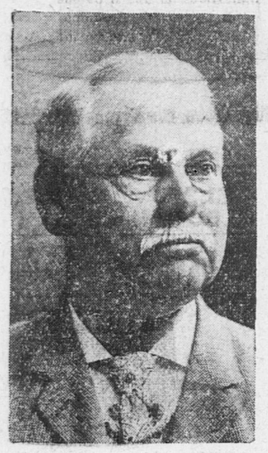
and all officials and committees in behalf of the people. He paid a glowing tribute to the building committee and its work, giving special mention to F. Eugene Dyer and Emery H. Bryant for their untiring efforts. He also congratulated the builders and architects. He then introduced Charles C. Mellen, chairman of the building committee, who delivered the keys to the town.

In his remarks, Mr. Mellen said that the sum of $72,550 was appropriated by the citizens for the construction and furnishing of the new town house. As the work progressed this sum was found to be inadequate to erect such a building as the plans specified.

At this juncture, Ellis Hollingsworth contributed the very generous sum of $10,000 and with this very valuable aid the work was carried to completion. The total amount expended in the construction was $82,625. The appropriation, gift included, was $82,550 so it can be easily figured that the committee exceeded the appropriation by only $75.



COL. A. C. DRINKWATER.

In conclusion Mr. Mellen congratulated the citizens on their new hall saying, "may it never be used as a ward room of the city of Boston."

Hon. B. Herbert Woodsum was the next speaker and was heartily applauded as he stepped forward. In his speech of acceptance of the keys for the town he congratulated building committee and citizens and told many interesting historical facts concerning early town meetings in Braintree from the time that the first meetings were held in private houses, then in the meeting houses, until the building of the first town house in 1829. This was located on what is now the Ellis estate at the corner of Union and Washington streets, South Braintree. This served the town for 25 years until the building of the former Town hall which was built in 1858.

Mr. Woodsum was followed by the quintette who gave charming renderings of the "Winter Song" and "Under the Southern Moonlight." Madame Calvert sang the difficult Aria from "Der Freishutz" with such sweetness and power that her auditors were carried away with enthusiasm, their storms of applause demanding an encore which she graciously gave.

His excellency Governor Foss was then introduced and spoke briefly felicitating the citizens for their fine new building and bringing the greetings of the commonwealth to the people of Braintree.

The address of the evening was delivered by Hon. John D. Long who was witty and eloquent. He spoke in patriotic vein and talked rather disparagingly of the initiative, referendum and recall saying that they had been tried centuries ago and had failed because they ended only in despotism. In conclusion he voiced an eloquent wish that the citizens of Braintree through their new town hall might become even better friends, neighbors and fellow workers than before.

Next on the program was Handel's "Largo" played as a cello solo with entrancing effect by William B. Baldwin. The quintette rendered "The Rosary" with superb harmony and generously responded with an encore. Seldom if ever has such singing been heard in this town as was rendered by the singers of the evening. The program was concluded with the "Star Spangled Banner" the solo part sung by Madame Calvert. As the audience joined in the chorus, "Old Glory" was released from its fastenings and floated from the proscenium arch.

The events of the afternoon and the dedication ceremonies were an unqualified success and the affair will go down in history as one of the finest and best planned public functions ever held in Braintree.

Practically all the stores closed at noon for the day adding to the spirit of dedication.

The ushers for the evening were as follows: Lowell A. Norris, Harold W. Brackett, Homer A. Hunt, Dudley P. Howland, Dr. C. V. Haworth, Dr. W. B. Robbins, Joseph V. Cuff and Ernest C. Woodsum.

The flower committee, Messrs. J. F. Kemp, L. Thurlow Torrey and H. E. Reynolds, collected about town beautiful roses and other cut flowers which were placed on the dining tables and about the building.

The old Town house was burned July 20, 1911. At the annual town meeting held the following spring in Long's hall, the sum of $72,550 was appropriated for construction and furnishings. Bids were advertised for on June 29, 1912 and on July 25, 1912 the general contract for the construction of the building was awarded to the Woodbury-Leighton Company of Boston. An August 8th of the same year, a contract for the plumbing was awarded to W. H. Mitchell, Son & Co., of Boston and for the heating to Walter B. Ross of Boston. The architects were Ingraham & Hopkins of Boston with F. Edgar Norris of Braintree as associate architect.

The work of construction was begun in the early part of last September, and the town house, completed, was accepted by the building committee on May 22, 1913. The plumbing and heating was accepted on the sixteenth of June.

The town house, built on the site of the old one, is in the colonial style of architecture and is constructed of water-struck brick with trimmings of artificial stone. The main entrance, approached by a broad flight of steps and flanked on either side by stone columns is surmounted by the seal of Braintree. The exterior is well lighted by large, ornamental electric globes and a porte-cochere at the right is conveniently placed for the accommodation of those using carriages and automobiles.

The front portion of the building is two stories in height, surmounted by a copper cupola and contains offices, committee rooms etc. On the first floor are the offices of the selectmen, water commissioners, town clerk and electric light department also a reception room for ladies and a coat room. The second story contains the G. A. R. hall, office of the sealer of weights and measures, rooms for the use of the school committee and superintendent of schools, board of health and a general committee room.

On the first floor, and running back as a sort of extension to the office building, is the main hall or auditorium its dimensions being approximately 83x63 feet. It has a seating capacity of 864 persons with a balcony at the rear containing 96 seats. The stage is equipped with an asbestos curtain and has electric ceiling lamps and footlights. The hall is lighted by three large chandeliers and by smaller fixtures on the walls. The ventilation is fully adequate and up to date, operating partly by means of the heating system and partly by means of ventilators with outlets in the cupola. Besides the doorways there are emergency exits at the westerly end of the hall and also one on the north side of the stage.

In the basement is the banquet hall accommodating 500 people, the kitchen with its gas range and other necessary appurtenances, a coat room, smoking room and also a lock-up containing 2 steel detention cages. There are toilet rooms on all floors and the heating is by steam with the sectional boiler system. In the offices provision has been made for heating by gas for the chilly days of spring and fall.

The inside finish of the buildings is in brown ash with seats to match. The walls of the main hall are in a light gray tint, those in the offices are buff, while the corridors are done in light green. The floor of the main entrance and the corridors is of terrazo. That of the auditorium is maple, just right for dancing and with a canvas covering to keep it clean and smooth. The floor on the banquet hall is hard pine.

The building is equipped with electric self-winding clocks made by the E. Howard Company. The office furniture is in quartered oak and was furnished by W. B. Badger & Co.

The seats are from the factories of the Hayward Brothers and Wakefield Company, the electric fixtures from the Pettengill-Andrews Company, and the window shades from the Allen Shade Holder Company. The fixtures of these shades enable them to be placed at any desired height on the window, the change being made in a moment.

The jail cages were made by the Van Dorn Iron Works, Cleveland, Ohio, The piano is a Hume grand and is from the warerooms of Steinert and Company, Boston.

The town house has an approximate frontage of 104 feet. The office building is about 45 feet in depth and the hall is about 65x85 feet.

AMUSEMENTS

B. F. KEITH'S.

The famous "Meistersingers," Boston's greatest vocal organization, will enter upon the second week of their annual summer engagement at B. F. Keith's Theatre Monday afternoon. "In The Wild Woods," this year's scenic production, far exceeds those of the past two seasons, and in beauty and realism is far ahead of anything ever before shown in vaudeville. Surprise follows surprise in startling rotation, and the brand-new program of songs offered this year is by far the best "The Meistersingers" have ever used. Edwin Stevens, the popular legitimate star, will appear in a dramatic and musical playlet assisted by Tina Marshall called "The Trouble of R and J," and other features will be Muller and Stanley, a couple of nuts, with a new and very original line of material; Ismed, the sensational Turkish pianist from Constantinople, who has a really novel turn; Harvey DeVora Trio in songs and dances, with little John Doe, the diminutive comedian; Moore and Irving, two newcomers from the West; Lewis and McCarty, another new act that is said to be out of the usual run; Alexander Brothers, muscular marvels, and others to be announced later.

THE POPS.

The twenty-eighth season of Pop Concerts in Symphony Hall will come to an end next Thursday evening, July 3rd. The season has been in every respect up to expectations both in the quality and size of the audiences and in the quality of the concerts themselves. Mr. Lenon, the new conductor, has made a most favorable impression.

For his last four nights he has arranged a series of very interesting programs, two of special significance. Monday night, June 30th, he will devote entirely to Italian composers. The names of the composers on the programmes are Controne, Arditi, Bocchierini, Verdi, Leoncavallo, d'Ambrosio, Conizetti, Rossini, Puccini, Bolzoni, Mascagni, Mezzacapo and Gabetti. Tuesday and Wednesday night there will be general programmes but he has made a special effort for Thursday night to play a programme which will be both patriotic and stirring and at the same time contain some of the great favorites of the year. This programme will be as follows:

America — Smith
Organ, Mr. Marshall
American March — Canne
Overture, "Light Cavalry" — Suppe
Waltz, "Estudiantina" — Waldteufel
American Patrol — Meacham
March, "Pomp and Circumstance" — Elgar
Organ, Mr. Marshall
Rhapsody No. 2 — Liszt
Largo — Handel
Violin, Mr. Theodorowicz, Organ, Mr. Marshall
Overture, "1812" — Tschaikowsky

Granite Conclave, Improved Order of Heptasophs held a well attended meeting in Protection hall, Thursday evening. Preparations were made to initiate three candidates at the next meeting.

Charles H. Johnson sells at auction tomorrow the house on the estate just south of the library on Spear street recently presented to the city by Mr. Crane for the enlargement of the library grounds. The house which is to be torn down is almost a landmark in the neighborhood being originally a barn belonging to Dr. Woodward, one of Quincy's benefactors.

BOTH MAKING GOOD.

In a recent issue of the Los Angeles Times was a picture and interesting article to many in Quincy of Mrs. Morris H. Turk, formerly of Quincy Point. Mrs. Turk gave a travel talk before the Women's Work Society and the Times says: "Mrs. Turk has traveled extensively in company with Rev. Dr. Turk and her talk concerned a most interesting trip through Albania. She is a fine speaker with animated face and delightful personality and her descriptions of the life and customs of the Albanians was exceedingly interesting spiced with entertaining stories of the natives with whom they came in contact and incidents of novel experiences, among them the witnessing of an Albinan wedding ceremony."

Dr. Turk is now junior pastor of the First Congregational church of Los Angeles, California and the Times also says that "both are winning hosts of friends, not only in the great church where Dr. Turk has been called as Junior pastor but wherever they chance to go."

Quincy Women's Circle, L. O. O. M., initiated two candidates in Electa hall Thursday evening. It was reported that seven members are confined to their homes with sickness.

One Roofing With Two Lives
PAROID
Relaid in 1911 after eight years service and is still giving good service. There is a law of averages in the lifetime of roofings just as there is in the life-time of men. Well managed insurance companies accept only selected lives. That is lives which in every probability will last long beyond the average life time. The roofing that lives long beyond the average lifetime roofing is PAROID ROOFING—and it is the roofing for careful buyers to select.

FAMOUS TRAMP VISITS QUINCY

Speaks Several Languages, Travelled All Over World

HIS STORY

"A No. 1" the famous tramp who has travelled all over the world on his self appointed mission, trying to save the boys of the country paid Quincy a short visit Friday. He arrived just before noon and paid a visit to the Ledger office where he showed some of his hundred of credentials and autographs of prominent men and entertained the editorial staff for a few minutes in an interesting account of some of his wanderings, and then took his departure from the city.

Many have doubtless seen a queer embalistic sign painted on fences along the railroad tracks, or carved on water tanks and shanties, etc. "A No. 1."

If you have never seen it, watch for it and you will be surprised to notice for how many years some of these marks have been decorating those above mentioned places. It is a queer sign, yet it means that "A No. 1," the world's most famous tramp has passed through and has left his mark showing the date and direction that he was journeying. This man whose only known name is this sobriquet.

He is well known to all the local railroad men, and no one ever doubts his story, nor that his fame rests upon actual facts. It will, no doubt be interesting to repeat the same here:

He has hoboed since 1883, 515,093 miles and has spent only $7.61 on railroad fare.

He has been around the world three times. He is a linguist, speaks and writes four languages. He has prevented more than twenty wrecks, wears a forty dollar suit of clothes and a gold watch, keeps his name a secret, does not chew, smoke, drink or gamble.

A tramp gave him his name in 1883.

"Kid, you are are all right," declared the older one, at the end of a particularly hard journey. "You are A No. 1." The title has stuck and the wanderer has more than lived up to it, for if ever a hobo's life could be said to be a success, it is that of this man. He travels in overalls and jumper, but after arriving in a town divests himself of these and appears in a neat suit; is always clean shaved and has a very prosperous appearance

He has a memorandum book full of cards and letters given him by railroad officials. Many of these state that he has prevented the possible loss of human life and property by telling train operators when beating his way of broken car wheels or other disarrangements and thus prevented serious wrecks and disasters. He has been in five wrecks, but luckily, has never been hurt.

He has autographed endorsements from President Woodrow Wilson, ex-President W. H. Taft and ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, Thomas A. Edison and Luther Burbank, the wizard of plants, Admiral Dewey and many other famous Americans.

He also has an autograph letter from Jack London, the author, telling of their companionship on the road together in 1894.

During his travels "A No. 1" has learned four languages—English, Ger-

SYRIAN BOY DROWNED IN WENDELL'S QUARRY

Stepped From Ledge Into Hole Thirty Feet Deep and Immediately Sank

Efforts to Recover Boy Unavailing up to This Noon. Was First Swim

Suffering from intense heat Abdul Haddad, an 18 year old Syrian resident of 540 Washington street, Quincy Point, stepped off the ledge at Wendell's quarry Friday afternoon, and was drowned. His body has not been recovered. It was his first time in American waters.

Three boys who afterward saw the accident asked Haddad as he stood ready to go in if he could swim. Unable to talk English he shook his head "no" and they pointed out what they called the baby hole, a shallow pool. He, however, went over the side of the ledge into at least 30 feet of water.

A Syrian companion realizing the byo had been drowned ran to Fore River yard gates. He returned with 50 helpers including two brothers of the drowned boy.

HIS FIRST YEARS WORK

First Annual Report of Probation Officer Fahey

GOOD SHOWING

Probation Officer Francis J. Fahey, this morning submitted to Judge Avery the report of his work as Probation Officer for the year ending June 1. In view of the fact that with this report Mr. Fahey completes the first year of his work as Probation Officer, the report will be read with more than usual interest by those interested in the work of the courts.

It was a year ago that Mr. Fahey received his appointment and entered upon the duties of the office. That he has proved a most efficient official will be borne out by all who have business with the court. Always courteous, he has endeavored to bring the work of his office up to a high standard and has always sought, when possible to see to it that persons brought before the court should be fully protected in their rights and that as little publicity as possible be given to the unfortunates who have been arraigned.

FARNCIS J. FAHEY.

The aim of Judge Avery, and he has the entire co-operation of Mr. Fahey, has been to give all an opportunity to become good citizens, and to see to it that the families were provided for. For this reason there have been many cases where, for the sake of the families men have been placed on probation and given an opportunity to reform. In some cases this has proved to be a wise course although as might be expected there have been those who have not profited by the opportunity given.

To the Honorable Albert E. Avery,
Justice, District Court of East Norfolk.

Dear Sir: I have the honor to submit a report of the work of this office for the year ending May 31, 1913.

During the past year 2326 persons were brought before the Criminal Session and 173 persons before the Juvenile Session of this court, making a total of 2499 charged with various offences.

Of this number 1566 were found guilty or adjudged delinquent; 990 of these were placed on probation, or in other words, about 65 per cent of those found guilty or adjudged delinquent were placed in the care and custody of the Probation Officer, by the court.

The above figures include all cases coming from the several towns, that is, Milton, Randolph, Holbrook, Braintree, Weymouth, Cohasset, and the City of Quincy, the district comprising as it does a total jurisdiction area of 88.9 square miles and according to the last census (1910) a population of 71,229.

The conditions of probation imposed were as follows:

Straight term of probation.

Probation with fine or court costs.

Probation with restitution as a condition.

Suspended jail sentences.

In non-support cases, where a fixed sum was ordered paid weekly or monthly, through this office, for the support of family, during term of probation.

For the year beginning June 1, 1912 and ending May 31, 1913 the total amount of money collected from probationers by installments by this office was $6408.03, divided as follows:

Fines and Court Costs	$3,658.71
Non-Support	2279.60
Restitution	469.72
Total	$6408.03

During this period 2175 visits were received from and made to probationers.

Two evenings weekly are set apart at the court building for meeting persons who are unable to call during the daytime, on account of their work or attendance at school. One evening to receive visits from juvenile probationers and for the disbursement of money in non-support and restitution cases. This evening is devoted wholly to children and women. Another evening for receiving visits from adult male probationers, and also to receive payments on fines, restitution and money in non-support cases.

The average number of persons calling at this office these evenings during each month is 181. Of those arrested for drunkenness 226 released from custody without arraignment by recommendation and approval of Pro-

SUSPICIOUS DEATH AT QUINCY POINT

David Fazrean of Boston Found Dead Under Suspicious Circumstances This Morning

Reported That There Was a Fight Last Night—Police Arrest Boarder on Suspicion

David Fazrean, 62 Leverett street, Boston, was found dead this morning by Victor Barbeau who conducts a lodging house at 62 Cleverly court. The dead man, according to Barbeau was sitting in a chair on the upper veranda. The police are conducting an investigation.

In consequence they have placed under arrest Frederick J. Fletcher, a lodger. Fletcher when arrested was in an intoxicated condition and had a pair of black eyes.

Inspectors Goodhue and Capt. McKay are conducting the investigation. The body is at the Hall undertaking rooms. No marks of any kind are visible. A slight froth was on the lips.

Members and lodgers at Barbeaus assert that no trouble ensued in the night. Others tell the police that a fight was in progress.

One lodger claims that the dead man walked the floor a great deal after he came from Nantasket with Mr. and Mrs. Barbeau and their daughter Mrs. La Tour. He states that while trying to persuade the man to retire he learned that he had an advanced case of heart trouble and that Fazrean had slept in a chair for years. Other members of the family corroborate the story.

An autopsy wil be made today by Dr. Fred E. Jones medical examiner.

Braintree's new town house is a very dignified looking structure, in keeping with its surroundings and an old New England town.

The announcement that the Jackies on the Michigan want a hall for a dance on Fourth of July night large enough to hold 500 fills the hearts of the girls on shore with delight for of course they will have to have partners.

After the tariff debators have pulled the wool over the people's eyes a little longer, there will be a general howl of "O, sugar!"

A newspaper notes that when Mr. Rockefeller reached his summer home he had on a very soft pink silk shirt, but the reporter had so little enterprise that he failed to describe his underclothes.

Will the President find it dull at his summer home in New Hampshire where he spends July 4, if the selectmen don't get up a picnic in his honor?

It is not necessary on July 4 for the boys to take special pains to send off firecrackers in front of the homes where there are sick people.

It is surprising how quickly the man who wants reckless chauffeurs jailed, becomes a speeder himself when he gets a machine.

BACK TO GETTYSBURG.

To the average man the great Gettysburg reunion is mostly a big picnic. The occasion observed is something he studied about in school, more or less musty with the dust of libraries.

The writer, reading the other day, the life of Gen. Robert E. Lee, found the pages dealing with Gettysburg scribbled over with pencil foot notes expressing the controversial convictions of some veteran. To him and his comrades these pages are evidently still thrilling with live human problems.

No two veterans will ever quite agree just what turned the day at Gettysburg. On one side Lee, audacious, a superb tactician, worshipped by his matchless army, whose force nearly equalled its opponents, when he had repeatedly whipped. He looked like a winner.

On the other Meade, cold, business like, efficient, arousing confidence but not enthusiasm, with an army equally tenacious and heroic.

Did Lee's audacity carry him too far in sanctioning that glorious but suicidal charge of Picket's? Or was it Longstreet's fatal slowness in making his attacks of the second and third day? Hear the veterans thump the table while they argue it out.

Although the majority of students probably blame Longstreet, Lee's fine magnanimity appeared when he said, "Never mind, all this has been my fault, it is I that have lost this fight."

What a contrast between the reeking surgeons and barns filled with the wailing and dying 50 years ago, and present scene of summer and agricultural peace, between the hate of cannon and the friendly handshake.

May this happy reunion of old heroes do much to soften such misunderstandings as may still exist, to help each of the various sections of our country to see things from the other man's point of view.

THE WOODWARD SCHOOL.

It is good news to those interested in the Woodward school to know that the board of managers are contemplating taking over again the active management of the school and conduct its affairs for the best good of the school and as nearly along the lines desired by Dr. Woodward as is consistent with the present generation and its requirements.

We are not criticising the management of Mr. Barbour or Mr. Parlin his predecessor but it does seem to us that the superintendent of the public schools should not have charge of private schools like the Woodward or Adams academy as the natural tendency would be to make them a part of the public school system.

Then again the salary although not large could be better expended on teachers and equipment. What a howl would go up in Braintree if it was proposed to hand Thayer Academy over to the superintendent of schools. The board of trustees are more widely scattered than those of the Woodward as most of them do not reside in the town. Yet it would be hard to find a better school than Thayer Academy with its efficient head master, competent corps of teachers and well grounded pupils.

With the ministers who are educated men giving their time to the management and a competent, all round master who is given power to select teachers and run the school intelligently it should not be a great task as there are less than 200 pupils. There is no reason why the Woodward school should be a side show of the public schools.

TRUSTS VS. BREAKFAST.

The government's suit against the "oatmeal trust" is an appropriate subject to discuss while the omnipresent cereal bowl and cream pitcher are travelling around the breakfast table.

It is commonly said that a nation's habits of eating are as hard to change as its religion. An exception must be made in the introduction of the breakfast food habit. In millions of homes the clean simmer of the cereal pot on the yellow box of cooked grains on the pantry shelf, has driven out the greasy frying pan.

It has been a change for the better Sausages, fried pork, and pie, great quantities of which used to be used for breakfast, were at best a heavy and greasy fodder to begin the day with Although the cereal eater may sometimes partake unconsciously of grain middlings intended for the stable rather than the house, as a whole adulteration, is not common, and these preparations are clean and very healthful.

The spread of the cereal habit has been a wonderful example of what can be done through advertising. It is usually said that to advertise successfully, one must appeal to wants and needs that people have previously been conscious of. The cereal makers created a new demand, and sold the American people a thing that they did not know they wanted.

Of course fancy as well as fact has been mingled with their enthusiastic publicity work. One popular cereal 'tis said, can be satisfactorily imitated by taking dried bread crusts, soaking them in watered molasses, drying well, and then grinding in a coffee grinder. But that may be nothing against it.

If the oatmeal trust has been gaining undue profits by unjust harrying of its competitors, the American people will have something to say about it. But probably the consumer will gain more by the simple expedient of buying his cereals in bulk than from the astuteness of the government's slickest lawyers.

ITS CLOSING CLASS PARTY

The class of 1913 of the Quincy High school, held their class party, the last of their commencement exercises , in the gym Friday evening. Only members of the class attended. The decorations were the same as those which proved to be so attractive at the reception in Music hall Friday evening.

Mrs. Ernest L. Collins and Miss Margaret Lennon were the matrons and Ernest L. Collins, headmaster was the sole patron.

Leon Randall delivered the prophecy. Depicting the struggles of his class and their subsequent victory against future odds, he covered the years in a humorous manner.

Miss Marion Rand, gave the class history. Opening with the entering day of the class she refreshed the recollections of her associates so thoroughly that they regretted her closing.

Frappe was served and dancing was enjoyed. Music for the occasion was furnished by William Wilson.

MISSING BOY FOUND ASLEEP

Paul Reddington the 11 year old son of John Reddington of Furnace avenue who had been missing since early Friday afternoon and who it was thought might have been drowned in a quarry hole was found by Officers Dinneen, Duane and Curtin fast asleep at an early hour this morning in the old gravel pit on the Granite branch. The boy had wandered from home and becoming lost and thoroughly tired out had laid down and fallen asleep. Friday night several of the quarries were searched for the boy but no trace of him was found.

FAMOUS TRAMP

man, French and Spanish. His parents were of the French and German nationalities, but he was born in San Francisco.

His toilet is complete, though it takes little room to carry it. It consists of a tooth brush, comb, soap and a few other necessities. Blackening and shining rags occupy a part of his pockets, also a pocket edition of Webster's dictionary, a rather strange book for a tramp to carry.

There is something about the man, aside from the distinction which his remarkable career carries that is strangely appealing. It is perhaps the humanity of the man or the pathos that lies mutely concealed in his life, that makes him so strangely attractive. Endowed with all the necessary qualities for success in life he is yet homeless, friendless, nameless, by an element in his make-up which has gained mastery over all other impulses and motives, namely the "Wanderlust."

Gripped in its subtle power, impressed by its resistless influence, he is forced to lead a life the barrenness of which he realizes and is condemned to roam ceaselessly all over the world without a destination in view, to be a nomad of civilization. He knows the yearnings of other men for home and friends, but the master of yearning of all is to move on and by this he must be governed.

Whenever he meets a runaway boy upon his journeys he gives him a good talk that is almost certain to make the lad homesick, and glad when "A No. 1" purchases a ticket sending him home to his parents.

If the boy is already a confirmed wanderer "A No. 1" teaches him his own motto: "Never associate with anyone in whose company you would be ashamed in broad open daylight to pass in front of your mother's home."

There is deep pathos in his story, and as he tells of his mission, the dangers lying all around him and the certainty of the fate waiting him, an unutterable sadness comes over him and his voice is tremulous with emotion.

"About 350,000 minors run away from home annually," said" A No. 1." "Of this number over 35,000 become confirmed hoboes, 7,000 are crippled, 3,500 are killed and the rest can stand the hardships of tramp life about ten years, until they are in a poor house. More than ninety per cent of all tramps, dirty and clean, come of good families. So many mothers, if they only knew it, are the cause of many young men living the hobo life. If a regular grown up tramp comes to the house and asks for a meal she turns him away and tells him to go work for it, but when the young fellow comes along just starting out to be a tramp she takes him in and feeds him on the best she has, not realizing that within a few short years the same youngster will be an exact prototype of the surly tramp she has just turned away.

"Now if she would only get his name and address from him, and talk to him in a nice way about his home and mother and tell him what a shame it is for him trying so hard to finish his days, a shunned, despised and worthless vagabond, there would be a good chance that he would go back home and it would be a help toward reforming a large number of the boys."

This famous tramp makes transient expenses by the sale of three books, the first being "Life and Adventures of 'A No. 1," telling of his travels among tramps over the world. The second is "Hobo Camp Fire Tales," a true story of the pitiful hardships of the road. The third is titled "The Curse of Tramp Life" and all show the dark side of tramp life, so that any restless boy will get a good idea of its disgusting features. These books may be found in any bookstore and on every train for twenty-five cents, and are worth every cent of it in keeping boys at home.

"A No. 1" has proofs in the shape of numbers of letters of gratitude and numerous newspaper clippings, mendioning names of men in all walks of life whom he has sent home in the past. He devotes nearly every cent of his revenue in sending boys back to their homes and future usefulness.

Asked why he had not written his books sooner as they are illustrated and highly entertaining stories, he stated that lately, after twenty-nine years of roving, he had come to the conclusion that the dangerous, senseless, and pitiful life he had led all these years had been wasted, and that perhaps by telling his own pitiful experiences he might possibly prevent others from following his footsteps. He said that to force a boy to stay at home after he had once started to wander, is almost impossible, as the maxim "once a tramp, always a tramp," has been many times proven to him by actual experience, as he has met many a boy of fine family and home who never knew of the fifth, misery and dangers a tramp comes constantly in contact wtih, yet cannot resist the call to wander.

A No. 1 makes his headquarters at Cambridge Springs, Penn. Realizing that he too may become at any moment a victim of an accident, he has provided himself against sepulture in a potter's field by purchasing a lot in the cemetery of this health resort. He had a tombstone placed upon it, and ever mindful of the curse that had blasted his own career and as a warning to others who seem to be affected with the "Wanderlust" he had this epitaph graven into its granite:

bation Officer, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 384 of the Laws of the Commonwealth for 1905.

Six persons were released from jail who were serving sentences, on recommendation of this office and approval of the court and County Commissioners; each case having been investigated and satisfactory reasons found for such action.

The number of persons remaining on probation May 31, 1913 is 387.

Preventive measures have proven exceedingly beneficial in a great many instances where the parents or guardians have voluntarily brought to the attention of this office wrong acts of their children, such as stubborness, waywardness and disobedience, where it was believed they were getting beyond their control, and might eventually come before the court.

The ersults from our efforts in this direction were most pleasing.

Many complaints where children were the offenders have been adjusted through this office without court proceedings, to the satisfaction of the complainants, and in several instances cases of neglect to provide were adjusted in a like manner with excellent results.

In several non-support cases, it is a pleasure to state that reconciliation was effected after separation of extended periods. In one instance seventeen months had elapsed.

Employment was obtained for probationers in several instances, on investigation it being found that lack of employment and consequent discouragement and recklessness was the cause of many being brought before the court.

We desire at this time to extend our sincere thanks to those citizens and corporations who so kindly gave employment to those temporarily unfortunate persons, who were referred to them by this office.

The Police Officials of the district have cheerfully and willingly co-operated with this office at all times.

The Associated Charities of Quincy, through its efficient Secretary Miss Purchase, has always been ready to assist.

The Clergy of all denominations have aided us in many ways.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, through its General Secretary Mr. Bromley, has generously contributed its support.

By closely conforming with the system as prescribed by the Massachusetts Probation Commission, we have found the returns very gratifying.

We make a monthly report to the above Commission and to Miss Mildred Gray Huston, stenographer, who has so ably assisted in getting this out, we are greatly indebted.

Fully realizing the importance of our work and the responsibilities placed on us by the court, we can only say that we have used our best efforts in employing all the agencies at our disposal, to obtain the best results.

Respectfully yours,
Francis J. Fahey,
Probation Officer.

Mr. Editor

I believe in the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Massachusetts and the Declaration of Independence—and I have an idea and a half—to this effect that the parade start with the women of our glorious city—each one bearing a placord on her back, giving her age and letting the oldest ones lead, and the others follow in line according to seniority—and then have the automobiles next in order with the cost of each machine plainly written on a large placard, also stating if auto is fully paid for and if not stating how much is still due. Then have the young men and women in their bathing suits follow—carrying placards—saying "I am in the swim," and then have follow—the comic section— with placards of the funny things we hear so often—something like these "I am here without any beer"—"As the days get shorter, the heat gets hotter" etc. etc.—After that let the remnant show the various industries of the city—the city hall brigade—the politicians—the candidates and would be candidates for the mayoralty—etc. etc.

BOY DROWNED

moving his clothes, drove repeatedly but saw no body. John Wrenn and John Swain both Adams school players also entered the water. The shadows darkened the deep hole shortly after four o'clock and it was impossible to see objects clearly underwater.

When the brothers of the boy arrived they peered over the edge and one appeared to want to jump over, as though to try and recover the body. The other presented a most affecting sight. Kneeling on the uneven bank he buried his head in his hands and quietly mourned. Overcome with emotion, he suddenly reached for his brothers clothing and shoes and time and again pressed his lips against them as he uttered terms of endearment in his mother tongue.

The police will make another effort today to recover the body. The quarry filled rapidly and had to be abandoned some years ago when a subterranean spring, filled the hole so rapidly that derrick and other appurtenances had to be left in grasping waters. It is possible that the body may have caught in the net work of guys.

¶ First of all, they are authoritatively correct in point of style.

¶ Again, the purity of the woolens from which they are made, and the quality of the workmanship in the making, insures the service they will give; the wear you get out of them.

"THE BIG TECH."

Quincy had five of its young students as applicants for the entrance examinations at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, W. E. Atkins, C. M. Beattie, Todd Elwell, R. G. E. Lundin and N. F. McClure. Three of them took their preparatory work at the Quincy High school. C. P. Cassidy of Wollaston was another of the young men from Quincy High to take the entrance examinations at the Institute, or as it is termed out West, "The Big Tech."

Figures of applicants for the entrance examinations have just been made up by the Registrar, and the number proves to be 686, about ten per cent greater than for last year. As is to be expected Massachusetts furnishes a very large proportion of the applicants, those who come from afar and those who enter for the special work following college studies elsewhere— always a large number at Tech,— coming for the fall entrance examinations; or coming on college entrance ones, taken elsewhere.

Boston furnishes about 150 of the young men who seek to enter the Institute in the fall and Greater Boston, 113 more, with the important cities and towns of the state sending a number equal to the last one and the smaller places, from which five or less of the school boys have come, rolling up a total of 129. So altogether some 600 of the young men are from Massachusetts and 44 others from the other New England states. Outside New England, New York city has 11 applicants —2 of them from Brooklyn, the state has five other representatives, the other Middle States have students taking the examinations Washington and Virginia, with Tenessee representing the South and three Western states, Indiana, Missouri and Oregon,. making up the list for the country. Eight from foreign lands are in the list, 3 from Mexico and one each from Honduras, Guatemala, Portugal, Hungary and China. Peru is represented by one student, who, however gives a local address.

Dorchester as usual leads the section of the city, there being 46 applicants. Outside of Boston, Cambridge sends the largest number of prospective Tech students, 35. Altogether 115 Massachusetts towns are represented and 28 others in New England, where Connecticut heads the company with 11 cities and 16 men. With reference to the preparatory schools, the good old local high school holds its own and the great majority of students come from such institutions.

One Roofing With Two Lives

PAROID

Relaid in 1911 after eight years service and is still giving good service. There is a law of averages in the life-time of roofings just as there is in the life-time of men. Well managed insurance companies accept only selected lives. That is lives which in every probability will last long beyond the average life time. The roofing that lives long beyond the average life-time roofing is PAROID ROOFING—and it is the roofing for careful buyers to select.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

Lovers of clean, wholesome amusement fill Quincy's pretty playhouse twice daily to witness the clever work of "The Kincaide Players." This company of six pretty girls and five clever men have become great favorites during the three weeks they have been here.

One whole page could be written of this one attraction of the big, bright program. All eleven players are splendid singers and each one plays a prominent part in every comedy the company produces. All are good dancers, but two of the girls are exceptionally good. Their work is always greeted with great applause. In fact each and all of the company are true "Stars" and richly merit the storms of applause they receive. They are now presenting a care-free funfest entitled "Nita the Gypsy."

The Photo-plays this week are right up to the usual high standard. The Moving Picture of Quincy is one of unusual interest. It shows the Memorial Day Parade, Fire Department, Quarries and many other people and places of the city. This picture was made for Kincaide Theatre and certainly shows the enterprise and aggressiveness of its management.

Beginning Monday, the Kincaide players will be seen in a rural comedy entitled "The Wedding at Bangor." The full program is presented at the daily matinee at 2.30 P. M.

—That municipalities are bound in these present times to have hard luck in floating bond issues is shown by the experience of Quincy, Mass., not a bid being received for Quincy's $38,775 bonds bearing 4 1-2 per cent. interest. The best way for municipalities is not to make it imperative to float bonds until the market is more favorable. Four and one-half per cent. interest is not so attractive in the line of bonds as it was a year ago.—Barre (Vt.) Times.

TO BRING THEIR BATTLE FLAGS

Stars and Bars May Float Over Confederates at Gettysburg

OLD GLORY HAS PRECEDENCE

Will Be Official Decoration—Union Veterans Extending Royal Welcome to Men In Gray—Regulars Guard Camp to Be Occupied by Fifty Thousand at Great Reunion

Gettysburg, Pa., June 28.—That the Stars and Bars as well as the Stars and Stripes will appear at the big camp of veterans during the anniversary celebration was indicated by an announcement from the officers of the anniversary commission that "there is nothing to prevent the wearers of the gray from bringing along their battle flags." At the same time, however, it was said that the flag of the confederacy would not be used in any official decorations over which the commission has control.

Residents of Gettysburg and union veterans already here are extending a royal welcome to all arriving confederate veterans. In the town every business block is covered with the national colors and practically every home displays a flag. The Stars and Bars appear at a number of places, while the use of both the blue and the gray is a favorite method of decoration on many buildings.

Large pictures of both union and confederate generals are much in evidence. Many of the veterans' organizations have brought their fifes, drums and bugles, and the calls of war time days are sounding through the streets, in some instances by the very men who did the same thing during the exciting days of the Gettysburg campaign half a century ago.

Finishing touches were put on the camp yesterday. Equipment was distributed to the 5000 tents, all of which are now up, and everything is in readiness for the 50,000 old soldiers expected to attend the celebration next week.

"We are thoroughly prepared to have the entire situation well in hand," declared Major Normoyle, in command at the camp. "Every old soldier will find things in readiness for him when he comes here. He will be met at the train and shown the location of his tent. If he is not able to carry his baggage someone will be there to do it for him. He will not have to do a stroke of work, not even fill the water buckets in his tent."

Each of the four large sections composing the camp will be under the direct supervision of a company of regulars. One company of engineers and three of infantry will have charge of the work of guarding these sections, answering the calls of the veterans and otherwise giving attention to their needs.

F. A. Easton of the Sixth New York cavalry has arrived to complete arrangements for his regimental reunion, which will be held on July 1 on the first day's fight. Easton is endeavoring to locate the Gettysburg women who, as schoolchildren, scattered flowers in the paths of Buford's cavalry and sang patriotic songs as they entered the town June 30, 1863. A dozen or more of them are said to be living, and if they can be found they will be asked to sing the same songs again at the reunion.

MARRIAGE PROLONGS LIFE

Health Officer's Figures Give Warning to Bachelors and Spinsters

Chicago, June 28.—Married persons live longer than those who are single, according to statistics gathered by Dr. Drake of the city health department and just made public. He has figured out that the death rate of Chicago bachelors is 29½ percent higher than that of married men. The mortality rate of unmarried women is 40 percent higher than that of married women, he says.

The bachelor rate of death in Chicago is 19.8 per 1000, while the rate for married men is 15.3. The rate of single women is 14.3, while that of those who marry is only 10.3.

FUEL OIL EXPLODES ON TANK STEAMER

At Least Five Men Killed and Half a Dozen Injured

New York, June 28.—Two hundred tons of fuel oil, on board the steel tank steamer Mohawk, owned by the Standard Oil company, exploded with a terrific roar and a burst of flame while the vessel was at anchor off Tompkinsville, S. I., in New York bay, killing five persons and injuring six others.

A dozen more are unaccounted for, but are believed to have escaped on craft that came to the Mohawk's aid, or by swimming ashore.

Carelessness of a machinist's helper was reported to have caused the explosion. Fifty men who were making repairs preparatory to the Mohawk's departure for Tuxpan, Mex., today, were on board.

A helper was declared to have dropped a washer into the hold below the fireroom. Seeking to recover it, he is believed to have carried a lighted candle, which caused combustion among generated gases in the hold.

The Duke of Sutherland owned outright 1,358,600 acres of land. His real estate possessions in Scotland comprised one-sixteenth of the area of that country.

London, June 28.—The scandal growing out of the government Marconi contract has resulted in the resignation of Sir Rufus Isaacs. Sir John Simon, the present solicitor general, will be his successor, it is said, in the office of attorney general.

The retirement of Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, and the eventual breaking up of the present ministry, is now looked upon as the probable outcome of the affair, although the select committee of parliament which made an investigation exonerated the involved government officials.

Refuses to Treat With the 1500 Men on Strike In His Shops

Boston, June 28.—Governor Foss has taken a firm stand against meeting or treating with his striking employes. This was the information given Mayor Fitzgerald when he sought to engage the attention of the governor in an effort to bring together Foss and the representatives of the 150 workmen on strike at the two big Foss shops.

In answer to a petition by the labor men the mayor tried to get in communication with the governor. He was told the governor would go no further in the matter of dealing with the labor situation that has thrown into idleness 1500 men and that threatens to effect a sympathetic strike of more than 100,000 metal tradesmen throughout the state.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Afternoon Tea Invades Boston's Business District—Quite Like a Bit of Old "Lunnon"—Food Experts Say New England Must Grow its Own Eatables—Everybody Raise Eggs, Is the Slogan—Bitter Denunciation of Boston's Dust as Cause of Bad Throats—Also the Tango and Turkey Trot Come in for Abuse.

How very English we are getting to be. In several downtown hotels afternoon tea is being served to refresh the weary business man who slips out of the office for a cup of the beverage that cheers but does not inebriate. Sometimes he takes his typist with him, but that is not yet de rigeur. Anyway if said business man must drink tea at four o'clock it is better for him than a highball at eleven in the forenoon. Doubtless there are some who will be glad of the excuse to take both.

Everybody raise eggs seems to be the slogan which Alton E. Briggs, secretary of the Boston fruit and produce exchange is sounding. This expert says that the west is expanding rapidly and will soon require about all that it can raise for its own consumption. Meantime, throughout New England are thousands upon thousands of idle acres which ought to be worked in the interest of supplying the urban population with much needed food stuffs. Every back yard, says Mr. Briggs, should be a scene where cackling hens flock. This is no doubt wholesome advice, though there are wild tracts in Massachusetts and other New England states which one would regret seeing reduced to untidy chicken farms.

Boston's dust and not Boston's east wind is responsible for the high percentage of throat trouble in New England's metropolis, according to a medical pundit speaking before one of the local improvement associations. To whoever has seen the great dust clouds sweeping through Back Bay streets on a breezy afternoon this seems a reasonable explanation. All day long there is no escape from the dust and at night, when apartment dwellers open their windows wide to get the benefit of fresh air along comes a so called sweeping machine which propels great columns of street refuse into every bedroom along the street. Some day, when the dust has been properly disposed of, it will be seen that man and not nature has been responsible for most of Boston bad throats.

An aging machine for sweet girl graduates was an amusing feature of this year's class day exercises at the New England Conservatory of Music. Upon the Jordan Hall stage there appeared 17 young persons each of whom read a little prophecy about the things which she, or he, hoped to do in the world. Then one by one they were put through a marvellous aging apparatus after which they came out 20 years older and engaged in doing the things which they actually may do. One who had cast herself for prima donna in an opera company was shown in the act of teaching primary school pupils to sing "do, re, me." Another who had expected to be the greatest living violinist fiddled at a country dance. Other similar skits caused merriment. They were perhaps a little overdrawn, for this is a great day for the well trained musician and many are the opportunities awaiting him.

Speaking of commencement it is interesting to note that at least one orator addressing graduates has raised his voice against the new dances that "are ravaging the morals of the rising generation while the older generations look helplessly on." One suspects that the speaker is rather too sweeping in representing all the older generation as eyeing the new dances askance, for one occasionally sees ladies of an uncertain age doing the turkey trot as enthusiastically as the younger folk do it. Still he is probably penetrating and acute in tracing such developments back to the influence of clever young writers who "treat the primitive instincts as they were the latest modern discovery," and the moral law as "a quaint survival of the early Victorian period." The subject stirs the indignation of the Transcript's Listener, who writes: "So, too, do the new dances cast upon the scrap heap, all the delicacy, and restraint and courtesy, and at least outward respect for the conventional decencies that have grown up through long centuries of civilization around the public and social mingling of the sexes. What can 'tango' mean if not what it means in Latin, baldly, 'I touch'—with the contact so shamelessly contrived for continuity that even Paris has been shocked and has thus far shrunk from adopting this latest phase of strenuous Americanism? The dancing masters' organization of our west adopts resolutions in agreement with the professors of dancing in Europe to the effect that this license that has so captivated the younger sets of fashionable society must end in a taboo of dancing in polite society. But all the same nothing else goes." And seemingly through all classes of society nothing else goes. One wonders where it will all end?

JACK JOHNSON GOING ABROAD

Friends Say He Has No Intention of Returning

HOW HE SKIPPED TO CANADA

Joined Negro Ball Team, Disguised Himself With Old Clothes and False Mustache, and Easily Made His Way Across Border—Due to Sail For France Tuesday

Toronto, June 28.—Jack Johnson will never again enter the United States, according to his friends here.

Johnson is now in Montreal, where he is due to sail for France Tuesday, but negroes here who figured in the plans for the black pugilist's flight across the border say they are certain he has no intention of returning. In this event Johnson will be an exile, as he might be arrested and sent to prison if he returned.

The details of Johnson's flight have become known. It is stated that, after joining a negro ball team in Wisconsin, Johnson donned some old clothes, a slouch hat and a false mustache. From Detroit he went to Port Huron, Mich., and thence to Hamilton, Ont., by train. At Hamilton a powerful motorboat had been engaged and was waiting for the pugilist and his party. Two minutes before the train for Montreal pulled out of Toronto Johnson arrived in the motorboat, hurried on to the train and went directly to a stateroom which had been engaged.

Lucille Cameron, Johnson's white wife, did not accompany the pugilist in his flight, but took an earlier train out of Chicago for Montreal and met him there. Johnson had no trouble with the immigration authorities, and he was not recognized by anyone, possibly because of the mustache adorning his lip.

In Montreal, when the tip got out that Johnson was in the city and the newspapermen started hunting him, the pugilist started dodging. He moved from six different houses where he had engaged rooms, but finally appeared at one of the newspaper offices and gave out the statement declaring he did not intend to jump his bail.

Safe Out of United States

Washington, June 28.—Jack Johnson has made good his escape from the United States, for the time being, at least, and can neither be extradited nor deported from Canada, according to the latest official view here.

Johnson, it has been learned, is traveling on a tourist ticket, and Canada cannot return him because her immigration law does not exclude a transient alien in such circumstances. Johnson's offense is not extraditable in Canada. Officials here made an effort to have the negro returned to this country under Canada's immigration laws, but it has failed.

BEVERLY ALDERMAN HELD

Charged With Accepting Bribe In Connection With a License

Salem, Mass., June 28.—Alderman William C. Blaisdell of Beverly was arraigned before Judge Sears and was held in $1000 for grand jury, charged with corruptly accepting a gift from Robert Arth.

It is charged by Arth that, having twice applied for a junk dealer's license in Beverly and failing to obtain it, he entered into negotiations with Blaisdell, and paid him $13 with a promise to pay him $12 later, in return for which, he said, the alderman promised him three votes in the board of aldermen.

Blaisdell denied in court that any such negotiations had taken place.

Ten Men With One Leg Each Appear In Illinois Court

Edwardsville, Ills., June 28.—Ten one-legged men sat in a row in Judge Hadley's courtroom when the suit of Walter Taylor against the Commonwealth Steel company of Granite City was called.

Taylor seeks damages under the workmen's compensation law for the loss of a limb. An offer to settle for $1700 was made by the company, and the one-legged men were in court to testify that a man crippled as Taylor is can find employment which will pay him from $2 to $3 a day.

Their testimony was not heard, as the court referred the case to a board of three arbitrators.

HERMANN IS GIVEN UP

Bondsmen Surrender I. W. W. Leader of Strike at Ipswich

Ipswich, Mass., June 28.—Fear that the "vigilante committee" of seventy-five citizens would make good its threats and ride the I. W. W. agitators out of town on a rail led the bondsmen of Nathan Hermann, the strike leader, to surrender him to the police. Hermann was out on $1200 bail on a charge of inciting a riot.

Chief of Police Hull, as soon as Hermann's liberty was forfeited, had him hurried over to Salem jail for safekeeping. He will be kept behind the bars until a hearing is given on the charge—and no date has yet been set for the hearing.

DERAILMENT AT SOUTH QUINCY

Two Freight Cars Jump Iron and Tie Up Main Line

AT MIDNIGHT

The main line was tied up until after midnight by two freight cars which jumped across the tracks at the water works siding, South Quincy at 10.15 Friday evening. The Boston wrecker had been sent to Wellfleet where a passenger train had gone through an open switch and the officials dispatched the Readville wrecker to Quincy.

It arrived at midnight after causing no end of excitement along the Old Colony line and after an hours work the tracks were cleared. The engine, first and second car of the granite freight passed over all right but the second and third cars jumped The cars were loaded with dressed granite which was partly damaged.

The Federal express which runs to Washington and is so long that it is sent every night to Braintree where it is turned on the Y was sent over the branch line and a 40 car heavily loaded freight was delayed for several hours.

—The saving man is sure to find some good investment for his money. A New York man lately tendered four of the large one cent coins and a modern penny in payment for his fare. After a heated argument he was ejected from the car, subsequently brought suit against the railway company, and recovered damages to the amount of $275.00, the Supreme Court ruling that an old penny is just as good as a new one. Mrs. Frances L. Conway, chairman, Mrs. Effie L. Benham, Mrs. Sarah L. Binney, Mrs. Cora E. De Merritt, Mrs. Arvilla Foley, Mrs. Ethel M. Folsom, Mrs. Ruth C. Tilden and Mrs. Eleanor R. Wilson.

Miss Symonds of Malden has been secured to attend to the cooking lessons. Visitors are invited to inspect the classes at any time. They will continue through the month of July.

Mrs. Mildred Bower, chairman of the Civics and Conservation committee has called the attention of the school children to the devasating work of the gypsy and brown tail moths and tent caterpillars with the result that many children report destroying large numbers of the insects along the roadways. The children from the Penniman school report a total of 1500 nests destroyed while the Jonas Perkins school have also banished over 2000 nests.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

BOYS DEFEAT MARRIED MEN

Base Ball Feature at Sunday School Picnic

FIRST CHURCH

After two postponements "on account of the weather" the First Parish Sunday school picnic was held yesterday afternoon in lower field of Merrymount Park, under ideal conditions.

At two o'clock the children and parents began to arrive and after a short informal game with soft ball between picked nines, the schedule of contests for the afternoon was carried out as planned. The first of these was the "Battle Bump" or rooster fighting between the younger boys, which caused a great deal of fun for participants and spectators alike and was won by Stanhope Ring.

Then followed amid much laughter and applause and in swift succession the potato races, sack races, and shoe races, alternating between the boys and girls. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. Henry W. Porter had charge of the contests and the prizes were awarded by the minister, Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson. The potato race for boys was won by Robert Allen, the sack race by William Smith, and the shoe race by Phillip Weixler. Gertrude Beal secured first prize in the girls potato race, and Eunice Weixler carried off the prizes in the sack race and shoe race.

These contests were all carried out at the pavilion which made a convenient shelter for the growing crowd of members of the parish who had come to join in the afternoon's fun, as well as the non-participants in each special event, who joined the ranks of spectators until their own particular contest was called.

At the close of these minor contests it was announced that the chief event of the afternoon, the ball game between the boys of the Sunday school and the married men of the parish, would take place on the ball ground at the foot of the hill.

Here the crowd already assembled was increased by a number of automobile parties who had arrived just in time for the big game.

The line up was as follows:

MARRIED MEN	BOYS
G. E. Pfaffmann, p	J. Pfaffmann, p
H. W. Porter,c	W. Crocker, c
J. H. Slade,1b	W. E. Edwards 1b
A. C. Nickerson, 2b	R. Crane, 2b
A. W. Hall, 3b	M. Blackmur, 3b
H. L. Davenport, ss	R. Davis, ss
C. A. Price, lf	K. Edwards, lf
A. W. Walker, cf	K. Pfaffmann,cf
H. M. Faxon, rf	R. Burgin rf
	H. Hall, rf

Mr. Haley umpired the game and the official score was kept by Rev. A. L. Hudson.

The game was close and exciting from start to finish, and while the boys had the advantage in point of immediate practice and training, the men were in very good form and showed remarkable ability to "come back" after a long period of inactivity on the diamond.

In the first half of the first inning the men were retired in one, two, three order amid loud and prolonged cheers for the young pitcher J. Paffmann, who was well supported by Crocker behind the bat. In the second inning, however, Nickerson and Davenport crossed the home plate for the men leaving the score two to one in favor of the married men. The boys were unable to make another score until the fifth inning owing chiefly to the remarkable work of G. Pfaffmann in the pitcher's box and the splendid support given him by Porter as catcher, while in the fourth inning Davenport brought in another tally for the men making the score three to one, much to the surprise of those who had expected to see the boys easy winners.

But the fifth inning after the men had been retired with a goose egg in the first half, and there were two down on the boys side, a pop fly to short infield by Crocker was missed through a mix up between the men's short stop and third baseman, and the fun began. Two wild throws added to the misfortunes of the married men and before the third "boy" was put out Crocker, Blackmur, J. Pfaffmann and K. Edwards had added each a score to the credit the boys and the game stood five to three in their favor.

From this time on the men did not recover the lead, although a tally each by Hall in the 7th and Slade in the 8th tied the score, and the game closed 7 to 6 in favor of the boys, time of game 1 hour and 20 minutes.

It was a swift and exciting game and characterized by excellent playing on both sides, the most notable features, aside from the splendid work of the two batteries being two long fly catches in left field by C. A. Price and a fly catch in center field and double play by Karl Pfaffmann.

After the game the company returned to the pavilion and enjoyed a basket supper, returning home in the cool of the evening from a most happy and interesting day.

PLANS FOR CELEBRATION PRACTICALLY COMPLETED

Only Thing Now Needed to Assure Grand Success is Funds. Fully $2,500 Needed

Plans For Entertaining the Officers of Battleship Michigan

An important meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee was held Saturday evening in the rooms of the Board of Trade. There was no special business that demanded action, other than the finances. Reports from the several wards collecting showed that funds were coming in well, although the committee feel that in order to carry out all of the plans contemplated at least $2,500 should be raised.

Harry Studley chairman of the Children's entertainment announced that all of his plans had been completed. At the two moving picture shows at Kincaide's theatre and the Auditorium where pleasing bills will be put on In addition to the regular program it is planned to have a little celebration to the flag. During the latter part of the program it is proposed to unfurl a flag upon the stage and have the children rise and after a brief history of the flag to give the salute to the flag the same as taught in the various schools. It is also hoped that Mayor Stone may be present a few minutes and speak briefly to the children. The program will close with two verses of America which will be thrown on the screen and will be sung by the children. These features will be given at both theatres.

It was announced that arrangements had been made so that on the Fourth all inward and outward trains should make the Quincy Adams stop whether scheduled in the regular timetable or not.

Arrangements have been made for 300 box lunches for the out of town organizations which will take part in the parade.

Immediately after the morning parade the officers of the battleship will be entertained at the rooms of the Granite City club and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon they will be entertained at dinner at Union hall.

It was announced at the Bethany church Sunday morning that a large grand stand would be erected on the lawn in front of the Bethany church for the children of the Sunday school, who dressed in white. and each carrying an American flag would salute the parade as it passed by.

The most successful collector for the celebration up to the present time is "Doc" Bowditch the veteran of many celebrations. Up to Saturday "Doc" had turned in $98 in cash and the amount he turned in Saturday night brought the total up to $175. In reply to a question as to how he did it he replied "Where there is a will there is a way."

Pretty Young Ladies Preside Over the Various Booths

THE SPORTS

A gay and festive crowd gathered in St. Josephs' hall and on its grounds Saturday afternoon and evening to participate in the annual June fete of St. Mary's parish. All sections of Quincy and Milton were represented in the large guest list which included Mayor Eugene R. Stone and Rev. Fr. J. P. Cuffe of Sacred Heart church, Atlantic; Rev. Fr. Andrew J. Prettily arranged booths were set in all corners of the grounds and the large amount of money realized will be devoted to the parish fund.

Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy directed the affair in the absence of Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady, the beloved pastor, who is touring Europe. He was assisted by his youthful curate, Rev. Fr. William Keenan who was recently assigned to the parish.

One of the most acceptable children's features was the cross country rides in a large auto truck. Making a circuit covering several miles it was beyond doubt the stellar attraction for the young folks.

The tables were in charge of the ladies of the parish, headed by the following chairman:

DEATH OF MISS BUMPUS

For 30 Years Librarian at Thomas Crane Library

LONG ILLNESS

Miss Amelia L. Bumpus who has been ill for several weeks, failing gradually since the death of her sister Mary and the breaking up of their home on Spear street, passed away early Saturday evening at her late home on High school avenue.

She was a sister of Judge Everett C. Bumpus of Presidents hill of the Panama Canal and other commissions, and aunt of Lieut. Edward A. Bumpus, Co. C, 9th U. S. Infantry, who was massacred on the Island of Samar in the Philippines, about ten years ago.

For thirty years Miss Bumpus was librarian of the Thomas Crane Public library tendering her resignation about four years ago to the trustees which was accepted with regret.

From a small beginning she has seen the library grow into one of the largest and best in the state. Hers was a personal interest and real love for the work. Nothing to aid patrons was too much trouble for her and literary clubs and those using the reference library found her intelligent and willing assistance of invaluable aid. In appreciation of her kindness the Friday club, one of the oldest literary clubs in the city, made her an honorary member of the club and it was a real pleasure to the members when she could be present at a meeting.

Under her administration the library grew and kept up with the city's growth and no woman ever gave thirty years of better service or retired from public life with more real friends.

Retirement from public life only increased her activities in other ways for she loved to do for others, often at a sacrifice. She never considered herself and today there are many people and homes where she has been a friend in deed who will have pleasant memories of a "good woman" who has passed from this to her heavenly rest.

Although never married Miss Bumpus mothered every one, young and old; at the bedside of the sick, by gifts, and many thoughtful acts and her doing was not confined to her church which she dearly loved but every one needing help was her brother or sister.

In Bethany church she was interested in every part of it, always attending the services and for many years singing in the choir, in the Ladies Circle she was a great worker and as a member of Unity Circle King's Daughters her activities were unceasing. As senior deaconess of Bethany church she assisted at the christenings. The Hospital Aid association found her a willing worker. It would be hard to find a woman doing life's work more nobly yet, unconsciously for she little realized what a big place she occu-

The boys are getting exceedingly anxious to know whether they are to be permitted to lose a few fingers and eyes July 4.

How much simpler it was in the good old times, when all the Congressmen walked up to the corporation office every Saturday night and drew their pay envelopes.

Gen. Wood does not seem well satisfied with the army, although the lawns are kept well mowed at all the posts.

On the 3d day of July, 137 years ago, when the draft of the Declaration of Independence was completed the immortal John Adams who had been at work with Jefferson and others in preparing the document, remarked, "Future ages will celebrate this day with booming of cannon and patriotic exercises." The "declaration," however, was not made public until the following day, hence we Celebrate The Fourth.

—Things have got to a pretty bad pass when the official dance cencor at the exclusive Lenox, Mass., summer resort feels forced to resign because he does not wish to pass judgment upon the dances which the wealthy visitors will put on this summer. We have heard a great deal about the style of dancing in the cheap "joints" in the large cities and much of it has been very unfavorable comment; but heretofore we have not heard of dancing by so-called society people that would cause the official dance cencor to quit the job in disgust Manifestly, the wealthy sojourners in Lenox, Mass., if the newspaper reports are to be credited, have something to look in their midst.—Barre Vt. TO IMPRISON TWO MINISTERS

Militants Attempt to Make a Descent on Downing Street

LISS PANKHURST LEADS MOB

Police Use Clubs In Half-Hour Battle With Women and Dockmen, In Which the Latter Are Routed—Planned to Capture Premier and Chancellor of Exchequer

London, June 30.—Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, led an attacking party to Downing street, where Premier Asquith and Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George reside, yesterday afternoon for the purpose of imprisoning the cabinet ministers.

The expedition was unsuccessful. The attempt to capture Downing street failed, but the victory of the police was not without a series of fierce scrimmages in which both policemen and women were injured.

Miss Pankhurst appeared at a demonstration in Trafalgar square in favor of free speech. She denounced Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, "for killing my mother," whom she declared was "slowly dying." Then she invited the crowd to go to Downing street and "imprison the ministers in their own houses."

Suiting her action to her words, she jumped from the wagon, organized a large body of sympathizers, many of whom were dock workers, and marched at their head down Whitehall, with the flag of the Women's Social and Political union surmounted by a liberty cap.

The police, however, had been apprised of the intentions of the demonstrators and had thrown a strong cordon around Downing street. The dockers tried to break through and some of the women went to their aid, but were severely handled.

In the fighting women were thrown to the ground and the dockers were clubbed. Many of them were arrested. Meanwhile some of the husky dock workers had thrashed a policeman here and there. Finally mounted police came to the rescue and dispersed the crowd.

The incident which led to the march to Downing street was Miss Pankhurst's objection to a resolution put to the meeting because it contained no direct reference to votes for women.

"The men on this platform," she said, "have refused to put the question of women's vote in the resolution. That just shows you what Democrats they are."

Then pointing toward Downing street, she continued: "The ministers are just a handful of greedy cowards. They don't all go for weekends, and we could imprison them in their own homes even this afternoon if we went down there. What are you going to do?"

Cheers greeted this speech, and there was a general movement toward getting into line.

Miss Pankhurst headed the march. Nearly 2000 persons followed her banner, singing the Marseillaise. Having started the attack, the suffragette leader left the active direction of affairs to her supporters. The police hastily gathered reinforcements and cordoned both ends of Downing street.

Finding they were unable to enter Downing street from Whitehall, a large contingent proceeded through St. James park, with the intention of forcing their way to the ministerial residences through the park entrance to the street. This maneuver was successfully resisted. The police secured the banner and cap of liberty and other trophies. The disturbances lasted half an hour.

Finding themselves repulsed, Miss Pankhurst and her supporters marched back to Trafalgar square.

SHACKLEY—HILL.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hill, Walker street, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, when their daughter Miss Florence May, was married to Mr. George Shackley of Roxbury by the bride's uncle, Rev. Frank L. Bristol of Northboro.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white satin and wore a veil which was caught up by a crown of sweet peas. She carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. Mrs. Robert Cook of Roslindale, sister of the bride was matron of honor. She was prettily gowned in pink and white and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. Cyrus Taylor of Melrose a friend of the bride and groom, was best man.

The bridal party marched into the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal chorus played by Mrs. J. H. Toas of Roxbury. The house was artistically decorated with maple leaves, mountain laurel and cut flowers. The couple were married under an arch of maple leaves They were recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts of silver, cut glass, Bohemian ware, china, linen and pictures.

After a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Shackley will reside in West Roxbury

The bride was one of the most popular young ladies of Atlantic. She was active in the Memorial church being one of the choir singers and also a member of the Billiken club.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Gettysburg Celebration the Theme of Dr. Sneath

OTHER SERVICES

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

In response to a demand for old fashioned music, the services at the Wollaston Congregational yesterday were largely musical. By popular request a large number of well known hymns were sung by the congregation, and were thoroughly enjoyed by all. The choir gave Shelley's "Hark! Hark! my soul," the "Sing Allelujah Forth" of Buck, and Miss Ruth Hardy very sympathetically rendered "The Homeland."

Dr. Sneath spoke briefly but very forcefuly. The coming celebration on the field of Gettysburg brought to his mind the object of our civil strife, and "Freedom" gave him an opportunity of which he could hardly fail to take advantage. Physical slavery of any kind he declared detestable, mental slavery more so and often less excusable. We are ruled by our minds and the only real freedom is in the Infinite freedom from sickness, doubt and every limitation. Don't be a slave in the midst of freedom, he urged. The last session for the summer of the Sunday school met at 12.15. Mr. Chas. A. Campbell, superintendent will give due notice of its opening in the Fall, and to that occasion he will bring a splendid fund of enthusiasm and new ideas.

Christian Endeavor Society met at 6.00 P. M. and was spiritedly led by Miss M. K. Morse, who chose for the subject "Our Nations Glories and Perils." The Midweek service will take place in the vestry on Thursday at the usual time 7.45. Dr. Sneath will preside, and will make it a service preparatory to the communion next Sunday. His subject will be "A Christian Nation." On next Sunday July 6th in the Congregational church will be a Union Communion service of this church and the Wollaston Baptist church. This will be the first of five union services the others being on July 13th, July 20th, July 27th and Aug. 3rd, in the Congregational church. These will be followed by union services in the Baptist church on Aug. 10th, Aug. 17th, Aug. 24th, Aug. 31st, and a union communion service in the Baptist church on Sept. 7th. Dr. Sneath will conduct and preach at the services in the Congregational church and the Rev. Mr. Walther will conduct and preach at the services in the Baptist church.

The midweek services in the Congregational church will continue through July, but will be omitted in August.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will hold union meetings on Sunday evening in July in the Congregational church and during August in the Baptist church.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott's message from the pastor to the congregation of Bethany church Sunday morning was "Public spirit and the church" The topic at the Christian Endeavor meeting was "Our Nation's Glories and Perils" and the subject for the pleasant Sunday evening service was "If I were graduating from High school in 1913."

The knights of King Arthur are holding a field day at the Riverside recreation grounds today.

The annual church and Sunday school picnic will be held at Ridge Hill Grove, Hingham on Tuesday, July 8. There will be games, sports, refreshments, etc. The price charged the beginners, primary, junior and intermediate departments of the school for tickets does not cover expenses, all other tickets are sold at cost. Those who wish to help give the children a good time by contributing to the Picnic Fund will please use the special envelopes to be found in the pews. Please pass the envelopes in not later than Sunday, July 6. Price of tickets beginners free, primary 25 cents, junior 30 cents, intermediate 30 cents, adults 40 cents. No tickets sold on Sunday. Tickets on sale at the chapel Thursday, July 3 from 4 to 6 P. M. Saturday, July 6, from 4 to 9 P. M. Let all unite to make this a real joyous church field day.

The young ladies choir of the Bethany church were the special guests Saturday of Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott and Mrs. Willmott at Adams Shore at their summer home. The day was a delightful one for an outing and the young ladies had their fill of fun. During the early part of the afternoon there was a series of games and out of door sports in which they the young ladies proved themselves very efficient. The real fun of the afternoon however did not come until later when the tide became right for bathing.

Usually the water is cooler than the air but Saturday the air seemed cooler than the water so that bathing was ideal. And what sport the young nymphs had in the water. Everybody who came near was sure of a ducking, and even the minister was not exempt for the young ladies were particularly vigorous when it came to splashing water over the parson.

During the early evening a supper was served in the cottage and the afternoon voted to have been one of particular enjoyment.

EVENING SERVICE.

A mistake was made by the school authorities in not inviting Rev. B. A. Willmott of Bethany church to deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Quincy High school, for his address on Sunday evening was one which all the class should have heard. The pastor's subject was "If I were graduating from High school in 1913."

First, he said, I would cultivate appreciation of the city which made possible my education. Second, I would cultivate appreciation of my parents for sacrifices made that I might be equipped for life.

What would I do? Too many are looking for soft snaps. I would not accept the place which pays the most money, but where the prospects are the best. The more important question is, what shall I be? Be industrious. Have an aim. Be ready to serve your city and your country. Get into politics, but never accept or give a bribe. Be a Christian, with reverence for the church and the living God.

Mr. Willmott enlarged on all the above points and was particularly emphatic in denouncing snobbishness and advocating democracy.

Among the High school graduates last week were fourteen young people of Bethany church. Many of the class attended the Sunday evening service.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The subject of the sermon at the morning service was especially fitted for the beautiful weather out of doors, "Great Mountains of the Bible"—Ps. 121-1. The pastor mentioned many of the famous mountains in the Old and New Testaments and found counter parts for them in the Christian life. The musical service was unusually fine—"Walthers Preislied," Wagner; "Idylle," Lenox; March from "Le Prophete," Mayerbeer, on the organ, and "It is a good thing," rendered by the chorus choir.

Sunday school was held at 12.15 in the chapel. Attendance 222. Subject of the lesson Review—"The Victories of Faith."

Y. P. S. C. E. preparatory service at 5.30. A short business meeting was held at 5.45. Reports were read from the various committees, as well as those of the secretary and treasurer. Regular meeting at 6.00. Subject "Our Nation's Glories and Perils."—Leader, Mr. E. L. Durgan.

Popular praise service was held at 7.00 in the Auditorium. There was special music by the chorus choir. "We Have a Friend," "Still, Still With Thee;" The pastor preached a short sermon, subject, "The Mighty Savior" Isa. 63-1.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon H. Walker, Mrs. Margaret A. Keith, Miss Jeannette Linscott and Miss Myrtle Cutler received the hand of fellowship at the morning service.

Mr. Walther leaves Wollaston on Wednesday but holds himself in readiness to return at the shortest notice. His address will be:—(Mail) Joseph Walther, Vinalhaven, Maine. "Caldeowood's Neck. (Telegraph) North Haven.

Thursday evening, at 7.45 the first union prayer meeting of the summer in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church. Rev. I. W. Sneath will lead. Our people are urged to attend.

Union Sunday morning services and Christian Endeavor meetings will be held during the summer months as follows: July 6, 13, 20, 27 and Aug. 6, in the Wollaston Congregational church; August 10, 17, 24, 31, and September 7 in our church.

DENY FOSS' STATEMENT

Governor's Attitude Toward Employes Condemned at Mass Meeting

Boston, June 30.—On Boston common, and almost in the shadow of the state house, 2000 persons, assembled in mass meeting, condemned a governor of Massachusetts yesterday afternoon, when Governor Foss' employes and their sympathizers passed resolutions protesting his attitude in the strike now in force at his Hyde Park factories.

The passing of the resolutions followed verbal onslaughts against the governor by labor leaders.

Speakers who declared that Foss was "a man who did not keep his word," was "misleading the public" and was "unfit to occupy the governor's chair in such a liberal state" were vigorously cheered.

Contradictions were uttered to the governor's statement in which he declared the strike at his Hyde Park plants was due to political plotting. All of the strike leaders emphatically declared politics played no part in the affair.

Women in the audience vied with the men in applauding the sentiments of the speakers.

AT SUMMER CAPITAL

President's Wife and Niece Greeted by People In Church

Windsor, Vt., June 30.—Perfect June weather greeted Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and her daughter, Eleanor, on their first full day at Harlakenden House, the new summer capital. In the morning Mrs. Wilson and the president's niece, Miss Helen W. Bones, motored over to Windsor from their New Hampshire estate to attend services at the Old South Congregational church.

A few of the women parishioners hurried out to greet Mrs. Wilson and ushered her into church, where Rev. John F. Snyder, the new pastor, preached his first sermon to the congregation. After church some of the women chatted for a few moments with Mrs. Wilson and Miss Bones before the presidential automobile whirled over the bridge across the Connecticut river into the seclusion of Harlakenden.

ANSON P. STOKES DIES OF APOPLEXY

Financier, Yachtsman, Clubman and Author of Pamphlets

New York, June 30.—Anson P. Stokes, the widely known financier, died suddenly at his home on Madison avenue. The immediate cause of death was apoplexy. Stokes had been ill a week.

The only immediate member of the family who was not within easy reach of New York at the time the banker was stricken was his son, Anson P. Stokes, Jr., who is in Stockbridge, Mass. All the other near relatives were at the bedside.

Stokes, who was 75 years of age, retired from active work as a banker some years ago. He wrote several pamphlets and other works in his later years, chiefly on monetary problems and travel. He was well known as a yachtsman and was a member of numerous clubs and societies.

JOY RIDER A SUICIDE

Man Sought by Police Drinks Poison In a Providence Hotel

Providence, June 30.—George Dorley, 42, of Brockton, for whom the police have been looking in connection with the joy ride in a stolen automobile from Nantasket, Mass., June 22, in which Alton H. Tripp was killed, was found dead in the Park hotel in this city. It is believed Dorley killed himself because he feared arrest.

Although the police of Boston and other places have been searching for Dorley since the fatal accident of a week ago, it was not known he was in this city until his body was found, stretched on a bed in the hotel, with an empty poison bottle by his side.

BALL GAMES ON SATURDAY

Atlantics Win Sixteen-Innings Game from Neponsets

OTHER GAMES

South Quincy easily defeated the Orients at the Old Colony grounds, Saturday afternoon, 10 to 6. The game was listless on the part of both teams.

Included in the winners lineup was Kane, Keohane, Cunningham, Frank Hoyt, "Dode" Galvin, Ray McDonald, Ericson, Frank Duggan and Woods.

The Orient team consisted of Cremins, Bradley, Markham, Ciardi, Byron, Mitchell, Walker, McVey, Sullivan.

Five runs crossed the plate in the South Quincys first half and two in the Orients. For two innings the game settled and it looked as thought fast baseball was to be played. The winners however easily annexed five more runs while the Orients, apparently as easily added four. Juicy errors figured in the run getting on both sides.

The one feature of the game was Byron's catch of a long fly in centre and his perfect throw to home catching a man scoring from third.

Monkey Wood struck 12 men out, passed one and allowed eight hits, one a double by Ciardi. Bradley fanned four, passed three and allowed five hits, Kan and Cunningham getting doubles. The score:

So. Quincy	5 0 1 3 0 0 0 1 x—10
Orients	2 0 0 2 0 0 2 0 0— 6

Batteries—Woods and Cunningham; Bardley, Walker and Ciardi.

ATLANTIC—NEPONSET.

After 16 long innings Saturday afternoon James Chassion's homer gave Atlantic the game over the Neponset Junior Wanderers, 11 to 10. He also secured three doubles and two singles out of six times up.

The score was 4 to 1 for Neponset in the seventh when Homestead was batted out of the box and Kelly sent in. T. McNally at first got 12 put outs in place of Curtin who made good at third.

In the winning lineup were Johnson, Allen, Gregory, Joe Duffy, Curtin, Jack Duffy, Chasison, Cullen, O'Connell and McNally.

The losing team was Buckley, Silva McLenney, Kelly,, Holst, O'Brien, McNutt, Holmstead, Quilty. The score.

REDMEN—WANDERERS.

The Redmen A. C. of South Quincy beat the Neponset Wanderers Saturday afternoon, 6 to 3. The invincible much touted pitcher of the Wanderers was hit hard and often. John Kenn, the winning pitcher was well supported and had swell control. McIntire the regular first base man split his finger and retired. His place was filled by R. Kenn. The winners are fast rounding into shape to take the measure of the Station Outing Club at ward four on the holiady afternoon. The score:

Redmen	0 2 0 0 1 0 1 0 2—6

BARACAS—MAKARIA.

Makaria suffered defeat at the hands of the Baracas of Allston at Merrymount Park, Saturday afternoon, 9 to 3. A home run by Ed Jenkins was the best drive of the day. The fielding was featured by several bad errors on both teams. Les Andrews pitched good ball and seems to be developing slowly but surely. The score:

Baracas	1 1 2 0 3 1 0 0 1—9
Makarias	1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0—3

MESSENGERS' ANNIVERSARY

City Messenger Tirrell Host at Saturdays Outing

OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual outing of the Massachusetts City Messengers club was held Saturday with City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell in Quincy. Not only was it the twenty-fifth anniversary of the club but the twenty-fifth anniversary of City Messenger Tirrell as vice president. The messengers arrived in Quincy shortly after noon and at 12.30 a special car was taken for Houghs Neck and Norteman's cafe, the headquarters for the day. In addition to the messengers there were several City Officials who included Mayor Stone, Commissioner Tupper, City Engineer Sargent, City Auditor Fairbanks, Councilman Ericson and Sandberg and Clerk of Council Magee.

Before dinner was served a brief business meeting was held in the parlors of Mr. Norteman's home and the following officers were elected.

President, Fred M. Scudder of Taunton.

Vice President—Charles T. Cushing of Fitchburg.

Secretary-Treasurer— A. Frank Montgomery of Cambridge.

Executive Committee, the above with Thomas F. Burns of Northampton.

Shortly after 1 o'clock an adjournment was made to the dinning room where Mr. Norteman served one of his famous dinners, the menu including, radishes, olives, clam chowder, steamed clams, drawn butter, fried clams, mashed potatoes, lettuce, cucumbers, plain boiled lobster, ice cream, tutti fruiti, assorted cake, coffee and rolls.

There was no speechmaking of any kind after the dinner save for a few words welcoming the messengers to the city by Mayor Stone and the reading a letter from Dock Commissioner Crane extending to the visitors the use of the Quincy yacht club piazzas which was gladly accepted. By the time the party adjourned to the yacht clubhouse the tide was high and not a few of the party had an opportunity to enjoy a sail in the bay and to witness the finish of the race under the auspices of the club.

The day had been all that could have been desired, for the weather was just right and the party had a thorough good time. City Mesenger Tirrell received many congratulations on his long service and many expressed regrets that he declined to again become a candidate for office.

TURNS DOCUMENTS OVER TO THE HOUSE

McReynolds Gives "White Slave" Papers to Judiciary

Washington, June 30.—Fearing that if all the correspondence in the Caminetti-Diggs "white slave" case was made public it would embarrass the prosecution of the California men, Representative Clayton, chairman of the house judiciary committee, announced that only such matters as the committee deemed advisable to submit would be given to the house this week when a report is made.

This decision was arrived at after a conference with Attorney General McReynolds, who turned over to the committee every scrap of information in the possession of the department of justice.

In accordance with the custom, the judiciary committee referred the resolutions of inquiry introduced by Representative Kahn to the attorney general before acting upon them, and it was this act which caused McReynolds to send all the papers to the committee in order that the members might judge for themselves what was best to do in the matter.

Veterans In Camp on the Battlefield of Gettysburg

HEAT IS CAUSING SUFFERING

Corps of Physicians and Hospital In Instant Readiness For Any Emergency—Peace and Amity the Keynote of Reunion, Say Commanders of the Civil War Heroes

Gettysburg, June 30.—On the spot where, fifty years ago, they exchanged shots, thousands of the veterans of the battle of Gettysburg, both of the Blue and the Gray, are shaking hands and joining with each other in preparing for the unprecedented reunion of the historic forces on the battlefield July 1, 2, 3 and 4. The announcement that President Wilson will make an adress July 4 has gladdened the hearts of the thousands of warriors now on the scene. Thousands more are arriving today.

The veterans, all of whom are aged and many in poor health, are suffering greatly from the heat. The sun has been blazing here for days. The least exertion produces exhaustion. A corps of physicans and a hospital are in instant readiness for any emergency. It is feared if these weather conditions continue that there will be many prostrations and perhaps many fatalities.

Army officers who have watched the one-time soldiers pouring into the town declare the event will pass into history as one of the greatest reunions that ever took place. The magnitude of the undertaking would be hard to comprehend, the officers said, even if the encampment were for the entertainment of men in the prime of life. But the task before those in charge is much greater, since the average age of the veterans is 72 years.

While the thousands of veterans who have arrived were singing, cheering and marching through the camp and the physicians were preparing for a possible battle with another day of heat, Gettysburg was taxed to the utmost by arrangements for receiving the throngs yet to come. It will be no easy task for the little borough of 4000 residents, as hundreds of persons besides the veterans are arriving.

From all parts of the country come reports—some tragical, some comical—of the departure of veterans and others. Headed by S. M. Ralston, governor of Indiana, the delegation of 400 from that state started for Gettysburg on special trains. The special trains from Montana, the Dakotas and other western states passed through Minnesota just before the start of the Minnesota delegation was made. Two hundred and forty-five Missouri veterans and about 650 from Michigan started Saturday. Governor Foss and a delegation representing the legislature of Massachusetts also are on their way. The 2000 Massachusetts veterans started for Gettysburg this morning.

One of the tragedies reported was from Rochester, N. Y., where William H. Groescup of Geneva, N. Y., a veteran 70 years old, was killed just as he had completed arrangements for his trip to Gettysburg. Groescup was engineer at a coal trestle and was instructing the man who was to take his place during the reunion, when he fell into a conveyer and was crushed to death.

One thousand cooks began work yesterday.

Judge Alfred B. Beers of Bridgeport, Conn., commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., has this to say of the reunion:

"The men who fought on both sides at Gettysburg come together now as friends. The meeting shows how completely the restoration of peace and amity between those who fought the battles for the north and the south; and who have, many of them, showed their attachment for the flag and for the union by serving in the later war under that flag and for the union.

"This gathering also means that the men who fought in both armies are today united and celebrate as one body the laying of the cornerstone of the peace monument on the battlefield which will typify the sealing of everlasting peace between two sections of this great country."

General Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, said:

"In the sanguinary battles of Gettysburg the two sides, the north and the south, broke even. The losses were practically the same, and in this spirit it was arranged that the jubilee be held on the Gettysburg battlefield and not only the people of the United States, but of the world, realized that prejudice and bitterness of the great war had all been buried.

"The state of Pennsylvania asked the men of the south and the men of the north to meet each other, greet each other and declare that, while they were not forgetting the memories of the past, they are looking to the future greatness and glory of the American republic as the noblest creation of the world's government."

MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT

Boy Scouts Deliver Pouch and Open Chicago's Athletic Meet

Chicago, June 30.—Dusty, panting and almost lost amid the score of automobiles that formed his escort, Lauron Chenowith, Boy Scout, dashed to the grand stand in Grant park and delivered to Mayor Harrison a message from Woodrow Wilson.

While skyscrapers echoed the boom of cannon that welcomed the leather dispatch pouch to the end of its 778-mile journey, the mayor read the message in which the president wished success to the international athletic meet, formally inaugurated by its arrival.

The Boy Scouts had done their work by relays. They had borne the message over hill and dale from the capital to Chicago—and thousands of the khaki-clad youngsters burst into cheers as the journey ended.

RECOVER BODIES OF TWO CANOE VICTIMS

Merrimac River Being Dragged For Two More

Manchester, N. H., June 30.—The bodies of two of the victims of Saturday's drowning accident on the Merrimac river have been recovered by the police.

They were those of Arthur Leacock, 22 years, and Henry McKeown, 4 years of age. The police resumed dragging the river today for the two remaining bodies, those of John McKeown, aged 20, an uncle of Henry McKeown, and Edward A. Hearn, aged 20.

The water in the river is lower today, because of the mills being operated, and the police expect to be successful.

The four were drowned when their canoe upset just above the Cygnet Boat club house.

Two lumber camps were destroyed. A large force of men from the surrounding country checked the flames, and 250 men are guarding the district to prevent another outbreak.

BODY SHIPPED OFF IN TRUNK

Woman Admits Murder of Her Twelve-Year-Old Daughter

CHILD WAS AN "INCUMBRANCE"

Former Husband With Whom Slayer Was Reunited Only a Few Days Ago Is Arrested With Her When Railroad Officials Demand That Trunk Be Opened Before Rechecking

Ogden, Utah, June 30.—The naked body of a 12-year-old girl was found in a trunk at the union station here and later Mrs. Augustus Ekman of Salt Lake, the mother, confessed to having killed her daughter. She is under arrest with C. L. Anderson of Los Angeles, her former husband.

While Mrs. Ekman says she chloroformed the child, physicians assert the child was choked to death. The woman declares she committed the crime because the girl was an incumbrance and she could not take care of her.

The trunk had been checked from Salt Lake City Thursday and when Anderson appeared to have it rechecked to Salt Lake, the railroad officials demanded that the trunk be opened because of the peculiar odor emanating from it.

Anderson and the woman have been separated for years and became reunited only last Thursday. They were on their way to Michigan when arrested.

The police say they believe the woman is shielding Anderson, and that they expect to secure a confession along that line from her. They were taken to Salt Lake.

Woman Had Three Husbands

Salt Lake City, June 30.—Frances Williams or Ekman, as she was known here, the child whose mutilated body was found in her mother's trunk at Ogden, was last seen by neighbors at her home here Thursday, the day Mrs. Ekman and Anderson left for Ogden. The child had been sent to a grocery and as she returned to her front gate her mother came outside, put an arm affectionately about the little girl and led her into the house. An hour or so later an expressman came and carted off the trunk containing the child's body.

According to neighbors Mrs. Ekman had three husbands, Frances being the daughter of her first, George Williams, who is said to be in the army, stationed in California. Anderson was her second husband. For several months she had been living here with Thomas Ekman, a paper hanger. More than a week ago Ekman went to Kemmerie, Utah. After he departed Anderson appeared and they decided to leave together for Michigan.

That the child was first abused and then murdered is the conclusion of the Salt Lake police, who are working on the case with Ogden officials. They are unable to understand, however, how the mother of the girl could shield Anderson, whom they are examining here in the belief that he is the perpetrator of the crime.

FALLS FROM A STEEPLE

Youth Is Unhurt After Taking Tumble of Ninety-Five Feet

Edwardsville, Ills., June 30.—Benjamin Jordan, 20 years old, fell ninety-five feet from the top of the cross on St. Mary's Roman Catholic church here and landed apparently uninjured save from a bruise in his side where he struck a cornice.

The cornice was at the bottom of the spire. From this he bounded into a maple tree near the church and crashed through the branches. After being examined by physicians, Jordan walked about, saying he felt no pain, except in the bruised side.

ACTOR MARION DYING

Friends Making Efforts to Have Slayer of Wife Set Free

Philadelphia, June 30.—George Marion, the actor, who four years ago shot and killed his wife in the office of ex-Chief of Police Long in Wilkesbarre, is dying of tuberculosis in the eastern penitentiary here.

An effort is being made by the White Rats and other organizations to have Marion liberated, so he may spend his few remaining weeks with relatives now living in the west.

CHILD KILLED BY FIRE

Starts Blaze In Which Fifteen Hundred Ducks Also Perish

Taunton, Mass., June 30.—Playing with matches in his father's barn, 5-year-old Melvin Hutchinson set the haymow on fire. In a moment he was enveloped in flames.

Neighbors, hearing his cries, hurried to his rescue, and he was rushed to a hospital, where he died. The barn, together with 1500 ducks, was a total loss. Damages were about $2000.

One Roofing With Two Lives

PAROID

Relaid in 1911 after eight years service and is still giving good service. There is a law of averages in the lifetime of roofings just as there is in the life-time of men. Well managed insurance companies accept only selected lives. That is lives which in every probability will last long beyond the average life time. The roofing that lives long beyond the average lifetime roofing is PAROID ROOFING—and it is the roofing for careful buyers to select.

DEATH OF MISS BUMPUS

pied in many hearts.

Miss Bumpus was born in Plympton 77 years ago but has lived in Quincy most of her life. She is survived by a brother Everett C. Bumpus and a sister Mrs. Johnson of East Braintree and a niece and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock at Bethany church.

THE NOON FIRE.

A lighted cigarette set fire to a pile of rubbish on the third story veranda at 186 East Howard street today and a $25 damage resulted. Box 723 was sounded at two o'clock.

RUN QUINCY Y.C.

About fifty sail and power boats participated in the first picnic run under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club Sunday. Leaving the clubhouse at 9.30 Sunday morning the fleet ran to Bass Point where anchorage was made after which the party went ashore and enjoyed themselves in taking in the sights along the midway and wherever fancy led them. The ladies in the party took along lunch and this was enjoyed shortly after noon although some of the party preferred to dine at one of the hotels. The start for home was made at 3 o'clock and with a fair wind Quincy was made before dark. It was a most successful and enjoyable day and doubtless the forerunner of other Sunday picnics during the summer.

NO EVIDENCE OF FOUL PLAY

Victor Barbeau, 62 Cleverly court was arraigned in court this morning on the charge of keeping a disorderly house. The arrest followed an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death of David Fazrean of Boston who was found dead on the veranda of the Barbeau home Saturday morning. The case was continued until Saturday.

Fazrean died of acute heart and kidney trouble and oedema of the lungs according to Medical Examiner Jones. Conflicting stories however prompted the investigation which resulted in the arrest of Barbeau. Fred J. Fletcher who was taken to the station pending the investigation was released from custody Saturday afternoon.

The body of Fazrean is at the Hall undertaking rooms where it will probably be claimed by relatives. The Quincy police took steps to have his nearest relatives notified Saturday morning.

TO ENTER PARADE.

Rebecca Wiswell Tent, Daughters of Veterans, acted on one application at Electa Hall, Friday evening. It was voted to meet in G. A. R.
